Overview

Ezekiel foretold the birth of modern Israel, which occurred in 1948 through the United Nations. Zechariah predicted that Israel will one day accept Jesus as Messiah.

The Treaty of Rome established the European Economic Community. This Treaty was later repackaged to define the European Union. Daniel identified this Roman Empire as the preeminent end time superpower 2,500 years ago.

Scripture foretold the Chernobyl nuclear power accident. Ukrainian translations, where this disaster occurred, used the word “chernobyl” to signify nuclear contamination centuries before nuclear power was conceived.

The Bible does not contain even one false prediction, and ancient Dead Sea Scrolls prove the foretold events were recorded centuries before they occurred.

Israel’s religious experts, the Pharisees, were legendary for their understanding about the first coming of the Messiah. Yet they were without a clue when Jesus spoke to them.

Listen only to the authentic prophets concerning the end-times—the prophets who wrote the scriptures. With countless verses referenced, this book is an awesome resource.

1. Salvation

God planted a garden. He gave Adam authority over this Garden of Eden. Life was magnificent; fellowship with God was routine. God walked in this garden (Genesis 1:1-2:25). God placed two trees in the garden; one was the tree of life and the other the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. God told Adam to refrain from eating fruit from the tree that provided knowledge of what is evil, but he disobeyed. This sin drove humanity outside Eden into our present world to gain first-hand knowledge of what is evil (Genesis 2:9-3:24).

Adam's transgression disrupted the relationship between God and man. Fortunately, God deeply cared about this broken fellowship and therefore provided the world a Messiah. God's mighty Savior left a throne in heaven and went to earth in human form to rescue Adam, Eve, and their descendants, to include you and me. Every person on earth has disobeyed God, which resulted in a broken relationship. Every person needs a Savior.

God had a dynamic plan for providing salvation. Jesus excelled as a teacher, a healer, and as a miracle worker. However, none of those things could bridge the gap between a holy God and a rebellious man. A perfect God must hold to perfect justice; accordingly, the offenses (sins) of man must be punished. Because punishment could not be avoided the critical question was—who would endure the punishment?

Scripture tells us that before Jesus died, sin was placed upon him, so that a perfect sacrifice would pay the death penalty for sin (2 Corinthians 5:21). Jesus took the punishment that you and I deserve, because the shedding of blood is the only payment God accepts (Hebrews 9:22). In his resurrection, Jesus demonstrated authority over death.

God provided a way to eradicate the penalty for sin, and to obtain eternal life, but only on his terms. Each person must acknowledge that he or she has rebelled (sinned) against God, and trust that the shed blood of Jesus—received as a gift—paid the penalty for that sin. It is insufficient to simply believe that God exists (James 2:19). It is never enough for a person to behave in a religious manner, or have another person ask God for forgiveness on his or her behalf. Each person must go directly to the Savior (Hebrews 7:24-27). People must humble themselves before God—as scripture testifies that God crowns the humble with salvation (Psalm 149:4).

God offers each man, woman, and child a personal, restored relationship—to anyone who believes him. Belief in God is important because to not believe what God says, is to imply that he is a liar (1 John 1:10). As an illustration of this point, both the Old and New Testament state that God accepted Abraham simply because Abraham believed God (Genesis 15:6; James 2:23). God is able to forgive any sin, but he chooses not to forgive the sin of unbelief.

Faith in Jesus is similar to faith in an airplane. When a passenger boards an airplane, that person believes the plane will fly and land safely. The passenger does not put faith in his or her own ability to fly. In a similar manner, trust God. Trust him to save you, forgive you, and one day safely transport you to heaven. Your belief shows faith in God's abilities, promises, and faithfulness.

2. Covenants

The most meaningful relationships are “covenant” relationships. The best example of a covenant relationship is the marriage covenant. Each person demonstrates whom he or she trusts by the covenants they enter. Just as a bride and groom demonstrate covenant faith in each other, we are called to place covenant faith in God.

The central book of end-time prophecy, titled Revelation, tells about three covenants. Just as with God’s covenants in the Old Testament, scripture depicts covenants in Revelation with a mark on the forehead or hand (Deuteronomy 6:6-8). This type of mark may seem odd. However, consider that a common covenant symbol today, the wedding ring, distinguishes (marks) the left hand of the husband and wife.

During the end-times it will be most convenient to accept the covenant offered by the preeminent world leader, a powerful man commonly called the Antichrist. Initially the leader of a restored Roman Empire, Antichrist will enter a temple on the Temple Mount in Jerusalem, and claim to be God. Paul wrote that Antichrist sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God (2 Thessalonians 2:4).

Belief in religion is a second covenant option. A person can have faith in his or her religion without having any faith in God. The Pharisees were the preeminent first-century teachers of Israel; yet their faith was in religion instead of God (Matthew 23:23). Pharisees wore long flowing robes (Mark 12:38), prayed in an impressive manner (Mark 12:40), and routinely fasted (Matthew 9:14). The typical Israeli citizen thought they set the gold standard for religious behavior.

Those who followed such religion were also in perilous danger. Jesus warned the Pharisees and their congregations when he said, “Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You shut the kingdom of heaven in men’s faces. You yourselves do not enter, nor will you let those enter who are trying to. (Matthew 23:13-14)

THREE COVENANTS*

Covenant	Scripture
Faith in Antichrist	He also forced everyone, small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on his right hand or on his forehead, (Revelation 13:16)
Faith in Religion	This title was written on her forehead: MYSTERY BABYLON THE GREAT THE MOTHER OF PROSTITUTES AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH. (Revelation 17:5)
Faith in God	“Do not harm the land or the sea or the trees until we put a seal on the foreheads of the servants of our God.” (Revelation 7:3)

* Covenants are depicted as a mark on the hand or forehead (Deuteronomy 6:6-8)

The covenant that God offers makes each believer a member of the body of Christ. Jesus took bread during the last supper before his death and said, take and eat; this is my body (Matthew 26:26). Paul later noted that we are members of his body (Ephesians 5:30). Also at the last supper Jesus took wine and said, this is my blood of the covenant (Matthew 26:28). The shedding of blood pays the penalty for sin because without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness (Hebrews 9:22).

Each believer possesses a personal relationship with God. Jeremiah foretold this covenant relationship; centuries later it was restated in the New Testament. “This is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after that time,” declares the Lord. “I will put my laws in their minds and write it on their hearts. I will be their God, and they will be my people. No longer will a man teach his neighbor, or a man his brother, saying, ‘Know the Lord,’ because they will all know me, from the least of them to the greatest,” declares the LORD. “For I will forgive their wickedness and will remember their sins no more.” (Jeremiah 31:33-34; Hebrews 8:10-12) [New Testament believers are citizens of Israel (Ephesians 2:11-13)]

3. The Rapture

The end-times will bring the worst suffering the world has ever seen. Jesus said of the end-times, “For then there will be great distress, unequalled from the beginning of the world until now—and never to be equaled again.” (Matthew 24:21) There will be global conflict and persecution of Christians. The world will be a miserable place. Jesus told believers, “Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be famines and earthquakes in various places. All these are the beginning of birth pains. Then you will be handed over to be persecuted and put to death, and you will be hated by all nations because of me.” (Matthew 24:7-9)

But there also is good news. There is a way for God’s people to avoid the end-times. A rapture rescues believers from end-time suffering; rapture occurs when God suddenly removes people from earth—taking them up into heaven. The word “rapture” comes from the Latin word “rapio” which means to take away by force. The benefits of an early rapture are obvious. Those leaving the earth will avoid tremendous persecution and suffering.

Jesus and Paul used the words “taken” and “caught up” to refer to rapture. Paul wrote, “For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever.” (1 Thessalonians 4:16-17) Jesus said, “I tell you on that night, two people will be in one bed; one will be taken and the other left. Two women will be grinding grain together; one will be taken and the other left.” (Luke 17:34-35) To be “left” is to be “left behind” on earth.

Jesus cited Noah as an earlier example of God protecting believers just prior to a worldwide (flood) judgment. To emphasize the point, Jesus cited a second example, the destruction of Sodom; angels removed Lot and his family from Sodom immediately before God destroyed that city. “Just as it was in the days of Noah, so also will it be in the days of the Son of Man. People were eating, drinking, marrying and being given in marriage up to the day Noah entered the ark. Then the flood came and destroyed them all. “It was the same in the days of Lot. People were eating and drinking, buying and selling, planting and building. But the day Lot left Sodom, fire and sulfur rained down from heaven and destroyed them all. “It will be just like this on the day the Son of Man is revealed. (Luke 17:26-30)

The Problem

Pastors and authors routinely teach that every Christian will be raptured (removed) from earth at the very start of the seven-year end-time period. Just three authors teaching a pre-tribulation rapture of all believers (Tim LaHaye and Jerry Jenkins of the Left Behind series; Hal Lindsey, The Late Great Planet Earth) sold over 100,000,000 books, about one copy for every seventy persons on earth. Hal Lindsey's bestseller, The 1980s: Countdown to Armageddon stated "The decade of the 1980s could very well be the last decade of history as we know it." Lindsey sold a lot of books, but was wrong on many issues.

What if a complete pre-tribulation rapture of the entire church is an invalid interpretation? Then not all believers will be removed for the entire seven-year period. The consequence of this bad teaching is catastrophic. Belief that God raptures all Christians into heaven at the start of end-time tribulation has resulted in an epidemic of complacency, and widespread lack of discipline among believers.

God established incentives for us to live disciplined lives. Following years of study, teachers are placed in authority over students. After excelling as a leader, an executive gains authority over an entire corporation. Jesus promised positions of authority in his kingdom for believers who wisely handle responsibility. Jesus provided an analogy in the following parable, "Who then is the faithful and wise manager, whom the master puts in charge of his servants to give them their food allowance at the proper time? It will be good for that" servant whom the master finds doing so when he returns. I tell you the truth, he will put him in charge of all his possessions." (Luke 12:42-44)

Jesus also offered incentives for action that matter during this Age. Consider the promise Jesus made to the Philadelphia Church. Since you have kept my command to endure patiently, I will also keep you from the hour of trial that is going to come upon the whole world to test those who live on the earth. (Revelation 3:10) The only hour of trial that affects the whole world is the end-times. By making this promise to a narrowly defined group, Jesus disclosed that not all believers would escape tribulation, but only the believers who endure trials patiently.

Jesus explained what would happen to those who miss the rapture. The master of that servant will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he is not aware of. He will cut him to pieces and assign him a place with the hypocrites, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. (Matthew 24:50-51) The person left-behind was not called a thief or murderer, but a servant. Believers in Christ are servants of God (1 Corinthians 4:1). At the early rapture, unprepared servants of God will be left-behind on earth to suffer alongside unbelievers.

The Consequence

Panic will take hold when end-time events begin on earth. Unprepared Christians will act with selfishness and contempt. When the pressure was on, Jesus laid down his life. He expects us to follow that example—to patiently endure every situation. Jesus described the widespread failure to patiently endure just prior to the early rapture. Because of the increase of wickedness, the love of most will grow cold, but he who stands firm to the end will be saved. (Matthew 24:12-13) Those who stand firm to the end will be rescued from the end times.

Jesus repeatedly warned us to keep watch for this return ...

- Therefore keep watch, because you do not know on what day your Lord will come. But understand this: If the owner of the house had known at what time of night the thief was coming, he would have kept watch and would not have let his house be broken into. So you also must be ready, because the Son of Man will come at an hour when you do not expect him. (Matthew 24:42-44)
- Therefore keep watch, because you do not know the day or the hour. (Matthew 25:13)
- Be on guard! Be alert! You do not know when that time will come. It's like a man going away: He leaves his house and puts his servants in charge, each with his assigned task, and tells the one at the door to keep watch. Therefore keep watch because you do not know when the owner of the house will come back—whether in the evening, or at midnight, or when the rooster crows, or at dawn. If he comes suddenly, do not let him find you sleeping. What I say to you, I say to everyone: Watch. (Mark 13:33-37)

- It will be good for those servants whose master finds them watching when he comes. I tell you the truth, he will dress himself to serve, will have them recline at the table and will come and wait on them. It will be good for those servants whose master finds them ready, even if he comes in the second or third watch of the night. (Luke 12:37-38)

Believers are to live with hearts not weighed down by anxiety, but instead to trust God for deliverance. Jesus said, “Be careful, or your hearts will be weighed down with dissipation, drunkenness and the anxieties of life, and that day will close on you unexpectedly like a trap. For it will come upon all those who live on the face of the whole earth. Be always on the watch, and pray that you may be able to escape all that is about to happen, and that you may be able to stand before the Son of Man.” (Luke 21:34-36)

Jesus taught three parables that tell us how to take advantage of the opportunity for an early rapture.

Parable	Issues
A man leaving on a journey entrusted his property to three servants. Rather than invest the money (called “talents”), one servant simply buried it. Upon learning of this situation the master responded, “You wicked, lazy servant!” (Matthew 25:14-27)	Use your talents for God’s kingdom. - Do you make full use of your abilities and resources? - Do you invest time in God’s work?

Before departing on a journey another master placed one of his servants in charge of his other servants to ensure someone would care for them. But after the master was away a long time, the lead servant began to mistreat the other servants. When the master returns, he will hold that lead servant accountable. (Matthew 24:45-51)	Do not beat up fellow servants of God – instead, care for them. Physical abuse is less common than to beat up emotionally. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - How do you treat your spouse, children, and siblings? - How do you treat co-workers and those you supervise?
Ten virgins took their lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom. Five of them were foolish and did not take oil with them. The wise, however, took oil in jars along with their lamps. Only those who had taken oil were ready when the groom arrived. Those who were foolish were excluded from participating in the wedding. (Matthew 25:1-13)	Oil symbolizes the Holy Spirit. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Do you respond to the Holy Spirit? - Do you personally know the Holy Spirit?

4. Seven Churches

Jesus sent seven letters to seven churches located in a Roman province, called Asia. In each letter Jesus urged us to pay attention saying, “He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.” Jesus was saying something like, “If you have an ear, my expectation is that you will listen!” He repeated this expectation seven times, once in each letter.

JESUS URGES US TO “HEAR” THE MESSAGES TO THE CHURCHES

Church	Verse	The plea to listen
Ephesus	2:7	He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.
Smyrna	2:11	He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.
Pergamum	2:17	He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.
Thyatira	2:29	He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.
Sardis	3:6	He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.
Philadelphia	3:13	He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.
Laodicea	3:22	He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.

Jesus did not provide this urge to listen to warn about invading armies or even nuclear war. This emphasis is to focus our attention on seven letters. In general, Jesus first encouraged the church by recognizing positive attributes. He then discussed a need for improvement. However, Smyrna and Philadelphia did not receive any correction, while Laodicea did not receive any praise.

SEVEN MESSAGES

Church	Commendation	Criticism
Ephesus	Rejects evil, perseveres	Little Passion
Smyrna	Gracefully bears suffering	None
Pergamum	Keeps the faith of Christ	Idolatry, immorality, bad doctrine
Thyatira	Love, service, faith, patience	Idolatry, immorality, bad doctrine
Sardis	Some have kept the faith	Dead
Philadelphia	Perseveres in faith	None
Laodicea	None	Indifferent

These letters may appear outdated however their value transcends time. Some of the practices and doctrines described are no less peculiar than beliefs and traditions of contemporary churches. For example, countless contemporary churches practice idolatry by teaching people to kneel before statues of wood or stone. Even though members refer to these statues as “icons” many are treated as idols (Exodus 20:4-6).

Church History

Jesus could have sent a letter to any of a hundred first-century churches. He did not select many prominent churches, such as Antioch, Alexandria, Jerusalem, or Rome. It is widely thought that Jesus selected these specific churches for at least one reason: when placed end-to-end these letters describe worldwide church history, starting at the first century and ending with the primary church of today.

PREDOMINANCE OF EACH CHURCH

Church	Description	Predominance Began
Ephesus	Second generation (complacent)	95 AD
Smyrna	Martyrs (persecuted, alive)	100 AD
Pergamum	Catholic (compromised doctrine)	312 AD
Thyatira	Catholic (misguided)
Sardis	Catholic (dead)
Philadelphia	Protestant (missionary, alive)	1517 AD
Laodicea	Protestant (complacent)	1900 AD

The past two thousand years all seven church types have continued to exist to one extent or another. Today the contemporary church is largely complacent (Laodicea) in nature. However, God's people are found in other conditions. Believers who make scripture interpretation subject to human tradition belong to the Pergamum, Thyatira, or Sardis church. Believers living in countries that execute Christians are part of the Smyrna Church.

Ephesus

“To the angel of the church in Ephesus write: These are the words of him who holds the seven stars in his right hand and walks among the seven golden lampstands: I know your deeds, your hard work and your perseverance. I know that you cannot tolerate wicked men, that you have tested those who claim to be apostles but are not, and have found them false. You have persevered and have endured hardships for my name, and have not grown weary. Yet I hold this against you: You have forsaken your first love. Remember the height from which you have fallen! Repent and do the things you did at first. If you do not repent, I will come to you and remove your lampstand from its place. But you have this in your favor: You hate the practices of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes, I will give the right to eat from the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God. (Revelation 2:1-7)

Ephesus Theater –
- Location of Acts 19:24-34 events

Ephesus was a typical church during the latter part of the first century. Many sincere believers today identify with this church. Ephesus was a home to Paul for two years (Acts 19:9-10) and led by Timothy. This church was also home to the Apostle John.

Ephesus was doctrinally sound; its membership tested false teachers and found them false. This was a hard-working church—with strong deeds, hard work and perseverance. Yet the Ephesus Church had lost its passion. Jesus said, Yet I hold this against you: You have forsaken your first love. The following outlines what it means to lose your first love.

- I value praise from people more than praise from God.
- I am callous in the way I treat a Christian brother.
- I choose not to witness because I fear rejection.
- My leisure-time thoughts do not turn to God.
- I do not cheerfully give to God's work.
- I become complacent to sin.
- I am slow to forgive.

Because the Ephesus Church did not repent, severe religious persecution began. This persecution was the central theme of the subsequent church, located at Smyrna. Suffering rekindled passion within the church, which prevailed the next two centuries.

Smyrna

“To the angel of the church in Smyrna write: These are the words of him who is the First and the Last, who died and came to life again. I know your afflictions and your poverty—yet you are rich! I know the slander of those who say they are Jews and are not, but are a synagogue of Satan. Do not be afraid of what you are about to suffer. I tell you, the devil will put some of you in prison to test you, and you will suffer persecution for ten days. Be faithful, even to the point of death, and I will give you the crown of life. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. He who overcomes will not be hurt at all by the second death. (Revelation 2: 8-11)

Smyrna was a beautiful city and the second largest in Provincial Asia. However, the large Jewish population meant that Christians were persecuted. The Smyrna Church produced countless martyrs. Jesus said to this church, “I know your afflictions and your poverty—yet you are rich!” The Smyrna Church predominance between 95 AD and 312 AD paralleled the story of the original Smyrna Church. Refusing to worship Caesar, martyrs unwaveringly laid down their lives, as replacement new believers continually came forward. The Roman Empire martyred an estimated five million believers. Some believe that Christians were fed to wild animals inside the Roman Coliseum.

Smyrna is described as suffering for ten days. Some historians note that between 95 AD and 312 AD a total of ten Roman emperors persecuted Christians. Other historians state that there were ten waves of persecution against Christians. Jesus had no criticism of this church. Satan eventually gave up trying to destroy the church from the outside; instead, he chose to become active in church leadership. The new strategy was to destroy the church from the inside; that is the story of the following three churches.

Pergamum

“To the angel of the church in Pergamum write: These are the words of him who has the sharp, double-edged sword. I know where you live—where Satan has his throne. Yet you remain true to my name. You did not renounce your faith in me, even in the days of Antipas, my faithful witness, who was put to death in your city—where Satan lives. Nevertheless, I have a few things against you: You have people there who hold to the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to entice the Israelites to sin by eating food sacrificed to idols and by committing sexual immorality. Likewise you also have those who hold to the teaching of the Nicolaitans. Repent therefore! Otherwise, I will soon come to you and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes, I will give some of the hidden manna. I will also give him a white stone with a new name written on it, known only to him who receives it. (Revelation 2:12-17)

The teaching of the Nicolaitans became preeminent. Historians translate “Nicolaitans” to mean, “to rule over the laity”—in other words, to rule over non-pastoral members of the church. The first-century church at Pergamum accepted Roman dominance, even the worship of emperors. The Pergamum Church was loyal to the rulers of earth, and not to the eternal King.

The Pergamum time in history saw the rise of Pontiffs, as religious leaders created high-ranking positions in order to rule over God's people. However the second king of Rome (Pompilius 753–673 BC) initiated the College of Pontiffs centuries before Christ. Constantine, a Roman emperor ruling from Constantinople (Istanbul Turkey), made the Catholic Pontiff preeminent. At the time of Christ's birth another Roman emperor, Augustus Caesar, was Pontiff. Those who hold the title of "Pope" walk on a path established by ruthless Roman emperors.

Jesus said Pergamum was where Satan has his throne—a possible location of this "throne" was an ornate altar honoring pagan gods. German engineers moved this altar to Berlin between 1878 and 1886. It was placed in the Altes Museum, and later moved to an adjacent building, the Pergamum Museum. These locations are significant because Hitler gave rousing speeches to hundreds of thousands of people from a platform built on the steps of the Altes Museum. After this altar was moved to Berlin that city became a focal point for World War I, World War II, and the extermination of Jews. Berlin also was the place of greatest confrontation (the Berlin Wall) during the Cold War.

On a platform built over the steps of the Altus Museum - Hitler addressed massive rallies of up to a million people.

Thyatira

“To the angel of the church in Thyatira write: These are the words of the Son of God, whose eyes are like blazing fire and whose feet are like burnished bronze. I know your deeds, your love and faith, your service and perseverance, and that you are now doing more than you did at first. Nevertheless, I have this against you: You tolerate that woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess. By her teaching she misleads my servants into sexual immorality and the eating of food sacrificed to idols. I have given her time to repent of her immorality, but she is unwilling. So I will cast her on a bed of suffering, and I will make those who commit adultery with her suffer intensely, unless they repent of her ways. I will strike her children dead. Then all the churches will know that I am he who searches hearts and minds, and I will repay each of you according to your deeds. Now I say to the rest of you in Thyatira, to you who do not hold to her teaching and have not learned Satan’s so-called deep secrets (I will not impose any other burden on you): Only hold on to what you have until I come. To him who overcomes and does my will to the end, I will give authority over the nations — ‘He will rule them with an iron scepter; he will dash them to pieces like pottery’ – just as I have received authority from my Father. I will also give him the morning star. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. (Revelation 2:18-29)

A false prophetess nicknamed Jezebel claimed to know deep secrets of God. Today this corresponds to Catholic doctrine, dogma, and traditions, which routinely contradict scripture. During the Thyatira Church period, Roman Catholic Church leaders trivialized the authority of scripture and turned to man-made traditions. Jezebel also taught Christians to indulge in sexual immorality, which deeply harmed the Thyatira Church (1 Kings 16:28-19:2).

In a similar manner Roman Catholic Church leaders committed sexual immorality—a problem that continues into modern times, with priests homosexually molesting altar boys. An Associated Press report quotes Richard Sipe, a former Benedictine monk and priest, as saying that priest sexual abuse is a centuries-old problem, “The Vatican is in the know and has documented its knowledge throughout the centuries.” Two former monks, along with an active Catholic priest, compiled a 300-page document. The authors wrote, “It is a calculated cover-up of epic proportions.” The authors further stated that, “Vatican officials have known about sex abuse by priests going all the way back to the fourth century and have consistently kept quiet about it.” Ancient documents maintained by the Catholic Church prove sexual immorality during the Thyatira Church period.¹

Credible sexual molestation lawsuits have implicated Pope Benedict XVI. For example, plaintiffs in Houston Texas cited a May 18, 2001 letter that he wrote while serving as head of the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith. In a letter to bishops around the world concerning child molestation, then-Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger wrote that cases of this kind are subject to “pontifical secret.” The lawsuit alleged that Ratzinger was responsible due to his active cover-up of child molestation. The Pope avoided requirements to testify at any trial because he later gained immunity as a head of state.² Jesus criticized the eating of food sacrificed to idols. In other words, bread is used in the practice of idolatry. Today in the Catholic sacrifice of the mass, bread is offered to God—for the practice of idolatry. Catholics accept bread consecrated by their priests as actually being Christ in physical form. People kneel before communion bread, which makes that bread an idol.

Sardis

“To the angel of the church in Sardis write: These are the words of him who holds the seven spirits of God and the seven stars. I know your deeds; you have a reputation of being alive, but you are dead. Wake up! Strengthen what remains and is about to die, for I have not found your deeds complete in the sight of my God. Remember, therefore, what you have received and heard; obey it, and repent. But if you do not wake up, I will come like a thief and you will not know at what time I will come to you. Yet you have a few people in Sardis who have not soiled their clothes. They will walk with me, dressed in white, for they are worthy. He who overcomes will, like them, be dressed in white. I will never blot out his name from the book of life, but will acknowledge his name before my Father and his angels. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. (Revelation 3:1-6)

The fifth church period in history corresponds with the church at Sardis. Among the people on earth, this church had a reputation of being alive; but Jesus says this church was dead. A church is dead when building the reputation of church leaders becomes more important than building the reputation of God. The reputation for being alive can be seen in the impressive cathedral construction in Europe. Everything was done for the glory of the “one true church.” Honor was also given to its papal leader, who was called “the” representative of Christ on earth. While the reputation of the Roman Catholic leaders was zealously protected, precious little was done for the glory of God.

There can be no greater condemnation of a church than for Jesus to pronounce it dead. Sardis is the Catholic Church, in great need of reformation. Philadelphia tells of the success that came from the Protestant Reformation.

Philadelphia

The Protestant Reformation began the time of Philadelphia pre-eminence. The Philadelphia Church includes a remnant of faithful believers who passionately serve God today. Philadelphia is a Greek word that translates as “brotherly love.”

“To the angel of the church in Philadelphia write: These are the words of him who is holy and true; who holds the key of David. What he opens no one can shut, and what he shuts no one can open. I know your deeds. See, I have placed before you an open door that no one can shut. I know that you have little strength, yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name. I will make those who are of the synagogue of Satan, who claim to be Jews, though they are not, but are liars—I will make them come and fall down at your feet and acknowledge that I have loved you. Since you have kept my command to endure patiently, I will also keep you from the hour of trial that is going to come upon the whole world to test those who live on the earth. I am coming soon. Hold on to what you have, so that no one will take your crown. Him who overcomes I will make a pillar in the temple of my God. Never again will he leave it. I will write on him the name of my God and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which is coming down out of heaven from my God; and I will also write on him my new name. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. (Revelation 3:7-13)

The Gutenberg printing press in the fifteenth century increased the availability of Bibles to ordinary people. Through cruel inquisitions, popes fought those who believed scriptures possessed ultimate authority. Catholic leadership murdered Protestant believers; the charge for which believers were burnt at the stake was called "heresy." (John 16:2) There have been attempts to minimize this event, similar to efforts to deny the Jewish holocaust. While King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella established the Spanish Inquisition in 1478, Spain did not definitively abolish this religious terrorism until 1834. Accountings today use phrases like "greatly exaggerated" to describe execution totals, or do not reference earlier estimates. Biased historians dismiss execution estimates greater than a few thousand. As administrator of Inquisitions, the Catholic Church maintained the records.

What is historically verifiable is that Protestant believers eventually fled to America; the Pilgrims were not Catholic. In 1790, the United States named Philadelphia Pennsylvania its capital city. Larger than any other city in the colonies, both the Declaration of Independence and United States Constitution were signed at Independence Hall. The overall Philadelphia Church provided a worldwide missionary outreach. A remnant of Philadelphia believers continue to serve God today. Because these believers continue to keep God's command to endure persecution patiently, Jesus will act upon his promise to keep this church from the trial that is going to come upon the whole world. This protection means that Philadelphia believers will not suffer through the end-times.

Laodicea

The Laodicea Church predominance began about 1900, with a wealthy church membership predominately interested in its own comfort and security. Members enjoy their place in society and are proud of their religion. Laodicea is a church with much religion—but little passion.

“To the angel of the church in Laodicea write: These are the words of the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the ruler of God’s creation. I know your deeds, that you are neither cold nor hot. I wish you were either one or the other! So, because you are lukewarm—neither hot nor cold—I am about to spit you out of my mouth. You say, ‘I am rich: I have acquired wealth and do not need a thing.’ But you do not realize that you are wretched, pitiful, poor, blind and naked. I counsel you to buy from me gold refined in the fire, so you can become rich; and white clothes to wear, so you can cover your shameful nakedness; and salve to put on your eyes, so you can see. Those whom I love I rebuke and discipline. So be earnest, and repent. Here I am! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him, and he with me. To him who overcomes, I will give the right to sit with me on my throne, just as I overcame and sat down with my Father on his throne. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.”

(Revelation 3:14-22)

Hot water brought in from Hierapolis was lukewarm upon arrival in Laodicea.

Laodicea is the primary end-times church; it is the preeminent church in western civilization today. Laodicea places its founder on the outside; Jesus said to this church, I stand at the door and knock. Many Christians today have wealth. Yet their spiritual poverty caused Jesus to say they were neither cold nor hot, but lukewarm. Laodicea is an educated church, smart enough to avoid complete complacency, and therefore is not cold. However, instead of passionately applying that knowledge, to make Laodicea hot, members apply their God-given talents to sustain their own comfort. Laodicea is a weak church that is lacking credibility and intensity.

Laodicea has sufficient communication tools to reach entire the world with the gospel, but is largely ineffective. The Laodicea Church is compromised; its members have bought into another religion. This religion sets our priorities and demands our loyalty. This is an infrequently recognized religion, called Secularism. The Laodicea Church believes it possible to passionately care about both God and money. In fact, a person is capable of loving only one or the other. Jesus said, “No one can serve two masters. Either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and Money. (Matthew 6:24)

Laodicea sees itself as rich and that members do not need a thing. Jesus answers saying in effect, “you need everything!” Jesus says this kind of church makes him sick. He will spit (literally “vomit”) this church out his mouth. Jesus’ warning of discipline for the Laodicea Church will one day touch millions of believers.

The End-Time Church

Today believers identify with a denomination, such as Baptist or Lutheran, or claim a non-denominational status. God also categorizes believers; every believer is a member of one of the seven churches of Revelation. The Philadelphia Church has a bright future. Jesus promised it protection: I will also keep you from the hour of trial that is going to come upon the whole world to test those who live on the earth (Revelation 3:10). The only hour of trial that affects the whole world is the end-times. In contrast, Jesus warns the Laodicea Church: those whom I love I rebuke and discipline (Revelation 3:19).

Many scholars anticipate the same future for both Laodicea and Philadelphia church members; that shared future is an early rapture. However, it is reckless to state with certainty that a group of believers promised discipline will share the same future as believers promised removal from earth for the entire end-time period.

TWO FORCASTS

Church	Promise or Warning	Implication
Laodicea	Those whom I love I rebuke and discipline. (Revelation 3:19)	Faces discipline, not an early rapture.
Philadelphia	I will also keep you from the hour of trial that is going to come upon the whole world (Revelation 3:10)	Participates in the early rapture.

5. The Scroll

John is transported to God's throne room to provide a first-hand account of the end-times. After this I looked, and there before me was a door standing open in heaven. And the voice I had first heard speaking to me like a trumpet said, "Come up here, and I will show you what must take place after this." (Revelation 4:1) From God's throne room John observed epic world events centuries ahead of time.

At once I was in the Spirit, and there before me was a throne in heaven with someone sitting on it. (Revelation 4:2) John was given vision into future kingdoms and events. This phrase, in the Spirit, means something like, "I then saw a new vision" (Revelation 1:10; 17:3; 21:10). Here John sees a throne in heaven, with God sitting on that throne. John described God in terms of the reflection and brilliance of precious stones (Revelation 4:3).

Surrounding the throne were twenty-four other thrones, and seated on them were twenty-four elders. They were dressed in white and had crowns of gold on their heads. (Revelation 4:4) The elders dress as Jesus had promised the churches, with crowns (Revelation 2:10, Smyrna), and white clothing (Revelation 3:5, Sardis). King David organized God's priesthood into 24 divisions (1 Chronicles 24:4-19). Some speculate the twenty-four elders are the twelve patriarchs of the Old Testament, plus twelve apostles of the New Testament.

In the center, around the throne, were four living creatures, and they were covered with eyes, in front and in back. The first living creature was like a lion, the second was like an ox, the third had a face like a man, the fourth was like a flying eagle. Each of the four living creatures had six wings and was covered with eyes all around, even under his wings. (Revelation 4:6-8) These four angels are a composite of high-ranking angels, specifically cherubim and seraphim; they are an exalted order of angels (Ezekiel 1:5-25; Isaiah 6:1-4).

The twenty-four elders fall down before him who sits on the throne, and worship him who lives for ever and ever. They lay their crowns before the throne and say: "You are worthy, our Lord and God, to receive glory and honor and power, for you created all things, and by your will they were created and have their being." (Revelation 4:10-11) As elders lay their crowns before the throne, they demonstrate that the honor of wearing crowns belong to God alone.

Then I saw in the right hand of him who sat on the throne a scroll with writing on both sides and sealed with seven seals. (Revelation 5:1) This scroll is a critical legal document; some believe it to be the deed to planet earth. This scroll has also been referred to as "the redemptive plan of God" or as "God's last will and testament.” The scroll is in God’s right hand to underscore power and authority.

And I saw a mighty angel proclaiming in a loud voice, “Who is worthy to break the seals and open the scroll?” But no one in heaven or on earth or under the earth could open the scroll or even look inside it. (Revelation 5:2-3) When no one came forward, John wept. John understood the need for God to finish his redemptive plan for earth. I wept and wept because no one was found who was worthy to open the scroll or look inside. (Revelation 5:4) The issue is not whether anyone is strong enough, but whether anyone is worthy enough to break the seals (Isaiah 29:11; Daniel 12:4). The seals must be broken to read the document, for the document to take effect.

Soon the announcement comes that Jesus is worthy to execute God’s plan. Then one of the elders said to me, “do not weep! See, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has triumphed. He is able to open the scroll and its seven seals.” (Revelation 5:5) The reclaiming of the earth is initiated through the opening of the seven seals. As each seal is broken, God’s plan is advanced (Revelation 6).

Jesus, called the Lion of the tribe of Judah, was on the throne. John was expecting a lion to come forward; instead he sees a Lamb come forward to break the seals. Then I saw a Lamb looking as if it had been slain, standing in the center of the throne (Revelation 5:6). God (the Father) then relinquishes possession of the scroll to Jesus (Revelation 5:7).

6. Seven Seals

End-time events begin with the opening of a scroll locked with seven seals. Jesus alone can open these seals. The opening of the first four seals brings four angels riding horses; these are commonly referred to as the “four horsemen of the apocalypse.” People on earth cannot see these angels or their horses.

Four Horsemen

SEAL #1: I watched as the Lamb opened the first of the seven seals. Then I heard one of the four living creatures say in a voice like thunder, “Come!” I looked and there before me was a white horse! Its rider held a bow, and he was given a crown, and he rode out as a conqueror bent on conquest. (Revelation 6:1-2)

The Spirit of CONQUEST comes into the world arena. This angel brings the desire for world domination. This Spirit works to establish a one-world government with the Antichrist in command. It approves of efforts to establish an international monetary system to give Antichrist global economic power. This Spirit also backs efforts to forcefully conquer the earth in the name of religion, such as the Islamic State in Iraq and Syria (ISIS, ISIL). Antichrist will claim authority over all nations and institutions.

SEAL #2: When the Lamb opened the second seal, I heard the second living creature say, "Come!" Then another horse came out, a fiery red one. Its rider was given power to take peace from the earth and to make men slay each other. To him was given a large sword. (Revelation 6:3-4)

The Spirit of WAR is the second angel entering the world scene. War is a common response to the aggression that accompanies a spirit of conquest—as seen coming from the first seal. This angel rides a red horse, with red symbolizing bloodshed. Jesus taught concerning this time, "You will hear of wars and rumors of wars, but see to it that you are not alarmed. Such things must happen, but the end is still to come. Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom." He then described the starvation that is depicted in the next Seal, "There will be famines and earthquakes in various places." (Matthew 24:6-7)

SEAL #3: When the Lamb opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature say, "Come!" I looked, and there before me was a black horse! Its rider was holding a pair of scales in his hand. Then I heard what sounded like a voice among the four living creatures, saying, "A quart of wheat for a day's wages, and three quarts of barley for a day's wages, and do not damage the oil and the wine!" (Revelation 6:5-6)

The Spirit of FAMINE causes a catastrophic food shortage. Wheat and barley are basic food requirements; people are paying their entire salary to feed themselves.

SEAL #4: When the Lamb opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature say, "Come!" I looked, and there before me was a pale horse! Its rider was named Death, and Hades was following close behind him. They were given power over a fourth of the earth, to kill by sword, famine and plague, and by the wild beasts of the earth. (Revelation 6:7-8)

The Spirit of DEATH, with authority to kill ... over a fourth of the earth comes forward. This fourth angel is "Death." This angel rides a pale horse—the color attributed to a person near death. "Hades" is the unseen world of the dead. This place had two separate abodes, a place where God's people lived and another area for condemned persons. Jesus called the area of Hades where believers dwelt "Abraham's side." (Luke 16:22; AKA "Abraham's Bosom") That Hades was following close behind Death meant that following death, people travel to the unseen world. In other words people die (Death), and then immediately travel to the unseen world (Hades).

Many people will die because of plague or pestilence, a possible reference to disease-causing microorganisms, which are increasingly resistant to antibiotic treatment. This also could be a reference to biological warfare. To kill by wild beasts is reminiscent of the days when the Roman Empire fed Christians to the lions. However, the application here points to soldiers on the battlefield. Ezekiel foresaw wild animals feasting on human flesh: Son of Man, this is what the Sovereign LORD says: Call out to every kind of bird and all the wild animals: 'Assemble and come together from all around to the sacrifice I am preparing for you, the great sacrifice on the mountains of Israel. There you will eat flesh and drink blood. You will eat the flesh of mighty men and drink the blood of the princes of the earth as if they were rams and lambs, goats and bulls. (Ezekiel 39:17-18)

A Call for Justice

SEAL #5: When he opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of those who had been slain because of the word of God and the testimony they had maintained. They called out in a loud voice, "How long, Sovereign Lord, holy and true, until you judge the inhabitants of the earth and avenge our blood?" Then each of them was given a white robe, and they were told to wait a little longer, until the number of their fellow servants and brothers who were to be killed as they had been was completed. (Revelation 6: 12-17)

Those in heaven see the release of the four horsemen, and know this event signals the start of the end-times. The martyrs ask, "How long ... until you judge those who murdered us?" The martyrs are told to wait patiently until the number of their fellow servants and brothers who were to be killed as they had been was completed. In other words, there are still more believers to be martyred. Just as Israel poured the blood of sacrificed animal at the base of the altar (Exodus 29:12; Leviticus 4:7), in a similar manner, the souls of sacrificed martyrs were under the altar in heaven.

The Visible Seal

SEAL #6: I watched as he opened the sixth seal. There was a great earthquake. The sun turned black like sackcloth made of goat hair, the whole moon turned blood red, and the stars in the sky fell to earth, as late figs drop from a fig tree when shaken by a strong wind. The sky receded like a scroll, rolling up, and every mountain and island was removed from its place. Then the kings of the earth, the princes, the generals, the rich, the mighty, and every slave and every free man hid in the caves and among the rocks of the mountains. They called to the mountains and the rocks, "Fall on us and hide us from the face of him who sits on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb! For the great day of their wrath has come, and who can stand?" (Revelation 6:12-17)

The spilling of innocent blood has stained the earth blood red. The people on earth soon see another planet that appears covered with blood, the moon. When the sun is blotted out (turned black) during a lunar eclipse, the moon really does turn a blood red color. The moon turns a metallic red resembling the color of iron in blood. At that time, the entire world, to include every mountain and island, shakes. (Revelation 6:14) This event is punctuated by a worldwide earthquake, likely caused by meteorites slamming into earth, one after another, similar to how figs drop to the ground from a fig tree when shaken by a strong wind.

These events should shake the world to its senses. God wants people to confess sin—repent—and turn to him. Even unbelievers will know that scripture foretold this event. People will also know that this event precedes the outpouring of God's wrath. They will say the great day of wrath has come and seek religious leaders to plot a course that might deter such wrath. However people do not say, "I repent of my sins." Instead, they believe the best option is to hide. This wrong attitude creates an opportunity for dishonest teachers and false prophets to say "follow me and find safety." Using this type of approach, the Antichrist and false prophet will lead most of the world astray.

Antichrist may proclaim that if people repent, then God will withhold disaster. For example, God showed mercy to ancient Nineveh. When God saw what they did and how they turned from their evil ways, he had compassion and did not bring upon them the destruction he had threatened. (Jonah 3:10) If at any time I announce that a nation or kingdom is to be uprooted, torn down and destroyed, and if that nation I warned repents of its evil, then I will relent and not inflict on it the disaster I had planned. (Jeremiah 18:7) Yet it will be impossible to follow false prophets—and simultaneously repent.

Early Rapture

Next God protects selected believers, specifically those identified as being "the servants of our God." The seal placed upon these believers identifies them for participation in the impending rapture. After this I saw four angels standing at the four corners of the earth, holding back the four winds of the earth to prevent any wind from blowing on the land or on the sea or on any tree. Then I saw another angel coming up from the east, having the seal of the living God. He called out in a loud voice to the four angels who had been given power to harm the land and the sea: “Do not harm the land or the sea or the trees until we put a seal on the foreheads of the servants of our God.” (Revelation 7:1-3)

At the time God provides his servants this protection, the earth will have remained unharmed by end-time events. The land and the sea are unharmed—even the trees have not been harmed.

Then I heard the number of those who were sealed: 144,000 from all the tribes of Israel. (Revelation 7:4) The early rapture of the Philadelphia Church includes 144,000 Jewish believers. These 144,000 Israelis are never again seen on earth, but are seen on “Mount Zion,” an ancient term for “heaven.” (Revelation 7:4-8, 14:1) Angels seal Philadelphia Church members around the world, identifying them for immediate rapture. Then this great multitude of raptured believers, all members of the Philadelphia Church, suddenly appears in heaven. After this I looked and there before me was a great multitude that no one could count, from every nation, tribe, people and language, standing before the throne and in front of the Lamb. They were wearing white robes and were holding palm branches in their hands. (Revelation 7:9)

A question is asked about the identity of those who suddenly appear in heaven—who are they?—and where they came from? Then one of the elders asked me “These in white robes—who are they, and where did they come from?” I answered, “Sir, you know.” And he said, “These are they who have come out of the great tribulation; they have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. (Revelation 7:13-14) The answer clearly states that this multitude was rescued from the great tribulation—they were just raptured from earth. That more than just the 144,000 Israeli believers are raptured is evident from the number being a great multitude that no one could count. Further evidence that more than just Jewish believers are raptured is that the multitude is from every nation, tribe, people and language.

An obscure event from Israel's history foreshadowed this early rapture. God has already protected passionate believers, those who grieve and lament over wicked behavior, from disaster. Those protected first received a mark on the forehead, matching the seal on the foreheads of the 144,000 Israelis who participate in the early Philadelphia rapture. Ezekiel wrote that the LORD had given an angel the following instructions. “Go throughout the city of Jerusalem and put a mark on the foreheads of those who grieve and lament over all the detestable things that are done in it.” As I listened, he said to the others, “Follow him through the city and kill, without showing pity or compassion. Slaughter old men, young men and maidens, women and children, but do not touch anyone who has the mark. Begin at my sanctuary.” So they began with the elders who were in front of the temple. (Ezekiel 9:4-6)

This rapture must occur at this point—after the sun is blotted, the moon turns blood red, and a worldwide earthquake occurs—because this sequence of events matches what Jesus taught.

Jesus' commentary in the Gospels is consistent with events in Revelation.

SEAL #7: When he opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour. (Revelation 8:1)

After Jesus breaks the seventh seal, the scroll can be read and put into effect. However, excitement subsides with the realization that Israel and the Laodicea Church are left-behind. Global nuclear war arrives with the first three trumpets, which immediately follow. For such reasons, there is silence in heaven for about half an hour.

7. Seven Trumpets

Any nation undergoing attack has an overriding interest in destroying their opponent's nuclear capabilities. Therefore initial strikes in a nuclear war target land-based aircraft and missiles. Non-military targets on the land would also be struck. This is what occurs at the first trumpet. At the second trumpet nuclear weapons strike oceans in an attempt to destroy warships and submarines. Then at the third trumpet low-tech "dirty" nuclear weapons are deployed; using conventional explosives, these bombs spread nuclear contamination over large areas.

TRUMPET #1: The first angel sounded his trumpet, and there came hail and fire mixed with blood, and it was hurled down upon the earth. A third of the earth was burned up, a third of the trees were burned up, and all the green grass was burned up. (Revelation 8:7)

The initial trumpet brings hail and fire mixed with blood ... hurled down upon the earth ... and a third of the earth will be burned. This is a description of nuclear attacks against land-based targets. Such targets include yet-to-be-launched nuclear missiles still on the ground, and those somewhat protected in silos beneath the ground. Countless other land targets will be in flames.

TRUMPET #2: The second angel sounded his trumpet, and something like a huge mountain, all ablaze, was thrown into the sea. A third of the sea turned into blood, a third of the living creatures in the sea died, and a third of the ships were destroyed. (Revelation 8:8-9)

Yet-to-be-launched nuclear missiles located on warships and submarines are targeted in the second round of nuclear attacks, with a third of the ships ... destroyed. In addition to surface ships, many submarines have extensive nuclear missile launching capabilities. Submarine missiles use satellite navigation and therefore can be as accurate as land-based missiles. In addition to destroying ships, a third of the living creatures in the sea died. Jesus described the oceans saying, “nations will be in anguish and perplexity at the roaring and tossing of the sea.” (Luke 21:25)

Target	Delivery	Vulnerability	Launch Order
Land	Aircraft with nuclear bombs	Must be launched within a few minutes of a massive nuclear attack, or they are likely to be destroyed on the ground.	TRUMPET #1 Dispatch early; aircraft can be recalled
	Land-Based Missiles	Must also launch within a few minutes of a nuclear attack, or are at risk for being destroyed.	TRUMPET #1 Slower to launch; cannot recall
Ocean	Missiles and Bombs	Aircraft carriers deploy fighter aircraft that carry nuclear weapons. Submarines hide missiles deep in the ocean.	TRUMPET #2 Delay launch; hidden and held in reserve.
Civilian	Radiological (Dirty) Bomb	Use by underdeveloped nations and/or terrorists. Harm due to nuclear contamination	TRUMPET #3

TRUMPET #3: The third angel sounded his trumpet, and a great star, blazing like a torch, fell from the sky on a third of the rivers and on the springs of water – the name of the star is Wormwood. A third of the waters turned bitter, and many people died from the waters that had become bitter. (Revelation 8:10-11)

With this trumpet, a star falls from the sky. Note the impact—on a third of the rivers and on the springs of water. This contamination is so extensive that a third of the waters are contaminated, and many people died from these contaminated waters.

This trumpet depicts the detonation of a bomb made from nuclear material, designed solely to spread radioactive contamination. Governments and terrorists incapable of exploding a nuclear bomb can more easily build such a low-technology weapon. Frequently referred to as a dirty bomb, it can spread radioactivity using only conventional explosives. Such a great star, blasted above the earth, would magnify the geographical area contaminated. In the end, there are contaminated rivers, lakes, and ultimately drinking water.

That the name of the star is Wormwood is significant. Wormwood is a group of plants found around the world. In Russian and Ukrainian language, wormwood translates as “chernobyl.” The Chernobyl Nuclear Power Plant accident produced contamination that was the first-ever to be rated a level 7 event, the highest score on the International Nuclear Event Scale. This power plant was named after the wormwood plants in the area; it would be similar to an English-speaking country naming a nuclear plant Ragweed. Today “Chernobyl” (wormwood) is synonymous with nuclear contamination.

Wormwood (English to Ukrainian) полин, чорнобиль;гіркота, прикрість
[wormwood polyn, chornobyl’; hirkota, prykrist’]
Chernobyl (Ukrainian: Чорнобиль, Russian: Чернобыль)

When John wrote Revelation, he did not comprehend nuclear power. Today the words he wrote are synonymous with nuclear contamination. Remember that when the third angel sounded his trumpet ... a great star ... fell from the sky (Revelation 8:10). Wormwood belongs to the Asteraceae plant family. The Asteraceae family was derived from the Greek word for star. Aster is the word from which the star-symbol asterisk (*) was derived.

Revelation was written in Greek; wormwood translates as chernobyl in the Ukrainian and Russian languages. John did not coordinate with the scientists who would later place wormwood in the Asteraceae (star) plant family. Scientists did not coordinate their naming of this plant with those who would later name the nuclear power plant, Chernobyl. That this star plant also turns water bitter is not a coincidence either. No person coordinated any of these facts with the great nuclear disaster that inevitably followed. Only God could perfectly align these factors ahead of time.

TRUMPET #4: The fourth angel sounded his trumpet, and a third of the sun was struck, a third of the moon, and a third of the stars, so that a third of them turned dark. A third of the day was without light, and also a third of the night. (Revelation 8:12)

Darkness could result from smoke or increased volcanic activity. However, there is a method for darkening a searing hot earth that might be desirable following nuclear war. Theoretically, objects deployed in space could deflect sunlight with the purpose of cooling an overheated earth. Should extreme measures be implemented the world could be plunged into darkness, which actually occurs at the fifth bowl of God's wrath (Revelation 16:10).

TRUMPET #5: The fifth angel sounded his trumpet, and I saw a star that had fallen from the sky to the earth. The star was given the key to the shaft of the Abyss. When he opened the Abyss, smoke rose from it like the smoke from a gigantic furnace. The sun and sky were darkened by the smoke from the Abyss. And out of the smoke locusts came down upon the earth and were given power like that of scorpions of the earth. They were told not to harm the grass of the earth or any plant or tree, but only those people who did not have the seal of God on their foreheads. They were not given power to kill them, but only to torture them for five months. And the agony they suffered was like that of the sting of a scorpion when it strikes a man. During those days men will seek death, but will not find it; they will long to die, but death will elude them. (Revelation 9:1-6)

Next an angel, also referred to as a star, is seen with the key to a bottomless pit inside the earth, called the Abyss. This angel releases demons that were trapped inside the Abyss for thousands of years. This demonic attack warns unrepentant people of what hell will be like. Locusts normally attack crops, but these locusts have power to sting like scorpions. These locusts only attack people who did not have the seal of God on their foreheads. People will suffer so badly they desire to die, but are unable. A foretaste of hell, where people will long to die, but death will elude them.

TRUMPET #6: The sixth angel sounded his trumpet and I heard a voice coming from the horns of the golden altar that is before God. It said to the sixth angel who had the trumpet, "Release the four angels who are bound at the great river Euphrates." And the four angels who had been kept ready for this very hour and day and month and year were released to kill a third of mankind. The number of the mounted troops was two hundred million. I heard their number. (Revelation 9:13-16)

Four angels, who today are bound at the Euphrates River, will be released to kill a third of mankind. The corresponding deaths occur at this point. The four released angels ride horses, just as the four horsemen of the apocalypse rode horses. That the four angels are bound at the Euphrates River points to Iraq, the nation through which most of this river flows.

An army with two hundred million members advances against Israel. This army is likely an alliance of eastern nations. China is capable of raising such a force; India also has a population over a billion people. The Soviet Union dissolved into multiple nations; even if disbanded China would still be united in a shared ethnic and cultural history spanning thousands of years.

The earth's destruction is progressing rapidly. The horses and riders I saw in my vision looked like this: Their breastplates were fiery red, dark blue, and yellow as sulfur. The heads of the horses resembled the heads of lions, and out of their mouths came fire, smoke and sulfur. A third of mankind was killed by the three plagues of fire, smoke and sulfur that came out of their mouths. The power of the horses was in their mouths and in their tails; for their tails were like snakes, having heads with which they inflict injury. (Revelation 9:17-19)

To believe a delusion, is to believe what is false despite overwhelming evidence to the contrary. To believe in idols and magic arts after world events have fully validated Bible prophecy is an incredible delusion. The rest of mankind that were not killed by these plagues still did not repent of the work of their hands; they did not stop worshiping demons, and idols of gold, silver, bronze, stone and wood—idols that cannot see or hear or walk. Nor did they repent of their murders, their magic arts, their sexual immorality or their thefts. (Revelation 9:20-21)

2	Nuclear strikes against ocean-based targets. (Revelation 8:8-9)
3	Nuclear contamination of water. (Revelation 8:10-11)
4	Darkness covers the earth. (Revelation 8:12)
5	Smoke pours from the Abyss; demonic locusts come from the smoke. (Revelation 9:1-11)
6	200,000,000 soldiers descend on Israel; fire, smoke, sulfur kill a third of humanity. (Revelation 9:13-19)
7	Resurrection of two witnesses Rapture of the Laodicea Church The harvest of Israel (Revelation 11:15-19; 14:14-20)

At the sixth trumpet Gentiles worldwide will have accepted the mark of the beast. However God will protect Israel from the beast the first three and a half years (Revelation 12:6). Israel will turn to God at the seventh trumpet.

8. Transition

At the mid-point of the seven years,
Israel turns to Jesus Christ.

The mid-point of the end-time seven year period is filled with world-changing events. First God unveils a mystery; the seven thunders spoke, but John did not write down what was said. And when the seven thunders spoke, I was about to write; but I heard a voice from heaven say, "Seal up what the seven thunders have said and do not write it down." (Revelation 10:4)

Much mystery about "who God is" persists to this day. With the information disclosed in the seven thunders, this mystery will be over, this mystery will be finished, this great mystery of God will be accomplished. Scripture records this event saying, But in the days when the seventh angel is about to sound his trumpet, the mystery of God will be accomplished. (Revelation 10:7) The seven thunders reveal information about God's very nature, which will prompt Israel to accept Jesus as Messiah. At this time the final Gentile to become a believer in Christ steps forward and eternal salvation becomes a gift to Israel alone.

Two witnesses who preached in Jerusalem the initial half of the final seven years will be martyred, resurrected and then raptured to heaven. The entire world will see this event (Revelation 11:3-12). God also raptures the reformed Laodicea Church into heaven; this second rapture of the Church removes every Gentile believer, with none left behind (Revelation 14:16).

Also at this time the Antichrist travels to the Temple Mount in Jerusalem. There he will proclaim himself to be the Messiah that Israel has sought since ancient times. Paul wrote concerning Antichrist – He will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshiped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. (2 Thessalonians 2:4). However Israel will reject Antichrist and embrace Jesus Christ (Zechariah 12:10); Israel will give glory to the God of heaven (Revelation 11:13).

Israel's rejection of Antichrist sets the stage for Israeli martyrs the second half of the final seven years. The Israeli harvest lasts three and a half years, and ends with Christ rescuing Israel at the Second Coming (Revelation 14:18-20; 19:11-21).

Events at the mid-point in the seven years are transitional; the course of world events is forever changed.

9. The Last Trumpet

The seventh trumpet is where the resurrection of God's people occurs—along with the second, and final, rapture of the Church. A description of this rapture can be found by grouping events between the start of the seventh trumpet and the first bowl of God's wrath—into one event. This event is the seventh and last trumpet.

Start with the announcement of the last trumpet. The seventh angel sounded his trumpet, and there were loud voices in heaven, which said: "The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, and he will reign for ever and ever." (Revelation 11:15) The statement, the kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord—is from persons instantaneously raptured from earth into heaven. They are describing their experience by saying something like, "What I saw one moment was (the kingdom of) the world—then immediately the view changed, became a view of heaven, which is the kingdom of our Lord."

The rapture story does not immediately continue in Revelation. John slows the story to insert detail about primary end-time characters.

BREAK TO DESCRIBE PERSONALITIES

Inserted Material	End-Time Characters
Revelation 12	A Woman, a Dragon, and the Woman's Offspring
Revelation 13	Beast out of the Sea (Revelation 13:2-8) Beast out of the Earth (Revelation 13:11-18)
Revelation 14:1-5	The Lamb and the 144,000 of Israel

The story of the greatest harvest of God's people continues ...

Two harvests occur at the last trumpet. The first harvest takes even the very last Gentile ever to accept God's salvation: I looked, and there before me was a white cloud, and seated on the cloud was one 'like a son of man' with a crown of gold on his head and a sharp sickle in his hand. Then another angel came out of the temple and called in a loud voice to him who was sitting on the cloud, 'Take your sickle and reap, because the time to reap has come, for the harvest of the earth is ripe.' So he who was seated on the cloud swung his sickle over the earth and the earth was harvested. (Revelation 14:14-16)

Paul also taught that there would be a resurrection of the dead, followed by a rapture of believers—at the last trumpet. Believers who are alive will be changed—given bodies that will survive all eternity. Listen, I tell you a mystery: We will not all sleep, but we will all be changed—in a flash, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed. For the perishable must clothe itself with the imperishable, and the mortal with immortality. (1 Corinthians 15:51-53)

Paul further wrote about this last trumpet rapture being for those left-behind from the initial rapture. In the following verses “and are left” refers to those believers who were left-behind on earth for the first 42 months. For the Lord himself will come down from heaven, with a loud command, with the voice of the archangel and with the trumpet call of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. After that, we who are still alive and are left will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. And so we will be with the Lord forever. (1 Thessalonians 4:16-17)

Israel Harvested

Gentile believers are now in heaven, through either rapture or physical death. The time for Gentiles ends at this halfway marker in the final seven years. Gentiles remaining on earth can no longer accept salvation. Unbelieving Gentiles will have taken the mark of the beast. During the seven thunders, they will have heard the very nature of God, yet still reject God. They respond, “Not now, not ever!” To be fully convicted by the Holy Spirit of your need to accept the Messiah and to reply “not now, not ever” is to consider yourself to be greater than the Holy Spirit. Jesus said such blasphemy would never be forgiven (Matthew 12:31-32).

In contrast, Israel will respond positively to the seven thunders. Paul foretold that the entire nation of Israel would turn to Christ following the conversion of the last Gentile believer; Israel has experienced a hardening in part until the full number of the Gentiles has come in. And so all Israel will be saved. (Romans 11:25-26).

Israel is the vineyard of the last trumpet. Another angel came out of the temple in heaven, and he too had a sharp sickle. Still another angel, who had charge of the fire, came from the altar and called in a loud voice to him who had the sharp sickle, "Take your sharp sickle and gather the clusters of grapes from the earth's vine because its grapes are ripe." The angel swung his sickle on the earth, gathered its grapes and threw them into the great winepress of God's wrath. They were trampled in the winepress outside the city, and blood flowed out of the press, rising as high as the horses' bridles for a distance of 1,600 stadia. (Revelation 14:17-20) Isaiah identified this vine thousands of years ago: The vineyard of the Lord Almighty is the house of Israel. (Isaiah 5:7)

Instead of being immediately taken up into heaven this nation, which rejected Jesus for two thousand years, is harvested in God's wrath. The violent nature of the Israeli harvest is because Satan will initiate intense persecution. In response, Israelis will demonstrate an uncompromised allegiance to God.

10. Israel

Scripture foretold the past two thousand years of Israeli history. Ezekiel wrote about Israel's exile from its homeland, which occurred in 70 AD with the Roman destruction of Israel. He also foretold the suffering of Jews while in exile at the hands of enemies, to include Adolph Hitler. Ezekiel quoted God as saying, and the nations will know that the people of Israel went into exile for their sin, because they were unfaithful to me. So I hid my face from them and handed them over to their enemies, and they all fell by the sword. I dealt with them according to their uncleanness and their offenses, and I hid my face from them. (Ezekiel 39:22-24)

Jews returned from exile and Israel was reestablished May 14, 1948. God foretold of a time when he would no longer hide my face from them (the Israeli people). God will reveal himself to the Israeli people, and Israel will accept Jesus as its redeemer. Concerning the establishment and purpose of modern Israel (referred to as "them" and "they" below), Ezekiel quoted God as saying, "When I have brought them back from the nations and have gathered them from the countries of their enemies, I will show myself holy through them in the sight of many nations. Then they will know that I am the Lord their God, for though I sent them into exile among the nations, I will gather them to their own land, not leaving any behind, I will no longer hide my face from them, for I will pour out my Spirit on the house of Israel, declares the Sovereign Lord.”

(Ezekiel 39:27-29)

Zechariah wrote about the moment Israel will accept a crucified Messiah, the one pierced on the cross. “And I will pour out on the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of grace and supplication. They will look on me, the one they have pierced, and they will mourn for him as one mourns for an only child, and grieve bitterly for him as one grieves for a first-born son. (Zechariah 12:10)

Initial Peace

Israel’s protection during the end-times comes from a seven-year agreement with Antichrist, referred to as “He” in the following verse. He will confirm a covenant with many for one ‘seven.’ (Daniel 9:27) This verse refers to an agreement that initiates the seven-year end-time period. It is possible that Europe will accept Israel as part of the European Union and/or European Economic Area—world leaders have already considered this possibility.

Peace will not last, as Antichrist turns against Israel in the middle of the seven years. The three and a half years of protection Israel receives at the start of the end-times corresponds with the time Israel remains in unbelief concerning Jesus. Scripture cites this 42-month delay five times.

ISRAEL'S TIME OF UNBELIEF

	3 ½ years – 1260 days	3 ½ years – time, times and half a time*	3 ½ years – In the middle of the 'seven'
Daniel 9:27			X
Daniel 12:6-9		X
Revelation 11:3	X
Revelation 12:6	X
Revelation 12:13-14		X

* TIME, TIMES AND HALF A TIME = [1 + 2 + ½] YEARS = 3 ½ YEARS

The question asked in Daniel, “How long will it be before these astonishing things are fulfilled?” The man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the river, lifted his right hand and his left hand toward heaven, and I heard him swear by him who lives forever, saying, “It will be for a time, times and half a time. When the power of the holy people has been finally broken, all these things will be completed.” (Daniel 12:6-7) Nothing could be fulfilled concerning Israel until the initial three and a half years are completed. At that time, Israel will accept Jesus as Messiah, and modern Israel becomes a spiritually re-born nation.

Two Witnesses

The initial three and a half years of the end-times, God provides Israel two witnesses. These are the first authentic prophets sent to Israel since the first century. And I will give power to my two witnesses, and they will prophesy for 1,260 days, clothed in sackcloth.” These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands that stand before the Lord of the earth. If anyone tries to harm them, fire comes from their mouths and devours their enemies. This is how anyone who wants to harm them must die. These men have power to shut up the sky so that it will not rain during the time they are prophesying; and they have power to turn the waters into blood and to strike the earth with every kind of plague as often as they want. (Revelation 11:3-6)

The two witnesses will preach from Jerusalem during the first 42 months. These witnesses will have power to shut up the sky so that it will not rain, just as Elijah did when confronting King Ahab (1 Kings 17:1). These witnesses will have power to turn the waters into blood, just as Moses did before Pharaoh (Exodus 7:20).

After 42 months, God withdraws protection for the two witnesses, and both are executed. Now when they had finished their testimony, the beast that comes up from the Abyss will attack them, and overpower and kill them. Their bodies will lie in the street of the great city, which is figuratively called Sodom and Egypt, where also their Lord was crucified. (Revelation 11:7-8) The place where these witnesses are murdered is the same city where their Lord was crucified. The Jerusalem on earth is corrupt, as Sodom was corrupt, and worldly, like Egypt. The future heaven, the New Jerusalem, provides a sharp contrast to the corrupt Jerusalem on earth (Revelation 21).

The funeral celebration is appalling. For three and a half days men from every people, tribe, language and nation will gaze on their bodies and refuse them burial. The inhabitants of the earth will gloat over them and will celebrate by sending each other gifts, because these two prophets had tormented those who live on the earth. (Revelation 11:9-10) Through television coverage, people from every people, tribe, language and nation will look upon the two corpses. The contempt will be so great that no one buries them. People celebrate by sending each other gifts. Just as the birth of the Christian faith, people celebrate by exchanging gifts. People will celebrate this apparent end to the Christian faith with the same tradition.

However, the story transitions into a resurrection and rapture, it ends in victory. But after the three and a half days a breath of life from God entered them, and they stood on their feet, and terror struck those who saw them. Then they heard a loud voice from heaven saying to them, "Come up here." And they went up to heaven in a cloud, while their enemies looked on. (Revelation 11:11-12)

Then Israel accepts Jesus as Messiah. At that very hour there was a severe earthquake, and a tenth of the city collapsed. Seven thousand people were killed in the earthquake, and the survivors were terrified and gave glory to the God of heaven. (Revelation 11:13) Israel must possess faith to give God glory; without faith it is impossible to please God. (Hebrews 11:6)

A Third Temple

The Temple Mount in Jerusalem will be a critical end-time setting. Because Muslims control the Temple Mount today, the idea that an Israeli Temple could be built at this site is considered unlikely. Yet there is growing evidence Israel will be able to rebuild on the Temple Mount. For example, archeological findings indicate the Islamic shrine on the Temple Mount might be on a location other than the site of the first two Israeli temples.

In Revelation, God surveys the Temple Mount, an action that demonstrates he is taking control. John, the writer of Revelation, was given a reed like a measuring rod and was told, "Go and measure the temple of God and the altar, and count the worshipers there. But exclude the outer court; do not measure it, because it has been given to the Gentiles. They will trample on the holy city for 42 months. (Revelation 11:1-2)

A Temple could be built on the location of the two ancient temples, with the Islamic Dome of the Rock remaining intact in the outer court. At the middle point of the end-times, after 42 months, Israel will prohibit Muslim access to the Temple Mount.

Broken Promises

God does not permit Antichrist to attack Israel for the first half of the final seven years. Israel is the woman in the following story. The woman fled into the desert to a place prepared for her by God, where she might be taken care of for 1,260 days. (Revelation 12:6) Later more details are given; the dragon and serpent is Satan, and the male child is Jesus. When the dragon saw that he had been hurled to the earth, he pursued the woman who had given birth to the male child. Now leap forward to the end-times. The woman was given the two wings of a great eagle, so that she might fly to a place prepared for her in the desert, where she would be taken care of for a time, times and half a time, out of the serpent's reach. (Revelation 12:13-14)

Antichrist will establish an agreement with many nations, to include Israel, for a seven-year period. In the middle of those seven years, he will break the agreement and stop the Jewish practice of sacrifice and offering. He will confirm a covenant with many for one 'seven.' In the middle of the 'seven' he will put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on a wing of the temple, he will set up an abomination that causes desolation, until the end that is decreed is poured out on him. (Daniel 9:27) The blood sacrifice of lambs for the atonement of sins will return as a cornerstone of the Jewish faith at the Third Temple. Antichrist will enter the Temple and claim to be Israel's Messiah. He will stop the sacrificing of lambs and require people to worship him.

Paul wrote about Antichrist, he will oppose and will exalt himself over everything that is called God or is worshipped, so that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. (2 Thessalonians 2:4) Antichrist will declare that he is the Messiah that Israel has sought after since the fall of Adam and Eve (Daniel 11:36). Israel will respond to Antichrist with an emphatic "no!" As a result, Israel will be persecuted. On that day, when all the nations of the earth are gathered against her, I will make Jerusalem an immovable rock for all the nations. All who try to move it will injure themselves. (Zechariah 12:3)

The violent harvest of Israel is depicted; enemy soldiers act as war criminals. I will gather all the nations to Jerusalem to fight against it; the city will be captured, the houses ransacked, and the women raped. (Zechariah 14:2)

This over-running of Jerusalem brings our Messiah back to earth to fight for Israel. Then the Lord will go out and fight against those nations, as he fights in the day of battle. On that day his feet will stand on the Mount of Olives, east of Jerusalem. (Zechariah 14:3-4)

11. Two Beasts

Two Beasts lead the aggression against Israel.

Daniel foresaw the Roman Empire hundreds of years before it was established. In Daniel's vision, the Roman Empire was to be the fourth and final great world empire.

DANIEL'S FOUR GREAT EMPIRES

Major Empire	Chapter 2	Chapter 7	Chapter 8	Identification
Babylonia 626 BC – 539 BC	Head of Gold	Lion		Daniel 2:38
Medo-Persia 539 BC – 330 BC	Chest and Arms of Silver	Bear	Ram	Daniel 8:20
Greece 330 BC – 167 BC	Belly and Thighs of Bronze	Leopard	Goat	Daniel 8:21
Rome 63 BC – The End	Legs of Iron; Feet of Clay	Terrifying and Frightening Beast		Daniel 9:26 (Rome, 70AD)

Beast Out Of the Sea

Thrown from heaven, an ancient serpent-dragon (Satan) travels to earth. Upon arrival, Satan immediately calls to his son, the Roman Empire beast coming up out of the sea. And the dragon stood on the shore of the sea. And I saw a beast coming out of the sea. He had ten horns and seven heads, with ten crowns on his horns, and on each head a blasphemous name. (Revelation 13:1)

This end-time superpower beast must be from Rome. The woman you saw is the great city that rules over the kings of the earth. (Revelation 17:18) At the time Revelation was written, Rome was the great city that rules over the kings of the earth. That same city will rule over the kings (world leaders) during the end-times. Daniel also identified Rome as the final great empire. The people of the ruler who will come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. (Daniel 9:26) This prophecy refers to events that occurred in 70 AD. The people were Roman soldiers, the city was Jerusalem, and the sanctuary was the Second Temple. Accordingly, the Romans are the people of the ruler in the end times; the final empire must be Roman.

The dragon stood on the shore of the sea. And I saw a beast coming out of the sea. It had ten horns and seven heads, with ten crowns on its horns, and on each head a blasphemous name. (Rev 13:1)
Then I saw a second beast, coming out of the earth. It had two horns like a lamb, but it spoke like a dragon. (Rev 13:11)

This son-of-Satan is described in detail. That the beast once was, now is not, and yet will come refers to the tendency of the Roman Empire to wax and wane (Revelation 17:8). For example, The Roman Empire remained alive far beyond the so-called “Fall of Rome” in 476 AD; the Eastern Roman Empire did not fall until 1453. The Holy Roman Empire was an alliance of western European nations ruled by Frankish and German kings; it prospered from 800 AD to 1806 AD.

The infamous beast out of the sea, first foretold twenty-five hundred years ago, is now in view (Daniel 7:7). In 1957, six nations signed the Treaty of Rome, which founded the European Economic Community. Marking the start of the present-day Roman Empire, this treaty was actually signed at Rome’s city hall. Then six other nations joined the European Economic Community. This 12-member group, called the European Community, joined with six European Free Trade Association nations to form the 18-nation European Economic Area. The 1992 Treaty of Maastricht, also called the Treaty on European Union, created the European Union. Decades of nonstop integration have produced a contemporary Roman Empire.

This calls for wisdom. If anyone has insight, let him calculate the number of the beast, for it is man’s number. His number is 666. (Revelation 13:18)

Six charter members of the European Economic Community (EEC) – formed by the Treaty of Rome – came into force January 1, 1958.

- (1) Belgium
- (2) Netherlands
- (3) Luxembourg
- (4) France
- (5) Italy
- (6) West Germany

Six additional nations join the EEC before it became the European Community, effective November 1, 1993.

- (1) United Kingdom
- (2) Spain
- (3) Portugal
- (4) Greece
- (5) Denmark
- (6) Ireland.

Six members of the European Free Trade Association combine with the European Community—to form the European Economic Area. January 1, 2004

- (1) Austria
- (2) Finland
- (3) Iceland
- (4) Norway
- (5) Sweden
- (6) Liechtenstein

The great unfaithful church is a woman named “Babylon.” This woman is geographically collocated (sits) upon the empire’s capital city. “This calls for a mind with wisdom. The seven heads are seven hills on which the woman sits.”

(Revelation 17:9) Romulus and Remus founded Rome on seven hills: Capitoline, Palatine, Aventine, Caelian, Esquiline, Quirinal, and Viminal. Even with the Seven Hills of Rome being common knowledge, spiritual mysteries take discernment. A mind with wisdom is needed, because seeing Rome as the preeminent city for deception requires unlocking perhaps the greatest delusion in history.

The ancient Roman Empire is widely believed to be a great civilization. History depicts the nations and tribes they conquered—as barbarian. Yet Rome boasts of an ancient coliseum where slave gladiators fought and died at the whims of the crowd. Roman pride in this coliseum is analogous to Germans being proud of Dachau, which is a World War II prison camp where Nazi rulers executed millions of Jews. Rome brought slavery, crucifixions, and the government that crucified Jesus.

Antichrist

The primary beast in Revelation refers to Antichrist and the Roman Empire that he rules. Antichrist turns his attention from Europe, to world domination at Temple Mount in Jerusalem at the 42-month point. In like manner, the authority (life span) of this beast is limited to the initial forty-two months of the end-times. The beast was given a mouth to utter proud words and blasphemies and to exercise his authority for forty-two months. (Revelation 13:5)

The support the dragon (Satan) provides the beast (Antichrist, Rome) is impressive. The dragon gave the beast his power and his throne and great authority. (Revelation 13:2) However, remember that Satan first offered this kingdom to Jesus. Again, the devil took him to a very high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their splendor. "All this I will give you," he said, "if you will bow down and worship me." (Matthew 4:8-9)

This Roman Empire will eventually govern nations far beyond its initial eighteen members. The whole world was astonished and followed the beast. Men worshipped the dragon because he had given authority to the beast, and they also worship the beast and asked, "Who is like the beast? Who can make war against him?" (Revelation 13:3-4) This Roman Empire will devour the entire earth. "He gave me this explanation: The fourth beast is a fourth kingdom that will appear on earth. It will be different from all the other kingdoms and will devour the whole earth, trampling it down and crushing it." (Daniel 7:23) And he was given authority over every tribe, people, language and nation. (Revelation 13:7)

Beast out of the Earth

The False Prophet leads this second beast (Revelation 19:20). This fraudulent prophet is normally interpreted as being a religious leader; yet no scripture requires him to be religious. Any person who says, "God chose me to lead you to safety" then leads people to destruction, is a false prophet. A false prophet claims to possess authority from God, and then leads people to destruction. Like the European beast, the beast out of the earth consists of a political leader and his subordinate nations. Just as the beast out of the sea (Europe) follows the dragon (Satan), the beast out of the earth (America) will support Europe (Revelation 13:2, 12).

Then I saw another beast, coming out of the earth. He had two horns like a lamb, but he spoke like a dragon (Revelation 13:11). The American beast has two horns like a lamb. To those who are deceived this beast will appear gentle, like a lamb. Yet this beast spoke like a dragon—speaking with the authority of Satan. The American beast will require everyone to submit to European authority. This American beast exercised all the authority of the first beast on his behalf, and made the earth and its inhabitants worship the first beast (Revelation 13:12).

The United States is the primary nation. One horn is Canada (or possibly French Quebec). The other is Mexico (or possibly Latin America). The North American Free Trade Agreement gave birth to this second beast. A strengthening of the Organization of American States or the Free Trade Area of the Americas could create an American Union, much like the European Union.

Credible Deceptions

Satan is not so concerned with causing people to do evil acts, but to have them believe deceptions. Scripture states that the beast and false prophet deluded those who had received the mark of the beast (Revelation 19:20). And he performed great and miraculous signs, even causing fire to come down from heaven to earth in full view of men. (Revelation 13:13) Concerning a critical end-time moment Jesus instructed, “Let no one on the roof of his house go down to take anything out of the house.” (Matthew 24:17). Perhaps people are on the roofs to watch fire come down from heaven to earth (Revelation 13:13).

The false prophet will also be a master of deception. Because of the signs he was given power to do on behalf of the first beast, he deceived the inhabitants of the earth. He ordered them to set up an image in honor of the beast who was wounded by the sword and yet lived. He was given power to give breath to the image of the first beast, so that it could speak and cause all who refused to worship the image to be killed (Revelation 13:14-15). Daniel and Jesus also spoke of this deception, as being an abomination at the third temple (Daniel 9:27; 11:31; 12:11; Matthew 24:15).

From a monetary standpoint, Antichrist and the false prophet will have the power to demand of everyone, “accept or perish.” Concerning the false prophet: He also forced everyone, small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on his right hand or on his forehead, so that no one could buy or sell unless he had the mark (Revelation 13:16-17). Life for believers will be horrific: He who has an ear, let him hear. If anyone is to go into captivity, into captivity he will go. If anyone is to be killed with the sword, with the sword he will be killed. This calls for patient endurance and faithfulness on the part of the saints. (Revelation 13:9-10)

12. Seven Bowls

All nations attempt to conquer Israel.

God responds by pouring out wrath.

From seven golden bowls, angels will pour out God's wrath upon the Gentile nations. God's wrath comes from his intolerance of sin, from his holiness. God's command center during these attacks is the temple in heaven. Out of the temple came the seven angels with the seven plagues. They were dressed in clean, shining linen and wore golden sashes around their chests. Then one of the four living creatures gave to the seven angels seven golden bowls filled with the wrath of God, who lives for ever and ever. (Revelation 15:6-7)

God's wrath is holy; so the seven angels who are to pour out God's wrath upon the earth leave the temple wearing golden sashes, symbolic of royal and priestly functions (Ezekiel 9:2). God's wrath is awesome. And the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God and from his power. (Revelation 15:8) Then I heard a loud voice from the temple saying to the seven angels, "Go, pour out the seven bowls of God's wrath on the earth." (Revelation 16:1) The seven bowls are similar to the plagues that God delivered against Pharaoh and ancient Egypt.

BOWL #1: The first angel went and poured out his bowl on the land, and ugly and painful sores broke out on the people who had the mark of the beast and worshiped his image. (Revelation 16:2)

The ugly and painful sores will only afflict people having the mark of the beast—so Israel will be spared. This plague could be anthrax, which causes boils on both men and animals. This event matches the plague of boils Moses brought against Egypt. So they took soot from a furnace and stood before Pharaoh. Moses tossed it into the air, and festering boils broke out on men and animals. (Exodus 9:10)

BOWL #2: The second angel poured out his bowl on the sea, and it turned into blood like that of a dead man, and every living thing in the sea died. (Revelation 16:3)

The oceans and sea turn from water into blood. Note the similarity to another plague that God delivered through Moses. This is what the LORD says: By this you will know that I am the LORD: With the staff that is in my hand I will strike the water of the Nile, and it will be changed into blood. The fish in the Nile will die, and the river will stink; the Egyptians will not be able to drink its water.” (Exodus 7:17-18)

BOWL #3: The third angel poured out his bowl on the rivers and springs of water, and they became blood. Then I heard the angel in charge of the waters say: “You are just in these judgments, you who are and who were, the Holy One, because you have so judged; for they have shed the blood of your saints and prophets, and you have given them blood to drink as they deserve.”

And I heard the altar respond: “Yes, Lord God Almighty, true and just are your judgments.” (Revelation 16:4-7)

The martyrs under the altar are now satisfied seeing justice. Remember these martyrs had cried out at the fifth seal. They called out in a loud voice, “How long, Sovereign Lord, holy and true, until you judge the inhabitants of the earth and avenge our blood?” (Revelation 6:10) At the third bowl, the altar responds with approval concerning God’s judgment.

BOWL #4: The fourth angel poured out his bowl on the sun, and the sun was given power to scorch people with fire. They were seared by the intense heat and they cursed the name of God, who had control over these plagues, but they refused to repent and glorify him. (Revelation 16:8-9)

Now the sun will scorch people with intense heat. It is likely that the natural atmospheric protection, such as the ozone layer, will have been destroyed. People responded by cursing God. With hardened hearts, the walking dead (condemned) people are incapable of repenting. This occurred in ancient Egypt—when the LORD hardened Pharaoh’s heart. (Exodus 10:27)

BOWL #5: The fifth angel poured out his bowl on the throne of the beast, and his kingdom was plunged into darkness. Men gnawed their tongues in agony and cursed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, but they refused to repent of what they had done. (Revelation 16:10-11)

Moses delivered a similar judgment against Egypt. Then the LORD said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand toward the sky so that darkness will spread over Egypt—darkness that can be felt.” So Moses stretched out his hand toward the sky, and total darkness covered all Egypt for three days. No one could see anyone else or leave his place for three days. Yet all the Israelites had light in the places where they lived. (Exodus 10:21-23)

BOWL #6: The sixth angel poured out his bowl on the great river Euphrates, and its water was dried up to prepare the way for the kings from the East. (Revelation 16:12)

At the time of Armageddon, the flow of the Euphrates River in Iraq will dry to allow armies to invade Israel. This dried riverbed opens the way for the armies of the kings from the East, to travel to the valley of Armageddon in Israel (Revelation 16:16). The Ataturk Dam in Turkey has already stopped the flow of the Euphrates in 1990 while filling a reservoir.

That there are kings from the East (plural, kings, more than one king) could result from China dissolving into smaller countries that are unified in a confederacy. This confederacy could result from the desire of China to bring Taiwan under its control, while also allowing the freedoms that Hong Kong needs to prosper. Such a confederacy might include other economic and population powerhouses to include India, Japan, and South Korea.

A huge army of two hundred million people will travel from the East, across the Euphrates River to the Valley of Armageddon. It said to the sixth angel who had the trumpet, "Release the four angels who are bound at the great river Euphrates." And the four angels who had been kept ready for this very hour and day and month and year were released to kill a third of mankind.

The number of the mounted troops was two hundred million. I heard their number. (Revelation 9:14-16)

Three evil spirits are now speaking through the dragon (Satan), the beast (Antichrist), and the false prophet. Their message is to world leaders—to send armies to Armageddon. Then I saw three evil spirits that looked like frogs; they came out of the mouth of the dragon, out of the mouth of the beast and out of the mouth of the false prophet. They are spirits of demons performing miraculous signs, and they go out to the kings of the whole world, to gather them for the battle on the great day of God Almighty. (Revelation 16:13-14)

At Armageddon, these armies will attempt to destroy Jesus as he returns to earth. Then they gathered the kings together to the place that in Hebrew is called Armageddon. (Revelation 16:16) The battle of Armageddon is the final battle of this Age (Revelation 19:11-21; Zechariah 14:2-9).

THE SEVEN BOWLS

Poured on the ...	Result
1. Land	Sores upon people with the mark of the beast (Revelation 16:2)
2. Sea	The sea turns to blood; the sea dies (Revelation 16:3)
3. Rivers	Rivers and springs turn into blood (Revelation 16:4-7)
4. Sun	Sun scorches people with intense heat (Revelation 16:8-9)
5. Throne of the beast	Kingdom of the beast is plunged into darkness (Revelation 16:10-11)
6. Euphrates River	River dries to allow armies to cross on march to Armageddon (Revelation 16: 12-16)
7. Into the air	Large earthquakes and hailstones collapse cities, to include Rome (Revelation 16:17-21)

BOWL #7: The seventh angel poured out his bowl into the air, and out of the temple came a loud voice from the throne, saying, "It is done!" Then there came flashes of lightning, rumblings, pearls of thunder and a severe earthquake. No earthquake like it has ever occurred since man has been on earth, so tremendous was the quake. The great city split into three parts, and the cities of the nations collapsed. God remembered Babylon the Great and gave her the cup filled with the wine of the fury of his wrath. Every island fled away and the mountains could not be found. From the sky huge hailstones of about a hundred pounds each fell upon men. And they cursed God on account of the plague of hail, because the plague was so terrible. (Revelation 16:17-21)

God reserves the final judgment for those who kept religious traditions from ancient Babylon; it features the destruction of Rome. God gives this city of the false king (Antichrist) and the false high priest (Pope) the cup filled with the wine of the fury of his wrath. "When the kings of the earth who committed adultery with her and shared her luxury see the smoke of her burning, they will weep and mourn over her. Terrified at her torment, they will stand far off and cry: "Woe! Woe, O great city, O Babylon, city of power! In one hour your doom has come!" (Revelation 18:9-10)

13. Babylon

Proverb: All roads lead to Rome.

Enter through the narrow gate. For wide is the gate and broad is the road that leads to destruction, and many enter through it. But small is the gate and narrow the road that leads to life, and only a few find it. (Matthew 7:13-14; Revelation 17:1 – 18:24)

When ancient empires conquered, the victor frequently took authority over the conquered nation's religion. For example, in 170 BC, King Antiochus Epiphanes ruled Israel. He aggressively imposed the Greek culture and religion on Israel by erecting a statue of the Greek god Zeus at the Temple Mount in Jerusalem.

The Roman Empire integrated the religious practices of conquered nations into its religion. The Roman Empire took control over Christian religion in 312 AD. A Roman emperor, Constantine, made Catholic teaching preeminent. Declaring himself the supreme pontiff (Pontifex Maximus), Constantine held authority over all other pontiffs. Because of this entanglement between the church and governing state, the Catholic Church accepted traditions and bad doctrine that originated in ancient Babylon. Even today, Roman Catholic tradition holds a status equal to scripture; scripture is interpreted a manner that validates tradition.¹

Revelation depicts a Roman Church that shares in the corruption of the Roman Empire. It describes this empire (beast) and church (prostitute woman) as entwined. The woman you saw is the great city that rules over the kings of the earth. (Revelation 17:18) The capital city and church are the same city, Rome.

Scriptures depict the Roman Church as a woman, named Babylon. Then the angel said to me: "Why are you astonished? I will explain to you the mystery of the woman and of the beast she rides, which has the seven heads and ten horns. (Revelation 17:7) Rome is a mystery with two components—the first is a woman who is a prostitute (Roman Church) and the other half is a beast (Roman Empire). While the first is preeminent in religion, the other seeks world conquest.

The relationship the Roman Church shares with world leaders is based on adultery—a shared disloyalty to God. With Babylon, the kings of the earth committed adultery. (Revelation 18:3) Babylon commits adultery against God by being faithful to the kings (leaders) of this world, but not to the king of heaven. Pope John Paul II was a typical Roman Catholic leader. Eighty prime ministers, presidents, kings, and queens attended his funeral; it was the largest gathering of statesmen in history.²

Countless people, even many believers, continue to think highly of the Roman Church; the inhabitants of the earth are intoxicated with her religion and traditions. With her the kings of the earth committed adultery and the inhabitants of the earth were intoxicated with the wine of her adulteries." (Revelation 17:2)

Bread and Idolatry

Babylon is dressed like a prostitute in purple and scarlet with gold, precious stones and pearls. However, what really offends God is contained inside a golden cup, which is her chalice. The woman was dressed in purple and scarlet, and was glittering with gold, precious stones and pearls. She held a golden cup in her hand, filled with abominable things and the filth of her adulteries. (Revelation 17:4) Babylon worships the contents of the golden cup instead of God.

Sacraments in the Catholic Church promote the alleged ability of priests to perform miracles. For example, priests are supposedly able to transform bread into the body of Jesus. Catholics call this transformation “transubstantiation.” Concerning Babylon, there is a golden cup in her hand that is filled with the filth of her adulteries. Catholic doctrine says through transubstantiation, its chalice contains the literal Body of Christ—and therefore this bread is worshiped as being God.

The Wrong Rock

Roman religion established the office of Pontiff (pope). This position, thought to have started with Peter, actually began hundreds of years before Jesus. For example, Julius Caesar became Pontifex Maximus in 63 BC. Caesar Augustus became Pontifex in 12 BC, and held that position at the time of Christ.

Julius Caesar as Pontiff Coin is a Denarius – cited in Mark 12:16 and Luke 20:24-25

The idea that there should be a Christian pontiff resulted from the misinterpretation of a single scripture. Jesus said, “And I tell you that you are Peter, and on this rock I will build my church, and the gates of Hades will not overcome it.” (Matthew 16:18) However, the “rock” upon which the true church was built was Jesus, not Pope Peter (Isaiah 26:4; Psalm 42:9; Ephesians 2:20-21). Even Peter disagreed with Roman Catholic interpretation; he identified Jesus as the primary rock, the cornerstone of the church.

For in Scripture it says:

*“See, I lay a stone in Zion, a chosen and precious cornerstone,
and the one who trusts in him will never be put to shame.”* (1 Peter 2:6)

God sends a clear message to people in a pagan church. Many are authentic believers who have been deceived.

Then I heard another voice from heaven say:

*“Come out of her, my people, so that you will not share in her sins,
so that you will not receive any of her plagues;
for her sins are piled up to heaven,
and God has remembered her crimes.* (Revelation 18:4-5)

This is the call that so many people trusting in a religious tradition have already heard, to leave tradition and follow Christ. This message has filled countless scripture-based churches with former Roman Catholics.

14. Second Coming

First-century Israelis longed for a redeemer who would destroy the Roman Empire. They turned against Jesus when his salvation provided spiritual deliverance from sin, and not military deliverance from Rome. At the Second Coming, Jesus will destroy the world empires and deliver Israel. As enemy soldiers overrun Jerusalem, Christ returns to earth – riding a horse – to defend Israel. As Christ returns the battle shifts from a war against Israel to a war against God. Then I saw the beast and the kings of the earth and their armies gathered together to make war against the rider on the horse and his army. (Revelation 19:19)

Accompanied by the armies of heaven, Jesus will rescue Israel. From the Valley of Jezreel (Armageddon) the nations will attempt to destroy Jesus as he returns. I saw heaven standing open and there before me was a white horse, whose rider is called Faithful and True. With justice he judges and makes war. His eyes are like blazing fire, and on his head are many crowns. He has a name written on him that no one knows but he himself. He is dressed in a robe dipped in blood, and his name is the Word of God. The armies of heaven were following him, riding on white horses and dressed in fine linen, white and clean. (Revelation 19:11-14)

Zechariah foretold that Israel will be on the brink of defeat when Jesus returns. I will gather all the nations to Jerusalem to fight against it; the city will be captured, the houses ransacked, and the women raped. Half of the city will go into exile, but the rest of the people will not be taken from the city. Then the Lord will go out and fight against those nations, as he fights in the day of battle. On that day his feet will stand on the Mount of Olives, east of Jerusalem, and the Mount of Olives will be split in two from east to west, forming a great valley, with half of the mountain moving north and half moving south. (Zechariah 14:2-4)

Jesus simply speaks and his enemies die. Out of his mouth comes a sharp sword, with which to strike down the nations. (Revelation 19:15) The rest of them were killed with the sword that came out of the mouth of the rider on the horse. (Revelation 19:21) And then the lawless one will be revealed whom the Lord Jesus will overthrow with the breath of his mouth and destroy by the splendor of his coming. (2 Thessalonians 2:8)

In heaven there is a celebration of incorruptible flesh called the wedding supper of the Lamb (Revelation 19:7-9). Jesus spoke of this feast at the Last Supper; it is the greatest Passover celebration ever. When the hour came, Jesus and his apostles reclined at the table. And he said to them, 'I have eagerly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer. For I tell you, I will not eat it again until it finds fulfillment in the kingdom of God.' (Luke 22:14-16) Jesus was saying concerning this future Passover meal, "I will eat it again; it finds fulfillment in the kingdom of God."

15. Future Ages

Scriptures provide a glimpse into the future Millennium Age and New Jerusalem Age. Two events shape the character of the Millennium Age. First, an angel binds Satan and throws him into the Abyss for a thousand years. Then Israeli believers who died during the final 43 months of the end-times are resurrected. With Satan removed from the scene and all God's people resurrected from the dead, the Millennium Age occurs. Following the Millennium is the final resurrection. These people are brought before the Great White Throne to face judgment and eternity in the lake of fire. Then the New Jerusalem, which is the eternal heaven, descends to earth.

BEYOND THE END-TIMES

Timeframe	Events
Pre-Millennium	Satan is bound for 1,000 years Resurrection of Israelis martyred the final 3 ½ years
Millennium Age	Satan is released at the end of 1,000 years Enemies prepare to attack Jerusalem; God stops this attack
Pre-New Jerusalem	The Great White Throne Judgment – of the damned
New Jerusalem Age	New Jerusalem, a garden city, is placed on a restored earth

Pre-Millennium Events

At the end of our Post-Flood Age, an angel binds Satan and casts him into the Abyss for a thousand years. I saw an angel coming down out of heaven, having the key to the Abyss and holding in his hand a great chain. He seized the dragon, that ancient serpent, who is the devil, or Satan, and bound him for a thousand years. (Revelation 20:1-2) Accordingly the Millennium Age is described as a thousand years of peace. Yet even with Satan bound, sins resulting from human weaknesses continue. The prideful boasting of what we have (possessions), or boasting about what we do (position, ability), or lusting the things we see—come from weakness in our own character (1 John 2:16).

Also Israelis who died during the final 43 months are resurrected, bringing to life all God's people. I saw thrones on which were seated those who had been given authority to judge. And I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded because of their testimony for Jesus and because of the word of God. They had not worshipped the beast or his image and had not received his mark on their foreheads or their hands. They came to life and reigned with Christ a thousand years. (Revelation 20:4)

Those with authority to judge encompass all believers (1 Corinthians 6:2; 1 Corinthians 6:3). Those beheaded are predominately end-time Israeli martyrs. Throughout history countless Jews have been beheaded; this execution type started when Muhammad beheaded Jews in Medina. All believers – both Jew and Gentile – will reign with Christ during the Millennium.

Inserted is a reference to the fate of the damned, and a contrast is made to the good fortune of believers. (The rest of the dead did not come to life until the thousand years were ended.) This is the first resurrection. Blessed and holy are those who have part in the first resurrection. The second death has no power them, but they will be priests of God and of Christ and will reign with him for a thousand years. (Revelation 20:5-6)

That the rest of the dead are not resurrected until the thousand years were ended—refers to the final and largest harvest, which resurrects persons bound for hell.

The first six harvests are grouped together; the term to describe them is the “first resurrection.” The people who take part in the first resurrection will reign with Christ during the Millennium Age and enjoy eternal life.

The Millennium Age

God will restore the earth from the ecological catastrophes and make it fit for habitation. Just as the Ark took Noah’s family from the Pre-Flood Age into the next Age, there will be Israelis alive at the return of Christ who move from the Post-Flood Age into the Millennium Age. Persons born into the Millennium Age will live to be hundreds of years old, like the extended life spans typical in the Pre-Flood Age (Genesis 5:5, 9:29). During the Millennium Age, Jesus will reign on earth as King. His people will reign in subordinate roles.

The following reads like an eternal heaven. However because people still die it must be referring to the Millennium Age. “Behold, I will create a new heavens and a new earth. The former things will not be remembered, nor will they come to mind. But be glad and rejoice forever in what I will create, for I will create Jerusalem to be a delight and its people a joy. I will rejoice over Jerusalem and take delight in my people; the sound of weeping and of crying will be heard in it no more. "Never again will there be in it an infant who lives but a few days, or an old man who does not live out his years; he who dies at a hundred will be thought a mere youth; he who fails to reach a hundred will be considered accursed. They will build houses and dwell in them; they will plant vineyards and eat their fruit. No longer will they build houses and others live in them, or plant and others eat. For as the days of a tree, so will be the days of my people; my chosen ones will long enjoy the works of their hands. They will not toil in vain or bear children doomed to misfortune; for they will be a people blessed by the LORD, they and their descendants with them. Before they call I will answer; while they are still speaking I will hear. The wolf and the lamb will feed together, and the lion will eat straw like the ox, but dust will be the serpent's food. They will neither harm nor destroy on all my holy mountain," says the LORD. (Isaiah 65:17-25)

The Millennium Age ends with Satan being released to organize the enemies of God. When the thousand years are over, Satan will be released from his prison and will go out to deceive the nations in the four corners of the earth—Gog and Magog—to gather them for battle. In number they are like the sand on the seashore. They marched across the breadth of the earth and surrounded the camp of God's people, the city he loves. But fire came down from heaven and devoured them. (Revelation 20:7-9)

The Great White Throne

The final harvest follows the Millennium Age. This harvest resurrects people destined for hell and brings them before Jesus' throne. Then I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it. Earth and sky fled from his presence, and there was no place for them. And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Another book was opened, which is the book of life. The dead were judged according to what they had done as recorded in the books. The sea gave up the dead that were in it, and death and Hades gave up the dead that were in them, and each person was judged according to what he had done. Then death and Hades were thrown into the lake of fire. The lake of fire is the second death. If anyone's name was not found written in the book of life, he was thrown into the lake of fire. (Revelation 20:11-15)

These unfortunate people will stand before the great white throne of Jesus Christ. Even after being resurrected, this pathetic group is still described as the dead. Decayed bodies are resurrected in no better condition than at the time of death. The damned will have a body that is constantly dying, but unable to die. Jesus said that hell was a place where, 'their worm does not die, and the fire is not quenched.' (Mark 9:48) The word "worm" refers to maggots. People are also tormented with burning sulfur (Revelation 14:10; 21:8). Organic sulfur causes the odor associated with rotten eggs, and sulfur dioxide has a suffocating odor. The book of life records names of all who have eternal life (Exodus 32:31-33; Revelation 3:5; Philippians 4:3).

God will judge his people with a kinder and gentler judgment, featuring rewards. For we will all stand before God's judgment seat (Romans 14:10). During this judgment, fire will test the quality of each man's work. If what he has built survives, he will receive his reward (1 Corinthians 3:13-14).

New Jerusalem

God sends the holy city, New Jerusalem, to earth. This final heaven will be a garden city where God dwells with his people. The tree of life seen the Garden of Eden, will be in this Garden of Jerusalem (Genesis 2:9; 3:22; Revelation 22:2).

I saw the Holy City, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride beautifully dressed for her husband. And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, "Now the dwelling of God is with men, and he will live with them. They will be his people, and God himself will be with them and be their God. He will wipe every tear from their eyes. There will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain, for the old order of things has passed away." (Revelation 21:2-4)

Appendix A: Harvests

Each person will participate in an end-time harvest. One of these harvests will transport you to heaven or to hell. In the following parable, a person is either wheat bound for heaven, or a weed bound for hell. Jesus told them another parable: “The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field. But while everyone was sleeping, his enemy came and sowed weeds among the wheat and went away. When the wheat sprouted and formed heads, then the weeds also appeared. “The owner’s servants came to him and said, ‘Sir, didn’t you sow good seed in your field? Where then did the weeds come from?’ “An enemy did this.’ He replied. “The servants asked him, ‘Do you want us to go and pull them up?’ “No,’ he answered, ‘because while you are pulling the weeds, you may root up the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest. At that time I will tell the harvesters: First collect the weeds and tie them in bundles to be burned; then gather the wheat and bring it into my barn.” (Matthew 13:24-30)

Jesus later interpreted this parable, making its meaning clear. Then he left the crowd and went into the house. His disciples came to him and said, “Explain to us the parable of the weeds in the field.” He answered, “The one who sowed the good seed is the Son of Man. The field is the world, and the good seed stands for the sons of the kingdom. The weeds are the sons of the evil one, and the enemy who sows them is the devil. The harvest is the end of the age, and the harvesters are angels. (Matthew 13:36-39)

Most prophecy interpreters maintain that there is just one end-time rapture. However when challenged most agree that the two witnesses, whom God resurrects and then immediately transports to heaven, participate in a rapture that is separate from other believers. In fact, nothing in scripture prevents a third rapture from occurring.

Recognizing that there are multiple end-time raptures also reconciles the two major schools of thought concerning the rapture. Countless scholars believe the rapture occurs at the start of the seven-year end-times. Other scholars, with equal academic credentials, believe the rapture is at the mid-point of the seven years. The fact is that a rapture occurs at both places.

Appendix B: Seven Years

The time allotted to end-time events is limited to seven years.
Daniel foretold a 490-year timeline; 483 years occurred just as predicted.
Based on that track record, the remaining end-time seven years are inevitable.

God limited the time allotted to end-time events to seven years. These seven years are part of a larger 490-year timeline that the prophet Daniel described—in just four verses. Realize that 483 of the 490 years have already occurred, exactly as predicted. In the following graph, events (1) and (2) occurred exactly as Daniel predicted in 530 BC. Historical validation of this scriptural material as legitimate prophecy, capable of flawlessly predicting future events, is critical. It demonstrates the ability of these same scriptures to foretell the still-future end-time events.

At first these verses appear exceptionally difficult. Start with the summary below.

Daniel 9:24-27	Paraphrase of Main Points
“Seventy ‘sevens’ are decreed for your people and your holy city to finish transgression, to put an end to sin, to atone for wickedness, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal up vision and prophecy and to anoint the most holy. (Daniel 9:24)	There is a 490-year period for Israel and the city of Jerusalem, during which time God’s will for our Age will be completed. 70 x 7 years = 490 years
“Know and understand this: From the issuing of the decree to restore and rebuild Jerusalem until the Anointed One, the ruler, comes, there will be seven ‘sevens,’ and sixty-two ‘sevens.’ It will be rebuilt with streets and a trench, but in times of trouble. (Daniel 9:25)	It is important to understand how these 490 years are distributed. From the issuing of King Artaxerxes’ (then future) decree to restore and rebuild Jerusalem (resulting from the Babylon captivity), until the Christ comes to Jerusalem, the week of Jesus’ execution, will be 483 years. (7 x 7 years) + (62 x 7 years) = 483 years
After the sixty-two ‘sevens,’ the Anointed One will be cut off and will have nothing. The people of the ruler who will come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. The end will come like a flood: War will continue until the end, and desolations have been decreed. (Daniel 9:26)	Christ will be stripped of everything and be executed. Then the people of the future Antichrist, the Romans, will destroy Jerusalem and the Second Temple, which occurred in 70 AD. The end-times will come upon the world like a flood. It will not be pleasant—wars will continue until the end.
He will confirm a covenant with many for one ‘seven.’ In the middle of the ‘seven’ he will put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on a wing of the temple he will set up an abomination that causes desolation, until the end that is decreed is poured out on him. (Daniel 9:27)	Antichrist will confirm a peace treaty with many nations for a ‘seven’-year period. In the middle of the seven years, he will put an end to the Jewish Old Testament sacrifice and offering (yet to be reestablished) at the (yet to be rebuilt) Temple, violating the treaty. Inside the temple, he will set up an altar to himself. Antichrist is destined for a horrific demise. (7 x 7 years) + (62 x 7 years) + (1 x 7 years) = 490 years

The Overview

“Seventy ‘sevens’ are decreed for your people and your holy city to finish transgression, to put an end to sin, to atone for wickedness, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal up vision and prophecy and to anoint the most holy. (Daniel 9:24)

There is a 490-year timeline for Israel and the city of Jerusalem, to complete God’s purposes (70 x 7 years = 490 years). The counting of the 490 years began in 445 BC when King Artaxerxes wrote the foretold decree to restore and rebuild Jerusalem (Ezra 7:11-28). God halted the counting of these years only seven years before the 490 years were completed—at 483 years. This interruption coincided with the crucifixion of Jesus and the establishment of the New Testament covenant. Accordingly there remains one final seven-year period for Israel, which will occur during the end-times.

Israel

Know and understand this: From the issuing of the decree to restore and re-build Jerusalem until the Anointed One, the ruler, comes, there will be seven 'sevens,' and sixty-two 'sevens.' It will be rebuilt with streets and a trench, but in times of trouble. (Daniel 9:25)

Daniel wrote prophecy that established a 490-year timeline for Israel in 530 BC. He foretold that the Anointed One (Christ) would come to Jerusalem 483 years after the issuing of the decree to restore and re-build Jerusalem. King Artaxerxes issued that decree in 445 BC. Then as predicted, 483 years (of 360 days) later Jesus entered Jerusalem the week of the crucifixion. The math is $(7 \times 7) + (62 \times 7) = 483$ years. Sir Robert Anderson calculated the dates as being from March 14, 445 BC (1 Nisan in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes) to April 6, 32 AD (10 Nisan the year Jesus enters Jerusalem).

Some historians dispute these dates. Jewish years were shorter than 365 days; accordingly, current calendars do not depict the elapsed time as 483 years. Other variables such as leap years make conversion to ancient calendars difficult. To resolve controversy set aside calculations of exact dates. Only one person claimed to be the Messiah at the time the 483 years expired — Jesus of Nazareth.

The 483 years in the past are one ‘seven’ year period short of the 490 years. This final seven-year period is reserved for the end-times. The initial 483 years ended at the time of Jesus’ crucifixion, when the “Time of the Jews” gave way to the “Time of the Gentiles.”

Crucifixion to the End Times

After the sixty-two 'sevens,' the Anointed One will be cut off and will have nothing. (Daniel 9:26a)

Daniel foretold that the Anointed One (Messiah) would be cut off (executed). Events the week of the crucifixion signified an end to the initial time of the Jews. Jesus cursed a fig tree, a symbol for the nation of Israel. The next day as they were leaving Bethany, Jesus was hungry. Seeing in the distance a fig tree in leaf, he went to find out if it had any fruit. When he reached it, he found nothing but leaves, because it was not the season for figs. Then he said to the tree, "May no one ever eat fruit from you again." And his disciples heard him say it. (Mark 11:12-14) The next day as they went along, they saw the fig tree withered from the roots. (Mark 11:20)

This same week Jesus also rejected the Israeli religious system. On reaching Jerusalem, Jesus entered the temple area and began driving out those who were buying and selling there. He overturned the tables of the money changers and the benches of those selling doves, and would not allow anyone to carry merchandise through the temple courts. And as he taught them, he said, "Is it not written: 'My house will be called a house of prayer for all nations'? But you have made it 'a den of robbers.'" (Mark 11:15-17)

The people of the ruler who will come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. (Daniel 9:26b)

Daniel is referring to the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 AD. This destruction occurred because Israel had rejected its Messiah. The people (Romans) who destroyed the city (Jerusalem) and the sanctuary (Temple) were to be the people of the ruler who will come. In other words, the invading (Roman) army was to come from the (people of the) future Antichrist's kingdom. Therefore, the kingdom of the Antichrist is a Roman Empire.

Jesus also foretold the destruction of the Temple. Jesus left the temple and was walking away when his disciples came up to him to call his attention to its buildings. "Do you see all these things?" he asked. "I tell you the truth, not one stone here will be left on another; every one will be thrown down." (Matthew 24:1-2) The Roman army ensured that not one stone was left standing on top of another to ensure that all gold and other treasures were plundered from the Temple.

Because these stones were scattered, when Islamic people came to Jerusalem to build on the site of the first two Israeli Temples, they built on a different location. Accordingly, the Islamic shrines are on the wrong location. This error will allow the third Israeli temple to be built, exactly as prophecy foretold, without destroying the politically sensitive Islamic shrines. This rebuilt Temple is mentioned in Bible prophecy; it is certain to exist during the end-times (Revelation 11:1-2).

The Final Seven Years

The end will come like a flood: War will continue until the end, and desolations have been decreed. (Daniel 9:26c)

Just as no person can escape a comprehensive flood; no person living on earth will escape the end-times.

He will confirm a covenant with many for one 'seven.' In the middle of the 'seven' he will put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on a wing of the temple, he will set up an abomination that causes desolation, until the end that is decreed is poured out on him. (Daniel 9:27)

The end-times start with a seven-year agreement, which Antichrist will break after three and a half years. He will travel to the Temple Mount, where the rebuilt Temple will have reinstated the Old Testament practice of blood sacrifice and offering. Antichrist will stop blood sacrifice, and announce that he is God. Paul said concerning Antichrist that he sets himself up in God's temple, proclaiming himself to be God. (2 Thessalonians 2:4)

God will respond to Antichrist. He will lift the veil that has blinded Israel for two millenniums, and all Israel will see Jesus as its Messiah. The entire nation of Israel will turn to Jesus. The Old Testament described the moment Israel will accept its crucified Messiah—the one pierced on the cross: And I will pour out on the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of grace and supplication. They will look on me, the one they have pierced, and they will mourn for him as one mourns for an only child, and grieve bitterly for him as one grieves for a first-born son. On that day the weeping in Jerusalem will be great ...” (Zechariah 12:10-11).

Paul also wrote with certainty of Israel’s accepting Jesus. I do not want you to be ignorant of this mystery, brothers, so that you may not be conceited: Israel has experienced a hardening in part until the full number of the Gentiles has come in. And so all Israel will be saved (Romans 11:25-26). At the time all Israel is saved, unsaved Gentiles’ hearts will be hardened, similar to how God hardened Pharaoh’s heart in Egypt (Exodus 10:27). Gentiles will have accepted the mark of the beast.

“TIME OF THE JEWS” and “TIME OF THE GENTILES”

Time of the Jews	Time of the Gentiles	Time of the Jews (end-time)
ISRAEL: BELIEF (Old Testament)	ISRAEL: UNBELIEF (New Testament)	UNBELIEF (3 ½ Years)	BELIEF IN CHRIST (3 ½ Years)
		Two witnesses testify in Jerusalem; Israel does not respond.	Worldwide persecution of Israel.

Appendix c: Temple Mount

After Moses led Israel out of Egyptian slavery, the Israelis erected a tent (Exodus 38:21-31). They placed the arc of the covenant inside the tent; the arc was God's dwelling place on earth. Centuries later Israel moved the arc into the First Temple on the Temple Mount. This First Temple was an initiative of King David (2 Samuel 7:2). His son, King Solomon, actually built the Temple (1 Kings 6:1). Construction took seven years; the labor force was 30,000 men (1 Kings 5:13; 2 Chronicles 2:2). Outside the Temple, Israel sacrificed lambs to atone for sin.

Jerusalem, with its Temple Mount, fell to King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon in 586 BC (Jeremiah 39:1). Babylon took the nation of Israel captive. In 539 BC, Darius the Mede overthrew the conquering Babylonians and imposed the Medo-Persia Empire (Daniel 5:30-31). The following year Cyrus, King of Persia, released a large number of Israelis and instructed those returning to Jerusalem to rebuild the Temple (Ezra 1:1-3). In 515 BC, the Temple was rebuilt; this second building on Mount Moriah became known as the Second Temple (Ezra 6:15).

Joseph and Mary dedicated Jesus at this Second Temple (Luke 2:27). This also is where Jesus' searching parents found him teaching as a young man (Luke 2:41-50). Jesus forcefully cleared profiteering merchants from this Temple (John 2:13-16). Jesus and Apostles preached at the Temple (John 2:13-16; Acts 3:1-10). When Jesus died, the curtain (veil) inside the Temple that separated the Holy Place from the Most Holy Place tore from top to bottom (Exodus 26:33; Matthew 27:51; Mark 15:38; Luke 23:45). This tearing signified that man now had unimpeded access to God.

Because Israel rejected its Messiah, Jesus foretold this Temple would be destroyed (Matthew 24:1-2). This occurred when Israel fell to the Roman Army in 70 AD. With the Islamic capture of Jerusalem centuries later, the Dome of the Rock shrine and the Al Aqsa Mosque were built on the Temple Mount. The most visible building on the Temple Mount today is the Dome of the Rock, which is built over a "sacred" rock. Islam understands that on God's holy mountain, this Temple Mount, that a rock should be honored. Unfortunately Islam is blinded to the real Rock—Jesus himself (Isaiah 26:4).

THE ROCK OF ISLAM

Appendix D: Time Remains

Watch the evolving Beast out of the Sea.
Its status relates to the time remaining.

By watching the European Economic Area (EEA), which is the beast out of the sea, it is possible to approximate how much time remains before Antichrist takes control of Europe. The Roman beast, with seven heads and ten horns, began with eighteen nations. It must undergo transformation to become the ultimate final Roman Empire, ready for the reign of Antichrist (Revelation 17:10-13). At the formation of the EEA-beast, ten nations of the European Community (EC) forfeited their authority to govern to the EC; these nations are the beast's ten horns (Revelation 17:12-13).

The seven "head" nations on the beast are seven countries that were not subordinate to the EC; the six European Free Trade Association (EFTA) nations when joining the EEA-beast did not forfeit self-government. The seventh head of the beast is Germany. There is historical precedent that allows the identification of Germany as the primary head of the end-time Roman Empire beast.

Pope John XII crowned the King of Germany, Otto the Great, the first emperor of the Holy Roman Empire on 2 February 962. Under Otto and his successors the land that is now Germany became the center of the Holy Roman Empire. German princes elected one of their peers as King of the Germans, after which the Pope would crown this King as Emperor. The 1512 Diet of Cologne changed the name of this empire to the Holy Roman Empire of the German Nation. It was not until 1806 AD that Napoleon forced this empire out of existence.

German power continued after the end of the Holy Roman Empire. In World War I, Germany essentially went alone against nations from Europe and North America. The World War II Axis alliance united the beast's body (Rome/Italy) with its primary head (Germany).

The forfeiture of governmental power of ten nations to the beast occurred during the watch of ten national leaders, called kings. The following describes their transfer of authority to the EC: The ten horns you saw are ten kings who have not yet received a kingdom, but who for one hour will receive authority as kings along with the beast. They have one purpose and will give their power and authority to the beast. (Revelation 17:12-13) The ten horns were the twelve nations of the EC, minus two nations. The two subtracted nations are Germany (the seventh head) and Rome/Italy (the body).

THE ROMAN BEAST MORPHS

	Active Heads	Fallen Heads	Horns	Body	Total Nations	Situation
European Economic Community	United the first six nations of the 6 + 6 + 6 = 18 nation group				6	6
European Community	1	0	10	1	12	6 + 6
European Economic Area	7	0	10	1	18	6 + 6 + 6
European Community/ European Union	4	3	10	1	18+	6 + 6 + 6 + 3 3 heads fall
Future Events (Revelation 17:10-11)
Expanded European Community/ European Union	2	5	10	1	18+	6 + 6 + 6 + 5 5 heads fall
	Of these two final active heads, one is the final ruler of that nation. The seventh and last ruler of Europe to fall still has not yet come; but when he does come, he must remain for a little while. This sole ruler is to rule for a period of time – will remain in power for a little while.					6 + 6 + 6 + 6 6 heads fall. One king left.
Antichrist Rules Europe	This seventh head is made subordinate to the eighth king, who is the Antichrist.					All seven heads fall under Antichrist
	0	7	10	1	18+

7 Heads	Seven nations retained decision-making authority, self-governance, at the birth of the European Economic Area. These nations retained the ability to “think” for themselves; each such nation is a “head.”
10 Horns	These nations forfeited sovereignty and authority to the Roman beast. Each gave up its right, ability, and authority to fully rule and reason. As only a center of power, each such nation is a “horn.”
1 Body	The body is an implied anatomical part; the body is where Babylon sits. The “seven hills” further describe the body of the beast.

A Fatal Wound

There was a fatal wound, a splitting of one head on the beast; one of the heads of the beast seemed to have had a fatal wound, but the fatal wound had been healed (Revelation 13:3). The wounded head was Germany, which was split immediately following World War II. It became two separate nations, West Germany (Federal Republic of Germany) and the Russian (Soviet Union) controlled East Germany (German Democratic Republic). Splitting a head normally results in a fatal wound. However this beast's fatal wound healed when the Soviet Union released East Germany November 9, 1989.

Falling Heads

Heads fall so that just one person, Antichrist, rules over Europe. The EEA-beast's seven heads correspond to seven kings, who are the leaders of seven nations (Revelation 17:9-10). The following is a description of heads falling: They are also seven kings. Five have fallen, one is, the other has not yet come; but when he does come, he must remain for a little while. (Revelation 17:10) At a specific point, the following will describe the seven "head" nations: five of the seven governments (kings) will have fallen. In 1993 the EC became the European Union (EU); accordingly, the five EFTA nations will forfeit authority to the EU.

This forfeiture is already underway. In 1995, three heads of the EEA-beast became members of the EU, as the EU grew from twelve to fifteen nations. The three "head" nations that have fallen are Austria, Finland, and Sweden. Iceland submitted an application for EU membership in 2009; however as of June 2013 negotiations between Iceland and EU stopped. Should Iceland's application eventually result in membership, the beast would have four fallen heads. Then only one more EFTA nation that was a 1994 member of the EEA-beast are needed to abandon EFTA membership to join the EU (1994 being the year of formation of the EEA-beast). Only two nations meet that criterion: Norway and Liechtenstein.

Tracking the movement of these nations in relation to EU membership serves to monitor the approaching time when five heads will have fallen. Economic issues cause EFTA nations to refrain from joining the EEA-beast. Norway enjoys one of the highest per-capita incomes in the world; it has substantial oil and gas reserves that increase national sentiment to retain sovereignty. Liechtenstein has the highest gross domestic product per person in the world. Iceland is hesitant to join due to contentious issues concerning its fishing industry.

After these five heads have fallen then one (king) is, the other (king) has not yet come; but when he does come, he must remain for only a little while. (Revelation 17:10) In other words, one (of the remaining kings) is still in power, and the other (one last king to rule in Europe before the Antichrist) is yet to come; and when he does come into power, he will remain in power for a while. Accordingly, this seventh king will rule for several years.

Antichrist will rule after the preceding seven kings have lost authority. Antichrist is the eighth and final ruler. The beast who once was, and now is not, is an eighth king. He belongs to the seven and is going to his destruction. (Revelation 17:11)

Swami Vivekananda - A Biography by Swami Nikhilananda

PREFACE

Swami Vivekananda's inspiring personality was well known both in India and in America during the last decade of the nineteenth century and the first decade of the twentieth. The unknown monk of India suddenly leapt into fame at the Parliament of Religions held in Chicago in 1893, at which he represented Hinduism. His vast knowledge of Eastern and Western culture as well as his deep spiritual insight, fervid eloquence, brilliant conversation, broad human sympathy, colourful personality, and handsome figure made an irresistible appeal to the many types of Americans who came in contact with him. People who saw or heard Vivekananda even once still cherish his memory after a lapse of more than half a century.

In America Vivekananda's mission was the interpretation of India's spiritual culture, especially in its Vedantic setting. He also tried to enrich the religious consciousness of the Americans through the rational and humanistic teachings of the Vedanta philosophy. In America he became India's spiritual ambassador and pleaded eloquently for better understanding between India and the New World in order to create a healthy synthesis of East and West, of religion and science.

In his own motherland Vivekananda is regarded as the patriot saint of modern India and an inspirer of her dormant national consciousness. To the Hindus he preached the ideal of a strength-giving and man-making religion. Service to man as the visible manifestation of the Godhead was the special form of worship he advocated for the Indians, devoted as they were to the rituals and myths of their ancient faith. Many political leaders of India have publicly acknowledged their indebtedness to Swami Vivekananda.

The Swami's mission was both national and international. A lover of mankind, he strove to promote peace and human brotherhood on the spiritual foundation of the Vedantic Oneness of existence. A mystic of the highest order, Vivekananda had a direct and intuitive experience of Reality. He derived his ideas from that unfailing source of wisdom and often presented them in the soul-stirring language of poetry.

The natural tendency of Vivekananda's mind, like that of his Master, Ramakrishna, was to soar above the world and forget itself in contemplation of the Absolute. But another part of his personality bled at the sight of human suffering in East and West alike. It might appear that his mind seldom found a point of rest in its oscillation between contemplation of God and service to man. Be that as it may, he chose, in obedience to a higher call, service to man as his mission on earth; and this choice has endeared him to people in the West, Americans in particular.

In the course of a short life of thirty-nine years (1863-1902), of which only ten were devoted to public activities — and those, too, in the midst of acute physical suffering — he left for posterity his four classics: Jnana-Yoga, Bhakti-Yoga, Karma-Yoga, and Raja-Yoga, all of which are outstanding treatises on Hindu philosophy. In addition, he delivered innumerable lectures, wrote inspired letters in his own hand to his many friends and disciples, composed numerous poems, and acted as spiritual guide to the many seekers who came to him for instruction. He also organized the Ramakrishna Order of monks, which is the most outstanding religious organization of modern India. It is devoted to the propagation of the Hindu spiritual culture not only in the Swami's native land, but also in America and in other parts of the world.

Swami Vivekananda once spoke of himself as a 'condensed India.' His life and teachings are of inestimable value to the West for an understanding of the mind of Asia. William James, the Harvard philosopher, called the Swami the 'paragon of Vedantists.' Max Müller and Paul Deussen, the famous Orientalists of the nineteenth century, held him in genuine respect and affection. 'His words,' writes Romain Rolland, 'are great music, phrases in the style of Beethoven, stirring rhythms like the march of Handel choruses. I cannot touch these sayings of his, scattered as they are through the pages of books, at thirty years' distance, without receiving a thrill through my body like an electric shock. And what shocks, what transports, must have been produced when in burning words they issued from the lips of the hero!'

EARLY YEARS

Swami Vivekananda, the great soul loved and revered in East and West alike as the rejuvenator of Hinduism in India and the preacher of its eternal truths abroad, was born at 6:33, a few minutes before sunrise, on Monday, January 12, 1863. It was the day of the great Hindu festival Makarasamkranti, when special worship is offered to the Ganga by millions of devotees. Thus the future Vivekananda first drew breath when the air above the sacred river not far from the house was reverberating with the prayers, worship, and religious music of thousands of Hindu men and women.

Before Vivekananda was born, his mother, like many other pious Hindu mothers, had observed religious vows, fasted, and prayed so that she might be blessed with a son who would do honour to the family. She requested a relative who was living in Varanasi to offer special worship to the Vireswara Siva of that holy place and seek His blessings; for Siva, the great god of renunciation, dominated her thought. One night she dreamt that this supreme Deity aroused Himself from His meditation and agreed to be born as her son. When she woke she was filled with joy.

The mother, Bhuvaneshwari Devi, accepted the child as a boon from Vireswara Siva and named him Vireswara. The family, however, gave him the name of Narendranath Datta, calling him, for short, Narendra, or more endearingly, Naren.

The Datta family of Calcutta, into which Narendranath had been born, was well known for its affluence, philanthropy, scholarship, and independent spirit. The grand father, Durgacharan, after the birth of his first son, had renounced the world in search of God. The father, Viswanath, an attorney-at-law of the High Court of Calcutta, was versed in English and Persian literature and often entertained himself and his friends by reciting from the Bible and the poetry of Hafiz, both of which, he believed, contained truths unmatched by human thinking elsewhere. He was particularly attracted to the Islamic culture, with which he was familiar because of his close contact with the educated Moslems of North-western India. Moreover, he derived a large income from his law practice and, unlike his father, thoroughly enjoyed the worldly life. An expert in cookery, he prepared rare dishes and liked to share them with his friends. Travel was another of his hobbies. Though agnostic in religion and a mocker of social conventions, he possessed a large heart and often went out of his way to support idle relatives, some of whom were given to drunkenness. Once, when Narendra protested against his lack of judgement, his father said: 'How can you understand the great misery of human life? When you realize the depths of men's suffering, you will sympathize with these unfortunate creatures who try to forget their sorrows, even though only for a short while, in the oblivion created by intoxicants.' Naren's father, however, kept a sharp eye on his children and would not tolerate the slightest deviation from good manners.

Bhuvaneshwari Devi, the mother, was cast in a different mould. Regal in appearance and gracious in conduct, she belonged to the old tradition of Hindu womanhood. As mistress of a large household, she devoted her spare time to sewing and singing, being particularly fond of the great Indian epics, the Ramayana and the Mahabharata, large portions of which she had memorized. She became the special refuge of the poor, and commanded universal respect because of her calm resignation to God, her inner tranquillity, and her dignified detachment in the midst of her many arduous duties. Two sons were born to her besides Narendranath, and four daughters, two of whom died at an early age.

Narendra grew up to be a sweet, sunny-tempered, but very restless boy. Two nurses were necessary to keep his exuberant energy under control, and he was a great tease to his sisters. In order to quiet him, the mother often put his head under the cold-water tap, repeating Siva's name, which always produced the desired effect. Naren felt a child's love for birds and animals, and this characteristic reappeared during the last days of his life. Among his boyhood pets were a family cow, a monkey, a goat, a peacock, and several pigeons and guinea-pigs. The coachman of the family, with his turban, whip, and bright-coloured livery, was his boyhood ideal of a magnificent person, and he often expressed the ambition to be like him when he grew up.

Narendra bore a striking resemblance to the grand-father who had renounced the world to lead a monastic life, and many thought that the latter had been reborn in him. The youngster developed a special fancy for wandering monks, whose very sight would greatly excite him. One day when such a monk appeared at the door and asked for alms, Narendra gave him his only possession, the tiny piece of new cloth that was wrapped round his waist. Thereafter, whenever a monk was seen in the neighbourhood, Narendra would be locked in a room. But even then he would throw out of the window whatever he found near at hand as an offering to the holy man. In the meantime, he was receiving his early education from his mother, who taught him the Bengali alphabet and his first English words, as well as stories from the Ramayana and the Mahabharata.

During his childhood Narendra, like many other Hindu children of his age, developed a love for the Hindu deities, of whom he had learnt from his mother. Particularly attracted by the heroic story of Rama and his faithful consort Sita, he procured their images, bedecked them with flowers, and worshipped them in his boyish fashion. But disillusionment came when he heard someone denounce marriage vehemently as a terrible bondage. When he had thought this over he discarded Rama and Sita as unworthy of worship. In their place he installed the image of Siva, the god of renunciation, who was the ideal of the yogis. Nevertheless he retained a fondness for the Ramayana.

At this time he daily experienced a strange vision when he was about to fall asleep. Closing his eyes, he would see between his eyebrows a ball of light of changing colours, which would slowly expand and at last burst, bathing his whole body in a white radiance. Watching this light he would gradually fall asleep. Since it was a daily occurrence, he regarded the phenomenon as common to all people, and was surprised when a friend denied ever having seen such a thing. Years later, however, Narendra's spiritual teacher, Sri Ramakrishna, said to him, 'Naren, my boy, do you see a light when you go to sleep?' Ramakrishna knew that such a vision indicated a great spiritual past and an inborn habit of meditation. The vision of light remained with Narendra until the end of his life, though later it lost its regularity and intensity.

While still a child Narendra practised meditation with a friend before the image of Siva. He had heard that the holy men of ancient India would become so absorbed in contemplation of God that their hair would grow and gradually enter into the earth, like the roots of the banyan tree. While meditating, therefore, he would open his eyes, now and then, to see if his own hair had entered into the earth. Even so, during meditation, he often became unconscious of the world. On one occasion he saw in a vision a luminous person of serene countenance who was carrying the staff and water-bowl of a monk. The apparition was about to say something when Naren became frightened and left the room. He thought later that perhaps this had been a vision of Buddha.

At the age of six he was sent to a primary school. One day, however, he repeated at home some of the vulgar words that he had learnt from his classmates, whereupon his disgusted parents took him out of the school and appointed a private tutor, who conducted classes for him and some other children of the neighbourhood in the worship hall of the house. Naren soon showed a precocious mind and developed a keen memory. Very easily he learnt by heart the whole of a Sanskrit grammar and long passages from the Ramayana and the Mahabharata. Some of the friendships he made at this age lasted his whole lifetime. At school he was the undisputed leader. When playing his favourite game of 'King and the Court,' he would assume the role of the monarch and assign to his friends the parts of the ministers, commander-in-chief, and other state officials. He was marked from birth to be a leader of men, as his name Narendra (lord of men) signified.

Even at that early age he questioned why one human being should be considered superior to another. In his father's office separate tobacco pipes were provided for clients belonging to the different castes, as orthodox Hindu custom required, and the pipe from which the Moslems smoked was set quite apart. Narendra once smoked tobacco from all the pipes, including the one marked for the Moslems, and when reprimanded, remarked, 'I cannot see what difference it makes.'

During these early years, Narendra's future personality was influenced by his gifted father and his saintly mother, both of whom kept a chastening eye upon him. The father had his own manner of discipline. For example, when, in the course of an argument with his mother, the impetuous boy once uttered a few rude words and the report came to the father, Viswanath did not directly scold his son, but wrote with charcoal on the door of his room: 'Narendra today said to his mother — ' and added the words that had been used. He wanted Narendra's friends to know how rudely he had treated his mother.

Another time Narendra bluntly asked his father, 'What have you done for me?'

Instead of being annoyed, Viswanath said, 'Go and look at yourself in the mirror, and then you will know.'

Still another day, Narendra said to his father, 'How shall I conduct myself in the world?'

'Never show surprise at anything,' his father replied.

This priceless advice enabled Narendranath, in his future chequered life, to preserve his serenity of mind whether dwelling with princes in their palaces or sharing the straw huts of beggars.

The mother, Bhuvaneshwari, played her part in bringing out Narendranath's innate virtues. When he told her, one day, of having been unjustly treated in school, she said to him, in consolation: 'My child, what does it matter, if you are in the right? Always follow the truth without caring about the result. Very often you may have to suffer injustice or unpleasant consequences for holding to the truth; but you must not, under any circumstances, abandon it.' Many years later Narendranath proudly said to an audience, 'I am indebted to my mother for whatever knowledge I have acquired.'

One day, when he was fighting with his play-fellows, Narendra accidentally fell from the porch and struck his forehead against a stone. The wound bled profusely and left a permanent scar over his right eye. Years later, when Ramakrishna heard of this accident, he remarked: 'In a way it was a good thing. If he had not thus lost some of his blood, he would have created havoc in the world with his excessive energy.'

In 1871, at the age of eight, Narendra entered high school. His exceptional intelligence was soon recognized by his teachers and classmates. Though at first reluctant to study English because of its foreign origin, he soon took it up with avidity. But the curriculum consumed very little of his time. He used most of his inexhaustible energy in outside activities. Games of various kinds, many of which he invented or improvised kept him occupied. He made an imitation gas-works and a factory for aerating water, these two novelties having just been introduced in Calcutta. He organized an amateur theatrical company and a gymnasium, and took lessons in fencing, wrestling, rowing, and other manly sports. He also tried his hand at the art of cooking. Intensely restless, he would soon tire of one pastime and seek a new one. With his friends he visited the museum and the zoological garden. He arbitrated the disputes of his play-fellows and was a favourite with the people of the neighbourhood. Everybody admired his courage, straight-forwardness, and simplicity.

From an early age this remarkable youth had no patience with fear or superstition. One of his boyish pranks had been to climb a flowering tree belonging to a neighbour, pluck the flowers, and do other mischief. The owner of the tree, finding his remonstrances unheeded, once solemnly told Naren's friends that the tree was guarded by a white-robed ghost who would certainly wring their necks if they disturbed his peace. The boys were frightened and kept away. But Narendra persuaded them to follow him back, and he climbed the tree, enjoying his usual measure of fun, and broke some branches by way of further mischief. Turning to his friends, he then said: 'What asses you all are! See, my neck is still there. The old man's story is simply not true. Don't believe what others say unless you yourselves know it to be true.'

These simple but bold words were an indication of his future message to the world. Addressing large audiences in the later years, he would often say: 'Do not believe in a thing because you have read about it in a book. Do not believe in a thing because another man has said it was true. Do not believe in words because they are hallowed by tradition. Find out the truth for yourself. Reason it out. That is realization.'

The following incident illustrates his courage and presence of mind. He one day wished to set up a heavy trapeze in the gymnasium, and so asked the help of some people who were there. Among them was an English sailor. The trapeze fell and knocked the sailor unconscious, and the crowd, thinking him dead, ran away for fear of the police. But Naren tore a piece from his cloth, bandaged the sailor's wound, washed his face with water, and gradually revived him. Then he moved the wounded man to a neighbouring schoolhouse where he nursed him for a week. When the sailor had recovered, Naren sent him away with a little purse collected from his friends.

All through this period of boyish play Narendra retained his admiration for the life of the wandering monk. Pointing to a certain line on the palm of his hand, he would say to his friends: 'I shall certainly become a sannyasin. A palmist has predicted it.'

As Narendra grew into adolescence, his temperament showed a marked change. He became keen about intellectual matters, read serious books on history and literature, devoured newspapers, and attended public meetings. Music was his favourite pastime. He insisted that it should express a lofty idea and arouse the feelings of the musician.

At the age of fifteen he experienced his first spiritual ecstasy. The family was journeying to Raipur in the Central Provinces, and part of the trip had to be made in a bullock cart. On that particular day the air was crisp and clear; the trees and creepers were covered with green leaves and many-coloured blossoms; birds of brilliant plumage warbled in the woods. The cart was moving along a narrow pass where the lofty peaks rising on the two sides almost touched each other. Narendra's eyes spied a large bee-hive in the cleft of a giant cliff, and suddenly his mind was filled with awe and reverence for the Divine Providence. He lost outer consciousness and lay thus in the cart for a long time. Even after returning to the sense-perceived world he radiated joy.

Another interesting mental phenomenon may be mentioned here; for it was one often experienced by Narendranath. From boyhood, on first beholding certain people or places, he would feel that he had known them before; but how long before he could never remember. One day he and some of his companions were in a room in a friend's house, where they were discussing various topics. Something was mentioned, and Narendra felt at once that he had on a previous occasion talked about the same subject with the selfsame friends in that very house. He even correctly described every nook and corner of the building, which he had not seen before. He tried at first to explain this singular phenomenon by the doctrine of reincarnation, thinking that perhaps he had lived in that house in a previous life. But he dismissed the idea as improbable. Later he concluded that before his birth he must have had previsions of the people, places, and events that he was to experience in his present incarnation; that was why, he thought, he could recognize them as soon as they presented themselves to him.

At Raipur Narendra was encouraged by his father to meet notable scholars and discuss with them various intellectual topics usually considered too abstruse for boys of his age. On such occasions he exhibited great mental power. From his father, Narendra had learnt the art of grasping the essentials of things, seeing truth from the widest and most comprehensive standpoints, and holding to the real issue under discussion.

In 1879 the family returned to Calcutta, and Narendra within a short time graduated from high school in the first division. In the meantime he had read a great many standard books of English and Bengali literature. History was his favourite subject. He also acquired at this time an unusual method of reading a book and acquiring the knowledge of its subject-matter. To quote his own words: 'I could understand an author without reading every line of his book. I would read the first and last lines of a paragraph and grasp its meaning. Later I found that I could understand the subject-matter by reading only the first and last lines of a page. Afterwards I could follow the whole trend of a writer's argument by merely reading a few lines, though the author himself tried to explain the subject in five or more pages.'

Soon the excitement of his boyhood days was over, and in 1879 Narendranath entered the Presidency College of Calcutta for higher studies. After a year he joined the General Assembly's Institution, founded by the Scottish General Missionary Board and later known as the Scottish Church College. It was from Hastie, the principal of the college and the professor of English literature, that he first heard the name Sri Ramakrishna.

In college Narendra, now a handsome youth, muscular and agile, though slightly inclined to stoutness, enjoyed serious studies. During the first two years he studied Western logic. Thereafter he specialized in Western philosophy and the ancient and modern history of the different European nations. His memory was prodigious. It took him only three days to assimilate Green's History of the English People. Often, on the eve of an examination, he would read the whole night, keeping awake by drinking strong tea or coffee.

About this time he came in contact with Sri Ramakrishna; this event, as we shall presently see, was to become the major turning-point of his life. As a result of his association with Sri Ramakrishna, his innate spiritual yearning was stirred up, and he began to feel the transitoriness of the world and the futility of academic education. The day before his B.A. examination, he suddenly felt an all-consuming love for God and, standing before the room of a college-mate, was heard to sing with great feeling:

Sing ye, O mountains, O clouds, O great winds!
Sing ye, sing ye, sing His glory!
Sing with joy, all ye suns and moons and stars!
Sing ye, sing ye, His glory!

The friends, surprised, reminded him of the next day's examination, but Narendra was unconcerned; the shadow of the approaching monastic life was fast falling on him. He appeared for the examination, however, and easily passed.

About Narendra's scholarship, Professor Hastie once remarked: 'Narendra is a real genius. I have travelled far and wide, but have not yet come across a lad of his talents and possibilities even among the philosophical students in the German universities. He is bound to make his mark in life.'

Narendra's many-sided genius found its expression in music, as well. He studied both instrumental and vocal music under expert teachers. He could play on many instruments, but excelled in singing. From a Moslem teacher he learnt Hindi, Urdu, and Persian songs, most of them of devotional nature.

He also became associated with the Brahma Samaj, an important religious movement of the time, which influenced him during this formative period of his life.

The introduction of English education in India following the British conquest of the country brought Hindu society in contact with the intellectual and aggressive European culture. The Hindu youths who came under the spell of the new, dynamic way of life realized the many shortcomings of their own society. Under the Moslem rule, even before the coming of the British, the dynamic aspect of the Hindu culture had been suppressed and the caste-system stratified. The priests controlled the religious life of the people for their own selfish interest. Meaningless dogmas and lifeless ceremonies supplanted the invigorating philosophical teachings of the Upanishads and the Bhagavad Gita. The masses were exploited, moreover, by the landlords, and the lot of women was especially pitiable. Following the break-down of the Moslem rule, chaos reigned in every field of Indian life, social, political, religious, and economic. The newly introduced English education brought into sharp focus the many drawbacks of society, and various reform movements, both liberal and orthodox, were initiated to make the national life flow once more through healthy channels.

The Brahma Samaj, one of these liberal movements, captured the imagination of the educated youths of Bengal. Raja Rammohan Roy (1774-1833), the founder of this religious organization, broke away from the rituals, image worship, and priestcraft of orthodox Hinduism and exhorted his followers to dedicate themselves to the 'worship and adoration of the Eternal, the Unsearchable, the Immutable Being, who is the Author and the Preserver of the universe.' The Raja, endowed with a gigantic intellect, studied the Hindu, Moslem, Christian, and Buddhist scriptures and was the first Indian to realize the importance of the Western rational method for solving the diverse problems of Hindu society. He took a prominent part in the introduction of English education in India, which, though it at first produced a deleterious effect on the newly awakened Hindu consciousness, ultimately revealed to a few Indians the glorious heritage of their own indigenous civilization.

Among the prominent leaders of the Brahma Samaj who succeeded Rammohan Roy were Devendranath Tagore (1817-1905), a great devotee of the Upanishads, and Keshab Chandra Sen (1838-1884), who was inclined to the rituals and doctrines of Christianity. The Brahma Samaj, under their leadership, discarded many of the conventions of Hinduism such as rituals and the worship of God through images. Primarily a reformist movement, it directed its main energy to the emancipation of women, the remarriage of Hindu widows, the abolition of early marriage, and the spread of mass education. Influenced by Western culture, the Brahma Samaj upheld the supremacy of reason, preached against the uncritical acceptance of scriptural authority, and strongly supported the slogans of the French Revolution. The whole movement was intellectual and eclectic in character, born of the necessity of the times; unlike traditional Hinduism, it had no root in the spiritual experiences of saints and seers. Narendra, like many other contemporary young men, felt the appeal of its progressive ideas and became one of its members. But, as will be presently seen, the Brahma Samaj could not satisfy the deep spiritual yearning of his soul.

About this time Narendra was urged by his father to marry, and an opportunity soon presented itself. A wealthy man, whose daughter Narendra was asked to accept as his bride, offered to defray his expenses for higher studies in England so that he might qualify himself for the much coveted Indian Civil Service. Narendra refused. Other proposals of similar nature produced no different result. Apparently it was not his destiny to lead a householder's life.

From boyhood Narendra had shown a passion for purity. Whenever his warm and youthful nature tempted him to walk into a questionable adventure, he was held back by an unseen hand. His mother had taught him the value of chastity and had made him observe it as a matter of honour, in loyalty to herself and the family tradition. But purity to Narendra was not a negative virtue, a mere abstention from carnal pleasures. To be pure, he felt, was to conserve an intense spiritual force that would later manifest itself in all the noble aspirations of life. He regarded himself as a brahmacharin, a celibate student of the Hindu tradition, who worked hard, prized ascetic disciplines, held holy things in reverence, and enjoyed clean words, thoughts, and acts. For according to the Hindu scriptures, a man, by means of purity, which is the greatest of all virtues, can experience the subtlest spiritual perceptions. In Naren it accounts for the great power of concentration, memory, and insight, and for his indomitable mental energy and physical stamina.

In his youth Narendra used to see every night two visions, utterly dissimilar in nature, before falling asleep. One was that of a worldly man with an accomplished wife and children, enjoying wealth, luxuries, fame, and social position; the other, that of a sannyasin, a wandering monk, bereft of earthly security and devoted to the contemplation of God. Narendra felt that he had the power to realize either of these ideals; but when his mind reflected on their respective virtues, he was inevitably drawn to the life of renunciation. The glamour of the world would fade and disappear. His deeper self instinctively chose the austere path.

For a time the congregational prayers and the devotional songs of the Brahma Samaj exhilarated Narendra's mind, but soon he found that they did not give him any real spiritual experience. He wanted to realize God, the goal of religion, and so felt the imperative need of being instructed by a man who had seen God.

In his eagerness he went to Devendranath, the venerable leader of the Brahma Samaj, and asked him, even before the latter had uttered a word, 'Sir, have you seen God?'

Devendranath was embarrassed and replied: 'My boy, you have the eyes of a yogi. You should practise meditation.'

The youth was disappointed and felt that this teacher was not the man to help him in his spiritual struggle. But he received no better answer from the leaders of other religious sects. Then he remembered having heard the name of Ramakrishna Paramahansa from Professor Hastie, who while lecturing his class on Wordsworth's poem The Excursion, had spoken of trances, remarking that such religious ecstasies were the result of purity and concentration. He had said, further, that an exalted experience of this kind was a rare phenomenon, especially in modern times. 'I have known,' he had said, 'only one person who has realized that blessed state, and he is Ramakrishna of Dakshineswar. You will understand trances if you visit the saint.'

Narendra had also heard about Sri Ramakrishna from a relative, Ramchandra Datta, who was one of the foremost householder disciples of the Master. Learning of Narendra's unwillingness to marry and ascribing it to his desire to lead a spiritual life, Ramchandra had said to him, 'If you really want to cultivate spirituality, then visit Ramakrishna at Dakshineswar.'

Narendra met Ramakrishna for the first time in November 1881 at the house of the Master's devotee Surendranath Mitra, the young man having been invited there to entertain the visitors with his melodious music. The Paramahansa was much impressed by his sincerity and devotion, and after a few inquiries asked him to visit him at Dakshineswar. Narendra accepted. He wished to learn if Ramakrishna was the man to help him in his spiritual quest.

AT THE FEET OF RAMAKRISHNA

Ramakrishna, the God-man of modern times, was born on February 18, 1836, in the little village of Kamarpukur, in the district of Hooghly in Bengal. How different were his upbringing and the environment of his boyhood from those of Narendranath, who was to become, later, the bearer and interpreter of his message! Ramakrishna's parents, belonging to the brahmin caste, were poor, pious, and devoted to the traditions of their ancient religion. Full of fun and innocent joys, the fair child, with flowing hair and a sweet, musical voice, grew up in a simple countryside of rice-fields, cows, and banyan and mango trees. He was apathetic about his studies and remained practically illiterate all his life, but his innate spiritual tendencies found expression through devotional songs and the company of wandering monks, who fired his boyish imagination by the stories of their spiritual adventures. At the age of six he experienced a spiritual ecstasy while watching a flight of snow-white cranes against a black sky overcast with rain-clouds. He began to go into trances as he meditated on gods and goddesses. His father's death, which left the family in straitened circumstances, deepened his spiritual mood. And so, though at the age of sixteen he joined his brother in Calcutta, he refused to go on there with his studies; for, as he remarked, he was simply not interested in an education whose sole purpose was to earn mere bread and butter. He felt a deep longing for the realization of God.

The floodgate of Ramakrishna's emotion burst all bounds when he took up the duties of a priest in the Kali temple of Dakshineswar, where the Deity was worshipped as the Divine Mother. Ignorant of the scriptures and of the intricacies of ritual, Ramakrishna poured his whole soul into prayer, which often took the form of devotional songs. Food, sleep, and other physical needs were completely forgotten in an all-consuming passion for the vision of God. His nights were spent in contemplation in the neighbouring woods. Doubt sometimes alternated with hope; but an inner certainty and the testimony of the illumined saints sustained him in his darkest hours of despair. Formal worship or the mere sight of the image did not satisfy his inquiring mind; for he felt that a figure of stone could not be the bestower of peace and immortality. Behind the image there must be the real Spirit, which he was determined to behold. This was not an easy task. For a long time the Spirit played with him a teasing game of hide-and-seek, but at last it yielded to the demand of love on the part of the young devotee. When he felt the direct presence of the Divine Mother, Ramakrishna dropped unconscious to the floor, experiencing within himself a constant flow of bliss.

This foretaste of what was to follow made him God-intoxicated, and whetted his appetite for further experience. He wished to see God uninterruptedly, with eyes open as well as closed. He therefore abandoned himself recklessly to the practice of various extreme spiritual disciplines. To remove from his mind the least trace of the arrogance of his high brahmin caste, he used to clean stealthily the latrine at a pariah's house. Through a stern process of discrimination he effaced all sense of distinction between gold and clay. Purity became the very breath of his nostrils, and he could not regard a woman, even in a dream, in any other way except as his own mother or the Mother of the universe. For years his eyelids did not touch each other in sleep. And he was finally thought to be insane.

Indeed, the stress of his spiritual practice soon told upon Ramakrishna's delicate body and he returned to Kamarpukur to recover his health. His relatives and old friends saw a marked change in his nature; for the gay boy had been transformed into a contemplative young man whose vision was directed to something on a distant horizon. His mother proposed marriage, and finding in this the will of the Divine Mother, Ramakrishna consented. He even indicated where the girl was to be found, namely, in the village of Jayrambati, only three miles away. Here lived the little Saradamani, a girl of five, who was in many respects very different from the other girls of her age. The child would pray to God to make her character as fragrant as the tuberose. Later, at Dakshineswar, she prayed to God to make her purer than the full moon, which, pure as it was, showed a few dark spots. The marriage was celebrated and Ramakrishna, participating, regarded the whole affair as fun or a new excitement.

In a short while he came back to Dakshineswar and plunged again into the stormy life of religious experimentation. His mother, his newly married wife, and his relatives were forgotten. Now, however, his spiritual disciplines took a new course. He wanted to follow the time-honoured paths of the Hindu religion under the guidance of competent teachers, and they came to him one by one, nobody knew from where. One was a woman, under whom he practised the disciplines of Tantra and of the Vaishnava faith and achieved the highest result in an incredibly short time. It was she who diagnosed his physical malady as the manifestation of deep spiritual emotions and described his apparent insanity as the result of an agonizing love for God; he was immediately relieved. It was she, moreover, who first declared him to be an Incarnation of God, and she proved her statement before an assembly of theologians by scriptural evidence. Under another teacher, the monk Jatadhari, Ramakrishna delved into the mysteries of Rama worship and experienced Rama's visible presence. Further, he communed with God through the divine relationships of Father, Mother, Friend, and Beloved. By an austere sannyasin named Totapuri, he was initiated into the monastic life, and in three days he realized his complete oneness with Brahman, the undifferentiated Absolute, which is the culmination of man's spiritual endeavour. Totapuri himself had had to struggle for forty years to realize this identity.

Ramakrishna turned next to Christianity and Islam, to practise their respective disciplines, and he attained the same result that he had attained through Hinduism. He was thereby convinced that these, too, were ways to the realization of God-consciousness. Finally, he worshipped his own wife — who in the meantime had grown into a young woman of nineteen — as the manifestation of the Divine Mother of the universe and surrendered at her feet the fruit of his past spiritual practices. After this he left behind all his disciplines and struggles. For according to Hindu tradition, when the normal relationship between husband and wife, which is the strongest foundation of the worldly life, has been transcended and a man sees in his wife the divine presence, he then sees God everywhere in the universe. This is the culmination of the spiritual life.

Ramakrishna himself was now convinced of his divine mission on earth and came to know that through him the Divine Mother would found a new religious order comprising those who would accept the doctrine of the Universal Religion which he had experienced. It was further revealed to him that anyone who had prayed to God sincerely, even once, as well as those who were passing through their final birth on earth, would accept him as their spiritual ideal and mould their lives according to his universal teaching.

The people around him were bewildered to see this transformation of a man whom they had ridiculed only a short while ago as insane. The young priest had become God's devotee; the devotee, an ascetic; the ascetic, a saint; the saint, a man of realization; and the man of realization, a new Prophet. Like the full-blown blossom attracting bees, Ramakrishna drew to him men and women of differing faith, intelligence, and social position. He gave generously to all from the inexhaustible storehouse of divine wisdom, and everyone felt uplifted in his presence. But the Master himself was not completely satisfied. He longed for young souls yet untouched by the world, who would renounce everything for the realization of God and the service of humanity. He was literally consumed with this longing. The talk of worldly people was tasteless to him. He often compared such people to mixture of milk and water with the latter preponderating, and said that he had become weary of trying to prepare thick milk from the mixture. Evenings, when his anguish reached its limit, he would climb the roof of a building near the temple and cry at the top of his voice: 'Come, my boys! Oh, where are you all? I cannot bear to live without you!' A mother could not feel more intensely for her beloved children, a friend for his dearest friend, or a lover for her sweetheart.

Shortly thereafter the young men destined to be his monastic disciples began to arrive. And foremost among them was Narendranath.

The first meeting at Dakshineswar between the Master and Narendra was momentous. Sri Ramakrishna recognized instantaneously his future messenger. Narendra, careless about his clothes and general appearance, was so unlike the other young men who had accompanied him to the temple. His eyes were impressive, partly indrawn, indicating a meditative mood. He sang a few songs, and as usual poured into them his whole soul.

His first song was this:

Let us go back once more,
O mind, to our proper home!
Here in this foreign land of earth Why should we wander aimlessly in stranger's guise?
These living beings round about,
And the five elements,
Are strangers to you, all of them; none are your own.
Why do you so forget yourself,
In love with strangers, foolish mind?
Why do you so forget your own?

Mount the path of truth,
O mind! Unflaggingly climb,
With love as the lamp to light your way.
As your provision on the journey, take with you
The virtues, hidden carefully;
For, like two highwaymen,
Greed and delusion wait to rob you of your wealth.
And keep beside you constantly,
As guards to shelter you from harm,
Calmness of mind and self-control.

Companionship with holy men will be for you
A welcome rest-house by the road;
There rest your weary limbs awhile, asking your way,
If ever you should be in doubt,
Of him who watches there.
If anything along the path should cause you fear,
Then loudly shout the name of God;
For He is ruler of that road,

And even Death must bow to Him.

When the singing was over, Sri Ramakrishna suddenly grasped Narendra's hand and took him into the northern porch. To Narendra's utter amazement, the Master said with tears streaming down his cheeks: 'Ah! you have come so late. How unkind of you to keep me waiting so long!

My ears are almost seared listening to the cheap talk of worldly people. Oh, how I have been yearning to unburden my mind to one who will understand my thought!' Then with folded hands he said: 'Lord! I know you are the ancient sage Nara — the Incarnation of Narayana — born on earth to remove the miseries of mankind.' The rationalist Naren regarded these words as the meaningless jargon of an insane person. He was further dismayed when Sri Ramakrishna presently brought from his room some sweets and fed him with his own hands. But the Master nevertheless extracted from him a promise to visit Dakshineswar again.

They returned to the room and Naren asked the Master, 'Sir, have you seen God?' Without a moment's hesitation the reply was given: 'Yes, I have seen God. I see Him as I see you here, only more clearly. God can be seen. One can talk to him. But who cares for God? People shed torrents of tears for their wives, children, wealth, and property, but who weeps for the vision of God? If one cries sincerely for God, one can surely see Him.'

Narendra was astounded. For the first time, he was face to face with a man who asserted that he had seen God. For the first time, in fact, he was hearing that God could be seen. He could feel that Ramakrishna's words were uttered from the depths of an inner experience. They could not be doubted. Still he could not reconcile these words with Ramakrishna's strange conduct, which he had witnessed only a few minutes before. What puzzled Narendra further was Ramakrishna's normal behaviour in the presence of others. The young man returned to Calcutta bewildered, but yet with a feeling of inner peace.

During his second visit to the Master, Narendra had an even stranger experience. After a minute or two Sri Ramakrishna drew near him in an ecstatic mood, muttered some words, fixed his eyes on him, and placed his right foot on Naren's body. At this touch Naren saw, with eyes open, the walls, the room, the temple garden — nay, the whole world — vanishing, and even himself disappearing into a void. He felt sure that he was facing death. He cried in consternation: 'What are you doing to me? I have my parents, brothers, and sisters at home.'

The Master laughed and stroked Naren's chest, restoring him to his normal mood. He said, 'All right, everything will happen in due time.'

Narendra, completely puzzled, felt that Ramakrishna had cast a hypnotic spell upon him. But how could that have been? Did he not pride himself in the possession of an iron will? He felt disgusted that he should have been unable to resist the influence of a madman. Nonetheless he felt a great inner attraction for Sri Ramakrishna.

On his third visit Naren fared no better, though he tried his utmost to be on guard. Sri Ramakrishna took him to a neighbouring garden and, in a state of trance, touched him. Completely overwhelmed, Naren lost consciousness.

Sri Ramakrishna, referring later to this incident, said that after putting Naren into a state of unconsciousness, he had asked him many questions about his past, his mission in the world, and the duration of his present life. The answer had only confirmed what he himself had thought about these matters. Ramakrishna told his other disciples that Naren had attained perfection even before this birth; that he was an adept in meditation; and that the day Naren recognized his true self, he would give up the body by an act of will, through yoga. Often he was heard to say that Naren was one of the Saptarshis, or Seven Sages, who live in the realm of the Absolute. He narrated to them a vision he had had regarding the disciple's spiritual heritage.

Absorbed, one day, in samadhi, Ramakrishna had found that his mind was soaring high, going beyond the physical universe of the sun, moon, and stars, and passing into the subtle region of ideas. As it continued to ascend, the forms of gods and goddesses were left behind, and it crossed the luminous barrier separating the phenomenal universe from the Absolute, entering finally the transcendental realm. There Ramakrishna saw seven venerable sages absorbed in meditation. These, he thought, must have surpassed even the gods and goddesses in wisdom and holiness, and as he was admiring their unique spirituality he saw a portion of the undifferentiated Absolute become congealed, as it were, and take the form of a Divine Child. Gently clasping the neck of one of the sages with His soft arms, the Child whispered something in his ear, and at this magic touch the sage awoke from meditation. He fixed his half-open eyes upon the wondrous Child, who said in great joy: 'I am going down to earth. Won't you come with me?' With a benign look the sage expressed assent and returned into deep spiritual ecstasy. Ramakrishna was amazed to observe that a tiny portion of the sage, however, descended to earth, taking the form of light, which struck the house in Calcutta where Narendra's family lived, and when he saw Narendra for the first time, he at once recognized him as the incarnation of the sage. He also admitted that the Divine Child who brought about the descent of the rishi was none other than himself.

The meeting of Narendra and Sri Ramakrishna was an important event in the lives of both. A storm had been raging in Narendra's soul when he came to Sri Ramakrishna, who himself had passed through a similar struggle but was now firmly anchored in peace as a result of his intimate communion with the Godhead and his realization of Brahman as the immutable essence of all things.

A genuine product of the Indian soil and thoroughly acquainted with the spiritual traditions of India, Sri Ramakrishna was ignorant of the modern way of thinking. But Narendra was the symbol of the modern spirit. Inquisitive, alert, and intellectually honest, he possessed an open mind and demanded rational proof before accepting any conclusion as valid. As a loyal member of the Brahmo Samaj he was critical of image worship and the rituals of the Hindu religion. He did not feel the need of a guru, a human intermediary between God and man. He was even sceptical about the existence of such a person, who was said to be free from human limitations and to whom an aspirant was expected to surrender himself completely and offer worship as to God. Ramakrishna's visions of gods and goddesses he openly ridiculed, and called them hallucinations.

For five years Narendra closely watched the Master, never allowing himself to be influenced by blind faith, always testing the words and actions of Sri Ramakrishna in the crucible of reason. It cost him many sorrows and much anguish before he accepted Sri Ramakrishna as the guru and the ideal of the spiritual life. But when the acceptance came, it was wholehearted, final, and irrevocable. The Master, too, was overjoyed to find a disciple who doubted, and he knew that Naren was the one to carry his message to the world.

The inner process that gradually transformed the chrysalis of Narendra into a beautiful butterfly will for ever remain, like all deep spiritual mysteries, unknown to the outer world. People, however, noticed the growth of an intimate relationship between the loving, patient, and forgiving teacher and his imperious and stubborn disciple. The Master never once asked Naren to abandon reason. He met the challenge of Naren's intellect with his superior understanding, acquired through firsthand knowledge of the essence of things. When Naren's reasoning failed to solve the ultimate mystery, the teacher gave him the necessary insight. Thus, with infinite patience, love, and vigilance, he tamed the rebellious spirit, demanding complete obedience to moral and spiritual disciplines, without which the religious life can not be built on a firm foundation.

The very presence of Narendranath would fill the Master's mind with indescribable joy and create ecstatic moods. He had already known, by many indications, of the disciple's future greatness, the manifestation of which awaited only the fullness of time. What others regarded in Naren as stubbornness or haughtiness appeared to Sri Ramakrishna as the expression of his manliness and self-reliance, born of his self-control and innate purity. He could not bear the slightest criticism of Naren and often said: 'Let no one judge him hastily. People will never understand him fully.'

Ramakrishna loved Narendranath because he saw him as the embodiment of Narayana, the Divine Spirit, undefiled by the foul breath of the world. But he was criticized for his attachment. Once a trouble-maker of twisted mind named Hazra, who lived with the Master at Dakshineswar, said to him, 'If you long for Naren and the other youngsters all the time, when will you think of God?' The Master was distressed by this thought. But it was at once revealed to him that though God dwelt in all beings, He was especially manifest in a pure soul like Naren. Relieved of his worries, he then said: 'Oh, what a fool Hazra is! How he unsettled my mind! But why blame the poor fellow? How could he know?'

Sri Ramakrishna was outspoken in Narendra's praise. This often embarrassed the young disciple, who would criticize the Master for what he termed a sort of infatuation. One day Ramakrishna spoke highly of Keshab Sen and the saintly Vijay Goswami, the two outstanding leaders of the Brahma Samaj. Then he added: 'If Keshab possesses one virtue which has made him world-famous, Naren is endowed with eighteen such virtues. I have seen in Keshab and Vijay the divine light burning like a candle flame, but in Naren it shines with the radiance of the sun.'

Narendra, instead of feeling flattered by these compliments, became annoyed and sharply rebuked the Master for what he regarded as his foolhardiness. 'I cannot help it,' the Master protested. 'Do you think these are my words? The Divine Mother showed me certain things about you, which I repeated. And She reveals to me nothing but the truth.'

But Naren was hardly convinced. He was sure that these so-called revelations were pure illusions. He carefully explained to Sri Ramakrishna that, from the viewpoint of Western science and philosophy, very often a man was deceived by his mind, and that the chances of deception were greater when a personal attachment was involved. He said to the Master, 'Since you love me and wish to see me great, these fancies naturally come to your mind.'

The Master was perplexed. He prayed to the Divine Mother for light and was told: 'Why do you care about what he says? In a short time he will accept your every word as true.'

On another occasion, when the Master was similarly reprimanded by the disciple, he was reassured by the Divine Mother. Thereupon he said to Naren with a smile: 'You are a rogue. I won't listen to you any more. Mother says that I love you because I see the Lord in you. The day I shall not see Him in you, I shall not be able to bear even the sight of you.'

On account of his preoccupation with his studies, or for other reasons, Narendra could not come to Dakshineswar as often as Sri Ramakrishna wished. But the Master could hardly endure his prolonged absence. If the disciple had not visited him for a number of days, he would send someone to Calcutta to fetch him. Sometimes he went to Calcutta himself. One time, for example, Narendra remained away from Dakshineswar for several weeks; even the Master's eager importunities failed to bring him. Sri Ramakrishna knew that he sang regularly at the prayer meetings of the Brahma Samaj, and so one day he made his way to the Brahma temple that the disciple attended. Narendra was singing in the choir as the Master entered the hall, and when he heard Narendra's voice, Sri Ramakrishna fell into a deep ecstasy. The eyes of the congregation turned to him, and soon a commotion followed. Narendra hurried to his side. One of the Brahma leaders, in order to stop the excitement, put out the lights. The young disciple, realizing that the Master's sudden appearance was the cause of the disturbance, sharply took him to task. The latter answered, with tears in his eyes, that he had simply not been able to keep himself away from Narendra.

On another occasion, Sri Ramakrishna, unable to bear Narendra's absence, went to Calcutta to visit the disciple at his own home. He was told that Naren was studying in an attic in the second floor that could be reached only by a steep staircase. His nephew

Ramlal, who was a sort of caretaker of the Master, had accompanied him, and with his help Sri Ramakrishna climbed a few steps. Narendra appeared at the head of the stair, and at the very sight of him Sri Ramakrishna exclaimed, 'Naren, my beloved!' and went into ecstasy. With considerable difficulty Naren and Ramlal helped him to finish climbing the steps, and as he entered the room the Master fell into deep samadhi. A fellow student who was with Naren at the time and did not know anything of religious trances, asked Naren in bewilderment, 'Who is this man?'

'Never mind,' replied Naren. 'You had better go home now.'

Naren often said that the 'Old Man,' meaning Ramakrishna, bound the disciple for ever to him by his love. 'What do worldly men,' he remarked, 'know about love? They only make a show of it. The Master alone loves us genuinely.' Naren, in return, bore a deep love for Sri Ramakrishna, though he seldom expressed it in words. He took delight in criticizing the Master's spiritual experiences as evidences of a lack of self-control. He made fun of his worship of Kali.

'Why do you come here,' Sri Ramakrishna once asked him, 'if you do not accept Kali, my Mother?'

'Bah! Must I accept Her,' Naren retorted, 'simply because I come to see you? I come to you because I love you.'

'All right,' said the Master, 'ere long you will not only accept my blessed Mother, but weep in Her name.'

Turning to his other disciples, he said: 'This boy has no faith in the forms of God and tells me that my visions are pure imagination. But he is a fine lad of pure mind. He does not accept anything without direct evidence. He has studied much and cultivated great discrimination. He has fine judgement.'

TRAINING OF THE DISCIPLE

It is hard to say when Naren actually accepted Sri Ramakrishna as his guru. As far as the master was concerned, the spiritual relationship was established at the first meeting at Dakshineswar, when he had touched Naren, stirring him to his inner depths. From that moment he had implicit faith in the disciple and bore him a great love. But he encouraged Naren in the independence of his thinking. The love and faith of the Master acted as a restraint upon the impetuous youth and became his strong shield against the temptations of the world. By gradual steps the disciple was then led from doubt to certainty, and from anguish of mind to the bliss of the Spirit. This, however, was not an easy attainment.

Sri Ramakrishna, perfect teacher that he was, never laid down identical disciplines for disciples of diverse temperaments. He did not insist that Narendra should follow strict rules about food, nor did he ask him to believe in the reality of the gods and goddesses of Hindu mythology. It was not necessary for Narendra's philosophic mind to pursue the disciplines of concrete worship. But a strict eye was kept on Naren's practice of discrimination, detachment, self-control, and regular meditation. Sri Ramakrishna enjoyed Naren's vehement arguments with the other devotees regarding the dogmas and creeds of religion and was delighted to hear him tear to shreds their unquestioning beliefs. But when, as often happened, Naren teased the gentle Rakhai for showing reverence to the Divine Mother Kali, the Master would not tolerate these attempts to unsettle the brother disciple's faith in the forms of God.

As a member of the Brahmo Samaj, Narendra accepted its doctrine of monotheism and the Personal God. He also believed in the natural depravity of man. Such doctrines of non-dualistic Vedanta as the divinity of the soul and the oneness of existence he regarded as blasphemy; the view that man is one with God appeared to him pure nonsense. When the master warned him against thus limiting God's infinitude and asked him to pray to God to reveal to him His true nature, Narendra smiled. One day he was making fun of Sri Ramakrishna's non-dualism before a friend and said, 'What can be more absurd than to say that this jug is God, this cup is God, and that we too are God?' Both roared with laughter.

Just then the Master appeared. Coming to learn the cause of their fun, he gently touched Naren and plunged into deep samadhi. The touch produced a magic effect, and Narendra entered a new realm of consciousness. He saw the whole universe permeated by the Divine Spirit and returned home in a daze. While eating his meal, he felt the presence of Brahman in everything — in the food, and in himself too. While walking in the street, he saw the carriages, the horses, the crowd, and himself as if made of the same substance. After a few days the intensity of the vision lessened to some extent, but still he could see the world only as a dream. While strolling in a public park of Calcutta, he struck his head against the iron railing, several times, to see if they were real or a mere illusion of the mind. Thus he got a glimpse of non-dualism, the fullest realization of which was to come only later, at the Cossipore garden.

Sri Ramakrishna was always pleased when his disciples put to the test his statements or behaviour before accepting his teachings. He would say: 'Test me as the money-changers test their coins. You must not believe me without testing me thoroughly.' The disciples often heard him say that his nervous system had undergone a complete change as a result of his spiritual experiences, and that he could not bear the touch of any metal, such as gold or silver. One day, during his absence in Calcutta, Narendra hid a coin under Ramakrishna's bed. After his return when the Master sat on the bed, he started up in pain as if stung by an insect. The mattress was examined and the hidden coin was found.

Naren, on the other hand, was often tested by the Master. One day, when he entered the Master's room, he was completely ignored. Not a word of greeting was uttered. A week later he came back and met with the same indifference, and during the third and fourth visits saw no evidence of any thawing of the Master's frigid attitude.

At the end of a month Sri Ramakrishna said to Naren, 'I have not exchanged a single word with you all this time, and still you come.'

The disciple replied: 'I come to Dakshineswar because I love you and want to see you. I do not come here to hear your words.'

The Master was overjoyed. Embracing the disciple, he said: 'I was only testing you. I wanted to see if you would stay away on account of my outward indifference. Only a man of your inner strength could put up with such indifference on my part. Anyone else would have left me long ago.'

On one occasion Sri Ramakrishna proposed to transfer to Narendranath many of the spiritual powers that he had acquired as a result of his ascetic disciplines and visions of God. Naren had no doubt concerning the Master's possessing such powers. He asked if they would help him to realize God. Sri Ramakrishna replied in the negative but added that they might assist him in his future work as a spiritual teacher. 'Let me realize God first,' said Naren, 'and then I shall perhaps know whether or not I want supernatural powers. If I accept them now, I may forget God, make selfish use of them, and thus come to grief.' Sri Ramakrishna was highly pleased to see his chief disciple's single-minded devotion.

Several factors were at work to mould the personality of young Narendranath. Foremost of these were his inborn spiritual tendencies, which were beginning to show themselves under the influence of Sri Ramakrishna, but against which his rational mind put up a strenuous fight. Second was his habit of thinking highly and acting nobly, disciplines acquired from a mother steeped in the spiritual heritage of India. Third were his broadmindedness and regard for truth wherever found, and his sceptical attitude towards the religious beliefs and social conventions of the Hindu society of his time. These he had learnt from his English-educated father, and he was strengthened in them through his own contact with Western culture.

With the introduction in India of English education during the middle of the nineteenth century, as we have seen, Western science, history, and philosophy were studied in the Indian colleges and universities. The educated Hindu youths, allured by the glamour, began to mould their thought according to this new light, and Narendra could not escape the influence. He developed a great respect for the analytical scientific method and subjected many of the Master's spiritual visions to such scrutiny. The English poets stirred his feelings, especially Wordsworth and Shelley, and he took a course in Western medicine to understand the functioning of the nervous system, particularly the brain and spinal cord, in order to find out the secrets of Sri Ramakrishna's trances. But all this only deepened his inner turmoil.

John Stuart Mill's Three Essays on Religion upset his boyish theism and the easy optimism imbibed from the Brahma Samaj. The presence of evil in nature and man haunted him and he could not reconcile it at all with the goodness of an omnipotent Creator. Hume's scepticism and Herbert Spencer's doctrine of the Unknowable filled his mind with a settled philosophical agnosticism. After the wearing out of his first emotional freshness and naivete, he was beset with a certain dryness and incapacity for the old prayers and devotions. He was filled with an ennui which he concealed, however, under his jovial nature. Music, at this difficult stage of his life, rendered him great help; for it moved him as nothing else and gave him a glimpse of unseen realities that often brought tears to his eyes.

Narendra did not have much patience with humdrum reading, nor did he care to absorb knowledge from books as much as from living communion and personal experience. He wanted life to be kindled by life, and thought kindled by thought. He studied Shelley under a college friend, Brajendranath Seal, who later became the leading Indian philosopher of his time, and deeply felt with the poet his pantheism, impersonal love, and vision of a glorified millennial humanity. The universe, no longer a mere lifeless, loveless mechanism, was seen to contain a spiritual principle of unity. Brajendranath, moreover, tried to present him with a synthesis of the Supreme Brahman of Vedanta, the Universal Reason of Hegel, and the gospel of Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity of the French Revolution. By accepting as the principle of morals the sovereignty of the Universal Reason and the negation of the individual, Narendra achieved an intellectual victory over scepticism and materialism, but no peace of mind.

Narendra now had to face a new difficulty. The 'ballet of bloodless categories' of Hegel and his creed of Universal Reason required of Naren a suppression of the yearning and susceptibility of his artistic nature and joyous temperament, the destruction of the cravings of his keen and acute senses, and the smothering of his free and merry conviviality. This amounted almost to killing his own true self. Further, he could not find in such a philosophy any help in the struggle of a hot-blooded youth against the cravings of the passions, which appeared to him as impure, gross, and carnal. Some of his musical associates were men of loose morals for whom he felt a bitter and undisguised contempt.

Narendra therefore asked his friend Brajendra if the latter knew the way of deliverance from the bondage of the senses, but he was told only to rely upon Pure Reason and to identify the self with it, and was promised that through this he would experience an ineffable peace. The friend was a Platonic transcendentalist and did not have faith in what he called the artificial prop of grace, or the mediation of a guru. But the problems and difficulties of Narendra were very different from those of his intellectual friend. He found that mere philosophy was impotent in the hour of temptation and in the struggle for his soul's deliverance. He felt the need of a hand to save, to uplift, to protect — shakti or power outside his rational mind that would transform his impotence into strength and glory. He wanted a flesh-and-blood reality established in peace and certainty, in short, a living guru, who, by embodying perfection in the flesh, would compose the commotion of his soul.

The leaders of the Brahma Samaj, as well as those of the other religious sects, had failed. It was only Ramakrishna who spoke to him with authority, as none had spoken before, and by his power brought peace into the troubled soul and healed the wounds of the spirit. At first Naren feared that the serenity that possessed him in the presence of the Master was illusory, but his misgivings were gradually vanquished by the calm assurance transmitted to him by Ramakrishna out of his own experience of Satchidananda Brahman — Existence, Knowledge, and Bliss Absolute. (This account of the struggle of Naren's collegiate days summarizes an article on Swami Vivekananda by Brajendranath Seal, published in the Life of Swami Vivekananda by the Advaita Ashrama, Mayavati, India.)

Narendra could not but recognize the contrast of the Sturm und Drang of his soul with the serene bliss in which Sri Ramakrishna was always bathed. He begged the Master to teach him meditation, and Sri Ramakrishna's reply was to him a source of comfort and strength. The Master said: 'God listens to our sincere prayer. I can swear that you can see God and talk with Him as intensely as you see me and talk with me. You can hear His words and feel His touch.' Further the Master declared: 'You may not believe in divine forms, but if you believe in an Ultimate Reality who is the Regulator of the universe, you can pray to Him thus: "O God, I do not know Thee. Be gracious to reveal to me Thy real nature." He will certainly listen to you if your prayer is sincere.'

Narendra, intensifying his meditation under the Master's guidance, began to lose consciousness of the body and to feel an inner peace, and this peace would linger even after the meditation was over. Frequently he felt the separation of the body from the soul. Strange perceptions came to him in dreams, producing a sense of exaltation that persisted after he awoke. The guru was performing his task in an inscrutable manner, Narendra's friends observed only his outer struggle; but the real transformation was known to the teacher alone — or perhaps to the disciple too.

In 1884, when Narendranath was preparing for the B.A. examination, his family was struck by a calamity. His father suddenly died, and the mother and children were plunged into great grief. For Viswanath, a man of generous nature, had lived beyond his means, and his death burdened the family with a heavy debt. Creditors, like hungry wolves, began to prowl about the door, and to make matters worse, certain relatives brought a lawsuit for the partition of the ancestral home. Though they lost it, Narendra was faced, thereafter, with poverty. As the eldest male member of the family, he had to find the wherewithal for the feeding of seven or eight mouths and began to hunt a job. He also attended the law classes. He went about clad in coarse clothes, barefoot, and hungry. Often he refused invitations for dinner from friends, remembering his starving mother, brothers, and sisters at home. He would skip family meals on the fictitious plea that he had already eaten at a friend's house, so that the people at home might receive a larger share of the scanty food. The Datta family was proud and would not dream of soliciting help from outsiders. With his companions Narendra was his usual gay self. His rich friends no doubt noticed his pale face, but they did nothing to help. Only one friend sent occasional anonymous aid, and Narendra remained grateful to him for life. Meanwhile, all his efforts to find employment failed. Some friends who earned money in a dishonest way asked him to join them, and a rich woman sent him an immoral proposal, promising to put an end to his financial distress. But Narendra gave to these a blunt rebuff. Sometimes he would wonder if the world were not the handiwork of the Devil — for how could one account for so much suffering in God's creation?

One day, after a futile search for a job, he sat down, weary and footsore, in the big park of Calcutta in the shadow of the Ochterlony monument. There some friends joined him and one of them sang a song, perhaps to console him, describing God's abundant grace.

Bitterly Naren said: 'Will you please stop that song? Such fancies are, no doubt, pleasing to those who are born with silver spoons in their mouths. Yes, there was a time when I, too, thought like that. But today these ideas appear to me a mockery.'

The friends were bewildered.

One morning, as usual, Naren left his bed repeating God's name, and was about to go out in search of work after seeking divine blessings. His mother heard the prayer and said bitterly: 'Hush, you fool! You have been crying yourself hoarse for God since your childhood. Tell me what has God done for you?' Evidently the crushing poverty at home was too much for the pious mother.

These words stung Naren to the quick. A doubt crept into his mind about God's existence and His Providence.

It was not in Naren's nature to hide his feelings. He argued before his friends and the devotees of Sri Ramakrishna about God's non-existence and the futility of prayer even if God existed. His over-zealous friends thought he had become an atheist and ascribed to him many unmentionable crimes, which he had supposedly committed to forget his misery. Some of the devotees of the Master shared these views. Narendra was angry and mortified to think that they could believe him to have sunk so low. He became hardened and justified drinking and the other dubious pleasures resorted to by miserable people for a respite from their suffering. He said, further, that he himself would not hesitate to follow such a course if he were assured of its efficacy. Openly asserting that only cowards believed in God for fear of hell-fire, he argued the possibility of God's non-existence and quoted Western philosophers in support of his position. And when the devotees of the Master became convinced that he was hopelessly lost, he felt a sort of inner satisfaction.

A garbled report of the matter reached Sri Ramakrishna, and Narendra thought that perhaps the Master, too, doubted his moral integrity. The very idea revived his anger. 'Never mind,' he said to himself. 'If good or bad opinion of a man rests on such flimsy grounds, I don't care.'

But Narendra was mistaken. For one day Bhavanath, a devotee of the master and an intimate friend of Narendra, cast aspersions on the latter's character, and the Master said angrily: 'Stop, you fool! The Mother has told me that it is simply not true. I shan't look at your face if you speak to me again that way.'

The fact was that Narendra could not, in his heart of hearts, disbelieve in God. He remembered the spiritual visions of his own boyhood and many others that he had experienced in the company of the Master. Inwardly he longed to understand God and His ways. And one day he gained this understanding. It happened in the following way:

He had been out since morning in a soaking rain in search of employment, having had neither food nor rest for the whole day. That evening he sat down on the porch of a house by the roadside, exhausted. He was in a daze. Thoughts began to flit before his mind, which he could not control. Suddenly he had a strange vision, which lasted almost the whole night. He felt that veil after veil was removed from before his soul, and he understood the reconciliation of God's justice with His mercy. He came to know — but he never told how — that misery could exist in the creation of a compassionate God without impairing His sovereign power or touching man's real self. He understood the meaning of it all and was at peace. Just before daybreak, refreshed both in body and in mind, he returned home.

This revelation profoundly impressed Narendranath. He became indifferent to people's opinion and was convinced that he was not born to lead an ordinary worldly life, enjoying the love of a wife and children and physical luxuries. He recalled how the several proposals of marriage made by his relatives had come to nothing, and he ascribed all this to God's will. The peace and freedom of the monastic life cast a spell upon him. He determined to renounce the world, and set a date for this act. Then, coming to learn that Sri Ramakrishna would visit Calcutta that very day, he was happy to think that he could embrace the life of a wandering monk with his guru's blessings.

When they met, the Master persuaded his disciple to accompany him to Dakshineswar. As they arrived in his room, Sri Ramakrishna went into an ecstatic mood and sang a song, while tears bathed his eyes. The words of the song clearly indicated that the Master knew of the disciple's secret wish. When other devotees asked him about the cause of his grief, Sri Ramakrishna said, 'Oh, never mind, it is something between me and Naren, and nobody else's business.' At night he called Naren to his side and said with great feeling: 'I know you are born for Mother's work. I also know that you will be a monk. But stay in the world as long as I live, for my sake at least.' He wept again.

Soon after, Naren procured a temporary job, which was sufficient to provide a hand-to-mouth living for the family.

One day Narendra asked himself why, since Kali, the Divine Mother listened to Sri Ramakrishna prayers, should not the Master pray to Her to relieve his poverty. When he told Sri Ramakrishna about this idea, the latter inquired why he did not pray himself to Kali, adding that Narendranath suffered because he did not acknowledge Kali as the Sovereign Mistress of the universe.

'Today,' the Master continued, 'is a Tuesday, an auspicious day for the Mother's worship. Go to Her shrine in the evening, prostrate yourself before the image, and pray to Her for any boon; it will be granted. Mother Kali is the embodiment of Love and Compassion. She is the Power of Brahman. She gives birth to the world by Her mere wish. She fulfils every sincere prayer of Her devotees.'

At nine o'clock in the evening, Narendranath went to the Kali temple. Passing through the courtyard, he felt within himself a surge of emotion, and his heart leapt with joy in anticipation of the vision of the Divine Mother. Entering the temple, he cast his eyes upon the image and found the stone figure to be nothing else but the living Goddess, the Divine Mother Herself, ready to give him any boon he wanted — either a happy worldly life or the joy of spiritual freedom. He was in ecstasy. He prayed for the boon of wisdom, discrimination, renunciation, and Her uninterrupted vision, but forgot to ask the Deity for money. He felt great peace within as he returned to the Master's room, and when asked if he had prayed for money, was startled. He said that he had forgotten all about it. The Master told him to go to the temple again and pray to the Divine Mother to satisfy his immediate needs. Naren did as he was bidden, but again forgot his mission. The same thing happened a third time. Then Naren suddenly realized that Sri Ramakrishna himself had made him forget to ask the Divine Mother for worldly things; perhaps he wanted Naren to lead a life of renunciation. So he now asked Sri Ramakrishna to do something for the family. The master told the disciple that it was not Naren's destiny to enjoy a worldly life, but assured him that the family would be able to eke out a simple existence.

The above incident left a deep impression upon Naren's mind; it enriched his spiritual life, for he gained a new understanding of the Godhead and Its ways in the phenomenal universe. Naren's idea of God had hitherto been confined either to that of a vague Impersonal Reality or to that of an extracosmic Creator removed from the world. He now realized that the Godhead is immanent in the creation, that after projecting the universe from within Itself, It has entered into all created entities as life and consciousness, whether manifest or latent. This same immanent Spirit, or the World Soul, when regarded as a person creating, preserving, and destroying the universe, is called the Personal God, and is worshipped by different religions through such a relationship as that of father, mother, king, or beloved. These relationships, he came to understand, have their appropriate symbols, and Kali is one of them.

Embodying in Herself creation and destruction, love and terror, life and death, Kali is the symbol of the total universe. The eternal cycle of the manifestation and non-manifestation of the universe is the breathing-out and breathing-in of this Divine Mother. In one aspect She is death, without which there cannot be life. She is smeared with blood, since without blood the picture of the phenomenal universe is not complete. To the wicked who have transgressed Her laws, She is the embodiment of terror, and to the virtuous, the benign Mother. Before creation She contains within Her womb the seed of the universe, which is left from the previous cycle. After the manifestation of the universe She becomes its preserver and nourisher, and at the end of the cycle She draws it back within Herself and remains as the undifferentiated Sakti, the creative power of Brahman. She is non-different from Brahman. When free from the acts of creation, preservation, and destruction, the Spirit, in Its acosmic aspect, is called Brahman; otherwise It is known as the World Soul or the Divine Mother of the universe. She is therefore the doorway to the realization of the Absolute; She is the Absolute. To the daring devotee who wants to see the transcendental Absolute, She reveals that form by withdrawing Her phenomenal aspect. Brahman is Her transcendental aspect. She is the Great Fact of the universe, the totality of created beings. She is the Ruler and the Controller.

All this had previously been beyond Narendra's comprehension. He had accepted the reality of the phenomenal world and yet denied the reality of Kali. He had been conscious of hunger and thirst, pain and pleasure, and the other characteristics of the world, and yet he had not accepted Kali, who controlled them all. That was why he had suffered. But on that auspicious Tuesday evening the scales dropped from his eyes. He accepted Kali as the Divine Mother of the universe. He became Her devotee.

Many years later he wrote to an American lady: 'Kali worship is my special fad.' But he did not preach Her in public, because he thought that all that modern man required was to be found in the Upanishads. Further, he realized that the Kali symbol would not be understood by universal humanity.

Narendra enjoyed the company of the Master for six years, during which time his spiritual life was moulded. Sri Ramakrishna was a wonderful teacher in every sense of the word. Without imposing his ideas upon anyone, he taught more by the silent influence of his inner life than by words or even by personal example. To live near him demanded of the disciple purity of thought and concentration of mind. He often appeared to his future monastic followers as their friend and playmate. Through fun and merriment he always kept before them the shining ideal of God-realization. He would not allow any deviation from bodily and mental chastity, nor any compromise with truth and renunciation. Everything else he left to the will of the Divine Mother.

Narendra was his 'marked' disciple, chosen by the Lord for a special mission. Sri Ramakrishna kept a sharp eye on him, though he appeared to give the disciple every opportunity to release his pent-up physical and mental energy. Before him, Naren often romped about like a young lion cub in the presence of a firm but indulgent parent. His spiritual radiance often startled the Master, who saw that maya, the Great Enchantress, could not approach within 'ten feet' of that blazing fire.

Narendra always came to the Master in the hours of his spiritual difficulties. One time he complained that he could not meditate in the morning on account of the shrill note of a whistle from a neighbouring mill, and was advised by the Master to concentrate on the very sound of the whistle. In a short time he overcame the distraction. Another time he found it difficult to forget the body at the time of meditation. Sri Ramakrishna sharply pressed the space between Naren's eyebrows and asked him to concentrate on that sensation. The disciple found this method effective.

Witnessing the religious ecstasy of several devotees, Narendra one day said to the Master that he too wanted to experience it. 'My child,' he was told, 'when a huge elephant enters a small pond, a great commotion is set up, but when it plunges into the Ganga, the river shows very little agitation. These devotees are like small ponds; a little experience makes their feelings flow over the brim. But you are a huge river.'

Another day the thought of excessive spiritual fervour frightened Naren. The Master reassured him by saying: 'God is like an ocean of sweetness; wouldn't you dive into it? Suppose there is a bowl filled with syrup, and you are a fly, hungry for the sweet liquid. How would you like to drink it?' Narendra said that he would sit on the edge of the bowl, otherwise he might be drowned in the syrup and lose his life. 'But,' the Master said, 'you must not forget that I am talking of the Ocean of Satchidananda, the Ocean of Immortality. Here one need not be afraid of death. Only fools say that one should not have too much of divine ecstasy. Can anybody carry to excess the love of God? You must dive deep in the Ocean of God.'

On one occasion Narendra and some of his brother disciples were vehemently arguing about God's nature — whether He was personal or impersonal, whether Divine Incarnation was fact or myth, and so forth and so on. Narendra silenced his opponents by his sharp power of reasoning and felt jubilant at his triumph. Sri Ramakrishna enjoyed the discussion and after it was over sang in an ecstatic mood:

How are you trying, O my mind, to know the nature of God?

You are groping like a madman locked in a dark room.

He is grasped through ecstatic love;

how can you fathom Him without it?

Only through affirmation, never negation, can you know Him;

Neither through Veda nor through Tantra nor the six darsanas.

All fell silent, and Narendra realized the inability of the intellect to fathom God's mystery.

In his heart of hearts Naren was a lover of God. Pointing to his eyes, Ramakrishna said that only a bhakta possessed such a tender look; the eyes of the jnani were generally dry. Many a time, in his later years, Narendra said, comparing his own spiritual attitude with that of the Master: 'He was a jnani within, but a bhakta without; but I am a bhakta within, and a jnani without.' He meant that Ramakrishna's gigantic intellect was hidden under a thin layer of devotion, and Narendra's devotional nature was covered by a cloak of knowledge.

We have already referred to the great depth of Sri Ramakrishna's love for his beloved disciple. He was worried about the distress of Naren's family and one day asked a wealthy devotee if he could not help Naren financially. Naren's pride was wounded and he mildly scolded the Master. The latter said with tears in his eyes: 'O my Naren! I can do anything for you, even beg from door to door.' Narendra was deeply moved but said nothing. Many days after, he remarked, 'The Master made me his slave by his love for me.'

This great love of Sri Ramakrishna enabled Naren to face calmly the hardships of life. Instead of hardening into a cynic, he developed a mellowness of heart. But, as will be seen later, Naren to the end of his life was often misunderstood by his friends. A bold thinker, he was far ahead of his time. Once he said: 'Why should I expect to be understood? It is enough that they love me. After all, who am I? The Mother knows best. She can do Her own work. Why should I think myself to be indispensable?'

The poverty at home was not an altogether unmitigated evil. It drew out another side of Naren's character. He began to feel intensely for the needy and afflicted. Had he been nurtured in luxury, the Master used to say, he would perhaps have become a different person — a statesman, a lawyer, an orator, or a social reformer. But instead, he dedicated his life to the service of humanity.

Sri Ramakrishna had had the prevision of Naren's future life of renunciation. Therefore he was quite alarmed when he came to know of the various plans made by Naren's relatives for his marriage. Prostrating himself in the shrine of Kali, he prayed repeatedly: 'O Mother! Do break up these plans. Do not let him sink in the quagmire of the world.' He closely watched Naren and warned him whenever he discovered the trace of an impure thought in his mind.

Naren's keen mind understood the subtle implications of Sri Ramakrishna's teachings. One day the Master said that the three salient disciplines of Vaishnavism were love of God's name, service to the devotees, and compassion for all living beings. But he did not like the word compassion and said to the devotees: 'How foolish to speak of compassion! Man is an insignificant worm crawling on the earth — and he to show compassion to others! This is absurd. It must not be compassion, but service to all. Recognize them as God's manifestations and serve them.'

The other devotees heard the words of the Master but could hardly understand their significance. Naren, however fathomed the meaning. Taking his young friends aside, he said that Sri Ramakrishna's remarks had thrown wonderful light on the philosophy of non-dualism with its discipline of non-attachment, and on that of dualism with its discipline of love. The two were not really in conflict. A non-dualist did not have to make his heart dry as sand, nor did he have to run away from the world. As Brahman alone existed in all men, a non-dualist must love all and serve all. Love, in the true sense of the word, is not possible unless one sees God in others. Naren said that the Master's words also reconciled the paths of knowledge and action. An illumined person did not have to remain inactive; he could commune with Brahman through service to other embodied beings, who also are embodiments of Brahman.

'If it be the will of God,' Naren concluded, 'I shall one day proclaim this noble truth before the world at large. I shall make it the common property of all — the wise and the fool, the rich and the poor, the brahmin and the pariah.'

Years later he expressed these sentiments in a noble poem which concluded with the following words:

Thy God is here before thee now,
Revealed in all these myriad forms:
Rejecting them, where seekest thou
His presence? He who freely shares
His love with every living thing
Proffers true service unto God.

It was Sri Ramakrishna who re-educated Narendranath in the essentials of Hinduism. He, the fulfilment of the spiritual aspirations of the three hundred millions of Hindus for the past three thousand years, was the embodiment of the Hindu faith. The beliefs Narendra had learnt on his mother's lap had been shattered by a collegiate education, but the young man now came to know that Hinduism does not consist of dogmas or creeds; it is an inner experience, deep and inclusive, which respects all faiths, all thoughts, all efforts and all realizations. Unity in diversity is its ideal.

Narendra further learnt that religion is a vision which, at the end, transcends all barriers of caste and race and breaks down the limitations of time and space. He learnt from the Master that the Personal God and worship through symbols ultimately lead the devotee to the realization of complete oneness with the Deity. The Master taught him the divinity of the soul, the non-duality of the Godhead, the unity of existence, and the harmony of religions. He showed Naren by his own example how a man in this very life could reach perfection, and the disciple found that the Master had realized the same God-consciousness by following the diverse disciplines of Hinduism, Christianity, and Islam.

One day the Master, in an ecstatic mood, said to the devotees: 'There are many opinions and many ways. I have seen them all and do not like them any more. The devotees of different faiths quarrel among themselves. Let me tell you something. You are my own people. There are no strangers around. I clearly see that God is the whole and I am a part of Him. He is the Lord and I am His servant. And sometimes I think He is I and I am He.'

Narendra regarded Sri Ramakrishna as the embodiment of the spirit of religion and did not bother to know whether he was or not an Incarnation of God. He was reluctant to cast the Master in any theological mould. It was enough for Naren if he could see through the vista of Ramakrishna's spiritual experiences all the aspects of the Godhead.

How did Narendra impress the other devotees of the Master, especially the youngsters? He was their idol. They were awed by his intellect and fascinated by his personality. In appearance he was a dynamic youth, overflowing with vigour and vitality, having a physical frame slightly over middle height and somewhat thickset in the shoulders. He was graceful without being feminine. He had a strong jaw, suggesting his staunch will and fixed determination. The chest was expansive, and the breadth of the head towards the front signified high mental power and development.

But the most remarkable thing about him was his eyes, which Sri Ramakrishna compared to lotus petals. They were prominent but not protruding, and part of the time their gaze was indrawn, suggesting the habit of deep meditation; their colour varied according to the feeling of the moment. Sometimes they would be luminous in profundity, and sometimes they sparkled in merriment. Endowed with the native grace of an animal, he was free in his movements. He walked sometimes with a slow gait and sometimes with rapidity, always a part of his mind absorbed in deep thought. And it was a delight to hear his resonant voice, either in conversation or in music.

But when Naren was serious his face often frightened his friends. In a heated discussion his eyes glowed. If immersed in his own thoughts, he created such an air of aloofness that no one dared to approach him. Subject to various moods, sometimes he showed utter impatience with his environment, and sometimes a tenderness that melted everybody's heart. His smile was bright and infectious. To some he was a happy dreamer, to some he lived in a real world rich with love and beauty, but to all he unfailingly appeared a scion of an aristocratic home.

And how did the Master regard his beloved disciple? To quote his own words:

'Narendra belongs to a very high plane — the realm of the Absolute. He has a manly nature. So many devotees come here, but there is no one like him.

'Every now and then I take stock of the devotees. I find that some are like lotuses with ten petals, some like lotuses with a hundred petals. But among lotuses Narendra is a thousand-petalled one.

'Other devotees may be like pots or pitchers; but Narendra is a huge water-barrel.

'Others may be like pools or tanks; but Narendra is a huge reservoir like the Haldarpukur.

'Among fish, Narendra is a huge red-eyed carp; others are like minnows or smelts or sardines.

'Narendra is a "very big receptacle", one that can hold many things. He is like a bamboo with a big hollow space inside.

'Narendra is not under the control of anything. He is not under the control of attachment or sense pleasures. He is like a male pigeon. If you hold a male pigeon by its beak, it breaks away from you; but the female pigeon keeps still. I feel great strength when Narendra is with me in a gathering.'

Sometime about the middle of 1885 Sri Ramakrishna showed the first symptoms of a throat ailment that later was diagnosed as cancer. Against the advice of the physicians, he continued to give instruction to spiritual seekers, and to fall into frequent trances. Both of these practices aggravated the illness. For the convenience of the physicians and the devotees, he was at first removed to a house in the northern section of Calcutta and then to a garden house at Cossipore, a suburb of the city. Narendra and the other young disciples took charge of nursing him. Disregarding the wishes of their guardians, the boys gave up their studies or neglected their duties at home, at least temporarily, in order to devote themselves heart and soul to the service of the Master. His wife, known among the devotees as the Holy Mother, looked after the cooking; the older devotees met the expenses. All regarded this service to the guru as a blessing and privilege.

Narendra time and again showed his keen insight and mature judgement during Sri Ramakrishna's illness. Many of the devotees, who looked upon the Master as God's Incarnation and therefore refused to see in him any human frailty, began to give a supernatural interpretation of his illness. They believed that it had been brought about by the will of the Divine Mother or the Master himself to fulfil an inscrutable purpose, and that it would be cured without any human effort after the purpose was fulfilled. Narendra said, however, that since Sri Ramakrishna was a combination of God and man the physical element in him was subject to such laws of nature as birth, growth, decay, and destruction. He refused to give the Master's disease, a natural phenomenon, any supernatural explanation. Nonetheless, he was willing to shed his last drop of blood in the service of Sri Ramakrishna.

Emotion plays an important part in the development of the spiritual life. While intellect removes the obstacles, it is emotion that gives the urge to the seeker to move forward. But mere emotionalism without the disciplines of discrimination and renunciation often leads him astray. He often uses it as a short cut to trance or ecstasy. Sri Ramakrishna, no doubt, danced and wept while singing God's name and experienced frequent trances; but behind his emotion there was the long practice of austerities and renunciation. His devotees had not witnessed the practice of his spiritual disciplines. Some of them, especially the elderly householders, began to display ecstasies accompanied by tears and physical contortions, which in many cases, as later appeared, were the result of careful rehearsal at home or mere imitation of Sri Ramakrishna's genuine trances. Some of the devotees, who looked upon the Master as a Divine Incarnation, thought that he had assumed their responsibilities, and therefore they relaxed their own efforts. Others began to speculate about the part each of them was destined to play in the new dispensation of Sri Ramakrishna. In short, those who showed the highest emotionalism posed as the most spiritually advanced.

Narendra's alert mind soon saw this dangerous trend in their lives. He began to make fun of the elders and warned his young brother disciples about the harmful effect of indulging in such outbursts. Real spirituality, he told them over and over again, was the eradication of worldly tendencies and the development of man's higher nature. He derided their tears and trances as symptoms of nervous disorder, which should be corrected by the power of the will, and, if necessary, by nourishing food and proper medical treatment. Very often, he said, unwary devotees of God fall victims to mental and physical breakdown. 'Of one hundred persons who take up the spiritual life,' he grimly warned, 'eighty turn out to be charlatans, fifteen insane, and only five, maybe, get a glimpse of the real truth. Therefore, beware.' He appealed to their inner strength and admonished them to keep away from all sentimental nonsense. He described to the young disciples Sri Ramakrishna's uncompromising self-control, passionate yearning for God, and utter renunciation of attachment to the world, and he insisted that those who loved the Master should apply his teachings in their lives.

Sri Ramakrishna, too, coming to realize the approaching end of his mortal existence, impressed it upon the devotees that the realization of God depended upon the giving up of lust and greed. The young disciples became grateful to Narendranath for thus guiding them during the formative period of their spiritual career. They spent their leisure hours together in meditation, study, devotional music, and healthy spiritual discussions.

The illness of Sri Ramakrishna showed no sign of abatement; the boys redoubled their efforts to nurse him, and Narendra was constantly by their side, cheering them whenever they felt depressed. One day he found them hesitant about approaching the Master. They had been told that the illness was infectious. Narendra dragged them to the Master's room. Lying in a corner was a cup containing part of the gruel which Sri Ramakrishna could not swallow. It was mixed with his saliva. Narendra seized the cup and swallowed its contents. This set at rest the boys' misgivings.

Narendra, understanding the fatal nature of Sri Ramakrishna's illness and realizing that the beloved teacher would not live long, intensified his own spiritual practices. His longing for the vision of God knew no limit. One day he asked the Master for the boon of remaining merged in samadhi three or four days at a stretch, interrupting his meditation now and then for a bite of food. 'You are a fool,' said the Master. 'There is a state higher than that. It is you who sing: "O Lord! Thou art all that exists."' Sri Ramakrishna wanted the disciple to see God in all beings and to serve them in a spirit of worship. He often said that to see the world alone, without God, is ignorance, ajnana; to see God alone, without the world, is a kind of philosophical knowledge, jnana; but to see all beings permeated by the spirit of God is supreme wisdom, vijnana. Only a few blessed souls could see God dwelling in all. He wanted Naren to attain this supreme wisdom. So the master said to him, 'Settle your family affairs first, then you shall know a state even higher than samadhi.'

On another occasion, in response to a similar request, Sri Ramakrishna said to Naren: 'Shame on you! You are asking for such an insignificant thing. I thought that you would be like a big banyan tree, and that thousands of people would rest in your shade. But now I see that you are seeking your own liberation.' Thus scolded, Narendra shed profuse tears. He realized the greatness of Sri Ramakrishna's heart.

An intense fire was raging within Narendra's soul. He could hardly touch his college books; he felt it was a dreadful thing to waste time in that way. One morning he went home but suddenly experienced an inner fear. He wept for not having made much spiritual progress, and hurried to Cossipore almost unconscious of the outside world. His shoes slipped off somewhere, and as he ran past a rick of straw some of it stuck to his clothes. Only after entering the Master's room did he feel some inner peace.

Sri Ramakrishna said to the other disciples present: 'Look at Naren's state of mind. Previously he did not believe in the Personal God or divine forms. Now he is dying for God's vision.' The Master then gave Naren certain spiritual instructions about meditation.

Naren was being literally consumed by a passion for God. The world appeared to him to be utterly distasteful. When the Master reminded him of his college studies, the disciple said, 'I would feel relieved if I could swallow a drug and forget all I have learnt' He spent night after night in meditation under the tress in the Panchavati at Dakshineswar, where Sri Ramakrishna, during the days of his spiritual discipline, had contemplated God. He felt the awakening of the Kundalini (The spiritual energy, usually dormant in man, but aroused by the practice of spiritual disciplines. See glossary.) and had other spiritual visions.

One day at Cossipore Narendra was meditating under a tree with Girish, another disciple. The place was infested with mosquitoes. Girish tried in vain to concentrate his mind. Casting his eyes on Naren, he saw him absorbed in meditation, though his body appeared to be covered by a blanket of the insects.

A few days later Narendra's longing seemed to have reached the breaking-point. He spent an entire night walking around the garden house at Cossipore and repeating Rama's name in a heart-rending manner. In the early hours of the morning Sri Ramakrishna heard his voice, called him to his side, and said affectionately: 'Listen, my child, why are you acting that way? What will you achieve by such impatience?' He stopped for a minute and then continued: 'See, Naren. What you have been doing now, I did for twelve long years. A storm raged in my head during that period. What will you realize in one night?'

But the master was pleased with Naren's spiritual struggle and made no secret of his wish to make him his spiritual heir. He wanted Naren to look after the young disciples. 'I leave them in your care,' he said to him. 'Love them intensely and see that they practise spiritual disciplines even after my death, and that they do not return home.' He asked the young disciples to regard Naren as their leader. It was an easy task for them. Then, one day, Sri Ramakrishna initiated several of the young disciples into the monastic life, and thus himself laid the foundation of the future Ramakrishna Order of monks.

Attendance on the Master during his sickness revealed to Narendra the true import of Sri Ramakrishna's spiritual experiences. He was amazed to find that the Master could dissociate himself from all consciousness of the body by a mere wish, at which time he was not aware of the least pain from his ailment. Constantly he enjoyed an inner bliss, in spite of the suffering of the body, and he could transmit that bliss to the disciples by a mere touch or look. To Narendra, Sri Ramakrishna was the vivid demonstration of the reality of the Spirit and the unsubstantiality of matter.

One day the Master was told by a scholar that he could instantly cure himself of his illness by concentrating his mind on his throat. This Sri Ramakrishna refused to do since he could never withdraw his mind from God. But at Naren's repeated request, the Master agreed to speak to the Divine Mother about his illness. A little later he said to the disciple in a sad voice: 'Yes, I told Her that I could not swallow any food on account of the sore in my throat, and asked Her to do something about it. But the Mother said, pointing to you all, "Why, are you not eating enough through all these mouths?" I felt so humiliated that I could not utter another word.' Narendra realized how Sri Ramakrishna applied in life the Vedantic idea of the oneness of existence and also came to know that only through such realization could one rise above the pain and suffering of the individual life.

To live with Sri Ramakrishna during his illness was in itself a spiritual experience. It was wonderful to witness how he bore with his pain. In one mood he would see that the Divine Mother alone was the dispenser of pleasure and pain and that his own will was one with the Mother's will, and in another mood he would clearly behold, the utter absence of diversity, God alone becoming men, animals, gardens, houses, roads, 'the executioner, the victim, and the slaughter-post,' to use the Master's own words.

Narendra saw in the Master the living explanation of the scriptures regarding the divine nature of the soul and the illusoriness of the body. Further, he came to know that Sri Ramakrishna had attained to that state by the total renunciation of 'woman' and 'gold,' which, indeed, was the gist of his teaching. Another idea was creeping into Naren's mind. He began to see how the transcendental Reality, the Godhead, could embody Itself as the Personal God, and the Absolute become a Divine Incarnation. He was having a glimpse of the greatest of all divine mysteries: the incarnation of the Father as the Son for the redemption of the world. He began to believe that God becomes man so that man may become God. Sri Ramakrishna thus appeared to him in a new light.

Under the intellectual leadership of Narendranath, the Cossipore garden house became a miniature university. During the few moments' leisure snatched from nursing and meditation, Narendra would discuss with his brother disciples religions and philosophies, both Eastern and Western. Along with the teachings of Sankara, Krishna, and Chaitanya, those of Buddha and Christ were searchingly examined.

Narendra had a special affection for Buddha, and one day suddenly felt a strong desire to visit Bodh-Gaya, where the great Prophet had attained enlightenment. With Kali and Tarak, two of the brother disciples, he left, unknown to the others, for that sacred place and meditated for long hours under the sacred Bo-tree. Once while thus absorbed he was overwhelmed with emotion and, weeping profusely, embraced Tarak. Explaining the incident, he said afterwards that during the meditation he keenly felt the presence of Buddha and saw vividly how the history of India had been changed by his noble teachings; pondering all this he could not control his emotion.

Back in Cossipore, Narendra described enthusiastically to the Master and the brother disciples of Buddha's life, experiences, and teachings. Sri Ramakrishna in turn related some of his own experiences. Narendra had to admit that the Master, after the attainment of the highest spiritual realization, had of his own will kept his mind on the phenomenal plane.

He further understood that a coin, however valuable, which belonged to an older period of history, could not be used as currency at a later date. God assumes different forms in different ages to serve the special needs of the time.

Narendra practised spiritual disciplines with unabating intensity. Sometimes he felt an awakening of a spiritual power that he could transmit to others. One night in March 1886, he asked his brother disciple Kali to touch his right knee, and then entered into deep meditation. Kali's hand began to tremble; he felt a kind of electric shock. Afterwards Narendra was rebuked by the Master for frittering away spiritual powers before accumulating them in sufficient measure. He was further told that he had injured Kali's spiritual growth, which had been following the path of dualistic devotion, by forcing upon the latter some of his own non-dualistic ideas. The Master added, however, that the damage was not serious.

Narendra had had enough of visions and manifestations of spiritual powers, and he now wearied of them. His mind longed for the highest experience of non-dualistic Vedanta, the nirvikalpa samadhi, in which the names and forms of the phenomenal world disappear and the aspirant realizes total non-difference between the individual soul, the universe, and Brahman, or the Absolute. He told Sri Ramakrishna about it, but the master remained silent. And yet one evening the experience came to him quite unexpectedly.

He was absorbed in his usual meditation when he suddenly felt as if a lamp were burning at the back of his head. The light glowed more and more intensely and finally burst. Narendra was overwhelmed by that light and fell unconscious. After some time, as he began to regain his normal mood, he could feel only his head and not the rest of his body.

In an agitated voice he said to Gopal, a brother disciple who was meditating in the same room, 'Where is my body?'

Gopal answered: 'Why, Naren, it is there. Don't you feel it?'

Gopal was afraid that Narendra was dying, and ran to Sri Ramakrishna's room. He found the Master in a calm but serious mood, evidently aware of what had happened in the room downstairs. After listening to Gopal the Master said, 'Let him stay in that state for a while; he has teased me long enough for it.'

For some time Narendra remained unconscious. When he regained his normal state of mind he was bathed in an ineffable peace. As he entered Sri Ramakrishna's room the latter said: 'Now the Mother has shown you everything. But this realization, like the jewel locked in a box, will be hidden away from you and kept in my custody. I will keep the key with me. Only after you have fulfilled your mission on this earth will the box be unlocked, and you will know everything as you have known now'.

The experience of this kind of samadhi usually has a most devastating effect upon the body; Incarnations and special messengers of God alone can survive its impact. By way of advice, Sri Ramakrishna asked Naren to use great discrimination about his food and companions, only accepting the purest.

Later the master said to the other disciples: 'Narendra will give up his body of his own will. When he realizes his true nature, he will refuse to stay on this earth. Very soon he will shake the world by his intellectual and spiritual powers. I have prayed to the Divine Mother to keep away from him the Knowledge of the Absolute and cover his eyes with a veil of maya. There is much work to be done by him. But the veil, I see, is so thin that it may be rent at any time.'

Sri Ramakrishna, the Avatar of the modern age, was too gentle and tender to labour himself, for humanity's welfare. He needed some sturdy souls to carry on his work.

Narendra was foremost among those around him; therefore Sri Ramakrishna did not want him to remain immersed in nirvikalpa samadhi before his task in this world was finished.

The disciples sadly watched the gradual wasting away of Sri Ramakrishna's physical frame. His body became a mere skeleton covered with skin; the suffering was intense. But he devoted his remaining energies to the training of the disciples, especially Narendra. He had been relieved of his worries about Narendra; for the disciple now admitted the divinity of Kali, whose will controls all things in the universe. Naren said later on: 'From the time he gave me over to the Divine Mother, he retained the vigour of his body only for six months. The rest of the time — and that was two long years — he suffered.'

One day the Master, unable to speak even in a whisper, wrote on a piece of paper: 'Narendra will teach others.' The disciple demurred. Sri Ramakrishna replied: 'But you must. Your very bones will do it.' He further said that all the supernatural powers he had acquired would work through his beloved disciple.

A short while before the curtain finally fell on Sri Ramakrishna's earthly life, the Master one day called Naren to his bedside. Gazing intently upon him, he passed into deep meditation. Naren felt that a subtle force, resembling an electric current, was entering his body. He gradually lost outer consciousness. After some time he regained knowledge of the physical world and found the Master weeping. Sri Ramakrishna said to him: 'O Naren, today I have given you everything I possess — now I am no more than a fakir, a penniless beggar. By the powers I have transmitted to you, you will accomplish great things in the world, and not until then will you return to the source whence you have come.'

Narendra from that day became the channel of Sri Ramakrishna's powers and the spokesman of his message.

Two days before the dissolution of the Master's body, Narendra was standing by the latter's bedside when a strange thought flashed into his mind: Was the Master truly an Incarnation of God? He said to himself that he would accept Sri Ramakrishna's divinity if the Master, on the threshold of death, declared himself to be an Incarnation. But this was only a passing thought. He stood looking intently at the Master face. Slowly Sri Ramakrishna's lips parted and he said in a clear voice: 'O my Naren, are you still not convinced? He who in the past was born as Rama and Krishna is now living in this very body as Ramakrishna — but not from the standpoint of your Vedanta.' Thus Sri Ramakrishna, in answer to Narendra's mental query, put himself in the category of Rama and Krishna, who are recognized by orthodox Hindus as two of the Avatars, or Incarnations of God.

A few words may be said here about the meaning of the Incarnation in the Hindu religious tradition. One of the main doctrines of Vedanta is the divinity of the soul: every soul, in reality, is Brahman. Thus it may be presumed that there is no difference between an Incarnation and an ordinary man. To be sure, from the standpoint of the Absolute, or Brahman, no such difference exists. But from the relative standpoint, where multiplicity is perceived, a difference must be admitted. Embodied human beings reflect godliness in varying measure. In an Incarnation this godliness is fully manifest. Therefore an Incarnation is unlike an ordinary mortal or even an illumined saint. To give an illustration: There is no difference between a clay lion and a clay mouse, from the standpoint of the clay. Both become the same substance when dissolved into clay. But the difference between the lion and the mouse, from the standpoint of form, is clearly seen. Likewise, as Brahman, an ordinary man is identical with an Incarnation. Both become the same Brahman when they attain final illumination. But in the relative state of name and form, which is admitted by Vedanta, the difference between them is accepted. According to the Bhagavad Gita (IV. 6-8), Brahman in times of spiritual crisis assumes a human body through Its own inscrutable power, called maya. Though birthless, immutable, and the Lord of all beings, yet in every age Brahman appears to be incarnated in a human body for the protection of the good and the destruction of the wicked.

As noted above, the Incarnation is quite different from an ordinary man, even from a saint. Among the many vital differences may be mentioned the fact that the birth of an ordinary mortal is governed by the law of karma, whereas that of an Incarnation is a voluntary act undertaken for the spiritual redemption of the world. Further, though maya is the cause of the embodiment of both an ordinary mortal and an Incarnation, yet the former is fully under maya's control, whereas the latter always remains its master. A man, though potentially Brahman, is not conscious of his divinity; but an Incarnation is fully aware of the true nature of His birth and mission. The spiritual disciplines practised by an Incarnation are not for His own liberation, but for the welfare of humanity; as far as He is concerned, such terms as bondage and liberation have no meaning, He being ever free, ever pure, and ever illumined. Lastly, an Incarnation can bestow upon others the boon of liberation, whereas even an illumined saint is devoid of such power.

Thus the Master, on his death-bed, proclaimed himself through his own words as the Incarnation or God-man of modern times.

On August 15, 1886, the Master's suffering became almost unbearable. After midnight he felt better for a few minutes. He summoned Naren to his beside and gave him the last instructions, almost in a whisper. The disciples stood around him. At two minutes past one in the early morning of August 16, Sri Ramakrishna uttered three times in a ringing voice the name of his beloved Kali and entered into the final samadhi, from which his mind never again returned to the physical world.

The body was given to the fire in the neighbouring cremation ground on the bank of the Ganga. But to the Holy Mother, as she was putting on the signs of a Hindu widow, there came these words of faith and reassurance: 'I am not dead. I have just gone from one room to another.'

As the disciples returned from the cremation ground to the garden house, they felt great desolation. Sri Ramakrishna had been more than their earthly father. His teachings and companionship still inspired them. They felt his presence in his room. His words rang in their ears. But they could no longer see his physical body or enjoy his seraphic smile. They all yearned to commune with him.

Within a week of the Master's passing away, Narendra one night was strolling in the garden with a brother disciple, when he saw in front of him a luminous figure. There was no mistaking: it was Sri Ramakrishna himself. Narendra remained silent, regarding the phenomenon as an illusion. But his brother disciple exclaimed in wonder, 'See, Naren! See!' There was no room for further doubt. Narendra was convinced that it was Sri Ramakrishna who had appeared in a luminous body. As he called to the other brother disciples to behold the Master, the figure disappeared.

AS A WANDERING MONK

Among the Master's disciples, Tarak, Latu, and the elder Gopal had already cut off their relationship with their families. The young disciples whom Sri Ramakrishna had destined for the monastic life were in need of a shelter. The Master had asked Naren to see to it that they should not become householders. Naren vividly remembered the Master's dying words: 'Naren, take care of the boys.' The householder devotees, moreover, wanted to meet, from time to time, at a place where they could talk about the Master. They longed for the company of the young disciples who had totally dedicated their lives to the realization of God. But who would bear the expenses of a house where the young disciples could live? How would they be provided with food and the basic necessities of life?

All these problems were solved by the generosity of Surendranath Mitra, the beloved householder disciple of Sri Ramakrishna. He came forward to pay the expenses of new quarters for the Master's homeless disciples. A house was rented at Baranagore, midway between Calcutta and Dakshineswar. Dreary and dilapidated, it was a building that had the reputation of being haunted by evil spirits. The young disciples were happy to take refuge in it from the turmoil of Calcutta. This Baranagore Math, as the new monastery was called, became the first headquarters of the monks of the Ramakrishna Order. Its centre was the shrine room, where the copper vessel containing the sacred ashes of the Master was daily worshipped as his visible presence.

Narendranath devoted himself heart and soul to the training of the young brother disciples. He spent the day-time at home, supervising a lawsuit that was pending in the court and looking after certain other family affairs; but during the evenings and nights he was always with his brothers at the monastery, exhorting them to practise spiritual disciplines. His presence was a source of unflinching delight and inspiration to all.

The future career of the youths began to take shape during these early days at Baranagore. The following incident hastened the process. At the invitation of the mother of Baburam, one of the disciples, they all went to the village of Antpur to spend a few days away from the austerities of Baranagore. Here they realized, more intensely than ever before, a common goal of life, a sense of brotherhood and unity integrating their minds and hearts. Their consecrated souls were like pearls in a necklace held together by the thread of Ramakrishna's teachings. They saw in one another a reservoir of spiritual power, and the vision intensified their mutual love and respect. Narendranath, describing to them the glories of the monastic life, asked them to give up the glamour of academic studies and the physical world, and all felt in their hearts the ground swell of the spirit of renunciation. This reached its height one night when they were sitting for meditation around a fire, in the fashion of Hindu monks. The stars sparkled overhead and the stillness was unbroken except for the crackling of the firewood. Suddenly Naren opened his eyes and began, with an apostolic fervour, to narrate to the brother disciples the life of Christ. He exhorted them to live like Christ, who had had no place 'to lay his head.' Inflamed by a new passion, the youths, making God and the sacred fire their witness, vowed to become monks.

When they had returned to their rooms in a happy mood, someone found out that it was Christmas Eve, and all felt doubly blest. It is no wonder that the monks of the Ramakrishna Order have always cherished a high veneration for Jesus of Nazareth. The young disciples, after their return to Baranagore, finally renounced home and became permanent inmates of the monastery. And what a life of austerity they lived there! They forgot their food when absorbed in meditation, worship, study, or devotional music. At such times Sashi, who had constituted himself their caretaker, literally dragged them to the dining-room. The privations they suffered during this period form a wonderful saga of spiritual discipline. Often there would be no food at all, and on such occasions they spent day and night in prayer and meditation. Sometimes there would be only rice, with no salt for flavouring; but nobody cared. They lived for months on boiled rice, salt, and bitter herbs. Not even demons could have stood such hardship. Each had two pieces of loin-cloth, and there were some regular clothes that were worn, by turns, when anyone had to go out. They slept on straw mats spread on the hard floor. A few pictures of saints, gods, and goddesses hung on the walls, and some musical instruments lay here and there. The library contained about a hundred books.

But Narendra did not want the brother disciples to be pain-hugging, cross-grained ascetics. They should broaden their outlook by assimilating the thought-currents of the world. He examined with them the histories of different countries and various philosophical systems. Aristotle and Plato, Kant and Hegel, together with Sankaracharya and Buddha, Ramanuja and Madhva, Chaitanya and Nimbarka, were thoroughly discussed. The Hindu philosophical systems of Jnana, Bhakti, Yoga, and Karma, each received a due share of attention, and their apparent contradictions were reconciled in the light of Sri Ramakrishna's teachings and experiences. The dryness of discussion was relieved by devotional music. There were many moments, too, when the inmates indulged in light-hearted and witty talk, and Narendra's bons mots on such occasions always convulsed them with laughter. But he would never let them forget the goal of the monastic life: the complete control of the lower nature, and the realization of God.

'During those days,' one of the inmates of the monastery said, 'he worked like a madman. Early in the morning, while it was still dark, he would rise from bed and wake up the others, singing, "Awake, arise, all who would drink of the Divine Nectar!" And long after midnight he and his brother disciples would still be sitting on the roof of the monastery building, absorbed in religious songs. The neighbours protested, but to no avail. Pandits came and argued. He was never for one moment idle, never dull.' Yet the brother complained that they could not realize even a fraction of what Ramakrishna had taught.

Some of the householder devotees of the Master, however, did not approve of the austerities of the young men, and one of them teasingly inquired if they had realized God by giving up the world. 'What do you mean?' Narendra said furiously. 'Suppose we have not realized God; must we then return to the life of the senses and deprave our higher nature?'

Soon the youth of the Baranagore monastery became restless for the life of the wandering monk with no other possessions except staff and begging-bowl. Thus they would learn self-surrender to God, detachment, and inner serenity. They remembered the Hindu proverb that the monk who constantly moves on, remains pure, like water that flows. They wanted to visit the holy places and thus give an impetus to their spiritual life.

Narendra, too, wished to enjoy the peace of solitude. He wanted to test his own inner strength as well as teach others not to depend upon him always. Some of the brother disciples had already gone away from the monastery when he began his wanderings. The first were in the nature of temporary excursions; he had to return to Baranagore in response to the appeal of the inmates of the monastery. But finally in 1890, when he struck out again — without a name and with only a staff and begging-bowl — he was swallowed in the immensity of India and the dust of the vast subcontinent completely engulfed him. When rediscovered by his brother monks he was no longer the unknown Naren, but the Swami Vivekananda who had made history in Chicago in 1893.

In order to satisfy his wanderlust, Narendra went to Varanasi, considered the holiest place in India — a city sanctified from time out of mind by the association of monks and devotees. Here have come prophets like Buddha, Sankaracharya, and Chaitanya, to receive, as it were, the commandment of God to preach their messages. The Ganga charges the atmosphere with a rare holiness. Narendra felt uplifted by the spirit of renunciation and devotion that pervades this sacred place. He visited the temples and paid his respects to such holy men as Trailanga Swami, who lived on the bank of the Ganga constantly absorbed in meditation, and Swami Bhaskarananda, who annoyed Naren by expressing doubt as to the possibility of a man's total conquest of the temptation of 'woman' and 'gold.' With his own eyes Naren had seen the life of Sri Ramakrishna, who had completely subdued his lower nature.

In Varanasi, one day, hotly pursued by a troop of monkeys, he was running away when a monk called to him: 'Face the brutes.' He stopped and looked defiantly at the ugly beasts. They quickly disappeared. Later, as a preacher, he sometimes used this experience to exhort people to face the dangers and vicissitudes of life and not run away from them.

After a few days Naren returned to Baranagore and plunged into meditation, study, and religious discourses. From this time he began to feel a vague premonition of his future mission. He often asked himself if such truths of the Vedanta philosophy as the divinity of the soul and the unity of existence should remain imprisoned in the worm-eaten pages of the scriptures to furnish a pastime for erudite scholars or to be enjoyed only by solitary monks in caves and the depths of the wilderness; did they not have any significance for the average man struggling with life's problems? Must the common man, because of his ignorance of the scriptures, be shut out from the light of Vedanta?

Narendra spoke to his brother disciples about the necessity of preaching the strength-giving message of the Vedanta philosophy to one and all, and especially to the downtrodden masses. But these monks were eager for their own salvation, and protested. Naren said to them angrily: 'All are preaching. What they do unconsciously, I will do consciously. Ay, even if you, my brother monks, stand in my way, I will go to the pariahs and preach in the lowest slums.'

After remaining at Baranagore a short while, Naren set out again for Varanasi, where he met the Sanskrit scholar Pramadadas Mitra. These two felt for each other a mutual respect and affection, and they discussed, both orally and through letters, the social customs of the Hindus and abstruse passages of the scriptures. Next he visited Ayodhya, the ancient capital of Rama, the hero of the Ramayana. Lucknow, a city of gardens and palaces created by the Moslem Nawabs, filled his mind with the glorious memories of Islamic rule, and the sight of the Taj Mahal in Agra brought tears to his eyes. In Vrindavan he recalled the many incidents of Krishna's life and was deeply moved.

While on his way to Vrindavan, trudging barefoot and penniless, Naren saw a man seated by the roadside enjoying a smoke. He asked the stranger to give him a puff from his tobacco bowl, but the man was an untouchable and shrank from such an act; for it was considered sacrilegious by Hindu society. Naren continued on his way, but said to himself suddenly: 'What a shame! The whole of my life I have contemplated the non-duality of the soul, and now I am thrown into the whirlpool of the caste-system. How difficult it is to get over innate tendencies!' He returned to the untouchable, begged him to lend him his smoking-pipe, and in spite of the remonstrances of the low-caste man, enjoyed a hearty smoke and went on to Vrindavan.

Next we find Naren at the railroad station of Hathras, on his way to the sacred pilgrimage centre of Hardwar in the foothills of the Himalayas. The station-master, Sarat Chandra Gupta, was fascinated at the very first sight of him. 'I followed the two diabolical eyes,' he said later. Narendra accepted Sarat as a disciple and called him 'the child of my spirit'. At Hathras he discussed with visitors the doctrines of Hinduism and entertained them with music, and then one day confided to Sarat that he must move on. 'My son,' he said, 'I have a great mission to fulfil and I am in despair at the smallness of my power. My guru asked me to dedicate my life to the regeneration of my motherland. Spirituality has fallen to a low ebb and starvation stalks the land. India must become dynamic again and earn the respect of the world through her spiritual power.'

Sarat immediately renounced the world and accompanied Narendra from Hathras to Hardwar. The two then went on to Hrishikesh, on the bank of the Ganga several miles north of Hardwar, where they found themselves among monks of various sects, who were practising meditation and austerities. Presently Sarat fell ill and his companion took him back to Hathras for treatment. But Naren, too, had been attacked with malaria fever at Hrishikesh. He now made his way to the Baranagore monastery.

Naren had now seen northern India, the Aryavarta, the sacred land of the Aryans, where the spiritual culture of India had originated and developed. The main stream of this ancient Indian culture, issuing from the Vedas and the Upanishads and branching off into the Puranas and the Tantras, was subsequently enriched by contributions from such foreign peoples as the Saks, the Huns, the Greeks, the Pathans, and the Moguls. Thus India developed a unique civilization based upon the ideal of unity in diversity. Some of the foreign elements were entirely absorbed into the traditional Hindu consciousness; others, though flavoured by the ancient thought of the land, retained their individuality. Realizing the spiritual unity of India and Asia, Narendra discovered the distinctive characteristics of Oriental civilization: renunciation of the finite and communion with the Infinite.

But the stagnant life of the Indian masses, for which he chiefly blamed the priests and the landlords, saddened his heart. Naren found that his country's downfall had not been caused by religion. On the contrary, as long as India had clung to her religious ideals, the country had over flowed with material prosperity. But the enjoyment of power for a long time had corrupted the priests. The people at large were debarred from true knowledge of religion, and the Vedas, the source of the Hindu culture, were completely forgotten, especially in Bengal. Moreover, the caste-system, which had originally been devised to emphasize the organic unity of Hindu society, was now petrified. Its real purpose had been to protect the weak from the ruthless competition of the strong and to vindicate the supremacy of spiritual knowledge over the power of military weapons, wealth, and organized labour; but now it was sapping the vitality of the masses. Narendra wanted to throw open the man-making wisdom of the Vedas to all, and thus bring about the regeneration of his motherland. He therefore encouraged his brothers at the Barangaore monastery to study the grammar of Panini, without which one could not acquire first-hand knowledge of the Vedas.

The spirit of democracy and equality in Islam appealed to Naren's mind and he wanted to create a new India with Vedantic brain and Moslem body. Further, the idea began to dawn in his mind that the material conditions of the masses could not be improved without the knowledge of science and technology as developed in the West. He was already dreaming of building a bridge to join the East and the West. But the true leadership of India would have to spring from the soil of the country. Again and again he recalled that Sri Ramakrishna had been a genuine product of the Indian soil, and he realized that India would regain her unity and solidarity through the understanding of the Master's spiritual experiences.

Naren again became restless to 'do something', but what, he did not know. He wanted to run away from his relatives since he could not bear the sight of their poverty. He was eager to forget the world through meditation. During the last part of December 1889, therefore, he again struck out from the Baranagore monastery and turned his face towards Varanasi. 'My idea,' he wrote to a friend, 'is to live in Varanasi for some time and to watch how Viswanath and Annapurna deal out my lot. I have resolved either to realize my ideal or to lay down my life in the effort — so help me Lord of Varanasi!'

On his way to Varanasi he heard that Swami Yogananda, one of his brother disciples, was lying ill in Allahabad and decided to proceed there immediately. In Allahabad he met a Moslem saint, 'every line and curve of whose face showed that he was a paramahansa.' Next he went to Ghazipur and there he came to know the saint Pavhari Baba, the 'air-eating holy man.'

Pavhari Baba was born near Varanasi of brahmin parents. In his youth he had mastered many branches of Hindu philosophy. Later he renounced the world, led an austere life, practised the disciplines of Yoga and Vedanta, and travelled over the whole of India. At last he settled in Ghazipur, where he built an underground hermitage on the bank of the Ganga and spent most of his time in meditation. He lived on practically nothing and so was given by the people the sobriquet of the 'air-eating holy man'; all were impressed by his humility and spirit of service. Once he was bitten by a cobra and said while suffering terrible pain, 'Oh, he was a messenger from my Beloved!' Another day, a dog ran off with his bread and he followed, praying humbly, 'Please wait, my Lord; let me butter the bread for you.' Often he would give away his meagre food to beggars or wandering monks, and starve. Pavhari Baba had heard of Sri Ramakrishna, held him in high respect as a Divine Incarnation, and kept in his room a photograph of the Master. People from far and near visited the Baba, and when not engaged in meditation he would talk to them from behind a wall. For several days before his death he remained indoors. Then, one day, people noticed smoke issuing from his underground cell with the smell of burning flesh. It was discovered that the saint, having come to realize the approaching end of his earthly life, had offered his body as the last oblation to the Lord, in an act of supreme sacrifice.

Narendra, at the time of his meeting Pavhari Baba, was suffering from the sever pain of lumbago, and this had made it almost impossible for him either to move about or to sit in meditation. Further, he was mentally distressed, for he had heard of the illness of Abhedananda, another of his brother disciples, who was living at Hrishikesh. 'You know not, sir,' he wrote to a friend, 'that I am a very soft-natured man in spite of the stern Vedantic views I hold. And this proves to be my undoing. For however I may try to think only of my own good, I begin, in spite of myself, to think of other people's interests.' Narendra wished to forget the world and his own body through the practice of Yoga, and went for instruction to Pavhari Baba, intending to make the saint his guru. But the Baba, with characteristic humility, put him off from day to day.

One night when Naren was lying in bed thinking of Pavhari Baba, Sri Ramakrishna appeared to him and stood silently near the door, looking intently into his eyes. The vision was repeated for twenty-one days. Narendra understood. He reproached himself bitterly for his lack of complete faith in Sri Ramakrishna. Now, at last, he was convinced, he wrote to a friend: 'Ramakrishna has no peer. Nowhere else in the world exists such unprecedented perfection, such wonderful kindness to all, such intense sympathy for men in bondage.' Tearfully he recalled how Sri Ramakrishna had never left unfulfilled a single prayer of his, how he had forgiven his offences by the million and removed his afflictions.

But as long as Naren lived he cherished sincere affection and reverence for Pavhari Baba, and he remembered particularly two of his instructions. One of these was: 'Live in the house of your teacher like a cow,' which emphasizes the spirit of service and humility in the relationship between the teacher and the disciple. The second instruction of the Baba was: 'Regard spiritual discipline in the same way as you regard the goal,' which means that an aspirant should not differentiate between cause and effect.

Narendranath again breathed peace and plunged into meditation. After a few days he went to Varanasi, where he learnt of the serious illness of Balaram Bose, one of the foremost lay disciples of Sri Ramakrishna. At Ghazipur he had heard that Surendranath Mitra, another lay disciple of the Master, was dying. He was overwhelmed with grief, and to Pramadadas, who expressed his surprise at the sight of a sannyasin indulging in a human emotion, he said: 'Please do not talk that way. We are not dry monks. Do you think that because a man has renounced the world he is devoid of all feeling?'

He came to Calcutta to be at the bedside of Balaram, who passed away on May 13. Surendra Mitra died on May 25. But Naren steadied his nerves, and in addition to the practice of his own prayer and meditation, devoted himself again to the guidance of his brother disciples. Some time during this period he conceived the idea of building a permanent temple to preserve the relics of Sri Ramakrishna.

From his letters and conversations one can gain some idea of the great storm that was raging in Naren's soul during this period. He clearly saw to what an extent the educated Hindus had come under the spell of the materialistic ideas of the West. He despised sterile imitation. But he was also aware of the great ideas that formed the basis of European civilization. He told his friends that in India the salvation of the individual was the accepted goal, whereas in the West it was the uplift of the people, without distinction of caste or creed. Whatever was achieved there was shared by the common man; freedom of spirit manifested itself in the common good and in the advancement of all men by the united efforts of all. He wanted to introduce this healthy factor into the Indian consciousness.

Yet he was consumed by his own soul's hunger to remain absorbed in samadhi. He felt at this time a spiritual unrest like that which he had experienced at the Cossipore garden house during the last days of Sri Ramakrishna's earthly existence. The outside world had no attraction for him. But another factor, perhaps unknown to him, was working within him. Perfect from his birth, he did not need spiritual disciplines for his own liberation. Whatever disciplines he practised were for the purpose of removing the veil that concealed, for the time being, his true divine nature and mission in the world. Even before his birth, the Lord had chosen him as His instrument to help Him in the spiritual redemption of humanity.

Now Naren began to be aware that his life was to be quite different from that of a religious recluse: he was to work for the good of the people. Every time he wanted to taste for himself the bliss of samadhi, he would hear the piteous moans of the teeming millions of India, victims of poverty and ignorance. Must they, Naren asked himself, for ever grovel in the dust and live like brutes? Who would be their saviour?

He began, also, to feel the inner agony of the outwardly happy people of the West, whose spiritual vitality was being undermined by the mechanistic and materialistic conception of life encouraged by the sudden development of the physical sciences. Europe, he saw, was sitting on the crater of a smouldering volcano, and any moment Western culture might be shattered by its fiery eruption. The suffering of man, whether in the East or in the West, hurt his tender soul. The message of Vedanta, which proclaimed the divinity of the soul and the oneness of existence, he began to realize, could alone bind up and heal the wounds of India and the world. But what could he, a lad of twenty-five, do? The task was gigantic. He talked about it with his brother disciples, but received scant encouragement. He was determined to work alone if no other help was forthcoming.

Narendra felt cramped in the monastery at Baranagore and lost interest in its petty responsibilities. The whole world now beckoned him to work. Hence, one day in 1890, he left the monastery again with the same old determination never to return. He would go to the Himalayas and bury himself in the depths of his own thought. To a brother disciple he declared, 'I shall not return until I gain such realization that my very touch will transform a man.' He prayed to the Holy Mother that he might not return before attaining the highest Knowledge, and she blessed him in the name of Sri Ramakrishna. Then she asked whether he would not like to take leave of his earthly mother. 'Mother,' Naren replied, 'you are my only mother.'

Accompanied by Swami Akhandananda, Naren left Calcutta and set out for Northern India. The two followed the course of the Ganga, their first halting-place being Bhagalpur. To one of the people who came to visit him there Naren said that whatever of the ancient Aryan knowledge, intellect, and genius remained, could be found mostly in those parts of the country that lay near the banks of the Ganga. The farther one departed from the river, the less one saw of that culture. This fact, he believed, explained the greatness of the Ganga as sung in the Hindu scriptures. He further observed: 'The epithet "mild Hindu" instead of being a word of reproach, ought really to point to our glory, as expressing greatness of character. For see how much moral and spiritual advancement and how much development of the qualities of love and compassion have to be acquired before one can get rid of the brutish force of one's nature, which impels a man to slaughter his brother men for self-aggrandizement!'

He spent a few days in Varanasi and left the city with the prophetic words: 'When I return here the next time, I shall burst upon society like a bomb-shell, and it will follow me like a dog.'

After visiting one or two places, Naren and Akhandananda arrived at Nainital, their destination being the sacred Badrikashrama, in the heart of the Himalayas. They decided to travel the whole way on foot, and also not to touch money. Near Almora under an old peepul tree by the side of a stream, they spent many hours in meditation. Naren had a deep spiritual experience, which he thus jotted down in his note-book:

In the beginning was the Word, etc.

The microcosm and the macrocosm are built on the same plan. Just as the individual soul is encased in a living body, so is the Universal Soul, in the living prakriti (nature), the objective universe. Kali is embracing Siva. This is not a fancy. This covering of the one (Soul) by the other (nature) is analogous to the relation between an idea and the word expressing it. They are one and the same, and it is only by a mental abstraction that one can distinguish them. Thought is impossible without words. Therefore in the beginning was the Word, etc.

This dual aspect of the Universal Soul is eternal. So what we perceive or feel is the combination of the Eternally Formed and the Eternally Formless.

Thus Naren realized, in the depths of meditation, the oneness of the universe and man, who is a universe in miniature. He realized that, all that exists in the universe also exists in the body, and further, that the whole universe exists in the atom.

Several other brother disciples joined Naren. But they could not go to Badrikashrama since the road was closed by Government order on account of famine. They visited different holy places, lived on alms, studied the scriptures, and meditated. At this time, the sad news arrived of the suicide of one of Naren's sisters under tragic conditions, and reflecting on the plight of Hindu women in the cruel present-day society, he thought that he would be a criminal if he remained an indifferent spectator of such social injustice.

Naren proceeded to Hrishikesh, a beautiful valley at the foot of the Himalayas, which is surrounded by hills and almost encircled by the Ganga. From an immemorial past this sacred spot has been frequented by monks and ascetics. After a few days, however, Naren fell seriously ill and his friends despaired of his life. When he was convalescent he was removed to Meerut. There he met a number of his brother disciples and together they pursued the study of the scriptures, practised prayer and meditation, and sang devotional songs, creating in Meerut a miniature Baranagore monastery.

After a stay of five months Naren became restless, hankering again for his wandering life; but he desired to be alone this time and break the chain of attachment to his brother disciples. He wanted to reflect deeply about his future course of action, of which now and then he was getting glimpses. From his wanderings in the Himalayas he had become convinced that the Divine Spirit would not allow him to seal himself within the four walls of a cave. Every time he had thought to do so, he had been thrown out, as it were, by a powerful force. The degradation of the Indian masses and the spiritual sickness of people everywhere were summoning him to a new line of action, whose outer shape was not yet quite clear to him.

In the later part of January 1891, Naren bade farewell to his brother disciples and set out for Delhi, assuming the name of Swami Vividishananda. He wished to travel without being recognized. He wanted the dust of India to cover up his footprints. It was his desire to remain an unknown sannyasin, among the thousands of others seen in the country's thoroughfares, market-places, deserts, forests, and caves. But the fires of the Spirit that burnt in his eyes, and his aristocratic bearing, marked him as a prince among men despite all his disguises.

In Delhi, Naren visited the palaces, mosques, and tombs. All around the modern city he saw a vast ruin of extinct empires dating from the prehistoric days of the Mahabharata, revealing the transitoriness of material achievements. But gay and lively Delhi also revealed to him the deathless nature of the Hindu spirit.

Some of his brother disciples from Meerut came to the city and accidentally discovered their beloved leader. Naren was angry. He said to them: 'Brethren I told you that I desired to be left alone. I asked you not to follow me. This I repeat once more. I must not be followed. I shall presently leave Delhi. No one must try to know my whereabouts. I shall sever all old associations. Wherever the Spirit leads, there I shall wander. It matters not whether I wander about in a forest or in a desert, on a lonely mountain or in a populous city. I am off. Let everyone strive to realize his goal according to his lights.'

Narendra proceeded towards historic Rajputana, repeating the words of the Suttanipata:

Go forward without a path,
Fearing nothing, caring for nothing,
Wandering alone, like the rhinoceros!
Even as a lion, not trembling at noises,
Even as the wind, not caught in a net,
Even as the lotus leaf, untainted by water,
Do thou wander alone, like the rhinoceros!

Several factors have been pointed out as influencing Naren's life and giving shape to his future message: the holy association of Sri Ramakrishna, his own knowledge of Eastern and Western cultures, and his spiritual experiences. To these another must be added: the understanding of India gained through his wanderings. This new understanding constituted a unique education for Naren. Here, the great book of life taught him more than the printed words of the libraries.

He mixed with all — today sleeping with pariahs in their huts and tomorrow conversing on equal terms with Maharajas, Prime Ministers, orthodox pandits, and liberal college professors. Thus he was brought into contact with their joys and sorrows, hopes and frustrations. He witnessed the tragedy of present-day India and also reflected on its remedy. The cry of the people of India, the God struggling in humanity, and the anxiety of men everywhere to grasp a hand for aid, moved him deeply. In the course of his travels Naren came to know how he could make himself a channel of the Divine Spirit in the service of mankind.

During these wandering days he both learnt and taught. The Hindus he asked to go back to the eternal truths of their religion, hearken to the message of the Upanishads, respect temples and religious symbols, and take pride in their birth in the holy land of India. He wanted them to avoid both the outmoded orthodoxy still advocated by fanatical leaders, and the misguided rationalism of the Westernized reformers. He was struck by the essential cultural unity of India in spite of the endless diversity of form. And the people who came to know him saw in him the conscience of India, her unity, and her destiny.

As already noted, Narendranath while travelling in India often changed his name to avoid recognition. It will not be improper to call him, from this point of his life, by the monastic title of 'Swami,' or the more affectionate and respectful appellation of 'Swamiji.'

In Alwar, where Swamiji arrived one morning in the beginning of February 1891, he was cordially received by Hindus and Moslems alike. To a Moslem scholar he said:

'There is one thing very remarkable about the Koran. Even to this day it exists as it was recorded eleven hundred years ago. The book has retained its original purity and is free from interpolation.'

He had a sharp exchange of words with the Maharaja, who was Westernized in his outlook. To the latter's question as to why the Swami, an able-bodied young man and evidently a scholar, was leading a vagabond's life, the Swami retorted, 'Tell me why you constantly spend your time in the company of Westerners and go out on shooting excursions, neglecting your royal duties.' The Maharaja said, 'I cannot say why, but, no doubt, because I like to.' 'Well,' the Swami exclaimed, 'for that very reason I wander about as a monk.'

Next, the Maharaja ridiculed the worship of images, which to him were nothing but figures of stone, clay, or metal. The Swami tried in vain to explain to him that Hindus worshipped God alone, using the images as symbols. The Prince was not convinced. Thereupon the Swami asked the Prime Minister to take down a picture of the Maharaja, hanging on the wall, and spit on it. Everyone present was horror-struck at this effrontery. The Swami turned to the Prince and said that though the picture was not the Maharaja himself, in flesh and blood, yet it reminded everyone of his person and thus was held in high respect; likewise the image brought to the devotee's mind the presence of the Deity and was therefore helpful for concentration, especially at the beginning of his spiritual life. The Maharaja apologized to Swamiji for his rudeness.

The Swami exhorted the people of Alwar to study the eternal truths of Hinduism, especially to cultivate the knowledge of Sanskrit, side by side with Western science. He also encouraged them to read Indian history, which he remarked should be written by Indians following the scientific method of the West. European historians dwelt mainly on the decadent period of Indian culture.

In Jaipur the Swami devoted himself to the study of Sanskrit grammar, and in Ajmer he recalled the magnificence of the Hindu and Moslem rules. At Mount Abu he gazed in wonder at the Jain temple of Dilwara, which it has been said, was begun by titans and finished by jewellers. There he accepted the hospitality of a Moslem official. To his scandalized Hindu friends the Swami said that he was, as a sannyasin belonging to the highest order of paramahamsas, above all rules of caste. His conduct in dining with Moslems, he further said, was not in conflict with the teachings of the scriptures, though it might be frowned upon by the narrow-minded leaders of Hindu society.

At Mount Abu the Swami met the Maharaja of Khetri, who later became one of his devoted disciples. The latter asked the Swami for the boon of a male heir and obtained his blessing.

Next we see the Swami travelling in Gujarat and Kathiawar in Western India. In Ahmedabad he refreshed his knowledge of Jainism. Kathiawar, containing a large number of places sacred both to the Hindus and the to Jains, was mostly ruled by Hindu Maharaja, who received the Swami with respect. To Babu Haridas Viharidas, the Prime Minister of the Moslem state of Junagad, he emphasized the need of preaching the message of Hinduism throughout the world. He spent eleven months in Porbandar and especially enjoyed the company of the Prime Minister, Pandit Sankar Pandurang, a great Sanskrit scholar who was engaged in the translation of the Vedas. Impressed by the Swami's intellectuality and originality, the pandit said: 'Swamiji, I am afraid you cannot do much in this country. Few will appreciate you here. You ought to go to the West, where people will understand you and your work. Surely you can give to the Western people your enlightening interpretation of Hinduism.'

The Swami was pleased to hear these words, which coincided with something he had been feeling within. The Prime Minister encouraged the Swami to continue his study of the French language since it might be useful to him in his future work.

During this period the Swami was extremely restless. He felt within him a boundless energy seeking channels for expression. The regeneration of India was uppermost in his mind. A reawakened India could, in her turn, help the world at large. The sight of the pettiness, jealousy, disunion, ignorance, and poverty among the Hindus filled his mind with great anguish. But he had no patience with the Westernized reformers, who had lost their contact with the soul of the country. He thoroughly disapproved of their method of social, religious, and political reform through imitation of the West. He wanted the Hindus to cultivate self-confidence. Appreciation of India's spiritual culture by the prosperous and powerful West, he thought, might give the Hindus confidence in their own heritage. He prayed to the Lord for guidance. He became friendly with the Hindu Maharajas who ruled over one-fifth of the country and whose influence was great over millions of people. Through them he wanted to introduce social reforms, improved methods of education, and other measures for the physical and cultural benefit of the people. The Swami felt that in this way his dream of India's regeneration would be realized with comparative ease.

After spending a few days in Baroda, the Swami came to Khandwa in Central India. Here he dropped the first hint of his willingness to participate in the Parliament of Religions to be held shortly in Chicago. He had heard of this Parliament either in Junagad or Porbandar.

After visiting Bombay, Poona, and Kolhapur, the Swami arrived at Belgaum. In Bombay he had accidentally met Swami Abhedananda and in the course of a talk had said to him, 'Brother, such a great power has grown within me that sometimes I feel that my whole body will burst.'

All through this wandering life he exchanged ideas with people in all stations and stages of life and impressed everyone with his earnestness, eloquence, gentleness, and vast knowledge of India and Western culture. Many of the ideas he expressed at this time were later repeated in his public lectures in America and India. But the thought nearest to his heart concerned the poor and ignorant villagers, victims of social injustice: how to improve the sanitary condition of the villages, introduce scientific methods of agriculture, and procure pure water for daily drinking; how to free the peasants from their illiteracy and ignorance, how to give back to them their lost confidence. Problems like these tormented him day and night. He remembered vividly the words of Sri Ramakrishna that religion was not meant for 'empty stomachs.'

To his hypochondriac disciple Haripada he gave the following sound advice: 'What is the use of thinking always of disease? Keep cheerful, lead a religious life, cherish elevating thoughts, be merry, but never indulge in pleasures which tax the body or for which you will feel remorse afterwards; then all will be well. And as regards death, what does it matter if people like you and me die? That will not make the earth deviate from its axis! We should not consider ourselves so important as to think that the world cannot move on without us.'

When he mentioned to Haripada his desire to proceed to America, the disciple was delighted and wanted to raise money for the purpose, but the Swami said to him that he would not think about it until after making his pilgrimage to Rameswaram and worshipping the Deity there.

From Belgaum the Swami went to Bangalore in the State of Mysore, which was ruled by a Hindu Maharaja. The Maharaja's Prime Minister described the young monk as 'a majestic personality and a divine force destined to leave his mark on the history of his country.' The Maharaja, too, was impressed by his 'brilliance of thought, charm of character, wide learning, and penetrating religious insight.' He kept the Swami as his guest in the palace.

One day, in front of his high officials, the Maharaja asked the Swami, 'Swamiji, what do you think of my courtiers?'

'Well,' came the bold reply, 'I think Your Highness has a very good heart, but you are unfortunately surrounded by courtiers who are generally flatterers. Courtiers are the same everywhere.'

'But,' the Maharaja protested, 'my Prime Minister is not such. He is intelligent and trustworthy.'

'But, Your Highness, Prime Minister is "one who robs the Maharaja and pays the Political Agent."'

The Prince changed the subject and afterwards warned the Swami to be more discreet in expressing his opinion of the officials in a Native State; otherwise those unscrupulous people might even poison him. But the Swami burst out: 'What! Do you think an honest sannyasin is afraid of speaking the truth, even though it may cost him his very life? Suppose your own son asks me about my opinion of yourself; do you think I shall attribute to you all sorts of virtues which I am quite sure you do not possess? I can never tell a lie.'

The Swami addressed a meeting of Sanskrit scholars and gained their applause for his knowledge of Vedanta. He surprised an Austrian musician at the Prince's court with his knowledge of Western music. He discussed with the Maharaja his plan of going to America, but when the latter came forward with an offer to pay his expenses for the trip, he declined to make a final decision before visiting Rameswaram. Perhaps he was not yet quite sure of God's will in the matter. When pressed by the Maharaja and the Prime Minister to accept some gifts, the costlier the better, the Swami took a tobacco pipe from the one and a cigar from the other.

Now the Swami turned his steps towards picturesque Malabar. At Trivandrum, the capital of Travancore, he moved in the company of college professors, state officials, and in general among the educated people of the city. They found him equally at ease whether discussing Spencer or Sankaracharya, Shakespeare or Kalidasa, Darwin or Patanjali, Jewish history or Aryan civilization. He pointed out to them the limitations of the physical sciences and the failure of Western psychology to understand the superconscious aspect of human nature.

Orthodox brahmins regarded with abhorrence the habit of eating animal food. The Swami courageously told them about the eating of beef by the brahmins in Vedic times. One day, asked about what he considered the most glorious period of Indian history, the Swami mentioned the Vedic period, when 'five brahmins used to polish off one cow.' He advocated animal food for the Hindus if they were to cope at all with the rest of the world in the present reign of power and find a place among the other great nations, whether within or outside the British Empire.

An educated person of Travancore said about him: 'Sublimity and simplicity were written boldly on his features. A clean heart, a pure and austere life, an open mind, a liberal spirit, wide outlook, and broad sympathy were the outstanding characteristics of the Swami.'

From Trivandrum the Swami went to Kanyakumari (Cape Comorin), which is the southernmost tip of India and from there he moved up to Rameswaram. At Rameswaram the Swami met Bhaskara Setupati, the Raja of Ramnad, who later became one of his ardent disciples. He discussed with the Prince many of his ideas regarding the education of the Indian masses and the improvement of their agricultural conditions. The Raja urged the Swami to represent India at the Parliament of Religions in Chicago and promised to help him in his venture.

TRIP TO AMERICA

At Cape Comorin the Swami became as excited as a child. He rushed to the temple to worship the Divine Mother. He prostrated himself before the Virgin Goddess. As he came out and looked at the sea his eyes fell on a rock. Swimming to the islet through shark-infested waters, he sat on a stone. His heart thumped with emotion. His great journey from the snow-capped Himalayas to the 'Land's End' was completed. He had travelled the whole length of the Indian subcontinent, his beloved motherland, which, together with his earthly mother, was 'superior to heaven itself.'

Sitting on the stone, he recalled what he had seen with his own eyes: the pitiable condition of the Indian masses, victims of the unscrupulous whims of their rulers, landlords, and priests. The tyranny of caste had sapped their last drop of blood. In most of the so-called leaders who shouted from the housetops for the liberation of the people, he had seen selfishness personified. And now he asked himself what his duty was in this situation. Should he regard the world as a dream and go into solitude to commune with God? He had tried this several times, but without success. He remembered that, as a sannyasin, he had taken the vow to dedicate himself to the service of God; but this God, he was convinced, was revealed through humanity. And his own service to this God must begin, therefore, with the humanity of India. 'May I be born again and again,' he exclaimed, 'and suffer a thousand miseries, if only I may worship the only God in whom I believe, the sum total of all souls, and above all, my God the wicked, my God the afflicted, my God the poor of all races!'

Through austerity and self-control the Swami had conserved great spiritual power. His mind had been filled with the wisdom of the East and the West. He had received in abundance Sri Ramakrishna's blessings. He also had had many spiritual experiences of his own. He must use all of these assets, he concluded, for the service of God in man.

But what was to be the way?

The clear-eyed prophet saw that religion was the backbone of the Indian nation. India would rise through a renewal and restoration of that highest spiritual consciousness which had made her, at all times, the cradle of nations and the cradle of faith. He totally disagreed with foreign critics and their Indian disciples who held that religion was the cause of India's downfall. The Swami blamed, rather, the falsehood, superstition, and hypocrisy that were practised in the name of religion. He himself had discovered that the knowledge of God's presence in man was the source of man's strength and wisdom. He was determined to awaken this sleeping divinity. He knew that the Indian culture had been created and sustained by the twin ideals of renunciation and service, which formed the core of Hinduism. And he believed that if the national life could be intensified through these channels, everything else would take care of itself. The workers for India's regeneration must renounce selfishness, jealousy, greed, and lust for power, and they must dedicate themselves to the service of the poor, the illiterate, the hungry, and the sick, seeing in them the tangible manifestations of the Godhead. People required education, food, health, and the knowledge of science and technology to raise their standard of living. The attempt to teach metaphysics to empty stomachs was sheer madness. The masses everywhere were leading the life of animals on account of ignorance and poverty; therefore these conditions should be removed.

But where would the Swami find the fellow workers to help him in this gigantic task?

He wanted whole-time servants of God; workers without worldly ties or vested interests. And he wanted them by thousands. His eyes fell upon the numerous monks who had renounced the world in search of God. But alas, in present-day India most of these led unproductive lives. He would have to infuse a new spirit into them, and they in their turn would have to dedicate themselves to the service of the people. He hit upon a plan, which he revealed later in a letter to a friend. 'Suppose,' the Swami wrote, 'some disinterested sannyasins, bent on doing good to others, went from village to village, disseminating education and seeking in various ways to better the condition of all, down to the untouchable, through oral teaching and by means of maps, magic lanterns, globes, and other accessories — would that not bring forth good in time? All these plans I cannot write out in this brief letter. The long and short of it is that if the mountain does not come to Mahomet, Mahomet must go to the mountain. The poor are too poor to go to schools; they will gain nothing by reading poetry and all that sort of thing. We, as a nation, have lost our individuality. We have to give back to the nation its lost individuality and raise the masses.'

Verily, the Swami, at Kanyakumari, was the patriot and prophet in one. There he became, as he declared later to a Western disciple, 'a condensed India.'

But where were the resources to come from, to help him realize his great vision?

He himself was a sannyasin, a penniless beggar. The rich of the country talked big and did nothing. His admirers were poor. Suddenly a heroic thought entered his mind: he must approach the outside world and appeal to its conscience. But he was too proud to act like a beggar. He wanted to tell the West that the health of India and the sickness of India were the concern of the whole world. If India sank, the whole world would sink with her. For the outside world, in turn, needed India, her knowledge of the Soul and of God, her spiritual heritage, her ideal of genuine freedom through detachment and renunciation; it needed these in order to extricate itself from the sharp claws of the monster of materialism.

Then to the Swami, brooding alone and in silence on that point of rock off the tip of India, the vision came; there flashed before his mind the new continent of America, a land of optimism, great wealth, and unstinted generosity. He saw America as a country of unlimited opportunities, where people's minds were free from the encumbrance of castes or classes. He would give the receptive Americans the ancient wisdom of India and bring back to his motherland, in exchange, the knowledge of science and technology. If he succeeded in his mission to America, he would not only enhance India's prestige in the Occident, but create a new confidence among his own people. He recalled the earnest requests of his friends to represent India in the forthcoming Parliament of Religions in Chicago. And in particular, he remembered the words of the friends in Kathiawar who had been the first to encourage him to go to the West: 'Go and take it by storm, and then return!'

He swam back to the continent of India and started northwards again, by the eastern coast.

It may be mentioned here that during the Swami's trip across the country, just described, there had taken place many incidents that strengthened his faith in God, intensified his sympathy for the so-called lower classes, and broadened his general outlook on life and social conventions.

Several times, when he had had nothing to eat, food had come to him unsought, from unexpected quarters. The benefactors had told him that they were directed by God. Then, one day, it had occurred to the Swami that he had no right to lead the life of a wandering monk, begging his food from door to door, and thus depriving the poor of a few morsels which they could otherwise share with their families. Forthwith he entered a deep forest and walked the whole day without eating a grain of food. At nightfall he sat down under a tree, footsore and hungry, and waited to see what would happen next. Presently he saw a tiger approaching. 'Oh,' he said, 'this is right; both of us are hungry. As this body of mine could not be of any service to my fellow men, let it at least give some satisfaction to this hungry animal.' He sat there calmly, but the tiger for some reason or other changed its mind and went off in another direction. The Swami spent the whole night in the forest, meditating on God's inscrutable ways. In the morning he felt a new surge of power.

During his wanderings in the Himalayas, he was once the guest of a Tibetan family and was scandalized to see that polyandry was practised by its members; six brothers sharing a common wife. To the Swami's protest, the eldest brother replied that a Tibetan would consider it selfishness to enjoy a good thing all by himself and not share it with his brothers. After deep thought the Swami realized the relativity of ethics. He saw that many so-called good and evil practices had their roots in the traditions of society. One might argue for or against almost anything. The conventions of a particular society should be judged by its own standards. After that experience, the Swami was reluctant to condemn hastily the traditions of any social group.

One day Swamiji was sharing a railway compartment with two Englishmen, who took him for an illiterate beggar and began to crack jokes in English at his expense. At the next station they were astonished to hear him talking with the station-master in perfect English. Embarrassed, they asked him why he had not protested against their rude words. With a smile, the Swami replied, 'Friends, this is not the first time that I have seen fools.' The Englishmen became angry and wanted a fight. But looking at the Swami's strong body, they thought that discretion was the better part of valour, and apologized. In a certain place in Rajputana, the Swami was busy for three days and nights by people seeking religious instruction. Nobody cared about his food or rest. After they left, a poor man belonging to a low caste offered him, with great hesitation, some uncooked food, since he, being an untouchable, was afraid to give him a prepared meal. The Swami, however, persuaded the kind-hearted man to prepare the meal for him and ate it with relish. Shedding tears of gratitude, the Swami said to himself, 'Thousands of such good people live in huts, and we despise them as untouchables!'

In Central India he had to pass many hard days without food or shelter, and it was during this time that he lived with a family of outcaste sweepers and discovered the many priceless spiritual virtues of those people, who cowered at the feet of society. Their misery choked him and he sobbed: 'Oh, my country! Oh, my country!'

To resume the story of Swamiji's wandering life: From Cape Comorin he walked most of the way to Madras, stopping at Ramnad and Pondicherry. His fame had already spread to the premier city of South India, and he was greeted by a group of enthusiastic young men. In Madras he publicly announced his intention of going to America. His devotees here collected funds for the trip, and it was through them that he later started his Indian work in an organized form.

Here, in Madras, he poured his whole soul into the discussion of religion, philosophy, science, literature, and history. He would blaze up at people who, for lack of time or zeal, did not practise meditation. 'What!' he thundered at a listener. 'Those giants of old, the ancient rishis, who never walked but strode, standing by whose side you would shrivel into a moth — they, sir, had time for meditation and devotions, and you have none!'

To a scoffer he said: 'How dare you criticize your venerable forefathers in such a fashion? A little learning has muddled your brain. Have you tested the wisdom of the rishis? Have you even as much as read the Vedas? There is a challenge thrown by the rishis. If you dare oppose them, take it up.'

At Hyderabad, the capital of the Nizam's State, he gave his first public lecture, the subject being 'My Mission to the West.' The audience was impressed and the Swami was pleased to see that he could hold his own in this new field of activity.

When the devotees in Madras brought him the money for his voyage to America, he refused to accept it and asked them to distribute it among the poor. How was he to know that the Lord wanted him to go to America? Perhaps he was being carried away by his own ambition. He began to pray intensely for divine guidance. Again money was offered to him by some of his wealthy friends, and again he refused. He said to his disciples: 'If it is the Mother's wish that I should go to the West, then let us collect money from the people. It is for them that I am going to the West — for the people and the poor!'

The Swami one day had a symbolic dream, in which he saw Sri Ramakrishna walking into the water of the ocean and beckoning him to follow. He also heard the authoritative word 'Go!' In response to a letter that he had written to Sarada Devi, the Holy Mother, she gave him her blessings for the fulfilment of his desire, knowing that it was Ramakrishna's wish that he should undertake the journey to America. And now, at last, he felt sure of his call.

When everything was arranged for the departure, there suddenly arrived in Madras the private secretary of Swamiji's disciple the Raja of Khetri, bearing the happy news of the birth of a royal son. The Swami was earnestly desired to bless the heir apparent. He consented, and the Raja was overjoyed to see him.

At Khetri an incident occurred that the Swami remembered all his life. He was invited by the Maharaja to a musical entertainment in which a nautch-girl was to sing, and he refused to come, since he was a monk and not permitted to enjoy secular pleasures. The singer was hurt and sang in a strain of lamentation. Her words reached the Swami's ears:

Look not, O Lord, upon my sins!
Is not Same-sightedness Thy name?
One piece of iron is used
Inside the holy shrine,
Another for the knife
Held in the butcher's hand;
Yet both of these are turned to gold
When touched by the philosophers' stone.
Sacred the Jamuna's water,
Foul the water in the ditch;
Yet both alike are sanctified
Once they have joined the Ganga's stream.
So, Lord, look not upon my sins!
Is not Same-sightedness Thy name?

The Swami was deeply moved. This girl, whom society condemned as impure, had taught him a great lesson: Brahman, the Ever Pure, Ever Free, and Ever Illumined, is the essence of all beings. Before God there is no distinction of good and evil, pure and impure. Such pairs of opposites become manifest only when the light of Brahman is obscured by maya. A sannyasin ought to look at all things from the standpoint of Brahman. He should not condemn anything, even a so-called impure person.

The Swami then joined the party and with tears in his eyes said to the girl: 'Mother, I am guilty. I was about to show you disrespect by refusing to come to this room. But your song awakened my consciousness.'

The Swami assumed at the Raja's request the name of Vivekananda, and the Raja accompanied him as far as Jaipur when he departed for Bombay. On his way to Bombay the Swami stopped at the Abu Road station and met Brahmananda and Turiyananda. He told them about his going to America. The two brother disciples were greatly excited. He explained to them the reason for his going: it was India's suffering. 'I travelled,' he said, 'all over India. But alas, it was agony to me, my brothers, to see with my own eyes the terrible poverty of the masses, and I could not restrain my tears! It is now my firm conviction that to preach religion amongst them, without first trying to remove their poverty and suffering, is futile. It is for this reason — to find means for the salvation of the poor of India — that I am going to America.'

Addressing Turiyananda, he said, 'Brother, I cannot understand your so-called religion.' His face was red with his rising blood. Shaking with emotion, he placed his hand on his heart, and said: 'But my heart has grown much, much larger, and I have learnt to feel. Believe me, I feel it very sadly.' He was choked, and then fell silent. Tears rolled down his cheeks.

Many years later Turiyananda said, while describing the incident: 'You can imagine what went through my mind when I heard these pathetic words and saw the majestic sadness of Swamiji. "Were not these," I thought, "the very words and feelings of Buddha?" And he remembered that long ago Naren had visited Bodh-Gaya and in deep meditation had felt the presence of Buddha.

Another scene of the same nature, though it occurred much later, may be recounted here. Swami Turiyananda called on his illustrious brother disciple, after the latter's triumphant return from America, at the Calcutta home of Balaram Bose, and found him pacing the veranda alone. Deep in thought, he did not notice Turiyananda's presence. He began to hum under his breath a celebrated song of Mirabai, and tears welled up in his eyes. He stopped and leaned against the balustrade, and hid his face in his palms. He sang in an anguished voice, repeating several times: 'Oh, nobody understands my sorrow!' And again: 'Only he who suffers knows the depth of my sorrow!' The whole atmosphere became heavy with sadness. The voice pierced Swami Turiyananda's heart like an arrow; but he could not understand the cause of Vivekananda's suffering. Then he suddenly realized that it was a tremendous universal sympathy with the suffering and oppressed everywhere that often made him shed tears of burning blood; and of these the world would never know.

The Swami arrived in Bombay accompanied by the private secretary to the Raja of Khetri, the Prince having provided him with a robe of orange silk, an ochre turban, a handsome purse, and a first-class ticket on the S.S. 'Peninsular' of the Peninsular and Orient Company, which would be sailing on May 31, 1893. The Raja had also bestowed on him the name by which he was to become famous and which was destined to raise India in the estimation of the world.

The ship steamed out of the harbour on the appointed day, and one can visualize the Swami standing on its deck, leaning against the rail and gazing at the fast fading landscape of his beloved motherland. What a multitude of pictures must have raced, at that time, through his mind: the image of Sri Ramakrishna, the Holy Mother, and the brother disciples, either living at the Baranagore monastery or wandering through the plains and hills of India! What a burden of memories this lad of twenty-nine was carrying! The legacy of his noble parents, the blessings of his Master, the wisdom learnt from the Hindu scriptures, the knowledge of the West, his own spiritual experiences, India's past greatness, her present sorrow, and the dream of her future glory, the hopes and aspirations of the millions of India's brown men toiling in their brown fields under the scorching tropical sun, the devotional stories of the Puranas, the dizzy heights of Buddhist philosophy, the transcendental truths of Vedanta, the subtleties of the Indian philosophical systems, the soul-stirring songs of the Indian poets and mystics, the stone-carvings and the frescoes of the Ellora and Ajanta caves, the heroic tales of the Rajput and Mahratta fighters, the hymns of the South Indian Alwars, the snow peaks of the towering Himalayas, the murmuring music of the Ganga — all these and many such thoughts fused together to create in the Swami's mind the image of Mother India, a universe in miniature, whose history and society were the vivid demonstration of her philosophical doctrine of unity in diversity. And could India have sent a son worthier than Vivekananda to represent her in the Parliament of Religions — a son who had learnt his spiritual lessons at the feet of a man whose very life was a Parliament of Religions — a son whose heart was big enough to embrace the whole of humanity and to feel for all in its universal compassion?

Soon the Swami adjusted himself to the new life on board the ship — a life completely different from that of a wandering monk. He found it a great nuisance to look after his suitcases, trunk, valise, and wardrobe. His orange robe aroused the curiosity of many fellow passengers, who, however, were soon impressed by his serious nature and deep scholarship. The vessel ploughed through the blue sea, pausing at various ports on the way, and the Swami enjoyed the voyage with the happy excitement of a child, devouring eagerly all he saw.

In Colombo he visited the monasteries of the Hinayana Buddhists. On the way to Singapore he was shown the favourite haunts of the Malay pirates, whose descendants now, as the Swami wrote to an Indian friend, under the 'leviathan guns of modern turreted battleships, have been forced to look about for more peaceful pursuits.' He had his first glimpse of China in the busy port of Hongkong, where hundreds of junks and dinghies moved about, each with the wife of its boatman at the helm, for a whole family lived in each floating craft. The traveller was amused to notice the Chinese babies, most of whom were tied to the backs of their mothers, while the latter were busy either pushing heavy loads or jumping with agility from one craft to another. And there was a rush of boats and steam launches coming in and going out.

'Baby John,' the Swami wrote humorously to the same friend, 'is every moment in danger of having his little head pulverized, pigtail and all, but he does not care a fig. The busy life seems to have no charm for him, and he is quite content to learn the anatomy of a bit of rice-cake given to him by the madly busy mother. The Chinese child is quite a little philosopher and calmly goes to work at the age when your Indian boy can hardly crawl on all fours. He has learnt the philosophy of necessity too well, from his extreme poverty.'

At Canton, in a Buddhist monastery, the Swami was received with respect as a great yogi from India. He saw in China, and later in Japan, many temples with manuscripts written in the ancient Bengali script. This made him realize the extent of the influence of India outside her own borders and strengthened his conviction about the spiritual unity of Asia.

Next the boat reached Japan, and the Swami visited Yokohama, Osaka, Kyoto, and Tokyo. The broad streets, the cage-like little houses, the pine-covered hills, and the gardens with shrubs, grass-plots, artificial pools, and small bridges impressed him with the innate artistic nature of the Japanese people. On the other hand, the thoroughly organized Japanese army equipped with guns made in Japan, the expanding navy, the merchant marine, and the industrial factories revealed to him the scientific skill of a newly awakened Asiatic nation. But he was told that the Japanese regarded India as the 'dreamland of everything noble and great.'

His thoughts always returned to India and her people. He wrote to a disciple in Madras: 'Come out and be men! India wants the sacrifice of at least a thousand of her young men — men, mind you, and not brutes. How many men — unselfish and thorough-going men — is Madras ready to supply, who will struggle unto death to bring about a new state of things — sympathy for the poor, bread for hungry mouths, enlightenment for the people at large, who have been brought to the level of beasts by the tyranny of your forefathers?'

From Yokohama he crossed the Pacific Ocean and arrived in Vancouver, British Columbia. Next he travelled by train to Chicago, the destination of his journey and the meeting-place of the Parliament of Religions.

The first sight of Chicago, the third largest city of the New Continent, the great civic queen of the Middle West, enthroned on the shore of Lake Michigan, with its teeming population and strange way of life — a mixture of the refinement of the Eastern coast and the crudities of the backwoods — must have bewildered, excited, and terrified the young visitor from India. Swami Vivekananda walked through the spacious grounds of the World's Fair and was speechless with amazement. He marvelled at what the Americans had achieved through hard work, friendly co-operation with one another, and the application of scientific knowledge. Not too many years before, Chicago had consisted of only a few fishermen's huts, and now at the magic touch of human ingenuity, it was turned into a fairyland. Never before had the Swami seen such an accumulation of wealth, power, and inventive genius in a nation. In the fair-grounds he attracted people's notice. Lads ran after him, fascinated by his orange robe and turban. Shopkeepers and porters regarded him as a Maharaja from India and tried to impose upon him. On the Swami's part, his first feeling was one of unbounded admiration. But a bitter disillusionment was to come.

Soon after his arrival in Chicago, he went one day to the information bureau of the Exposition to ask about the forthcoming Parliament of Religions. He was told that it had been put off until the first week of September (it was then only the end of July) and that no one without credentials from a bona fide organization would be accepted as a delegate. He was told also that it was then too late for him to be registered as a delegate. All this had been unexpected by the Swami; for not one of his friends in India — the enthusiastic devotees of Madras, the Raja of Khetri, the Raja of Ramnad, and the Maharaja of Mysore, the Ministers of the native states, and the disciples who had arranged his trip to America — had taken the trouble to make any inquiries concerning the details of the Parliament. No one had known what were to be the dates of the meetings or the conditions of admission. Nor had the Swami brought with him any letter of authority from a religious organization. All had felt that the young monk would need no letter of authorization, his personality being testimonial enough.

'The Swami himself,' as his Irish disciple, Sister Nivedita, wrote some years later, 'was as simple in the ways of the world as his disciples, and when he was once sure that he was divinely called to make this attempt, he could see no difficulties in the way. Nothing could have been more typical of the lack of organizedness of Hinduism itself than this going forth of its representative unannounced, and without formal credentials, to enter the strongly guarded door of the world's wealth and power.'

In the meantime, the purse that the Swami had carried from India was dwindling; for things were much more expensive in America than he or his friends had thought. He did not have enough to maintain him in Chicago until September. In a frantic mood he asked help from the Theosophical Society, which professed warm friendship for India. He was told that he would have to subscribe to the creed of the Society; but this he refused to do because he did not believe in most of the Theosophical doctrines. Thereupon the leader declined to give him any help. The Swami became desperate and cabled to his friends in Madras for money.

Finally, however, someone advised him to go to Boston, where the cost of living was cheaper, and in the train his picturesque dress, no less than his regal appearance, attracted a wealthy lady who resided in the suburbs of the city. She cordially invited him to be her guest, and he accepted, to save his dwindling purse. He was lodged at 'Breezy Meadows,' in Metcalf, Massachusetts, and his hostess, Miss Kate Sanborn, was delighted to display to her inquisitive friends this strange curiosity from the Far East. The Swami met a number of people, most of whom annoyed him by asking queer questions regarding Hinduism and the social customs of India, about which they had read in the tracts of Christian missionaries and sensational writers. However, there came to him a few serious-minded people, and among these were Mrs. Johnson, the lady superintendent of a women's prison, and J.H. Wright, a professor of Greek at Harvard University. On the invitation of the superintendent, he visited the prison and was impressed by the humanitarian attitude of its workers towards the inmates. At once there came to his mind the sad plight of the masses of India and he wrote to a friend on August 20, 1893:

How benevolently the inmates are treated, how they are reformed and sent back as useful members of society — how grand, how beautiful, you must see to believe! And oh, how my heart ached to think of what we think of poor, the low, in India. They have no chance, no escape, no way to climb up. They sink lower and lower every day, they feel the blows showered upon them by a cruel society, and they do not know whence the blows come. They have forgotten that they too are men. And the result is slavery. ... Ah, tyrants! You do not know that the obverse is tyranny and the reverse, slavery.

Swami Vivekananda had no friends in this foreign land, yet he did not lose faith. For had not a kind Providence looked after him during the uncertain days of his wandering life? He wrote in the same letter: 'I am here amongst the children of the Son of Mary, and the Lord Jesus will help me.'

The Swami was encouraged by Professor Wright to represent Hinduism in the Parliament of Religions, since that was the only way he could be introduced to the nation at large. When he announced, however, that he had no credentials, the professor replied, 'To ask you, Swami, for your credentials is like asking the sun about its right to shine.' He wrote about the Swami to a number of important people connected with the Parliament, especially to the chairman of the committee on selection of delegates, who was one of his friends, and said, 'Here is a man more learned than all our learned professors put together.' Professor Wright bought the Swami railroad ticket for Chicago.

The train bearing Vivekananda to Chicago arrived late in the evening, and he had mislaid, unfortunately, the address of the committee in charge of the delegates. He did not know where to turn for help, and no one bothered to give information to this foreigner of strange appearance. Moreover the station was located in a part of the city inhabited mostly by Germans, who could hardly understand his language. He knew he was stranded there, and looking around saw a huge empty wagon in the railroad freight-yard. In this he spent the night without food or a bed.

In the morning he woke up 'smelling fresh water,' to quote his own words, and he walked along the fashionable Lake Shore Drive, which was lined with the mansions of the wealthy, asking people the way to the Parliament grounds. But he was met with indifference. Hungry and weary, he knocked at several doors for food and was rudely treated by the servants. His soiled clothes and unshaven face gave him the appearance of a tramp. Besides, he had forgotten that he was in a land that knew thousands of ways of earning the 'almighty dollar,' but was unfamiliar with Franciscan poverty or the ways of religious vagabonds. He sat down exhausted on the sidewalk and was noticed from an opposite window. The mistress of the house sent for him and asked the Swami if he was a delegate to the Parliament of Religions. He told her of his difficulties. The lady, Mrs. George W. Hale, a society woman of Chicago, gave him breakfast and looked after his needs. When he had rested, she accompanied him to the offices of the Parliament and presented him to Dr. J.H. Barrows, the President of the Parliament, who was one of her personal friends. The Swami was thereupon cordially accepted as a representative of Hinduism and lodged in the house of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lyons. Mr. and Mrs. Hale and their children as well as the Lyons, became his lifelong friends. Once again the Swami had been strengthened in his conviction that the Lord was guiding his footsteps, and he prayed incessantly to be a worthy instrument of His will.

THE PARLIAMENT OF RELIGIONS

On Monday, September 11, 1893 the Parliament of Religions opened its deliberations with due solemnity. This great meeting was an adjunct of the World's Columbian Exposition, which had been organized to celebrate the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. One of the main goals of the Exposition was to disseminate knowledge of the progress and enlightenment brought about in the world by Western savants and especially through physical science and technology; but as religion forms a vital factor in human culture, it had been decided to organize a Parliament of Religions in conjunction with the Exposition.

Dr. Barrows, in his History of the Parliament of Religions, writes:

Since faith in a Divine Power to whom men believe they owe service and worship, has been like the sun, a life-giving and fructifying potency in man's intellectual and moral development; since Religion lies at the back of Hindu literature with its marvellous and mystic developments; of the European Art, whether in the form of Grecian statues or Gothic cathedrals; and of American liberty and the recent uprisings of men on behalf of a juster social condition; and since it is as clear as the light, that the Religion of Christ has led to many of the chief and noblest developments of our modern civilization, it did not appear that Religion any more than Education, Art, or Electricity, should be excluded from the Columbian Exposition.

It is not altogether improbable that some of the more enthusiastic Christian theologians, among the promoters of the Parliament, thought that the Parliament would give them an opportunity to prove the superiority of Christianity, professed by the vast majority of the people of the progressive West, over the other faiths of the world. Much later Swami Vivekananda said, in one of his jocular moods, that the Divine Mother Herself willed the Parliament in order to give him an opportunity to present the Eternal Religion of the Hindus before the world at large, and that the stage was set for him to play his important role, everything else being incidental. The appropriateness of this remark can be appreciated now, six decades after the great event, from the fact that whereas all else that was said and discussed at the Parliament has been forgotten, what Vivekananda preached is still cherished in America, and the movement inaugurated by him has endeared itself to American hearts.

'One of the chief advantages,' to quote the words of the Hon. Mr. Merwin-Marie Snell, president of the Scientific Section of the Parliament, 'has been in the great lessons which it has taught the Christian world, especially the people of the United States, namely, that there are other religions more venerable than Christianity, which surpass it in philosophical depths, in spiritual intensity, in independent vigour of thought, and in breadth and sincerity of human sympathy, while not yielding to it a single hair's breadth in ethical beauty and efficiency.'

At 10 a.m. the Parliament opened. In it every form of organized religious belief, as professed among twelve hundred millions of people, was represented. Among the non-Christian groups could be counted Hinduism, Jainism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Shintoism, Mohammedanism, and Mazdaism.

The spacious hall and the huge gallery of the art Palace were packed with seven thousand people — men and women representing the culture of the United States. The official delegates marched in a grand procession to the platform, and in the centre, in his scarlet robe, sat Cardinal Gibbons, the highest prelate of the Roman Catholic Church in the Western hemisphere. He occupied a chair of state and opened the meeting with a prayer. On his left and right were grouped the Oriental delegates: Pratap Chandra Mazoomdar of the Calcutta Brahma Samaj, and Nagarkar of Bombay;

Dharmapala, representing the Ceylon Buddhists; Gandhi, representing the Jains; Chakravarti and Annie Besant of the Theosophical Society. With them sat Swami Vivekananda, who represented no particular sect, but the Universal Religion of the Vedas, and who spoke, as will presently be seen, for the religious aspiration of all humanity. His gorgeous robe, large yellow turban, bronze complexion, and fine features stood out prominently on the platform and drew everybody's notice. In numerical order the Swami's position was number thirty-one.

The delegates arose, one by one, and read prepared speeches, but the Hindu sannyasin was totally unprepared. He had never before addressed such an assembly. When he was asked to give his message he was seized with stage-fright, and requested the chairman to call on him a little later. Several times he postponed the summons. As he admitted later: 'Of course my heart was fluttering and my tongue nearly dried up. I was so nervous that I could not venture to speak in the morning session.'

At last he came to the rostrum and Dr. Barrows introduced him. Bowing to Sarasvati, the Goddess of Wisdom, he addressed the audience as 'Sisters and Brothers of America.' Instantly, thousands arose in their seats and gave him loud applause. They were deeply moved to see, at last, a man who discarded formal words and spoke to them with the natural and candid warmth of a brother.

It took a full two minutes before the tumult subsided, and the Swami began his speech by thanking the youngest of the nations in the name of the most ancient monastic order in the world, the Vedic order of sannyasins. The keynote of his address was universal toleration and acceptance. He told the audience how India, even in olden times, had given shelter to the religious refugees of other lands — for instance, the Israelites and the Zoroastrians — and he quoted from the scriptures the following two passages revealing the Hindu spirit of toleration:

'As different streams, having their sources in different places, all mingle their water in the sea, so, O Lord, the different paths which men take through different tendencies, various though they appear, crooked or straight, all lead to Thee.'

'Whosoever comes to Me, through whatsoever form, I reach him. All men are struggling through many paths which in the end lead to Me.'

In conclusion he pleaded for the quick termination of sectarianism, bigotry, and fanaticism.

The response was deafening applause. It appeared that the whole audience had been patiently awaiting this message of religious harmony. A Jewish intellectual remarked to the present writer, years later, that after hearing Vivekananda he realized for the first time that his own religion, Judaism, was true, and that the Swami had addressed his words on behalf of not only his religion, but all religions of the world. Whereas every one of the other delegates had spoken for his own ideal or his own sect, the Swami had spoken about God, who, as the ultimate goal of all faiths, is their inmost essence. And he had learnt that truth at the feet of Sri Ramakrishna, who had taught incessantly, from his direct experience, that all religions are but so many paths to reach the same goal. The Swami gave utterance to the yearning of the modern world to break down the barriers of caste, colour, and creed and to fuse all people into one humanity.

Not a word of condemnation for any faith, however crude or irrational, fell from his lips. He did not believe that this religion or that religion was true in this or that respect; to him all religions were equally effective paths to lead their respective devotees, with diverse tastes and temperaments, to the same goal of perfection. Years before, young Narendra had condemned before his Master, in his neophyte zeal, a questionable sect that indulged in immoral practices in the name of religion, and Ramakrishna had mildly rebuked him, saying: 'Why should you criticize those people? Their way, too, ultimately leads to God. There are many doors to enter a mansion. The scavenger comes in by the back door. You need not use it.'

How prophetic were the master's words that his Naren would one day shake the world! Mrs. S.K. Blodgett, who later became the Swami's hostess in Los Angeles, said about her impressions of the Parliament: 'I was at the Parliament of Religions in Chicago in 1893. When that young man got up and said, "Sisters and Brothers of America," seven thousand people rose to their feet as a tribute to something they knew not what. When it was over I saw scores of women walking over the benches to get near him, and I said to my self, "Well, my lad, if you can resist that onslaught you are indeed a God!"'

Swami Vivekananda addressed the Parliament about a dozen times. His outstanding address was a paper on Hinduism in which he discussed Hindu metaphysics, psychology, and theology. The divinity of the soul, the oneness of existence, the non-duality of the Godhead, and the harmony of religions were the recurring themes of his message. He taught that the final goal of man is to become divine by realizing the Divine and that human beings are the children of 'Immortal Bliss'.

In the final session of the Parliament, Swami Vivekananda said in the conclusion of his speech:

'The Christian is not to become a Hindu or a Buddhist, nor is a Hindu or a Buddhist to become a Christian. But each must assimilate the spirit of the others and yet preserve his individuality and grow according to his own law of growth. If the Parliament of Religions has shown any thing to the world, it is this: It has proved to the world that holiness, purity, and charity are not the exclusive possessions of any church in the world, and that every system has produced men and women of the most exalted character. In the face of this evidence, if anybody dreams of the exclusive survival of his own religion and the destruction of the others, I pity him from the bottom of my heart and point out to him that upon the banner of every religion will soon be written, in spite of resistance: "Help and not Fight," "Assimilation and not Destruction," "Harmony and Peace and not Dissension".'

The Parliament of Religions offered Swami Vivekananda the long desired opportunity to present before the Western world the eternal and universal truths of his Aryan ancestors. And he rose to the occasion. As he stood on the platform to give his message, he formed, as it were, the confluence of two great streams of thought, the two ideals that had moulded human culture. The vast audience before him represented exclusively the Occidental mind — young, alert, restless, inquisitive, tremendously honest, well disciplined, and at ease with the physical universe, but sceptical about the profundities of the supersensuous world and unwilling to accept spiritual truths without rational proof. And behind him lay the ancient world of India, with its diverse religious and philosophical discoveries, with its saints and prophets who investigated Reality through self-control and contemplation, unruffled by the passing events of the transitory life and absorbed in contemplation of the Eternal Verities. Vivekananda's education, upbringing, personal experiences, and contact with the God-man of modern India had pre-eminently fitted him to represent both ideals and to remove their apparent conflict.

To Vivekananda the religion of the Hindus, based upon the teachings of the Vedas, appeared adequate to create the necessary synthesis. By the Vedas he did not mean any particular book containing the words of a prophet or deriving sanction from a supernatural authority, but the accumulated treasure of spiritual laws discovered by various Indian seers in different times. Just as the law of gravitation existed before its discovery, and would continue to exist even if all humanity forgot it, so do the laws that govern the spiritual world exist independently of our knowledge of them. The moral, ethical, and spiritual relations between soul and soul, and between individual spirits and the Father of all spirits, were in existence before their discovery, and will remain even if we forget them. Regarding the universal character of the Hindu faith the Swami said: 'From the high spiritual flights of the Vedanta philosophy, of which the latest discoveries of science seem like echoes, to the low ideas of idolatry with its multifarious mythology, the agnosticism of the Buddhists, and the atheism of the Jains, each and all have a place in Hindu religion.'

The young, unknown monk of India was transformed overnight into an outstanding figure of the religious world. From obscurity he leapt to fame. His life-size portraits were posted in the streets of Chicago, with words 'The Monk Vivekananda' written beneath them and many passers-by would stop to do reverence with bowed heads.

Dr. J.H. Barrows, Chairman of the General Committee of the Parliament of Religions, said: 'Swami Vivekananda exercised a wonderful influence over his auditors,' and Mr. Merwin-Marie Snell stated, more enthusiastically: 'By far the most important and typical representative of Hinduism was Swami Vivekananda, who, in fact, was beyond question the most popular and influential man in the Parliament....He was received with greater enthusiasm than any other speaker, Christian or pagan. The people thronged about him wherever he went and hung with eagerness on his every word. The most rigid of orthodox Christians say of him, "He is indeed a prince among men!"'

Newspapers published his speeches and they were read with warm interest all over the country. The New York Herald said: 'He is undoubtedly the greatest figure in the Parliament of Religions. After hearing him we feel how foolish it is to send missionaries to this learned nation.' The Boston Evening Post said: 'He is a great favourite at the Parliament from the grandeur of his sentiments and his appearance as well. If he merely crosses the platform he is applauded; and this marked approval of thousands he accepts in a childlike spirit of gratification without a trace of conceit....At the Parliament of Religions they used to keep Vivekananda until the end of the programme to make people stay till the end of the session....The four thousand fanning people in the Hall of Columbus would sit smiling and expectant, waiting for an hour or two to listen to Vivekananda for fifteen minutes. The chairman knew the old rule of keeping the best until the last.'

It is one of the outstanding traits of Americans to draw out the latent greatness of other people. America discovered Vivekananda and made a gift of him to India and the world.

The reports of the Parliament of Religions were published in the Indian magazines and newspapers. The Swami's vindication of the Hindu faith filled with pride the hearts of his countrymen from Colombo to Almora, from Calcutta to Bombay. The brother monks at the Baranagore monastery were not, at first, clear about the identity of Vivekananda. A letter from the Swami, six months after the Parliament, removed all doubts, however, and how proud they felt at the achievement of their beloved Naren!

But how did Vivekananda himself react to this triumph, which had been the fulfilment of his long cherished desire? He knew that his solitary life as a monk in constant communion with God was at an end; he could no longer live in obscurity with his dreams and visions. Instead of dwelling in peace and serenity, he was thrown into the vortex of a public career with its ceaseless turmoil and demands. When he returned to his hotel the night after the first meeting of the Parliament, he wept like a child.

After he had delivered his message in the Parliament, the Swami suffered no longer from material wants. The doors of the wealthy were thrown open. Their lavish hospitality made him sick at heart when he remembered the crushing poverty of his own people. His anguish became so intense one night that he rolled on the floor, groaning: 'O Mother, what do I care for name and fame when my motherland remains sunk in utmost poverty? To what a sad pass have we poor Indians come when millions of us die for want of a handful of rice, and here they spend millions of rupees upon their personal comfort! Who will raise the masses of India? Who will give them bread? Show me, O Mother, how I can help them.' While addressing one session of the Parliament, the Swami had said that what India needed was not religion, but bread. Now he began to study American life in its various aspects, especially the secret of the country's high standard of living and he communicated to his disciples in India his views on the promotion of her material welfare.

Swami Vivekananda was invited by a lecture bureau to tour the United States, and he accepted the offer. He wanted money in order to free himself from obligation to his wealthy friends and also to help his various philanthropic and religious projects in India. Further, he thought that through a lecture bureau he could effectively broadcast his ideas all over the American continent and thus remove from people's minds erroneous notions regarding Hindu religion and society. Soon he was engaged in a whirlwind tour covering the larger cities of the East and the Middle West. People called him the 'cyclonic Hindu'. He visited, among other places, Iowa City, Des Moines, Memphis, Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Detroit, Buffalo, Hartford, Boston, Cambridge, New York, Baltimore, and Washington. Cherishing a deep affection for the members of the Hale family, he made his headquarters with George W. Hale in Chicago.

But his path was not always strewn with rose petals. Vivekananda was an outspoken man. Whenever he found in American society signs of brutality, inhumanity, pettiness, arrogance, and ignorance concerning cultures other than its own, he mercilessly criticized them. Often small-minded people asked him irritating questions about India, based upon malicious and erroneous reports, and the Swami fell upon them like a thunderbolt. 'But woe to the man,' wrote the Iowa State Register, 'who undertook to combat the monk on his own ground, and that was where they all tried it who tried it at all. His replies came like flashes of lightning and the venturesome questioner was sure to be impaled on the Indian's shining intellectual lance....Vivekananda and his cause found a place in the hearts of all true Christians.' Many Christian ministers became his warm friends and invited him to speak in their churches.

Swami Vivekananda was especially bitter about false Christianity and the religious hypocrisy of many Christian leaders. In a lecture given in Detroit he came out in one of his angriest moods, and declared in the course of his speech:

You train and educate and clothe and pay men to do what? — to come over to my country and curse and abuse all my forefathers, my religion, my everything. They walk near a temple and say, 'You idolaters, you will go to hell.' But the Hindu is mild; he smiles and passes on, saying, 'Let the fools talk.' And then you who train men to abuse and criticize, if I just touch you with the least bit of criticism, but with the kindest purpose, you shrink and cry: 'Do not touch us! We are Americans; we criticize, curse, and abuse all the heathens of the world, but do not touch us, we are sensitive plants.' And whenever you missionaries criticize us, let them remember this: If all India stands up and takes all the mud that lies at the bottom of the Indian Ocean and throws it up against the Western countries, it will not be doing an infinitesimal part of what you are doing to us.

Continuing, the Swami said that the military conquests of the Western nations and the activities of the Christian missionaries, strangely enough, often proceeded side by side. Most people were converted for worldly reasons. But the Swami warned:

Such things tumble down; they are built upon sand; they cannot remain long. Everything that has selfishness for its basis, competition for its right hand, and enjoyment as its goal, must die sooner or later.

If you want to live, go back to Christ. You are not Christians. No, as a nation you are not. Go back to Christ. Go back to him who had nowhere to lay his head. Yours is a religion preached in the name of luxury. What an irony of fate! Reverse this if you want to live; reverse this. You cannot serve God and Mammon at the same time. All this prosperity — all this from Christ? Christ would have denied all such heresies. If you can join these two, this wonderful prosperity with the ideal of Christ, it is well; but if you cannot, better go back to him and give up these vain pursuits. Better be ready to live in rags with Christ than to live in palaces without him.

On one occasion the Swami was asked to speak in Boston on Ramakrishna, a subject dear to his heart. When he looked at the audience — the artificial and worldly crowd of people — and contrasted it with his Master's purity and renunciation, he practically dropped the subject and mercilessly inveighed against the materialistic culture of the West. The audience was resentful and many left the meeting in an angry mood. But Vivekananda, too, had his lesson. On returning home he recalled what he had said, and wept. His Master had never uttered a word of condemnation against anybody, even the most wicked person; yet he, while talking about Ramakrishna, had criticized these good-hearted people who were eager to learn about the Master. He felt that he was too unworthy of Sri Ramakrishna to discuss him or even to write about him.

Swami Vivekananda's outspoken words aroused the bitter enmity of a large section of the Christian missionaries and their American patrons, and also of Christian fanatics. Filled with rancour and hatred, these began to vilify him both openly and in private. They tried to injure his reputation by writing false stories traducing his character. Some of the Indian delegates to the Parliament, jealous of the Swami's popularity and fame, joined in the vilification. Missionaries working in India and some of the Hindu organizations started an infamous campaign against the Swami's work. The Theosophists were particularly vindictive. They declared that the Swami was violating the laws of monastic life in America by eating forbidden food and breaking caste laws.

His friends and disciples in India were frightened and sent him cuttings from Indian papers containing these malicious reports. One article stated that one of the Swami's American hostesses had had to dismiss a servant girl on account of the Swami's presence in the house. But the lady published a vehement denial and said that the Swami was an honoured guest in her home and would always be treated with affection and respect. The Swami wrote to his timorous devotees in India concerning a particular American paper that had criticized him, telling them that it was generally known in America as the 'blue-nosed Presbyterian paper', that no educated American took it seriously, and that, following the well-known Yankee trick, it had tried to gain notoriety by attracting a man lionized by society. He assured them that the American people as a whole, and many enlightened Christian clergymen, were among his admiring friends, and he asked them not to send him any more of such newspaper trash with articles from his vilifiers. He told them, furthermore, that he had never deviated from the two basic vows of the monastic life, namely, chastity and poverty, and that as regards other things, he was trying to adjust himself to the customs of the people among whom he lived.

To the accusation from some orthodox Hindus that the Swami was eating forbidden food at the table of infidels, he retorted:

Do you mean to say I am born to live and die as one of those caste-ridden, superstitious, merciless, hypocritical, atheistic cowards that you only find among the educated Hindus? I hate cowardice. I will have nothing to do with cowards. I belong to the world as much as to India, no humbug about that. What country has a special claim on me? Am I a nation's slave? ...I see a greater power than man or God or Devil at my back. I require nobody's help. I have been all my life helping others.

To another Indian devotee he wrote in similar vein:

I am surprised that you take the missionaries' nonsense so seriously...If the people of India want me to keep strictly to my Hindu diet, please tell them to send me a cook and money enough to keep him....On the other hand, if the missionaries tell you that I have ever broken the two great vows of the sannyasin — chastity and poverty — tell them that they are big liars. As for me, mind you, I stand at nobody's dictation, and no chauvinism about me...I hate cowardice; I will have nothing to do with cowards or political nonsense. I do not believe in any politics. God and truth are the only politics in the world; everything else is trash.

Swami Vivekananda remained unperturbed by opposition. His lectures, intensely religious and philosophical, were attended everywhere by eminent people. Many came to him for private instruction. His aim was to preach the eternal truths of religion and to help sincere people in moulding their spiritual life. Very soon his dauntless spirit, innate purity, lofty idealism, spiritual personality, and spotless character attracted to him a band of sincere and loyal American disciples, whom he began to train as future Vedanta workers in America.

It must be said to the credit of America that she was not altogether unprepared to receive the message of Vivekananda. Certain spiritual ideas, which were congenial for the reception of the Vedantic ideals presented by the Swami, had already begun to ferment underneath the robust, picturesque, gay, and dynamic surface of American life. Freedom, equality, and justice had always been the cherished treasures of American hearts. To these principles, which the Americans applied in politics and society for the material and ethical welfare of men, Swami Vivekananda gave a spiritual basis and interpretation.

Religion had played an important part from the very beginning of American Colonial history. The pilgrims who crossed the Atlantic in the 'Mayflower' and landed on the barren coast of Cape Cod in November 1620, were English people who had first left England and gone to Holland for freedom of worship. Later they were joined by other dissenters who could not submit to the restrictions placed upon their religious beliefs by the English rulers of the time. These were the forbears of the sturdy, religious-minded New Englanders who, two centuries later, became the leaders of the intellectual and spiritual culture of America. Swami Vivekananda found among their descendants many of his loyal and enthusiastic followers.

Both the Holy Bible and the philosophy of Locke influenced the Bill of Rights and the American Constitution. Leaders imbued with the Christian ideal of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of men, penned the second paragraph of the Declaration of Independence, which clearly set forth its political philosophy, namely, the equality of men before God, the state, and society. Thomas Paine, one of the high priests of the American Revolution, was an uncompromising foe of tyranny, and an upholder of human freedom. The same passion for equality, freedom, justice, enduring peace, and righteousness was later to permeate the utterances of the great Lincoln.

The political structure of America shows the sagacity and lofty idealism of her statesmen, who built up the country after the War of Independence. The original thirteen colonies, which had wrested freedom from England, gradually became the United States of America. The architects of the American Government might have created, following the imperialistic pattern of England, an American Empire, with the original thirteen states as a sort of mother country and the rest as her colonies. But instead, the newly acquired territories received complete equality of status. It may also be mentioned that, with the exception of the Mexican War of 1845, America has never started a war.

Within a hundred years of her gaining independence, America showed unprecedented material prosperity. The country's vast hidden wealth was tapped by European immigrants, who brought with them not only the flavour of an older civilization, but technical skill, indomitable courage, and the spirit of adventure. Scientists and technologists flooded the country with new inventions. Steamboats, a network of railroads, and various mechanical appliances aided in the creation of new wealth. Towns grew into cities. As big business concerns expanded, workmen and mechanics formed protective organizations. Ambition stirred everywhere, and men's very manners changed with the new haste and energy that swept them on.

Material prosperity was accompanied by a new awakening of men's minds and consciousness. Jails were converted into penitentiary systems, based upon humanitarian principles, and anti-slavery societies were inaugurated. During the five years between 1850 and 1855 were published some of the greatest books in American literature, hardly surpassed in imaginative vitality. Democracy was in full swing and it was the people's day everywhere. The crude frontier days were fast disappearing.

The Transcendentalist Movement, of which Emerson was the leader, with Thoreau and Alcott as his associates, brought spiritual India into the swift current of American life.

The old and new continents had not been altogether strangers. Columbus had set out to find the short route to India, known far and wide for her fabulous wealth, and had stumbled upon America instead. The chests of tea of the Boston Tea Party, which set off the War of Independence, had come from India. Moreover, the victory of the English over the French in the eighteenth-century colonial wars in India contributed to the success of the American colonists in their struggle for freedom begun in 1775. And finally, Commodore Perry in 1853 made it possible for American merchant ships to trade with the Far East and thus visit Indian coastal towns on their long journeys.

The development of Emerson's innate idealism had been aided by the philosophy of Greece, the ethics of China, the poetry of the Sufis, and the mysticism of India. Emerson, a keen student of the Bhagavad Gita, was familiar with the Upanishadic doctrines and published translations of religious and philosophical tracts from the Oriental languages. His beautiful poem 'Brahma' and his essay 'The Over-Soul' show clearly his indebtedness to Hindu spiritual thought. But Emerson's spirit, pre-eminently ethical and intellectual, could not grasp the highest flights of Hindu mysticism; it accepted only what was in harmony with a somewhat shallow optimism. Emerson's writings later influenced the New Thought movement and Mary Baker Eddy's Christian Science.

Thoreau, Emerson's neighbour for twenty-five years, read and discussed with him in great detail the Hindu religious classics. Thoreau wrote: 'I bathe my intellect in the stupendous and cosmogonical philosophy of the Upanishads and the Bhagavad Gita, in comparison with which our modern world and literature seem puny and trivial.' He wanted to write a joint Bible, gathering material from the Asiatic scriptures, and took for his motto Ex Oriente Lux.

Alcott was genuine friend of Indian culture. He was instrumental in bringing out the American edition of Sir Edwin Arnold's The Light of Asia, and this made the life and teachings of Buddha accessible, for the first time, to American readers.

The Transcendental Club, founded in Concord, near Boston, reached its height by 1840. The American Oriental Society was formed in 1842, with aims similar to those of the European Oriental societies.

Walt Whitman (1819-1892), a contemporary of the Concord philosophers, seems to have come very near to Vedantic idealism. There is no reliable evidence to show that Whitman was directly influenced by Hindu thought. He is reputed to have denied it himself. A great religious individualist, he was free from all church conventions and creeds. To him, religion consisted entirely of inner illumination, 'the secret silent ecstasy.' It is not known if he practised any definite religious disciplines; most probably he did not. Yet Swami Vivekananda once called Whitman 'the sannyasin of America.' Leaves of Grass, which Swami Vivekananda read, breathes the spirit of identity with all forms of life, and Whitman's 'Song of the Open Road' is full of the sentiments that were nearest to the heart of Vivekananda. Here, for example, are three stanzas:

I inhale great draughts of space;
The east and the west are mine;
 and the north and the south are mine.
I am larger, better than I thought;
I did not know I held so much goodness.
Allons! We must not stop here!

However sweet these laid-up stores — however convenient this dwelling,
 we cannot remain here;
However shelter'd this port,
 and however calm these waters,
 we must not anchor here;
However welcome the hospitality that surrounds us, we are permitted to receive it but a little while.
Allons! Be not detain'd!

Let the paper remain on the desk unwritten,
 and the book on the shelf unopen'd!
Let the tools remain in the workshop!
 let the money remain unearn'd!
Let the school stand!
 mind not the cry of the teacher!
Let the preacher preach in the pulpit!
 let the lawyer plead in the court, and the judge expound the law.

There are several reasons why the marriage of East and West dreamt of by Emerson and Thoreau did not take place. The Gold Rush of 1849, to California, had turned people's attention in other directions. Then had come the Civil War, in which brother had fought brother and men's worst passions had been let loose. Lastly, the development of science and technology had brought about a great change in people's outlook, intensifying their desire for material prosperity.

The publication of Darwin's Origin of Species in 1859 changed the Weltanschauung of the Western world, and its repercussions were felt more in the New World than in Europe. Within a decade, intellectual people gave up their belief in the Biblical story of creation and did not hesitate to trace man's origin back to an apelike ancestor, and beyond that to a primordial protoplasmic atomic globule. The implications of evolution were incorporated into every field of thought — law, history, economics, sociology, philosophy, religion, and art; transcendentalism was replaced by empiricism, instrumentalism, and pragmatism. The American life-current thus was turned into a new channel. When America had been comparatively poor she had cherished her spiritual heritage. In the midst of her struggle for existence she had preserved her spiritual sensitivity. But in the wake of the Civil War the desire to possess 'bigger and better things' cast its spell everywhere. Big utilities and corporations came into existence; the spiritual and romantic glow of the frontier days degenerated into the sordidness of competitive materialistic life, while the unceasing flow of crude immigrants from Europe made difficult the stabilization of American culture.

Emerson was disillusioned by the aftermath of the Civil War. He had hoped 'that in the peace after such a war, a great expansion would follow in the mind of the country, grand views in every direction — true freedom in politics, in religion, in social science, in thought. But the energy of the nation seems to have expended itself in the war.'

Walt Whitman was even more caustic. He wrote bitterly:

Society in the States is cramped, crude, superstitious, and rotten.... Never was there, perhaps, more hollowness of heart than at present, and here in the United States. Genuine belief seems to have left us....; The great cities reek with respectable, as much as non-respectable, robbery and scoundrelism. In fashionable life, flippancy, tepid amours, weak infidelism, small aims, or no aims at all, only to kill time.... I say that our New World Democracy, however great a success in uplifting the masses out of their sloughs in materialistic development, and in a certain highly deceptive superficial popular intellectuality, is so far an almost complete failure in its social aspects. In vain do we march with unprecedented strides to empire so colossal, outvying the antique, beyond Alexander's, beyond the proudest sway of Rome. In vain we annexed Texas, California, Alaska, and reach north for Canada or south for Cuba. It is as if we were somehow being endowed with a vast and thoroughly appointed body, and left with little or no soul.

But the material prosperity or the triumph of science could not destroy the innate idealism of the American mind. It remained hidden like embers under ashes. Thoughtful Americans longed for a philosophy which, without going counter to the scientific method, would show the way to a larger vision of life, harmonizing the diverse claims of science, the humanities, and mystical experience. Now the time was ripe for the fulfilment of Thoreau's dream of the marriage of East and West, a real synthesis of science and religion. And to bring this about, no worthier person could have been found than Swami Vivekananda of India. This accounts for the spontaneous welcome received by this representative of Hinduism, who brought to America an ancient and yet dynamic philosophy of life.

VEDANTA IN AMERICA

After the meetings of the Parliament of Religions were concluded, Swami Vivekananda, as already noted, under took a series of apostolic campaigns in order to sow the seed of the Vedantic truths in the ready soil of America. Soon he discovered that the lecture bureau was exploiting him. Further, he did not like its method of advertisement. He was treated as if he were the chief attraction of a circus. The prospectus included his portrait, with the inscription, proclaiming his cardinal virtues: 'An Orator by Divine Right; a Model Representative of his Race; a Perfect master of the English Language; the Sensation of the World's Fair Parliament.' It also described his physical bearing, his height, the colour of his skin, and his clothing. The Swami felt disgusted at being treated like a patent medicine or an elephant in a show. So he severed his relationship with the bureau and arranged his own lectures himself. He accepted invitation from churches, clubs, and private gatherings, and travelled extensively through the Eastern and Midwestern states of America, delivering twelve to fourteen or more lectures a week.

People came in hundreds and in thousands. And what an assorted audience he had to face! There came to his meetings professors from universities, ladies of fine breeding, seekers of truth, and devotees of God with childlike faith. But mixed with these were charlatans, curiosity-seekers, idlers, and vagabonds. It is not true that he met everywhere with favourable conditions. Leon Landsberg, one of the Swami's American disciples, thus described Vivekananda's tribulations of those days:

The Americans are a receptive nation. That is why the country is a hotbed of all kinds of religious and irreligious monstrosities. There is no theory so absurd, no doctrine so irrational, no claim so extravagant, no fraud so transparent, but can find their numerous believers and a ready market. To satisfy this craving, to feed the credulity of the people, hundreds of societies and sects are born for the salvation of the world, and to enable the prophets to pocket $25 to $100 initiation fees. Hobgoblins, spooks, mahatmas, and new prophets were rising every day. In this bedlam of religious cranks, the Swami appeared to teach the lofty religion of the Vedas, the profound philosophy of Vedanta, the sublime wisdom of the ancient rishis. The most unfavourable environment for such a task!

The Swami met with all kinds of obstacles. The opposition of fanatical Christian missionaries was, of course, one of these. They promised him help if he only would preach their brand of Christianity. When the Swami refused, they circulated all sorts of filthy stories about him, and even succeeded in persuading some of the Americans who had previously invited him to be their guest, to cancel the invitations. But Vivekananda continued to preach the religion of love, renunciation, and truth as taught by Christ, and so show him the highest veneration as a Saviour of mankind. How significant were his words: 'It is well to be born in a church, but it is terrible to die there!' Needless to say, he meant by the word church all organized religious institutions. How like a thunderbolt the words fell upon the ears of his audience when one day he exclaimed: 'Christ, Buddha, and Krishna are but waves in the Ocean of Infinite Consciousness that I am!

Then there were the leaders of the cranky, selfish, and fraudulent organizations, who tried to induce the Swami to embrace their cause, first by promises of support, and then by threats of injuring him if he refused to ally himself with them. But he could be neither bought nor frightened — 'the sickle had hit on a stone,' as the Polish proverb says. To all these propositions his only answer was: 'I stand for Truth. Truth will never ally itself with falsehood. Even if all the world should be against me, Truth must prevail in the end.'

But the more powerful enemies he had to face were among the so-called free-thinkers, embracing the atheists, materialists, agnostics, rationalists, and others of similar breed who opposed anything associated with God or religion. Thinking that they would easily crush his ancient faith by arguments drawn from Western philosophy and science, they organized a meeting in New York and invited the Swami to present his views.

'I shall never forget that memorable evening' wrote an American disciple, 'when the Swami appeared single-handed to face the forces of materialism, arrayed in the heaviest armour of law, and reason, and logic, and common sense, of matter, and force, and heredity, and all the stock phrases calculated to awe and terrify the ignorant. Imagine their surprise when they found that far from being intimidated by these big words, he proved himself a master in wielding their own weapons, and as familiar with the arguments of materialism as with those of Advaita philosophy. He showed them that their much vaunted Western science could not answer the most vital questions of life and being, that their immutable laws, so much talked of, had no outside existence apart from the human mind, that the very idea of matter was a metaphysical conception, and that it was much despised metaphysics upon which ultimately rested the very basis of their materialism. With an irresistible logic he demonstrated that their knowledge proved itself incorrect, not by comparison with that which was true, but by the very laws upon which it depended for its basis; that pure reason could not help admitting its own limitations and pointed to something beyond reason; and that rationalism, when carried to its last consequences, must ultimately land us at something which is above matter, above force, above sense, above thought, and even consciousness, and of which all these are but manifestations.'

As a result of his explaining the limitations of science, a number of people from the group of free-thinkers attended the Swami's meeting the next day and listened to his uplifting utterances on God and religion.

What an uphill work it was for Swami Vivekananda to remove the ignorance, superstition, and perverted ideas about religion in general and Hinduism in particular! No wonder he sometimes felt depressed. In one of these moods he wrote from Detroit, on March 15, 1894, to the Hale sisters in Chicago:

But I do not know — I have become very sad in my heart since I am here. I do not know why. I am wearied of lecturing and all that nonsense. This mixing with hundreds of human animals, male and female, has disturbed me. I will tell you what is to my taste. I cannot write — cannot speak — but I can think deep, and when I am heated can speak fire. But it should be to a select few — a very select few. And let them carry and sow my ideas broadcast if they will — not I. It is only a just division of labour. The same man never succeeded in thinking and in casting his thoughts all around. Such thoughts are not worth a penny. ... I am really not 'cyclonic' at all — far from it. What I want is not here — nor can I longer bear this cyclonic atmosphere. Calm, cool, nice, deep, penetrating, independent, searching thought — a few noble pure mirrors which will reflect it back, catch it until all of them sound in unison. Let others throw it to the outside world if they will. This is the way to perfection — to be perfect, to make perfect a few men and women. My idea of doing good is this — to evolve a few giants, and not to strew pearls to the swine and lose time, breath, and energy. ... Well, I do not care for lecturing any more. It is too disgusting to bring me to suit anybody's or any audience's fad.

Swami Vivekananda became sick of what he termed 'the nonsense of public life and newspaper blazoning.'

The Swami had sincere admirers and devotees among the Americans, who looked after his comforts, gave him money when he lacked it, and followed his instructions. He was particularly grateful to American women, and wrote many letters to his friends in India paying high praise to their virtues.

In one letter he wrote:

'Nowhere in the world are women like those of this country. How pure, independent, self-relying, and kind-hearted! It is the women who are the life and soul of this country. All learning and culture are centred in them.'

In another letter:

'[Americans] look with veneration upon women, who play a most prominent part in their lives. Here this form of worship has attained its perfection — this is the long and short of it. I am almost at my wit's end to see the women of this country. They are Lakshmi, the Goddess of Fortune, in beauty, and Sarasvati, the Goddess of Learning, in virtues — they are the Divine Mother incarnate. If I can raise a thousand such Madonnas — incarnations of the Divine Mother — in our country before I die, I shall die in peace. Then only will our countrymen become worthy of their name.'

Perhaps his admiration reached its highest pitch in a letter to the Maharaja of Khetri, which he wrote in 1894:

American women! A hundred lives would not be sufficient to pay my deep debt of gratitude to you! Last year I came to this country in summer, a wandering preacher of a far distant country, without name, fame, wealth, or learning to recommend me — friendless, helpless, almost in a state of destitution; and American women befriended me, gave me shelter and food, took me to their homes, and treated me as their own son, their own brother. They stood as my friends even when their own priests were trying to persuade them to give up the 'dangerous heathen' — even when, day after day, their best friends had told them not to stand by this 'unknown foreigner, maybe of dangerous character.' But they are better judges of character and soul — for it is the pure mirror that catches the reflection.

And how many beautiful homes I have seen, how many mothers whose purity of character, whose unselfish love for their children, are beyond expression, how many daughters and pure maidens, 'pure as the icicle on Diana's temple' — and withal much culture, education, and spirituality in the highest sense! Is America, then, only full of wingless angels in the shape of women? There are good and bad everywhere, true — but a nation is not to be judged by its weaklings, called the wicked, for they are only the weeds which lag behind, but by the good, the noble and the pure, who indicate the national life-current to be flowing clear and vigorous.

And how bitter the Swami felt when he remembered the sad plight of the women of India! He particularly recalled the tragic circumstances under which one of his own sisters had committed suicide. He often thought that the misery of India was largely due to the ill-treatment the Hindus meted out to their womenfolk. Part of the money earned by his lectures was sent to a foundation for Hindu widows at Baranagore. He also conceived the idea of sending to India women teachers from the West for the intellectual regeneration of Hindu women.

Swami Vivekananda showed great respect for the fundamentals of American culture. He studied the country's economic policy, industrial organizations, public instruction, and its museums and art galleries, and wrote to India enthusiastically about them. He praised highly the progress of science, hygiene, institutions, and social welfare work. He realized that such noble concepts as the divinity of the soul and the brotherhood of men were mere academic theories in present-day India, whereas America showed how to apply them in life. He felt indignant when he compared the generosity and liberality of the wealthy men of America in the cause of social service, with the apathy of the Indians as far as their own people were concerned.

'No religion on earth,' he wrote angrily, 'preaches the dignity of humanity in such a lofty strain as Hinduism, and no religion on earth treads upon the necks of the poor and the low in such a fashion as Hinduism. Religion is not at fault, but it is the Pharisees and Sadducees.'

How poignant must have been his feelings when he remembered the iniquities of the caste-system! 'India's doom was sealed,' he wrote, 'the very day they invented the word mlechcha and stopped from communion with others.' When he saw in New York a millionaire woman sitting side by side in a tram-car with a negress with a wash-basket on her lap, he was impressed with the democratic spirit of the Americans. He wanted in India 'an organization that will teach the Hindus mutual help and appreciation' after the pattern of Western democracies.

Incessantly he wrote to his Indian devotees about the regeneration of the masses. In a letter dated 1894 he said:

Let each one of us pray, day and night, for the downtrodden millions in India, who are held fast by poverty, priestcraft, and tyranny — pray day and night for them. I care more to preach religion to them than to the high and the rich. I am no metaphysician, no philosopher, nay, no saint. But I am poor, I love the poor.... Who feels in India for the three hundred millions of men and women sunken for ever in poverty and ignorance? Where is the way out? Who feels for them? Let these people be your God — think of them, work for them, pray for them incessantly — the Lord will show you the way. Him I call a mahatma, a noble soul, whose heart bleeds for the poor; otherwise he is a duratma, a wicked soul.... So long as the millions live in hunger and ignorance, I hold every man a traitor who, having been educated at their expense, pays not the least heed to them.... We are poor, my brothers we are nobodies, but such have always been the instruments of the Most High.

Never did he forget, in the midst of the comforts and luxuries of America, even when he was borne on the wings of triumph from one city to another, the cause of the Indian masses, whose miseries he had witnessed while wandering as an unknown monk from the Himalayas to Cape Comorin. The prosperity of the new continent only stirred up in his soul deeper commiseration for his own people. He saw with his own eyes what human efforts, intelligence, and earnestness could accomplish to banish from society poverty, superstition, squalor, disease, and other handicaps of human well-being. On August 20, 1893, he wrote to instil courage into the depressed hearts of his devotees in India:

Gird up your loins, my boys! I am called by the Lord for this.... The hope lies in you — in the meek, the lowly, but the faithful. Feel for the miserable and look up for help — it shall come. I have travelled twelve years with this load in my heart and this idea in my head. I have gone from door to door of the so-called 'rich and great.' With a bleeding heart I have crossed half the world to this strange land, seeking help. The Lord is great. I know He will help me. I may perish of cold and hunger in this land, but I bequeath to you young men this sympathy, this struggle for the poor, the ignorant, the oppressed.... Go down on your faces before Him and make a great sacrifice, the sacrifice of the whole life for them, for whom He comes from time to time, whom He loves above all — the poor, the lowly, the oppressed. Vow, then, to devote your whole lives to the cause of these three hundred millions, going down and down every day. Glory unto the Lord! We will succeed. Hundreds will fall in the struggle — hundreds will be ready to take it up. Faith — sympathy, fiery faith and fiery sympathy! Life is nothing, death is nothing — hunger nothing, cold nothing. Glory unto the Lord! March on, the Lord is our General. Do not look back to see who falls — forward — onward!

Swami Vivekananda was thoroughly convinced by his intimate knowledge of the Indian people that the life-current of the nation, far from being extinct, was only submerged under the dead weight of ignorance and poverty. India still produced great saints whose message of the Spirit was sorely needed by the Western world. But the precious jewels of spirituality discovered by them were hidden, in the absence of a jewel-box, in a heap of filth. The West had created the jewel-box, in the form of a healthy society, but it did not have the jewels. Further, it took him no long time to understand that a materialistic culture contained within it the seeds of its own destruction. Again and again he warned the West of its impending danger. The bright glow on the Western horizon might not be the harbinger of a new dawn; it might very well be the red flames of a huge funeral pyre. The Western world was caught in the maze of its incessant activity — interminable movement without any goal. The hankering for material comforts, without a higher spiritual goal and a feeling of universal sympathy, might flare up among the nations of the West into jealousy and hatred, which in the end would bring about their own destruction.

Swami Vivekananda was a lover of humanity. Man is the highest manifestation of God, and this God was being crucified in different ways in the East and the West. Thus he had a double mission to perform in America. He wanted to obtain from the Americans money, scientific knowledge, and technical help for the regeneration of the Indian masses, and, in turn, to give to the Americans the knowledge of the Eternal Spirit to endow their material progress with significance. No false pride could prevent him from learning from America the many features of her social superiority; he also exhorted the Americans not to allow racial arrogance to prevent them from accepting the gift of spirituality from India. Through this policy of acceptance and mutual respect he dreamt of creating a healthy human society for the ultimate welfare of man's body and soul.

The year following the Parliament of Religions the Swami devoted to addressing meetings in the vast area spreading from the Mississippi to the Atlantic. In Detroit he spent six weeks, first as a guest of Mrs. John Bagley, widow of the former Governor of Michigan, and then of Thomas W. Palmer, President of the World's Fair Commission, formerly a United States Senator and American Minister to Spain. Mrs. Bagley spoke of the Swami's presence at her house as a 'continual benediction.' It was in Detroit that Miss Greenstidel first heard him speak. She later became, under the name of Sister Christine, one of the most devoted disciples of the Swami and a collaborator of Sister Nivedita in her work in Calcutta for the educational advancement of Indian women.

After Detroit, he divided his time between Chicago, New York, and Boston, and during the summer of 1894 addressed, by invitation, several meetings of the 'Humane Conference' held at Greenacre, Massachusetts. Christian Scientists, spiritualists, faithhealers, and groups representing similar views participated in the Conference.

The Swami in the course of a letter to the Hale sisters of Chicago, wrote on July 31, 1894, with his usual humour about the people who attended the meetings:

They have a lively time and sometimes all of them wear what you call your scientific dress the whole day. They have lectures almost every day. One Mr. Colville from Boston is here. He speaks every day, it is said, under spirit control. The editor of the Universal Truth from the top floor of Jimmy Mills has settled herself down here. She is conducting religious services and holding classes to heal all manner of diseases, and very soon I expect them to be giving eyes to the blind, etc., etc. After all, it is a queer gathering. They do not care much about social laws and are quite free and happy....

There is a Mr. Wood of Boston here, who is one of the great lights of your sect. But he objects to belonging to the sect of Mrs. Whirlpool. So he calls himself a mental healer of metaphysical, chemico, physical-religioso, what-not, etc.

Yesterday there was a tremendous cyclone which gave a good 'treatment' to the tents. The big tent under which they held the lectures developed so much spirituality under the treatment that it entirely disappeared from mortal gaze, and about two hundred chairs were dancing about the grounds under spiritual ecstasy. Mrs. Figs of Mills Company gives a class every morning, and Mrs. Mills is jumping all about the place. They are all in high spirits. I am especially glad for Cora, for she suffered a good deal last winter and a little hilarity would do her good. You would be astounded with the liberty they enjoy in the camps, but they are very good and pure people — a little erratic, that is all.

Regarding his own work at Greenacre, the Swami wrote in the same letter:

The other night the camp people all went to sleep under a pine tree under which I sit every morning a la India and talk to them. Of course I went with them and we had a nice night under the stars, sleeping on the lap of Mother Earth, and I enjoyed every bit of it. I cannot describe to you that night's glories — after the year of brutal life that I have led, to sleep on the ground, to mediate under the tree in the forest! The inn people are more or less well-to-do, and the camp people are healthy, young, sincere, and holy men and women. I teach them all Sivoham, Sivoham—'I am Siva, I am Siva' — and they all repeat it, innocent and pure as they are, and brave beyond all bounds, and I am so happy and glorified.

Thank God for making me poor! Thank God for making these children in the tents poor! The dudes and dudines are in the hotel, but iron-bound nerves, souls of triple steel, and spirits of fire are in the camp. If you had seen them yesterday, when the rain was falling in torrents and the cyclone was overturning everything — hanging on to their tent-strings to keep them from being blown off, and standing on the majesty of their souls, these brave ones — it would have done your hearts good. I would go a hundred miles to see the like of them. Lord bless them!...

Never be anxious for me for a moment. I will be taken care of, and if not, I shall know my time has come — and pass out.... Now good dreams, good thoughts for you. You are good and noble. Instead of materializing the spirit, i.e. dragging the spiritual to the material plane as these fellers do, convert matter into spirit — catch a glimpse at least, every day, of that world of infinite beauty and peace and purity, the spiritual, and try to live in it day and night. Seek not, touch not with your toes, anything which is uncanny. Let your souls ascend day and night like an unbroken string unto the feet of the Beloved, whose throne is in your own heart, and let the rest take care of themselves, i. e. the body and everything else. Life is an evanescent, floating dream; youth and beauty fade. Say day and night: 'Thou art my father, my mother, my husband, my love, my Lord, my God — I want nothing but Thee, nothing but Thee, nothing but Thee. Thou in me, I in Thee — I am Thee, Thou art me.' Wealth goes, beauty vanishes, life flies, powers fly — but the Lord abideth for ever, love abideth for ever. If there is glory in keeping the machine in good trim, it is more glorious to withhold the soul from suffering with the body. That is the only demonstration of your being 'not matter' — by letting matter alone.

Stick to God. Who cares what comes, in the body or anywhere? Through the terrors of evil, say, 'My God, my Love!' Through the pangs of death, say, 'My God, my Love!' Through all the evils under the sun, say: 'My God, my Love! Thou art here, I see Thee. Thou art with me, I feel Thee. I am Thine, take me. I am not the world's but Thine — leave Thou not me.' Do not go for glass beads, leaving the mine of diamonds. This life is a great chance. What! Seekest thou the pleasures of this world? He is the fountain of all bliss. Seek the highest, aim for the highest, and you shall reach the highest.

At Greenacre the Swami became a friend of Dr. Lewis G. Janes, Director of the School of Comparative Religions organized by the Greenacre Conference, and President of the Brooklyn Ethical Association. The following autumn he lectured in Baltimore and Washington.

During the Swami's visit in New York he was the guest of friends, mostly rich ladies of the metropolitan city. He had not yet started any serious work there. Soon he began to feel a sort of restraint put upon his movements. Very few of his wealthy friends understood the true import of his message; they were interested in him as a novelty from India. Also to them he was the man of the hour. They wanted him to mix with only the exclusive society of 'the right people.' He chafed under their domination and one day cried: 'Siva! Siva! Has it ever come to pass that a great work has been grown by the rich? It is brain and heart that create, and not purse.' He wanted to break away from their power and devote himself to the training of some serious students in the spiritual life. He was fed up with public lectures; now he became eager to mould silently the characters of individuals. He could no longer bear the yoke of money and all the botheration that came in its train. He would live simply and give freely, like the holy men of India. Soon an opportunity presented itself.

Dr. Lewis Janes invited the Swami to give a series of lectures on the Hindu religion before the Brooklyn Ethical Association. On the evening of December 31, 1894, he gave his first lecture, and according to the report of the Brooklyn Standard, the enthusiastic audience, consisting of doctors and lawyers and judges and teachers, remained spellbound by his eloquent defence of the religion of India. They all acknowledged that Vivekananda was even greater than his fame. At the end of the meeting they made an insistent demand for regular classes in Brooklyn, to which the Swami agreed. A series of class meetings was held and several public lectures were given at the Pouch Mansion, where the Ethical Association held its meetings. These lectures constituted the beginning of the permanent work in America which the Swami secretly desired.

Soon after, several poor but earnest students rented for the Swami some unfurnished rooms in a poor section of New York City. He lived in one of them. An ordinary room on the second floor of the lodging-house was used for the lectures and classes. The Swami when conducting the meetings sat on the floor, while the ever more numerous auditors seated themselves as best they could, utilizing the marble-topped dresser, the arms of the sofa, and even the corner wash-stand. The door was left open and the overflow filled the hall and sat on the stairs. The Swami, like a typical religious teacher in India, felt himself in his own element. The students, forgetting all the inconveniences, hung upon every word uttered from the teacher's deep personal experiences or his wide range of knowledge.

The lectures, given every morning and several evenings a week, were free. The rent was paid by the voluntary subscriptions of the students, and the deficit was met by the Swami himself, through the money he earned by giving secular lectures on India. Soon the meeting-place had to be removed downstairs to occupy an entire parlour floor.

He began to instruct several chosen disciples in jnana-yoga in order to clarify their intellects regarding the subtle truths of Vedanta, and also in raja-yoga to teach them the science of self-control, concentration, and meditation. He was immensely happy with the result of his concentrated work. He enjoined upon these students to follow strict disciplines regarding food, choosing only the simplest. The necessity of chastity was emphasized, and they were warned against psychic and occult power. At the same time he broadened their intellectual horizon through the teachings of Vedantic universality. Daily he meditated with the serious students. Often he would lose all bodily consciousness and, like Sri Ramakrishna, had to be brought back to the knowledge of the world through the repetition of certain holy words that he had taught his disciples.

It was sometime about June 1895 when Swami Vivekananda finished writing his famous book Raja-Yoga, which attracted the attention of the Harvard philosopher William James and was later to rouse the enthusiasm of Tolstoy. The book is a translation of Patanjali's Yoga aphorisms, the Swami adding his own explanations; the introductory chapters written by him are especially illuminating. Patanjali expounded, through these aphorisms, the philosophy of Yoga, the main purpose of which is to show the way of the soul's attaining freedom from the bondage of matter. Various methods of concentrations are discussed. The book well served two purposes. First, the Swami demonstrated that religious experiences could stand on the same footing as scientific truths, being based on experimentation, observation, and verification. Therefore genuine spiritual experiences must not be dogmatically discarded as lacking rational evidence. Secondly, the Swami explained lucidly various disciplines of concentration, with the warning, however, that they should not be pursued without the help of a qualified teacher.

Miss S. Ellen Waldo of Brooklyn, a disciple of the Swami, was his amanuensis. She thus described the manner in which he dictated the book:

'In delivering his commentaries on the aphorisms, he would leave me waiting while he entered into deep states of meditation or self-contemplation, to emerge therefrom with some luminous interpretation. I had always to keep the pen dipped in the ink. He might be absorbed for long periods of time, and then suddenly his silence would be broken by some eager expression or some long, deliberate teaching.'

By the middle of the year 1895 the Swami was completely exhausted. The numerous classes and lectures, the private instruction, the increasing correspondence, and the writing of Raja-Yoga had tired him both physically and mentally. It was a herculean task to spread the message of Hinduism in an alien land and at the same time to mould the lives of individuals according to the highest ideal of renunciation. Besides, there were annoyances from zealous but well-meaning friends, especially women. Some suggested that he should take elocution lessons, some urged him to dress fashionably in order to influence society people, other admonished him against mixing with all sorts of people. At time he would be indignant and say: 'Why should I be bound down with all this nonsense? I am a monk who has realized the vanity of all earthly nonsense! I have no time to give my manners a finish. I cannot find time enough to give my message. I will give it after my own fashion. Shall I be dragged down into the narrow limits of your conventional life? Never!' Again, he wrote to a devotee: 'I long, oh, I long for my rags, my shaven head, my sleep under the trees, and my food from begging.'

The Swami needed rest from his strenuous work, and accepted the invitation of his devoted friend Francis H. Leggett to come to his summer camp at Percy, New Hampshire, and rest in the silence of the pine woods. In the meantime Miss Elizabeth Dutcher, one of his students in New York, cordially asked the Swami to take a vacation in her summer cottage at Thousand Island Park on the St. Lawrence River. The Swami gratefully accepted both invitations.

About his life at the camp, he wrote to a friend on June 7, 1895: 'It gives me a new lease of life to be here. I go into the forest alone and read my Gita and am quite happy.' After a short visit at Percy, he arrived in June at Thousand Island Park, where he spent seven weeks. This proved to be a momentous period in his life in the Western world.

When the students who had been attending Swami Vivekananda's classes in New York heard of Miss Dutcher's proposal, they were immensely pleased, because they did not want any interruption of their lessons. The Swami, too, after two years' extensive work in America, had become eager to mould the spiritual life of individual students and to train a group that would carry on his work in America in the future. He wrote to one of his friends that he intended to manufacture 'a few yogis' from the materials of the classes. He wanted only those to follow him to Thousand Island Park who were completely earnest in their practice of spiritual disciplines, and he said that he would gladly recognize these as his disciples.

By a singular coincidence just twelve disciples were taught by him at the summer retreat, though all were not there the full seven weeks; ten was the largest number present at any one time. Two, Mme. Marie Louise and Mr. Leon Landsberg, were initiated at Thousand Island Park into the monastic life. The former, French by birth but a naturalized American, a materialist and socialist, a fearless, progressive woman worker known to the press and platform, was given the name Abhayananda. The latter, a Russian Jew and member of the staff of a prominent New York newspaper, became known as Kripananda. Both took the vows of poverty and chastity.

In many respects the sojourn in Miss Dutcher's cottage was ideal for the Swami's purpose. Here, to this intimate group, he revealed brilliant flashes of illumination, lofty flights of eloquence, and outpourings of the most profound wisdom. The whole experience was reminiscent of the Dakshineswar days when the Swami, as the young Narendra, had been initiated into the mysteries of the spiritual life at the feet of his Master Ramakrishna.

Thousand Island Park, near the western tip of Wellesley Island, the second largest of the seventeen hundred islands in the St. Lawrence River, has for its setting one of the scenic show-places of America. A prosperous village during the last part of the nineteenth century, it was, at the time of the Swami's visit, a stronghold of orthodox Methodist Christianity. The local tabernacle, where celebrated preachers were invited to conduct the divine service on Sunday mornings, attracted people from the neighbouring islands. Since secular activities were not allowed on the Sabbath, the visitors would arrive at Thousand Island Park the previous day and spend the night camping out. No such profanities as public drinking, gambling, or dancing were allowed in the summer resort — a rule that is still enforced half a century later. Only people of serious mind went there for their vacation.

Miss Dutcher's cottage was ideally located on a hill, which on the north and west sloped down towards the river. It commanded a grand view of many distant islands, the town of Clayton on the American mainland and the Canadian shores to the north. At night the houses and hotels were brightly illuminated by Chinese lanterns.

Miss Dutcher, an artist, had built her cottage literally 'on a rock,' with huge boulders lying all around. It was surrounded by rock-gardens with bright-coloured flowers. At that time the tress at the base of the hill had not grown high; people from the village often visited the upstairs porch to survey the magnificent sweep of the river.

After inviting the Swami, Miss Dutcher, added a new wing to the cottage for his accommodation. This wing, three storeys high, stood on a steep slope of rock, like a great lantern-tower with windows on three sides. The room at the top was set apart exclusively for the Swami's use; the lowest room was occupied by a student; the room between, with large windows, and several doors opening on the main part of the house, was used as the Swami's classroom. Miss Dutcher thoughtfully added an outside stairway to the Swami's room so that he might go in and out without being noticed by the others.

On the roofed-in porch upstairs, extending along the west side of the cottage, the students met the Swami for his evening talks. There, at one end, close to the door of his room, he would take his seat and commune with his pupils both in silence and through the spoken word. In the evening the cottage was bathed in perfect stillness except for the murmur of insects and the whisper of the wind through the leaves. The house being situated, as it were, among the tree-tops, a breeze always relieved the summer heat. The centre of the village was only a five minutes' walk from the cottage, and yet, on account of the woods around it, not a single house could be seen. Many of the islands that dotted the river were visible in the distance and, especially in the evening, appeared like a picture. The glow of the sunset on the St. Lawrence was breathtaking in its beauty, and the moon at night was mirrored in the shining waters beneath.

In this ideal retreat, 'the world forgetting, by the world forgot,' the devoted students spent seven weeks with their beloved teacher, listening to his words of wisdom and receiving his silent benediction. Immediately after the evening meal they would assemble on the upstairs porch. Soon the Swami would come from his room and take his seat. Two hours and often much longer would be spent together. One night, when the moon was almost full, he talked to them until it set below the western horizon, both the teacher and the students being unaware of the passage of time. During these seven weeks the Swami's whole heart was in his work and he taught like one inspired.

Miss Dutcher, his hostess, was a conscientious little woman and a staunch Methodist. When the Swami arrived at the house, he saw on the walls of his living quarters scrolls bearing the words 'Welcome to Vivekananda' painted in bold letters. But as the teaching began, Miss Dutcher often felt distressed by the Swami's revolutionary ideas. All her ideals, her values of life, her concepts of religion, were, it seemed to her, being destroyed. Sometimes she did not appear for two or three days. 'Don't you see?' the Swami said. 'This is not an ordinary illness. It is the reaction of the body against the chaos that is going on in her mind. She cannot bear it.'

The most violent attack came one day after a timid protest on her part against something he had told them in the class. 'The idea of duty is the midday sun of misery, scorching the very soul,' he had said. 'Is it not our duty — ' she had begun, but got no farther. For once the great free soul broke all bounds in his rebellion against the idea that anyone should dare bind with fetters the soul of man. Miss Dutcher was not seen for some days.

Referring to the students who had gathered around the Swami, a village shopkeeper said to a new arrival who inquired for the cottage, 'Yes, there are some queer people living up on the hill; among them there is a foreign-looking gentleman.' A young girl of sixteen, living with her family at the foot of the hill, one day expressed the desire to talk to the Swami. 'Don't go near him,' her mother said sternly. 'He is a heathen.' Mr. Tom Mitchell, a carpenter who helped to restore the cottage for the Ramakrishna-Vivekananda Centre in 1948, and had originally built the Swami's quarters in 1895, told the present writer that he had read the Swami's lectures in Chicago from the newspapers long before his arrival at the island.

The students wanted, at first, to live as a community without servants, each doing a share of the work. Nearly all of them, however, were unaccustomed to housework and found it uncongenial. The result was amusing; as time went on it threatened to become disastrous. When the tension became too great, the Swami would say with utmost sweetness, 'Today, I shall cook for you.' At this Landsberg would ejaculate, in an aside, 'Heaven save us!' By way of explanation he declared that in New York, whenever the Swami cooked, he, Landsberg, would tear his hair, because it meant that afterwards every dish in the house required washing. After a few days an outsider was engaged to help with the housework.

Swami Vivekananda started his class at Thousand Island Park on Wednesday, June 19. Not all the students had arrived. But his heart was set on his work; so he commenced at once with the three or four who were with him. After a short meditation, he opened with the Gospel according to Saint John, from the Bible, saying that since the students were all Christians, it was proper that he should begin with the Christian scriptures. As the classes went on, he taught from the Bhagavad Gita, the Upanishads, the Vedanta Sstras, the Bhakti Sstras of Narada, and other Hindu scriptures. He discussed Vedanta in its three aspects: the non-dualism of Sankara, the qualified non-dualism of Ramanuja, and the dualism of Madhva. Since the subtleties of Sankara appeared difficult to the students, Ramanuja remained the favourite among them. The Swami also spoke at length about Sri Ramakrishna, of his own daily life with the Master, and of his struggles with the tendency to unbelief and agnosticism. He told stories from the inexhaustible storehouse of Hindu mythology to illustrate his abstruse thoughts.

The ever recurring theme of his teaching was God-realization. He would always come back to the one, fundamental, vital point: 'Find God. Nothing else matters.' He emphasized morality as the basis of the spiritual life. Without truth, non-injury, continence, non-stealing, cleanliness, and austerity, he repeated, there could be no spirituality. The subject of continence always stirred him deeply. Walking up and down the room, getting more and more excited, he would stop before someone as if there were no one else present. 'Don't you see,' he would say eagerly, 'there is a reason why chastity is insisted on in all monastic orders? Spiritual giants are produced only where the vow of chastity is observed. Don't you see there must be a reason? There is a connexion between chastity and spirituality. The explanation is that through prayer and meditation the saints have transmuted the most vital force in the body into spiritual energy. In India this is well understood and yogis do it consciously. The force so transmuted is called ojas, and it is stored up in the brain. It has been lifted from the lowest centre to the highest. "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." He would plead with the students as if to beg them to act upon this teaching as something most precious. Further, they could not be the disciples he required if they were not established in chastity. He demanded a conscious transmutation. 'The man who has no temper has nothing to control,' he said. 'I want a few, five or six, who are in the flower of their youth.'

He would frequently exhort the students to attain freedom. As the words came in torrents from the depths of his soul, the atmosphere would be charged with the yearning to break free from the bondage of the body, a degrading humiliation. As he touched upon 'this indecent clinging to life,' the students would feel as if the curtain that hid the region beyond life and death were lifted for them, and they would long for that glorious freedom. 'Azad! Azad! the Free! the Free!' he would cry, pacing back and forth like a caged lion; but for him the bars of the cage were not of iron, but of bamboo. 'Let us not be caught this time,' would be his refrain on other occasions.

Some of these precious talks were noted down by his disciple Miss S. Ellen Waldo and later published as Inspired Talks. Students of Swami Vivekananda will for ever remain indebted to her for faithfully preserving his immortal words, and the title of this book was well chosen, for they were indeed inspired. One day Miss Waldo was reading her notes to some tardy arrivals in the cottage while the Swami strode up and down the floor, apparently unconscious of what was going on. After the travellers had left the room, the Swami turned to Miss Waldo and said: 'How could you have caught my thought and words so perfectly? It was as if I heard myself speaking.'

During these seven weeks of teaching the Swami was most gentle and lovable. He taught his disciples as Sri Ramakrishna had taught him at Dakshineswar: the teaching was the outpouring of his own spirit in communion with himself. The Swami said later that he was at his best at Thousand Island Park. The ideas he cherished and expressed there grew, during the years that followed, into institutions, both in India and abroad.

The Swami's one consuming passion, during this time, was to show his students the way to freedom. 'Ah,' he said one day, with touching pathos, 'if I could only set you free with a touch!' Two students, Mrs. Funke and Miss Greenstidel, arrived at the Park one dark and rainy night. One of them said, 'We have come to you as we would go to Jesus if he were still on the earth and ask him to teach us.' The Swami looked at them kindly and gently said, 'If I only possessed the power of the Christ to set you free!' No wonder that Miss Waldo one day exclaimed, 'What have we ever done to deserve all this?' And so felt the others also.

One cannot but be amazed at the manifestation of Swami Vivekananda's spiritual power at Thousand Island Park. Outwardly he was a young man of thirty-two. All his disciples at the cottage, except one, were older than himself. Yet everyone looked upon him as a father or mother. He had attained an unbelievable maturity. Some marvelled at his purity, some at his power, some at his intellectuality, some at his serenity, which was like the depths of the ocean, unperturbed by the waves of applause or contumely. When had he acquired all these virtues which had made him at thirty, a teacher of men? From the foregoing pages the reader will have formed an idea of him as a stormy person, struggling, in early youth, against poverty and spiritual unbelief. Afterwards he is seen wandering from the Himalayas to Cape Comorin, raging against the grievances and sufferings of the Indian masses. During his first two years in America he had had to fight tooth and nail against malicious critics in order to establish his reputation as a religious teacher. When had he, then, tapped the secret spring of inner calmness and assurance without which a teacher cannot transmit spirituality to his disciples?

One must not forget that Vivekananda, as Ramakrishna has said, was not an ordinary man, but a nityasiddha, perfect even before birth, an Isvarakoti, or special messenger of God born on earth to fulfil a divine mission. The silent but powerful influence of the guru always guided his feet. The outer world saw only the struggles and restlessness of his wandering days, but not the inner transformation brought about through the practice of purity, detachment, self-control, and meditation. The veil of maya, without which no physical embodiment is possible, and which in him was very thin, was rent through the spiritual struggle of a few years. People were astonished to see his blossoming forth at Thousand Island Park.

At Dakshineswar, though Sri Ramakrishna had offered young Naren various supernatural powers of Yoga as a help for his future work, the disciple had refused to accept them, as being possible impediments to spiritual progress. But later these powers began to manifest themselves as the natural fruit of his spiritual realizations. Thus one sees him at Thousand Island Park reading the inmost soul of his followers before giving them initiation, and foretelling their future careers. He prophesied for Sister Christine extensive travels in Oriental countries and work in India. He explained that his method of foresight was simple, at least in the telling. He first thought of space — vast, blue, and extending everywhere. As he meditated on that space intently, pictures appeared, and he then gave interpretations of them which would indicate the future life of the person concerned.

Even before his arrival at Thousand Island Park the Swami had had other manifestations of such Yoga powers. For instance, while busy with his lecture tour, sometimes giving twelve or fourteen speeches a week, he would feel great physical and mental strain and often wonder what he would speak of the next day. Then he would hear, at dead of night, a voice shouting at him the very thoughts he was to present. Sometimes it would come from a long distance and then draw nearer and nearer, or again, it would be like someone delivering a lecture beside him as he lay listening in bed. At other times two voices would argue before him, discussing at great length ideas, some of which he had never before consciously heard or thought of, which he would find himself repeating the following day from the pulpit or the platform.

Sometimes people sleeping in the adjoining rooms would ask him in the morning: 'Swami, with whom were you talking last night? We heard you talking loudly and enthusiastically and we were wondering.' The Swami often explained these manifestations as the powers and potentialities of the soul generally called inspiration. He denied that they were miracles.

At that time he experienced the power of changing a person's life by a touch, or clearly seeing things happening at a great distance. But he seldom used these and the other powers he had acquired through Yoga. One day, much later, Swami Turiyananda entered Swami Vivekananda's room while the Swami was lying on his bed, and beheld, in place of his physical body, a mass of radiance. It is no wonder that today in America, half a century later, one meets men and women who saw or heard Swami Vivekananda perhaps once, and still remember him vividly.

But it must not be thought that the Swami did not show his lighter mood at Thousand Island Park. He unfailingly discovered the little idiosyncrasies of the students and raised gales of laughter at the dinner-table, with some quip or jest — but never in sarcasm or malice. Dr. Wright of Cambridge, a very cultured man, was one of the inmates of the Dutcher Cottage. He became so absorbed in the class talks that at the end of every discourse the tense professor would invariably ask the teacher: 'Well, Swami, it all amounts to this in the end, doesn't it? — I am Brahman, I am the Absolute.' The Swami would smile indulgently and answer gently, 'Yes, Dockie, you are Brahman, you are the Absolute, in the real essence of your being.' Later, when the learned doctor came to the table a trifle late, the Swami, with the utmost gravity but with a merry twinkle in his eyes, would say, 'Here comes Brahman' or 'Here is the Absolute.'

Sometimes he would say, 'Now I am going to cook for you, "brethren".' The food he cooked would be delicious, but too hot for Western tastes. The students, however, made up their minds to eat it even if it strangled them. After the meal was cooked, the Swami would stand in the door with a white napkin draped over his arm, in the fashion of the negro waiters in a dining-car, and intone in perfect imitation their call for dinner: 'Last call fo' the dining cah. Dinner served.' And the students would rock with laughter.

One day he was telling the disciples the story of Sita and of the pure womanhood of India. The question flashed in the mind of one of the women as to how some of the beautiful society queens would appear to him, especially those versed in the art of allurements. Even before the thought was expressed, the Swami said gravely, 'If the most beautiful woman in the world were to look at me in an immodest or unwomanly way, she would immediately turn into a hideous green frog, and one does not, of course, admire frogs.'

At last the day of the Swami's departure from Thousand Island Park arrived. It was Wednesday, August 7, 1895. In the morning he, Mrs. Funke, and Sister Christine went for a walk. They strolled about half a mile up the hill, where all was forest and solitude, and sat under a low-branched tree. The Swami suddenly said to them: 'Now we shall meditate. We shall be like Buddha under the Bo-tree.' He became still as a bronze statue. A thunderstorm came up and it poured; but the Swami did not notice anything. Mrs. Funke raised her umbrella and protected him as much as possible. When it was time to return, the Swami opened his eyes and said, 'I feel once more I am in Calcutta in the rains.' It is reported that one day, at Thousand Island Park he experienced nirvikalpa samadhi.

At nine o'clock in the evening the Swami boarded the steamer for Clayton, where he was to catch the train for New York. While taking leave of the Island he said, 'I bless these Thousand Islands.' As the steamer moved away, he boyishly and joyously waved his hat to the disciples still standing at the pier.

Some of his devotees thought that the Swami had planned at Thousand Island Park to start an organization. But they were mistaken. He wrote to a disciple:

We have no organization, nor want to build any. Each one is quite independent to teach, quite free to teach, whatever he or she likes. If you have the spirit within, you will never fail to attract others.... Individuality is my motto. I have no ambition beyond training individuals. I know very little; that little I teach without reserve; where I am ignorant I confess it.... I am a sannyasin. As such I hold myself as a servant, not as a master, in this world.

Vivekananda, the awakener of souls, was indeed too great to be crammed within the confines of a narrow organization. He had had a unique experience of inner freedom at Thousand Island Park, which he expressed eloquently in his poem 'The Song of the Sannyasin.' He wrote from there to a friend: 'I am free, my bonds are cut, what do I care whether this body goes or does not go? I have a truth to teach — I, the child of God. And He that gave me the truth will send me fellow workers from earth's bravest and best.'

A month after his return from Thousand Island Park, Swami Vivekananda sailed for Europe. Before we take up that important chapter of his life, however, it will be well to describe some of his interesting experiences in America, especially his meeting with noted personalities.

Robert Ingersoll, the famous orator and agnostic, and Swami Vivekananda had several conversations on religion and philosophy. Ingersoll, with a fatherly solicitude, asked the young enthusiast not to be too bold in the expression of his views, on account of people's intolerance of all alien religious ideas. 'Forty years ago,' he said, 'you would have been hanged if you had come to preach in this country, or you would have been burnt alive. You would have been stoned out of the villages if you had come even much later.' The Swami was surprised. But Ingersoll did not realize that the Indian monk, unlike him, respected all religions and prophets, and that he wanted to broaden the views of the Christians about Christ's teachings.

One day, in the course of a discussion, Ingersoll said to the Swami, 'I believe in making the most of this world, in squeezing the orange dry, because this world is all we are sure of.' He would have nothing to do with God, soul, or hereafter, which he considered as meaningless jargon. 'I know a better way to squeeze the orange of this world than you do,' the Swami replied, 'and I get more out of it. I know I cannot die, so I am not in a hurry. I know that there is no fear, so I enjoy the squeezing. I have no duty, no bondage of wife and children and property, so I can love all men and women.'

Everyone is God to me. Think of the joy of loving man as God! Squeeze your orange my way, and you will get every single drop!' Ingersoll, it is reported, asked the Swami not to be impatient with his views, adding that his own unrelenting fight against traditional religions had shaken men's faith in theological dogmas and creeds, and thus helped to pave the way for the Swami's success in America.

Nikola Tesla, the great scientist who specialized in the field of electricity, was much impressed to hear from the Swami his explanation of the Samkhya cosmogony and the theory of cycles given by the Hindus. He was particularly struck by the resemblance between the Samkhya theory of matter and energy and that of modern physics. The Swami also met Sir William Thomson (afterwards Lord Kelvin) and Professor Helmholtz, two leading representatives of Western science. Sarah Bernhardt, the famous French actress, had an interview with the Swami and greatly admired his teachings.

Madame Emma Calve, the well-known prima donna, described the Swami as one who 'truly walked with God.' She came to see him in a state of physical and mental depression. The Swami, who did not at that time know even her name, talked to her about her worries and various personal problems. It was clear that he was familiar with them, even though she had never revealed them to him or to anyone else. When Madame Calve expressed surprise, the Swami assured her that no one had talked to him about her. 'Do you think that is necessary?' he asked. 'I read you as I would an open book.' He gave her this parting advice: 'You must forget. Be gay and happy again. Do not dwell in silence upon your sorrows. Transmute your emotions into some form of eternal expression. Your spiritual health requires it. Your art demands it.'

Madame Calve later said: 'I left him, deeply impressed by his words and his personality. He seemed to have emptied my brain of all its feverish complexities and placed there instead his clean and calming thoughts. I became once again vivacious and cheerful, thanks to the effect of his powerful will. He used no hypnosis, no mesmerism — nothing of that sort at all. It was the strength of his character, the purity and intensity of his purpose, that carried conviction. It seemed to me, when I came to know him better, that he lulled one's chaotic thoughts into a state of peaceful acquiescences, so that one could give complete and undivided attention to his words.'

Like many people, Madame Calve could not accept the Vedantic doctrine of the individual soul's total absorption in the Godhead at the time of final liberation. 'I cannot bear the idea,' she said. 'I cling to my individuality — unimportant though it may be. I don't want to be absorbed into an eternal unity.' To this the Swami answered: 'One day a drop of water fell into the vast ocean. Finding itself there, it began to weep and complain, just as you are doing. The giant ocean laughed at the drop of water. "Why do you weep?" it asked. "I do not understand. When you join me, you join all your brothers and sisters, the other drops of water of which I am made. You become the ocean itself. If you wish to leave me you have only to rise up on a sunbeam into the clouds. From there you can descend again, little drop of water, a blessing and a benediction to the thirsty earth.'"

Did not the Swami thus explain his own individuality? Before his present embodiment, he had remained absorbed in communion with the Absolute. Then he accepted the form of an individual to help humanity in its spiritual struggle. A giant soul like his is not content to remain eternally absorbed in the Absolute. Such also was the thought of Buddha.

In the company of great men and women, the Swami revealed his intellectual and spiritual power. But one sees his human side especially in his contact with humble people. In America he was often taken to be a negro. One day, as he alighted from a train in a town where he was to deliver a lecture, he was given a welcome by the reception committee. The most prominent townspeople were all there. A negro porter came up to him and said that he had heard how one of his own people had become great and asked the privilege of shaking hands with him. Warmly the Swami shook his hand, saying 'Thank you! Thank you, brother!' He never resented being mistaken for a negro. It happened many times, especially in the South, that he was refused admittance to a hotel, a barber shop, or a restaurant, because of his dark skin. When the Swami related these incidents to a Western disciple, he was promptly asked why he did not tell people that he was not a negro but a Hindu. 'What!' the Swami replied indignantly. 'Rise at the expense of another? I did not come to earth for that.'

Swami Vivekananda was proud of his race and his dark complexion. 'He was scornful,' wrote Sister Nivedita, 'in his repudiation of the pseudo-ethnology of privileged races. "If I am grateful to my white-skinned Aryan ancestors," he said, "I am far more so to my yellow-skinned Mongolian ancestors, and most of all to the black-skinned negroids." He was immensely proud of his physiognomy, especially of what he called his "Mongolian jaw," regarding it as a sign of "bulldog tenacity of purpose." Referring to this particular racial characteristic, which is believed to be behind every Aryan people, he one day exclaimed: "Don't you see? The Tartar is the wine of the race! He gives energy and power to every blood."

The Swami had a strange experience in a small American town, where he was confronted by a number of college boys who had been living there on a ranch as cowboys. They heard him describe the power of concentration, through which a man could become completely oblivious of the outside world. So they decided to put him to test and invited him to lecture to them. A wooden tub was placed, with bottom up, to serve as a platform. The Swami commenced his address and soon appeared to be lost in his subject. Suddenly shots were fired in his direction, and bullets went whizzing past his ears. But the Swami continued his lecture as though nothing was happening. When he had finished, the young men flocked about him and congratulated him as a good fellow.

In his lectures and conversations the Swami showed a wonderful sense of humour. It was a saving feature in his strenuous life, and without it he might have broken down under the pressure of his intense thinking. Once, in one of his classes in Minneapolis, the Swami was asked by a student if Hindu mothers threw their children to the crocodiles in the river. Immediately came the reply: 'Yes, Madam! They threw me in, but like your fabled Jonah, I got out again!' Another time, a lady became rather romantic about the Swami and said to him, 'Swami! You are my Romeo and I am your Desdemona!' The Swami said quickly, 'Madam, you'd better brush up your Shakespeare.'

As already stated, Swami Vivekananda was particularly friendly with Mr. and Mrs. Hale, of Chicago, and their two young daughters and two nieces. The daughters were named Mary and Harriet, and the nieces, Isabel and Harriet McKindley. He affectionately called Mr. Hale 'Father Pope' and Mrs. Hale 'Mother Church.' The girls he addressed as 'sisters' or 'babies.' A very sweet and warm relationship grew up between them and the Swami. His relationship with Mary was especially close. He wrote to her many light-hearted letters. In a letter to the sisters, dated July 26, 1894, the Swami said:

Now, don't let my letters stray beyond the circle, please — I had a beautiful letter from Sister Mary — See how I am getting the dash — Sister Jeany teaches me all that — She can jump and run and play and swear like a devil and talk slang at the rate of five hundred a minute — only she does not much care for religion — only a little....Darn it, I forget everything — I had duckings in the sea like a fish — I am enjoying every bit of it — What nonsense was the song Harriet taught me, 'Dans la Plaine' — the deuce take it! — I told it to a French scholar and he laughed and laughed till the fellow was wellnigh burst at my wonderful translation — That is the way you would have taught me French — You are a pack of fools and heathens, I tell you — How you are gasping for breath like huge fish stranded — I am glad that you are sizzling (Referring to the summer heat of Chicago.) — Oh! how nice and cool it is here — and it is increased a hundredfold when I think about the gasping, sizzling, boiling, frying four old maids — and how cool and nice I am here — Whoooooo!!!!...

Well — dear old maids — you sometimes have a glimpse of the lake and on very hot noons think of going down to the bottom of the lake — down — down — down — until it is cool and nice, and then to lie down on the bottom, with just that coolness above and around — and lie there still — silent — and just doze — not sleep, but a dreamy, dozing, half unconscious sort of bliss — very much like that which opium brings — That is delicious — and drinking lots of iced water — Lord bless my soul! — I had such cramps several times as would have killed an elephant — So I hope to keep myself away from the cold water —

May you all be happy, dear fin de siecle young ladies, is the constant prayer of Vivekananda.

One realizes how deeply Swami Vivekananda had entered into the American spirit, when one sees how facile he was in his use of American slang. Surely this letter is an example. As we have stated before, the Swami also needed diversions of this kind in order to obtain relief from his intensely serious life and thinking in America. One recalls that Sri Ramakrishna, too, would often indulge in light talk in order to keep his mind on the level of ordinary consciousness.

Shortly after his success at the Parliament of Religions, the Swami began, as we have seen, to write to his devotees in India, giving them his plans for India's regeneration. He urged them to take up work that would lead to better systems of education and hygiene throughout India. He wanted a magazine to be started for disseminating among his fellow-countrymen the broad truths of Vedanta, which would create confidence in their minds regarding their power and potentialities, and give them back their lost individuality. He exhorted his devotees to work especially for the uplift of women and the masses, without whose help India would never be able to raise herself from her present state of stagnation. He sent them money, earned through his lectures, for religious, educational, and other philanthropic activities. His enthusiastic letters inspired them. But they wanted him to return and take up the leadership. They were also distressed to see the malicious propaganda against him by the Christian missionaries in India. The Swami, however, repeatedly urged them to depend upon themselves. 'Stand on your own feet!' he wrote to them. 'If you are really my children, you will fear nothing, stop at nothing. You will be like lions. You must rouse India and the whole world.'

About the criticism from the Christian missionaries, he wrote: 'The Christianity that is preached in India is quite different from what one sees here. You will be astonished to hear that I have friends in this country amongst the clergy of the Episcopal and Presbyterian Churches, who are as broad-minded, as liberal, and as sincere as you are in your own religion. The real spiritual man — everywhere — is broad-minded. His love forces him to be so. They to whom religion is a trade are forced to become narrow-minded and mischievous by their very introduction into religion of the competitive, fighting, selfish methods of the world.' He requested the Indian devotees not to pay any heed to what the missionaries were saying either for or against him. 'I shall work incessantly,' he wrote, 'until I die, and even after death I shall work for the good of the world. Truth is infinitely more weighty than untruth.... It is the force of character, of purity, and of truth — of personality. So long as I have these things, you can feel easy; no one will be able to injure a hair of my head. If they try, they will fail, saith the Lord.'

EXPERIENCES IN THE WEST

For some time Swami Vivekananda had been planning a visit to London. He wished to sow the seed of Vedanta in the capital of the mighty British Empire. Miss Henrietta Müller had extended to him a cordial invitation to come to London, and Mr. E.T. Sturdy had requested him to stay at his home there. Mr. Leggett, too, had invited the Swami to come to Paris as his guest.

Mr. Francis H. Leggett, whose hospitality the Swami had already enjoyed at Percy, was a wealthy business man of New York. He and two ladies of his acquaintance, Mrs. William Sturges and Miss Josephine MacLeod (who were sisters), had attended the Swami's lectures in New York during the previous winter. They were all impressed by the Swami's personality and his message, and Mr. Leggett remarked, one day, that the teacher was a man of 'great common sense.' An intimate relationship gradually developed between the Swami, the two sisters, and Mr. Leggett. Mrs. Sturges, who was a widow, and Mr. Leggett became engaged and announced their engagement at the summer camp at Percy. They decided to be married in Paris, and Mr. Leggett invited the Swami to be a witness at the ceremony.

This invitation, coming at the same time as Miss Müller's and Mr. Sturdy's seemed to the Swami, as he described it in a letter, a 'divine call.' The Swami's New York friends thought that a sea voyage would be most beneficial for his weary body and mind. At this time the Swami began to feel a premonition of his approaching end. One day he even said, 'My day is done.' But the awareness of his unfulfilled mission made him forget his body.

The Swami and Mr. Leggett sailed from New York about the middle of August 1895, reaching Paris by the end of the month. The French metropolis with its museums, churches, cathedrals, palaces, and art galleries impressed him as the centre of European culture, and he was introduced to a number of enlightened French people.

When Swami Vivekananda arrived in London he was enthusiastically greeted by Miss Müller, who had already met him in America, and Mr. Sturdy, who had studied Sanskrit and had to a certain degree practised asceticism in the Himalayas. The Swami's mind, one can imagine, was filled with tumultuous thoughts as he arrived in the great city. He was eager to test his ability as an interpreter of the spiritual culture of India in the very citadel of the English-speaking nations. He also knew that he belonged to a subject race, which had been under the imperialistic domination of England for almost one hundred and forty years. He attributed India's suffering, at least in part, to this alien rule. He was not unaware of the arrogance of the British ruling class in India, to whom India was a benighted country steeped in superstition. Would the Britishers give a patient hearing to the religion and philosophy of his ancestors, of which he was so proud? Would they not rather think that nothing good could ever come 'out of Nazareth'? He did not, as we learn from his own confession, set foot on English soil with the friendliest of feelings. But how he felt when he left England after his short visit will be presently described.

After a few days' rest the Swami quietly began his work. Through friends he was gradually introduced to people who were likely to be interested in his thoughts; he also devoted part of his time to visiting places of historical interest. Within three weeks of his arrival he was already engaged in strenuous activity. A class was started and soon the hall was found inadequate to accommodate the students. Newspapers interviewed him and called him the 'Hindu yogi.' Lady Isabel Margesson and several other members of the nobility became attracted to the Swami's teachings. His first public lecture was attended by many educated and thoughtful people; some of the leading newspapers were enthusiastic about it. The Standard compared his moral stature with that of Rammohan Roy and Keshab Chandra Sen. The London Daily Chronicle wrote that he reminded people of Buddha. Even the heads of churches showed their warm appreciation.

But the Swami's greatest acquisition in London was Miss Margaret E. Noble, who later became his disciple, consecrating her life to women's education in India. She also espoused the cause of India's political freedom and inspired many of its leaders with her written and spoken words.

Miss Noble, the fourth child of Samuel Noble, was born in Northern Ireland in 1867. Both her grandfather and her father were Protestant ministers in the Wesleyan church and took active part in the political agitation for the freedom of Ireland. Her grandmother and her father gave her instruction in the Bible. Her father, who died at the age of thirty-four, had a premonition of his daughter's future calling. One of the last things he whispered to his wife was about Margaret. 'When God calls her,' he said, 'let her go. She will spread her wings. She will do great things.'

After finishing her college education, Margaret took the position of a teacher at Keswick, in the English Lake District, where contact with the High Church stirred her religious emotions. Next she taught in an orphanage in Rugby, where she shared the manual labour of the pupils. At twenty-one, Miss Noble was appointed as mistress at the secondary school in Wrexham, a large mining centre, and participated in the welfare activities of the town, visiting slum households and looking for waifs and strays. Next she went to Chester and taught a class of eighteen-year-old girls. Here she delved into the educational systems of Pestalozzi and Froebel. And finally she came to London, where, in the autumn of 1895, she opened her own school, the Ruskin School, in Wimbledon.

The metropolis of the British Empire offered Miss Noble unlimited opportunities for the realization of her many latent desires — political, literary, and educational. Here she joined the 'Free Ireland' group, working for Ireland's home rule. She was also cordially received at Lady Ripon's exclusive salon, where art and literature were regularly discussed. This salon later developed into the Sesame Club, with rooms in Dover Street, where Bernard Shaw, T.H. Huxley, and other men of literature and science discussed highly intellectual subjects. Margaret Noble became the secretary of the club, and lectured on 'The Psychology of the Child' and 'The Rights of Women.' Thus even before she met Swami Vivekananda she was unconsciously preparing the ground for her future activities in India.

At this time Margaret suffered a cruel blow. She was deeply in love with a man and had even set the wedding date. But another woman suddenly snatched him away. A few years before, another young man, to whom she was about to be engaged, had died of tuberculosis. These experiences shocked her profoundly, and she began to take a more serious interest in religion. She was very fond of a simple prayer by Thomas à Kempis: 'Be what thou prayest to be made.'

One day her art teacher, Ebenezer Cook, said to Margaret: 'Lady Isabel Margesson is inviting a few friends to her house to hear a Hindu Swami speak. Will you come?' Swami Vivekananda had already been a topic of discussion among certain members of the Sesame Club. Mr. E.T. Sturdy and Miss Henrietta Müller had told of his extraordinary success in America as a preacher and orator.

Miss Noble first met Swami Vivekananda on a Sunday evening in the drawing-room of Lady Isabel Margesson, situated in the fashionable West End of London. He was to address a group of people on Hindu thought. Miss Noble was one of the last to arrive. Fifteen people sat in the room in absolute silence. She nervously felt as if all eyes were turned on her, and as she took the first vacant chair, she gathered her skirt to sit down without making any noise. The Swami sat facing her. A coal fire burnt on the hearth behind him. She noticed that he was tall and well built and possessed an air of deep serenity. The effect of his long practice of meditation was visible in the gentleness and loftiness of his look, which, as she was to write later, 'Raphael has perhaps painted for us on the brow of the Sistine Child.'

The Swami looked at Lady Isabel with a sweet smile, as she said: 'Swamiji, all our friends are here.' He chanted some Sanskrit verses. Miss Noble was impressed by his melodious voice. She heard the Swami say, among other things: 'All our struggle is for freedom. We seek neither misery nor happiness, but freedom, freedom alone.'

It was at first difficult for Miss Noble to accept Swami Vivekananda's views. But before he left London she had begun to address him as 'Master.'

Recalling those first meetings in London, and their decisive influence on her life, Nivedita wrote in 1904 to a friend: 'Suppose he had not come to London that time! Life would have been like a headless dream, for I always knew that I was waiting for something. I always said that a call would come. And it did. But if I had known more of life, I doubt whether, when the time came, I should certainly have recognized it. Fortunately, I knew little and was spared that torture....Always I had this burning voice within, but nothing to utter. How often and often I sat down, pen in hand, to speak, and there was no speech! And now there is no end to it! As surely I am fitted to my world, so surely is my world in need of me, waiting — ready. The arrow has found its place in the bow. But if he had not come! If he had meditated, on the Himalayan peaks!...I, for one, had never been here.'

Swami Vivekananda and Mr. Sturdy soon began an English translation of the Bhakti aphorisms of Narada. At this time the idea came to the Swami's mind that a religion could not have permanent hold upon people without organization and rituals. A mere loose system of philosophy, he realized, soon lost its appeal. He saw the need, therefore, of formulating rituals, on the basis of the Upanishadic truths, which would serve a person from birth to death — rituals that would prepare for the ultimate realization of the supramental Absolute.

His stay in England was very short, but his insight enabled him to appraise the English character with considerable accuracy. He wrote to a devotee on November 18, 1895: 'In England my work is really splendid. I am astonished myself at it. The English do not talk much in the newspapers, but they work silently. I am sure of having done more work in England than in America.' And in another letter, written on November 13, to a brother disciple in India: 'Every enterprise in this country takes some time to get started. But once John Bull sets his hand to a thing, he will never let it go. The Americans are quick, but they are somewhat like straw on fire, ready to be extinguished.'

The Swami had been receiving letters from American devotees asking him to come back; a rich lady from Boston promised to support his work in New York throughout the winter. Before leaving England, however, he arranged that Mr. Sturdy should conduct the classes in London till the arrival of a new Swami from India, about the need of whom he was writing constantly to his brother disciples at the Baranagore monastery.

On December 6, 1895, Swami Vivekananda returned to New York, after his two months' stay in England, in excellent health and spirits. During his absence abroad, regular classes had been carried on by his American disciples Kripananda, Abhayananda, and Miss Waldo, who taught raja-yoga in both its practical and its theoretical aspects.

Together with Kripananda he took up new quarters, consisting of two spacious rooms, which could accommodate one hundred and fifty persons. The Swami at once plunged into activity and gave a series of talks on work as a spiritual discipline. These talks were subsequently published as Karma-Yoga, which is considered one of his best books. In the meantime the devotees of the Swami had been feeling the need of a stenographer to take down his talks in the classes and on public platforms. Many of his precious speeches had already been lost because there had been no reporter to record them. Fortunately there appeared on the scene an Englishman, J.J. Goodwin, who was at first employed as a professional stenographer; in a few days, however, he was so impressed by the Swami's life and message that he became his disciple and offered his services free, with the remark that if the teacher could give his whole life to help mankind, he, the disciple, could at least give his services as an offering of love. Goodwin followed the Swami like a shadow in America, Europe, and India; he recorded many of the public utterances of Vivekananda, now preserved in published books, and thereby earned the everlasting gratitude of countless men and women.

The Swami spent Christmas of 1895 with Mr. and Mrs. Leggett at their country home, Ridgely Manor, which he frequently visited in order to enjoy a respite from his hard work in New York. But even there he would give exalted spiritual discourses, as will be evident from the following excerpt from a letter written by Mr. Leggett on January 10, 1896, to Miss MacLeod:

One night at Ridgely we were all spellbound by his eloquence. Such thought I have never heard expressed by mortal man — such as he uttered for two and a half hours. We were all deeply affected. And I would give a hundred dollars for a typewritten verbatim report of it. Swami was inspired to a degree that I have never seen before or since. He leaves us soon and perhaps we shall never see him again, but he will leave an ineffaceable impress on our hearts that will comfort us to the end of our earthly careers.

After a short visit to Boston as the guest of Mrs. Ole Bull, the Swami commenced a series of public lectures in New York at Hardeman Hall, the People's Church, and later at Madison Square Garden, which had a seating capacity of fifteen hundred people. In the last mentioned place he gave his famous lectures on love as a spiritual discipline, which were subsequently published as Bhakti-Yoga. Both the lectures of the Swami and his personality received favourable comment from the newspapers. He initiated into monastic life Dr. Street, who assumed the name of Yogananda.

Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, one of the founders of the New Thought movement in America, spoke highly of the Swami's teachings. She and her husband first went to hear him out of curiosity, and what happened afterwards may be told in her own words:

Before we had been ten minutes in the audience, we felt ourselves lifted up into an atmosphere so rarefied, so vital, so wonderful, that we sat spellbound and almost breathless to the end of that lecture. When it was over we went out with new courage, new hope, new strength, new faith, to meet life's daily vicissitudes.... It was that terrible winter of financial disasters, when banks failed and stocks went down like broken balloons, and business men walked through the dark valleys of despair, and the whole world seemed topsy-turvy. Sometimes after sleepless nights of worry and anxiety, my husband would go with me to hear the Swami lecture, and then he would come out into the winter gloom and walk down the street smiling and say: 'It is all right. There is nothing to worry over.' And I would go back to my own duties and pleasures with the same uplifted sense of soul and enlarged vision.... 'I do not come to convert you to a new belief,' he said. 'I want you to keep your own belief; I want to make the Methodist a better Methodist, the Presbyterian a better Presbyterian, the Unitarian a better Unitarian. I want to teach you to live the truth, to reveal the light within your own soul.' He gave the message that strengthened the man of business, that caused the frivolous society woman to pause and think; that gave the artist new aspirations; that imbued the wife and mother, the husband and father, with a larger and a holier comprehension of duty.

Having finished his work in New York, the Swami, accompanied by Goodwin, left for Detroit. The main theme of his lectures and class talks there was bhakti, or love of God. At that time he was all love. A kind of divine madness seemed to have taken possession of him, as if his heart would burst with longing for the beloved Mother. He gave his last public lecture at Temple Beth-El, of which Rabbi Louis Grossman, an ardent admirer of the Swami, was the leader. The Swami cast a spell, as it were, over the whole audience. 'Never,' wrote Mrs. Funke, 'had I seen the Master look as he looked that night. There was something in his beauty not of earth. It was as if the spirit had almost burst the bonds of flesh, and it was then that I saw a foreshadowing of the end. He was much exhausted from the years of overwork, and it was even then to be seen that he was not long for this world. I tried to close my eyes to it, but in my heart I knew the truth. He had needed rest but felt that he must go on.'

The idea that his years were numbered came to Swami Vivekananda again and again. He would often say at this time, 'Oh, the body is a terrible bondage!' or 'How I wish that I could hide myself for ever!' The note-book that he had carried during his wanderings in India contained these significant words: 'Now to seek a corner and lay myself down to die!' In a letter to a friend, he quoted these words and said: 'Yet all this karma remained. I hope I have now worked it out. It appears like a hallucination that I was in these childish dreams of doing this and doing that. I am getting out of them.... Perhaps these mad desires were necessary to bring me over to this country. And I thank the Lord for the experience.'

On March 25, 1896, he delivered his famous lecture on 'The Philosophy of Vedanta' before the graduate students of the philosophy department of Harvard University. It produced such an impression that he was offered the Chair of Eastern Philosophy in the university. Later a similar offer came from Columbia University. But he declined both on the ground that he was a sannyasin.

In 1894 Swami Vivekananda had established the Vedanta Society of New York as a non-sectarian organization with the aim of preaching the universal principles of Vedanta. It became better organized in 1896. Tolerance and religious universalism formed its motto, and its members generally came to be known as 'Vedantins.'

In the meantime the Swami's great works Raja-Yoga, Bhakti-Yoga, and Karma-Yoga were receiving marked attention from many thoughtful people of the country. The Swami was serious about organizing Hinduism on a sound, universal, ethical, and rational basis so that it would appeal to earnest thinkers in all parts of the world. He wanted to reinterpret, in keeping with the methods of modern science, the Hindu view of the soul, the Godhead, the relationship between matter and energy, and cosmology. Further, he wanted to classify the apparently contradictory passages of the Upanishads bearing on the doctrines of dualism, qualified non-dualism, and absolute non-dualism, and show their ultimate reconciliation. In order to achieve this end, he asked his devotees in India to send him the Upanishads and the Vedanta Sutras with their commentaries by the leading acharyas, and also the Brahmana portions of the Vedas, and the Puranas. He himself wanted to write this Maximum Testamentum, this Universal Gospel, in order to translate Hindu thought into Western language. He expressed his objective in a letter written to one of his disciples on February 17, 1896:

To put the Hindu ideas into English and then make out of dry philosophy and intricate mythology and queer, startling psychology, a religion which shall be easy, simple, popular, and at the same time meet the requirements of the highest minds, is a task which only those can understand who have attempted it. The abstract Advaita must become living — poetic — in everyday life; and out of bewildering yogism must come the most scientific and practical psychology — and all this must be put into such a form that a child may grasp it. That is my life's work. The Lord only knows how far I shall succeed. To work we have the right, not to the fruits thereof.

The Swami always wanted a healthy interchange of ideas between East and West; this was one of the aims of the Vedanta Society of New York. He felt the need of centres of vital and continual communication between the two worlds to make 'open doors, as it were, through which the East and the West could pass freely back and forth, without a feeling of strangeness, as from one home to another.' Already he had thought of bringing to America some of his brother disciples as preachers of Vedanta. He also wanted to send some of his American and English disciples to India to teach science, industry, technology, economics, applied sociology, and other practical things which the Indians needed in order to improve their social conditions and raise their standard of living. He often told his American disciples of his vision that the time would come when the lines of demarcation between East and West would be obliterated. From England he had already written to Swami Saradananda to prepare to come to the West.

In the spring of 1896 letters began to pour in from England beseeching Swami Vivekananda to return there and continue his activities. The Swami felt the need of concentrating on the work in both London and New York, the two great metropolises of the Western world. Therefore he made arrangements with Miss Waldo and other qualified disciples to continue his program in America during his absence. Mr. Francis Leggett was made the president of the Vedanta Society.

The Swami had also been receiving letters from his friends in India begging for his return. He said he would come as soon as possible, but he encouraged them to organize the work, warning them against the formation of any new cult around the person of Sri Ramakrishna, who, to the Swami, was the demonstration of the eternal principles of Hinduism. On April 14, 1896, he wrote to India:

'That Ramakrishna Paramahansa was God — and all that sort of thing — has no go in countries like this. M—_ has a tendency to put that stuff down everybody's throat; but that will make our movement a little sect. You keep separate from such attempts; at the same time, if people worship him as God, no harm. Neither encourage nor discourage. The masses will always have the person; the higher ones, the principle. We want both. But principles are universal, not persons. Therefore stick to the principles he taught, and let people think whatever they like of his person.'

The Swami now made definite arrangements to leave for London on April 15, and, after carrying out his plans there, to sail for his motherland.

It should be apparent to readers of Swami Vivekananda's life that he worked under great pressure, from a fraction of which a lesser person would have collapsed in no time. Naturally he spent his few spare moments in fun and joking. He would read a copy of Punch or some other comic paper, and laugh till tears rolled down his cheeks.

He loved to tell the story of a Christian missionary who was sent to preach to the cannibals. The new arrival proceeded to the chief of the tribe and asked him, 'Well, how did you like my predecessor?' The cannibal replied, smacking his lips, 'Simply delicious!'

Another was the story of a 'darker' clergyman who, while explaining the creation, shouted to his congregation: 'You see, God was a-makin' Adam, and He was a-makin' him out o' mud. And when He got him made, He stuck him up agin a fence to dry. And den—' 'Hold on, dar, preacher!' suddenly cried out a learned listener. 'What's dat about dis 'ere fence? Who's made dis fence?' The preacher replied sharply: 'Now you listen 'ere, Sam Jones. Don't you be askin' sich questions. You'll be a-smashin' up all theology!'

By way of relaxation he would often cook an Indian meal at a friend's house. On such occasions he brought out from his pockets tiny packets of finely ground spices. He would make hot dishes which his Western disciples could hardly eat without burning their tongues. They were, no doubt, soothing to his high-strung temperament.

But the Swami's brain was seething with new ideas all the time. He very much wanted to build a 'Temple Universal' where people of all faiths would gather to worship the Godhead through the symbol Om, representing the undifferentiated Absolute. At another time, in the beginning of the year 1895, he wrote to Mrs. Bull about buying one hundred and eight acres of land in the Catskill Mountains where his students would build camps and practise meditation and other disciplines during the summer holidays.

A touching incident, which occurred in 1894, may be told here; it shows the high respect in which some of the ladies of Cambridge, Massachusetts, held the Swami and his mother. The Swami one day spoke to them about 'the Ideals of Indian Women,' particularly stressing the ideal of Indian motherhood. They were greatly moved. The following Christmas they sent the Swami's mother in India a letter together with a beautiful picture of the Child Jesus on the lap of the Virgin Mary. They wrote in the letter: 'At this Christmastide, when the gift of Mary's son to the world is celebrated and rejoiced over with us, it would seem the time of remembrance. We, who have your son in our midst, send you greetings. His generous service to men, women, and children in our midst was laid at your feet by him, in an address he gave us the other day on the Ideals of Motherhood in India. The worship of his mother will be to all who heard him an inspiration and an uplift.'

The Swami often spoke to his disciples about his mother's wonderful self-control, and how on one occasion she had gone without food for fourteen days. He acknowledged that her character was a constant inspiration to his life and work.

The love and adoration in which the Swami was held by his Western disciples can hardly be over-emphasized. Some described him as the 'lordly monk,' and some as a 'grand seigneur.' Mrs. Leggett said that in all her experience she had met only two celebrated personages who could make one feel perfectly at ease without for an instant losing their own dignity, and one of them was Swami Vivekananda. Sister Nivedita described him aptly as a Plato in thought and a modern Savonarola in his fearless outspokenness. William James of Harvard addressed him as 'Master' and referred to him in Varieties of Religious Experience as the 'paragon of Vedantists.'

A pleasant surprise awaited Swami Vivekananda on his arrival in London. Swami Saradananda had already come and was staying as the guest of Mr. Sturdy. The two Swamis had not seen each other in a very long time. Swami Vivekananda was told all the news of his spiritual brothers at the Alambazar monastery and their activities in India. It was a most happy occasion.

Swami Vivekananda soon plunged into a whirlwind of activity. From the beginning of May he conducted five classes a week and a Friday session for open discussion. He gave a series of three Sunday lectures in one of the galleries of the Royal Institute of Painters in Water-Colours, in Piccadilly, and also lectured at Princes' Hall and the Lodge of Annie Besant, in addition to speaking at many clubs, and in educational institutions and drawing-rooms. His audiences consisted mostly of intellectual and serious-minded people. His speeches on jnana-yoga, containing the essence of the Vedanta philosophy, were mostly given in England. Canon Wilberforce held a reception in the Swami's honour, to which he invited many distinguished people.

At one of the meetings, at the close of his address, a white-haired and well-known philosopher said to the Swami: 'You have spoken splendidly, sir, but you have told us nothing new.' Quick came the Swami's reply: 'Sir, I have told you the Truth. That, the Truth is as old as the immemorial hills, as old as humanity, as old as creation, as old as the Great God. If I have told you in such words as will make you think, make you live up to your thinking, do I not do well in telling it?' Loud applause greeted him at the end of these remarks.

The Swami was quick in repartee. During the question period a man who happened to be a native of Scotland, asked, 'What is the difference between a baboo and a baboon?' 'Oh, not much,' was the instantaneous reply of the Swami. 'It is like the difference between a sot and a Scot — just the difference of a letter.'

In one of his public lectures in England he paid the most touching tribute to his master, Sri Ramakrishna. He said that he had not one little word of his own to utter, not one infinitesimal thought of his own to unfold; everything, every single thing, all that he was himself, all that he could be to others, all that he might do for the world, came from that single source, from that pure soul, from that illimitable inspiration, from him who, seated 'there in my beloved India, had solved the tremendous secret, and bestowed the solution on all, ungrudgingly and with divine prodigality.' The Swami's own self was utterly forgotten, altogether ignored. 'I am what I am, and what I am is always due to him; whatever in me or in my words is good and true and eternal came to me from his mouth, his heart, his soul. Sri Ramakrishna is the spring of this phase of the earth's religious life, of its impulses and activities. If I can show the world one glimpse of my Master, I shall not have lived in vain.'

It was Ramakrishna who brought him in contact with Max Müller, the great German Sanskritist and Indologist, who had been impressed by the eloquence of Keshab Chandra Sen and his religious fervour, and had also come to know of the influence that Sri Ramakrishna had exerted in the development of Keshab's life. From the information that he had been able to gather from India, Max Müller had already published an article on Ramakrishna in the Nineteenth Century, entitled 'A Real Mahatman.' Now he was eager to meet a direct disciple of the Master, and invited Swami Vivekananda to lunch with him in Oxford on May 28, 1896.

The Swami was delighted to meet the savant. When the name of Ramakrishna was mentioned, the Swami said, 'He is worshipped by thousands today, Professor.'

'To whom else shall worship be accorded, if not to such?' was Max Müller's reply.

Regarding Max Müller and his wife, the Swami later wrote:

The visit was really a revelation to me. That little white house, its setting in a beautiful garden, the silver-haired sage, with a face calm and benign, and forehead smooth as a child's in spite of seventy winters, and every line in that face speaking of a deep-seated mine of spirituality somewhere behind; that noble wife, the helpmate of his life through his long and arduous task of exciting interest, overriding opposition and contempt, and at last creating a respect for the thoughts of the sages of ancient India — the trees, the flowers, the calmness, and the clear sky — all these sent me back in imagination to the glorious days of ancient India, the days of our brahmarshis and rajarshis, the days of the great vanaprasthas, the days of Arundhatis and Vasishthas. It was neither the philologist nor the scholar that I saw, but a soul that is every day realizing its oneness with the universe.

The Swami was deeply affected to see Max Müller's love for India. 'I wish,' he wrote enthusiastically, 'I had a hundredth part of that love for my motherland. Endowed with an extraordinary, and at the same time an intensely active mind, he has lived and moved in the world of Indian thought for fifty years or more, and watched the sharp interchange of light and shade in the interminable forest of Sanskrit literature with deep interest and heartfelt love, till they have sunk into his very soul and coloured his whole being.'

The Swami asked Max Müller: 'When are you coming to India? All men there would welcome one who has done so much to place the thoughts of their ancestors in a true light.'

The face of the aged sage brightened up; there was almost a tear in his eye, a gentle nodding of the head, and slowly the words came out: 'I would not return then; you would have to cremate me there.'

Further questions on the Swami's part seemed an unwarranted intrusion into realms wherein were stored the holy secrets of a man's heart.

Max Müller asked the Swami, 'What are you doing to make Sri Ramakrishna known to the world?' He himself was eager to write a fuller biography of the Master if he could only procure the necessary materials. At the Swami's request, Swami Saradananda wrote down the sayings of Sri Ramakrishna and the facts of his life. Later Max Müller embodied these in his book The Life and Sayings of Sri Ramakrishna.

One day Saradananda asked the Swami why he himself had not written about the Master's life for Max Müller. He answered: 'I have such deep feeling for the Master that it is impossible for me to write about him for the public. If I had written the article Max Müller wanted, then I would have proved, quoting from philosophies, the scriptures and even the holy books of the Christians, that Ramakrishna was the greatest of all prophets born in this world. That would have been too much for the old man. You have not thought so deeply about the Master as I have; hence you could write in a way that would satisfy Max Müller. Therefore I asked you to write.'

Max Müller showed the Swami several colleges in Oxford and the Bodleian Library, and at last accompanied him to the railroad station. To the Swami's protest that the professor should not take such trouble, the latter said, 'It is not every day that one meets with a disciple of Ramakrishna Paramahansa.'

Besides doing intensive public work in England, the Swami made there some important personal contacts. The names of Goodwin, Henrietta Müller, Margaret Noble, and Sturdy have already been mentioned. These knew him intimately during his second visit and had become his disciples. Now came the turn of Captain and Mrs. Sevier. The captain was a retired officer of the English army, forty-nine years old, and had served for many years in India. Both were earnest students of religion and had sought the highest truth in various sects and creeds, but had not found it anywhere. When they heard Swami Vivekananda, they intuitively realized that his teachings were what they had so long sought. They were deeply impressed by the non-dualistic philosophy of India and the Swami's personality.

Coming out of one of the Swami's lectures, Captain Sevier asked Miss MacLeod, who had already known the Swami in America: 'You know this young man? Is he what he seems?'

'Yes.'

'In that case one must follow him and with him find God.'

The Captain went to his wife and said, 'Will you let me become the Swami's disciple?'

'Yes,' she replied.

She asked him, 'Will you let me become the Swami's disciple?'

He replied with affectionate humour, 'I am not so sure!'

The very first time the Swami met Mrs. Sevier in private he addressed her as 'Mother' and asked her if she would not like to come to India, adding, 'I will give you my best realizations.'

A very affectionate relationship sprang up between the Swami and the Seviers, and the latter regarded him as their son. They became his intimate companions and offered him all their savings. But the Swami, anxious about their future worldly security, persuaded them to keep the greater portion of their fortune. Captain and Mrs. Sevier, together with Miss Noble and Goodwin, were the choicest among the followers that Swami Vivekananda gathered in England and all of them remained faithful to him and his work till the last days of their lives.

Through the generosity of the Seviers, the Swami, as will be seen, established the Advaita Ashrama at Mayavati, an almost inaccessible place in the Himalayas, for the training of the disciples, both Eastern and Western, in the contemplation of the Impersonal Godhead. After Captain Sevier's death at Mayavati Mrs. Sevier lived there for fifteen years busying herself with the education of the children of the neighbouring hills. Once Miss MacLeod asked her, 'Do you not get bored?' 'I think of him,' she replied, referring to Swami Vivekananda.

Though preoccupied with various activities in England, the Swami never for one moment forgot his work in India. After all, it was his intense desire to find means to ameliorate the condition of his countrymen that had brought him to the West. That hope he always cherished in a corner of his mind, both in Europe and in America. He had to train his brother disciples as future workers in India. And so he is seen writing to them in detail regarding the organization of the monastery at Alambazar, where they had been living for some time.

On April 27, 1896, he sent instructions about the daily life of the monks, their food and clothing, their intercourse with the public, and about the provision of a spacious library at the monastery, a smaller room for interviews, a big hall for religious discussions with the devotees, a small room for an office, another for smoking and so forth and so on. He advised them to furnish the rooms in the simplest manner and to keep an eye on the water for drinking and cooking. The monastery, he suggested, should be under the management of a President and a Secretary to be elected by turns by vote. Study, preaching, and religious practices should be important items among the duties of the inmates. He also desired to establish a math for women directly under the control of the Holy Mother. The monks were not to visit the women's quarters. In conclusion, he recommended Swami Brahmananda as the first President of the math, and said: 'He who is the servant of all is their true master. He never becomes a leader in whose love there is a consideration of high or low. He whose love knows no end and never stops to consider high or low has the whole world lying at his feet.' For his workers the Swami wanted men with 'muscles of iron and nerves of steel, inside which dwells a mind of the same material as that of which the thunderbolt is made.'

To quote the Swami's words again: 'I want strength, manhood, kshatravirya, or the virility of a warrior, and brahma-teja, or the radiance of a brahmin.... These men will stand aside from the world, give their lives, and be ready to fight the battle of Truth, marching on from country to country. One blow struck outside of India is equal to a hundred thousand struck within. Well, all will come if the Lord wills it.'

The Swami was exhausted by his strenuous work in England. Three of his intimate disciples, the Seviere and Henrietta Müller, proposed a holiday tour on the continent. He was 'as delighted as a child' at the prospect. 'Oh! I long to see the snows and wander on the mountain paths,' he said. He recalled his travels in the Himalayas. On July 31, 1896, the Swami, in the company of his friends, left for Switzerland. They visited Geneva, Mer-de-Glace, Montreux, Chillon, Chamounix, the St. Bernard, Lucerne, the Rigi, Zermatt, and Schaffhausen. The Swami felt exhilarated by his walks in the Alps. He wanted to climb Mont Blanc, but gave up the idea when told of the difficulty of the ascent. He found that Swiss peasant life and its manners and customs resembled those of the people who dwelt in the Himalayas.

In a little village at the foot of the Alps between Mont Blanc and the Little St. Bernard, he conceived the idea of founding a monastery in the Himalayas. He said to his companions: 'Oh, I long for a monastery in the Himalayas, where I can retire from the labours of my life and spend the rest of my days in meditation. It will be a centre for work and meditation, where my Indian and Western disciples can live together, and I shall train them as workers. The former will go out as preachers of Vedanta to the West, and the latter will devote their lives to the good of India.' Mr. Sevier speaking for himself and his wife, said: 'How nice it would be, Swami, if this could be done. We must have such a monastery.'

The dream was fulfilled through the Advaita Ashrama at Mayavati, which commands a magnificent view of the eternal snows of the Himalayas.

In the Alps the Swami enjoyed some of the most lucid and radiant moments of his spiritual life. Sometimes he would walk alone, absorbed in thought, the disciples keeping themselves at a discreet distance. One of the disciples said: 'There seemed to be a great light about him, and a great stillness and peace. Never have I seen the Swami to such advantage. He seemed to communicate spirituality by a look or with a touch. One could almost read his thoughts which were of the highest, so transfigured had his personality become.'

While still wandering in the Alps, the Swami received a letter from the famous orientalist, Paul Deussen, Professor of Philosophy at the University of Kiel. The professor urgently invited the Swami to visit him. The Swami accepted the invitation and changed his itinerary. He arrived at Kiel after visiting Heidelberg, Coblenz, Cologne, and Berlin. He was impressed by the material power and the great culture of Germany.

Professor Deussen was well versed in Sanskrit, and was perhaps the only scholar in Europe who could speak that language fluently. A disciple of Schopenhauer and follower of Kant, Deussen could easily appreciate the high flights of Sankaracharya's philosophy. He believed that the system of Vedanta, as founded on the Upanishads and the Vedanta Sutras, is one of the 'most majestic structures and valuable products of the genius of man in his search for Truth, and that the highest and purest morality is the immediate consequence of Vedanta.'

The Swami and the Seviars were cordially received by the German scholar. In the course of the conversation Deussen said that a movement was being made back towards the fountainhead of spirituality, a movement that would in the future probably make India the spiritual leader of the nations, the highest and the greatest spiritual influence on earth. He also found in the Swami a vivid demonstration of concentration and control of the mind. On one occasion he saw his guest turning over the pages of a poetical work and did not receive any response to a query. Afterwards the Swami apologized, saying that he had been so absorbed in the book that he did not hear the professor. Then he repeated the verses from the book. The conversation soon turned to the power of concentration as developed in the Yoga philosophy. One of the purpose of Deussen's meeting the Swami, it is said was his desire to learn from the latter the secrets of the Yoga powers.

Deussen showed the Swami the city of Kiel. Thereafter the Swami wished to leave immediately for England, though the professor insisted that he should stay at Kiel a few days more. As that was not possible, Deussen joined the party in Hamburg and they travelled together in Holland. After spending three days in Amsterdam all arrived in London, and for two weeks Deussen met with the Swami daily. The Swami also visited Max Müller again at Oxford.

Swami Vivekananda spent another two months in England, giving lectures and seeing important men of their day, such as Edward Carpenter, Frederick Myers, Canon Wilberforce, and Moncure D. Conway. The most notable lectures he gave at this time were those on maya, about which he spoke on three occasions, dealing with its various aspects. It is said that some members of the British royal family attended these lectures incognito. He created such an intense atmosphere during these talks that the whole audience was transported into a realm of ecstatic consciousness, and some burst into tears. The lectures were the most learned and eloquent among his speeches on non-dualistic Vedanta.

Swami Abhedananda arrived from India, and Vivekananda was immensely pleased to have his brother disciple assist him in his foreign work. The maiden speech of Abhedananda at a club in Bloomsbury Square on October 27, was highly appreciated by all, and the Swami said about his spiritual brother, 'Even if I perish on this plane, my message will be sounded through these dear lips, and the world will hear it.' The report of the continued popularity of Swami Saradananda, who had in the meantime gone to New York, likewise gratified him.

Despite the rush of his European work Swami Vivekananda maintained his contact with America. He took a personal interest in the spiritual development of his students. The affectionate relationship of the Swami with the Hale family of Chicago has been mentioned before, especially with the four unmarried girls. Hearing of the proposed marriage of Harriet, he wrote to her on September 17, 1896, 'Marriage is the truest goal for ninety-nine per cent of the human race, and they will live the happiest life as soon as they have learnt and are ready to abide by the eternal lesson — that we are bound to bear and forbear and that to everyone life must be a compromise.' He sent the young lady his blessings in these terms: 'May you always enjoy the undivided love of your husband, helping him in attaining all that is desirable in this life, and when you have seen your children's children, and the drama of life is nearing its end, may you help each other in reaching that infinite ocean of Existence, Knowledge, and Bliss, at the touch of whose waters all distinctions melt away and we all become One.'

But Mary Hale could not make a decision between marriage and lifelong celibacy. She was full of idealism and the spirit of independence; but she was warm in her affection. Swami Vivekananda was particularly fond of Mary. On the day he wrote to Harriet he also wrote to Mary, congratulating Harriet for her discrimination, and prophesying for her a life of joy and sweetness, since she was 'not so imaginative and sentimental as to make a fool of herself and has enough of common sense and gentleness to soften the hard points of life which must come to everyone.' But he wanted to tell Mary 'the truth, and my language is plain.' He wrote:

My dear Mary, I will tell you a great lesson I have learnt in this life. It is this: 'The higher your ideal is, the more miserable you are,' for such a thing as an ideal cannot be attained in the world — or in this life, even. He who wants perfection in the world is a madman — for it cannot be. How can you find the infinite in the finite?

You, Mary, are like a mettlesome Arab — grand, splendid. You would make a splendid queen — physically, mentally — you would shine alongside of a dashing, bold, adventurous, heroic husband. But, my dear sister, you will make one of the worst wives. You will take the life out of our easy-going, practical, plodding husbands of the everyday world. Mind, my sister, although it is true that there is much more romance in actual life than in any novel, yet it is few and far between. Therefore my advice to you is that until you bring down your ideals to a more practical level, you ought not to marry. If you do, the result will be misery for both of you. In a few months you will lose all regard for a commonplace, good, nice young man, and then life will become insipid....

There are two sorts of persons in the world — the one strong-nerved, quiet, yielding to nature, not given to much imagination, yet good, kind, sweet, etc. For such is this world — they alone are born to be happy. There are others, again, with high-strung nerves, tremendously imaginative, with intense feeling — always going high, and coming down the next moment. For them there is no happiness. The first class will have almost an even tenor of happiness. The second will have to run between ecstasy and misery. But of these alone what we call geniuses are made. There is some truth in a recent theory that genius is 'a sort of madness.'

Now persons of this class, if they want to be great, must fight to be so — clear the deck for battle. No encumbrance — no marriage — no children, no undue attachment to anything except the one idea, and live and die for that. I am a person of this sort. I have taken up the one idea of 'Vedanta,' and I have 'cleared the deck for action.' You and Isabel are made of this metal — but let me tell you, though it is hard, you are spoiling your lives in vain. Either take up one idea, clear the deck, and to it dedicate the life, or be contented and practical, lower the ideal, marry, and have a happy life. Either 'bhoga' or 'yoga' — either enjoy this life or give up and be a yogi. None can have both in one. Now or never — select quick. 'He who is very particular gets nothing,' says the proverb. Now sincerely and really and for ever determine to 'clear the deck for the fight,' take up anything — philosophy or science or religion or literature — and let that be your God for the rest of your life. Achieve happiness or achieve greatness. I have no sympathy with you and Isabel — you are neither for this nor for that. I wish to see you happy, as Harriet is, or great. Eating, drinking, dressing, and society nonsense are not things to throw away a life upon — especially for you, Mary. You are rusting away a splendid brain and abilities for which there is not the least excuse. You must have ambition to be great. I know you will take these rather harsh remarks from me in the right spirit, knowing I like you really as much as or more than what I call you, my sister. I had long had a mind to tell you this and as experience is gathering I feel like telling you. The joyful news from Harriet urged me to tell you this. I will be overjoyed to hear that you are married also, and happy so far as happiness can be had here, or would like to hear of your doing great deeds.

Mary Hale later married a gentleman from Florence, and became known as Mme. Matteini.

For some time the Swami had been feeling an inner urge to return to India. From Switzerland he wrote to friends in India: 'Do not be afraid. Great things are going to be done, my children. Take heart....In the winter I am going back to India and will try to set things on their feet there. Work on, brave hearts fail not — no saying nay; work on — the Lord is behind the work. Mahasakti, the Great Power, is with you.'

On November 29, 1896, he wrote to a disciple in India about his proposed Himalayan monastery. He further said that his present plan was to start two centres, one in Madras and the other in Calcutta, and later others in Bombay and Allahabad. He was pleased to see that the magazine Brahmavadin, published in English in Madras, was disseminating his ideas; he was planning to start similar magazines in the vernaculars also. He also intended to start a paper, under the management of writers from all nations, in order to spread his ideas to every corner of the globe. 'You must not forget,' he wrote, 'that my interests are international and not Indian alone.'

Swami Vivekananda could no longer resist the voice of India calling him back. Sometime during the middle of November, after a class lecture, he called Mrs. Sevier aside and quietly asked her to purchase four tickets for India. He planned to take with him the Seviers and Mr. Goodwin. Reservations were accordingly made on the 'Prinz Regent Luitpold,' of the North German Llyod Steamship Line, sailing from Naples for Ceylon on December 16, 1896. The Seviers wanted to lead a retired life in India, practising spiritual disciplines and helping the Swami in carrying out the idea of building a monastery in the Himalayas. Faithful Goodwin, who had already taken the vows of a brahmacharin, would work as the Swami's stenographer. It was also planned that Miss Müller and Miss Noble would follow the party some time after, the latter to devote her life to the cause of women's education in India.

The Swami was given a magnificent farewell by his English friends, devotees, and admirers on December 13 at the Royal Society of Painters in Water-Colours, in Piccadilly. There were about five hundred people present. Many were silent, tongue-tied and sad at heart. Tears were very near in some eyes. But the Swami, after his farewell address, walked among the assembled friends and repeated over and over again, 'Yes, yes we shall meet again, we shall.' It was decided that Swami Abhedananda would continue the work after the Swami's departure.

Of the impressions left by the Swami's teachings in England, Margaret Noble writes:

To not a few of us the words of Swami Vivekananda came as living water to men perishing of thirst. Many of us have been conscious for years past of that growing uncertainty and despair, with regard to religion, which has beset the intellectual life of Europe for half a century. Belief in the dogmas of Christianity has become impossible for us, and we had no tool, such as now we hold, by which to cut away the doctrinal shell from the kernel of Reality, in our faith. To these, the Vedanta has given intellectual confirmation and philosophical expression of their own mistrusted intuitions. 'The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light.'... It was the Swami's I am God that came as something always known, only never said before.... Yet again, it was the Unity of Man that was the touch needed to rationalize all previous experiences and give logical sanction to the thirst for absolute service, never boldly avowed in the past. Some by one gate, and some by another, we have all entered into a great heritage, and we know it.

The practical Englishman saw in the Swami's life the demonstration of fearlessness which was the necessary corollary of his teaching regarding the divinity of the soul. It was revealed in many incidents.

One in particular illustrates this. He was one day walking with Miss Müller and an English friend across some fields when a mad bull came tearing towards them. The Englishman frankly ran, and reached the other side of the hill in safety. Miss Müller ran as far as she could, and then sank to the ground, incapable of further effort. Seeing this and unable to aid her, the Swami — thinking, 'So this is the end, after all' — took up his stand in front of her, with folded arms.

He told afterwards how his mind was occupied with a mathematical calculation as to how far the bull would be able to throw him. But the animal suddenly stopped a few paces off, and then, raising its head, retreated sullenly. The Englishman felt ashamed of his cowardly retreat and of having left the Swami alone to face the bull. Miss Müller asked the Swami how he could muster courage in such a dangerous situation. He said that in the face of danger and death he felt — and he took two pebbles in his hands and struck the one against the other — as strong as flint, for 'I have touched the feet of God.' He had shown a like courage in his early boyhood, when he quickly stepped up to drag away a child who was about to be trampled under a horse's feet in a street of Calcutta.

Regarding his experience and work in England, he told the Hale sisters, in a letter, that it was a roaring success. To another American friend he wrote that he believed in the power of the English to assimilate great ideas, and that though the process of assimilation might be slow, it would be all the more sure and abiding. He believed that the time would come when distinguished ecclesiastics of the Church of England, imbued with the idealism of Vedanta, would form a liberal community within the Anglican Church itself, supporting the universality of religion both in vision and in practice.

But what he admired most in England was the character of the English people — their steadiness, thoroughness, loyalty, devotion to the ideal, and perseverance to finish any work that they undertook. His preconceived idea about the English was thoroughly changed when he came to know them intimately. 'No one,' he said later, addressing the Hindus of Calcutta, 'ever landed on English soil feeling more hatred in his heart for a race than I did for the English. [The iniquities of the colonial rule in India were deeply impressed in his mind.]...There is none among you who loves the English people more than I do.'

He wrote to the Hale sisters on November 28, 1896: 'The English are not so bright as the Americans, but once you touch their heart it is yours for ever...I now understand why the Lord has blessed them above all other races — steady, sincere to the backbone, with great depths of feeling, only with a crust of stoicism on the surface. If that is broken you have your man.' In another letter: 'You know, of course, the steadiness of the English; they are, of all nations, least jealous of each other and that is why they dominate the world. They have solved the secret of obedience without slavish cringing — great freedom with law-abidingness.' On still another occasion he called the English 'a nation of heroes, the true kshatriyas....Their education is to hide their feelings and never to show them. If you know how to reach the English heart, he is your friend for ever. If he has once an idea put into his brain, it never comes out; and the immense practicality and energy of the race makes it sprout up and immediately bear fruit.'

The Swami felt that the finger of God had brought about the contact between India and England. The impact created by the aggressive British rule, on the one hand, awakened the Hindu race from its slumber of ages, and on the other hand, offered India opportunities to spread her spiritual message throughout the Western world.

He wrote to Mr. Leggett on July 6, 1896:

The British Empire with all its evils is the greatest machine that ever existed for the dissemination of ideas. I mean to put my ideas in the centre of this machine, and it will spread them all over the world. Of course, all great work is slow and the difficulties are too many, especially as we Hindus are a conquered race. Yet that is the very reason why it is bound to work, for spiritual ideals have always come from the downtrodden. The downtrodden Jews overwhelmed the Roman Empire with their spiritual ideals. You will be pleased to learn that I am also learning my lesson every day in patience and above all in sympathy. I think I am beginning to see the Divine even inside the bullying Anglo-Indians. I think I am slowly approaching to that state when I would be able to love the very 'Devil' himself, if there were any.

Though Swami Vivekananda himself spoke highly of the effect of his teachings in England, he did not start any organized work there as he did in the United States of America. From his letters and conversations one learns that he was growing weary of the world. Though he was at the peak of his success as far as public activity was concerned, he began to feel a longing for the peace that comes from total absorption in the Supreme Spirit. He sensed that his earthly mission was over. On August 23, 1896, he wrote to a friend, from Lucerne:

'I have begun the work, let others work it out. So you see, to set the work going I had to defile myself by touching money and property for a time. Now I am sure my part of the work has been done, and I have no more interest in Vedanta or any philosophy in the world or in the work itself. I am getting ready to depart, to return no more to this hell, this world.... Even its religious utility is beginning to pall on me.... These works and doing good, and so forth, are just a little exercise to cleanse the mind. I have had enough of it.' He was losing interest even in the American programme, which he himself had organized.

In the letter quoted above, the Swami wrote: 'If New York or Boston or any other place in the U.S. needs Vedanta teachers, they must receive them, keep them, and provide for them. As for me, I am as good as retired. I have played my part in the world.' To Swami Abhedananda he confided one day, about this time, that he was going to live for five or six years at the most. The brother disciple said in protest that he was a young man and that he should not think of death. 'But,' Vivekananda said, 'you are a fool; you do not understand. My soul is getting bigger and bigger every day; the body can hardly contain it. Any day it may burst this cage of flesh and bone!'

The world was leaving him. The string of the kite by which it was fastened to earth was breaking.

The reader may recall that Sri Ramakrishna spoke of Vivekananda as a free soul whom he had dragged down from the realm of the Absolute to help him in his mission on earth. A temporary veil, necessary for physical embodiment and work, was put on this soul so that it might dwell in the world to help men in their search for spiritual freedom. But now, as the veil was becoming thinner, the Swami began to get a glimpse of the real freedom. He realized that the world was the lila, the play, of the Divine Mother, and it would continue as long as She wanted it. On August 8, 1896, he wrote from Switzerland to Goodwin:

I am much refreshed now. I look out of the window and see the huge glaciers just before me — and feel that I am in the Himalayas. I am quite calm. My nerves have regained their accustomed strength, and little vexations like those you write of do not touch me at all. How shall I be disturbed by this child's play? The whole world is mere child's play — preaching, teaching, and all included. 'Know him to be a sannyasin who neither hates nor desires.' What is to be desired in this little mud-puddle of a world, with its ever recurring misery, disease, and death? 'He who has given up all desires, he alone is happy.' This rest — eternal, peaceful rest — I am catching a glimpse of it now in this beautiful spot. 'If a man knows the Atman as "I am this," then desiring what and for whose sake will he suffer in the wake of the body?'

I feel as if I have had my share of experience in what they call 'work.' I am finished. I am longing to get out now.

With this growing detachment from the world, the idea of good and evil, without the consciousness of which no work is possible, began to drop away. The Swami was realizing an intense love for God. In that mood a great exaltation would come over him, and the whole universe would seem to him an eternal garden where an Eternal Child plays an eternal game. In that mood of delirious joy he had written on July 6, 1896, to Francis Leggett, his friend and disciple:

At twenty I was a most unsympathetic, uncompromising fanatic. I would not walk on the footpath on the theatre side of the street in Calcutta. At thirty-three I can live in the same house with prostitutes and never would think of saying a word of reproach to them. Is it degeneration? Or is it that I am broadening out into that universal love which is the Lord Himself?...Some days I get into a sort of ecstasy. I feel that I must bless everyone, every being, love and embrace every being, and I literally see that evil is a delusion.... I bless the day I was born. I have had so much of kindness and love here, and that Love Infinite who brought me into being has guided every one of my actions, good or bad (don't be frightened); for what am I, what was I ever, but a tool in His hands — for whose service I have given up everything — my Beloved, my Joy, my Life, my Soul? He is my playful darling. I am His playfellow. There is neither rhyme nor reason in the universe. What reason binds Him? He, the Playful One, is playing — these tears and laughter are all parts of the play. Great fun, great fun! as Joe says.

It is a funny world, and the funniest chap you ever saw is He, the Beloved. Infinite fun, is it not? Brotherhood or playmatehood? A shoal of romping children let out to play in this playground of the world, isn't it? Whom to praise, whom to blame? It is all His play. They want an explanation, but how can you explain Him? He is brainless, nor has He any reason. He is fooling us with little brains and reasons, but this time He won't find me napping — 'you bet.' I have learnt a thing or two. Beyond, beyond reason and learning and talking is the feeling, the 'Love,' the 'Beloved.' Ay, 'Sake' (Friend) fill the cup and we will be mad. — Yours ever in madness, Vivekananda.

In a philosophical mood he spoke about the illusion of progress. He did not believe in the possibility of transforming this earth into a heaven where misery would be totally eliminated and happiness alone would reign in its place. True freedom and bliss could be attained only by the individual and not by the masses as a whole. He wrote to Goodwin on August 8, 1896: "A good world," "a happy world," "social progress" are equally intelligible as "hot ice," "dark light," etc. If it were good it would not be the world. The soul foolishly thinks of manifesting the Infinite in finite matter — the intelligence through gross particles — and at last finds out its error and tries to escape. This going back is the beginning of religion, and its method, destruction of self, that is, love. Not love for wife or child or anybody else, but love for everything else except this little self. Never be deluded by the tall talk, of which you will hear a lot in America, about "human progress" and such stuff. There is no progress without regression.'

On November 1, 1896, in the course of a letter to Mary Hale, Swami Vivekananda wrote from London:

'An objective heaven or millennium therefore has existence only in the fancy, but a subjective one is already in existence. The musk-deer, after vain search for the cause of the scent of the musk, at last will have to find it in himself.'

But Swami Vivekananda's mission to the world was not yet finished. An arduous task was awaiting him in his beloved motherland. The Indian work had to be organized before he could bid farewell to this earth. He left England on December 16, 1896, and travelled overland for the port of departure at Naples.

The party headed directly for Milan, passing through Dover, Calais, and Mont Cenis. The Swami enjoyed the railroad journey and entertained his companions, the Seviars, with his stimulating conversation. But a part of his mind was drawn to India. He said to the Seviars: 'Now I have but one thought, and that is India. I am looking forward to India.' On the eve of his departure from London, an English friend had asked him, 'Swami, how will you like your motherland after three years' experience in the luxurious and powerful West?' His significant reply was: 'India I loved before I came away. Now the very dust of India has become holy to me, the very air is now holy to me; it is the holy land, the place of pilgrimage.' Often the Swami said that the West was the karma-bhumi, the land of action, where through selfless work a man purified his heart; and India was the punya-bhumi, the land of holiness, where the pure in heart communed with God.

In Milan the Swami was much impressed by the great cathedral and by Leonardo's 'Last Supper.' Pisa, with the leaning tower, and Florence, with its magnificent achievements in art, immensely delighted him. But the peak of his happiness was reserved for Rome, where he spent Christmas week. Many things there reminded him of India: the tonsure of the priests, the incense, the music, the various ceremonies of the Catholic Church, and the Holy Sacrament — the last of these recalling to his mind the prasada of the Hindu temples, the food partaken of by devotees after it has been offered to God.

When asked by a lady companion about the church ritual, the Swami said, 'If you love the Personal God, then give Him your best — incense, flowers, fruit, and silk.' But he was a little bewildered by the imposing High Mass at St. Peter's on Christmas Day, and whispered to the Seviars: 'Why all this pageantry and ostentatious show? Can it be possible that the Church which loves such a display of pomp and ceremonies is the true follower of the humble Jesus, who had nowhere to lay his head?' He could never forget that Christ was a sannyasin, a world-renouncing monk, and that the essence of his teachings was renunciation and detachment.

He enjoyed his visit to the catacombs, associated with the memories of early Christian martyrs and saints. The Christmas festival at Santa-Maria d'Ara Coeli, with the stalls where sweets, toys, and cheap pictures of the Bambino were sold, reminded him of similar religious fairs in India. Christmas in Rome filled his heart with a warm devotion for Jesus Christ, who was an Asiatic and whom Asia had offered to the West as a gift to awaken its spiritual consciousness.

The Swami spent a few days in Naples, visiting Vesuvius, Pompeii, and other places of interest. Then the ship at last arrived from Southampton with Mr. Goodwin as one of her passengers. The Swami and his friends sailed from Naples on December 30, 1896, expecting to arrive in Colombo on January 15, 1897.

On board the ship the Swami had a significant vision. One night, somewhere between Naples and Port Said, he saw in a vivid dream a venerable, bearded old man, like a rishi of India, who said: 'Observe carefully this place. You are now in the Island of Crete. This is the land where Christianity began. I am one of the Therapeutae who used to live here.' The apparition uttered another word, which the Swami could not remember. It might have been 'Essene,' a sect to which John the Baptist belonged.

Both the Therapeutae and the Essenes had practised renunciation and cherished a liberal religious outlook. According to some scholars, the word Therapeutae may be derived from the Buddhist word Sthaviraputta or theraputta, meaning the sons or disciples of the Theras, or Elders, the superiors among the Buddhist monks. The word Essene may have some relation with Isiyana, meaning the Path of the Lord, a well-known sect of Buddhist monks. It is now admitted that the Buddhists at an early time had monasteries in Asia Minor, Egypt, and generally along the eastern part of the Mediterranean.

The old man in the dream concluded his statement by saying: 'The truths and ideas preached by us were presented as the teachings of Jesus. But Jesus the person was never born. Various proofs attesting this fact will be brought to light when this place is dug up.' At that moment — it was midnight — the Swami awoke and asked a sailor where the ship was; he was told that it was fifty miles off Crete.

The Swami was startled at this singular coincidence. The idea flashed in his mind that the Acts of the Apostles might have been an older record than the Gospels, and that Buddhist thought, coming through the Therapeutae and the Essenes, might have helped in the formulation of Christianity. The person of Christ might be a later addition. He knew that Alexandria had been a meeting-place of Indian and Egyptian thought. Later, when the old sites in Crete were excavated, evidence was found connecting early Christianity with foreign sources.

But Swami Vivekananda never refused to accept the historical Christ. Like Krishna, Christ, too, has been revealed in the spiritual experiences of many saints. That, for Vivekananda, conferred upon him a reality which was more real than historical realities. While travelling in Switzerland, the Swami one day plucked some wild flowers and asked Mrs. Sevier to offer them at the feet of the Virgin in a little chapel in the mountains, with the remark, 'She too is the Mother.' One of his disciples, another day, gave him a picture of the Sistine Madonna to bless. But he refused in all humility, and piously touching the feet of the child said, 'I would have washed his feet, not with my tears, but with my heart's blood.' It may be remembered that the monastic Order of Ramakrishna was started on Christmas Eve.

During the two weeks' voyage, Swami Vivekananda had ample time to reflect on the experiences of his three years in the Western world. His mind was filled with memories of sweet friendship, unflinching devotion, and warm appreciation from both sides of the Atlantic. Three years before, he had come to America, unknown and penniless, and was regarded somewhat as a curiosity from the glamorous and inscrutable East. Now he was returning to his native land, a hero and prophet worshipped by hundreds and admired by thousands. Guided by the finger of God he had gone to Chicago. In the New World he had seen life at its best and its worst. He found there a society based on the ideals of equality, justice, and freedom, where a man — in sad contrast with India — was given every opportunity to develop his potentialities. There the common people had reached a high standard of living and enjoyed their well-earned prosperity in a way unimaginable in any other part of the world. The American mind was alert, inquisitive, daring, receptive, and endowed with a rare ethical sensitivity. He saw in America, in her men and women of letters, wealth, and position, sparks of spirituality which kindled at the touch of his magic words. He was impressed to see the generous confidence and richness of heart manifested through the pure and candid souls who gave themselves to him once they had recognized him as a trustworthy spiritual guide. They became his noble friends and slaves of love, and did not shrink from the highest sacrifice to help in the fulfilment of his mission.

But withal, the Swami saw the vulgarity, garishness, greed, lust for power, and sensuality among this vast country's heterogeneous elements. People had been swept off their feet by the newly acquired prosperity created with the aid of science, technology, and human ingenuity. They often appeared to him naive and noisy, and he may have wondered if this new nation, l'enfant terrible, the last hope of Western culture and also the source of potential fear for the rest of the world, would measure up to the expectations of its Founding Fathers and act as the big brother of the world, sharing with all the material amenities of life. America had given him the first recognition and he was aware of it. In America he had started the work of Vedanta in an organized form, and he hoped America would be the spiritual bridge between the East and the West. Though his scholarly and conservative mind often felt at home among the intellectuals of England and Germany, yet to America his heart was devoted. The monuments of Western culture no doubt fascinated him, but, as he wrote to Mary Hale from London, in May 1896: 'I love the Yankee land — I like to see new things. I do not care a fig to loaf about old ruins and mope a life out about old histories and keep sighing about the ancients. I have too much vigour in my blood for that. In America is the place, the people, the opportunity for everything new. I have become horribly radical.'

In that same letter he wrote, too, that he wished he could infuse some of the American spirit into India, into 'that awful mass of conservative jelly-fish, and then throw overboard all old associations and start a new thing, entirely new — simple, strong, new and fresh as the first-born baby — throw all of the past overboard and begin anew.'

Swami Vivekananda bestowed equally high praise upon the Englishman. He felt that in a sense his work in England was more satisfactory than his work in America. There he transformed the life of individuals. Goodwin and Margaret Noble embraced his cause as their own, and the Seviars accompanied him to India, deserting Europe and all their past to follow him.

But what of Swami Vivekananda's early dream of gathering from America the material treasures to remedy the sufferings of the Indian masses and raise their standard of living? He had come to America to obtain, in exchange for India's spiritual wealth, the needed monetary help and scientific and technological knowledge to rebuild the physical health of his own people. Though on his return he did not take with him American scientists and technologists, or carry in his pocket gold and silver from the New World, yet he had left behind a vast storehouse of goodwill and respect for India. He had been India's first spiritual ambassador to America, India's herald, who, remembering the dignity of the royal land whence he had come, had spoken in her name and delivered her message with appropriate dignity.

The full effect of this contact will be known only in years to come; but a beginning can be seen even now. Half a century after Swami Vivekananda's visit to America, India gained her freedom from British rule. When she thus obtained facilities to arrange her national affairs in her own way, India sent thousands of students to the New World to acquire advanced knowledge in the physical sciences and technology. Further, American money is now being spent to improve the material condition of the Indian masses. Thus it appears that, after all, Swami Vivekananda was not a mere visionary, but had insight into the shape of things to come.

The immediate task before him, the Swami felt, was to work for India's regeneration from within the country itself. India could be liberated by her own efforts alone. But he was carrying from the West a priceless asset to help him in his herculean task: The West had given him an authority which, it appears, he did not have before in the land of his birth. He had been successful in planting the seeds of India's spiritual ideas in the very heart of the English-speaking world — in New York and London. Did he know then that within a half century these ideas would be broadcast over the Western world, and earn its respect for his motherland? Though he had come to America as a giver, he was now, in a sense, going back to India as a gift from the New World.

RETURN TO INDIA

Swami Vivekananda enjoyed the sea voyage back to India, relaxing from his strenuous activities in the West. But his mind was full of ideas regarding his future plan of work in his motherland.

There were on the boat, among other passengers, two Christian missionaries who, in the course of a heated discussion with the Swami, lost their tempers and savagely criticized the Hindu religion. The Swami walked to one of them, seized him by the collar, and said menacingly, 'If you abuse my religion again, I will throw you overboard.'

'Let me go, sir,' the frightened missionary apologized; 'I'll never do it again.'

Later, in the course of a conversation with a disciple in Calcutta, he asked, 'What would you do if someone insulted your mother?' The disciple answered, 'I would fall upon him, sir, and teach him a good lesson.'

'Bravo!' said the Swami. 'Now, if you had the same positive feeling for your religion, your true mother, you could never see any Hindu brother converted to Christianity. Yet you see this occurring every day, and you are quite indifferent. Where is your faith? Where is your patriotism? Every day Christian missionaries abuse Hinduism to your face, and yet how many are there amongst you whose blood boils with righteous indignation and who will stand up in its defense?'

When the boat stopped at Aden, the party went ashore and visited the places of interest. The Swami saw from a distance a Hindusthani betel-leaf seller smoking his hookah, or hubble-bubble. He had not enjoyed this Indian way of smoking for the past three years. Going up to him, the Swami said, 'Brother, do give me your pipe.' Soon he was puffing at it with great joy and talking to him as to an intimate friend.

Mr. Sevier later on said to Swamiji teasingly: 'Now we see! It was this pipe that made you run away from us so abruptly!' Speaking of this incident, the Swami's companions said later: 'The shopkeeper could not have resisted him; for he had such an endearing way about him, when asking for anything, that he was simply irresistible. We shall never forget that ingenuous look on his face when he said to the shopkeeper, with childlike sweetness, "Brother, do give me your pipe."' "

In the early morning of January 15, 1897, the coast of Ceylon with its majestic coco palms and gold-coloured beach was seen at a distance. The Swami's heart leapt with joy; and his disciples caught his excitement as the boat approached the beautiful harbour of Colombo. But no one in the party had the slightest idea of what they were to witness while disembarking.

Since the day of his success at the Parliament of Religions in Chicago, which had filled with joy and pride the hearts of his countrymen, especially of his disciples and brother monks at the Baranagore Math, Swami Vivekananda had been inspiring his faithful followers to lay down their lives for the uplift of the masses of India, and in particular to help the hungry and illiterate. In his heart of hearts he felt that India would not be able to resist his appeal. Many months before, while discussing with some of his disciples in Detroit the great difficulties that he had encountered in presenting Hinduism to bigoted Christians in America, he had said: 'But India shall listen to me. I will shake India to her foundations. I will send an electric thrill through her veins. Wait! You will see how India receives me. It is India, my own India, that knows truly how to appreciate what I have given so freely here, and with my life's blood. India will receive me in triumph.'

When the news of Swami Vivekananda's departure from Europe reached India, the hearts of the people were stirred. The spiritual ambassador of their ancient land was coming back after fulfilling his mission. They must give a regal welcome to this great crusader. In big towns committees were formed for his reception. His brother disciples and friends were impatient. Swami Shivananda came ahead of time to Madras and Swami Niranjanananda to Colombo; so also many of his disciples from Bengal and the Northern Provinces came to Madras to await his arrival. The newspapers published articles eulogizing his personality and work.

A gaily decorated steam launch carried the Swami and his party from the ship to the harbour. When the monk with his yellow robe and luminous eyes came ashore, a mighty shout arose from the human throng crowding the quays. Thousands flung themselves on the ground to touch his feet. A deputation of the notables of Ceylon welcomed him, and he was taken in a huge procession through many triumphal arches. Flags were unfurled, religious hymns chanted; an Indian band played. Rosewater and the sacred water of the Ganga were sprinkled before him, and flowers were strewn in his path. Incense was burnt before the houses as he passed. Fruit and other offerings were brought by hundreds of visitors.

Swami Vivekananda accepted all these honours without losing his poise. He was not the man to flee from triumph any more than from battle. He regarded the tributes paid to him, a penniless beggar, as tributes paid to the spiritual ideal of India. In the course of his reply to the address of welcome given in Colombo, he said, 'The spirituality of the Hindus is revealed by the princely reception which they have given to a beggar sannyasin.' He pointed out that though he was not a military general, not a prince nor a wealthy man, yet men great in the transitory possessions of the world and much respected by society had nevertheless come to honour him, a homeless monk. 'This,' he exclaimed, 'is one of the highest expressions of spirituality.' He disclaimed any personal glory in the welcome he received, insisting that it was but the recognition of a principle.

Swami Vivekananda's progress from Colombo to Madras and the welcomes he received at Kandy, Anuradhapuram, Jaffna, Pamban, Rameswaram, Ramnad, Paramakkudi, Madurai, Trichinopoly, and Kumbakonam demonstrated how deeply he had endeared himself to the men and women of India. At Anuradhapuram a band of fanatical Buddhists tried to break up the meeting, but did not succeed. At Rameswaram the Swami exhorted the people to 'worship Siva in the poor, the diseased, and the weak'.

He received a touching welcome there from the Raja of Ramnad, his disciple, who had encouraged him to go to America and had helped him materially for that purpose. At Ramnad the horses were unhitched from the carriage bearing the Swami, and the people themselves, the Raja among them, drew it. At Rameswaram the Raja erected, in the Swami's honour, a victory column forty feet high with a suitable inscription. He also gave a liberal donation to the Madras famine-relief fund to commemorate the home-coming of the Swami.

At a small railroad station near Madras, hundreds of people gathered for a glimpse of Vivekananda. The stationmaster did not want to delay the train since no stop was scheduled. But the crowd of admirers flung themselves on the track, and the train had to be halted. The Swami was visibly moved and blessed the multitude.

The enthusiasm of the people reached its peak in Madras, where extensive preparations had been made for the Swami's reception. It was Madras that had first recognized the greatness of Vivekananda and equipped him for the journey to Chicago. At that time, when he had first come there, he had been, in effect, only an obscure individual. He had spent some two months in an unknown bungalow at San Thome, holding conversations on Hinduism. Yet even then a few educated young men of keen foresight had predicted that there was something in the man, a 'power' that would lift him above all others and enable him to be a leader of men. These youths, who had been ridiculed as 'misguided enthusiasts' and 'dreamy revivalists,' now, four years later, had the supreme satisfaction of seeing 'our Swami,' as they loved to call him, return to them a famous personage in both Europe and America.

The streets and thoroughfares of Madras were profusely decorated; seventeen triumphal arches were erected. The Swami's name was on everybody's lips. Thousands jammed the railway station, and as the train steamed in, he was received with thundering shouts of applause. An elaborate procession was formed, and he was taken to 'Castle Kernan,' the palatial home of Billigiri Iyengar, where arrangements had been made for his stay in the city.

On the third day after his arrival Swami Vivekananda was honoured in a public meeting on behalf of the people of Madras. As Victoria Hall, chosen for the purpose, was too small to hold the large crowd, the people cried for an open-air gathering. The Swami came out and addressed them from the top of a coach; it was, as it were, Sri Krishna, standing in the chariot, exhorting Arjuna to give up his unmanliness and measure up to his Aryan heritage. In a brief speech he told the people how India, through her love of God, had expanded the limited love of the family into love of country and of humanity. He urged them to maintain their enthusiasm and to give him all the help he required to do great things for India.

During his short stay in Madras, Swami Vivekananda gave four public lectures, his subjects being, 'My Plan of Campaign,' 'The Sages of India,' 'Vedanta in Its Application to Indian Life,' and 'The Future of India.' In these lectures he reminded the Indians of both their greatness and their weakness, and urged them to be proud of their past and hopeful for their future.

While speaking on 'My Plan of Campaign,' the Swami exposed the meanness of some of the Theosophists, who had tried their utmost to injure his work in America but later claimed that they had paved the way for his success in the New World. He told the audience that when, in desperation, he had cabled to India for money, the Theosophists had come to know about it and one of them had written to a member of the Society in India: 'Now the devil is going to die. God bless us all!' But it must be said that there were many among the Theosophists, especially in India, who were his genuine well-wishers.

Swami Vivekananda had hardly a moment's respite during his nine days in Madras. When asked by a disciple how he found the strength for such incessant activity, he answered, 'Spiritual work never tires one in India.' But he would lose patience if asked about matters that had no bearing on practical life. One day a pandit asked him to state clearly whether he was a dualist or a non-dualist. The Swami said: 'As long as I have this body I am a dualist, but not otherwise. This incarnation of mine is to help put an end to useless and mischievous quarrels, which only distract the mind and make men weary of life, and even turn them into sceptics and atheists.'

Meanwhile heart-warming letters had been arriving from America informing the Swami of the progress of the Vedanta work in the New World under the leadership of Swami Saradananda, and also in appreciation of his own achievements. One letter was signed by Lewis G. Janes, President of the Brooklyn Ethical Association; C. C. Everett, Dean of the Harvard Divinity School; William James and Josiah Royce, both professors of philosophy at Harvard University; Mrs. Sara C. Bull of Boston, and others. It said: 'We believe that such expositions as have been given by yourself mere speculative interest and utility — that they are of great ethical value in cementing the ties of friendship and brotherhood between distant peoples, and in helping us to realize that solidarity of human relationship and interests which has been affirmed by all the great religions of the world. We earnestly hope that your work in India may be blessed in further promoting this noble end, and that you may return to us again with assurances of fraternal regard from our distant brothers of the great Aryan family, and the ripe wisdom that comes from reflection and added experience and further contact with the life and thought of your people.'

Another letter from Detroit, signed by forty-two of his friends, said in part: 'We Western Aryans have been so long separated from our Eastern brothers that we had almost forgotten our identity of origin, until you came and with your beautiful presence and matchless eloquence rekindled within our hearts the knowledge that we of America and you of India are one.'

Swami Vivekananda, after his strenuous work in South India, needed rest. On the advice of friends, he decided to travel to Calcutta by steamer. Monday, February 15, was the date of his sailing. Several devotees boarded the steamer to see him off, and one of them, Professor Sundararama Iyer, asked the Swami if his mission had achieved lasting good in America and Europe. The Swami said: 'Not much. I hope that here and there I have sown a seed which in time may grow and benefit some at least.'

Swami Vivekananda's lectures delivered during his progress from Colombo to Madras were inspiring and enthusiastic. He yearned to awaken the masses of India from the slumber of ages. He had seen the dynamic life of the West; he now felt more deeply the personality of India, which only needed his fiery exhortation to assert itself once more among the nations of the world. Again one is reminded of Krishna's admonition to Arjuna on the battlefield of Kurukshetra: 'In this crisis, O Arjuna, whence comes such lowness of spirit, unbecoming to an Aryan, dishonourable, and an obstacle to the attaining of heaven? Do not yield to unmanliness, O Arjuna. It does not become you. Shake off this base faint-heartedness and arise, O scorcher of enemies!'

In his famous lecture 'My Plan of Campaign,' delivered in Madras, he called upon the people to assert their soul-force:

My India, arise! Where is your vital force? In your Immortal Soul. Each nation, like each individual, has one theme in this life, which is its centre, the principal note round which every other note comes to form the harmony. If any nation attempts to throw off its national vitality, the direction which has become its own through the transmission of centuries, that nation dies....In one nation political power is its vitality, as in England. Artistic life, in another, and so on. In India religious life forms the centre, the keynote of the whole music of the national life. And therefore, if you succeed in the attempt to throw off your religion and take up either politics or society, the result will be that you will become extinct. Social reform and politics have to be preached through the vitality of your religion.... Every man has to make his own choice; so has every nation. We made our choice ages ago. And it is the faith in an Immortal Soul. I challenge anyone to give it up. How can you change your nature?

He asked the Indians to stop complaining. Let them make use of the power that lay in their hands. That power was so great that if they only realized it and were worthy of it, they could revolutionize the world. India was the Ganga of spirituality. The material conquests of the Anglo-Saxon races, far from being able to dam its current, had helped it. England's power had united the nations of the world; she had opened paths across the seas so that the waves of the spirit of India might spread until they had bathed the ends of the earth.

What was this new faith, this word that the world was awaiting?

The other great idea that the world wants from us today — more perhaps the lower classes than the higher, more the uneducated than the educated, more the weak than the strong — is that eternal, grand idea of the spiritual oneness of the whole universe, the only Infinite Reality, that exists in you and in me and in all, in the self, in the soul. The infinite oneness of the soul — that you and I are not only brothers, but are really one — is the eternal sanction of all morality. Europe wants it today just as much as our downtrodden races do, and this great principle is even now unconsciously forming the basis of all the latest social and political aspirations that are coming up in England, in Germany, in France and in America. (Extracts from the lecture 'The Mission of the Vedanta.')

What Swami Vivekananda preached was the essence of the non-dualistic Vedanta, the deepest and the unique expression of India's spirit.

I heard once the complaint made that I was preaching too much of Advaita, absolute non-dualism, and too little of dualism. Ay, I know what grandeur, what oceans of love, what infinite, ecstatic blessings and joy there are in dualistic religion. I know it all. But this is not the time for us to weep, even in joy; we have had weeping enough; no more is this the time for us to become soft. This softness has been with us till we have become like masses of cotton. What our country now wants is muscles of iron and nerves of steel, gigantic will, which nothing can resist, which will accomplish their purpose in any fashion, even if it means going down to the bottom of the ocean and meeting death face to face. That is what we want, and that can only be created, established, and strengthened by understanding and realizing the ideal of Advaita, that ideal of the oneness of all. Faith, faith, faith in ourselves! ... If you have faith in the three hundred and thirty millions of your mythological gods, and in all the gods which foreigners have introduced into your midst, and still have no faith in yourselves, there is no salvation for you. Have faith in yourselves and stand upon that faith. Why is it that we three hundred and thirty millions of people have been ruled for the last thousand years by any and every handful of foreigners? Because they had faith in themselves and we had not. I read in the newspapers how, when one of our poor fellows is murdered or ill-treated by an Englishman, howls go up all over the country; I read and I weep, and the next moment comes to my mind the question of who is responsible for it all. Not the English; it is we who are responsible for all our degradation. Our aristocratic ancestors went on treading the common masses of our country underfoot till they became helpless, till under this torment the poor, poor people nearly forgot that they were human beings. They have been compelled to be merely hewers of wood and drawers of water for centuries, so that they are made to believe that they are born as slaves, born as hewers of wood and drawers of water. (Extracts from 'The Mission of the Vedanta.')

He exhorted the leaders to cultivate the indispensable virtue of feeling for the people:

'Feel, therefore, my would-be reformers, my would-be patriots! Do you feel? Do you feel that millions and millions of the descendants of gods and of sages have become next-door neighbours to brutes? Do you feel that millions are starving today and millions have been starving for ages? Do you feel that ignorance has come over the land as a dark cloud? Does it make you restless? Does it make you sleepless? Has it made you almost mad? Are you seized with that one idea of the misery of ruin, and have you forgotten all about your name, your fame, your wives, your children, your property, even your own bodies? If so, that is the first step to becoming a patriot. For centuries people have been taught theories of degradation. They have been told that they are nothing. The masses have been told all over the world that they are not human beings. They have been so frightened for centuries that they have nearly become animals. Never were they allowed to hear of the Atman. Let them hear of the Atman — that even the lowest of the low have the Atman within, who never dies and never is born — Him whom the sword cannot pierce, nor the fire burn, nor the air dry, immortal, without beginning or end, the all-pure, omnipotent, and omnipresent Atman. (Extracts from 'My Plan of Campaign.')

'Ay, let every man and woman and child, without respect of caste or birth, weakness or strength, hear and learn that behind the strong and the weak, behind the high and the low, behind everyone, there is that Infinite Soul, assuring all the infinite possibility and the infinite capacity to become great and good. Let us proclaim to every soul: Arise, arise, awake! Awake from this hypnotism of weakness. None is really weak; the soul is infinite, omnipotent, and omniscient. Stand up, assert yourself, proclaim the God within you, do not deny Him!' (Extracts from 'The Mission of the Vedanta.')

'It is a man-making religion that we want. It is a man-making education all round that we want. It is man-making theories that we want. And here is the test of truth: Anything that makes you weak physically, intellectually, and spiritually, reject as poison; there is no life in it, it cannot be true. Truth is strengthening. Truth is purity, truth is all knowledge. Truth must be strengthening, must be enlightening, must be invigorating. Give up these weakening mysticisms and be strong. The greatest truths are the simplest things in the world, simple as your own existence.

'Therefore my plan is to start institutions in India to train our young men as preachers of the truths of our scriptures in India and outside India. Men, men — these are wanted : everything else will be ready; but strong, vigorous, believing young men, sincere to the backbone, are wanted. A hundred such and the world becomes revolutionized. The will is stronger than anything else. Everything must go down before the will, for that comes from God: a pure and strong will is omnipotent.' (Extracts from 'My Plan of Campaign.')

'If the brahmin has more aptitude for learning on the grounds of heredity than the pariah, spend no more money on the brahmin's education, but spend all on the pariah. Give to the weak, for there all the gift is needed. If the brahmin is born clever, he can educate himself without help. This is justice and reason as I understand it.' (From 'The Mission of the Vedanta.')

'For the next fifty years let all other vain Gods disappear from our minds. This is the only God that is awake: our own race — everywhere His hands, everywhere His feet, everywhere His ears, He covers everything. All other Gods are sleeping. Why should we vainly go after them, when we can worship the God that we see all around us, the Virat? The first of all worships is the worship of the Virat, of those all around us. These are all our Gods — men and animals; and the first Gods we have to worship are our own countrymen.' (From 'The Future of India.')

These stirring words did not fall on deaf ears. The spirit of India vibrated to the Swami's call. India became aware of the power of the soul — of God sleeping in man and of His illimitable possibilities. Ramakrishna and Vivekananda were the first awakeners of India's national consciousness; they were India's first nationalist leaders in the true sense of the term. Ramakrishna was the power and Vivekananda the voice. The movement for India's liberation started from Dakshineswar. The subsequent political leaders of the country, consciously or unconsciously, received their inspiration from Vivekananda's message, and some of them openly acknowledged it. The Bengal revolutionaries were ardent readers of Vivekananda's books, some of which were frowned upon by the British Government. The uplift of the masses, the chief plank in Gandhi's platforms was Vivekananda's legacy.

Yet the militant Vivekananda was not a politician. 'Let no political significance ever be attached falsely to my writings or sayings. What nonsense!' — he had said as early as September 1894. A year later he wrote: 'I will have nothing to do with political nonsense. I do not believe in politics. God and Truth are the only politics in the world. Everything else is trash.'

Swami Vivekananda longed for India's political freedom; but he thought of a free India in relation to her service to humanity. A free India would take her rightful place in the assembly of nations and make a vital contribution towards bringing peace and goodwill to mankind. His message was both national and international.

While Swami Vivekananda was enjoying the restful boat trip from Madras to Calcutta, a reception committee was busy preparing for him a fitting welcome in the metropolis of India, the city of his birth. The steamer docked at Budge Budge, and the Swami and his party arrived by train in Calcutta on February 19, 1897. The reception was magnificent, with an enthusiastic crowd at the railroad station, triumphal arches, the unharnessed carriage drawn by students, and a huge procession with music and religious songs. A princely residence on the bank of the Ganga was placed at the Swami's disposal.

On February 28, 1897, he was given a public reception. Raja Benoy Krishna Deb presided, and five thousand people jammed the meeting. As usual, the Swami asked the people to go back to the perennial philosophy of the Upanishads. He also paid a touching tribute to Ramakrishna, 'my teacher, my master, my hero, my ideal, my God in life.' 'If there has been anything achieved by me,' he said with deep feeling, 'by thoughts or words or deeds, if from my lips has ever fallen one word that has ever helped anyone in the world, I lay no claim to it; it was his. But if there have been curses falling from my lips, if there has been hatred coming out of me, it is all mine, and not his. All that has been weak has been mine; all that has been life-giving, strengthening, pure, and holy has been his inspiration, his words, and he himself. Yes, my friends, the world has yet to know that man.' A few days after, he gave another public lecture on 'Vedanta in All Its Phases.'

Shortly after the Swami's arrival in Calcutta the anniversary of Sri Ramakrishna's birth was celebrated at Dakshineswar. Accompanied by his brother disciples, the Swami joined the festival. He walked barefoot in the holy grounds. Deep emotions were stirred up as he visited the temples, the Master's room, the Panchavati, and other spots associated with the memory of Sri Ramakrishna. The place was a sea of human heads.

The Swami said to Girish, a beloved disciple of the Master, 'Well, what a difference between those days and these!'

'I know,' replied Girish, 'but I have the desire to see more.'

For a little while the Swami spent his days at the palatial house on the river; nights, however, he spent with his spiritual brothers at the Alambazar monastery. He had hardly any rest. People streamed in at all times to pay him their respects or to hear his exposition of Vedanta, or just to see him. There were also people who came to argue with him on scriptural matters and to test his knowledge.

But the Swami's heart was with the educated, unmarried youths whom he could train for his future work. He longed to infuse into their hearts some of his own burning enthusiasm. He wanted them to become the preachers of his 'man-making religion.' The Swami deplored the physical weakness of Indian youths, denounced their early marriage, and reproached them for their lack of faith in themselves and in their national ideals.

One day a young man complained to the Swami that he could not make progress in spiritual life. He had worshipped images, following the advice of one teacher, and had tried to make his mind void according to the instruction of another, but all had been fruitless.

'Sir,' the young man said, 'I sit still in meditation, shutting the door of my room, and keep my eyes closed as long as I can, but I do not find peace of mind. Can you show me the way?'

'My boy,' replied the Swami in a voice full of loving sympathy, 'if you take my word, you will have first of all to open the door of your room and look around, instead of closing your eyes. There are hundreds of poor and helpless people in your neighbourhood; you have to serve them to the best of your ability. You will have to nurse and procure food and medicine for the sick. You will have to feed those who have nothing to eat. You will have to teach the ignorant. My advice to you is that if you want peace of mind, you shall have to serve others to the best of your ability.'

Another day a well-known college professor, who was a disciple of Sri Ramakrishna, said to the Swami: 'You are talking of service, charity, and doing good to the world; these, after all, belong to the domain of maya. Vedanta says that the goal of man is the attainment of mukti, liberation, through breaking the chain of maya. What is the use of preaching about things which keep one's mind on mundane matters?'

The Swami replied: 'Is not the idea of mukti in the domain of maya? Does not Vedanta teach that the Atman is ever free? Why should It, then, strive for mukti?'

He said on another occasion: 'When I used to roam about all over India, practising spiritual disciplines. I passed day after day in caves absorbed in meditation. Many a time I decided to starve myself to death because I could not attain mukti. Now I have no desire for mukti. I do not care for it as long as a single individual in the universe remains in bondage.'

Swami Vivekananda often used to say that different forms of spiritual discipline were especially efficacious for different ages. At one period it was the practice of austerities, at another period, the cultivation of divine love; and at a third period, it was philosophical discrimination accompanied by renunciation. But in modern times, he emphasized, unselfish service of others, karma-yoga, would quickly bring spiritual results. Therefore he advocated the discipline of selfless action. He particularly advocated this discipline for the Indians because they were under the spell of tamas, inertia. The Swami realized that only after cultivating rajas would they be able to acquire sattva and attain liberations. As regards himself, the Swami had already known mukti through the realization of oneness with Brahman in nirvikalpa samadhi. But by the will of God he had brought himself down to consciousness of the phenomenal world, and lived like a bodhisattva, devoting himself to the welfare of humanity.

Swami Vivekananda found it most difficult to convert some of his own brother disciples to his new conception of religion and its discipline and method. These brother disciples were individualists, eager for their personal salvation. They wanted to practise austerities and penances, enjoy peaceful meditation, and lead a quiet life of detachment from the world. To them God was first, and next the world. At least that was the way they understood Sri Ramakrishna's teachings. These young monks thought that for one who had taken the monastic vows the world was maya; therefore all activities, including the charitable and philanthropic, ultimately entangled one in worldly life.

But Vivekananda's thought flowed through a different channel. Sri Ramakrishna had once admonished him to commune with God with eyes open, that is to say, through the service of the poor, the sick, the hungry, and the ignorant. During his days of wandering the Swami had seen with his own eyes the suffering of the people and had felt the voiceless appeal of India for his help. In America and Europe he had witnessed the material prosperity of the people, the dynamic social life, and the general progress made through science, technology, and organized action. Time and again he remembered the words of Ramakrishna: 'Religion is not for empty stomachs.'

To his brother disciples, therefore, he pointed out that the idea of personal liberation was unworthy of those who called themselves disciples of Ramakrishna, an Incarnation of God. The very fact that they had received the grace of a Saviour should have convinced them of their sure salvation. Their duty, he emphasized, was to serve others as the visible manifestations of God. He said that he wanted to create a new band of monks, who would take not only the traditional vow of personal salvation, but also a new vow of service to humanity.

The brother disciples, who respected the superior spirituality of Vivekananda and bore him great love as the one especially chosen by the Master to carry on his work, obeyed him without always agreeing with him wholeheartedly. Thus at his behest Swami Ramakrishnananda — who had been the keeper of Sri Ramakrishna's shrine for twelve long years after the passing away of the Master, regarding his worship as the supreme spiritual discipline, and had not been absent even for a single day from the monasteries at Baranagore and Alambazar — left for Madras to found a centre for the propagation of Vedanta in South India. Swami Akhandananda went to Murshidabad to carry on relief work among the famine-stricken people there. Swamis Abhedananda and Saradananda had already gone to America.

As for himself, Swami Vivekananda was constantly talking to people, instructing them in the Upanishads, and enjoining them to cultivate the inner strength that comes from the knowledge of God residing in all human hearts. The strain of work and the heat of the plains soon told upon his health. At the advice of physicians he went for a short change to Darjeeling, in the Himalayas, and felt somewhat refreshed. Returning to Calcutta he again devoted himself to the work of teaching.

Several young men, inspired by the Swami's fiery words, joined the Order. Four others, who had been practising disciplines in the monastery under the guidance of the older Swamis while Vivekananda was abroad, were now eager to receive the monastic initiation formally from their great leader. His brother disciples expressed hesitation about one of them, because of some incidents of his past life.

This aroused Swami Vivekananda's emotion. 'What is this?' he said. 'If we shrink from sinner, who else will save them? Besides, the very fact that someone has taken refuge at the monastery, in his desire to lead a better life, shows that his intentions are good, and we must help him. Suppose a man is bad and perverted; if you cannot change his character, why then have you put on the ochre robe of a monk? Why have you assumed the role of teachers?' All four received their monastic initiation.

On the day previous to this sacred ceremony the Swami spoke to them only about the glories of renunciation and service. He said: 'Remember, for the salvation of his soul and for the good and happiness of many, a sannyasin is born in the world. To sacrifice his own life for others, to alleviate the misery of millions rending the air with their cries, to wipe away tears from the eyes of widows, to console the hearts of bereaved mothers, to provide the ignorant and depressed masses with ways and means for the struggle for existence and make them stand on their own feet, to broadcast the teachings of the scriptures to one and all, without distinction, for their spiritual and material welfare, to rouse the sleeping lion of Brahman in the hearts of all beings by the knowledge of Vedanta — a sannyasin is born in the world.' Turning to his brother disciples the Swami said: 'Remember, it is for the consummation of this purpose in life that we have taken birth, and we shall lay down our lives for it. Arise and awake, arouse and awaken others, fulfil your mission in life, and you will reach the highest goal.' Then addressing the aspirants for the monastic life he said: 'You must renounce everything. You must not seek comfort or pleasure for yourself. You must look upon gold and objects of lust as poison, name and fame as the vilest filth, worldly glory as a terrible hell, pride of birth or of social position as "sinful as drinking spirituous liquor." In order to be teachers of your fellow men, and for the good of the world, you will have to attain freedom through the knowledge of the Self.'

From the following incident one can learn the depths of the Swami's compassion. Many inmates of the Math thought that he was not very discriminating in the choice of his disciples. Almost anyone could obtain spiritual initiation from him after a little supplication, and some of them were found later to indulge in wicked actions. One of his own monastic disciples, Swami Nirmalananda, spoke to him about his lack of proper judgement and his inability to understand human nature. The Swami's face became red with emotion. He exclaimed: 'What did you say? You think that I do not understand human nature? About these unfortunate people I know not only all they have done in their present lives, but also what they did in their previous ones. I am fully aware of what they will do in the future. Then why do I show kindness to them? These hapless people have knocked at many doors for peace of mind and a word of encouragement, but everywhere have been repulsed. If I turn them down they will have no place to go.'

Another incident indicating the tender and compassionate heart of Swami Vivekananda may be mentioned here. One day he was engaged in teaching a disciple the Vedas, with the abstruse commentary of Sayanacharya, when Girish Chandra Ghosh, the great playwright of Bengal and an intimate disciple of Sri Ramakrishna, arrived. By way of teasing him, the Swami said, addressing him by his familiar name: 'Well, G. C., you have spent your whole life with Krishna and Vishnu. You are quite innocent of the Vedas and other scriptures.'

Girish Chandra admitted his ignorance of the scriptures and said, 'Hail Sri Ramakrishna, the very embodiment of the Vedas!'

An adept in the knowledge of human nature, Girish was well aware that Swami Vivekananda, in spite of his preaching the austere philosophy of Vedanta, had a heart that was tender in the extreme. He wanted to reveal that side of the Swami's nature before the disciple, and began to paint, in his usual poetic language, a heart-rending picture of the afflictions of the Indian people — the starvation of the masses, the humiliation of Hindu women, the ill-health and general suffering of the people everywhere. Suddenly, addressing the Swami, he said, 'Now please tell me, do your Vedas teach us how to remedy this state of affairs?'

As the Swami listened to his friend's words, he could hardly suppress his emotion. At last it broke all bounds and he burst into tears.

Drawing the attention of the Swami's disciple to the great leader, Girish Chandra said: 'Perhaps you have always admired your teacher's intellect. Now you see his great heart.'

On May 1, 1897, Swami Vivekananda called a meeting of the monastic and lay devotees of Sri Ramakrishna at the house of the Master's intimate disciple Balaram Bose, for the purpose of establishing his work on an organized basis. He told them that by contrasting Hindu society with American society, he was convinced that lack of an organizing spirit was one of the great shortcomings of the Hindu character. Much of the intelligence and energy of the Hindus was being expended without producing any fruitful result. He also recalled how Buddhism had spread both in India and abroad through Buddhist organizations. Therefore he asked the co-operation of the monastic and householder disciples of Sri Ramakrishna in order to organize the educational, philanthropic, and religious activities which he had already inaugurated, but which had hitherto been carried out in an unsystematic way. Further, the Swami declared that in a country like India, in its then current state of development, it would not be wise to form an organization on a democratic basis, where each member had an equal voice and decisions were made according to the vote of the majority. Democratic principles could be followed later, when, with the spread of education, people would learn to sacrifice individual interests and personal prejudices for the public weal. Therefore, said the Swami, the organization for the time being should be under the leadership of a 'dictator,' whose authority everybody must obey. In the fullness of time, it would come to be guided by the opinion and consent of others. Moreover, he himself was only acting in the capacity of a servant of the common Master, as were they all.

Swami Vivekananda proposed to the members present that the Association should 'bear the name of him in whose name we have become sannyasins, taking whom as your ideal you are leading the life of householders, and whose holy name, influence, and teachings have, within twelve years of his passing away, spread in such an unthought-of way both in the East and in the West.' All the members enthusiastically approved of the Swami's proposal, and the Ramakrishna Mission Association came into existence.

The aim of the Association was to spread the truths that Ramakrishna, for the good of humanity, had preached and taught through the example of his own life, and to help others to put them into practice for their physical, mental, and spiritual advancement.

The duty of the Association was to direct, in the right spirit, the activities of the movement inaugurated by Sri Ramakrishna for the establishment of fellowship among the followers of different religions, knowing them all to be so many forms of one undying Eternal Religion.

Its methods of action were to be: (a) to train men so as to make them competent to teach such knowledge and sciences as are conducive to the material and spiritual welfare of the masses; (b) to promote and encourage arts and industries; (c) to introduce and spread among the people in general Vedantic and other ideas as elucidated in the life of Sri Ramakrishna.

The Ramakrishna Mission Association was to have two departments of action: Indian and foreign. The former, through retreats and monasteries established in different parts of India, would train such monks and householders as might be willing to devote their lives to the teaching of others. The latter would send trained members of the Order to countries outside India to start centres there for the preaching of Vedanta in order to bring about a closer relationship and better understanding between India and foreign countries.

The aims and ideals of the Ramakrishna Mission Association, being purely spiritual and humanitarian, were to have no connexion with politics.

Swami Vivekananda must have felt a great inner satisfaction after the establishment of the Association. His vision of employing religion, through head, heart, and hands, for the welfare of man was realized. He found no essential conflict among science, religion, art, and industry. All could be used for the worship of God. God could be served as well through His diverse manifestations as through the contemplation of His non-dual aspect. Further, as the great heart of Ramakrishna had embraced all of mankind with its love, so also the Ramakrishna Mission was pledged to promote brotherhood among different faiths, since their harmony constituted the Eternal Religion.

Swami Vivekananda, the General President, made Brahmananda and Yogananda the President and the Vice-president of the Calcutta centre. Weekly meetings were organized at Balaram's house to discuss the Upanishads, the Bhagavad Gita, the Vedanta scriptures, and religious subjects in general.

Even now Swami Vivekananda could not completely convince some of his brother disciples about his new conception of religion, namely, the worship of God through the service of man. They had heard Sri Ramakrishna speak time and again against preaching, excessive study of the scriptures, and charitable activities, and exhort aspirants to intensify their love of God through prayer and meditation in solitude.

Therefore they regarded Vivekananda's activities in the West as out of harmony with the Master's teachings. One of them said bluntly to the Swami, 'You did not preach our Master in America; you only preached yourself.' The Swami retorted with equal bluntness, 'Let people understand me first; then they will understand Sri Ramakrishna.'

On one occasion Swami Vivekananda felt that some of these brother disciples wanted to create a narrow sect in the name of Ramakrishna and turn the Ramakrishna Math into a cult of the Temple, where the religious activities would centre around devotional music, worship, and prayer alone. His words burst upon them like a bomb-shell. He asked them how they knew that his ideas were not in keeping with those of Sri Ramakrishna. 'Do you want,' he said, 'to shut Sri Ramakrishna, the embodiment of infinite ideas, within your own limits? I shall break these limits and scatter his ideas broadcast all over the world. He never enjoined me to introduce his worship and the like.'

Had it not been demonstrated to Vivekananda time and again that Sri Ramakrishna was behind him in all his actions? He knew that through the Master's grace alone he had come out triumphant from all ordeals, whether in the wilderness of India or in the busy streets of Chicago.

'Sri Ramakrishna,' the Swami continued, 'is far greater than the disciples understand him to be. He is the embodiment of infinite spiritual ideas capable of development in infinite ways....One glance of his gracious eyes can create a hundred thousand Vivekanandas at this instant. If he chooses now, instead, to work through me, making me his instrument, I can only bow to his will.'

Vivekananda took great care lest sentimentalism and narrowness in one form or another should creep in, for he detested these from the bottom of his heart.

But things came to a climax one day at Balaram's house in Calcutta, when Swami Yogananda, a brother disciple whom Sri Ramakrishna had pointed out as belonging to his 'inner circle' of devotees, said that the Master had emphasized bhakti alone for spiritual seekers and that philanthropic activities, organizations, homes of service for the public good, and patriotic work were the Swami's own peculiar ideas, the result of his Western education and travel in Europe and America.

The Swami at first retorted to his brother with a sort of rough humour. He said: 'What do you know? You are an ignorant man....What do you understand of religion? You are only good at praying with folded hands: "O Lord! how beautiful is Your nose! How sweet are Your eyes!" and all such nonsense....And you think your salvation is secured and Sri Ramakrishna will come at the final hour and take you by the hand to the highest heaven! Study, public preaching, and doing humanitarian works are, according to you, maya, because he said to someone, "Seek and find God first; doing good to the world is a presumption!" As if God is such an easy thing to be achieved! As if He is such a fool as to make Himself a plaything in the hands of an imbecile!

'You think you have understood Sri Ramakrishna better than myself! You think jnana is dry knowledge to be attained by a desert path, killing out the tenderest faculties of the heart! Your bhakti is sentimental nonsense which makes one impotent. You want to preach Sri Ramakrishna as you have understood him, which is mighty little! Hands off! Who cares for your Ramakrishna? Who cares for your bhakti and mukti? Who cares what your scriptures say? I will go into a thousand hells cheerfully if I can rouse my countrymen, immersed in tamas, to stand on their own feet and be men inspired with the spirit of karma-yoga. I am not a follower of Ramakrishna or anyone, but of him only who serves and helps others without caring for his own bhakti and mukti!

The Swami's voice was choked with emotion, his body shook, and his eyes flashed fire. Quickly he went to the next room. A few moments later some of his brother disciples entered the room and found him absorbed in meditation, tears flowing from his half-closed eyes. After nearly an hour the Swami got up, washed his face, and joined his spiritual brothers in the drawing-room. His features still showed traces of the violent storm through which he had just passed; but he had recovered his calmness. He said to them softly:

'When a man attains bhakti, his heart and nerves become so soft and delicate that he cannot bear even the touch of a flower!...I cannot think or talk of Sri Ramakrishna long without being overwhelmed. So I am always trying to bind myself with the iron chains of jnana, for still my work for my motherland is unfinished and my message to the world not fully delivered. So as soon as I find that those feelings of bhakti are trying to come up and sweep me off my feet, I give a hard knock to them and make myself firm and adamant by bringing up austere jnana. Oh, I have work to do! I am a slave of Ramakrishna, who left his work to be done by me and will not give me rest till I have finished it. And oh, how shall I speak of him? Oh, his love for me!'

He was again about to enter into an ecstatic mood, when Swami Yogananda and the others changed the conversation, took him on the roof for a stroll, and tried to divert his mind by small talk. They felt that Vivekananda's inmost soul had been aroused, and they remembered the Master's saying that the day Naren knew who he was, he would not live in this body. So from that day the brother disciples did not again criticize the Swami's method, knowing fully well that the Master alone was working through him.

From this incident one sees how Vivekananda, in his inmost heart, relished bhakti, the love of God. But in his public utterances he urged the Indians to keep their emotionalism under control; he emphasized the study of Vedanta, because he saw in it a sovereign tonic to revivify them. He further prescribed for his countrymen both manual and spiritual work, scientific research, and service to men. Vivekananda's mission was to infuse energy and faith into a nation of 'dyspeptics' held under the spell of their own sentimentality. He wished in all fields of activity to awaken that austere elevation of spirit which arouses heroism.

As with his Master, the natural tendency of Vivekananda's mind was to be absorbed in contemplation of the Absolute. Again, like Sri Ramakrishna, he had to bring down his mind forcibly to the consciousness of the world in order to render service to men. Thus he kept a balance between the burning love of the Absolute and the irresistible appeal of suffering humanity. And what makes Swami Vivekananda the patriot saint of modern India and at the same time endears him so much to the West is that at the times when he had to make a choice between the two, it was always the appeal of suffering humanity that won the day. He cheerfully sacrificed the bliss of samadhi to the amelioration of the suffering of men. The Swami's spirit acted like a contagion upon his brother disciples. One of them, Akhandananda, as stated before, fed and nursed the sufferers from famine at Murshidabad, in Bengal; another, Trigunatita, in 1897 opened a famine-relief centre at Dinajpur. Other centres were established at Deoghar, Dakshineswar and Calcutta.

Swami Vivekananda was overjoyed to see the happy beginning of his work in India. To Mary Hale he wrote on July 9, 1897:

Only one idea was burning in my brain — to start the machine for elevating the Indian masses, and that I have succeeded in doing to a certain extent.

It would have made your heart glad to see how my boys are working in the midst of famine and disease and misery — nursing by the mat-bed of the cholera-stricken pariah and feeding the starving chandala, and the Lord sends help to me, to them, to all....He is with me, the Beloved, and He was when I was in America, in England, when I was roaming about unknown from place to place in India. What do I care about what they say? The babies — they do not know any better. What? I, who have realized the Spirit, and the vanity of all earthly nonsense, to be swerved from my path by babies' prattle? Do I look like that?...I feel my task is done — at most three or four years more of life are left....I have lost all wish for my salvation. I never wanted earthly enjoyments. I must see my machine in strong working order, and then, knowing for sure that I have put in a lever for the good of humanity, in India at least which no power can drive back, I will sleep without caring what will be next.

And may I be born again and again, and suffer thousands of miseries, so that I may worship the only God that exists, the only God I believe in, the sum total of all souls. And above all, my God the wicked, my God the miserable, my God the poor of all races, of all species, is the especial object of my worship.

IN NORTHERN INDIA

From May 1897 to the end of that year, the Swami travelled and lectured extensively in Northern India. The physicians had advised him to go as soon as possible to Almora, where the air was dry and cool, and he had been invited by prominent people in Northern India to give discourses on Hinduism. Accompanied by some of his brother disciples and his own disciples, he left Calcutta, and he was joined later by the Seviers, Miss Müller, and Goodwin.

In Lucknow he was given a cordial welcome. The sight of the Himalayas in Almora brought him inner peace and filled his mind with the spirit of detachment and exaltation of which these great mountains are the symbol. But his peace was disturbed for a moment when he received letters from American disciples about the malicious reports against his character spread by Christian missionaries, including Dr. Barrows of the Parliament of Religions in Chicago. Evidently they had become jealous of the Swami's popularity in India. Dr. Barrows told the Americans that the report of the Swami's reception in India was greatly exaggerated. He accused the Swami of being a liar and remarked: "I could never tell whether to take him seriously or not. He struck me as being a Hindu Mark Twain. He is a man of genius and has some following, though only temporary."

The Swami was grieved. At his request the people of Madras had given Dr. Barrows a big reception, but the missionary, lacking religious universalism, had not made much of an impression.

In a mood of weariness the Swami wrote to a friend on June 3, 1897:

As for myself, I am quite content. I have roused a good many of our people, and that was all I wanted. Let things have their course and karma its sway. I have no bonds here below. I have seen life, and it is all self — life is for self, love is for self, honour for self, everything for self. I look back and scarcely find any action I have done for self — even my wicked deeds were not for self. So I am content — not that I feel I have done anything especially good or great, but the world is so little, life so mean a thing, existence so, so servile, that I wonder and smile that human beings, rational souls, should be running after this self — so mean and detestable a prize.

This is the truth. We are caught in a trap, and the sooner one gets out the better for one. I have seen the truth — let the body float up or down, who cares?...

I was born for the life of a scholar — retired, quiet, poring over my books. But the Mother dispensed otherwise. Yet the tendency is there.

In Almora the Swamiji's health improved greatly. On May 29 he wrote to a friend: 'I began to take a lot of exercise on horseback, both morning and evening. Since then I have been very much better indeed....I really began to feel that it was a pleasure to have a body. Every movement made me conscious of strength — every movement of the muscles was pleasurable....You ought to see me, Doctor, when I sit meditating in front of the beautiful snow-peaks and repeat from the Upanishads: "He has neither disease, nor decay, nor death; for verily, he has obtained a body full of the fire of yoga."'

He was delighted to get the report that his disciples and spiritual brothers were plunging heart and soul into various philanthropic and missionary activities.

From Almora he went on a whirlwind tour of the Punjab and Kashmir, sowing everywhere the seeds of rejuvenated Hinduism. In Bareilly he encouraged the students to organize themselves to carry on the work of practical Vedanta. In Ambala he was happy to see his beloved disciples Mr. and Mrs. Sevier. After spending a few days in Amritsar, Dharamsala, and Murree, he went to Kashmir.

In Jammu the Swami had a long interview with the Maharaja and discussed with him the possibility of founding in Kashmir a monastery for giving young people training in non-dualism. In the course of the conversation he sadly remarked how the present-day Hindus had deviated from the ideals of their forefathers, and how people were clinging to various superstitions in the name of religion. He said that in olden days people were not outcasted even when they committed such real sins as adultery, and the like; whereas nowadays one became untouchable simply by violating the rules about food.

On the same topic he said a few months later, at Khetri: 'The people are neither Hindus nor Vedantins — they are merely "don't touchists"; the kitchen is their temple and cooking-pots are their objects of worship. This state of things must go. The sooner it is given up, the better for our religion. Let the Upanishads shine in their glory, and at the same time let not quarrels exist among different sects.'

In Lahore the Swami gave a number of lectures, among which was his famous speech on the Vedanta philosophy, lasting over two hours. He urged the students of Lahore to cultivate faith in man as a preparation for faith in God. He asked them to form an organization, purely non-sectarian in character, to teach hygiene to the poor, spread education among them, and nurse the sick. One of his missions in the Punjab was to establish harmony among people belonging to different sects, such as the Arya Samajists and the orthodox Hindus. It was in Lahore that the Swami met Mr. Tirtha Ram Goswami, then a professor of mathematics, who eventually gained wide recognition as Swami Ram Tirtha. The professor became an ardent admirer of Swami Vivekananda.

Next the Swami travelled to Dehra-Dun, where, for the first ten days, he lived a rather quiet life. But soon he organized a daily class on the Hindu scriptures for his disciples and companions, which he continued to conduct during the whole trip. At the earnest invitation of his beloved disciple the Raja of Khetri, he visited his capital, stopping on the way at Delhi and Alwar, which were familiar to him from his days of wandering prior to his going to America. Everywhere he met old friends and disciples and treated them with marked affection. The Raja of Khetri lavished great honours upon him and also gave him a handsome donation for the Belur Math, which was being built at that time.

Before returning to Calcutta, he visited Kishengarh, Ajmer, Jodhpur, Indore, and Khandwa and thus finished his lecture tour in North India. During this tour he explained to his fellow countrymen the salient features of Hinduism and told them that they would have a glorious future if they followed the heritage of their past. He emphasized that the resurgent nationalism of India must be based on her spiritual ideals, but that healthy scientific and technological knowledge from the West, also, had to be assimilated in the process of growth. The fundamental problem of India, he pointed out, was to organize the whole country around religious ideals. By religion the Swami meant not local customs which served only a contemporary purpose, but the eternal principles taught in the Vedas.

Wherever the Swami went he never wearied of trying to rebuild individual character in India, pointing out that the strength of the whole nation depended upon the strength of the individual. Therefore each individual, he urged, whatever might be his occupation, should try, if he desired the good of the nation as a whole, to build up his character and acquire such virtues as courage, strength, self-respect, love, and service of others. To the young men, especially, he held out renunciation and service as the highest ideal. He preached the necessity of spreading a real knowledge of Sanskrit, without which a Hindu would remain an alien to his own rich culture. To promote unity among the Hindus, he encouraged intermarriage between castes and sub-castes, and wanted to reorganize the Indian universities so that they might produce real patriots, rather than clerks, lawyers, diplomats, and Government officials.

Swami Vivekananda's keen intellect saw the need of uniting the Hindus and Moslems on the basis of the Advaita philosophy, which teaches the oneness of all. One June 10, 1898, he wrote to a Moslem gentleman at Nainital:

The Hindus may get the credit for arriving at Advaitism earlier than other races, they being an older race than either the Hebrew or the Arab; yet practical Advaitism, which looks upon and behaves towards all mankind as one's own soul, is yet to be developed among the Hindus universally. On the other hand, our experience is that if ever the followers of any religion approach to this equality in an appreciable degree on the plane of practical work-a-day life — it may be quite unconscious generally of the deeper meaning and the underlying principle of such conduct, which the Hindus as a rule so clearly perceive — it is those of Islam and Islam alone.

Therefore we are firmly persuaded that without the help of practical Islam, the theories of Vedantism, however fine and wonderful they may be, are entirely valueless to the vast mass of mankind. We want to lead mankind to the place where there is neither the Vedas nor the Bible nor the Koran; yet this has to be done by harmonizing the Vedas, the Bible, and the Koran. Mankind ought to be taught that religions are but the varied expressions of the Religion which is Oneness, so that each may choose the path that suits him best.

For our own motherland a junction of the two great systems, Hinduism and Islam — Vedantic brain and Islamic body — is the only hope. I see in my mind's eye the future perfect India rising out of this chaos and strife, glorious and invincible, with Vedantic brain and Islamic body.

For the regeneration of India, in the Swami's view, the help of the West was indispensable. The thought of India had been uppermost in his mind when he had journeyed to America. On April 6, 1897, the Swami, in the course of a letter to the lady editor of an Indian magazine, had written: 'It has been for the good of India that religious preaching in the West has been done and will be done. It has ever been my conviction that we shall not be able to rise unless the Western countries come to our help. In India no appreciation of merit can be found, no financial support, and what is most lamentable of all, there is not a bit of practicality.'

The year 1898 was chiefly devoted to the training of Vivekananda's disciples, both Indian and Western, and to the consolidation of the work already started. During this period he also made trips to Darjeeling, Almora, and Kashmir.

In February 1898, the monastery was removed from Alambazar to Nilambar Mukherjee's garden house in the village of Belur, on the west bank of the Ganga. The Swami, while in Calcutta, lived at Balam Bose's house, which had been a favourite haunt of Shri Ramakrishna's during his lifetime. But he had no rest either in the monastery or in Calcutta, where streams of visitors came to him daily. Moreover, conducting a heavy correspondence consumed much of his time and energy; one can not but be amazed at the hundreds of letters the Swami wrote with his own hand to friends and disciples. Most of these reveal his intense thinking, and some his superb wit.

While at the monastery, he paid especial attention to the training of the sannyasins and the brahmacharins, who, inspired by his message, had renounced home and dedicated themselves to the realization of God and the service of humanity. Besides conducting regular classes on the Upanishads, the Bhagavad Gita, the physical sciences, and the history of the nations, he would spend hours with the students in meditation and devotional singing. Spiritual practices were intensified on holy days.

In the early part of 1898, the site of the Belur Math, the present Headquarters of the Ramakrishna Math and Mission, was purchased with the help of a generous donation from Miss Müller, the devoted admirer of the Swami. Mrs. Ole Bull gave another handsome gift to complete the construction, and the shrine at the Belur Math was consecrated, as we shall see, on December 9, 1898. Sometime during this period the Swami initiated into the monastic life Swami Swarupananda, whom he considered to be a real 'acquisition.' This qualified aspirant was given initiation after only a few days' stay at the monastery, contrary to the general rule of the Ramakrishna Order. Later he became editor of the monthly magazine Prabuddha Bharata, and first president of the Advaita Ashrama at Mayavati, in the Himalayas, founded on March 19, 1899.

Among the Western devotees who lived with Swami Vivekananda at this time were Mr. and Mrs. Sevier, Mrs. Ole Bull, Miss Henrietta F. Müller, Miss Josephine MacLeod, and Miss Margaret E. Noble, all of whom travelled with him at various times in Northern India. The Seviere identified themselves completely with the work at the Mayavati Advaita Ashrama. Mrs. Ole Bull, the wife of the famous Norwegian violinist, and a lady of social position, great culture, and large heart, had been an ardent admirer of the Swami during his American trip. Miss Müller, who knew the Swami in both England and America and had helped defray, together with the Seviars and Mr. Sturdy, the expenses of his work in England, had come to India to organize an educational institution for Indian women.

Miss MacLeod had attended Swami Vivekananda's classes in New York, and for months at a time he had been the guest of her relatives at their country home, Ridgely Manor. She became his lifelong friend and admirer and cherished his memory till the last day of her life, but though she was devoted to him, she never renounced her independence nor did he demand that she should. By way of spiritual instruction, the Swami had once asked Miss MacLeod to meditate on Om for a week and report to him afterwards. When the teacher inquired how she felt, she said that 'it was like a glow in the heart.' He encouraged her and said: 'Good, keep on.' Many years later she told her friends that the Swami made her realize that she was in eternity. 'Always remember,' the Swami had admonished her, 'you are incidentally an American and a woman, but always a child of God. Tell yourself day and night who you are. Never forget it.' To her brother-in-law, Francis H. Leggett, the Swami had written, on July 16, 1896, in appreciation of Miss MacLeod: 'I simply admire Joe Joe in her tact and quiet ways. She is a feminine statesman. She could wield a kingdom. I have seldom seen such strong yet good common sense in a human being.'

When Miss MacLeod asked the Swami's permission to come to India, he wrote on a postcard: 'Do come by all means, only you must remember this: The Europeans and Indians live as oil and water. Even to speak of living with the natives is damning, even at the capitals. You will have to bear with people who wear only a loin-cloth; you will see me with only a loin-cloth about me. Dirt and filth everywhere, and brown people. But you will have plenty of men to talk philosophy to you.' He also wrote to her that she must not come to India if she expected anything else, for the Indians could not 'bear one more word of criticism'.

On one occasion, while travelling in Kashmir with the Swami and his party, she happened to make a laughing remark about one of his South Indian disciples with the caste-mark of the brahmins of his sect on his forehead. This appeared grotesque to her. The Swami turned upon her 'like a lion, withered her with a glance, and cried: "Hands off! Who are you? What have you ever done?"'

Miss MacLeod was crestfallen. But later she learnt that the same poor brahmin had been one of those who, by begging, had collected the money that had made it possible for the Swami to undertake his trip to America.

'How can I best help you,' she asked the Swami when she arrived in India. 'Love India,' was his reply.

One day Swami Vivekananda told Miss MacLeod that since his return to India he had had no personal money. She at once promised to pay him fifty dollars a month as long as he lived and immediately gave him three hundred dollars for six months in advance. The Swami asked jokingly if it would be enough for him. 'Not if you take heavy cream every day!' she said.

The Swami gave the money to Swami Trigunatita to defray the initial expenses of the newly started Bengali magazine, the Udbodhan.

But of all Swami Vivekananda's Western disciples, the most remarkable was Margaret E Noble, who was truly his spiritual daughter. She had attended the Swami's classes and lectures in London and resolved to dedicate her life to his work in India. When she expressed to him her desire to come to India, the Swami wrote to her, on July 29, 1897:

'Let me tell you frankly that I am now convinced that you have a great future in the work for India. What was wanted was not a man but a woman, a real lioness, to work for the Indians — women especially. India cannot yet produce great women, she must borrow them from other nations. Your education, sincerity, purity, immense love, determination, and above all, your Celtic blood, makes you just the woman wanted.

'Yet the difficulties are many. You cannot form any idea of the misery, the superstition, and the slavery that are here. You will be in the midst of a mass of half-naked men and women with quaint ideas of caste and isolation, shunning the white-skins through fear or hatred and hated by them intensely. On the other hand, you will be looked upon by the white as a crank, and every one of your movements will be watched with suspicion.

'Then the climate is fearfully hot, our winter in most places being like your summer, and in the south it is always blazing. Not one European comfort is to be had in places out of the cities. If in spite of all this you dare venture into the work, you are welcome, a hundred times welcome. As for me, I am nobody here as elsewhere, but what little influence I have shall be devoted to your service.

'You must think well before you plunge in, and afterwards if you fail in this or get disgusted, on my part I promise you I will stand by you unto death, whether you work for India or not, whether you give up Vedanta or remain in it. "The tusks of the elephant come out but never go back" — so are the words of a man never retracted. I promise you that.'

He further asked her to stand on her own feet and never seek help from his other Western women devotees.

Miss Noble came to India on January 28, 1898, to work with Miss Müller for the education of Indian women. The Swami warmly introduced her to the public of Calcutta as a 'gift of England to India,' and in March made her take the vow of brahmacharya, that is to say, the life of a religious celibate devoted to the realization of God. He also gave her the name of Nivedita, the 'Dedicated,' by which she has ever since been cherished by the Indians with deep respect and affection. The ceremony was performed in the chapel of the monastery. He first taught her how to worship Siva and then made the whole ceremony culminate in an offering at the feet of Buddha.

'Go thou,' he said, 'and follow him who was born and gave his life for others five hundred times before he attained the vision of the Buddha.'

The Swami now engaged himself in the training of Sister Nivedita along with the other Western disciples. And certainly it was a most arduous task. They were asked to associate intimately with the Holy Mother, the widow of Sri Ramakrishna, who at once adopted them as her 'children.' Then the Swami would visit them almost daily to reveal to them the deep secrets of the Indian world — its history, folklore, customs, and traditions. Mercilessly he tried to uproot from their minds all preconceived notions and wrong ideas about India. He wanted them to love India as she was at the present time, with her poverty, ignorance, and backwardness, and not the India of yore, when she had produced great philosophies, epics, dramas, and religious systems.

It was not always easy for the Western disciples to understand the religious ideals and forms of worship of the Hindus. For instance, one day in the great Kali temple of Calcutta, one Western lady shuddered at the sight of the blood of the goats sacrificed before the Deity, and exclaimed, 'Why is there blood before the Goddess?' Quickly the Swami retorted, 'Why not a little blood to complete the picture?'

The disciples had been brought up in the tradition of Protestant Christianity, in which the Godhead was associated only with what was benign and beautiful, and Satan with the opposite.

With a view to Hinduizing their minds, the Swami asked his Western disciples to visit Hindu ladies at their homes and to observe their dress, food, and customs, which were radically different from their own. Thus he put to a severe test their love for Vedanta and India. In the West they had regarded the Swami as a prophet showing them the path of liberation, and as a teacher of the universal religion. But in India he appeared before them, in addition, in the role of a patriot, an indefatigable worker for the regeneration of his motherland.

The Swami began to teach Nivedita to lose herself completely in the Indian consciousness. She gradually adopted the food, clothes, language, and general habits of the Hindus.

'You have to set yourself,' he said to her, 'to Hinduize your thoughts, your needs, your conceptions, your habits. Your life, internal and external, has to become all that an orthodox brahmin brahmacharini's ought to be. The method will come to you if you only desire it sufficiently. But you have to forget your past and cause it to be forgotten.' He wanted her to address the Hindus 'in terms of their own orthodoxy.'

Swami Vivekananda would not tolerate in his Western disciples any trace of chauvinism, any patronizing attitude or stupid criticism of the Indian way of life. They could serve India only if they loved India, and they could love India only if they knew India, her past glories and her present problems. Thus later he took them on his trip to Northern India, including Almora and Kashmir, and told them of the sanctity of Varanasi and the magnificence of Agra and Delhi; he related to them the history of the Moghul Emperors and the Rajput heroes, and also described the peasant's life, the duties of a farm housewife, and the hospitality of poor villagers to wandering monks. The teacher and his disciples saw together the sacred rivers, the dense forests, the lofty mountains, the sun-baked plains, the hot sands of the desert, and the gravel beds of the rivers, all of which had played their parts in the creation of Indian culture. And the Swami told them that in India custom and culture were one. The visible manifestations of the culture were the system of caste, the duties determined by the different stages of life, the respect of parents as incarnate gods, the appointed hours of religious service, the shrine used for daily worship, the chanting of the Vedas by the brahmin children, the eating of food with the right hand and its use in worship and japa, the austerities of Hindu widows, the kneeling in prayer of the Moslems wherever the time of prayer might find them, and the ideal of equality practised by the followers of Mohammed.

Nivedita possessed an aggressively Occidental and intensely, English outlook. It was not easy for her to eradicate instinctive national loyalties and strong personal likes and dislikes. A clash between the teacher and the disciple was inevitable. Ruthlessly the Swami crushed her pride in her English upbringing. Perhaps, at the same time, he wanted to protect her against the passionate adoration she had for him. Nivedita suffered bitter anguish.

The whole thing reached its climax while they were travelling together, some time after, in the Himalayas. One day Miss MacLeod thought that Nivedita could no longer bear the strain, and interceded kindly and gravely with the Swami. 'He listened,' Sister Nivedita wrote later, 'and went away. At evening, however, he returned, and finding us together on the veranda, he turned to her (Miss MacLeod) and said with the simplicity of a child: "You were right. There must be a change. I am going away to the forests to be alone, and when I come back I shall bring peace." Then he turned away and saw that above us the moon was new, and a sudden exaltation came into his voice as he said: "See, the Mohammedans think much of the new moon. Let us also, with the new moon, begin a new life." As he said these words, he lifted his hand and blessed his rebellious disciple, who by this time was kneeling before him. It was assuredly a moment of wonderful sweetness of reconciliation. That evening in meditation Nivedita found herself gazing deep into an Infinite Good, to the recognition of which no egotistic reasoning had led her. 'And,' she wrote, 'I understood for the first time that the greatest teachers may destroy in us a personal relation only in order to bestow the Impersonal Vision in its place.'

To resume our story, on March 30, 1898, the Swami left for Darjeeling, for he badly needed a change to the cool air of the Himalayas. Hardly had he begun to feel the improvement in his health, when he had to come down to Calcutta, where an outbreak of plague was striking terror.

Immediately he made plans for relief work with the help of the members of the monastery and volunteers from Calcutta.

When a brother disciple asked him where he would get funds, the Swami replied:

'Why, we shall sell if necessary the land which has just been purchased for the monastery. We are sannyasins; we must be ready to sleep under the trees and live on alms as we did before. Must we care for the monastery and possessions when by disposing of them we could relieve thousands of helpless people suffering before our own eyes?' Fortunately this extreme step was not necessary; the public gave him money for the relief work.

The Swami worked hard to assuage the suffering of the afflicted people. Their love and admiration for him knew no bounds as they saw this practical application of Vedanta at a time of human need.

The plague having been brought under control, the Swami left Calcutta for Nainital on May 11, accompanied by, among others, his Western disciples. From there the party went to Almora where they met the Seviars. During this tour the Swami never ceased instructing his disciples. For his Western companions it was a rare opportunity to learn Indian history, religion, and philosophy direct from one who was an incarnation of the spirit of India. Some of the talks the Swami gave were recorded by Sister Nivedita in her charming book Notes of Some Wanderings with the Swami Vivekananda.

In Almora the Swami received news of the deaths of Pavhari Baba and Mr. Goodwin. He had been closely drawn to the former during his days of wandering. Goodwin died on June 2. Hearing of this irreparable loss, the Swami exclaimed in bitter grief, 'My right hand is gone!' To Goodwin's mother he wrote a letter of condolence in which he said: 'The debt of gratitude I owe him can never be repaid, and those who think they have been helped by any thought of mine ought to know that almost every word of it was published through the untiring and most unselfish exertions of Mr. Goodwin. In him I have lost a friend true as steel, a disciple of never-failing devotion, a worker who knew not what tiring was, and the world is less rich by the passing away of one of those few who are born, as it were, to live only for others.'

The Swami also sent her the following poem, which he had written in memory of Goodwin, bearing witness to the affection of the teacher for the disciple:

REQUIESCAT IN PACE

Speed forth, O soul! upon thy star-strewn path;
Speed, blissful one! where thought is ever free,
Where time and space no longer mist the view;
Eternal peace and blessings be with thee!
Thy service true, complete thy sacrifice;
Thy home the heart of love transcendent find!
Remembrance sweet, that kills all space and time,
Like altar roses, fill thy place behind!
Thy bonds are broke, thy quest in bliss is found,
And one with That which comes as death and life,
Thou helpful one! unselfish e'er on earth,

Ahead, still help with love this world of strife!

Before the Swami left Almora, he arranged to start again the monthly magazine Prabuddha Bharata, which had ceased publication with the death of its gifted editor, B. R. Rajam Iyer. Swami Swarupananda became its new editor, and Captain Sevier, the manager. The magazine began its new career at Almora. Then, on June 11, the Swami, in the company of his Western disciples, left for Kashmir as the guest of Mrs. Ole Bull.

The trip to Kashmir was an unforgettable experience for the Westerners. The natural beauty of the country, with its snow-capped mountains reflected in the water of the lakes, its verdant forests, multi-coloured flowers, and stately poplar and chennar trees, make the valley of Kashmir a paradise on earth. Throughout the journey the Swami poured out his heart and soul to his disciples. At first he was almost obsessed with the ideal of Siva, whom he had worshipped since boyhood, and for days he told the disciples legends relating to the great God of renunciation. The party spent a few days in house-boats, and in the afternoons the Swami would take his companions for long walks across the fields. The conversations were always stimulating. One day he spoke of Genghis Khan and declared that he was not a vulgar aggressor; he compared the Mongol Emperor to Napoleon and Alexander, saying that they all wanted to unify the world and that it was perhaps the same soul that had incarnated itself three times in the hope of bringing about human unity through political conquest. In the same way, he said, one Soul might have come again and again as Krishna, Buddha, and Christ, to bring about the unity of mankind through religion.

In Kashmir the Swami pined for solitude. The desire for the solitary life of a monk became irresistible; and he would often break away from the little party to roam alone. After his return he would make some such remark as: 'It is a sin to think of the body,' 'It is wrong to manifest power,' or 'Things do not grow better; they remain as they are. It is we who grow better, by the changes we make in ourselves.' Often he seemed to be drifting without any plan, and the disciples noticed his strange detachment. 'At no time,' Sister Nivedita wrote, 'would it have surprised us had someone told us that today or tomorrow he would be gone for ever, that we were listening to his voice for the last time.'

This planlessness was observed in him more and more as his earthly existence drew towards its end. Two years later, when Sister Nivedita gave him a bit of worldly advice, the Swami exclaimed in indignation: 'Plans! Plans! That is why you Western people can never create a religion! If any of you ever did, it was only a few Catholic saints who had no plans. Religion was never, never preached by planners!' About solitude as a spiritual discipline, the Swami said one day that an Indian could not expect to know himself till he had been alone for twenty years, whereas from the Western standpoint a man could not live alone for twenty years and remain quite sane. On the Fourth of July the Swami gave a surprise to his American disciples by arranging for its celebration in an appropriate manner. An American flag was made with the help of a brahmin tailor, and the Swami composed the following poem:

TO THE FOURTH OF JULY

Behold, the dark clouds melt away
That gathered thick at night and hung
So like a gloomy pall above the earth!
Before thy magic touch the world
Awakes. The birds in chorus sing.
The flowers raise their star-like crowns,
Dew-set, and wave thee welcome fair.
The lakes are opening wide, in love
Their hundred thousand lotus-eyes
To welcome thee with all their depth.
All hail to thee, thou lord of light!
A welcome new to thee today,
O sun! Today thou sheddest liberty!
Bethink thee how the world did wait
And search for thee, through time and clime!
Some gave up home and love of friends
And went in quest of thee, self-banished,
Through dreary oceans, through primeval forests,
Each step a struggle for their life or death;
Then came the day when work bore fruit,
And worship, love, and sacrifice,
Fulfilled, accepted, and complete.
Then thou, propitious, rose to shed
The light of freedom on mankind.
Move on, O lord, in thy resistless path,
Till thy high noon o'erspreads the world,
Till every land reflects thy light,
Till men and women, with uplifted head,
Behold their shackles broken and know
In springing joy their life renewed!

As the Swami's mood changed he spoke of renunciation. He showed scorn for the worldly life and said: 'As is the difference between a fire-fly and the blazing sun, between a little pond and the infinite ocean, a mustard seed and the mountain of Meru, such is the difference between the householder and the sannyasin.' Had it not been for the ochre robe, the emblem of monasticism, he pointed out, luxury and worldliness would have robbed man of his manliness.

Thus the party spent their time on the river, the teacher providing a veritable university for the education of his disciples. The conversation touched upon all subjects — Vedic rituals, Roman Catholic doctrine, Christ, St. Paul, the growth of Christianity, Buddha.

Of Buddha, the Swami said that he was the greatest man that ever lived. 'Above all, he never claimed worship. Buddha said: "Buddha is not a man, but a state. I have found the way. Enter all of you!"'

Then the talk would drift to the conception of sin among the Egyptian, Semitic, and Aryan races. According to the Vedic conception, the Swami said, the Devil is the Lord of Anger, and with Buddhists he is Mara, the Lord of Lust. Whereas in the Bible the creation was under the dual control of God and Satan, in Hinduism Satan represented defilement, never duality.

Next the Swami would speak about the chief characteristics of the different nations. 'You are so morbid, you Westerners', he said one day. 'You worship sorrow! All through your country I found that. Social life in the West is like a peal of laughter, but underneath it is a wail. The whole thing ends in a sob. The fun and frivolity are all on the surface; really, it is full of tragic intensity. Here it is sad and gloomy on the outside, but underneath are detachment and merriment.'

Once, at Islamabad, as the group sat round him on the grass in an apple orchard, the Swami repeated what he had said in England after facing a mad bull. Picking up two pebbles in his hand, he said: 'Whenever death approaches me all weakness vanishes. I have neither fear nor doubt nor thought of the external. I simply busy myself making ready to die. I am as hard as that' — and the stones struck each other in his hand — 'for I have touched the feet of God!'

At Islamabad the Swami announced his desire to make a pilgrimage to the great image of Siva in the cave of Amarnath in the glacial valley of the Western Himalayas. He asked Nivedita to accompany him so that she, a future worker, might have direct knowledge of the Hindu pilgrim's life. They became a part of a crowd of thousands of pilgrims, who formed at each halting-place a whole town of tents.

A sudden change came over the Swami. He became one of the pilgrims, scrupulously observing the most humble practices demanded by custom. He ate one meal a day, cooked in the orthodox fashion, and sought solitude as far as possible to tell his beads and practise meditation. In order to reach the destination, he had to climb up rocky slopes along dangerous paths, cross several miles of glacier, and bathe in the icy water of sacred streams.

On August 2 the party arrived at the enormous cavern, large enough to contain a vast cathedral. At the back of the cave, in a niche of deepest shadow, stood the image of Siva, all ice. The Swami, who had fallen behind, entered the cave, his whole frame shaking with emotion. His naked body was smeared with ashes, and his face radiant with devotion. Then he prostrated himself in the darkness of the cave before that glittering whiteness.

A song of praise from hundreds of throats echoed in the cavern. The Swami almost fainted. He had a vision of Siva Himself. The details of the experience he never told anyone, except that he had been granted the grace of Amarnath, the Lord of Immortality, not to die until he himself willed it.

The effect of the experience shattered his nerves. When he emerged from the grotto, there was a clot of blood in his left eye; his heart was dilated and never regained its normal condition. For days he spoke of nothing but Siva. He said: 'The image was the Lord Himself. It was all worship there. I have never seen anything so beautiful, so inspiring.'

On August 8 the party arrived at Srinagar, where they remained until September 30. During this period the Swami felt an intense desire for meditation and solitude. The Maharaja of Kashmir treated him with the utmost respect and wanted him to choose a tract of land for the establishment of a monastery and a Sanskrit college. The land was selected and the proposal sent to the British Resident for approval. But the British Agent refused to grant the land. The Swami accepted the whole thing philosophically.

A month later his devotion was directed to Kali, the Divine Mother, whom Ramakrishna had called affectionately 'my Mother.'

A unique symbol of the Godhead, Kali represents the totality of the universe: creation and destruction, life and death, good and evil, pain and pleasure, and all the pairs of opposites. She seems to be black when viewed from a distance, like the water of the ocean; but to the intimate observer She is without colour, being one with Brahman, whose creative energy She represents.

In one aspect She appears terrible, with a garland of human skulls, a girdle of human hands, her tongue dripping blood, a decapitated human head in one hand and a shining sword in the other, surrounded by jackals that haunt the cremation ground — a veritable picture of terror. The other side is benign and gracious, ready to confer upon Her devotees the boon of immortality. She reels as if drunk: who could have created this mad world except in a fit of drunkenness? Kali stands on the bosom of Her Divine Consort, Siva, the symbol of Brahman; for Kali, or Nature, cannot work unless energized by the touch of the Absolute. And in reality Brahman and Kali, the Absolute and Its Creative Energy, are identical, like fire and its power to burn.

The Hindu mind does not make a sweepingly moralistic distinction between good and evil. Both are facts of the phenomenal world and are perceived to exist when maya hides the Absolute, which is beyond good and evil. Ramakrishna emphasized the benign aspect of the Divine Mother Kali and propitiated Her to obtain the vision of the Absolute. Swami Vivekananda suddenly felt the appeal of Her destructive side. But is there really any difference between the process of creation and destruction? Is not the one without the other an illusion of the mind?

Vivekananda realized that the Divine Mother is omnipresent. Wherever he turned, he was conscious of the presence of the Mother, 'as if She were a person in the room.' He felt that it was She 'whose hands are clasped with my own and who leads me as though I were a child.' It was touching to see him worship the four-year-old daughter of his Mohammedan boatman as the symbol of the Divine Mother.

His meditation on Kali became intense, and one day he had a most vivid experience. He centred 'his whole attention on the dark, the painful, and the inscrutable' aspect of Reality, with a determination to reach by this particular path the Non-duality behind phenomena. His whole frame trembled, as if from an electric shock. He had a vision of Kali, the mighty Destructress lurking behind the veil of life, the Terrible One, hidden by the dust of the living who pass by, and all the appearances raised by their feet. In a fever, he groped in the dark for pencil and paper and wrote his famous poem 'Kali the Mother'; then he fell exhausted:

The stars are blotted out,
The clouds are covering clouds,
It is darkness, vibrant, sonant;
In the roaring, whirling wind
Are the souls of a million lunatics,
Just loose from the prison-house,
Wrenching trees by the roots,
Sweeping all from the path.
The sea has joined the fray
And swirls up mountain-waves
To reach the pitchy sky.
The flash of lurid light
Reveals on every side
A thousand thousand shades
Of death, begrimed and black.
Scattering plagues and sorrows,
Dancing mad with joy,
Come, Mother, come!
For terror is Thy name,
Death is in Thy breath,
And every shaking step
Destroys a world for e'er.
Thou Time, the All-destroyer,
Come, O Mother, come!
Who dares misery love,
And hug the form of death,
Dance in Destruction's dance —
To him the Mother comes.

The Swami now talked to his disciples only about Kali, the Mother, describing Her as 'time, change, and ceaseless energy.' He would say with the great Psalmist: 'Though Thou slay me, yet I will trust in Thee.'

'It is a mistake,' the Swami said, 'to hold that with all men pleasure is the motive. Quite as many are born to seek pain. There can be bliss in torture, too. Let us worship terror for its own sake.'

'Learn to recognize the Mother as instinctively in evil, terror, sorrow, and annihilation as in that which makes for sweetness and joy!

'Only by the worship of the Terrible can the Terrible itself be overcome, and immortality gained. Meditate on death! Meditate on death! Worship the Terrible, the Terrible, the Terrible! And the Mother Herself is Brahman! Even Her curse is a blessing. The heart must become a cremation ground — pride, selfishness, and desire all burnt to ashes. Then, and then alone, will the Mother come.'

The Western disciples, brought up in a Western faith which taught them to see good, order, comfort, and beauty alone in the creation of a wise Providence, were shaken by the typhoon of a Cosmic Reality invoked by the Hindu visionary. Sister Nivedita writes:

And as he spoke, the underlying egoism of worship that is devoted to the kind God, to Providence, the consoling Deity, without a heart for God in the earthquake or God in the volcano, overwhelmed the listener. One saw that such worship was at bottom, as the Hindu calls it, merely 'shopkeeping,' and one realized the infinitely greater boldness and truth of teaching that God manifests through evil as well as through good. One saw that the true attitude for the mind and will that are not to be baffled by the personal self, was in fact that determination, in the stern words of Swami Vivekananda, 'to seek death, not life, to hurl oneself upon the sword's point, to become one with the Terrible for evermore.'

Heroism, to Vivekananda, was the soul of action. He wanted to see Ultimate Truth in all its terrible nakedness, and refused to soften it in any shape or manner. His love of Truth expected nothing in return; he scorned the bargain of 'giving to get in return' and all its promise of paradise.

But the gentle Ramakrishna, though aware of the Godhead in all its aspects, had emphasized Its benign side. One day several men had been arguing before him about the attributes of God, attempting to find out, by reason, their meaning. Sri Ramakrishna stopped them, saying: 'Enough, enough! What is the use of disputing whether the divine attributes are reasonable or not?...You say that God is good: can you convince me of His goodness by this reasoning? Look at the flood that has just caused the death of thousands. How can you prove that a benevolent God ordered it? You will perhaps reply that the same flood swept away uncleanness and watered the earth, and so on. But could not a good God do that without drowning thousands of innocent men, women, and children?'

Thereupon one of the disputants said, 'Then ought we to believe that God is cruel?'

'O idiot,' cried Ramakrishna, 'who said that? Fold your hands and say humbly, "O God, we are too feeble and too weak to understand Thy nature and Thy deeds. Deign to enlighten us!" Do not argue. Love!' God is no doubt Good, True, and Beautiful; but these attributes are utterly different from their counterparts in the relative world.

The Swami, during these days, taught his disciples to worship God like heroes. He would say: 'There must be no fear, no begging, but demanding — demanding the Highest. The true devotees of the Mother are as hard, as adamant and as fearless as lions. They are not in the least upset if the whole universe suddenly crumbles into dust at their feet. Make Her listen to you. None of that cringing to Mother! Remember, She is all-powerful; She can make heroes out of stones.'

On September 30 Swami Vivekananda retired to a temple of the Divine Mother, where he stayed alone for a week. There he worshipped the Deity, known as Kshirbhavani, following the time-honoured ritual, praying and meditating like a humble pilgrim. Every morning he also worshipped a brahmin's little daughter as the symbol of the Divine Virgin. And he was blessed with deep experiences, some of which were most remarkable and indicated to him that his mission on earth was finished.

He had a vision of the Goddess and found Her a living Deity. But the temple had been destroyed by the Moslem invaders, and the image placed in a niche surrounded by ruins. Surveying this desecration, the Swami felt distressed at heart and said to himself: 'How could the people have permitted such sacrilege without offering strenuous resistance? If I had been here then, I would never have allowed such a thing. I would have laid down my life to protect the Mother.' Thereupon he heard the voice of the Goddess saying: 'What if unbelievers should enter My temple and defile My image? What is that to you? Do you protect Me, or do I protect you?' Referring to this experience after his return, he said to his disciples: 'All my patriotism is gone. Everything is gone. Now it is only "Mother! Mother!" I have been very wrong...I am only a little child.' He wanted to say more, but could not; he declared that it was not fitting that he should go on. Significantly, he added that spiritually he was no longer bound to the world.

Another day, in the course of his worship, the thought flashed through the Swami's mind that he should try to build a new temple in the place of the present dilapidated one, just as he had built a monastery and temple at Belur to Sri Ramakrishna. He even thought of trying to raise funds from his wealthy American disciples and friends. At once the Mother said to him: 'My child! If I so wish I can have innumerable temples and monastic centres. I can even this moment raise a seven-storied golden temple on this very spot.'

'Since I heard that divine voice,' the Swami said to a disciple in Calcutta much later, 'I have ceased making any more plans. Let these things be as Mother wills.'

Sri Ramakrishna had said long ago that Narendranath would live in the physical body to do the Mother's work and that as soon as this work was finished, he would cast off his body by his own will. Were the visions at the temple of Kshirbhavani a premonition of the approaching dissolution?

When the Swami rejoined his disciples at Srinagar, he was an altogether different person. He raised his hand in benediction and then placed some marigolds, which he had offered to the Deity, on the head of every one of his disciples. 'No more "Hari Om!"' he said. 'It is all "Mother" now!' Though he lived with them, the disciples saw very little of him. For hours he would stroll in the woods beside the river, absorbed within himself. One day he appeared before them with shaven head, dressed as the simplest sannyasin and with a look of unapproachable austerity on his face. He repeated his own poem 'Kali the Mother' and said, 'It all came true, every word of it; and I have proved it, for I have hugged the form of death.'

Sister Nivedita writes: 'The physical ebb of the great experience through which he had just passed — for even suffering becomes impossible when a given point of weariness is reached; and similarly, the body refuses to harbour a certain intensity of the spiritual life for an indefinite period — was leaving him, doubtless, more exhausted than he himself suspected. All this contributed, one imagines, to a feeling that none of us knew for how long a time we might now be parting.'

The party left Kashmir on October 11 and came down to Lahore. The Western disciples went to Agra, Delhi, and the other principal cities of Northern India for sightseeing, and the Swami, accompanied by his disciple Sadananda, arrived at Belur on October 18. His brother disciples saw that he was very pallid and ill. He suffered from suffocating attacks of asthma; when he emerged from its painful fits, his face looked blue, like that of a drowning man. But in spite of all, he plunged headlong into numerous activities.

On November 13, 1898, the day of the worship of Kali, the Nivedita Girls' School was opened in Calcutta. At the end of the inaugural ceremony the Holy Mother, Sri Ramakrishna's consort, 'prayed that the blessing of the Great Mother of the universe might be upon the school and that the girls it should train might be ideal girls.' Nivedita, who witnessed the ceremony with the Swamis of the Order, said: 'I cannot imagine a grander omen than her blessing spoken over the educated Hindu womanhood of the future.'

The dedication of the school was the beginning of Nivedita's work in India. The Swami gave her complete freedom about the way to run it. He told her that she was free from her collaborators if she so chose; and that she might, if she wished, give the work a 'definite religious colour' or even make it sectarian. Then he added, 'You may wish through a sect to rise beyond all sects.'

On December 9, 1898, the Ramakrishna Monastery at Belur was formally consecrated by the Swami with the installation of the Master's image in the chapel. The plot of land, as already stated, had been purchased in the beginning of the year and had been consecrated with proper religious ceremony in March that year. The Swami himself had performed the worship on that occasion at the rented house and afterwards had carried on his shoulder the copper vessel containing the Master's sacred relics. While bearing it he said to a disciple: 'The Master once told me, "I will go and live wherever you take me, carrying me on your shoulder, be it under a tree or in the humblest cottage." With faith in that gracious promise I myself am now carrying him to the site of our future Math. Know for certain, my boy, that so long as his name inspires his followers with the ideal of purity, holiness, and charity for all men, even so long shall he, the Master, sanctify this place with his presence.'

Of the glorious future he saw for the monastery the Swami said: 'It will be a centre in which will be recognized and practised a grand harmony of all creeds and faiths as exemplified in the life of Sri Ramakrishna, and religion in its universal aspect, alone, will be preached. And from this centre of universal toleration will go forth the shining message of goodwill, peace, and harmony to deluge the whole world.' He warned all of the danger of sectarianism's creeping in if they became careless.

After the ceremony, he addressed the assembled monks, brahmacharins, and lay devotees as follows: 'Do you all, my brothers, pray to the Lord with all your heart and soul that He, the Divine Incarnation of the age, may bless this place with his hallowed presence for ever and ever, and make it a unique centre, a holy land, of harmony of different religions and sects, for the good of the many, for the happiness of the many.'

Swami Vivekananda was in an ecstatic mood. He had accomplished the great task of finding a permanent place on which to build a temple for the Master, with a monastery for his brother disciples and the monks of the future that should serve as the headquarters of the Ramakrishna Order for the propagation of Sri Ramakrishna's teachings. He felt as if the heavy responsibility that he had carried on his shoulders for the past twelve years had been lifted. He wanted the monastery at Belur to be a finished university where Indian mystical wisdom and Western practical science would be taught side by side. And he spoke of the threefold activities of the monastery: annadana, the gift of food; vidyadana, the gift of intellectual knowledge; and jnanadana, the gift of spiritual wisdom. These three, properly balanced, would, in the Swami's opinion, make a complete man. The inmates of the monastery, through unselfish service of men, would purify their minds and thus qualify themselves for the supreme knowledge of Brahman.

Swami Vivekananda in his vivid imagination saw the different sections of the monastery allotted to different functions — the free kitchen for the distribution of food to the hungry, the university for the imparting of knowledge, the quarters for devotees from Europe and America, and so forth and so on. The spiritual ideals emanating from the Belur Math, he once said to Miss MacLeod, would influence the thought-currents of the world for eleven hundred years.

'All these visions are rising before me' — these were his very words.

The ceremony over, the sacred vessel was brought back to the rented house by his disciple Sarat Chandra Chakravarty, as the Swami did not want to carry back the Master from the monastery where he had just installed him.

It was a few months before the buildings of the new monastery were completed and the monastery was finally removed to its present site. The date of the momentous occasion was January 2, 1899. The Bengali monthly magazine, the Udbodhan, was first published on January 14 of the same year, and regarding its policy, the Swami declared that nothing but positive ideas for the physical, mental, and spiritual improvement of the race should find a place in it; that instead of criticizing the thoughts and aspirations of ancient and modern man, as embodied in literature, philosophy, poetry, and the arts, the magazine should indicate the way in which those thoughts and aspirations might be made conducive to progress; and finally that the magazine should stand for universal harmony as preached by Sri Ramakrishna, and disseminate his ideals of love, purity, and renunciation.

The Swami was happy to watch the steady expansion of the varied activities of the Order. At his request Swami Saradananda had returned from America to assist in the organization of the Belur Math. Together with Swami Turiyananda, he conducted regular classes at the Math for the study of Sanskrit and of Eastern and Western philosophy. Somewhat later the two Swamis were sent on a preaching mission to Gujarat, in Western India, and for the same purpose two of the Swami's own disciples were sent to East Bengal. Swami Shivananda was deputed to Ceylon to preach Vedanta. Reports of the excellent work done by Swamis Ramakrishnananda and Abhedananda in Madras and America were received at the Math. Swami Akhandananda's work for the educational uplift of the villages and also in establishing a home for the orphans elicited praise from the Government.

One of the most remarkable institutions founded by Swami Vivekananda was the Advaita Ashrama at Mayavati in the Himalayas. Ever since his visit to the Alps in Switzerland, the Swami had been cherishing the desire to establish a monastery in the solitude of the Himalayas where non-dualism would be taught and practised in its purest form. Captain and Mrs. Sevier took up the idea, and the Ashrama was established at Mayavati, at an altitude of 6500 feet. Before it there shone, day and night, the eternal snow-range of the Himalayas for an extent of some two hundred miles, with Nanda Devi rising to a height of more than 25,000 feet. Spiritual seekers, irrespective of creed and race, were welcome at the monastery at Mayavati. No external worship of any kind was permitted within its boundaries. Even the formal worship of Sri Ramakrishna was excluded. It was required of the inmates and guests always to keep before their minds the vision of the nameless and formless Spirit.

Swami Vivekananda in the following lines laid down the ideals and principles of this Himalayan ashrama:

'In Whom is the Universe, Who is in the Universe, Who is the Universe; in Whom is the Soul, Who is in the Soul, Who is the Soul of man; to know Him, and therefore the Universe, as our Self, alone extinguishes all fear, brings an end to misery, and leads to infinite freedom. Wherever there has been expansion in love or progress in well-being of individuals or numbers, it has been through the perception, realization, and the practicalization of the Eternal Truth — the Oneness of All Beings. "Dependence is misery. Independence is happiness." The Advaita is the only system which gives unto man complete possession of himself and takes off all dependence and its associated superstitions, thus making us brave to suffer, brave to do, and in the long run to attain to Absolute Freedom.

'Hitherto it has not been possible to preach this Noble Truth entirely free from the settings of dualistic weakness; this alone, we are convinced, explains why it has not been more operative and useful to mankind at large.

'To give this One Truth a freer and fuller scope in elevating the lives of individuals and leavening the mass of mankind, we start this Advaita Ashrama on the Himalayan heights, the land of its first formulation.

'Here it is hoped to keep Advaita free from all superstitions and weakening contaminations. Here will be taught and practised nothing but the Doctrine of Unity, pure and simple; and though in entire sympathy with all other systems, this Ashrama is dedicated to Advaita and Advaita alone.'

After the Swami's return from Kashmir his health had begun to deteriorate visibly. His asthma caused him great suffering. But his zeal for work increased many times.

'Ever since I went to Amarnath,' he said one day, 'Siva Himself has entered into my brain. He will not go.'

At the earnest request of the brother monks, he visited Calcutta frequently for treatment; yet even there he had no respite from work. Visitors thronged about him for religious instruction from morning till night, and his large heart could not say no to them. When the brother monks pressed him to receive people only at appointed hours, he replied: 'They take so much trouble to come, walking all the way from their homes, and can I, sitting here, not speak a few words to them, merely because I risk my health a little?'

His words sounded so much like those of Sri Ramakrishna during the latter's critical illness, no wonder that Swami Premananda said to him one day, 'We do not see any difference between Sri Ramakrishna and you.'

But the Swami's greatest concern was the training of the sannyasins and brahmacharins — the future bearers of his message — and to this task he addressed himself with all his soul. He encouraged them in their meditation and manual work, himself setting the example. Sometimes he would cook for them, sometimes knead bread, till the garden, or dig a well. Again, he would train them to be preachers by asking them to speak before a gathering without preparation. Constantly he reminded the monks of their monastic vows, especially chastity and renunciation, without which deep spiritual perception was impossible. He attached great importance to physical exercise and said: 'I want sappers and miners in the army of religion! So, boys, set yourselves to the task of training your muscles! For ascetics, mortification is all right. For workers, well-developed bodies, muscles of iron and nerves of steel!' He urged them to practise austerities and meditation in solitude. For the beginners he laid down strict rules about food. They were to rise early, meditate, and perform their religious duties scrupulously. Health must not be neglected and the company of worldly people should be avoided. But above all, he constantly admonished them to give up idleness in any shape or form.

Of himself he said: 'No rest for me! I shall die in harness! I love action! Life is a battle, and one must always be in action, to use a military phrase. Let me live and die in action!' He was a living hymn of work.

To a disciple who wanted to remain absorbed in the Brahman of Vedanta, the Swami thundered: 'Why? What is the use of remaining always stupefied in samadhi? Under the inspiration of non-dualism why not sometimes dance like Siva, and sometimes remain immersed in superconsciousness? Who enjoys a delicacy more — he who eats it all by himself, or he who shares it with others? Granted, by realizing Atman in meditation you attain mukti; but of what use is that to the world? We have to take the whole world with us to mukti. We shall set a conflagration in the domain of great Maya. Then only will you be established in the Eternal Truth. Oh, what can compare with that Bliss immeasurable, "infinite as the skies"! In that state you will be speechless, carried beyond yourself, by seeing your own Self in every being that breathes, and in every atom of the universe. When you realize this, you cannot live in this world without treating everyone with exceeding love and compassion. This is indeed practical Vedanta.'

He wanted his disciples to perform with accuracy and diligence the everyday tasks of life. 'He who knows even how to prepare a smoke properly, knows also how to meditate. And he who cannot cook well cannot be a perfect sannyasin. Unless cooking is performed with a pure mind and concentration, the food is not palatable.'

Work cannot produce real fruit without detachment on the part of the worker. 'Only a great monk', the Swami said one day, 'can be a great worker; for he is without attachment....There are no greater workers than Buddha and Christ. No work is secular. All work is adoration and worship.'

The first duty of the inmates of the monastery was renunciation. How the Swami idolized the monastic life! 'Never forget, service to the world and the realization of God are the ideals of the monk! Stick to them! The monastic is the most immediate of the paths. Between the monk and his God there are no idols! "The sannyasin stands on the head of the Vedas!" declare the Vedas, for he is free from churches and sects and religions and prophets and scriptures. He is the visible God on earth. Remember this, and go thou thy way, sannyasin bold, carrying the banner of renunciation — the banner of peace, of freedom, of blessedness!'

To a disciple who wanted to practise spiritual discipline to attain his own salvation, the Swami said: 'You will go to hell if you seek your own salvation! Seek the salvation of others if you want to reach the Highest. Kill out the desire for personal mukti. This is the greatest spiritual discipline. Work, my children, work with your whole heart and soul! That is the thing. Mind not the fruit of work. What if you go to hell working for others? That is worth more than to gain heaven by seeking your own salvation....Sri Ramakrishna came and gave his life for the world. I will also sacrifice my life. You also, every one of you, should do the same. All these works and so forth are only a beginning. Believe me, from the shedding of our lifeblood will arise gigantic, heroic workers and warriors of God who will revolutionize the whole world.'

He wanted his disciples to be all-round men. 'You must try to combine in your life immense idealism with immense practicality. You must be prepared to go into deep meditation now, and the next moment you must be ready to go and cultivate the fields. You must be prepared to explain the intricacies of the scriptures now, and the next moment to go and sell the produce of the fields in the market....The true man is he who is strong as strength itself and yet possesses a woman's heart.'

He spoke of the power of faith: 'The history of the world is the history of a few men who had faith in themselves. That faith calls out the inner divinity. You can do anything. You fail only when you do not strive sufficiently to manifest infinite power. As soon as a man loses faith in himself, death comes. Believe first in yourself and then in God. A handful of strong men will move the world. We need a heart to feel, a brain to conceive, and a strong arm to do the work....One man contains within him the whole universe. One particle of matter has all the energy of the universe at its back. In a conflict between the heart and the brain, follow your heart.'

'His words,' writes Romain Rolland, 'are great music, phrases in the style of Beethoven, stirring rhythms like the march of Handel choruses. I cannot touch these sayings of his, scattered as they are through the pages of books at thirty years' distance, without receiving a thrill through my body like an electric shock. And what shock, what transports must have been produced when in burning words they issued from the lips of the hero!'

The Swami felt he was dying. But he said: 'Let me die fighting. Two years of physical suffering have taken from me twenty years of life. But the soul changes not, does it? It is there, the same madcap — Atman — mad upon one idea, intent and intense.'

SECOND VISIT TO THE WEST

On December 16, 1898, Swami Vivekananda announced his plan to go to the West to inspect the work he had founded and to fan the flame. The devotees and friends welcomed the idea since they thought the sea voyage would restore his failing health. He planned to take with him Sister Nivedita and Swami Turiyananda.

Versed in the scriptures, Turiyananda had spent most of his life in meditation and was averse to public work. Failing to persuade him by words to accompany him to America, Vivekananda put his arms round his brother disciple's neck and wept like a child, saying: 'Dear brother, don't you see how I am laying down my life inch by inch in fulfilling the mission of my Master? Now I have come to the verge of death! Can you look on without trying to relieve part of my great burden?'

Swami Turiyananda was deeply moved and offered to follow the Swami wherever he wanted to go. When he asked if he should take with him some Vedanta scriptures, Vivekananda said: 'Oh, they have had enough of learning and books! The last time they saw a warrior; now I want to show them a brahmin.'

June 20, 1899, was fixed as their date of sailing from Calcutta. On the night of the 19th a meeting was held at the Belur Math at which the junior members of the monastery presented addresses to the two Swamis. The next day the Holy Mother entertained them and other monks with a sumptuous feast.

The steamship 'Golconda,' carrying the Swami and his two companions, touched Madras, but the passengers were not allowed to land on account of the plague in Calcutta. This was a great disappointment to Swami Vivekananda's South Indian friends. The ship continued to Colombo, Aden, Naples, and Marseilles, finally arriving in London on July 31.

The voyage in the company of the Swami was an education for Turiyananda and Nivedita. From beginning to end a vivid flow of thought and stories went on. One never knew what moment would bring the flash of intuition and the ringing utterance of some fresh truth. That encyclopaedic mind touched all subjects: Christ, Buddha, Krishna, Ramakrishna, folklore, the history of India and Europe, the degradation of Hindu society and the assurance of its coming greatness, different philosophical and religious systems, and many themes more. All was later admirably recorded by Sister Nivedita in The Master as I Saw Him, from which the following fragments may be cited.

'Yes,' the Swami said one day, 'the older I grow, the more everything seems to me to lie in manliness. This is my new gospel. Do even evil like a man! Be wicked, if you must, on a grand scale!' Some time before, Nivedita had complimented India on the infrequency of crime; on that occasion the Swami said in sorrowful protest: 'Would to God it were otherwise in my land! For this is verily the virtuousness of death.' Evidently, according to him, the vilest crime was not to act, to do nothing at all.

Regarding conservative and liberal ideas he said: 'The conservative's whole ideal is submission. Your ideal is struggle. Consequently it is we who enjoy life, and never you! You are always striving to change yours to something better, and before a millionth part of the change is carried out, you die. The Western ideal is to be doing; the Eastern, to be suffering. The perfect life would be a wonderful harmony between doing and suffering. But that can never be.'

To him selfishness was the greatest barrier to spiritual progress:

'It is selfishness that we must seek to eliminate. I find that whenever I have made a mistake in my life, it has always been because self entered into the calculation. Where self has not been involved, my judgement has gone straight to the mark.'

'You are quite wrong,' he said again, 'when you think that fighting is the sign of growth. It is not so at all. Absorption is the sign. Hinduism is the very genius of absorption. We have never cared for fighting. Of course, we struck a blow now and then in defence of our homes. That was right. But we never cared for fighting for its own sake. Everyone had to learn that. So let these races of new-comers whirl on! They all will be taken into Hinduism in the end.'

In another mood, the theme of his conversation would be Kali, and the worship of the Terrible. Then he would say: 'I love terror for its own sake, despair for its own sake, misery for its own sake. Fight always. Fight and fight on, though always in defeat. That's the ideal! That's the ideal!' Again: 'Worship the Terrible! Worship Death! All else is vain. All struggle is vain. This is the last lesson. Yet this is not the coward's love of death, not the love of the weak or the suicide. It is the welcome of the strong man, who has sounded everything to the depths and knows that there is no alternative.' And who is Kali, whose will is irresistible? 'The totality of all souls, not the human alone, is the Personal God. The will of the totality nothing can resist. It is what we know as Law. And this is what we mean by Siva and Kali and so on.'

Concerning true greatness: 'As I grow older I find that I look more and more for greatness in little things. I want to know what a great man eats and wears, and how he speaks to his servants. I want to find a Sir Philip Sidney greatness. Few men would remember to think of others in the moment of death.

'But anyone will be great in a great position! Even the coward will grow brave in the glow of the footlights. The world looks on. Whose heart will not throb? Whose pulse will not quicken, till he can do his best? More and more the true greatness seems to me that of the worm, doing its duty silently, steadily, from moment to moment and hour to hour.'

Regarding the points of difference between his own schemes for the regeneration of India and those preached by others: 'I disagree with those who are for giving their superstitions back to my people. Like the Egyptologist's interest in Egypt, it is easy to feel an interest in India that is purely selfish. One may desire to see again the India of one's books, one's studies, one's dreams. My hope is to see the strong points of that India, reinforced by the strong points of this age, only in a natural way. The new state of things must be a growth from within. So I preach only the Upanishads. If you look you will find that I have never quoted anything but the Upanishads. And of the Upanishads, it is only that one idea — strength. The quintessence of the Vedas and Vedanta and all, lies in that one word. Buddha's teaching was of non-resistance or non-injury. But I think ours is a better way of teaching the same thing. For behind that non-injury lay a dreadful weakness — the weakness that conceives the idea of resistance. But I do not think of punishing or escaping from a drop of sea-spray. It is nothing to me. Yet to the mosquito it would be serious. Now, I will make all injury like that.

Strength and fearlessness. My own ideal is that giant of a saint whom they killed in the Sepoy Mutiny, and who broke his silence, when stabbed to the heart, to say — "And thou also art He."

About India and Europe the Swami said: 'I see that India is a young and living organism. Europe is also young and living. Neither has arrived at such a stage of development that we can safely criticize its institutions. They are two great experiments, neither of which is yet complete.' They ought to be mutually helpful, he went on, but at the same time each should respect the free development of the other. They ought to grow hand in hand.

Thus time passed till the boat arrived at Tilbury Dock, where the party was met by the Swami's disciples and friends, among whom were two American ladies who had come all the way to London to meet their teacher. It was the off-season for London, and so the two Swamis sailed for New York on August 16.

The trip was beneficial to the Swami's health; the sea was smooth and at night the moonlight was enchanting. One evening as the Swami paced up and down the deck enjoying the beauty of nature, he suddenly exclaimed, 'And if all this maya is so beautiful, think of the wondrous beauty of the Reality behind it!' Another evening, when the moon was full, he pointed to the sea and sky, and said, 'Why recite poetry when there is the very essence of poetry?'

The afternoon that Swami Vivekananda arrived in New York, he and his brother disciple went with Mr. and Mrs. Leggett to the latter's country home, Ridgely Manor, at Stone Ridge in the Catskill Mountains, Swami Abhedananda being at that time absent from New York on a lecture tour. A month later Nivedita came to Ridgely, and on September 21, when she decided to assume the nun's garb, the Swami wrote for her his beautiful poem 'Peace.' The rest and good climate were improving his health, and he was entertaining all with his usual fun and merriment.

One day Miss MacLeod asked him how he liked their home-grown strawberries, and he answered that he had not tasted any. Miss MacLeod was surprised and said, 'Why Swami, we have been serving you strawberries with cream and sugar every day for the past week.' 'Ah,' the Swami replied, with a mischievous twinkle in his eyes, 'I am tasting only cream and sugar. Even tacks taste sweet that way.'

In November the Swami returned to New York and was greeted by his old friends and disciples. He was pleased to see how the work had expanded under the able guidance of Swami Abhedananda. Swami Vivekananda gave some talks and conducted classes.

At one of the public meetings in New York, after addressing a tense audience for about fifteen minutes, the Swami suddenly made a formal bow and retired. The meeting broke up and the people went away greatly disappointed. A friend asked him, when he was returning home, why he had cut short the lecture in that manner, just when both he and the audience were warming up. Had he forgotten his points? Had he become nervous? The Swami answered that at the meeting he had felt that he had too much power. He had noticed that the members of the audience were becoming so absorbed in his ideas that they were losing their own individualities. He had felt that they had become like soft clay and that he could give them any shape he wanted. That, however, was contrary to his philosophy. He wished every man and woman to grow according to his or her own inner law. He did not wish to change or destroy anyone's individuality. That was why he had had to stop.

Swami Turiyananda started work at Montclair, New Jersey, a short distance from New York, and began to teach children the stories and folklore of India. He also lectured regularly at the Vedanta Society of New York: His paper on Sankaracharya, read before the Cambridge Conference, was highly praised by the Harvard professors.

One day, while the Swami was staying at Ridgely Manor, Miss MacLeod had received a telegram informing her that her only brother was dangerously ill in Los Angeles. As she was leaving for the West coast, the Swami uttered a Sanskrit benediction and told her that he would soon meet her there. She proceeded straight to the home of Mrs. S. K. Blodgett, where her brother was staying, and after spending a few minutes with the patient, asked Mrs. Blodgett whether her brother might be permitted to die in the room in which he was then lying; for she had found a large picture of Vivekananda, hanging on the wall at the foot of the patient's bed. Miss MacLeod told her hostess of her surprise on seeing the picture, and Mrs. Blodgett replied that she had heard Vivekananda at the Parliament of Religions in Chicago and thought that if ever there was a God on earth, it was that man. Miss MacLeod told her that she had just left the Swami at Ridgely Manor, and further, that he had expressed the desire to come to Los Angeles. The brother died within a few days, and the Swami started for the West Coast on November 22. He broke his trip in Chicago to visit his old friends, and upon his arrival in Los Angeles became the guest of Mrs. Blodgett, whom he described in a letter to Mary Hale as 'fat, old, extremely witty, and very motherly.'

The impression the Swami left in the mind of this good woman can be gathered from the following lines of a letter written by her to Miss MacLeod after Swamiji's passing away:

I am ever recalling those swift, bright days in that never-to-be-forgotten winter, lived in simple freedom and kindness. We could not choose but to be happy and good....I knew him personally but a short time, yet in that time I could see in a hundred ways the child side of Swamiji's character, which was a constant appeal to the mother quality in all good women....He would come home from a lecture, where he had been compelled to break away from his audience — so eagerly would they gather around him — and rush into the kitchen like a boy released from school, with 'Now we will cook!' Presently Joe would appear and discover the culprit among the pots and pans, and in his fine dress, who was by thrifty, watchful Joe admonished to change to his home garments....In the homely, old-fashioned kitchen, you and I have seen Swamiji at his best.

Swami Vivekananda gave many lectures before large audiences in Los Angeles and Pasadena; but alas! there was no Goodwin to record them, and most of what he said was consequently lost. Only a little has been preserved in the fragmentary notes of his disciples.

At the Universalist Church of Pasadena he gave his famous lecture 'Christ, the Messenger'; and this was the only time, Miss MacLeod said later, that she saw him enveloped in a halo. The Swami, after the lecture, was returning home wrapped in thought, and Miss MacLeod was following at a little distance, when suddenly she heard him say, 'I know it, I know it!'

'What do you know?' asked Miss MacLeod.

'How they make it.'

'How they make what?'

'Mulligatawny soup. They put in a dash of bay leaf for flavour.' And then he burst into a laugh.

The Swami spent about a month at the headquarters of the 'Home of Truth' in Los Angeles, conducted regular classes, and gave several public lectures, each of which was attended by over a thousand people. He spoke many times on the different aspects of raja-yoga, a subject in which Californians seemed to be especially interested.

The Swami endeared himself to the members of the Home of Truth by his simple manner, his great intellect, and his spiritual wisdom. Unity, the magazine of the organization, said of him: 'There is a combination in the Swami Vivekananda of the learning of a university president, the dignity of an archbishop, with the grace and winsomeness of a free and natural child. Getting upon the platform, without a moment's preparation, he would soon be in the midst of his subject, sometimes becoming almost tragic as his mind would wander from deep metaphysics to the prevailing conditions in Christian countries of today, whose people go and seek to reform the Filipinos with the sword in one hand and the Bible in the other, or in South Africa allow children of the same Father to cut each other to pieces. In contrast to this condition of things, he described what took place during the last great famine in India, where men would die of starvation beside their cows rather than stretch forth a hand to kill.'

The members of the Home of Truth were not permitted to smoke. One evening the Swami was invited for dinner by a member of the organization along with several other friends who were all opposed to the use of tobacco. After dinner the hostess was absent from the room for a few minutes, when the Swami, perhaps due to his ignorance of the rule about tobacco, took out his pipe, filled it up, and began to puff. The guests were aghast, but kept quiet. When the hostess returned, she flew into a rage and asked the Swami if God intended men to smoke, adding that in that case He would have furnished the human head with a chimney for the smoke to go out.

'But He has given us the brain to invent a pipe,' the Swami said with a smile.

Everybody laughed, and the Swami was given freedom to smoke while living as a guest in the Home of Truth.

Swami Vivekananda journeyed to Oakland as the guest of Dr. Benjamin Fay Mills, the minister of the First Unitarian Church, and there gave eight lectures to crowded audiences which often numbered as high as two thousand. He also gave many public lectures in San Francisco and Alameda. People had already read his Raja-Yoga. Impressed by his lectures, they started a centre in San Francisco. The Swami was also offered a gift of land, measuring a hundred and sixty acres, in the southern part of the San Antone valley; surrounded by forest and hills, and situated at an altitude of 2500 feet, the property was only twelve miles from the Lick Observatory on Mt. Hamilton. He at once thought of Swami Turiyananda, who could be given charge of the place to train earnest students in meditation.

During his trip back to New York, across the American continent, the Swami was very much fatigued. He stopped in Chicago and Detroit on the way. In Chicago he was the guest of the Hale family, and many old reminiscences were exchanged. On the morning of his departure, Mary came to the Swami's room and found him sad. His bed appeared to have been untouched, and on being asked the reason, he confessed that he had spent the whole night without sleep. 'Oh,' he said, almost in a whisper, 'it is so difficult to break human bonds!' He knew that this was the last time he was to visit these devoted friends.

In New York the Swami gave a few lectures at the Vedanta Society, which by this time had enlisted the active co-operation of several professors of Harvard and Columbia University. At the earliest opportunity he spoke to Turiyananda about the proposed gift of land in northern California, but the latter hesitated to accept any responsibility. The Swami said, 'It is the will of the Mother that you should take charge of the work there.'

Swami Turiyananda was amused and said with good humour: 'Rather say it is your will. Certainly you have not heard the Mother communicate Her will to you in that way. How can you hear the words of the Mother?'

'Yes, brother,' the Swami said with great emotion. 'Yes, the words of the Mother can be heard as clearly as we hear one another. But one requires a fine nerve to hear Mother's words.'

Swami Vivekananda made this statement with such fervour that his brother disciple felt convinced that the Divine Mother was speaking through him. He cheerfully agreed, therefore, to take charge of Santi Ashrama, the Peace Retreat, as the new place was called.

In parting, the Swami said to Turiyananda: 'Go and establish the Ashrama in California. Hoist the flag of Vedanta there; from this moment destroy even the memory of India! Above all, lead the life and Mother will see to the rest.'

The Swami visited Detroit again for a week and on July 20 sailed for Paris.

Before continuing the thread of Swami Vivekananda's life, it will be interesting for the reader to get a glimpse of his state of mind. During the past two years, the Swami wrote to his friends, he had gone through great mental anguish. His message, to be sure, had begun to reach an ever-increasing number of people both in India and in America, and naturally he had been made happy by this fact; yet he had suffered intensely on account of 'poverty, treachery, and my own foolishness,' as he wrote to Mary Hale on February 20, 1900. Though his outward appearance was that of a stern non-dualist, he possessed a tender heart that was often bruised by the blows of the world. To Margaret Noble he wrote on December 6, 1899: 'Some people are made that way — to love being miserable. If I did not break my heart over the people I was born amongst, I would do it for somebody else. I am sure of that. This is the way of some — I am coming to see it. We are all after happiness, true, but some are only happy in being unhappy — queer, is it not?'

How sensitive he was to the sufferings of men! 'I went years ago to the Himalayas,' he wrote to an American friend on December 12, 1899, 'never to come back — and my sister committed suicide, the news reached me there, and that weak heart flung me off from the prospect of peace! It is the weak heart that has driven me out of India to seek some help for those I love, and here I am! Peace have I sought, but the heart, that seat of bhakti, would not allow me to find it. Struggle and torture, torture and struggle! Well, so be it then, since it is my fate; and the quicker it is over, the better.'

His health had been indifferent even before he had left for the West. 'This sort of nervous body,' he wrote on November 15, 1899, 'is just an instrument to play great music at times, and at times to moan in darkness.' While in America, he was under the treatment of an osteopath and a 'magnetic healer,' but received no lasting benefit. At Los Angeles he got the news of the serious illness of his brother disciple Niranjan. Mr. Sturdy, his beloved English disciple, had given up the Swami because he felt that the teacher was not living in the West the life of an ascetic. Miss Henrietta Müller, who had helped him financially to buy the Belur Math, left him on account of his illness; she could not associate sickness with holiness. One of the objects of the Swami's visit to California was to raise money to promote his various activities in India: people came to his meetings in large numbers, but of money he received very little. He suffered a bereavement in the passing away of his devoted friend Mr. George Hale of Chicago. Reports about the work in New York caused him much anxiety. Swami Abhedananda was not getting on well with some of Vivekananda's disciples, and Mr. Leggett severed his relationship with the Society. All these things, like so many claws, pierced Vivekananda's heart. Further, perhaps he now felt that his mission on earth was over. He began to lose interest in work. The arrow, however, was still flying, carried, by its original impetus; but it was approaching the end, when it would fall to the ground.

The Swami longed to return to India. On January 17, 1900, he wrote to Mrs. Ole Bull that he wanted to build a hut on the bank of the Ganga and spend the rest of his life there with his mother: 'She has suffered much through me. I must try to smooth her last days. Do you know, this was just exactly what the great Sankaracharya himself had to do. He had to go back to his mother in the last few days of her life. I accept it. I am resigned.'

In the same letter to Mrs. Ole Bull he wrote: 'I am but a child; what work have I to do? My powers I passed over to you. I see it. I cannot any more tell from the platform. Don't tell it to anyone — not even to Joe. I am glad. I want rest; not that I am tired, but the next phase will be the miraculous touch and not the tongue — like Ramakrishna's. The word has gone to you and the boys, and to Margot.' (Referring to Sister Nivedita.)

He was fast losing interest in active work. On April 7, 1900, he wrote to a friend:

'My boat is nearing the calm harbour from which it is never more to be driven out. Glory, glory unto Mother! (Referring to the Divine Mother of the Universe.) I have no wish, no ambition now. Blessed be Mother! I am the servant of Ramakrishna. I am merely a machine. I know nothing else. Nor do I want to know.'

To another friend he wrote, on April 12, in similar vein:

Work always brings dirt with it. I paid for the accumulated dirt with bad health. I am glad my mind is all the better for it. There is a mellowness and a calmness in life now, which never was before. I am learning now how to be attached as well as detached — and mentally becoming my own master.... Mother is doing Her own work. I do not worry much now. Moths like me die by the thousands every minute. Her work goes on all the same. Glory unto Mother!...For me — alone and drifting about in the will-current of the Mother has been my life. The moment I have tried to break it, that moment I was hurt. Her will be done...I am happy, at peace with myself, and more of the sannyasin than I ever was. The love for my own kith and kin is growing less every day — for Mother, increasing. Memories of long nights of vigil with Sri Ramakrishna, under the Dakshineswar banyan tree, are waking up once more. And work? What is work? Whose work? Whom to work for? I am free. I am Mother's child. She works, She plays. Why should I plan? What shall I plan? Things came and went, just as She liked, without my planning, in spite of my planning. We are Her automata. She is the wire-puller.

With the approaching end of his mission and earthly life, he realized ever more clearly how like a stage this world is. In August 1899 he wrote to Miss Marie Halboister: 'This toy world would not be here, this play could not go on, if we were knowing players. We must play blindfolded. Some of us have taken the part of the rogue of the play; some, of the hero — never mind, it is all play. This is the only consolation. There are demons and lions and tigers and what not on the stage, but they are all muzzled. They snap but cannot bite. The world cannot touch our souls. If you want, even if the body be torn and bleeding, you may enjoy the greatest peace in your mind. And the way to that is to attain hopelessness. Do you know that? Not the imbecile attitude of despair, but the contempt of the conqueror for the things he has attained, for the things he has struggled for and then thrown aside as beneath his worth.'

To Mary Hale, who 'has been always the sweetest note in my jarring and clashing life,' he wrote on March 26, 1900:

This is to let you know 'I am very happy.' Not that I am getting into a shadowy optimism, but my power of suffering is increasing. I am being lifted up above the pestilential miasma of this world's joys and sorrows. They are losing their meaning. It is a land of dreams. It does not matter whether one enjoys or weeps — they are but dreams, and as such must break sooner or later....I am attaining peace that passeth understanding — which is neither joy nor sorrow, but something above them both. Tell Mother (Referring to Mrs. Hale) that. My passing through the valley of death — physical, mental — these last two years, has helped me in this. Now I am nearing that Peace, the eternal Silence. Now I mean to see things as they are — everything in that Peace — perfect in its way. 'He whose joy is only in himself, whose desires are only in himself' he has learnt his lessons. This is the great lesson that we are here to learn through myriads of births and heavens and hells: There is nothing to be sought for, asked for, desired, beyond one's self. The greatest thing I can obtain is myself. I am free — therefore I require none else for my happiness. Alone through eternity — ; because I was free, am free, and will remain free for ever. This is Vedantism. I preached the theory so long, but oh, joy! Mary, my dear sister, I am realizing it now every day. Yes, I am. I am free — Alone — Alone. I am, the One without a second.

Vivekananda's eyes were looking at the light of another world, his real abode. And how vividly and touchingly he expressed his nostalgic yearning to return to it, in his letter of April 18, 1900, written from Alameda, California, to Miss MacLeod, his ever loyal Joe:

Just now I received your and Mrs. Bull's welcome letter. I direct this to London. I am so glad Mrs. Leggett is on the sure way to recovery.

I am so sorry Mr. Leggett resigned the presidentship.

Well, I keep quiet for fear of making further trouble. You know my methods are extremely harsh, and once roused I may rattle Abhedananda too much for his peace of mind.

I wrote to him only to tell him his notions about Mrs. Bull are entirely wrong.

Work is always difficult. Pray for me, Joe, that my work may stop for ever and my whole soul be absorbed in Mother. Her work She knows.

You must be glad to be in London once more — the old friends — give them all my love and gratitude.

I am well, very well mentally. I feel the rest of the soul more than that of the body. The battles are lost and won. I have bundled my things and am waiting for the Great Deliverer.

'Siva, O Siva, carry my boat to the other shore!'

After all, Joe, I am only the boy who used to listen with rapt wonderment to the wonderful words of Ramakrishna under the banyan at Dakshineswar. That is my true nature — works and activities, doing good and so forth, are all superimpositions. Now I again hear his voice, the same old voice thrilling my soul. Bonds are breaking — love dying, work becoming tasteless — the glamour is off life. Now only the voice of the Master calling. — 'I come, Lord, I come.' — 'Let the dead bury the dead. Follow thou Me.' — 'I come, my beloved Lord, I come.'

Yes, I come, Nirvana is before me. I feel it at times, the same infinite ocean of peace, without a ripple, a breath.

I am glad I was born, glad I suffered so, glad I did make big blunders, glad to enter peace. I leave none bound, I take no bonds. Whether this body will fall and release me or I enter into freedom in the body, the old man is gone, gone for ever, never to come back again!

The guide, the guru, the leader, the teacher, has passed away; the boy, the student, the servant, is left behind.

You understand why I do not want to meddle with Abhedananda. Who am I to meddle with any, Joe? I have long given up my place as a leader — I have no right to raise my voice. Since the beginning of this year I have not dictated anything in India. You know that. Many thanks for what you and Mrs. Bull have been to me in the past. All blessings follow you ever. The sweetest moments of my life have been when I was drifting. I am drifting again — with the bright warm sun ahead and masses of vegetation around — and in the heat everything is so still, so calm — and I am drifting, languidly — in the warm heart of the river. I dare not make a splash with my hands or feet — for fear of breaking the wonderful stillness, stillness that makes you feel sure it is an illusion!

Behind my work was ambition, behind my love was personality, behind my purity was fear, behind my guidance the thirst for power. Now they are vanishing and I drift. I come, Mother, I come, in Thy warm bosom, floating wheresoever Thou takest me, in the voiceless, in the strange, in the wonderland, I come — a spectator, no more an actor.

Oh, it is so calm! My thoughts seem to come from a great, great distance in the interior of my own heart. They seem like faint, distant whispers, and peace is upon everything, sweet, sweet peace — like that one feels for a few moments just before falling into sleep, when things are seen and felt like shadows — without fear, without love, without emotion — peace that one feels alone, surrounded with statues and pictures.—

I come, Lord, I come.

The world is, but not beautiful nor ugly, but as sensations without exciting any emotion. Oh, Joe, the blessedness of it! Everything is good and beautiful; for things are all losing their relative proportions to me — my body among the first. Om That Existence!

I hope great things come to you all in London and Paris. Fresh joy — fresh benefits to mind and body.

But the arrow of Swami Vivekananda's life had not yet finished its flight. Next he was to be seen in Paris participating in the Congress of the History of Religions, held on the occasion of the Universal Exposition. This Congress, compared with the Parliament of Religions of Chicago, was a rather tame affair. The discussion was limited to technical theories regarding the origin of the rituals of religion; for the Catholic hierarchy, evidently not wanting a repetition of the triumph of Oriental ideas in the American Parliament, did not allow any discussion of religious doctrines. Swami Vivekananda, on account of his failing health, took part in only two sessions. He repudiated the theory of the German orientalist Gustav Oppert that the Siva lingam was a mere phallic symbol. He described the Vedas as the common basis of both Hinduism and Buddhism, and held that both Krishna and the Bhagavad Gita were prior to Buddhism. Further, he rejected the theory of the Hellenic influence on the drama, art, literature, astrology, and other sciences developed in India.

In Paris he came to know his distinguished countryman J. C. Bose, the discoverer of the life and nervous system in plants, who had been invited to join the scientific section of the Congress. The Swami referred to the Indian scientist as 'the pride and glory of Bengal.'

In Paris Swami Vivekananda was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leggett, at whose house he met many distinguished people. Among these was the young Duke of Richelieu, a scion of an old and aristocratic family of France. The title had been created by Louis XIII, and one of the ancestors of the Duke had been Premier under Louis XVIII. Born in Paris, educated at a Jesuit school in France, and later graduated from the University of Aix-en-Provence, the Duke of Richelieu became greatly attached to the Swami and visited him frequently. On the eve of Vivekananda's departure from Paris, the Swami asked the Duke if he would renounce the world and become his disciple. The Duke wanted to know what he would gain in return for such renunciation, and the Swami said, 'I shall give you the desire for death.' When asked to explain, the Swami declared that he would give the Duke such a state of mind that when confronted by death he would laugh at it. But the Duke preferred to pursue a worldly career, though he cherished a lifelong devotion to Swami Vivekananda.

During his stay in Paris the Swami met such prominent people as Professor Patrick Geddes of Edinburgh University, Pere Hyacinthe, Hiram Maxim, Sarah Bernhardt, Jules Bois, and Madame Emma Calve. Pere Hyacinthe, a Carmelite monk who had renounced his vows, had married an American lady and assumed the name of Charles Loyson. The Swami, however, always addressed him by his old monastic name and described him as endowed with 'a very sweet nature' and the temperament of a lover of God. Maxim, the inventor of the gun associated with his name, was a great connoisseur and lover of India and China. Sarah Bernhardt also bore a great love for India, which she often described as 'very ancient, very civilized.' To visit India was the dream of her life.

Madame Calve the Swami had met in America, and now he came to know her more intimately. She became one of his devoted followers. 'She was born poor,' he once wrote of her, 'but by her innate talents, prodigious labour and diligence, and after wrestling against much hardship, she is now enormously rich and commands respect from kings and emperors....The rare combination of beauty, youth, talents, and "divine" voice has assigned Calve the highest place among the singers of the West. There is, indeed, no better teacher than misery and poverty. That constant fight against the dire poverty, misery, and hardship of the days of her girlhood, which has led to her present triumph over them, has brought into her life a unique sympathy and a depth of thought with a wide outlook.'

After the Swami's passing away, Madame Calve visited the Belur Math, the headquarters of the Ramakrishna Mission. In old age she embraced the Catholic faith and had to give up, officially, her allegiance to Swami Vivekananda. But one wonders whether she was able to efface him from her heart.

Jules Bois, with whom the Swami stayed for a few days in Paris, was a distinguished writer. 'We have,' the Swami wrote to a disciple, 'many great ideas in common and feel happy together.'

Most of the Swami's time in Paris was devoted to the study of French culture and especially the language. He wrote a few letters in French. About the culture, his appreciation was tempered with criticism. He spoke of Paris as the 'home of liberty'; there the ethics and society of the West had been formed, and its university had been the model of all others. But in a letter to Swami Turiyananda, dated September 1, 1900, he also wrote: 'The people of France are mere intellectualists. They run after worldly things and firmly believe God and souls to be mere superstitions; they are extremely loath to talk on such subjects. This is truly a materialistic country.'

After the Congress of the History of Religions was concluded, the Swami spent a few days at Lannion in Brittany, as the guest of Mrs. Ole Bull. Sister Nivedita, who had just returned from America, was also in the party. There, in his conversations, the Swami dwelt mostly on Buddha and his teachings. Contrasting Buddhism with Hinduism, he one day said that the former exhorted men to 'realize all this as illusion,' while Hinduism asked them to 'realize that within the illusion is the Real.' Of how this was to be done, Hinduism never presumed to enunciate any rigid law. The Buddhist command could only be carried out through monasticism; the Hindu might be fulfilled through any state of life. All alike were roads to the One Real. One of the highest and the greatest expressions of the Faith is put into the mouth of a butcher, preaching, by the orders of a married woman, to a sannyasin. Thus Buddhism became the religion of a monastic order, but Hinduism, in spite of its exaltation of monasticism, remains ever the religion of faithfulness to daily duty, whatever it may be, as the path by which man may attain to God.

From Lannion, on St. Michael's Day, he visited Mont St. Michel. He was struck by the similarity between the rituals of Hinduism and Roman Catholicism. He said, 'Christianity is not alien to Hinduism.'

Nivedita took leave of the Swami in Brittany and departed for England in order to raise funds for her work on behalf of Indian women. While giving her his blessings, the Swami said: 'There is a peculiar sect of Mohammedans who are reported to be so fanatical that they take each new-born babe and expose it, saying, "If God made thee, perish! If Ali made thee, live!" Now this which they say to the child, I say, but in the opposite sense, to you, tonight — "Go forth into the world, and there, if I made you, be destroyed. If Mother made you, live!"' Perhaps the Swami remembered how some of his beloved Western disciples, unable to understand the profundity of his life and teachings, had deserted him. He also realized the difficulties Westerners experienced in identifying themselves completely with the customs of India. He had told Nivedita, before they left India, that she must resume, as if she had never broken them off, all her old habits and social customs of the West.

On October 24, 1900, Swami Vivekananda left Paris for the East, by way of Vienna and Constantinople. Besides the Swami, the party consisted of Monsieur and Madame Loyson, Jules Bois, Madame Calve, and Miss MacLeod. The Swami was Calve's guest.

In Vienna the Swami remarked, 'If Turkey is called "the sick man of Europe," Austria ought to be called "the sick woman of Europe"!' The party arrived in Constantinople after passing through Hungary, Serbia, Romania, and Bulgaria. Next the Swami and his friends came to Athens. They visited several islands and a Greek monastery. From Athens they sailed to Egypt and the Swami was delighted to visit the museum in Cairo. While in Cairo, he and his women devotees, one day, in the course of sightseeing, unknowingly entered the part of the city in which the girls of ill fame lived, and when the inmates hurled coarse jokes at the Swami from their porches, the ladies wanted to take him away; but he refused to go. Some of the prostitutes came into the street, and the ladies saw from a distance that they knelt before him and kissed the hem of his garment. Presently the Swami joined his friends and drove away.

In Cairo the Swami had a presentiment that something had happened to Mr. Sevier. He became restless to return to India, took the first available boat, and sailed for Bombay alone.

Throughout his European tour the Swami's friends had noticed that he was becoming more and more detached from the spectacle of external things, and buried in meditation. A sort of indifference to the world was gradually overpowering him. On August 14 he had written to a friend that he did not expect to live long. From Paris he wrote to Turiyananda: 'My body and mind are broken down; I need rest badly. In addition there is not a single person on whom I can depend; on the other hand, as long as I live, all will be very selfish, depending upon me for everything.' In Egypt the Swami had seemed to be turning the last pages of his life-experience. One of the party later remarked, 'How tired and world-weary he seemed!' Nivedita, who had had the opportunity of observing him closely during his second trip to the West, writes:

The outstanding impression made by the Swami's bearing during all these months of European and American life, was one of almost complete indifference to his surroundings. Current estimates of value left him entirely unaffected. He was never in any way startled or incredulous under success, being too deeply convinced of the greatness of the Power that worked through him, to be surprised by it. But neither was he unnerved by external failure. Both victory and defeat would come and go. He was their witness....He moved fearless and unhesitant through the luxury of the West. As determinedly as I had seen him in India, dressed in the two garments of simple folk, sitting on the floor and eating with his fingers, so, equally without doubt or shrinking, was his acceptance of the complexity of the means of living in America or France. Monk and king, he said, were the obverse and reverse of a single medal. From the use of the best to the renunciation of all was but one step. India had thrown all her prestige in the past round poverty. Some prestige was in the future to be cast round wealth.

For some time the Swami had been trying to disentangle himself from the responsibilities of work. He had already transferred the property of the Belur Math from his own name to the Trustees of the organization. On August 25, 1900, he had written to Nivedita from Paris:

Now, I am free, as I have kept no power or authority or position for me in the work. I also have resigned the Presidentship of the Ramakrishna Mission. The Math etc. belong now to the immediate disciples of Ramakrishna except myself. The Presidentship is now Brahmananda's — next it will fall on Premananda etc., in turn. I am so glad a whole load is off me. Now I am happy.... I no longer represent anybody, nor am I responsible to anybody. As to my friends, I had a morbid sense of obligation. I have thought well and find I owe nothing to anybody — if anything. I have given my best energies, unto death almost, and received only hectoring and mischief-making and botheration&....

Your letter indicates that I am jealous of your new friends. You must know once for all I am born without jealousy, without avarice, without the desire to rule& #151; whatever other vices I may be born with. I never directed you before; now, after I am nobody in the work, I have no direction whatever. I only know this much: So long as you serve 'Mother' with a whole heart, She will be your guide.

I never had any jealousy about what friends you made. I never criticized my brethren for mixing up in anything. Only I do believe the Western people have the peculiarity of trying to force upon others whatever seems good to them, forgetting that what is good for you may not be good for others. As such I am afraid you would try to force upon others whatever turn your mind might take in contact with new friends. That was the only reason I sometimes tried to stop any particular influence, and nothing else.

You are free. Have your own choice, your own work....

Friends or foes, they are all instruments in Her hands to help us work out our own karma, through pleasure or pain. As such, 'Mother' bless all.

How did America impress Swami Vivekananda during his second visit to the West? What impressions did he carry to India of the state of things in the New World? During his first visit he had been enthusiastic about almost everything he saw — the power, the organization, the material prosperity, the democracy, and the spirit of freedom and justice. But now he was greatly disillusioned. In America's enormous combinations and ferocious struggle for supremacy he discovered the power of Mammon. He saw that the commercial spirit was composed, for the most part, of greed, selfishness, and a struggle for privilege and power. He was disgusted with the ruthlessness of wealthy business men, swallowing up the small tradespeople by means of large combinations. That was indeed tyranny. He could admire an organization; 'but what beauty is there among a pack of wolves?' he said to a disciple. He also noticed, in all their nakedness, the social vices and the arrogance of race, religion, and colour. America, he confided to Miss MacLeod, would not be the instrument to harmonize East and West.

During his trip through Eastern Europe, from Paris to Constantinople, he smelt war. He felt the stench of it rising on all sides. 'Europe,' he remarked, 'is a vast military camp.'

But the tragedy of the West had not been altogether unperceived by him even during his first visit. As early as 1895 he said to Sister Christine: 'Europe is on the edge of a volcano. If the fire is not extinguished by a flood of spirituality, it will erupt.'

One cannot but be amazed at the Swami's prophetic intuition as expressed through the following remarks made to Christine in 1896: 'The next upheaval will come from Russia or China. I cannot see clearly which, but it will be either the one or the other.' He further said: 'The world is in the third epoch, under the domination of the vaisya. The fourth epoch will be under that of the sudra.'

TOWARDS THE END

Swami Vivekananda disembarked in Bombay and immediately entrained for Calcutta, arriving at the Belur Math late in the evening of December 9, 1900. The Swami had not informed anybody of his return. The gate of the monastery was locked for the night. He heard the dinner bell, and in his eagerness to join the monks at their meal, scaled the gate. There was great rejoicing over his homecoming.

At the Math Swami Vivekananda was told about the passing away of his beloved disciple Mr. Sevier at Mayavati in the Himalayas. This was the sad news of which he had had a presentiment in Egypt. He was greatly distressed, and on December 11 wrote to Miss MacLeod: 'Thus two great Englishmen (The other was Mr. Goodwin.) gave up their lives for us — us, the Hindus. This is martyrdom, if anything is.' Again he wrote to her on December 26: 'He was cremated on the bank of the river that flows by his ashrama, a la Hindu, covered with garlands, the brahmins carrying the body and the boys chanting the Vedas. The cause has already two martyrs. It makes me love dear England and its heroic breed. The Mother is watering the plant of future India with the best blood of England. Glory unto Her!'

The Swami stayed at the Math for eighteen days and left for Mayavati to see Mrs. Sevier. The distance from the railroad station to the monastery at Mayavati was sixty-five miles. The Swami did not give the inmates sufficient time to arrange for his comfortable transportation.

He left the railroad station in a hurry in the company of Shivananda and Sadananda. The winter of that year was particularly severe in the Himalayas; there was a heavy snowfall on the way, and in his present state of health he could hardly walk. He reached the monastery, however, on January 3, 1901.

The meeting with Mrs. Sevier stirred his emotions. He was delighted, however, to see the magnificent view of the eternal snow and also the progress of the work. Because of the heavy winter, he was forced to stay indoors most of the time. It was a glorious occasion for the members of the ashrama. The Swami's conversation was inspiring. He spoke of the devotion of his Western disciples to his cause, and in this connexion particularly mentioned the name of Mr. Sevier. He also emphasized the necessity of loyalty to the work undertaken, loyalty to the leader, and loyalty to the organization. But the leader, the Swami said, must command respect and obedience by his character. While at Mayavati, in spite of a suffocating attack of asthma, he was busy with his huge correspondence and wrote three articles for the magazine Prabuddha Bharata. The least physical effort exhausted him. One day he exclaimed, 'My body is done for!'

The Advaita Ashrama at Mayavati had been founded, as may be remembered, with a view to enabling its members to develop their spiritual life through the practice of the non-dualistic discipline. All forms of ritual and worship were strictly excluded. But some of the members, accustomed to rituals, had set apart a room as the shrine, where a picture of Sri Ramakrishna was installed and worshipped daily. One morning the Swami chanced to enter this room while the worship was going on. He said nothing at that time, but in the evening severely reprimanded the inmates for violating the rules of the monastery. As he did not want to hurt their feelings too much, he did not ask them to discontinue the worship, but it was stopped by the members themselves.

One of them, however, whose heart was set on dualistic worship, asked the advice of the Holy Mother. She wrote: 'Sri Ramakrishna was all Advaita and preached Advaita. Why should you not follow Advaita? All his disciples are Advaitins.'

After his return to the Belur Math, the Swami said in the course of a conversation: 'I thought of having one centre at least from which the external worship of Sri Ramakrishna would be excluded. But I found that the Old Man had already established himself even there. Well! Well!'

The above incident should not indicate any lack of respect in Swami Vivekananda for Sri Ramakrishna or dualistic worship. During the last few years of his life he showed a passionate love for the Master. Following his return to the Belur Math he arranged, as will be seen presently, the birthday festival of Sri Ramakrishna and the worship of the Divine Mother, according to traditional rituals.

The Swami's real nature was that of a lover of God, though he appeared outwardly as a philosopher. But in all his teachings, both in India and abroad, he had emphasized the non-dualistic philosophy. For Ultimate Reality, in the Hindu spiritual tradition, is non-dual. Dualism is a stage on the way to non-dualism. Through non-dualism alone, in the opinion of the Swami, can the different dualistic concepts of the Personal God be harmonized. Without the foundation of the non-dualistic Absolute, dualism breeds fanaticism, exclusiveness, and dangerous emotionalism. He saw both in India and abroad a caricature of dualism in the worship conducted in the temples, churches, and other places of worship.

In India the Swami found that non-dualism had degenerated into mere dry intellectual speculation. And so he wanted to restore non-dualism to its pristine purity. With that end in view he had established the Advaita Ashrama at Mayavati, overlooking the gorgeous eternal snow of the Himalayas, where the mind naturally soars to the contemplation of the Infinite, and there he had banned all vestiges of dualistic worship. In the future, the Swami believed, all religions would receive a new orientation from the non-dualistic doctrine and spread goodwill among men.

On his way to Mayavati Swami Vivekananda had heard the melancholy news of the passing away of the Raja of Khetri, his faithful disciple, who had borne the financial burden of his first trip to America. The Raja had undertaken the repairing of a high tower of the Emperor Akbar's tomb near Agra, and one day, while inspecting the work, had missed his footing, fallen several feet, and died. 'Thus', wrote the Swami to Mary Hale, 'we sometimes come to grief on account of our zeal for antiquity. Take care, Mary, don't be too zealous about your piece of Indian antiquity.' (Referring to himself.) 'So you see', the Swami wrote to Mary again, 'things are gloomy with me just now and my own health is wretched. Yet I am sure to bob up soon and am waiting for the next turn.'

The Swami left Mayavati on January 18, and travelled four days on slippery slopes, partly through snow, before reaching the railroad station. He arrived at the Belur Math on January 24.

Swami Vivekananda had been in his monastery for seven weeks when pressing invitations for a lecture trip began to pour in from East Bengal. His mother, furthermore, had expressed an earnest desire to visit the holy places situated in that part of India. On January 26 he wrote to Mrs. Ole Bull: 'I am going to take my mother on pilgrimage....This is the one great wish of a Hindu widow. I have brought only misery to my people all my life. I am trying to fulfil this one wish of hers.'

On March 18, in the company of a large party of his sannyasin disciples, the Swami left for Dacca, the chief city of East Bengal, and arrived the next day. He was in poor health, suffering from both asthma and diabetes. During an asthmatic attack, when the pain was acute, he said half dreamily: 'What does it matter! I have given them enough for fifteen hundred years.' But he had hardly any rest. People besieged him day and night for instruction. In Dacca he delivered two public lectures and also visited the house of Nag Mahashay, where he was entertained by the saint's wife.

Next he proceeded to Chandranath, a holy place near Chittagong, and to sacred Kamakhya in Assam. While in Assam he spent several days at Shillong in order to recover his health, and there met Sir Henry Cotton, the chief Government official and a friend of the Indians in their national aspiration. The two exchanged many ideas, and at Sir Henry's request the Government physician looked after the Swami's health.

Vivekananda returned to the Belur Monastery in the second week of May. Concerning the impressions of his trip, he said that a certain part of Assam was endowed with incomparable natural beauty. The people of East Bengal were more sturdy, active, and resolute than those of West Bengal. But in religious views they were rather conservative and even fanatical. He had found that some of the gullible people believed in pseudo-Incarnations, several of whom were living at that time in Dacca itself. The Swami had exhorted the people to cultivate manliness and the faculty of reasoning. To a sentimental young man of Dacca he had said: 'My boy, take my advice; develop your muscles and brain by eating good food and by healthy exercise, and then you will be able to think for yourself. Without nourishing food your brain seems to have weakened a little.' On another occasion, in a public meeting, he had declared, referring to youth who had very little physical stamina, 'You will be nearer to Heaven through football than through the study of the Gita.'

The brother disciples and his own disciples were much concerned about the Swami's health, which was going from bad to worse. The damp climate of Bengal did not suit him at all; it aggravated his asthma, and further, he was very, very tired. He was earnestly requested to lead a quiet life, and to satisfy his friends the Swami lived in the monastery for about seven months in comparative retirement. They tried to entertain him with light talk. But he could not be dissuaded from giving instruction to his disciples whenever the occasion arose.

He loved his room on the second storey, in the southeast corner of the monastery building, to which he joyfully returned from his trips to the West or other parts of India. This large room with four windows and three doors served as both study and bedroom. In the corner to the right of the entrance door stood a mirror about five feet high, and near this, a rack with his ochre clothes. In the middle of the room was an iron bedstead with a spring mattress, which had been given to him by one of his Western disciples. But he seldom used it; for he preferred to sleep on a small couch placed by its side. A writing-table with letters, manuscripts, pen, ink, paper, and blotting-pad, a call-bell, some flowers in a metal vase, a photograph of the Master, a deer-skin which he used at the time of meditation, and a small table with a tea-set completed the furnishings.

Here he wrote, gave instruction to his disciples and brother monks, received friends, communed with God in meditation, and sometimes ate his meals. And it was in this room that he ultimately entered into the final ecstasy from which he never returned to ordinary consciousness. The room has been preserved as it was while the Swami was in his physical body, everything in it being kept as on the last day of his life, the calendar on the wall reading July 4, 1902.

On December 19, 1900, he wrote to an American disciple: 'Verily I am a bird of passage. Gay and busy Paris, grim old Constantinople, sparkling little Athens, and pyramidal Cairo are left behind, and here I am writing in my room on the Ganga, in the Math. It is so quiet and still! The broad river is dancing in the bright sunshine, only now and then an occasional cargo boat breaking the silence with the splashing of the waves. It is the cold season here, but the middle of the day is warm and bright every day. It is like the winter of southern California. Everything is green and gold, and the grass is like velvet, yet the air is cold and crisp and delightful.'

After the Swami's return from East Bengal he lived a relaxed life in the monastery, surrounded by his pet animals: the dog Bagha, the she-goat Hansi, an antelope, a stork, several cows and sheep and ducks and geese, and a kid called Matru who was adorned with a collar of little bells, and with whom the Swami ran and played like a child. The animals adored him, Matru, the little kid, who had been — so he pretended — a relation of his in a previous existence, slept in his room. When it died he grieved like a child and said to a disciple: 'How strange! Whomsoever I love dies early.' Before milking Hansi for his tea, he always asked her permission. Bagha who took part in the Hindu ceremonies, went to bathe in the Ganga with the devotees on sacred occasions, as for instance when the gongs and conchs announced the end of an eclipse. He was, in a sense, the leader of the group of animals at the Math. After his death he was given a burial in the grounds of the monastery.

Referring to his pet animals he wrote to an American disciple on September 7, 1901: 'The rains have come down in right earnest, and it is a deluge — pouring, pouring, pouring, night and day. The river is rising, flooding the banks; the ponds and tanks have overflowed. I have just now returned from lending a hand in cutting a deep drain to take off the water from the Math grounds. The rainwater stands at places some feet deep. My huge stork is full of glee and so are the ducks and geese. My tame antelope fled from the Math and gave us some days of anxiety in finding him out. One of my ducks unfortunately died yesterday. She had been gasping for breath more than a week. One of my waggish old monks says, "Sir, it is no use living in the Kaliyuga, when ducks catch cold from damp and rain, and frogs sneeze!" One of the geese had her plumes falling off. Knowing no other method of treatment, I left her some minutes in a tub of water mixed with mild carbolic, so that it might either kill or heal — and she is all right now.'

Thus Swami Vivekananda tried to lead a carefree life at the monastery, sometimes going about the grounds clad in his loin-cloth, sometimes supervising the cooking arrangements and himself preparing some delicacies for the inmates, and sometimes joining his disciples and brother monks in the singing of devotional music. At other times he imparted spiritual instruction to the visitors, or engaged in deep thought whenever his inner spirit was stirred up, occupied himself with serious study in his room, or explained to the members of the Math the intricate passages of the scriptures and unfolded to them his scheme of future work.

Though his body was wearing away day by day, his mind was luminous. At times his eyes assumed a far-away look, showing how tired he was of the world. One day he said, 'For one thing we may be grateful: this life is not eternal.'

The illness did not show any sign of abatement, but that did not dampen his spirit to work. When urged to rest, he said to a disciple: 'My son, there is no rest for me. That which Sri Ramakrishna called "Kali" took possession of my body and soul three or four days before his passing away. That makes me work and work and never lets me keep still or look to my personal comfort.' Then he told the disciple how the Master, before his passing away, had transmitted his spiritual power to him.

During the later part of 1901 the Swami observed all the religious festivals at the Math. The Divine Mother was worshipped in strict orthodox fashion during the Durga-puja, Lakshmi-puja and Kali-puja. On the occasion of the Durga-puja the poor were given a sumptuous feast. Thus the Swami demonstrated the efficacy of religious rituals in the development of the spiritual life. In February 1902 the birth anniversary of Sri Ramakrishna was celebrated at the Belur Math, and over thirty thousand devotees gathered for the occasion. But the Swami was feverish. He was confined to his room by the swelling of his legs. From the windows he watched the dancing and the music of the devotees.

To the disciple who was attending him the Swami said: 'He who has realized the Atman becomes a storehouse of great power. From him as the centre a spiritual force emanates, working within a certain radius; people who come within this circle become inspired with his ideas and are overwhelmed by them. Thus without much religious striving they derive benefit from the spiritual experience of an illumined person. This is called grace.' 'Blessed are those,' the Swami continued, 'who have seen Sri Ramakrishna. All of you, too, will get his vision. When you have come here, you are very near to him. Nobody has been able to understand him who came on earth as Sri Ramakrishna. Even his own nearest devotees have no real clue to it. Only some have a little inkling of it. All will understand in time.'

It is said that the spot immediately beneath a lamp is dark. And so it was that the orthodox people of the neighbouring villages hardly understood the ideas and ideals of the Belur Math. The monks there did not in all respects lead the life of orthodox sannyasins. Devotees from abroad frequented the monastery. In matters of food and dress the inmates were liberal. Thus they became the butt of criticism. The villagers invented scandals about them and the passengers on the boats passing along the Ganga would point out the monastery with an accusing finger.

When the Swami heard all this he said: 'That is good. It is a law of nature. That is the way with all founders of religion. Without persecution superior ideas cannot penetrate into the heart of society.'

But the criticism of the neighbours in time gave place to pride in having in their midst so many saintly souls.

Many distinguished Indians used to visit the Swami at this time. With some of them he discussed the idea of founding a Vedic Institution for the promotion of the ancient Aryan culture and the knowledge of Sanskrit. This was one of the Swami's favourite thoughts, on which he dwelt even on the last day of his life on earth.

Towards the end of 1901 two learned Buddhists from Japan came to the Belur Math to induce the Swami to attend a Congress of Religions that was being contemplated in Japan at that time. One of them was the famous artist and art critic Okakura, and the other Oda, the head priest of a Buddhist temple. The Swami became particularly fond of Okakura and said, 'We are two brothers who meet again, having come from the ends of the earth.' Though pressed by the visitors, he could not accept the invitation to go to Japan, partly because of his failing health and partly because he was sceptical that the Japanese would appreciate the monastic ideal of the Non-dualistic Vedanta. In a letter to a Western lady written in June 1902, the Swami made the following interesting observation about the connexion between the monastic ideal and fidelity in married life:

In my opinion, a race must first cultivate a great respect for motherhood, through the sanctification and inviolability of marriage, before it can attain to the ideal of perfect chastity. The Roman Catholics and the Hindus, holding marriage sacred and inviolate, have produced great chaste men and women of immense power. To the Arab, marriage is a contract or a forceful possession, to be dissolved at will, and we do not find there the development of the idea of the virgin of the brahmacharin. Modern Buddhism — having fallen among races who had not yet come up to the evolution of marriage — has made a travesty of monasticism. So until there is developed in Japan a great and sacred ideal about marriage (apart from mutual attraction and love), I do not see how there can be great monks and nuns. As you have come to see that the glory of life is chastity, so my eyes also have been opened to the necessity of this great sanctification for the vast majority, in order that a few lifelong chaste powers may be produced.

The Swami used to say that absolute loyalty and devotion between husbands and wives for three successive generations find their expression in the birth of an ideal monk.

Okakura earnestly requested the Swami to accompany him on a visit to Bodh-Gaya, where Buddha had attained illumination. Taking advantage of several weeks' respite from his ailment, the Swami accepted the invitation. He also desired to see Varanasi. The trip lasted through January and February 1902, and was a fitting end to all his wanderings. He arrived at Bodh-Gaya on the morning of his last birthday and was received with genuine courtesy and hospitality by the orthodox Hindu monk in charge of the temple. This and the similar respect and affection shown by the priests in Varanasi proved the extent of his influence over men's hearts. It may be remembered that Bodh-Gaya had been the first of the holy places he had visited during Sri Ramakrishna's lifetime. And some years later, when he was still an unknown monk, he had said farewell to Varanasi with the words: 'Till that day when I fall on society like a thunderbolt I shall visit this place no more.'

In Varanasi the Swami was offered a sum of money by a Maharaja to establish a monastery there. He accepted the offer and, on his return to Calcutta, sent Swami Shivananda to organize the work. Even before Swami Vivekananda's visit to Varanasi, several young men, under the Swami's inspiration, had started a small organization for the purpose of providing destitute pilgrims with food, shelter, and medical aid. Delighted with their unselfish spirit, the Swami said to them: 'You have the true spirit, my boys, and you will always have my love and blessings! Go on bravely; never mind your poverty. Money will come. A great thing will grow out of it, surpassing your fondest hopes.' The Swami wrote the appeal which was published with the first report of the 'Ramakrishna Home of Service,' as the institution came to be called. In later years it became the premier institution of its kind started by the Ramakrishna Mission.

The Swami returned from Varanasi. But hardly had he arrived at Belur when his illness showed signs of aggravation in the damp air of Bengal. During the last year and a half of his life he was, off and on, under the strict supervision of his physicians. Diabetes took the form of dropsy. His feet swelled and certain parts of his body became hypersensitive. He could hardly close his eyes in sleep. A native physician made him follow a very strict regime: he had to avoid water and salt. For twenty-one days he did not allow a drop of water to pass through his throat. To a disciple he said: 'The body is only a tool of the mind. What the mind dictates the body will have to obey. Now I do not even think of water. I do not miss it at all.... I see I can do anything.'

Though his body was subjected to a devitalizing illness, his mind retained its usual vigour. During this period he was seen reading the newly published Encyclopaedia Britannica. One of his householder disciples remarked that it was difficult to master these twenty-five volumes in one life. But the Swami had already finished ten volumes and was busy reading the eleventh. He told the disciple to ask him any question from the ten volumes he had read, and to the latter's utter amazement the Swami not only displayed his knowledge of many technical subjects but even quoted the language of the book here and there. He explained to the disciple that there was nothing miraculous about it. A man who observed strict chastity in thought and action, he declared, could develop the retentive power of the mind and reproduce exactly what he had heard or read but once, even years before.

The regeneration of India was the ever recurring theme of the Swami's thought. Two of the projects dear to his heart were the establishment of a Vedic College and a convent for women. The latter was to be started on the bank of the Ganga under the direction of the Holy Mother and was to be completely separated from the Belur Monastery. The teachers trained in the convent were to take charge of the education of Indian women along national lines.

But the Swami's heart always went out in sympathy for the poor and neglected masses. During the later part of 1901 a number of Santhal labourers were engaged in levelling the grounds about the monastery. They were poor and outside the pale of society. The Swami felt an especial joy in talking to them, and listened to the accounts of their misery with great compassion. One day he arranged a feast for them and served them with delicacies that they had never before tasted. Then, when the meal was finished, the Swami said to them: 'You are Narayanas. Today I have entertained the Lord Himself by feeding you.'

He said to a disciple: 'I actually saw God in them. How guileless they are!' Afterwards he said, addressing the inmates of the Belur Math:

'See how simple-hearted these poor, illiterate people are! Will you be able to relieve their miseries to some extent at least? Otherwise of what use is our wearing the ochre robe of the sannyasin? To be able to sacrifice everything for the good of others is real monasticism. Sometimes I think within myself: "What is the good of building monasteries and so forth? Why not sell them and distribute the money among the poor, indigent Narayanas? What homes should we care for, we who have made the tree our shelter? Alas! How can we have the heart to put a morsel into our mouths, when our countrymen have not enough wherewith to feed or clothe themselves?...Mother, shall there be no redress for them?" One of the purposes of my going out to preach religion to the West, as you know, was to see if I could find any means of providing for the people of my country. Seeing their poverty and distress, I think sometimes: "Let us throw away all the paraphernalia of worship — blowing the conch and ringing the bell and waving the lights before the image....Let us throw away all pride of learning and study of the scriptures and all spiritual disciplines for the attainment of personal liberation. Let us go from village to village, devoting ourselves to the service of the poor. Let us, through the force of our character and spirituality and our austere living, convince the rich about their duties to the masses, and get money and the means wherewith to serve the poor and the distressed....Alas! Nobody in our country thinks for the low, the poor, the miserable! Those who are the backbone of the nation, whose labour produces food, those whose one day's absence from work raises a cry of general distress in the city — where is the man in our country who sympathizes with them, who shares in their joys and sorrows? Look how, for want of sympathy on the part of the Hindus, thousands of pariahs are becoming Christians in the Madras Presidency! Don't think that it is merely the pinch of hunger that drives them to embrace Christianity. It is simply because they do not get your sympathy. You are continually telling them: "Don't touch me." "Don't touch this or that!" Is here any fellow-feeling or sense of dharma left in the country? There is only "Don't-touchism" now! Kick out all such degrading usages! How I wish to abolish the barriers of "Don't-touchism" and go out and bring together one and all, crying: "Come, all ye that are poor and destitute, fallen and downtrodden! We are one in the name of Ramakrishna!" Unless they are elevated, the Great Mother India will never awake! What are we good for if we cannot provide facilities for their food and clothing? Alas, they are ignorant of the ways of the world and hence fail to eke out a living though labouring hard day and night for it. Gather all your forces together to remove the veil from their eyes. What I see clear as daylight is that the same Brahman, the same Sakti, is in them as in me! Only there is a difference in the degree of manifestation — that is all. Have you ever seen a country in the whole history of the world rise unless there was a uniform circulation of the national blood all over the body? Know for certain that not much can be done with that body one limb of which is paralysed, even though the other limbs are healthy.'

One of the lay disciples pointed out the difficulty of establishing unity and harmony among the diverse sects in India. Vivekananda replied with irritation:

'Don't come here any more if you think any task too difficult. Through the grace of the Lord, everything becomes easy of achievement. Your duty is to serve the poor and the distressed without distinction of caste and creed. What business have you to consider the fruits of your action? Your duty is to go on working, and everything will set itself right in time, and work by itself. My method of work is to construct, and not to destroy that which is already existing....You are all intelligent boys and profess to be my disciples — tell me what you have done. Couldn't you give away one life for the sake of others? Let the reading of Vedanta and the practice of meditation and the like be left for the next life! Let this body go in the service of others — and then I shall know you have not come to me in vain!'

A little later he said:

'After so much tapasya, austerity, I have known that the highest truth is this: "He is present in all beings. These are all the manifested forms of Him. There is no other God to seek for! He alone is worshipping God, who serves all beings."'

In this exhortation is found Vivekananda's message in all its vividness. These words are addressed to India and the Western world alike. The west, too, has its pariahs. He who exploits another man, near or distant, offends God and will pay for it sooner or later. All men are sons of the same God, all bear within them the same God. He who wishes to serve must serve man — and in the first instance, man in the humblest, poorest, most degraded form. Only by breaking down the barriers between man and man can one usher in the kingdom of heaven on earth.

There were moments when Vivekananda felt gloomy. His body was wasting away, and only a few young men came forward to help him in his work. He wanted more of them who, fired with indomitable faith in God and in themselves, would renounce everything for the welfare of others. He used to say that with a dozen such people he could divert into a new channel the whole thought-current of the country. Disregarding his physical suffering, he constantly inspired his disciples to cultivate this new faith.

Thus we see him, one day, seated on a canvas cot under the mango tree in the courtyard of the monastery. Sannyasins and brahmacharins about him were busy doing their daily duties. One was sweeping the courtyard with a big broom. Swami Premananda, after his bath, was climbing the steps to the shrine. Suddenly Swami Vivekananda's eyes became radiant. Shaking with emotion, he said to a disciple:

'Where will you go to seek Brahman? He is immanent in all beings. Here, here is the visible Brahman! Shame on those who, neglecting the visible Brahman, set their minds on other things! Here is the visible Brahman before you as tangible as a fruit in one's hand! Can't you see? Here — here — is Brahman!'

These words struck those around him with a kind of electric shock. For a quarter of an hour they remained glued to the spot, as if petrified. The broom in the hand of the sweeper stopped. Premananda fell into a trance. Everyone experienced an indescribable peace. At last the Swami said to Premananda, 'Now go to worship.'

The brother disciples tried to restrain the Swami's activities, especially instruction to visitors and seekers. But he was unyielding. 'Look here!' he said to them one day. 'What good is this body? Let it go in helping others. Did not the Master preach until the very end? And shall I not do the same? I do not care a straw if the body goes. You cannot imagine how happy I am when I find earnest seekers after truth to talk to. In the work of waking up Atman in my fellow men I shall gladly die again and again!'

Till the very end the Swami remained the great leader of the monastery, guiding with a firm hand the details of its daily life, in spite of his own suffering. He insisted upon thorough cleanliness and examined the beds to see that they were aired and properly taken care of. He drew up a weekly time-table and saw that it was scrupulously observed. The classes on the Vedas and the Puranas were held daily, he himself conducting them when his health permitted. He discouraged too much ritualism in the chapel. He warned the monks against exaggerated sentimentalism and narrow sectarianism.

But the leader kept a stern watch on the practice of daily meditation on the part of the inmates of the monastery. The bell sounded at fixed hours for meals, study, discussion, and meditation. About three months before his death he made it a rule that at four o'clock in the morning a hand-bell should be rung from room to room to awaken the monks. Within half an hour all should be gathered in the chapel to meditate. But he was always before them. He got up at three and went to the chapel, where he sat facing the north, meditating motionless for more than two hours. No one was allowed to leave his seat before the Swami set the example. As he got up, he chanted softly, 'Siva! Siva!' Bowing to the image of Sri Ramakrishna, he would go downstairs and pace the courtyard, singing a song about the Divine Mother or Siva. Naturally his presence in the chapel created an intense spiritual atmosphere. Swami Brahmananda said: 'Ah! One at once becomes absorbed if one sits for meditation in company with Naren! I do not feel this when I sit alone.'

Once, after an absence of several days on account of illness, he entered the chapel and found only two monks there. He became annoyed; in order to discipline the absentees he forbade them to eat their meals at the monastery. They had to go out and beg their food. He did not spare anyone, even a beloved brother disciple for whom he cherished the highest respect and who happened to be absent from the chapel that morning.

Another day, he found a brother disciple, Swami Shivananda, in bed at the hour of meditation. He said to the latter 'Brother! I know you do not need meditation. You have already realized the highest goal through the grace of Sri Ramakrishna. But you should daily meditate with the youngsters in order to set an example to them.'

From that day on, Shivananda, whether ill or well, always communed with God during the early hours of the morning. In his old age, when it became physically impossible for him to go to the chapel, he used to sit on his bed for meditation.

But the Swami, preoccupied as he was with the training of his Indian disciples, never forgot his Western ones. Their welfare, too, was always in his thought and prayer.

To Miss MacLeod he wrote on June 14, 1901:

Well, Joe, keep health and spirits up...Gloire et honneur await you — and mukti. The natural ambition of woman is, through marriage, to climb up leaning upon a man; but those days are gone. You shall be great without the help of any man, just as you are, plain, dear Joe — our Joe, everlasting Joe....

We have seen enough of this life not to care for any of its bubbles, have we not, Joe? For months I have been practising to drive away all sentiments; therefore I stop here, and good-bye just now. It was ordained by Mother that we should work together; it has been already for the good of many; it shall be for the good of many more. So let it be. It is useless planning useless high flights; Mother will find her own way...rest assured.

To Mary Hale, on August 27, 1901 he wrote with his usual wit:

I would that my health were what you expected — at least to be able to write you a long letter. It is getting worse, in fact, every day — and so many complications and botherations without that, I have ceased to notice it at all.

I wish you all joy in your lovely Suisse chalet — splendid health, good appetite, and a light study of Swiss or other antiquities just to liven things up a bit. I am so glad that you are breathing the free air of the mountains, but sorry that Sam is not in the best of health. Well, there is no anxiety about it; he has naturally such a fine physique.

'Woman's moods and man's luck — the gods themselves do not know, not to speak of men.' My instincts may be very feminine — but what I am exercised with just this moment is that you get a little bit of manliness about you. Oh! Mary, your brain, health, beauty, everything, is going to waste just for the lack of that one essential — assertion of individuality. Your haughtiness, spirit, etc. are all nonsense — only mockery. You are at best a boarding-school girl — no backbone! no backbone!

Alas! this lifelong leading-string business ! This is very harsh, very brutal — but I can't help it. I love you, Mary — sincerely, genuinely. I can't cheat you with namby-pamby sugar candies. Nor do they ever come to me.

Then again, I am a dying man; I have no time to fool in. Wake up, girl! I expect now from you letters of the right slashing order. Give it right straight — I need a good deal of rousing....

I am in a sense a retired man. I don't keep much note of what is going on about the Movement. Then the Movement is getting bigger and it is impossible for one man to know all about it minutely. I now do nothing except try to eat and sleep and nurse my body the rest of the time.

Good-bye, dear Mary. Hope we shall meet again somewhere in this life — but meeting or no meeting, I remain ever your loving brother, Vivekananda.

To his beloved disciple Nivedita he wrote on February 12, 1902: 'May all powers come unto you! May Mother Herself be your hands and mind! It is immense power — irresistible — that I pray for you, and, if possible, along with it infinite peace.... 'If there was any truth in Sri Ramakrishna, may He take you into His leading, even as He did me, nay, a thousand times more!'

And again, to Miss MacLeod: 'I can't, even in imagination, pay the immense debt of gratitude I owe you. Wherever you are you never forget my welfare; and there, you are the only one that bears all my burdens, all my brutal outbursts....' The sun, enveloped in a golden radiance, was fast descending to the horizon. The last two months of the Swami's life on earth had been full of events foreshadowing the approaching end. Yet few had thought the end so near.

Soon after his return from Varanasi the Swami greatly desired to see his sannyasin disciples and he wrote to them to come to the Belur Math, even if only for a short time. 'Many of his disciples from distant parts of the world,' writes Sister Nivedita, 'gathered round the Swami. Ill as he looked, there was none probably who suspected how near the end had come. Yet visits were paid and farewells exchanged that it had needed voyages half round the world to make.'

More and more the Swami was seen to free himself from all responsibilities, leaving the work to other hands. 'How often,' he said, 'does a man ruin his disciples by remaining always with them ! When men are once trained, it is essential that their leader leave them, for without his absence they cannot develop themselves.' 'Plants,' he had said some time before, 'always remain small under a big tree.' Yet the near and dear ones thought that he would certainly live three or four years more.

He refused to express any opinion on the question of the day. 'I can no more enter into outside affairs,' he said; 'I am already on the way.' On another occasion he said: 'You may be right; but I cannot enter any more into these matters. I am going down into death.' News of the world met with but a far-away rejoinder from him.

On May 15, 1902, he wrote to Miss MacLeod, perhaps for the last time: 'I am somewhat better, but of course far from what I expected. A great idea of quiet has come upon me. I am going to retire for good — no more work for me. If possible, I will revert to my old days of begging. All blessings attend you, Joe; you have been a good angel to me.'

But it was difficult for him to give up what had been dearer to him than his life: the work. On the last Sunday before the end he said to one of his disciples: 'You know the work is always my weak point. When I think that might come to an end, I am all undone.' He could easily withdraw from weakness and attachment, but the work still retained its power to move him.

Sri Ramakrishna and the Divine Mother preoccupied his mind. He acted as if he were the child of the Mother or the boy playing at the feet of Sri Ramakrishna at Dakshineswar. He said, 'A great tapasya and meditation has come upon me, and I am making ready for death.'

His disciples and spiritual brothers were worried to see his contemplative mood. They remembered the words of Sri Ramakrishna that Naren, after his mission was completed, would merge for ever into samadhi, and that he would refuse to live in his physical body if he realized who he was. A brother monk asked him one day, quite casually, 'Do you know yet who you are?' The unexpected reply, 'Yes, I now know!' awed into silence everyone present. No further question was asked. All remembered the story of the great nirvikalpa samadhi of Naren's youth, and how, when it was over, Sri Ramakrishna had said: 'Now the Mother has shown you everything. But this realization, like the jewel locked in a box, will be hidden away from you and kept in my custody. I will keep the key with me. Only after you have fulfilled your mission on this earth will the box be unlocked, and you will know everything as you have known now.'

They also remembered that in the cave of Amarnath, in the summer of 1898, he had received the grace of Siva — not to die till he himself should will to do so. He was looking death in the face unafraid as it drew near.

Everything about the Swami in these days was deliberate and significant, yet none could apprehend its true import. People were deceived by his outer cheerfulness. From the beginning of June he appeared to be regaining his health.

One day, about a week before the end, he bade a disciple bring him the Bengali almanac. He was seen several times on subsequent days studying the book intently, as if he was undecided about something he wanted to know. After the passing away, the brother monks and disciples realized that he had been debating about the day when he should throw away the mortal body. Ramakrishna, too, had consulted the almanac before his death.

Three days before the mahasamadhi, Vivekananda pointed out to Swami Premananda a particular spot on the monastery grounds where he wished his body to be cremated.

On Wednesday the Swami fasted, following the orthodox rule: it was the eleventh day of the moon. Sister Nivedita came to the monastery to ask him some questions about her school; but he was not interested and referred her to some other Swamis. He insisted, however, on serving Nivedita the morning meal. To quote the Sister's words:

Each dish, as it was offered — boiled seeds of the jack-fruit, boiled potatoes, plain rice, and ice-cold milk — formed the subject of playful chat; and finally, to end the meal, he himself poured the water over her hands, and dried them with a towel.

'It is I who should do these things for you, Swamiji! Not you for me!' was the protest naturally offered. But his answer was startling in its solemnity — 'Jesus washed the feet of his disciples!'

Something checked the answer, 'But that was the last time!' as it rose to the lips, and the words remained unuttered. This was well. For here also, the time had come.

There was nothing sad or grave about the Swami during these days. Efforts were made not to tire him. Conversations were kept as light as possible, touching only upon the pet animals that surrounded him, his garden experiments, books, and absent friends. But all the while one was conscious of a luminous presence of which the Swami's bodily form seemed only a shadow or symbol. The members of the monastery had never felt so strongly as now, before him, that they stood in the presence of an infinite light; yet none was prepared to see the end so soon, least of all on that Friday, July the Fourth, on which he appeared so much stronger and healthier than he had been for years.

On the supreme day, Friday, he rose very early. Going to the chapel, alone, he shut the windows and bolted the doors, contrary to his habit, and meditated for three hours. Descending the stairs of the shrine, he sang a beautiful song about Kali:

Is Kali, my Mother, really black?
The Naked One, though black She seems,
Lights the Lotus of the heart.
Men call Her black, but yet my mind
Will not believe that She is so:
Now She is white, now red, now blue;
Now She appears as yellow, too.
I hardly know who Mother is,
Though I have pondered all my life:
Now Purusha, now Prakriti,
And now the Void, She seems to be.
To meditate on all these things
Confounds poor Kamalakanta's wits.

Then he said, almost in a whisper: 'If there were another Vivekananda, then he would have understood what this Vivekananda has done! And yet — how many Vivekanandas shall be born in time!'

He expressed the desire to worship Mother Kali at the Math the following day, and asked two of his disciples to procure all the necessary articles for the ceremony. Next he asked the disciple Suddhananda to read a passage from the Yajurveda with the commentary of a well-known expositor. The Swami said that he did not agree with the commentator and exhorted the disciple to give a new interpretation of the Vedic texts.

He partook of the noon meal with great relish, in company with the members of the Math, though usually, at that time, he ate alone in his room because of his illness. Immediately afterwards, full of life and humour, he gave lessons to the brahmacharins for three hours on Sanskrit grammar. In the afternoon he took a walk for about two miles with Swami Premananda and discussed his plan to start a Vedic College in the monastery.

'What will be the good of studying the Vedas?' Premananda asked.

'It will kill superstition,' Swami Vivekananda said.

On his return the Swami inquired very tenderly concerning every member of the monastery. Then he conversed for a long time with his companions on the rise and fall of nations. 'India is immortal,' he said, 'if she persists in her search for God. But if she goes in for politics and social conflict, she will die.'

At seven o'clock in the evening the bell rang for worship in the chapel. The Swami went to his room and told the disciple who attended him that none was to come to him until called for. He spent an hour in meditation and telling his beads, then called the disciple and asked him to open all the windows and fan his head. He lay down quietly on his bed and the attendant thought that he was either sleeping or meditating.

At the end of an hour his hands trembled a little and he breathed once very deeply. There was a silence for a minute or two, and again he breathed in the same manner. His eyes became fixed in the centre of his eyebrows, his face assumed a divine expression, and eternal silence fell.

'There was,' said a brother disciple of the Swami, 'a little blood in his nostrils, about his mouth, and in his eyes.' According to the Yoga scriptures, the life-breath of an illumined yogi passes out through the opening on the top of the head, causing the blood to flow in the nostrils and the mouth.

The great ecstasy took place at ten minutes past nine. Swami Vivekananda passed away at the age of thirty-nine years, five months, and twenty-four days, thus fulfilling his own prophecy: 'I shall not live to be forty years old.'

The brother disciples thought that he might have fallen into samadhi, and chanted the Master's name to bring back his consciousness. But he remained on his back motionless.

Physicians were sent for and the body was thoroughly examined. In the doctor's opinion life was only suspended; artificial respiration was tried. At midnight, however, Swami Vivekananda was pronounced dead, the cause, according to medical science, having been apoplexy or sudden failure of the heart. But the monks were convinced that their leader had voluntarily cast off his body in samadhi, as predicted by Sri Ramakrishna.

In the morning people poured in from all quarters. Nivedita sat by the body and fanned it till it was brought down at 2 p.m. to the porch leading to the courtyard. It was covered with ochre robes and decorated with flowers. Incense was burnt and a religious service was performed with lights, conch-shells, and bells. The brother monks and disciples took their final leave and the procession started, moving slowly through the courtyard and across the lawn, till it reached the vilva tree near the spot where the Swami himself had desired his body to be cremated.

The funeral pyre was built and the body was consigned to the flames kindled with sandalwood. Across the Ganga, on the other bank, Ramakrishna had been cremated sixteen years before.

Nivedita began to weep like a child, rolling on the ground. Suddenly the wind blew into her lap a piece of the ochre robe from the pyre, and she received it as a blessing. It was dusk when the flames subsided. The sacred relics were gathered and the pyre was washed with the water of the Ganga. The place is now marked by a temple, the table of the altar standing on the very spot where the Swami's body rested in the flames.

Gloom and desolation fell upon the monastery. The monks prayed in the depths of their hearts: 'O Lord! Thy will be done!' But deep beneath their grief all felt that this was not the end. The words of the leader, uttered long before his death, rang in their ears:

'It may be that I shall find it good to get outside my body — to cast it off like a worn-out garment. But I shall not cease to work. I shall inspire men everywhere, until the world shall know that it is one with God.'

And: 'May I be born again and again, and suffer thousands of miseries, so that I may worship the only God that exists, the only God I believe in, the sum total of all souls.'

For centuries to come people everywhere will be inspired by Swami Vivekananda's message: O man! first realize that you are one with Brahman — aham Brahmasmi — and then realize that the whole universe is verily the same Brahman — sarvam khalvidam Brahma.

लेखककी विनम्र भेंट

भूमिका

‘कबीर’ लिखते समय नाना सामनाओंकी चर्चा प्रसंग-वश आ गई है। उनके उसी पहलूका परिचय विशेष रूपसे कराया गया है जिसे कबीरदासने अधिक लक्ष्य किया था। पाठक पुरतकमें यथास्थान पढ़ेंगे कि कबीरदास बहुत-कुछको अस्वीकार करनेका अपार साहस लेकर अवतीर्ण हुए थे। उन्होंने तत्काल प्रचलित नाना साधन-मार्गोंपर उग्र आक्रमण किया है। कबीरदासके इस विशेष दृष्टिकोणको स्पष्ट रूपसे हृदयगम करानेके लिए मैंने उराकी ओर पाठककी सहानुभूति पैदा करनेकी चेष्टा की है। इसी लिए कहीं कहीं पुस्तकमें ऐसा लग सकता है कि लेखक भी व्यक्तिगत भावसे किसी साधन मार्गका विरोधी है। परन्तु बात ऐसी नहीं है। जहाँ कहीं भी अवसर मिला है वहीं लेखकने इस भ्रमको दूर करनेका प्रयास किया है, पर फिर भी यदि कहीं भ्रमका अवकाश रह गया हो तो वह इस वक्तव्यसे दूर हो जाना चाहिए। कबीर-दासने तत्कालीन नाथपन्थी योगियोंकी साधन-क्रियापर भी आक्षेप किया है, यद्यथाथान उसकी चर्चा की गई है। पुस्तकके अधिकांश स्थलोंमें ‘योगी’ शब्दसे इन्हीं नाथपन्थी योगियोंसे तात्पर्य है। समाधिके विषय जहाँ कहीं कबीरदासने कहा है वहाँ ‘जड़-समाधि’ अर्थ समझना चाहिए। यथाप्रसंग पुस्तकमें इसकी चर्चा आ गई है। वैसे, कबीरदास जिस सहज-समाधिकी बात कहते हैं वह योगमार्गसे असम्मत नहीं है। यहाँ यह भी कह रखना जरूरी है कि पुस्तकमें भिन्न भिन्न साधन-मार्गोंके ऐतिहासिक विकासकी ओर ही अधिक ध्यान दिया गया है।

पुस्तकके अन्तमें उपयोगी समझकर ‘कबीर-घाणी’ नामसे कुछ चुने हुए पद्य संग्रह किये गये हैं। उनके शुरूके सौ पद श्री आचार्य क्षिति-मोहन सेनके संग्रहके हैं। इन्हींको कविवर रवीन्द्रनाथ ठाकुरने अँग्रेजीमें अनूदित किया था। आचार्य सेनने इन पद्योंको लेनेकी अनुमति देकर हँसिकागो, अनुग्रहीत किया है।

पं० नाथूरामजी प्रेमीने अपने स्वाभाविक प्रेम और उत्साहके साथ पुस्तकको प्रकाशित किया है, इसके लिए लेखक अत्यन्त कृतज्ञ है। भाई श्री मोहनलालजी वाजपेयीने नाना भावसे सहायता करके पुस्तकको अधिक च्छुदियुक्त होनेसे बचा लिया है। अनेक लेखकों और प्रकाशकोंके अगूल्य ग्रन्थोंकी सहायता न मिली होती तो पुस्तक लिखी ही न गई होती। जिन लोगोंके मतका कहीं कहीं विरोध करना पड़ा है उनके प्रति मेरी गम्भीर श्रद्धा है। वस्तुतः जिनके ऊपर श्रद्धा है उन्हेंकी मतोंकी मेने समीक्षा की है। इनमें कई मेरे गुरुतुल्य हैं। सब लोगोंके प्रति मैं अपनी कृतज्ञता प्रकट करता हूँ।

१—प्रस्तावना

कबीरदासका लालन-पालन जुलाहा-परिवारमें हुआ था, इसलिए उनके मनका महत्त्वपूर्ण अंश यदि इस जातिके परंपरागत विश्वासोंसे प्रभावित रहा हो तो इसमें आश्चर्यकी कोई बात नहीं है। यद्यपि 'जुलाहा' शब्द फारसी भाषाका है, तथापि इस जातिकी उत्पत्तिके विषयमें संस्कृतके पुराणोंमें कुछ न कुछ चर्चा मिलती ही है। ब्रह्मवैवर्त पुराणके ब्रह्मखंडके दसवें अध्यायमें उताया गया है कि म्लेच्छसे कुविन्द-कन्यामें 'जोला' या जुलाहा जातिकी उत्पत्ति हुई है^२। अर्थात् म्लेच्छ पिता और कुविन्द मातामें जो संतति हुई वहीं जुलाहा कहलाई। पुराणकारने म्लेच्छ और कुविन्दके सम्बन्धमें कोई सन्देह नहीं रहने दिया है। त्रिशूक्तर्माणि शूद्राके गर्भसे नौ शिल्पकार पुत्र उत्पन्न किये थे माली, लुहार, गखकार, कुविन्द, कुम्हार, कँसेग, बढई, चित्रकार और सुनार। इस प्रकार

१ प्रसिद्ध विद्वान् राय कृष्णदामजीने अपने एक पत्रमें मुझे बताया है कि 'जुलाहा' शब्द संस्कृत 'चोलवाय' से बना है। परन्तु मुझे संस्कृत साहित्यमें 'चोलवाय' शब्दका कहीं प्रयोग नहीं मिला।

कुविन्द एक शिर्पी या कलाकार है और उसका कार्य बख्त बुनना है। धन्त्रिय पिता और शूद्रा माताके संयोगसे म्लेच्छकी उत्पत्ति हुई। यह उत्पत्ति जिरा रामय हुई इस समय माता ऋतुदोषसे अपवित्र थी और पिताके मनमें पाप-भावना थी। इसीलिये इस संयोगसे बलमान, दुरन्त और पाप-पारायण म्लेच्छ जातियोंका प्रादुर्भाव हुआ। वे जातियों क्रूर, निर्भय, दुर्बल और विधर्मी हुई। इस प्रकार हिन्दू पुराणोंके मतसे जुलाहा जातिका प्रादुर्भाव सुसलमान पिता और कुविन्द माताके आकस्मिक संयोगसे हुआ। इस देशमें इस प्रकारके आकस्मिक संयोगसे नई जातिका पैदा हो जाना अपरिचित घटना नहीं है। आज जो सहरोकी सख्याम जातियों वर्तमान हैं, वस्तुतः उनमें कई इसी प्रकार बन गई हैं, परन्तु जुलाहोंके सबमें पुराणोंकी यह व्यवस्था कई कारणोंसे मानने योग्य नहीं मालूम होती।

हिन्दू पुराणों और धर्मग्रन्थोंकी यह प्रवृत्ति रही है कि किसी जातिकी उत्पत्तिके लिये निम्नलिखित पाँच कारणोंमेंसे किसी एकको मान लें।

- (१) वर्णोंके अचुल्लोम विवाहसे,
- (२) वर्णोंके प्रतिलोम विवाहसे,
- (३) वर्णोंकी सरकार-भ्रष्टताके कारण,
- (४) वर्णोंसे बहिष्कृत समुदायसे और,
- (५) भिन्न सरकार-जातियोंके अन्तर्विवाहसे।

इन पाँच कारणोंके अतिरिक्त कोई छठा कारण हिन्दू पुराणों और स्मृतियोंमें नहीं बताया गया। जब किसी नई जातिका आविर्भाव भारतीय भूमिपर हुआ है तभी कोई न कोई ऐसा ही मिश्रण सोच लिया गया है। यह धारणा केवल शास्त्रीय विवेचनाओंतक ही सीमित नहीं रही है, साधारण जनतामें भी बल्लसूल हो गई है।

इस प्रकारकी कल्पनाएँ जातिकी सामाजिक मर्यादाओंका नियमन भी करती हैं। स्मृतियों और पुराणोंकी कथाओंपरसे यह अन्दाजा भी लगाया जा सकता है कि

- क्षत्रवीर्येण शूद्रायाः स्मृतदोषेण पापत ।
 - बलवत्यो दुरन्ताश्च बभूवुर्म्लेच्छजातय ।
 - अविद्वक्कर्णा कराश्च निर्भया रणदुजया ।
 - शोचाचारनिहीनाश्च दुर्धर्षा धर्मवजिता ॥

जिस समय ये कथाएँ लिखी गई थी उस समय किसी जातिकी सामाजिक मर्यादा क्या और कैसी थी। यह ध्यान देनेकी बात है कि कई जातियोंके सम्बन्धमें सूक्ष्म-ग्रन्थोंमें जो कथाएँ कही गई हैं उन्हें १ जातियों स्वयं नहीं मानती। प्रायः शार्थेतर जातियों अपनी उत्पत्ति ओर मर्यादाके विषयमें कोई न कोई पौराणिक कथा बताया करती ह। इन कथाओंमें साधारणत उनका श्रेष्ठत्व प्रतिपादित किया गया होता है और कभी कभी यह भी बताया गया है कि वर्तमानकालमें उनकी सामाजिक मर्यादा किस अभिशापवश या किम धोखेके कारण हीन हो गई है। उदाहरणार्थ, पृष्ठवेगर नामक ऋषि का बुननेवाली जाति अपनी उत्पत्ति पितृकी जिह्वासे बताती है और यह दावा करती है कि मानव-जातिकी लज्जा बचानेके लिए शिशुजीने इन्हे पृष्ठ बुननेका मयसे पत्रि कार्य सौंपा है। इनके आदि पुरुषोंको उपवीत और वेद प्राप्त हुए थे^१।

आधुनिक कालमें मनुष्य-गणनाके समय जुलाहा जातिके सम्बन्धमें जो तथ्य प्राप्त हुए हैं उनपरमें पुराण-समर्थित आकस्मिक संयोगवाली बातका समर्थन नहीं होता। जुलाहे मुसलमान हैं पर इनसे अन्य मुसलमानोंका मौलिक भेद है। मन् १९०१ की मनुष्य गणनाके आधारपर रिजली साहबमें 'पीपुल्स आफ इण्डिया' नामक एक ग्रन्थ लिखा था। इस ग्रन्थमें उन्होंने तीन मुसलमान जातियोंकी तुलना की थी। वे तीन हैं, सैयद, पठान और जुलाहे। इनमें पठान तो भारतवर्षमें सर्वत्र फैले हुए हैं पर उनकी संख्या कहीं भी बहुत अधिक नहीं है। जान पड़ता है कि बाहरसे आकर ये नाना स्थानोंपर अपनी सुविधाके अनुसार पस गये। पर जुलाहे पंजाब, युक्तप्रान्त, बिहार और बंगालमें ही पाये जाते हैं। ये जहाँ हैं वहाँ योक्तके थोक हैं। एक पूराका पूरा भूखण्ड इनका द्वारा अधुषित है। पंजाबमें इनकी संख्या ६,९५,१९९, युक्तप्रान्तमें ९,२३,०३२ और बंगाल-बिहारमें ९३,४२,०४९ थी। पंजाबमें इनकी बस्ती काश्मीर रियासतकी दक्षिण सीमासे शुरू होकर कुछ दूरतक पंजाबके उत्तरी किनारेपर फैली हुई है। युक्तप्रान्त जहाँपर राजपूताना और मध्य भारतकी सीमाओंसे मिलता है वहाँसे लेकर बनारस और गोरखपुर कमिश्नरीकी पूर्वी सीमातक एक मेखलाकी भौतिक भूखण्डमें इनकी दूसरी बस्ती है। बिहारके उत्तरी अंशमें और नेपालकी दक्षिण-पूर्वी सीमा तक इनकी घनी बस्ती है। फिर दक्षिण बिहारमें भी

^१ भास्सोर ट्राइब्स, एण्ड कास्ट्स, जि० ४, पृ० १७६-७, 'जातिभेद' से उद्धृत।

इनकी एक छोटी-सी बस्ती है। दक्षिणी बंगालमें बर्दवानसे ढाका कमिश्नरी तक ये बसे हुए हैं। इस प्रकार उत्तरी पजाबसे लेकर ढाका कमिश्नरी तक एक अर्ध-चन्द्राकृति भूभागमें ये फैले हुए हैं। इन प्रदेशोंमें कभी नाथपन्थी योगियोंका बड़ा जबरदस्त प्रभाव था। रिजली साहबका अनुमान है कि यह जुलाहा जाति किसी निम्न स्तरकी भारतीय जातिका मुसलमानी रूप है। सामाजिक परिस्थित इन ही अच्छी नहीं रही और नवागत धर्ममें कुछ अच्छा स्थान पा जानेकी आशासे इन्होंने समूह-रूपमें धर्मान्तर ग्रहण किया होगा। यही कारण है कि ये रांयद और पठानोंकी भोंति सारे भारतवर्षमें फले हुए नहीं हैं बल्कि अपने मूल निवासस्थानमें ही पाये जाते हैं^१।

जिन दिनों कबीरदाम इस जुलाहा जातिको अलंकरण कर रहे थे उन दिनों, ऐसा जान पड़ता है कि, इस जातिने अभी एकाध पुरतसे ही मुसलमानी धर्म ग्रहण किया था। कबीरदासकी वाणीको समझनेके लिए यह निहायत जरूरी है कि हम इस बातकी जानकारी प्राप्त कर लें कि उन दिनों इस जातिके बच्चे-खुचे पुराने सरकार क्या थे।

सन् १९०१ की मनुष्य गणनाके आधारपर सर आर्थन्टेल वेन्सने Grundriss der Indo ouschen philologie and Altertumskunde सीरीजमें भारतीय जातियोंके सम्बन्धमें जो अध्ययन उपस्थित किया उसमें २१ प्रकारकी वयनजीवी (कण्ठवा बुनकर जीविका चलानेवाली) जातियोंका उल्लेख है। इनकी सख्या एक करोड़से ऊपर है। सारे भारतवर्षमें इन सभी जातियोंकी सामाजिक मर्यादा एक ही-सी नहीं है। निचले बंगालके तोंती इनमें राबसे अधिक ऊंची सामाजिक मर्यादाके अधिकारी बताये गये हैं। अधिक धनी और सम्भ्रान्त होनेपर ये लोग कायस्थोंके साथ विवाह-सम्बन्ध भी कर लेते हैं। इसी प्रकार गुजरात और मध्यभारतकी खत्री पटवे जातिकी सामाजिक मर्यादा भी अच्छी बताई जाती है। पर साधारणतः वयनजीवी जातियों निम्न श्रेणीकी मानी जाती हैं। पण्डितोंका अनुमान है कि इन २२ प्रकारकी वयनजीवी जातियोंमेंसे अधिकांश भूल द्रविड अधिवासियोंमेंसे बनी होंगी। उड़ीसा और मध्यप्रदेशकी पहाड़ियोंमें कुछ कोल या द्रविड श्रेणियोंका जुलाहा होना

अब भी जारी है। पोंका और गोंडा ऐसी ही जातियाँ हैं। इनमें पोंका जातिके अधिकांश व्यक्ति कबीरपंथी हो रहे हैं।

उत्तर भारतके वयनजीवियोंमें कोरी मुख्य हैं। वेन्स जुलाहोंको कोरियोंकी समशील (Corresponding) जाति ही मानने हैं। कुछ एक पंडितोंने यह भी अनुमान किया है कि मुसलमानी धर्म ग्रहण करनेवाले कोरी ही जुलाहे हैं। यह उल्लेख किया जा सकता है कि कबीरदाम जहाँ अपनेको बार बार जुलाहा कहते हैं वहाँ कभी कभी अपनेको कोरी भी कह गये हैं^१। ऐसा जान पड़ता है कि यद्यपि कबीरदासके युगमें जुलाहोंने मुसलमानी धर्म ग्रहण कर लिया था पर साधारण जनतामें वे तब भी कोरी नामसे परिचित थे। कबीरदासने बुनाईके रूपकों और उलटबॉसियोंमें कई जगह 'जुलाहा' के स्थानपर 'कोरी' नाम लिया है। आजकल कोरियोंमेंसे बहुतोंने कबीरपंथ स्वीकार कर लिया है, पर बहुत-से हिन्दू विचारोंके कट्टर अनुयायी भी हैं। आजकल इनमें उच्च श्रेणीके हिन्दुओंकी आचार निग्रहे अनुकरणकी प्रवृत्ति जोरोपर पाई जाती है। किन्तु यह सब होते हुए भी प्रस्तुत लेखक यह नहीं मानता कि कोरियोंका ही मुसलमान संस्करण जुलाहा है। अब तक उपर्युक्त अनुमानका पोषक न तो कोई सामाजिक कारण बताया गया है, न वैज्ञानिक नाप जोख। इसलिये कोरियों और जुलाहोंको एक श्रेणीकी दो जातियाँ मान लेनेका कोई प्रमाण नहीं है।

कबीरदासकी वाणियोंसे जान पड़ता है कि मुसलमान होनेके बाद न तो जुलाहा जाति अपने पूर्व संस्कारोंसे एकदम मुक्त हो सकी थी और न उसकी सामाजिक मर्यादा बहुत ऊँची हो सकी थी। यह दूसरी बात विचारणीय है। रिजलीके जो अनुमान ऊपर दिये गये हैं उनमें एक यह है कि सामाजिक मर्यादाकी उन्नतिके लिये इस जातिने समूह रूपमें धर्मान्तर ग्रहण किया होगा। समूहरूपमें धर्मान्तर ग्रहण करनेके विषयमें कोई सन्देह नहीं है पर साधारणतः इस देशके निचली जातिके लोग उस कारणसे धर्मान्तर ग्रहण करते नहीं देखे

जाते। नीचीसे नीची श्रेणीका हिन्दू अपनेको विधर्मीसे उत्तम जातिका समानता है और कबीरकी गवाहीपर तो हम निश्चित रूपसे कह सकते हैं कि न तो लोककी दृष्टिमें और न अपने आपकी ही दृष्टिमें जुलाहा जाति उच्चतर सामाजिक मर्यादा पा सकती थी। आज भी जुलाहोंके संपन्धमे जो लोकोक्तियाँ और किरसे कहानियाँ आदि प्रचलित हैं वे यह सिद्ध करती हैं कि राव मिलाकर यह जाति आज भी साधारण जनताकी दृष्टिमें ऊँची नहीं उठ सकी। शत्रु रिजली रागने भी अपनी पुस्तकमें ऐसी लोकोक्तियोंका मनोरञ्जक सग्रह किया है। कबीरदासने जुलाहोंकी जातिको कमीनी जाति कहा है^१ और यह भी बताया है कि उन दिनों भी यह जाति जन साधारणमें उपहास और मजाककी पात्र थी। साधारणतः मूर्खतासम्बन्धी कहानियोंका एक बहुत बड़ा अंश सारे भारतवर्षमें जुलाहोंसे भी बना है।

अब प्रश्न यह कि इतना बड़ा जनसमूह एक ही साथ मुरालमान क्यों हो गया ? सामाजिक मर्यादाकी उन्नतिवाली बात तो कबीरकी अपनी गवाहीसे ही परास्त हो जाती है। इस प्रश्नको जरा विचारपूर्वक जाँच करनेकी चेष्टा की जाय। एक विचित्र बात यह है कि अधिकांश वयनजीवी जातियोंमें यह एक उद्वेग-योग्य विशेषता पाई जाती है कि वे अपने आपको उसी सामाजिक स्तरमें रखनेको प्रयत्न नहीं हैं जिसमें साधारणतः उन्हें रखा गया है। ये लोग अपनी उत्पत्ति और इतिहास अलगसे बताया करते हैं और अपनी वंशगत श्रेष्ठताका दावा करते हैं। कभी कभी वे अपनेको ब्राह्मण भी कहते हैं। इस प्रकार तामिल और तंजौर प्रान्तकी पट्टन्नकर जाति (जो गुजरात-काठियावाड़की आदिम आध्यासी होनेके कारण 'सौराष्ट्रक' भी कहलाती है) अपनेको ब्राह्मण कहती हैं और अपनी धारण करती तथा आर्यगर आदि पदवियोंका व्यवहार करती हैं^२। पटवेगर जातिकी चर्चा पहले ही हो गई है। दक्षिणात्यके साले भी अपनेको ब्राह्मण कहने और शास्त्री आदि पदवियों धारण करने लगे हैं। ब्राह्मणोंकी भाँति इनकी शाराएँ

ओर गोत्र भी हैं। शायद ही किसी अन्य जातिमें अपनी वर्तमान सामाजिक मर्यादाके विषयमें ऐसा तीव्र असन्तोष हो जैसा कि वयनजीवी जातियोंमें पाया जाता है। ऐसा जान पड़ता है, किमी कालमें यह पेशा उत्तम गिना जाता था और किसी अज्ञात कारणसे इस पेशेके लोग अपनी ऊंची मर्यादासे अध पतित हुए हैं और इनके भीतर उनकी पुरानी महिमाके जो स्मरण बचे रहे हैं वे ही उन्हें अरान्तुष्ट बनाये हुए हैं। सम्भवन इस देशमें ब्राह्मण-श्रेष्ठता प्रतिष्ठित होनेके पूर्व इन वाईस वयनजीवी जातियोंमेंसे कई जैन-बौद्धादि ब्राह्मणोत्तर धर्मोंमें उन्नत स्थानकी अधिकारिणी रही होंगी।

बगाल-बिहारकी 'शराक' जाति तोतियोंकी ही एक शाखा है। इनके विषयमें हालहीमें एक अत्यन्त मनोरंजक तथ्यका रहस्योद्घाटन हुआ है। ब्रह्मवैवर्त पुराणके अनुसार 'शराक' जातिकी उत्पत्ति जुलाहा पिता कुविन्द (ताँती) मातासे हुई है। परन्तु आधुनिक खोजोंमें पता चला है कि ये शराक असलमें श्रावकोंके अर्थात् जैनियोंके भद्राशेष हैं जो अवस्था दुर्विपाकसे समाजके निचले स्तरमें डाल दिये गये हैं। अब भी इनके सामाजिक आचारोंमें बहुत कुछ जैन आचार रह ही गये हैं। अब फिरसे जैन मुनिगोंने इनकी ओर ध्यान देना शुरू किया है।

शराक (शराक=श्रावक) जातिके इस रहस्योद्घाटनपरसे यह अनुमान पुष्ट होता है कि अन्यान्य वयनजीवियोंकी वर्तमान अवस्थाका कारण उनका ब्राह्मणोत्तर विद्रासका आश्रय होना चाहिए। शायद इन्होंने झुठ झूठमें ब्राह्मण-धर्मका जड़स्त विरोध किया होगा। विरोधकी मात्राका कुछ अनुमान तो करीरके पदोंसे ही हो जाता है।

इच्छा प्रकट की, तो गणना-लेखक ब्राह्मण कर्मचारीने कहा था कि मैं अपना हाथ कटा देना अच्छा समझेगा, पर 'जुगी' को 'योगी' और इनकी स्त्रियोंको 'ठवी' नहीं लिख सकूँगा। आजकल इन योगियोंकी हठ संघटित राभा है जो जोगियोंके सबधम अच्छी जानकारी संग्रह कर रही है। ये लोग अपनेको 'योगी ब्राह्मण' भी कहने लगे हैं। इस प्रकारकी योगी जातियाँ बिहारमें भी पाई जाती हैं और युक्त प्रान्तमें भी किसी जमानेमें थीं। आचार्य क्षितिभोहन सेन महाशयने अपने 'भारतवर्षमें जाति भेद' नामक ग्रन्थमें लिखा है (पृ० १४४) कि "धगालके युगी (जुगी) या नाथ लोग पहले तो वेद-स्मृतिशासित हिन्दू ही नहीं थे। नाथ-धर्म एक स्वतन्त्र और पुराना धर्म है। मध्य युगमें इनके अतिक्रम वाध्य होकर मुसलमान हो गये थे। ये ही जुलाहे हुए। ये स्वयं अपना पौरोहित्य किया करते थे। बादमें उन लोगोंने, जो पुरोहितका काम करते थे, जनेऊ पहनना शुरू किया। इससे समाजमें एक जबरदस्त आन्दोलन हुआ। टिपरा जिलेके कृष्णचन्द्र दलालने जनेऊ पहनेका आन्दोलन किया था। .. अथ इनमें कितने ही बाहर जाकर 'पण्डित' 'शर्मा' और 'उपाध्याय' बन कर बाकायदा ब्राह्मण बन गये हैं। ऐसी कई घटनाये भे व्यक्तिकत रूपसे जानता हूँ।"

कलकत्ता विश्वविद्यालयने 'गोपीचन्देर गान' नामक एक महत्त्वपूर्ण पुस्तक प्रकाशित की है। इसके दूसरे भागकी भूमिकामें (पृ० ३६-७) सापादकने लिखा है कि, "योगियोंका पूर्व प्रभाव अब कुछ भी नहीं रह गया है। ये लोग क्रमशः विशुद्ध हिन्दुत्वकी ओर झुके आ रहे हैं और जीविका चलानेके लिये उन्हें कपड़ा बुनना, चूना बेचना और अन्याय व्यवसाय आरंभ किये हैं। इनकी उत्पत्तिके सम्बन्धमें नाना भौतिकी किंवदन्तियाँ प्रचलित हैं। शायद ये नाना जातिके मिश्रणसे बने हुए किसी धर्म सम्प्रदायके भग्नावशेष हैं। आज भी रागपुर जिलेके योगियोंके परम उपास्य देवता 'धर्म' ही हैं। इनके रमणीय महा पुस्तक हैं गोरखनाथ, धीरनाथ, छायानाथ और रघुनाथ आदि। ये कार्तिक और वैशाख मासमें भीख माँगकर चावल संग्रह करते और उससे 'धर्म' देवताकी पूजा करते हैं। इस पूजामें हंस और कबूतर वगैरः उत्सर्ग तो किये जाते हैं पर भारे नहा जाते। .. 'धर्म' की कोई मूर्ति नहीं बनाई जाती। इनके गुफ और पुरोहित ब्राह्मण नहीं होते बल्कि इनकी अपनी ही जातिके आदमी होते हैं। पुरोहितको 'अधिकारी' कहते हैं। स्त्रियोंको पूजाके लिये अधिकारीकी मध्यस्थता जरूरी

मुसलमान और ह और योगी और हे क्योंकि योगी या जोगी गोररा गोररा करता है, हिन्दू राम राम उच्चारता है और मुसलमान खुदा खुदा कहा करता है^१ ।

यह स्पष्ट रूपसे विचार कर लेना चाहिए कि यहो हिन्दू, जोगी और मुसलमानसे कबीरदासका क्या मतलब रहा होगा । जहाँ जहाँ कबीरदासने हिन्दू शब्दका व्यवहार किया है वहाँ वहाँ निम्नलिखित तीन शब्दोंमेंसे तीनों, दो या एकका मतलब रहता है । ये तीन बातें हैं वेद, ब्राह्मण और पौराणिक मत । इन तीनोंको माननेवालेको ही कबीरदाम 'हिन्दू' कहते हैं । मुसलमान शब्दकी व्याख्या करनेकी जरूरत नहीं । इस शब्दसे कबीरदास हू-य-हू वही अर्थ लेते हैं जो सदासे लिया जाता रहा है । 'हिन्दू' शब्दका व्यवहार आजकल उन सभी धर्म-मतोंके लिए होने लगा है जो भारतवर्षमें उत्पन्न हुए हैं और जिनके अनुयायी अपनको अहिन्दू नहीं कहते । कबीरदास इस शब्दका यह अर्थ नहीं लेते जान पवते ।

'योगी' शब्द और भी अस्पष्ट है । योग-क्रिया करनेवालेको योगी कहत हं । इनके विषयमें हम आगे विस्तार-पूर्वक चर्चा करनेका अवसर पायेगे । हिन्दू लोग ब्राह्मणको भ्रष्ट और पूज्य मानते हैं । सन्यासी और योगी भी उनके लिए पूज्य हैं । किन्तु आश्रम-भ्रष्ट योगी और सन्यासी हिन्दू समाजमें बहुत निकृष्ट समझे जाते हैं । यदि कोई सन्यासी फिरसे गृहस्थाश्रममें प्रविष्ट हो जाय तो उसकी सन्तति अस्पृश्य हो जाती है । इस देशके हर हिस्सेमें भ्रष्ट सन्यासियोंसे बनी हुई जातियों पाई जाती हैं । उत्तर भारतकी गोसाईं, वैरागी, अतीत, साधु, जोगी और फकीर जातियों तथा दक्षिण भारतकी आपडी, दासरी और पानिसरन जातियों ऐसी ही हैं । जत तक सन्यासी अपने सन्यासाश्रममें होता है वह हिन्दूका पूज्य होता है, पर घरवारी होकर वह उसकी आँखोंमें गिरकर भ्रष्ट हो जाता है । घरवारी सन्यासियोंकी सततिसे जो जातियाँ बनती हैं वे समाजके निचले स्तरमें चली जाती हैं । इस लिये सातक योगी और गृहस्थ जातिके योगीमें बड़ा भेद है । योगी जाति अर्थात् आश्रमभ्रष्ट योगियोंकी सन्तति न तो किसी आश्रम-व्यवस्थाके अन्तर्गत आती है और न वर्ण-व्यवस्थाके । आजकल इन जातियोंमेंसे कई अपनेको 'ब्राह्मण' कहने

^१ जोगी गोरख गोरस मेरे । हिन्दू राम नाम उच्चर ।

मुसलमान कहै एक खुदाह । कबीरकी स्वामी घटि घटि रखो समाह ॥

लगी है। कइयोंने तो अपना दावा ब्राह्मणत्वके भी ऊपर उठा दिया है। अतीत लोग अपनेको ब्रह्माके मस्तकगे उत्पन्न कहते हैं और इसपरसे यह तर्क और उपस्थित करते हैं कि वे ब्राह्मणसे ऊँचे हैं क्योंकि ब्राह्मण तो ब्रह्माके मुखसे ही उत्पन्न हैं, और हम मस्तकसे। मस्तक निस्पन्देह मुखसे ऊँचा है। वस्तुतः ये जातियो एक जमानेमें आश्रमभ्रष्ट होनेके कारण वर्णाश्रम-व्यवस्थाके बाहर पडनी थी। सर्वप्रासी हिन्दू जातिने उन्हें अब सम्पूर्ण रूपसे आत्मसात् कर लिया है।

परन्तु इन आश्रम-भ्रष्ट जातियोमेंसे अधिकांश अब भी भेष धारण करती हैं, भिक्षापर निर्वाह करती हैं और अनेकानेक सामाजिक कृत्योंमें गृहस्थ-वर्गकी विधिके नदले सन्यासियोंमें विहित विविका अनुष्ठान करती हैं। बहुतेका मृतक-संस्कार नहीं होता और सन्यासियोंकी भौति समाधि दी जाती है। ऊपर हमने देखा है कि बगालमें योगियोंको कहीं तो समाधि दी जाती है (अर्थात् शवको गाड़ दिया जाता है) और कहीं कहीं उनका अग्नि-संस्कार भी किया जाता है (अर्थात् गृहस्थ हिन्दुओंकी भौति शवको जलाया जाता है।) मेरे एक मित्र पूर्व बगालके निवासी हैं। उन्होंने बताया है कि त्रिपुरा जिलेके योगियोंको पहले अग्निदाह करते हैं और फिर समाधि भी दे देते हैं अर्थात् मिट्टीमें गाड़ भी देते हैं। कबीरदासके विषयमें प्रसिद्ध है कि उनकी गृह्युके बाद कुछ फूल बच रहे थे तिनमेंसे आधेको हिन्दुओंने जलाया और आधेको मुसलमानोंने गाड़ दिया। कई पंडितोंने इस बातको करामाती किंवदन्ती कह कर उड़ा दिया है, परा मेरा अनुमान है कि सचमुच ही कबीरदासको (त्रिपुरा जिलेके वर्तमान योगियोंकी भांति) समाधि भी दी गई होगी और उनका अग्नि-संस्कार भी किया गया होगा। यदि यह अनुमान सत्य है तो दृढताके साथ ही कहा जा सकता है कि कबीरदास जिस जुलाहा जातिमें पालित हुए वे वह एकाध पुरत पहलेके योगी जैसी किसी आश्रम-भ्रष्ट जातिसे मुसलमान हुई थी या अभी होनेकी राहमें थी।

जोगी जातिका सम्बन्ध नाथ-पंथसे है। जान पड़ता है कबीरके वंशमें भी यह नाथ-पंथी संस्कार पूरी मात्रामें थे। यदि नाथ पंथी सिद्धान्तोंकी जानकारी न हो, तो कबीरकी वाणियोंको समझ सकना भी मुश्किल है।

आजसे कई सौ वर्ष पहलेकी जोगी जातिका जो विवरण उपलब्ध हुआ है उससे भी जान पड़ता है कि वे उन दिनों वेद स्मृति-शासित हिन्दू समाजसे बाहर थे और कपडा बुनने और बेचनेका व्यवसाय किया करते थे। श्री अब्दुल करीम

साहबने आजसे लगभग ५-६ सौ वर्ष पहलेकी लिखी बताई जानेवाली 'गोरक्ष विजय' नामकी प्राचीन बंगाली पुस्तक सम्पादन किया है। यह पुस्तक शेफ फेजुल्लाह नामक एक मुसमान बंगाली कृषिकी लिखी हुई है। इसमें कदली-देशके प्रसगमें एक जोगिन (अर्थात् जोगी जातिकी स्त्री) के द्वारा गोरखनाथको भुलावा देनेके प्रसगमें इस प्रकार कहलाया गया है, "तुम जोगी हो, जोगीके घर जाओगे और अन्न जल पाकर तृप्त होगे, इसमें भला सोचना विचारना क्या है? तुम जिस जाति और गोत्रके हो मैं भी उसी जाति-गोत्रकी हूँ, फिर मेरे यहाँ चलनेमें श्रेय क्या है? तुम बलिष्ठ और युक्त योगी हो, मे जवान जोगिन हूँ। फिर क्यों न हम अपना व्यवहार शुरू कर दे, ज्यों हम किसीकी परवा करने जायें? मैं रात-दिन तुम्हारी सेवा करूँगी और अपना-पराया कुछ भी भेद न रखूँगी। मैं चिकना सूत कात दूँगी, तुम उसकी महीन धोती बुनोगे ओर हाटमें बेचने ले जाओगे। इस प्रकार सम्पत्ति दिन दिन बढ़ती रहेगी और तुम्हारी श्लोकी और कंधामें कंठायें नहीं अँटेगी।" इमसे सिद्ध होता है कि बाजसे ५-६ सौ वर्ष पहले भारतवर्षकी पूर्वी सीमापर जो जोगी थे, वे घरवारी हो चुक थे और सूत कातने और बन्न बुननेका कार्य करने लगे थे और अपनी पृथक् जाति और गोत्रमें विश्राम करने लगे थे। इसी पुस्तकसे यह भी सिद्ध किया सम्ता है कि मृत्युके बाद उनका अग्नि गम्भार नहीं होता था बल्कि समाधि दी जाती थी।

—गोरक्षविजय (कलकत्ता १३०४ सन्) पृ० ६५७—

यह आश्चर्यकी बात ही कही जानी चाहिये कि योगियों और नाथ-पयियोंके मध्ययुगीन आचार-विचारपर प्रकाश डालनेवाली जितनी भी पोथियों अब तक आविष्कृत हुई हैं, उनमेंकी अधिकांश मुसलमान कवियोंकी लिखी हुई हैं। “ अली राजाका ‘ ज्ञानसागर ’ सैयद सुलतानका ‘ ज्ञानप्रदीप ’ और ‘ ज्ञान-चौतीसा, ’ मुहम्मद शफीका ‘ सुर रुदिल, ’ मुरशिदका ‘ बारामास्या ’ (बार-मासा), ‘ योग कलन्दर ’ और ‘ सत्यज्ञानप्रदीप ’ के समान कोई प्रय हिंदू कवियोंने लिखा हो, ऐसा हमारा जाना हुआ नहीं है। ” अनुमान है कि ये कवि-गण कनीर दासकी भोति ही इसी प्रकारकी किसी जातिके धर्मान्तरित वंशमें उत्पन्न हुए थे। हम और भी आगे बढ़ कर कहना चाहते हैं कि कनीर, दादू, रजब, कुतबन, जायसी, नूर महम्मद, फाजिलशाह आदि हिंदीके कवियोंकी रचनाये इसी रोशनीमें विवेचित होनी चाहिये। इन सभी कवियोंकी रचनाओंकी चर्चा किसी न किसी बहाने आ ही जाती है।

ऊपरकी विवेचनाका निष्कर्ष यह हुआ कि

(१) आजकी वयनजीवी जातियोंमेंसे अधिकांश किसी समय ब्राह्मणश्रेष्ठताको स्वीकार नहीं करती थी।

(२) जोगी नामक आश्रम अष्ट घरबारियोंकी एक जाति सारे उत्तर और पूर्य भारतमें फली थी। ये नाथ-पन्थी थे, ऋषडा जुनकर और सूत कालकर गा गोरगनाथ और भरथरीके नामपर भीख भोगकर जीविका चलाया करते थे।

(३) इनमें निराकार भावकी उपासना प्रचलित थी, जातिभेद और तादाण श्रेष्ठताके प्रति इनकी कोई सहानुभूति नहीं थी, आर न अवतारवादमें ही कोई आस्था थी।

(४) आसपासके बृहत्तर हिन्दू-मजाजकी दृष्टिमें ये नीच और अपृश्य थे।

(५) मुसलमानोंके आनेके बाद ये धीरे धीरे मुसलमान होते रहे।

(६) पंजाब, युक्तप्रदेश, बिहार और बंगालमें इनकी कई बस्तियोंने सामूहिक रूपसे मुसलमानी धर्म ग्रहण किया था।

(७) कबीरदास इन्हीं नव-धर्मान्तरित लोगोंमें पालित हुए थे।

इनमें जो तीसरा निष्कर्ष है वह बहुत महत्त्वपूर्ण है। हमने इस अध्यायमें उसके विषयमें अधिक प्रमाण नहीं उपस्थित किये हैं। अगले अध्यायमें हम जो कुछ कहने जा रहे हैं उससे इस तृतीय निष्कर्षका पूरा समर्थन हो जायगा।

परन्तु आगे हम जो कुछ कहने जा रहे हैं उसके लिये पद पदपर प्रमाण ही जरात होगी। कबीरदासके नामपर जो वाणियों मिलती हैं उनका कोई हिसाब नहीं है। कबीरपंथी लोगोंका विश्वास है कि सद्गुरुकी वाणी अनन्त है और सद्गुरु अर्थात् कबीरदास। यह मान लेना हमारे बशके बाहर है। यह तो गरीब मानत हैं कि कबीरदासने 'मसि कागद छूआ नहीं' था। इनके समस्त उपदेश मौखिक ही हुआ करते थे। शिष्योंने ही उसे लिखा होगा, इसमें भी कोई सन्देह नहीं। खोजबत अब तक कबीरदासके नामपर छह दर्जनके आसपास पुस्तक मिली है। इनमेंसे कई तो निरसन्देह उनकी लिखी हुई नहीं हैं और कई अन्य पुस्तकोंके भीतर

१ ख० रामदास गोडने अपनी पुस्तक 'हिन्दुत्व' सं ७१ पुस्तकालय एक लम्बी सूची दी है (पृ० ७३४) और प्रा० रामकुमार वर्माने अपने 'हिन्दी साहित्यके आलोचनात्मक इतिहास' में खोजकी रिपोर्टोंके आधारपर ६१ पुस्तकालय सूची दी है। गोउजीकी सूचीमें निम्नजान, हिंडोल और अलिफनामा (एक जगह अरिफ नामा) ये दो दो बार आये हैं। इस प्रकार उनकी सूचीमें वस्तुतः ६८ ही ग्रन्थ हैं। दोनों सूचीयोंके सामान्य नाम ये हैं। अठपहरा, अनुरागसागर, अमर मूल, अर्जनामा, अलिफनामा, अक्षर खडकी रमैनी, अक्षर

इनके सिवा प्रो० वर्माने मृत्नीमे ये नाम ओर ह बल्लकी पेज, भापो खड, चातीस, मुहम्मद बोध, मगल शब्द, गुण राग काकी ओर राग फगुआ, शब्द राग गार्गी और राग भैरव, सुरानि सवात्, जान चातीसी।

हमने अपनी नई पुस्तक 'कबीरपन्थी साहित्य' में इन पुस्तकोंकी जांच की है। इनमेंसे अधिकांश पुस्तकें निश्चितरूपसे दूसरोंकी लिखी हुई हैं।

अल्पकालम अनुरागसागरमें ८६ पद्योंकी उद्भि हो गई। हम आगे चलकर देखेंगे कि कबीर साहबके नामपर मुहम्मद, गोरखनाथ, नानक आदिके नाम जो गोष्ठियाँ चलती हैं उनके वक्तव्य-विषय वादकी साम्प्रदायिक कल्पनाओंके आधार-पर बना लिये हैं। कई ग्रन्थोंमें सम्प्रदाय और भेषकी महिमा बखानी गई है^१। यह बात सम्पूर्ण अविश्वसनीय जान पड़ती है। कबीरदासने आजीवन संप्रदायवाद, बाह्याचार और बाहरी भेषभावपर कठोरतम आघात किया था। वहीं कबीर अचानक भेष भाव और छापा तिलककी महिमा बगानने लगेंगे, गह बात कुछ जँचती नहीं मालूम देती। इसीलिए कबीरदासके नामपर प्रचलित इन प्रयोगोंकी प्रामाणिकता सदेहका ही विषय है। श्रीविश्वनाथसिंहजू देवने अपनी टीकाके अंतमें कबीरदासका कहा जानेवाला एक पद उद्धृत किया है जिसमें कहा गया है कि बीजकका मत ही ग्राह्य है^२। यह पद स्वयं सवेहात्मक है। क्योंकि इसको सचमुच कबीरकी वाणी माननेके पहले यह मान लेना होगा कि कबीरकी जीवितावस्थामें ही बहुतसे जाली ग्रथ बच गये होंगे, और जालका जगल इतना बढ गया रहा होगा कि उसके निराकरणके लिये कबीरदासको स्वयं उद्योगी होकर वह पद लिखना पड़ा। जो हो, यह पद है महत्त्वपूर्ण। क्योंकि इससे कबीरदासका अपना मत प्रकट होता हो या नहीं

पर इतना निश्चिन हमसे प्रकट हो जाता है कि काफ़ी प्राचीन कालसे कबीरके नाम-पर चलनेवाले ग्रन्थ सदैवही दृष्टिसे देखे जाते रहे हें। महाराज विश्वनाथसिंहजूके अनुगार स्वयं बीजकके प्रियम परम्परा है कि भगवानदास नामक किंगी शिष्यने कबीरदासकी जीवितारम्भमे ही बीचकका अपहरण किया था। ले भागनेके कारण ही भगवानदास 'भगूदारा' बन गया। कहते हैं, इम शिष्यने बीचकको विकृत भी किया था। कहा गया है कि स्वयं कबीरदासने ही 'वधेलश-विस्तार' में भगूदाराकी इस करतूतकी चर्चा की है^१। परन्तु कबीरदासके नामपर पाये जानेवाले इस कथनकी भाषा ओर युक्ति सभी बतलाते हैं कि यह वादकी सांप्रदायिक होबके कारण लिखा गया है। मोभाग्यवश महात्मा भगवानदासकी शिष्य-परम्परा अब भी जीवित है और छपरा (बिहार) जिलेका बनौती मठ उसका मुख्य स्थान है।

- १ भागूदाराकी खबरि जनाई । ले चरणामृत साधु पियाई ॥
कोऊ आप कह कालिजर गयऊ । बीजक ग्रन्थ चोराइ ले गयऊ ।
सतगुरु कह वह निशुरा पथी । काय भयो ल बीजक ग्रन्थी ।

इन लोगोंने अपना बीजर प्रकृति में फेर दिया है। जो हो, मेरी धारणा है कि बीजकमें कुछ अंश अग्रय वादके हैं। फहरा गिरहुकी आदिर्ग लिहारी भाषाक बहुत प्रयोग हैं। कहा जाता है कि बीजक बहुत दिनों तक छपरा जिलेके भनोती मठमें पड़ा रहा। बादमें उसे प्रचारित किया गया। अपनी नई पुस्तक 'बीरपथी साहित्य' में मैंने इसपर विचार किया है।

जो हो, बीजर फरीदासके मतोंका पुराना और प्रामाणिक समूह है, इसमें मन्देह नहीं। एक ध्यान देने योग्य बात इसमें यह है कि बीजरक ८४ रमैनिया हैं। रमैनियों चौपाई छंदमें लिखी गई है। इनमें कुछ रमैनिया ऐसी हैं जिनके अन्तमें एक एक सारी उद्धृत की गई है। सारी उद्धृत करनेका अर्थ यह होता है कि कोई दूसरा आदमी माने इन रमैनियोंको लिख रहा है और इस रमैनी-रूप व्याख्याके प्रमाणमें कबीरकी सारी या गवाही पेश कर रहा है। गुरुजी 'साखी' (या साखी) करके किसी बातको कहनेकी प्रथा बहुत पुरानी है। जालंधर-नाथके शिष्य कृष्णपाद (कानपा)ने कहा है 'साखि करव नालंधरि पाए' अर्थात् 'बहुत जोड़ी सी रमैनियों (न० ३, २८, ३२, ४२, ५६, ६२, ७०, ८०) ऐसी हैं जिनके अन्तमें साखियों नहीं हैं। परन्तु इस प्रकार सारी उद्धृत करनेका क्या अर्थ हो सकता है ? इस पुस्तकमें मैंने बीजरको निस्संकोच प्रमाण-रूपमें व्यवहार किया है परन्तु बीजर ही इस बातका प्रमाण है कि साखियोंको सबसे अधिक प्रामाणिक समझना चाहिये, क्योंकि स्वयं बीजरने ही रमैनियोंकी प्रामाणिकताके लिये साखियोंका हवाला दिया है। इसीलिये कबीरद्वाराके सिद्धान्तोंकी जानकारीका सबसे उत्तम साधन साखियों हैं।

इवर बाबू श्यामसुन्दरदासजीने काशी नागरी-प्रचारिणी-सभासे कबीर-ग्रन्थावली नामक एक महत्त्वपूर्ण पुस्तक प्रकाशित कराई है। कहा गया है कि इसका आधार एक बहुत पुरानी प्रति है जो स० १५६१ ई० में लिखी गई थी। परम्परासे प्रसिद्ध है कि कबीरदासका आविर्भाव सिकन्दर लोदीके जमानेमें हुआ था। उन्होंने स्वामी रामानन्दसे वचनमें ही दीक्षा ली थी और मरती नार मगहरको चले गये थे। मगहरमें उनके तिरोहित होनेका काल स० १५७५ की अगहन सुदी एकादशी कहा जाता है। सगी बातोंका विचार करके बाबू श्यामसुन्दर-दासजीको यही सम्भव जान पड़ा है कि कबीरदासजीका जन्म ० १४५६ में और मृत्यु सवत् १५७५ में हुई होगी। अर्थात् कबीर-ग्रन्थावलीका प्रकाशन जिस प्रतिके आधारपर हुआ है वह कबीरदासकी मृत्युके १४ वर्ष पहलेकी लिखी हुई है। यदि यह बात सत्य है तो पुस्तककी प्रामाणिकता बहुत बढ जाती है। यद्यपि १४ वर्षकी अवधि कम नहीं होती और कबीरदासने निश्चय ही इन चौदह वर्षोंमें और बहुत-सी वाणियाँ कही होंगी जो इस सप्रहमें नहीं आ सकी होंगी और इसीलिये इस पुस्तकको एकमात्र प्रामाणिक ग्रन्थ नहीं स्वीकार किया जा सकता, तथापि इसमें जितने पद हैं वे तो निश्चय ही प्रामाणिक होंगे।

हैं। एक ही शब्दके ये दो रूप,—हिज्जे और आकार-प्रकारमे स्पष्ट ही बता रहे हैं कि ये एक हाथसे लिखे नहीं हैं। ऐसा जान पड़ता है कि अन्तिम डेढ पंक्ति किसी बुद्धिमानकी कृति है। इसीलिए मुझे इस पुस्तकके सं० १५६१ में लिखित होनेमें काफी सन्देह है, पर, इसकी प्राचीनतामें कोई गन्देह नहीं है। यह पुस्तक १५६१ सवतके उहुत बादकी लिखी हुई होनेपर भी काफी प्राचीन जान पड़ती है। फिर यह प्रति जितनी सुसपादित है वैसी ओर कोई पुस्तक नहीं। इसी लिए मैंने इस पुस्तकमें इस प्रतिको प्रमाणरूपसे बराबर व्यवहार किया है। वस्तुतः यह पुस्तक परवर्ती कालकी लिखी हुई है। सम्भवतः इसका लेखन काल अठारहवीं शताब्दीका आदि या मध्यभाग है।

कवीरदासकी वाणियोंके अनेक संग्रह प्रकाशित हुए हैं पर उनमें सबसे अच्छा सुसम्पादित संस्करण अयोध्यासिंह उपाध्याय 'हरिऔध' की 'कवीरवचनावली' है। यह भी नादी-नागरी प्रचारिणी सभाका ही प्रकाशन है। प्रयागके ग्लेवेलिडगर प्रेसने भी कवीरदासकी शब्दावली छपी है। उस शब्दावलीका द्वितीय संस्करण मेरे पास है। यह संस्करण पहले संस्करणसे बहुत कुछ भिन्न है। इन दोनों संग्रहोंका भी मैंने यथा-अवसर उपयोग किया है, पर महत्त्वपूर्ण सिद्धान्तोंके निर्णयके प्रसंगमें यथासम्भव मूल गन्वोंके उपयोग करनेकी ही चेष्टा की है।

श्री० क्षितिमोहनसेन द्वारा सम्पादित 'कवीरके पद' एक नये ढंगका प्रयास है। वे 'भक्तोंके मुँहसे' सुनकर संग्रह किये गये हैं। अपनी प्रामाणिकताके लिये उन्होंने किसी पोथीकी सुखापेक्षता नहीं रखी। परम्परासे एक मुँहसे बूरे मुँह तक आते रहनेके कारण इन पदोंकी भाषा जरूर बदल गई होगी पर इसके अन्तर्निहित भावोंकी प्रामाणिकता विश्वसनीय हो सकती है। फिर भी कोई विशेष स्वार्थके पोषक महात्माओंकी ओरसे इस पुरतकके गंभीर विचारोंको उजा देनेकी चेष्टा की गई है। कहा गया है कि इसमें पाये जानेवाले उच्च भाव किसी प्राचीन पोथीमें नहीं मिलते। इस विशेष स्वार्थके पोषक लोग भारतीय मनीषाकी न तो कोई प्रतिष्ठा देखना चाहते हैं, न आदर पाना बर्दाश्त कर

पाते हैं। मैंने जान-बूझकर उक्त सप्रहृत्ता उपयोग नहीं किया। ऐसा मैंने वसीलिये किया है कि भारतीय मनीषाको जो लोग अस्वीकार करना चाहते हैं वे सीधे ही ऐसा करे। प्राचीन और नवीन पोथियोंका झमेला खड़ा करके अपने उद्देश्य और पाठककी निर्णयात्मिका बुद्धिके बीच पर्दा खड़ा करनेका प्रयास न करे। परन्तु मैं यहाँ अत्यन्त कृतज्ञ भावसे निवेदन करना चाहता हूँ कि यद्यपि आचार्य सेनकी पुस्तकके पाठ इस पुरतकमें नहीं लिये पर उनके उपदेशोंका यथेच्छ उपयोग किया गया है। उनके साथ मेरा सम्बन्ध कुछ इतना गम्भीर है कि इस स्थानपर कृतज्ञता प्रकट करनेमें भी सकोच होता है। सच बात तो यह है कि यदि उनसे प्रेरणा न मिलती तो मैं यह पुरतक लिख ही न पाता। उनके दृष्टिकोणमें और मेरे इस पुस्तकमें व्यग्रहृत दृष्टिकोणमें जोड़ा मौलिक अन्तर है। वे सन्तोंकी वाणियोंको म्यूजियमके प्रदर्शनकी वस्तु नहीं मानते और यह बात ठीक भी है। जिसे आजकल 'एकेडेमिक' आलोचना कहते हैं वह बात कुछ म्यूजियमकी रुचिको ही उत्तेजना देती है। आचार्य सेन सन्तोंकी जीवन्त वाणीको जलती हुई मशाल कहते हैं और उनका इह विश्वास है कि ये वाणियाँ यथा समय भारतवर्षकी और ससारकी समस्याओंको सुलझायेगी। ऐसी प्राणमयी वाणीको म्यूजियममें सजाके नहीं रखा जा सकता। मुझे स्वर्गीय कविवर रवीन्द्रनाथ ठाकुरसे भी इस पुस्तकके लिखनेमें बहुत प्रेरणा मिली है और उनकी कविताओं और लेखोंको पढ़कर कबीरके भावोंको समझनेमें बड़ी सहायता मिली है। मेरा यह परम दुर्भाग्य है कि पुस्तक प्रेसमें जानेके पहले ही वे इहलोक त्याग कर गये। परन्तु परम सौभाग्य यह कि वे अपना आशिर्वाद छोड़ गये हैं जो आजीवन मुझे बल देता रहेगा।

श्री युगलानन्दजीकी 'सत्य कबीरकी साखी' का भी मैंने इस ग्रन्थमें उपयोग किया है जिसका सम्पादन स० १६०० और स० १८४२ की प्रतियोंके आधारपर किया हुआ बताया गया है। परन्तु सब मिलकर कबीरके अध्ययन करने-लायक पर्याप्त सामग्री मुझे मिली नहीं है, यह माननिक धोभ मैं पाठकोंकी सेवामें उपस्थित कर देना चाहता हूँ। मुझे नाथ, निरजन, महिमा आदि सम्प्रदायों और आसामसे लेकर कठियावाड़ तक फैले हुए त्रिभिध निर्गुणिया समाजोंका कोई प्रामाणिक विवरण प्राप्त नहीं हुआ है। इन सभी अभावों और चुटियोंको शिरसा स्वीकार करके ही मैंने कार्य आरम्भ किया है।

२—अवधूत कौन है ?

हमने ऊपर देखा है कि कबीरदास जिस वशम पालित हुए वे उगगें योग मतका काफी प्रचार था । पर इसका अर्थ यह नहीं समझना चाहिये कि स्वयं कबीरदास योगमतके उपासक थे । उनका पालन पोषण योगमतके वातावरणमें हुआ था इसीलिये उनकी युक्तियोंमें, भाषापर, तथा तर्कशैलीमें उरा मतका प्रभाव रह गया है । जब तक हम ठीक ठीक न समझ लें कि वह मत क्या था, तब तक उसके प्रभावको भी हम ठीक ठीक नहीं समझ सकेंगे । इसीलिये इस मतकी चर्चा कर लेना बहुत आवश्यक है ।

कबीरदासके पदोंमें जितने संबोधन हैं उन सबका एक न एक खास प्रयोजन है । जब उन्होंने 'अवधू या अवधूत' को पुकारा है तो यथागमन अवधूतकी ही भाषामें उनकी क्रिया-कलापकी आलोचना की है । इस प्रसंगमें उनकी युक्ति और तर्कशैली पूर्णरूपसे अवधूत-जसी रहती है । जब वे पांडित या पाठको संबोधित करते हैं तो वहाँ भी उनका उद्देश्य पाठकी ही भाषामें पठितकी ही युक्तियोंके बलपर उसके मतका निरास करना होता है । इसी तरह गुह्या, काजी आदि संबोधनोंको भी समझना चाहिए । जब वे अपने आपको या सन्तोंको संबोधित करके बोलते हैं तब वे अपना मत प्रकट करते जान पड़ते हैं । वे अपने मतके माननेवालेको ही 'सन्त' या 'साधु' कहते हैं । साधारणतः वे 'भाई' संबोधनके द्वारा साधारण जनतासे बात करते हैं और जब कभी वे 'जोगिया' को पुकार उठते हैं तो स्पष्ट ही जान पड़ता है कि इस भले आदर्शके सम्बन्धमें उनकी धारणा कुछ बहुत अच्छी नहीं थी । यह दावा किया गया है कि गुरुपरम्पराकी जानकारी रखनेवाले लोग कबीरदासके आत्म-संबोधनोंमें एक निश्चित संकेतकी बात बताया करते हैं । इस प्रकार 'हंस कबीर' से मुक्तात्मा, 'रुहदि कबीर' से लोकविशेष-निवासी ईश्वरका उपासक और 'कबीरा' या 'कबीरन' से कभी अज्ञानी तथा बंचक गुरुओका संकेत होता है (विचार०, पृ० ४०) ।

यद्यपि कबीरदास अवधूत मतको मानते नहीं तथापि अवधूतके प्रति उनकी

अज्ञान नहीं है, उसे वे काफी सम्मानके साथ ही पुकारते हैं। वे कभी कुछ उपदेश दे देते हैं, कभी कुछ वचनको ललकारते हैं, कभी उमकी साधना-पद्धतिकी व्यर्थता दिया देते हैं और कभी कभी तो कुछ ऐसी गीतें रच देते हैं जिनको अगर अवधूत रामझ सकें तो वह कबीरदासका गुरु तक बन सकता है। प्रायः ही ये उससे स या भापा या उलट-वोटियोंमें बात करते हैं। कहते हैं, ' भई अवधू, वही योगी मेरा गुरु हो सकना है जो इस बालका फंसला कर दे : एक वृक्ष है जो बिना जड़के ही खड़ा हुआ है। उसमें बिना फूलके ही फल लग गये हैं, न उमके शाखा है न पत्र, ओग फिर भी आठों दिशाओके आकाशको उमने आच्छन्न कर रखा है। इम विचित्र वृक्षके ऊपर एक पक्षी है जो बिना पैरके ही नृत्य कर रहा है, बिना हाथके ही ताल दे रहा है, बिना जीभके ही गाना गा रहा है। मजा यह कि गानजालेकी कोई रूप रेखा तो नहीं है पर सत्गुरु अगर चाह तो उसे दिखा सकत हैं। यह पक्षी मीनका मार्ग खोज रहा है। बहुत विचार करके कबीरदाम कहते हैं कि परमेश्वर अपरंपार है, उसकी इस मूर्तिकी बलिहारी है^१।

यह अवधू कौन है जो कबीरदासका गुरु तक बन सकता है और इस विचित्र पहेलीका ही क्या अर्थ है ? महाराज श्री विश्वनाथसिंहजू देवने (विश्व० पृ० २५५) इसी पदकी व्याख्या करते समय बताया है कि " वधू जाके न होइ सा' अवधू कहावै, " अर्थात् अवधू वधू हीन जीव है। स्वयं कबीरदाम किन्तु ऐसा नहीं मानते। वे अवधू योगीको जगसे न्यारा मानते हैं। वह मुद्रा, निरति, सुरति ओर सौंगी धारणा कर्ता है, नादसे धाराको खंडित नहीं करता, गगन-मंडलमें वगता है और दुनियाकी ओर देखा भी नहीं। वह चैतन्यकी चौकीपर

आरिखर यह विचित्र जीव कौन है ? राचमुच यह तीन लोकोसे न्यारा है। निश्चय ही वधू-हीन लोग ऐसे अजीब जीव नहीं होते।

भारतीय साहित्यमे यह ' अवधूत ' शब्द कई रामप्रदायोके सिद्ध आचार्योके अर्थमें व्यवहृत हुआ है। साधारणतः जागतिक द्वन्द्वोंसे अतीत, मानापमान-विवर्जित, पहुँचे हुए योगीको अवधूत कहा जाता है। यह शब्द मुख्यतया तांत्रिकों, सहजयानियों और योगियोंका है। सहजयान और बज्रयान नामक बौद्ध तांत्रिक मतोंमें ' अवधूती वृत्ति ' नामक एक विशेष प्रकारकी यौगिक-वृत्तिका उल्लेख मिलता है २।

आठवीं शताब्दीके बादसे नालंदा, विजयशिला, ओवन्तपुरी आदि विद्यायतनोंमें जो बौद्ध धर्म प्रचलित हुआ वह एक नवीन ढंगका तान्त्रिक और योगक्रियामूलक धर्म था। इस नवीन तान्त्रिक मतसे तीन प्रधान मतोंका सधान पाया गया है—सहजयान, बज्रयान, और कालदक्रयान। इन मतोंकी

अधिकांश पुस्तकें आज तिब्बती अनुवादके रूपमें ही सुरक्षित हैं। स्व० म० म० पं० हरप्रसाद शास्त्रीने चर्याचर्यविनिश्चय, दोहाकोष, अद्वयवज्रसप्रह और गुह्य-समाजतन्त्र आदि पुस्तकें प्रकाशित की हैं। सहजयान और वज्रयानमें बहुत कुछ समानता है। शास्त्रीजीने जो चर्यापद प्रकाशित कराये हैं उनमें आर्यदेव, भूसुक, कान्ह, मरह, लुई आदि आचार्याके पद हैं जिन्हें तिब्बानी साहित्यमें सिद्धाचार्य कहा गया है। ये आचार्यगण सहजावस्थाकी बात करते हैं। सहजावस्थाको प्राप्त करने पर ही साधक अवधूत होता है। कान्ह सहजरूप पद्मवनमें प्रवेश करके मधु-पानसे मत्त होनेकी बात करते हैं^१ और जोर ठेकर कहते हैं कि पचस्कन्धो या सस्कारोंके नष्ट होनेकी कुछ चिन्ता मत करो यदि तुम्हारा चित्त 'सहज-शून्य' से परिपूर्ण हो गया है^२। इसी प्रकार भूमरुपाद सहजानन्द-लीलासे ही मिलनका रहस्य समझ सकनेकी घोषणा करते हैं^३ और मरहपाद कहत हैं कि ऐ नाविक, चित्त स्थिर कर सहजके किनारे अपनी नैया चलाये जा, रस्सीसे खींचता चल, दूसरा उपाय नहीं है।^४ यह सहजावस्था बहुत कुछ वैसी है जैसी परवर्ती कालके नाथपनियोगमें प्रसिद्ध थी और जिसकी चर्चा करनेका अवसर हमें आगे मिलेगा। ये लोम बाह्य अनुष्ठानोंमें एकदम विश्राम नहीं करते थे, ब्राह्मण, याज्ञिक, त्रिदण्डी, जटाधारी और क्षपणक आदि सभीका उपहास करते थे और किसी प्रकारकी पूजा-अर्चामें विश्वास नहीं करते थे। भला ध्यान धारणासे, पूजोपचारसे और शास्त्रपाठसे कहीं मुक्ति होती है ?

इसीलिये सरहपादने अपने चित्तको समोपन करके कहा है कि 'ए मेरे चित्त, वहाँ चल कर निशाम करो जहाँ सूर्य और चन्द्रकी भी गति नहीं, जहाँ मन और पवन भी संचरित नहीं होते, जहाँ आदि भी नहीं, अन्त भी नहीं, मध्य भी नहीं, जन्म भी नहीं, मरण भी नहीं, अगना भी नहीं पराया भी नहीं—जो महासुख है, जो सहजास्या है।—

यद्यपि हम आगे चलकर देखेंगे कि इन सिद्धोंकी वाणियोसे कबीरदासकी वाणियोका सम्बन्ध है तथापि आगे जो अट विवेचना की जा रही है उसके बल-पर मेरा अनुमान है कि कबीरपर इन सिद्धोंका प्रभाव नायपन्थियोंकी मध्यस्थतामें ही पडा है। वस्तुतः जब कबीरदारा अवधूत को पुकारते हैं तो इन सिद्धाचार्योंके अधूतसे उनका रोधा अमिप्राय नहीं होता।

निर्वाण-मन्त्र (चतुर्दश पटल) में कहा गया है कि अनधूत वह है जो सब पंच तत्त्व सेवन करता हुआ वीराचारी होकर रहता है, सन्यासकी सभी विधियोंका यथोक्त पालन करता है, दण्डियोंकी भाँति अमावास्याके दिन मुण्डन न कराके लम्बे केश और जटा आदि वारण करता है, अरियमाला और रुद्राक्षको धारण करता है, दिग्म्बर होकर या क्रीपीन मात्र धारण करके रहता है और शरीरमें रक्त चन्दन और भस्मका लेप करता है ? ।

तन्त्र-ग्रन्थोमे चार प्रकारके अवधूतोकी चर्चा है—प्रह्लावधूत, शैशवधूत, भक्तावधूत और हमावधूत। हमावधूतोमे जो पूर्ण होते हैं वे परमहंस और जो अपूर्ण होते हैं वे परिव्राजक कहलाते हैं (पाणतोषिणी) परन्तु कबीरदासने न तो इतने तरहके अवधूतोकी कहीं कोई चर्चा ही की है और न ऊपर निर्वाण-तन्त्रके बताये हुए अवधूतसे उनके अवधूतकी कोई समता ही दिगाई है। 'हसा' की बात कबीरदास कहते जरूर हैं पर वे हम और अवधूतको शायद ही कहीं एक समझते हों। वे बराबर हग या पक्षी शुद्ध और मुक्त जीवात्माको ही कहते हैं। परवर्ती साम्प्रदायिक टीकाकारोंने कबीरदासके 'हरो'का धर्मदास आदि शिष्य अर्थ किया है और किसी किसी टीकाकारने ठम शब्दका 'साधु' या 'सिद्ध' अर्थ भी किया है पर ऐसे स्थलोपर उनका तात्पर्य ज्ञानमार्गी कुटीचर-गृहदक-हस-परमहंस इन भेदोसे है, तान्त्रिक या शैव 'हसावधूत' से नहीं। कबीरदासने पंचमकारसेरी अवधूतकी कोई चर्चा नहीं की।

वरनुत ऊपर जिस 'जगयै न्यारे' अवधूतकी चर्चा है वह गोरखपन्थी सिद्धयोगी है। कई जगह तो कवीरने स्पष्ट ही गोरखनाथको अवधू कहा है^१। ऊपर जिस चिलक्षण योगेश्वर अवधूतकी चर्चा भी गई है उसके लक्षण गोरखपन्थी कनकटे योगियोंके विषयमें ही पूरे उतरते हैं। यही लोग कानमें छिद्र करके वह कुण्डल धारण करते हैं जिसे मुद्रा या 'दर्शन' कहते हैं, यही दो-तीन अंगुलीकी काली सीगकी छोटी-सी सीटी गलेमें धारण करते हैं जिसे 'नाद' (श्रुतीनाद) कहते हैं, और जो सेली नामक काले ऊनी भागोंसे गुथा होता है। इनके हाथमें नारियलका एक चप्पर होता है। ये लोग गेरुआ वस्त्र और जटा धारण करते हैं, शरीरपर भभूत और ललाटपर त्रिपुण्ड धारण करते हैं, इन्हीं योगियोंको लक्ष्य करके कवीरदासनं जो कुछ कहा है उसका भाव यह है कि असली योगी वह नहीं है जो इन बाह्य वैषोंको धारण करता है, असली तो वह है जो इन बाह्य वैषोंकी कोई परवा नहीं करता, जो मनहीमें मुद्रा और चप्पर धारण करता है, मनहीमें आसन लगाता है, मनहीमें सींगी बजाता है, जो भीतरसे योग रससे परिपक्व हो गया है^२।

गोरखनाथके मतमें योगीके चिह्न मुद्रा, नाद, विभूति और आदेश बताये गये हैं। मुद्राका बड़ा माहात्म्य है। सिद्धसिद्धान्तपद्धतिमें कहा गया है कि 'सुद्' धातु मोदार्थक और 'रा' धातु दानार्थक है। ये दोनों जीवात्मा और परमात्माके वाचक हैं। इन दोनोंकी एकता प्राप्त करनेवाली यह मुद्रा है जिसके दर्शनसे देवगण प्रसन्न होते हैं और असुरगण भाग जाते हैं। यह साक्षात् कल्याण-दायिनी है। इस मुद्राको कान फाड़कर पहनाया जाता है। इरीलिये इस पवित्र मुद्राके कारण क्षुरिका या क्षुरी भी महत्त्वपूर्ण हो जाती है। इरीलिये क्षुरिकाकी महिमा वर्णनके लिये क्षुरिकोपनिषद् रचित हुई है और उस उपनिषद्में बताया

गया है कि एक बार क्षुरिकाके स्पर्शसे मनुष्य योगी हो जाता और जन्म मरण के बंधनसे मुक्त हो जाता है^१ । नादको ही अनाहद या शृंगी नामसे कहा गया है । आदेश आत्मा, परमात्मा और जीवात्मा (२) इन तीनोंकी राभूति या मिलनेको कहते हैं^२ । इस प्रकार योगियोंके सभी चिह्न असलमे आध्यात्मिक वृत्तियोंके प्रतीक मात्र हैं । परन्तु अवधूतके लिए यह सब नियम अवश्य पालनीय नहीं हैं । वह कहां भोगी होकर, कहीं त्यागी होकर, कहीं नग्न रहकर, कहीं पिशाच-सा बना हुआ, कहीं राजा होकर, कहीं आचारपरायण बन कर, सर्वमय होता हुआ भी सर्वविवर्जित होकर रह सकता है^३ । इसी भावको बतानेके लिए भर्तृहरिने कहा है कि इम अवधूत मुनिकी बाह्य क्रियाये प्रशमित हो गई हैं । वह न दुःखको दुःख समझता है न सुखको सुख । वह कहीं भूमिपर सो सकता है कहीं पलगपर, कहीं रुन्ध्या धारण कर लेना है कहीं दिव्य वसन, कहीं शाकाहारपर ही दिन गुजार देता है और कहीं मधुर भोजन पाने पर उसे भी पा लेता है^४ । किन्तु कबीरदास इस प्रकार योगमें भोगको पसन्द नहीं करते । न तो वे बाहरी भेष-भावको पसन्द करते हैं और न सर्वमय होकर सर्वविवर्जित बने रहनेके आचारको । योगी तो वह है जो न भीख माँगे, न भूखा सोये, न झोली-पत्र और बटुआ रखे, न अनहद नादके बजानेसे विरत हो, पंच जनेकी जमात (गृहस्थी) का पालन भी करे और ससारसे मुक्ति पानेकी

यद्यपि इन योगियोंके सप्रदायक सिद्धोक्तो ही कबीरद्वारा आभूत होते हैं तथापि वे साधारण योगी और अवधूतके फर्कको बराबर याद रखते हैं । साधारण योगीके प्रति उनके मनमें वैसा आदरका भाव नहीं है जसा आभूतके लिये होता है । कभी कभी उन्होंने स्वयं भाषाम गोपीको और अवधूतको भिन्न रूपमें याद किया है । (तुलना कीजिये — क० प्र०, परिशिष्ट, पद १२६, पृ० २०१) ।

गोरखनाथके योगमार्गमें गुरुकी बड़ी महिमा गाई गई है । गुरु ही समस्त
 श्रेयोका मूल है और एकमात्र अवधूत ही गुरुपदका अधिकारी हो सकता है ।
 वह अवधूत जिसके वाक्य-वाक्यमें वेद निवास करते हैं, पदपदमें तीर्थ बनते हैं,
 प्रत्येक दृष्टिमें कैवल्य या मोक्ष विराजमान होता है, जिसके एक हाथमें त्याग है
 और दूसरे हाथमें भोग और फिर भी जो त्याग और भोग दोनोंमें अलित है ।^१
 और जैसा कि सूतसहितामें कहा गया है, वह वर्णाश्रमने परे है और समस्त
 गुरुओंका साक्षात् गुरु है, न उससे कोई बड़ा है और न बराबर ।^२ इस
 प्रकारके पक्षपातविनिर्मुक्त योगीश्वरको ही 'नाथ-पद' की प्राप्ति होती है ।

'पक्षपातरहित होने' से मतलब ब्राह्मणत्व आदि आश्रमाभिमानसे रहित
 होनेसे है । गीतामें भगवान्ने कहा है कि मने गुण कर्मविभागसे वर्णोंकी सृष्टि की
 है । इसपरसे गोरखपन्थी लोगोंका कहना है कि सभी वर्ण गुण मूलक हुए और
 गुणमूलक अभिमानके रहते हुए ब्रह्म-प्राप्ति असम्भव है । आश्रमोंको भी ये लोग
 गुणमूलक ही मानते हैं इसीलिये आश्रमाभिमानको भी मुक्तिमें बाधक मानते
 हैं । इस प्रकार गुणमय वर्ण और गुणमय आश्रमका अभिमान रखनेवालेको गुरु

यद्यपि इन योगियोंमें पुरुषार्थ सुक्ति ही है पर यह द्वैत ओर अद्वैतके द्वन्द्वसे वे साधारण योगी-भूत गीतामें कहा गया है कि कुछ लोग अद्वैतको चाहते हैं, कुछ प्रति उनके, पर इन दोनोंमें परे, —द्वैत-विलक्षण तत्त्वाको कोई नहीं जानता । वही जन्म-मरण कहलाता है । यदि सर्वगत देव स्थिर पूर्ण और निरन्तर है तो तब यह द्वैत-विलक्षण महागोह नहीं है^१ ? कबीरदासने कुछ इसी भावसे मिलता जुलता पद कहा है^२ । प्रसिद्ध है कि एक बार काशीके पंडितोंमें द्वैत ओर अद्वैत तत्त्वाका शास्त्रार्थ बहुत दिनोत्तर चलता रहा । जब किसी शिष्यने कबीर साहबका मत पूछा तो उन्होंने जवाबमें शिष्यसे ही कई प्रश्न किये । शिष्यने जो कुछ उत्तर दिया उसका सार मर्म यह था कि विद्यमान पंडितोंमें इस विषयमें कोई मतभेद नहीं है कि भगवान् रूप, राम गंध व स्पर्शसे परे हैं, गुणों और क्रियाओंके अतीत हैं, वाक्य और मनके अगोचर हैं । कबीरदासने इसपर जवाब दिया कि भला उन लड़केवाले पंडितोंसे पूछो कि भगवान् रूपसे निकल गया, रससे अतीत हो गया, गुणोंके ऊपर उठ गया, क्रियाओंकी पहुँचक बाहर हो रहा वह अन्तर्ग आकर सख्यामें अटक जायगा ? जो सबसे परे है वह क्या सख्याके परे नहीं हो सकता ? यह कबीरका द्वैत-द्वैत-विलक्षण समतत्त्ववाद है । साधकगणोंके लोकोपकार इस द्वैत-द्वैत-विलक्षण समतत्त्ववादका समर्पण करते हैं ।^३ इस विषयमें कबीरदासका उनसे सीखा सम्बन्ध है । जिस स्वयं-ज्योति

सच्चिदानन्द मूर्ति-की उपासना ये योगेश्वर लोग करते हैं वह ब्रह्मा भी नहीं है, विष्णु भी नहीं है, इन्द्र भी नहीं है, और पृथ्वी जल-वायु-अग्नि-आकाश भी नहीं है। वह वेद और यज्ञ भी नहीं, सूर्य और चन्द्र भी नहीं, विधि और कल्प भी नहीं,—वह इन सबसे बिलक्षण स्वरूप सत्यरूप है^१। वह कबीरदासके रामकी भाँति ही सगसे न्यारा निरजन है। ब्रह्मा भी अजन है, विष्णु भी अजन है, शिव भी, गोपी भी, पुराण भी, विद्या भी, पूजा भी, देवता भी, दान भी वेश भी, पुण्य भी, तप भी, तीर्थ भी। एकमात्र निरजन राम है जो सबसे बिलक्षण है, सबसे अतीत। कबीरदासके मतसे 'नाथ' वह है जो रामस्त त्रिसुवनका एकमात्र यती,—परब्रह्म है^३। यह कथन सिद्ध जलंधरके वाक्यमें कहे हुए उस वचनसे मिलता है जिसमें 'नाथ' की द्वैताद्वैत बिलक्षण, समस्त यतियोंमें श्रेष्ठ, शंकरग्रन्थ कहे कर स्तुति की गई है^४।

यह मत वेदान्तियों, साख्यों, मीमांसकों, बौद्धों और जैनोके मतसे अपना वैशिष्ट्य प्रतिपादित करता है। ये लोग श्रुतिको साधिका नही मानते। (गो० रि० स० पृ० २२-२८, ७५-७६) इनके मतसे वेद दो प्रकारके ह, स्थूल और सूक्ष्म। स्थूल वेद यज्ञ-यागका निधान करते हैं, योगियोंको इससे कीड़ वास्ता नहीं। (पृ० २६) उनका मतलब रामस्त वेदोंके मूलभूत ओंकार मात्रसे है। क्योंकि ओंकार ही वेदका सार है। कबीर पंथमें भी स्थूल और सूक्ष्म वेदकी कल्पना की गई है जिसकी चर्चा आगे की जायगी। ' ज्ञानचोतीसा ' के आरिफ कबीरदासने मानों इसी मतका समर्थन करते हुए कहा है कि जो ओंकार या प्रणवको जानता है वह उरा पराशक्तिको जानता है जो लिखकर भिटा सकती है। अर्थात् जो सब कुछ करनेमें समर्थ है। और इसके बाद ही शायद ओंकारपर बहुत अधिक जोर देनेवाले इन योगियोंको लक्ष्य करके कहा है कि ओंकारकी बात तो सभी किया करते हैं पर इसे समझ सकनेवाले बिरले ही हैं ^१।

गोरक्ष-सिद्धान्त-संग्रहमें पुस्तकी विद्याकी बड़ी खिल्ली उड़ाई है। इसमें कवैशय गीताकी एक कहानी उद्धृत की गई है। दुर्गासा मुनि सब शास्त्र पढ़कर महादेवकी सभामें गये। वहाँपर उनके अभ्यात्मज्ञानके अभावको देखाकर नारदने उन्हें ' भारवाही गर्दभ ' कहा। अगर्षी दुर्गासाने सारी पुरानें रामग्रंथ फेंक दी और शिवसे अयात्म-विद्याकी भिक्षा मांगी। कबीरदासने भी घोथी पढ़-पढ़ कर भरनेवाले और फिर भी रामको न जान सकनेवाले ज्ञान-गर्दभकी कुछ एंगी ही खिल्ली उड़ाई है ^२। कबीरदासका स्वर बिल्कुल इन योगियोंसे मिलता-जुलता है। योगियोंके पूर्ववर्ती सहजयानी साधकोंमें भी यह बात पाई जाती है और और भी टटोल

जाय तो यह परम्परा बहुत पुरानी प्रतीत होगी। जो लोग कबीरदासकी इस प्रकारकी उक्तियोंको विदेशी साधकोंसे प्रभावित बताते हैं वे न जाने क्या सोचते रहने हैं। कबीरने जब कहा था कि पोथी पढ पढकर सारा संसार मर गया मगर पडित कोई नहीं हुआ, केवल प्रियतमको मिलानेवाला एक ही अक्षर पढनेवाला पडित हो जाता है^१, तो वे गोरखपदी योगमार्गियोंके ही स्वरमें बोल रहे थे,— घर घरमें पुस्तकके बोझ ढोनेवाले विद्यमान ह, नगर-नगरमें पंडितोंकी मटली मौजूद है, वन-वनमें तपस्त्रियोंके झुण्ड वर्तमान हैं किन्तु परब्रह्मको जाननेवाला और उसे पानेका उद्योग करनेवाला कोई नहीं^२। इस प्रसंगमें कबीरदासने जो बारदादि मुनियोंका हवाला दिया है वह क्या कवेष्य गीताकी उस कहानीके ही आवारपर ? “समी सम्प्रदाय रहते है कि प्रय हजारोंकी सख्यामे हे । म कहना हूँ कि यदि मेरी बात मानो तो समीको कुएँमें फेर दो । भला जो लोग आधुनिक समयमें स्वय मुक्त नहीं हो सके, वे दूसरेको मुक्तिका उपदेश दे सकते हैं, यह कैसे मान लिया जाय ? जो व्यक्ति लोगोंको अचरजमें डाल देनेके लिये, या अभिमानवश या जीविकाके लिये, या व्यसनके लिये, या अन्य किसी अभिलषित वस्तुकी प्राप्तिके लिये ग्रन्थ लिखा करता है वह धर्मार्थी पुरुषोंके आगे कैसे शोभनीय हो सकता है ?” (गो० सि० ५० पृ०, ७७) इसीलिये योग-बीजमें कहा है कि “सैरुडों तर्क-व्याकरणादि ग्रन्थोंसे बृद्ध होकर ये ज्ञानभूढ लोग ज्ञानोंके जालमे बुरी तरह फम गये हे । जिस अनिर्वाच्य पदको देवता भी नहीं बना सकते उसे ये आन्न क्या बतायेगे ?” और कबीरदाराने मानों इसीपर

अद्वैत मतसे नाथ मतका उदरुपे दिखानेके लिये एक कहानी कही गई है। शंकराचार्य अपने चार शिष्योंसहित नदी-तीरपर बंठे थे। वहाँ कापालिक रूपमें भैरवने कहा कि आप तो सन्यासी हैं, आप मित्र और शत्रुको समान-दृष्टिसे देखनेवाले हैं, सो कृपया मुझे अपना सिर काट लेने बीजिये ताकि मैं उससे भैरवकी पूजा कर सकूँ। शंकराचार्य जरा सोचमें पड़ गये। यदि दे देते हैं तो पराजय होती है, यदि नहीं देते हैं तो शत्रु-मित्रमें तुल्यदृष्टिना सिद्ध नहीं होती। शंकरको इस प्रकार शिथिल देखकर उनके एक शिष्य पद्माचार्यने नृसिंहदेवका स्मरण किया और नृसिंहदेवने भी तत्काल उग्र भरतपर आक्रमण किया। तब उग्र भैरवने कापालिक वेश परित्याग कर अपना असली स्वरूप प्रकट किया और प्रसन्न होकर मेघ-गम्भीर धनिमें कहा कि, 'अहो अद्वैतवाद आज पराजित हुआ। मैंने चालाक मल्लकी भांति अपने शरीरकी हानि करके भी प्रतिद्वंद्वीको चित कर दिया। तुम्हारा सिद्धान्त पराजित हुआ। आओ, युद्ध करो।' शंकराचार्य इस ललकारका मुकाबला नहीं कर सके, क्योंकि सन्यासी लोग प्रारब्ध कर्मोंमें विश्वास करते हैं, अर्थात् ये मानते हैं कि ज्ञानप्राप्ति हो जानेपर संचित और क्रियमाण कर्म तो जले हुए नीजकी तरह बेकार हो जाते हैं, पर जिस कर्मका फल मनुष्य भोग रहा है वह प्रारब्ध कर्म तब भी बना रहता है। परन्तु अवधुत लोग सभी कर्मोंको योग-नलसे भरम कर देते हैं, चाहे वह प्रारब्ध हो या संचित हो या क्रियमाण हो।

सो, प्रारब्ध कर्मने शंकराचार्यको जड़ बना दिया। फिर कापालिकने योग मायाका आवाहन किया और उसने आकर शंकरके चारों शिष्योंके सिर उतार लिये और उन्हें जलाकर भस्म कर दिया। अब जाकर आचार्य शंकरको ज्ञान हुआ कि वास्तविक शक्ति उनके अद्वैत ज्ञानमें नहीं बल्कि कापालिकोंके योग-मार्गमें है। इसके पूर्व शंकराचार्यने दक्षिण दिशामें विष्णु-सेवन और कर्मोपासनाका अनुष्ठान किया था, पूर्वमें जाकर वेचनायधाममें शिवभक्तिकी साधना की थी और फिर भी पश्चिममें जब शक्तिरहित हो गये थे तो भयसे व्याकुल होकर 'सौन्दर्यलहरी' आदि शक्ति-स्तोत्र लिखे थे। आखिरकार जब वे उत्तरमें आये तो आश्चर्यके साथ देखा कि सारी उत्तर दिशा महासिद्धोंसे भरी है। यहाँ आचार्यकी मुलाकात तारानाथसे हुई। उन्होंने पूछा कि 'क्यों जी, तुम्हें तीर्थाटन ही करना है या कुछ अध्यात्म-साधना भी?' शंकर कुछ मतलब नहीं समझ सके। उनकी जिज्ञासा देखकर सिद्ध तारानाथने नाथ पंथके अनुसार योगका उपदेश दिया। अब शंकराचार्यको वास्तविक ज्ञान हुआ और उन्होंने वज्रसूचिकोपनिषद्^१ लिखी और सिद्धान्तविन्दु नामक योगियोंका एक ग्रन्थ भी लिखा। यहाँ यह भूल नहीं जाना चाहिये कि कापालिक वस्तुतः नाथपंथी हैं। क्योंकि शाहरतत्रमें जिन १२ आचार्योंको और उनके १३ शिष्योंको कापालिक कहा गया है वे वस्तुतः नाथपंथी ही हैं।^२

बारह आचार्य और बारह शिष्योंके इन नामोंमेंसे कुछकी ऐतिहासिकता

सद्विग्ध होनेपर भी नागार्जुन, मीननाथ, गोरक्ष और चर्पट आदि सचमुच ऐतिहासिक हैं। म० म० हरप्रसाद शास्त्रीने जब बौद्ध महजगानके सिद्धाचार्यके प्रति विद्वानाका ध्यान आकृष्ट किया तो जाना गया कि बहुतसे भिद्दगण और नाथपन्थके आचार्य एक ही हैं। आगे चलकर जब इस विषयकी और भी नर्ची हुई तो जाना गया कि ये नाम सिर्फ सिद्धों और नाथपर्यायोभ ही रामान नहीं हैं, बल्कि, निरजन-पर्यायों, तांत्रिकों और कापालिकोंमें भी रामानरूपो प्रचरित हैं। इस सूचीमें निर्गुण मतके सतोंका नाम भी जोड़ दिया जा सकता है। इस प्रकार इस विषयका अध्ययन केवल महत्त्वपूर्ण ही नहीं, काफ़ी मनोरंजक भी सिद्ध हुआ है। दुर्भाग्यवश इस तरफ पंडितोंको जितना ध्यान देना चाहिये उतना अभीतक नहीं दिया गया है। सुप्रसिद्ध विद्वान् म० म० पं० गोपीनाथ कविराजका कहना है कि हठयोगियों अर्थात् मत्स्येन्द्रनाथ, गोरखनाथ आदि नाथपर्यायों, वज्रयानी और सहजयानी बौद्धों, त्रिपुरा सम्प्रदायके तांत्रिकों, नववैष्णवोंका नियमित और वैज्ञानिक अभ्ययन ऐसी बहुत-सी बातोंका रहस्योद्घाटन करेगा जो इन सबमें समान रूपसे विद्यमान हैं। महागान बौद्धधर्म और तन्त्रमतका सबध बहुत ही महत्त्वपूर्ण है और इस राक्षसों सावधानता-पूर्ण और गम्भीर अध्ययनकी जरूरत है।

नाथपन्थके आदि प्रवर्तक आदिनाथ अर्थात् स्वयं शिव माने जाते हैं। मत्स्येन्द्र इन्हींके शिष्य बताये जाते हैं। इन्हीं मत्स्येन्द्रनाथके कई शिष्य वंश पंडित और सिद्ध हुए, जिनके प्रभावसे यह मत सारे भारतवर्षमें प्रतिष्ठित हो गया। इन शिष्योंमें सबसे प्रधान गोरखनाथ या गोरक्षक थे। सुप्रसिद्ध तिब्बती ऐतिहासिक तारानाथ (= सिद्ध तारानाथ, जिनके शंकराचार्यके साक्षात्कारकी किंवदन्तीका ऊपर उल्लेख हो चुका है) का कथन है कि गोरखनाथ पहिले बौद्ध थे और बादमें शैव हो गये थे। इसीलिए तिब्बतके लामा लोग गोरखनाथको बड़ी घृणाकी दृष्टिसे देखते हैं। गोरखनाथने ही योग-मार्गके अभिनव रूप हठयोगको प्रतिष्ठित कराया। प्रसिद्ध महाराष्ट्र भक्त ज्ञाननाथने अपनेको गोरखनाथकी शिष्य-परम्परामें माना है। उनके कथनानुसार यह परम्परा इस प्रकार है : आदिनाथ, मत्स्येन्द्रनाथ, गोरखनाथ, गहिनी (गैनी) नाथ, निग्रजनाथ, ज्ञाननाथ। ज्ञाननाथ तेरहवीं शताब्दीमें वर्तमान थे। इसलिये गोरखनाथ ११ वीं १२ वीं शताब्दीमें हुए होंगे। इस प्रसंगमें गोरक्ष-सिद्धान्त-संग्रह (पृ० ४०) में बताई

हुई गुरु-परम्पराका भी स्मरण कर लिगा जा सकता है। एव श्रीगुरु आदिनाथ, मत्स्येन्द्रनाथ, — सत्पुत्र उदयनाथ-दण्डनाथ-सत्यनाथ सन्तोषनाथ कूर्मनाथ भवनाथ। उनके गोरक्षनाथ ईश्वरसन्तान थे। शायद मत्स्येन्द्रनाथके पुत्र-क्रमसे उदयनाथादि उत्तराधिकारी थे और शिष्य थे गोरखनाथ। इनके कई शिष्य बताये जाते हैं जिनमें बलनाथ, हालीकपाव, सलीपाव आदि मुख्य थे। बंगालके राजा गोपीचंदकी माता मयनामती भी इन्हींकी शिष्या थी। हालीकपाव या हाङ्गिफा हाङ्गी नामक अन्त्यज जातिमें उत्पन्न हुए थे। ये पहले बौद्ध थे, बादमें नाथमार्गी हो गये थे। इन्हींका एक और नाम जालंधरनाथ बताया जाता है। गोपीचंद जालंधरनाथके ही शिष्य थे। राजा भरतरी या भर्तृहरि भी इन्हींके शिष्य थे। (तु०—क० प्र०, पद २९९, पृ० १८९)

इन योगियोंकी अद्भुत और आश्चर्यजनक करामातोंकी सैकड़ों कहानियों सारे देशमें फैली हुई हैं। जान पड़ता है कि आगे चलकर इन योगियों और निर्गुण मतवादी सन्तोंमें लोकपर प्रभुत्व प्राप्त करनेकी होड़-सी मची हुई थी। कबीरदास और गोरखनाथके करामाती दौब-पेंचोंकी कहानियाँ काफी प्रसिद्ध हैं। बंगालके दिनाजपुर आदि जिलोंमें गोरक्षमतके अनुवर्ती कहे जानेवाले योगियोंके 'धमाली' नामसे प्रचलित बहुतेरे अत्यन्त अश्लील गानोंका पता लगा है। योगियोंके साथ इन अश्लील गानोंका सबध कैसे हुआ, यह अनुसंधान करने-योग्य प्रश्न है। अपनी 'हिंदी साहित्यकी भूमिका' में मैंने इस प्रसंगमें एक बातकी ओर सुधीवृद्धका ध्यान आकृष्ट करना चाहा था। पूर्वी युक्तप्रान्त और बिहारमें होलीके अवसरपर जो अश्लील और अश्राव्य गान गये जाते हैं उन्हें 'जोगीड़ा' कहते हैं। साधारणत इस गानके गानेवाले किसी लड़केको स्त्री रूपमें सजाकर नाच भी कराते हैं और बीच बीचमें 'जोगीजी धीरे धीरे' की आवाज देते रहते हैं। 'जोगीड़ा' गा लेनेके बाद 'कबीर' गाते हैं जो अश्लीलतामें जोगीड़ोंके भी ज्ञान काटनेवाले होते हैं। क्या इन 'जोगीड़ों' और 'कबीर' के साथ योगियों और कबीरपंथियोंकी प्रति-द्विधाकी कोई पुरानी स्मृति जड़ी हुई है या ये अश्लील गान भी किराी समय उलटबोसियोंकी भोंति अप्रस्तुत अन्तर्निहित सत्यकी ओर इशारा करनेवाले माने जाते थे ?

इस प्रसंगमें मेरे मित्र श्री ललितकिशोरसिंहजी 'नटवर' ने एक महत्त्वपूर्ण बातकी ओर मेरा ध्यान आकृष्ट किया है। 'हिन्दी साहित्यकी भूमिका' में (पृ०

३७ पर) मैंने गोरखपंथियोंके पदोंसे मिलते हुए दाढ़के पदोंका हवाला दिया था । ' नटवग ' जीने बताया है कि ये पद बिहारमें ' जोगीबों ' के रूपमें प्रचलित हैं । उन्होंने इन पदोंको पठनेमें गाये जाते सुना है । अनुसधित्तु पाठकोंको इस दिशामें खोज करनी चाहिये ।

नाथपंथमें स्मार्त आचारोंको कोई महत्त्व नहीं दिया जाता । यह बात उसे स्मार्त हिन्दू धर्मसे एकदम विरुद्ध खड़ा कर देती है ।

“ लोग आचार-आचार कहा करते हैं । भला यह आचार अत्याचार होकर कैसे निभता है ? भोजनमें जो घी देते हो वह भी तो चर्म-पात्रसे ही आता है ? चलते समय जो पैरमें जूता देते हो, वह भी तो चमड़ेका ही है । शयनमें जो छी-संग होता है उसकी तो बात ही जाने दो । सर्गादि ग्रहणके अवसरपर मिट्टीके बर्तन और जल आदिको अशुचि समझकर छोड़ देते हो किन्तु धान्य-घृतादिको क्यों नहीं फेंक देते ? बात यह है कि जलाशयमें जल तो बहुत मिल जाता है और कुम्हारोंके घर मिट्टीके बर्तन भी थोड़े ही दाममें मिल जाते हैं, तो फिर क्यों न इनको अपवित्र मानकर आचारवान् बन लिया जाय ! पर घी और धान्य वगैरा खरीदनेमें तो बहुत पैसे लगते हैं, फिर इन्हें कैसे अपवित्र मानते ? वहाँ तक ऐसी बातें लिरती जाये । सही बात तो यह है कि आचार वस्तु ही कल्पित है । बुद्धिमान लोग इसे बिल्कुल नहीं मानते । पर यह न समझना चाहिये कि हमारे मतमें आचार बिल्कुल ही नहीं है । है, मगर विचार-पूर्वक । और लोग जैसा आचार पालन करते हैं वैसा तो हग करते नहीं, पर जो कुछ करते हैं वह गौण मान कर । उसीको मुख्य मान कर नहीं । ” (गो० सि० पृ० ६०-६१) क्या ये युक्तियाँ कबीरदासकी युक्तियाँकी भोंति ही चक्रमाचूर कर देनेवाली नहीं हैं ? फिर बड़े नामी गरामी पंडित किस गुरुसे कहा करते हैं कि भारतवर्षमें कबीरदासके पहले ऐसी युक्तियों अपरिचित थीं और कबीरदासमें जो इस प्रकारकी युक्तियाँ मिलती हैं वे विदेशी प्रभावके कारण ?

संक्षेपमें कहा जाय तो ये लोग आचारका खंडन करते हैं; द्वैतवाद, अद्वैतवाद और स्मार्त आदि मतोंमें दोष दिखाते हैं, गार्हस्थ्य-वर्जन और कर्मत्यागपर जोर देते हैं, शिव-शक्तिमें अभेद साधित करते हैं, रुद्रादि देवताओंमें भगवद्बुद्धि नहीं

रखते, पौराणिक कहानियोंकी खिली उड़ाते हैं और यह मानते हैं कि शक्ति सृष्टि करती है, शिव पालन करते हैं, काल सहार करते हैं, और नाथ मुक्ति देते हैं। नाथ ही एक मात्र शुद्ध आत्मा हैं, बाकी सभी बद्ध जीव हैं,—शिव भी, विष्णु भी, ब्रह्मा भी (पृ० ७०)। न तो ये लोग द्वैतवादियोंके ' क्रिया-ब्रह्म ' में विश्वास करते हैं और न अद्वैतवादियोंके ' निष्क्रिय ब्रह्म ' में। द्वैतवादियोंके स्थान हैं कैलास और वैकुण्ठ आदि, अद्वैतवादियोंका माया शबल ब्रह्म स्थान है, योगियोंका निर्गुण स्थान है, परन्तु बन्धमुक्तिरहित परम-सिद्धान्तवादी अवधूत लोग निर्गुण और सगुणसे परे उभयातीत स्थानको ही मानते हैं। क्योंकि नाथ निर्गुण और सगुण दोनोंसे अतीत परात्पर हैं (पृ० ७१)। पाठक इस बातको स्मरण रख। कबीरमतके विकासको समझनेमें यह बहुत आवश्यक होगी।

अद्वैतके भी ऊपर विराजमान निराकार साकारसे अतीत, परमशून्य, निरजन-स्वरूप नाथसे शुरूमें निराकार ज्योतिनाथ हुए, उनसे साकारनाथ, उनकी इच्छासे सदाशिव भैरव, और उनसे शक्ति भैरवी उत्पन्न हुई। सदाशिव भैरवसे ही विष्णु उत्पन्न हुए, उनसे ब्रह्मा और उनसे यह सारी सृष्टि उत्पन्न हुई। नाथसे दो प्रकारकी सृष्टि उत्पन्न हुई। नादरूपा और बिन्दुरूपा। हम आगे नाद और बिन्दुका दार्शनिक अर्थ समझनेका प्रयत्न कर रहे हैं। वही वह सैद्धान्तिक अर्थ है। यहाँ एक बार व्यावहारिक अर्थ भी समझ लिया जाय। नादरूपा सृष्टि शिष्य-क्रमसे और बिन्दुरूपा पुत्र-पौत्रादिक्रमसे चलती है। नादसे नव नाथ हुए और बिन्दुसे सदाशिव-भैरव। शब्दसृष्टिमें पहले सूक्ष्म-रूपिणी सृष्टि उत्पन्न हुई फिर स्थूलरूपिणी। सूक्ष्मरूपिणी सृष्टि है प्रणव, महागायत्री, योगशास्त्र और स्थूलरूपिणी है ब्रह्मगायत्री और वेदत्रयी। योगशास्त्रसे तंत्रशास्त्र हुआ और वेदसे स्मृत्यादि शास्त्र हुए (गो० श्लो० पृ० ७२)।

इसका ध्यान रखना चाहिये कि प्रकृति अर्थात् शक्ति यद्यपि राक्ष्यवादियोंके समान जब नहीं है। सीधी भाषामें जो समझाया गया है कि निर्गुण शिव विशुद्ध चैतन्य है और सगुण शिव उपाधियुक्त। उपाधियुक्त चैतन्यसे उपाधियुक्त शक्ति उत्पन्न होती है। इन दोनोंके संयोगसे विश्वमें जो एक विश्वोत्पत्ति होता है वही नाद है और उस विश्वोत्पत्ति का क्रियाशील होना ही बिन्दु है। इस नाद और बिन्दुसे सम्पूर्ण विश्वमें व्याप्त विशेषताहीन नाद और बिन्दुका ही ग्रहण होना चाहिये,— इसी बातको समझानेके लिए इन्हें परनाद और परबिन्दु कहा जाता है। कभी कभी लोग परम नाद और बिन्दु भी कह देते हैं। इन्हींसे अपर या विशेषतायुक्त नाद, बीज और बिन्दु उत्पन्न होते हैं जो क्रमशः इच्छा, ज्ञान और क्रियाके प्रतीक हैं। अर्थात् अपरनाद इच्छा है, बीज ज्ञान है और अपर बिन्दु क्रिया है। इन्हींसे क्रमशः विष्णु, ब्रह्मा और रुद्रकी उत्पत्ति होती है। यह जो (पर) बिन्दुसे (अपर) नाद और (अपर) बिन्दु उत्पन्न हुआ वही उरा भुलभुलैयानाले प्रश्नके मूलमें है कि पहले नाद प्रकट हुआ कि बिन्दु। इस प्रकार तन्त्रका निर्गुण शिव कबीरपन्थके सत्यपुरुषके बराबर है, सगुण शिव निरजन पुरुष है और शक्ति आद्याशक्ति है। नाद ही स्वयमेव यानी कबीरदासकी वाणियोंके 'निर्मल वेद' के समान है और बिन्दु उसकी क्रिया। हम आगे चलकर कबीरदासके सृष्टितत्त्वको अच्छी तरह समझनेका अवसर पायेंगे। यहाँ योगियों और तान्त्रिकोंके नाद और बिन्दु, निर्गुण और सगुण, तथा शक्ति और शिवके रहस्योंको हमें अच्छी तरह मनमें रख लेनेकी जरूरत है। आगे हम कबीरके सृष्टितत्त्वको इनकी सहायतासे

४—हठयोगकी साधना

नाथपन्थकी साधना-पद्धतिका नाम हठयोग है। कबीरदासको रामझनेके लिये इस साधना-पद्धतिकी जानकारी होनी चाहिये। इनके सिद्धान्तानुसार महा-कुण्डलिनी नामक एक शक्ति है जो सम्पूर्ण रूद्रिमें परिव्याप्त है। व्यष्टि (व्यक्ति) में व्यक्त होने पर इसी शक्तिको कुण्डलिनी कहते हैं। कुण्डलिनी और प्राण-शक्तिको लेकर ही जीव मातृ-कुक्षिमें प्रवेश करता है। राभी जीव साधारणतः तीन अवस्थामें रहते हैं : जाग्रत, सुषुप्ति और स्वप्न। अर्थात् या तो वे जागते रहते हैं या सोते रहते हैं या रापमा देखते होते हैं। इन तीनों ही अवस्थाओंमें कुण्डलिनी शक्ति निश्चेष्ट रहती है। इस समय इसके द्वारा शरीर धारणका कार्य होता है। इस कुण्डलिनीको ठीक ठीक समझनेके लिये शरीरकी बनावटकी कल्पना करनी चाहिये। पीठमें स्थित मेरुदण्ड जहाँ सीधे जाकर पायु और उपस्थके मध्यभागमें लगता है वहाँ एक स्वयम्भू लिंग है जो एक त्रिकोण चक्रमें अवस्थित है। इसे अग्निचक्र कहते हैं। इसी त्रिकोण या अग्निचक्रमें स्थित स्वयम्भू लिंगको साढ़े तीन दलों या धृत्तोंमें लपेटकर सर्पिणीकी भौति कुण्डलिनी अवस्थित है। इसके ऊपर चार दलोंका एक कगल है जिसे गूलाधार चक्र कहते हैं। फिर उसके ऊपर नाभिके पास स्वाधिष्ठान चक्र है जो छह दलोंके कमलके आकारका है। इस चक्रके ऊपर मणिपूर चक्र है और इसके भी ऊपर हृदयके पास अनाहत चक्र। ये दोनो क्रमशः दस और बारह दलोंके पद्मोंके आकारके हैं। इसके भी ऊपर कण्ठके पास विशुद्धाख्य चक्र है जिसका आकार सोलह दलोंके पद्मके समान है। और भी ऊपर जाकर भूम-ध्रुम आज्ञा नामक चक्र है जिसके सिर्फ दो ही दल हैं। ये ही 'षट्चक्र' हैं। इन चक्रोंके भेद करनेके बाद मस्तकमेंका शून्य चक्र मिलता है जहाँ जीवात्माको पहुँचा देना योगीका चरम लक्ष्य है। इस स्थानपर जिस कमलकी कल्पना की गई है उगमें सहस्र दल हैं, इसीलिए इसे राहस्यार-चक्र भी कहते हैं। शून्यचक्र ही गगन-मण्डल है। इसीको कैलाश भी कहते हैं।

३ अत ऊर्ध्व दिव्यरूप सहस्रार सरोरुहम् ।

ब्रह्माण्डव्यस्तनदेहस्थ बाह्ये तिष्ठति सर्वदा ।

कैलाशो नाम तस्यैव गहेशो यत्र तिष्ठति ॥-शिवसंहिता ५, १५१-२

कभीरदासने कभी कभी जब इसी शरीरमें कैलाश नादमें ही रम जाता है, तब तो उनका मतलब राहखार चक्रसे ही रहता है। वर्ता^१।

सहस्रार चक्रके भी ऊपर एक अष्टम चक्र,—सुरतिकमल—यो तयो इन शब्दोंका है। कहते हैं कि सहस्रार तक पहुँचे हुए योगीका चित्त व्युत्थि, अपने स्वरूपमें समाधि टूटनेके बाद फिर वारानाका शिकार हो जाता है पर सुरतिक रहता। यह करनेवाले सन्तका चित्त ऐसे स्तरसे निश्चिन्त रहता है (विचार० पृ० भिन्न -५)। कभी कभी साधना-ग्रन्थोंमें कुंडली योगको हठयोगसे भिन्न माना ग है। पर अधिकांश नाथ सम्प्रदायके ग्रन्थ कुंडलिनीकी चर्चा अवश्य करते हैं।

अब मेरुदण्डमें प्राणवायुको वहन करनेवाली कई नाड़ियाँ हैं जिनमेंसे कुछका आभास हम सोंस लेते समय पाते हैं। जो नाड़ी बाईं ओर है उसे इडा और जो दाहिनी ओर है उसे पिंगला कहते हैं। मौजी ऋषीरने अनुप्रास मिलानेके लिए इनकी जोड़ीका नाम 'इंगला पिंगला' बना लिया था। ये दोनों ही वारी वारीसे चलती रहती हैं। इन दोनोंके बीच सुपुत्रा नाड़ी है। इसीसे होकर कुण्डलिनी शक्ति ऊपरकी ओर प्रवाहित होती है। असलमें सुपुत्राके भीतरकी कई सूक्ष्म नाड़ियाँ हैं। सुपुत्राके भीतर वज्रा, उसके भीतर चित्रिणी और उसके भी भीतर ब्रह्मनाड़ी है जो कुण्डलिनी शक्तिका असल मार्ग है। इस प्रकार सुपुत्रा वस्तुतः तीन नाड़ियोंका एकीभाव है। हिसाबसे इडा, पिंगला और ये तीन नाड़ियाँ मिलकर पाँच होती हैं। इसीलिये इनको 'पंचस्रोत' या 'पाँच धारायें' कहनेकी भी प्रथा है (हठ० ३-१२)। परन्तु व्यवहारत इडा-पिंगला सुपुत्रा इन तीन नाड़ियोंकी ही चर्चा आती है। इन्हीं तीन नाड़ियोंको सिद्धाचार्योंने 'ललना-रसना-अनुती' कहा है (बौ० गा० दो० पृ० ९)। अवधूती अर्थात् सुपुत्रा। क्योंकि, जैसा कि, 'हठयोगप्रदीपिका' में कहा है, वैसे तो शरीरमें ६२ हजार नाड़ियाँ हैं, पर एकमात्र सुपुत्रा ही शाश्वती शक्ति है, बाकी नाड़ियाँ बेकार ही हैं। कभीरदासके विद्यार्थीको अच्छी तरह याद रसना चाहिये कि इडा या इंगला ही 'गंगा' है, पिंगला ही 'यमुना' है और सुपुत्रा ही 'सरस्वती' है। इन तीनोंका जहाँ ब्रह्मरंध्रमें सगम हुआ है, वहीं त्रिवेणी या प्रयाग है। कभीरदास कभी कभी शिवसंहिता आदि हठयोगके ग्रन्थोंकी भाँति

न करते हैं। कबीरकी उलटबोसियों, और
सामान इन साकेतिक शब्दोंको नहीं भूलना चाहिये।

कबीरकी साधनाओंके द्वारा कुण्डलिनी शक्तिको ऊपरकी ओर या
नाथपन्थकीपुद्ग करता है। साधारण मनुष्योंमें यह कुण्डलिनी अधोगुण रहती
इस साधनमें वह काम क्रोधका नीतदाम बना रहता है। कुण्डलिनी जा उद्वुद्ध
कुण्डरि ऊपरकी ओर उठती है तो उससे स्फोट होता है जिसे 'नाद' कहते हैं।
नादसे प्रकाश होता है और प्रकाशका ही व्यक्त रूप महाबिन्दु है। यह बिन्दु
तीन प्रकारका होता है इच्छा, ज्ञान और क्रिया। पारिभाषिक तौरपर योगी लोग
इन्हीको कभी सूर्य, चन्द्र और अग्नि कहते हैं और कभी ब्रह्मा, विष्णु और शिव
भी कहते हैं। अब, यह जो नाद और बिन्दु है वह असलमें अखिल ब्रह्माण्डमें
व्याप्त अनाहत नाद या अनहद नादका व्यष्टिमें व्यक्त रूप है। अर्थात् जो नाद
अनाहत भावसे सारे विश्वमें व्याप्त है उसीका प्रकाश जब व्यक्तिमें होता है तो
उसे नाद और बिन्दु कहते हैं। बद्ध जीव श्वाश-प्रश्वाराके अधीन होकर (इन
श्वाशोंकी संख्या दिन रातके चौबीस घण्टोंमें २१६०० होती है) निरन्तर उड़ा
और पिंगलाके मार्गमें चल रहा है। सुषुम्नाका पथ प्रायः बन्द है। यही कारण है
कि बद्ध जीवके इन्द्रिय और मनकी वृत्ति बहिर्मुख है। जो अरण्य नाद जगतके
अन्तस्तलमें और निखिल ब्रह्माण्डमें निरन्तर ध्वनित हो रहा है उसे वह नहीं
सुन पाता। परन्तु जब क्रिया-विशेषसे सुषुम्ना-पथ उन्मुक्त हो जाता है और
कुण्डलिनी शक्ति जाग उठती है, तो प्राण स्थिर होकर शून्य पथसे निरन्तर उरा
अनाहत ध्वनि या अनहद नादको सुनने लगता है। अनुभवी लोगोंने बताया है
कि पहले तो शरीरके भीतर समुद्र-गर्जन, मेघगर्जन और भेरी, झंझर आदिका सा
शब्द सुनाई देता है, फिर मर्दल, शंख, घण्टा, काहलकी-सी आवाज सुनाई देती
है और अन्तमें किकिणी, बंशी, भ्रमर और वीणाके गुजार-सी मधुर ध्वनि सुनाई
देने लगती है। जिस प्रकार मकरन्द-पानमें मत्त भौरा गन्धकी ओर ताकता भी

नहीं, उसी प्रकार योगीका नादासक्त चित्त नादमें ही रम जाता है, वह दुनियाके किसी ओर विषयकी परवाह भी नहीं करता १ ।

परन्तु ज्यों ज्यों मन विशुद्ध और स्थिर होता जाता है त्यों त्यों इन शब्दोंका सुनाई देना बंद हो जाता है । क्योंकि चिदात्मक आत्मा उस समय अपने स्वरूपमें स्थिर हो जाता है और फिर बाह्य प्रकृतिसे उसका कोई सरोकार नहीं रहता । यह नाद मूलत एक होकर भी ओपाधिक सबके कारण, अर्थात् भिन्न भिन्न उपाधियोंसे युक्त होनेके कारण सात स्वरोंमें विभक्त है । आत्ममें जिसे प्रणव या ओंकार कहते हैं वही उपाधिरहित शब्द-तत्त्व है । किसी किसी साधकने तथा व्याकरणोंने इसीको 'स्फोट' कहा है । यह स्फोट अखण्ड सत्तात्पर्य ब्रह्मतत्त्वका वाचक है । स्फोटको ही शब्द ब्रह्म और सत्ताको ही ब्रह्म कहा गया है । यह यानमें रखनेकी बात है कि स्फोट वाचक शब्द है और सत्ता वाच्य । इस प्रकार वाच्य (ब्रह्मासत्य) को प्रकाशित करनेवाला वाचक (स्फोट या नाद) भी ब्रह्म ही है । इसका मतलब यह हुआ कि ब्रह्म ही ब्रह्मका प्रकाशक है । इस सन्धको लेकर भी सन्तोंने कितने ही गूढ़ रूपकोकी रचना की है । यह शब्द मूलाधारसे उठता है और महत्कारमें जाकर लय हो जाता है । हठयोगकी प्रक्रियाको समझनेके पहले यह राव जान लेना आवश्यक है ।

लेकिन हठयोग असलमें लक्ष्य नहीं है । इसे राजयोगका योपान ही बताया गया है, यद्यपि पक्का हठयोगी इसके सिवा अन्य किसी योगकी बात सुनना ही नहीं चाहता । शुरु शुरुमें हठयोगका उद्देश्य शरीर शुद्धि और मनका सम्मार्जन ही समझा गया था पर नाथ-पथमें काया-साधनसे ही मुक्ति मानी जाने लगी । देह-शुद्धिके लिये हठयोगी क्रियाओंका विशाल ठाठ है, धौति है, बस्ति है, नेति है, त्राटक है, नौलि है, कपालभाति है । इन्हें पदकर्म कहते हैं । फिर

आसनों, मुद्राओं, प्राणायामों, ध्यानो और समाधि का विराट् आडंबर है। और वैसे तो सभी सिद्धिके रोपान हैं पर सिद्धासनके समान आसन नहीं है, खेचरी मुद्राके समान मुद्रा नहीं है, केवलके समान प्राणायाम नहीं है और नादके समान समाधि नहीं है। सिद्धासनमें नाभिके नीचे मेढ्रस्थानपर बाईं एड़ी और ऊपर दाहिनी एड़ी ररानी पड़ती है, ठुड़ी रियर होती है और साधक स्थिर होकर भ्रूमध्यमें ध्यान लगाता है (हठ० १-३७)। प्राणायाम तीन प्रकारका होता है रेचक (सोंसका छोड़ना), पूरक (सोंसका भरना) और कुम्भक (सोंसका रोकना)। असल प्राणायाम कुम्भक ही है और यह दो प्रकारका होता है जब रेचक और पूरककी सहायता ली जाती है तब तो इसे 'सहित' कहते हैं पर जब उन दोनोंकी सहायताके बिना ही यह प्राणायाम सिद्ध हो जाता है तो इसे 'केवल' कहते हैं। इसीकी सहायतासे कुण्डलिनी शक्ति उद्बुद्ध होती है।

कबीरदासकी उलटवोंसियोंके विद्यार्थीके कुछ कामकी चीज खेचरी मुद्रा है। इसमें योगी जीभको उलटकर कपाल-कुहरमें प्रविष्ट करता है, और उसकी दृष्टि भ्रुवोंमें निबद्ध होती है (हठ० ३-३२)। बड़ी साधना और आयासके बाद यह मुद्रा प्राप्त होती है पर एक बार यदि आधे क्षणके लिए भी यह प्राप्त हो गई अर्थात् योगी अपनी जीभको ऊपरकी ओर उलटकर कपाल कुहरमें स्थिर कर सका तो समस्त विषों ओर व्याधियोंसे मुक्त हो जाता है। इसी मुद्राका विशेष रूप व्योम चक्र भी कहलाता है। ब्रह्मरंध्रके सदृशकार पद्मके मूलमें जो योनि नामक त्रिकोणाकार शक्तिका केन्द्र है वही चन्द्रमाका स्थान है। इसमेंसे सदा अमृत क्षरता रहता है। खेचरी मुद्रामें योगीकी ऊर्ध्वगा जिह्वा उसी अमृत रसका पान करती रहती है। यही अमृत सोमरस है। इसको पान कर सकने

राजयोग, समाधि, उन्मनी, मनोन्मनी, अमरत्व, लय, तत्त्व, शून्य, अशून्य, परमपद, अमनस्क, अद्वैत, निरालम्ब, निरंजन, जीवन्मुक्ति, सहजा ओर तुराः ये सब एक ही समाधिके वाचक शब्द हैं । (ह० ४।३-४) यह वह अवस्था है जब मन और प्राण एकीभूत हो जाते हैं और जब चंचल मन स्थिर और वशवर्ती हो जाता है । इन्द्रियोंका स्वामी मन है, मनका मारुत, मारुतका लय (लो) और लयका नाद । सो यह (लो) मोक्ष है । मन और प्राणके लो लगनेपर कोई एक अभूतपूर्व आनन्द मिलता है (हठ० ४, २९-३०) । इसीलिए हठयोगप्रदीपिकामें कहा है कि आत्माको शून्यमें करके और शून्यको आत्मामें करके योगी निश्चिन्त हो जाय । शून्य अर्थात् रामाधि,—जब कि आत्मा लह चक्रोंको भेदकर सहयार या शून्य-चक्रमें अवस्थित होता है । ऐसी अवस्थामें

५-निरंजन कौन है ?

मध्ययुगके योग, मन्त्र और भक्तिके साहित्यमें 'निरंजन' शब्दका बारम्बार उल्लेख मिलता है। नाथ-पंथमें भी 'निरंजन' शब्द खूब परिचित है। साधारण रूपमें 'निरंजन' शब्द निर्गुण ब्रह्मका और विशेष रूपमें शिवका वाचक है। नाथ पंथकी भौति एक और प्राचीन पन्थ भी था जो निरंजन-पदको परमपद मानता था। जिस प्रकार नाथ-पंथी नाथको परमाराध्य मानते थे उसी प्रकार ये लोग 'निरंजन' को। आजकल निरंजनी राधुओंका एक सम्प्रदाय राजपूतानेमें वर्तमान है। कहते हैं, इस सम्प्रदायके प्रवर्तक स्वामी निरानन्द निरंजन भगवान् (निर्गुण) के उपासक थे। पर आजकलके निरंजन मतके अनुयायी बहुत कुछ रामानन्दी वैरागियोंके समान राम-सीताके उपासक हैं, शालिग्राम-शिला और गोमती चक्रको मान्य समझते हैं। (भारतवर्षीय उपासक सम्प्रदाय, द्वितीय भाग, पृ० १८९)। श्रीक्षितिमोहन सेनने लिखा है कि उड़ीसाम अव भी वह निरंजन पंथ जी रहा है जिसने निर्गुण साधनाको प्रभावित किया था। यहाँसे इस पंथकी शिक्षाएँ मध्यदेश और पूर्वी प्रान्तोंमें पहुँची थीं। पश्चिमी भारतमें भी इसका प्रभाव अभी तक विद्यमान है (मिडलवेल मिस्टिफिज्म पृ० ७०७)। हालकी खोजोंसे पता चला है कि बगालके पश्चिमी हिस्सों तथा बिहारके पूर्वी जिलोंमें आज भी एक धर्ममत है जिसके देवता निरंजन या धर्मराज हैं। मैंने अपनी नई पुस्तक 'कबीर-पन्थ' में दिखाया है कि एक समय यह धर्मसम्प्रदाय झारखण्ड और रीवों तक प्रचलित था। बादमें चलकर यह मत कबीर सम्प्रदायमें ध्वस्तभूत हो गया और उसकी शारी पौराणिक कथाएँ कबीर मतमें गृहीत हो गईं परन्तु उनका स्वर बदल गया। बगालमें धर्म-गुजा विधानका एक काफी बड़ा साहित्य उपलब्ध हुआ है। शुद्ध शुद्ध धर्म ठाकुर या निरंजन देवताको बौद्ध धर्मके त्रिरत्नमेंसे एक रत्न (=धर्म) का अनशेष समझा गया था, पर अब इस मतमें मन्वेद भी किया जाने लगा है (दे० सुकुमार सेन और पचानन मण्डल सम्पादित 'रूपारामेर धर्ममाला' की भूमिका)। कबीर पन्थके अध्ययनसे निरंजनका सम्बन्ध बुद्धसे था, ऐसा भी अनुमान होता है (दे० विश्वभारतीपत्रिका खण्ड ५ अंक ३ में मेरा लेख)। नाथपन्थमें निरंजनकी महिमा खूब गाई गई है। छठयोगी जब नादानुसन्धानका सफल अभ्यासी हो जाता है तो उसके समस्त

पाप क्षीण हो जाते हैं, उसके चित्त और मासत निरंजनमें लीन हो जाते हैं^१ । यह योगीका परम साध्य है क्योंकि जब तक ज्ञान निरंजनके साक्षात्कार तक नहीं उठता तभी तक इस ससारके विविध जातों और माना पदार्थोंमें भेद-दृष्टि बनी हुई है^२ । एक विशेष पद तक पहुँचनेपर निरंजनका साक्षात्कार होता है । ऐसी हालतमें वह समस्त उपाधियों या विशेषताओंसे हीन हो जाता है और तभी वह अपनेको अखण्ड ज्ञान-रूपी निरंजन कह सकता है^३ । गोरक्ष-सिद्धान्त-संग्रह (पृ० ३३) में पद्मपुराणकी कपिल गीतासे एक वचन उद्धृत किया गया है जिसमें कहा गया है कि बिन्दु-संयुक्त ओंकारका योगी लोग नित्य ध्यान करते हैं । इसके भीतर जो तत्त्व है उसे सद्गुरु ही बता सकते हैं, दूसरा कोई नहीं । ओंकारमें पाँच खण्ड होते हैं, (१) तारक, (२) पण्ड, (३) कुण्डली, (४) अक्षचन्द्र और (५) बिन्दु । इन पाँचोंमें पाँच देवताओंका निवास है । तारकमें ब्रह्मा, पण्डमें विष्णु, कुण्डलीमें रुद्र, अक्षचन्द्रमें ईश्वर और सबसे ऊपरवाले बिन्दुमें सदाशिवका वास है । इसके भी ऊपर निरंजन है जो सृष्टि, स्थिति और प्रलयके कारण हैं । यही परम तत्त्व है जो सद्गुरुकी कृपाके बिना समझमें नहीं आ सकता, क्योंकि, यदि सद्गुरुकी कृपा न हो तो विषय-त्याग दुर्लभ है, तत्त्व-दर्शन दुर्लभ है, सहजावस्था दुर्लभ है^४ । इससे स्पष्ट है कि निरंजनका साक्षात्कार ही परम पद

‘कबीर मन्सूर’ में बताया गया है कि सत्यपुरुष रामदा जगत्का उत्पन्नकर्ता है। वह कभी गर्भमें नहीं आता,—सबरो अतीत, सारो परे, सबरो ऊपर। कबीरसाहब उसी सत्यपुरुषके अनागत-वक्ता (भविष्यवक्ता) हैं। इनमें सब गुण वे ही हैं जो उक्त सत्यपुरुषमें हैं। वस्तुतः वे उससे अभिन्न हैं और उससे त्राणकर्ता हैं। यही कबीरसाहब सत्ययुगमें ‘सुकृति’ नामसे, त्रेतायुगमें ‘सुनीन्द्र’ नामसे, द्वापरमें ‘करुणामय स्वामी’ नामसे और कलिकालमें ‘कबीर’ नामसे अवतीर्ण हुए हैं।

तो, सत्यपुरुषने स्वयं ही जो अपना स्वरूप उत्पन्न किया वह कबीर साहब है। इन्हीं कबीर साहबके द्वारा ब्रह्म सृष्टि (जिसकी चर्चा आगे आ रही है) को सूक्ष्म वेद दिया गया। यह वेद निर्दोष और निष्कलक था पर दुर्भाग्यवश सदा ऐसा नहीं रह सका। कारण यह है : सत्यपुरुषने सृष्टिके लिये छह पुत्र उत्पन्न किये थे—(१) सहज, (२) अक्षर, (३) इच्छा, (४) सुहृग (=सोऽहं), (५) अचिन्त (=अचिन्त्य) और (६) अक्षर। ये छहो बड़े तेजस्वी और तपस्वी हुए। सारा सगत् उरा समय जलसे परिपूर्ण था और उसमें सत्यपुरुषने अपनी सातवीं सन्तान,—एक अण्डेको छोड़ दिया। यह अण्डा अक्षर-पुरुषके पास,—जो उस समय तपोमग्न था, आकर फूटा और उसमेंसे दुर्दमनीय कालपुरुष निरंजन पैदा हुआ जिसे पिताने पहलेसे ही असख्य युगपर्यन्त अखण्ड राजभोगकी अनुज्ञा दे दी थी। इसी अण्डेको मन्वादि शास्त्रोंमें ‘हिरण्य-गर्भ’ कहा गया है। यह कालपुरुष बड़ा प्रचण्ड, अभिमानी और प्रतापी हुआ। इसीके नाम नाना शास्त्रोंमें नाना भावसे आए हैं। कुछ नाम ये हैं काल, कैल, अकार, ओंकार, निरंकार, निर्गुण, ब्रह्मा, धर्मराय, खुदा, अल्लाह, करीम, अद्वैत, केशव, नारायण, हरि, विश्वम्भर, वासुदेव, जगदीश, जगन्नाथ, परमेश्वर, ईश, विश्वनाथ, रालिक, रव, रविवल, आलामी, हक इत्यादि।

पिता (सत्यपुरुष) की आज्ञासे इसी निरंजनने इस सृष्टिका जाल परारा।

इस सारी सृष्टिको बनानेके मसालेको एक कूर्मजीने बड़ी सावधानीसे अपने पेटमें छिपा रखा था। कूर्मजीका आकार कछुएका है और वे सृष्टिके आवार हैं। इनका आकार भी निरंजनसे दूना है। रोर, निरंजन तो सृष्टि करनेका निश्चय कर चुका था। वह कूर्मजीसे मसालेके लिए लड पड़ा। कूर्मजी ऐसे दुर्दान्तको सृष्टिका मसाला क्यों देने लगे ? लड़ाई हो गई। चालाक निरंजनने कूर्मजीके तीन सिर चबा डाले और फिर तो रास्ता साफ हो गया। कूर्मजीके पेटमें पड़ी हुई सामग्री दिख गई। निरंजनने उसे चुरा लिया और इस भोजनको खड़ा करनेमें समर्थ हो गया। बेचारे कूर्मजीको सत्यपुरुषकी आज्ञा बादमें मालूम हुई और वे सुप हो गे।

अब सृष्टिको पैदा करनेके लिये कालपुरुष (निरंजन)ने धार्य शक्ति या मायाको उत्पन्न किया और उसके संयोगसे तत्त्व-प्रधान ब्रह्मा, रजोगुण-प्रधान विष्णु और तमोगुण प्रधान शिवकी सृष्टि की। उद्यो ही ये तीन देवता उत्पन्न हुए, वह अन्तर्धान होकर अपने लोकमें चला गया। जानी बार मायासे कहता गया कि इन पुत्रोंको मेरा पता मत बताना। सो, इन्होंने बादमें जब आद्यशक्ति या मायासे पूछा कि तू कौन है, तेरा पति कौन है, हम लोग कौन हैं और हमारे पिता कौन हैं तो मायाने जवाब दे दिया कि वही उनकी पिता है, वही माता और वही पत्नी भी। तीनों देवता इस उत्तरसे सन्तुष्ट नहीं हुए। बताया गया है कि स्वयं कबीरदासने पहली रमैनीमें इस तत्त्वकी ओर इशारा कर दिया है।

तब बरम्हा पूछा महतारी। को तोर पुरुष कउन तैं नारी ॥

इसपर मायाने उत्तर दिया—

हम तुम तुम हम और न कोई।

तुमहि पुरुष हमहीं तोर जोई।—बीजरु, प्रथम रमैनी

इधर जब निरंजन अपने लोकमें जाकर समाधिस्थ हुआ था तो उसने सूक्ष्म वेदको हृदयमें धारण कर लिया था। उसकी सूक्ष्म बाते तो भीतर ही रह गईं पर जो स्थूल अंश था वह उसकी नाकसे सोंसके साथ ही गिर गया। यही 'त्वचा-ज्ञान' वाला आधुनिक वेद है। इसमें रस नहीं, केवल लिङ्ग ही भर है, इसीलिए कबीरपयी लोग इसे 'त्वचा-ज्ञान' कहते हैं। यह स्थूल अंश ही आजकल वेदके नामपर चल रहा है। जब ब्राह्मण लोग भक्ति गद्गद स्वरमें कहते हैं कि उस परम-पुरुषको नमस्कार है जिसके निश्वास ही वेद हैं और इन

वेदोंसे ही जिसने इस जगत्का निर्माण किया है^१ तो वे असलमे इस धूर्त निर-जनकी स्तुति करते हैं। बेचारे जानते भी नहीं कि कितने धोखेम हैं।

सूक्ष्म वेदके यो जो चार वेद-पुत्र हुए सो 'दोषी तथा पाखण्डी निरजनके ससर्ग' से हुए और इसीलिए इनमें कलुषका रह जाना कुछ आश्चर्य ही बात नहीं। निरंजन खूब जानता है कि एक बार यदि लोगोंको सूक्ष्म वेदका ज्ञान हो जाय तो कोई उसे पछेगा भी नहीं, इसीलिए वह बड़ी होशियारीसे ससारको अपने जालमें फसाये हुए है। किन्तु कबीरदास जब इस सगारमें भले मानुसोंके उद्धारके लिये प्रकट हुए तो उन्होंने चारों सूक्ष्म वेदोंको फिरसे पृथ्वी-वामियोंके निन्द्य प्रकट कर दिया। इस प्रकार कबीर साहबकी

- (१) कूट वाणी ही सूक्ष्म ऋग्वेद है,
- (२) टकसार-वाणी ही सूक्ष्म यजुर्वेद है,
- (३) मूकज्ञान-वाणी ही सूक्ष्म सामवेद है, और
- (४) बीजक-वाणी ही सूक्ष्म अथर्ववेद है।

और आजकल जो वेदके नामपर पुस्तकें चल रही ह वे ओ३म्से निकली हैं ओ३म्की माता कुण्डलिनी है, कुण्डलिनी महामाया है, महामाया नागिन है और इसीलिए ये स्थूल वेद जहरीली नागिनके जहरसे आपाद-मस्तक सिक्त हैं। कहते हैं, इसी महामाया नागिनको लक्ष्य करके कबीर साहबने कहा है—

अन्तरजोत सबद एक नारी। हरि ब्रह्मा ताके निपुरारी ॥

—बीजक, प्रथम रमैनी

इस प्रकार आद्या, ब्रह्मा, विष्णु और शिवने चार खान और चौरासी लार योनियोंकी सृष्टि की है। आद्यने अण्डज, ब्रह्माने पिण्डज, विष्णु अश्मज (=ऊर्मज) और शिवने रथावर सृष्टि की। फिर इनकी शक्तियां बनी, नरक बने, मर्ग बने और तीनों लोक इन्हींकी पूजामें व्यस्त हो रहा। गोया ये ही परम दैवत हों! क्वचित्त कोई अगर निरजनको जान गया तो वह अपनेको धन्य समझने लगा, परन्तु निरंजन भी तो अत्यन्त निचला स्तर है। यह निरंजन बराबर महात्माओंके मार्गम विघ्न खड़ा करता रहता है, बराबर ज्ञानप्राप्तिसे उन्हें वंचित करनेकी चेष्टा कर रहा है। अब तक कई बार तो कबीर साहबसे ही उराकी मुठभेद हो चुकी है। यद्यपि यह मायाका स्वामी है पर निष्कलुष तो नहीं है। वेद विचारे करें तो क्या ? उन्हें निरजनके ऊपरके किसीकी खबर भी

^१ यस्य नि श्रसित वेदा यो वेदेभ्योऽखिल जगत्। निर्मीमे तमए वन्दे ज्ञानरूप जनार्दन ॥

तो हो। लेकिन इस व्यापारका सबसे मनोरंजक अंश यह है कि जिस प्रकार निरंजनने सत्यपुरुषका नाम लोप करके अपनी ही पूजा चलानी चाही थी उसी प्रकार उसके गुरुमार पुरोहित अर्थात् ब्रह्मा, विष्णु और शिवने निरंजनका नाम भी लोप कर देना चाहा। उन्होंने समारंभे अपनी ही पूजा फैलाई। मचमुच ही निरंजनका नाम मद्धिम पढ गया।

हम लोग जिस कर्मलोक पृथ्वीपर निवास कर रहे हैं उसके नीचे सात पाताल या नरक हैं। सबसे नीचे जो है उसका नाम पाताल है। उसके ऊपर क्रमशः तलातल, रसातल, महातल, सुतल, वितल, अतल,—ये लोक ह। इनके ऊपर हमारी पृथ्वी है। (१) इसके ऊपर देवताओ और सिद्धोंकी पुरी है—साधारणतः इसे स्वर्ग कहा जाता है। फिर निम्नलिखित नव लोक एकके ऊपर दूसरे क्रमसे विराजित हैं। (२) दह्य अशका स्थान जहाँ सालोक्य मुक्ति होती है, (३) विष्णुका वैकुण्ठ जहाँ सामीप्य मुक्ति मिलती है, (४) निरंजनका श्रौक्षरी द्वीप जहाँ सारूप्य मुक्ति मिलती है, (५) अक्षरका अरण्यद्वीप जहाँ सायुज्य मुक्तिकी व्यवस्था है, (६) अचिन्तका अचिन्त्य-द्वीप, (७) सोऽहका सहग-द्वीप, (८) इच्छा-पुरुषका इच्छा द्वीप, (९) अंकुर-पुरुषका अंकुर-द्वीप और (१०) राहज-पुरुषका सहज-द्वीप। इन सबके बहुत ऊपर सत्यपुरुषका सत्यलोक है जो परम धाम है, जहाँसे समय समयपर सत्य-पुरुषकी अनुज्ञा पाकर सद्गुरु कबीर अवतीर्ण हुआ करते हैं। देवताओं और सिद्धोंके स्थानके ऊपरकी नौ पुरियोंको मुसलमानी शास्त्रके सायु सामंजस्य लगाकर क्रमशः (१) नाश्रत, (२) मल्लकूत, (३) जबरूत, (४) लाहूत, (५) हाहूत, (६) बाहूत, (७) साहूत, (८) राहूत, (९) जाहूत कहा गया है।

यहाँ यह उल्लेख-योग्य है कि कुछ सूक्तियोंके अनुमार साधकोंको चार लोकोंको पार करना होता है। ये चार लोक 'आलप' नामसे प्रसिद्ध हैं। नाश्रत (मानव), मल्लकूत (अदृश्य लोक), जबरूत (उच्चतम लोक) और

- १ जुलमत नाश्रत मल्लकूतमें फिरिस्ते नूर जलाल जबरूतमें जी।
- लाहूतमें नूर जम्माल पहिचानियै हक मकान हाहूतमें जी ॥
- बका बाहूत साहूत मुसिद पार है जो रब्ब राहूतमें जी।
- कहत कबीर अविगति आहूतमें खुद खाविन्द आहूतमें जी ॥

लाहूत (परम लोक) ये चार आलम हैं । पर कुछ दृगरे सूफ़ी पांच मानते हैं । ये लोग इस सूचीमें ' सम लोक ' या ' आलमे मिशाल ' को और जोड़ देते हैं । दारा शिकोहने अपनी प्रसिद्ध पुस्तक मजमुल बहरईन (दो रागुमोंका संगम) नामक ग्रन्थमें उपर्युक्त चार आलमोंके साथ वेदान्तियोंकी चार अवस्थाओं,— जाग्रत, स्वप्न, सुषुप्ति और तुरीयकी समानता बताई है^१ । यह ठीक गमकमें नहीं आया कि कबीर पन्थक नौ लोक इन्हीं चार आलमोंका विस्तार हैं या किसी सूफ़ी सम्प्रदायमें सचमुच ही नौ लोकोंकी कल्पना है । महाराज विश्वनाथसिंहजूरैवने ' हाहूत 'को इस्लाम-गममत पाचरों स्थान बताया है ज़ा केवल मुहम्मद साहबकी ही गति थी^२ । हम नहीं कहते कि उनका वक्तव्य किसी शास्त्रीय ग्रन्थके आधार-पर है या नहीं, पर उन्होंने ' पनाह अता ' नामक किसी मुस्लिम कविकी एक कविता प्रमाण-स्वरूप उद्धृत की है जो काफी मनोरंजक है^३ । इनके परिचयमें उन्होंने इतना ही कहा है, " पीरान पीर साहबक पास पहुँचे हैं, ऐसे जे हैं सबेलेके मालिक पनाह अता तिनकी कवित्त । "

कबीरदामने कितनी ही बार कहा है कि जो कुछ पिण्डमें है, वही ब्रह्माण्डमें
है। पिण्डमें ब्रह्माण्ड है और ब्रह्माण्डमें पिण्ड है। ऊपर जो ब्रह्माण्डका विचार
क्रिया गया है तदनुसार पृ० वीके ऊपरके दस मुकामोंकी स्थिति इस प्रकार हुई—

पृथ्वीके नीचे सात नरक-लोक हैं। इन सबकी कल्पना पदतल-एड़ी-गिट्टी-पिंडली-जानु-जंघा और तडागीमें की गई है, अर्थात् मानव-देह (पिण्ड) में आधार-चक्रके नीचे सातों नरक हैं। आधारचक्र पृथ्वीका समकक्ष है। उसके ऊपर ११ अन्य चक्रोंकी कल्पना की गई है। अब तक हम योगियोंके सात चक्र ही जानते आते हैं। इन सात चक्रोंमें कई नये जोड़कर दो उद्देश्य सिद्ध किये गये हैं। एक तो पिण्ड और ब्रह्माण्डकी समशीलताकी रक्षा और दूसरा योगियोंसे कवीर-पदका अतिशय उत्कर्ष-साधन। ये चक्र इस प्रकार हैं—

१३ अक्षर-भगवान्	६ अनाहत चक्र
१२ ब्रह्मरन्ध्र-देह	५ मनोगहाराज चक्र
११ अलख-निरंजन	४ मनःपौरुष चक्र
१० पूर्णगिरि	३ पुण्डलिनी देवता
९ आज्ञा चक्र	२ स्वाधिष्ठान चक्र
८ बलवान् चक्र	१ आधार चक्र
७ विशुद्ध-शक्ति चक्र

इन समस्तसे अतीत सत्यपुरुषका स्थान है। मध्ययुगमें इन चक्रोंको बढ़ाकर दिखानेकी प्रवृत्ति दिखाई देती है। प्रायः प्रत्येक सिद्धपुरुषके सम्प्रदायमें यह प्रवृत्ति लक्ष्य की जा सकती है। इन चक्रोंको भेद करना परम शिक्षिका प्रमाण माना जाता था। फिर भी सामान्य रूपमें यह कहा जा सकता है कि स्वयं सिद्धपुरुष लोग चक्रभेदकी अपेक्षा भक्तिको ही श्रेष्ठ समझते थे। कवीरकी ही

भोति गुरु नानकदेवने भी कहा था कि, “जो ब्रह्माण्डे सोइ पिण्डे, जो खोजे सो पावे।” जिस प्रकार ब्रह्माण्डके तीन स्तर हैं अधोलोक, मध्यलोक और ऊर्ध्वलोक, उसी प्रकार पिण्डके भी। इनकी जैसी सुन्दर विवेचना श्री सन्त पूणशिहजीने की है वह केवल सिख सम्प्रदायके ही नहीं कबीरदासके लोक मस्थान और पिण्ड-ब्रह्माण्डैक्यको समझनेमें भी बड़ी सहायक है। उसके भाव द्यक अशोको हम सप्रह कर रहे हैं।

सप्त अधोलोकोंका ब्यौरा तो वही है जो हम पहले दे चुके हैं अर्थात् एडैसे लेकर तडागी तकके सात अंगोंमें सात नरकोंकी कल्पना की गई है। मध्यलोकमें सात लोक है जो मानव-देहके सात चक्रोंमें प्रतीक रूपसे स्थित हैं—(१) चतुर्दल मूलाधार चक्रमें, भूलोक, (२) षटदल स्वाधिष्ठान चक्रमें भुवलोक, (३) दशदल मणिपूर चक्रमें स्वर्लोक [इसीसे थोड़ा हटकर अष्टदल चक्र है जिसपर मन भरमा करता है।], (४) द्वादश दलवाले अनाहत चक्रमें महर्लोक, (५) षोडशदल विशुद्ध चक्रमें जनलोक (६) द्विदल आज्ञाचक्रमें तपलोक और (७) आनिक दल सहस्रार चक्रमें सत्यलोक। परन्तु यह स्मरण रखना चाहिये कि यह पहला सहस्रार चक्र है। साधारण योगियोंकी यहीं तक गति होती है।

इसके बाद इस पिण्डमें ब्रह्माण्डकी ही भोति ऊर्ध्व लोक है। (१) ब्रह्माण्डी मनना स्थान—जो षटदल कमलके आकारका है और जहाँ त्रैलोक्यपति महान् देवका वारास्थान है, (२) शिव शक्ति-समवाय स्थान जिसे प्रथम शून्य, मध्यशून्य या महाशून्य पद कहते हैं, (३) निरालम्ब पुरी—अन्त शून्य पद, (४) शब्द-ब्रह्मस्थान—प्रणव तथा बिन्दुपदाधार, (५) निजपद—३२ दलका श्वेतकमल या भेंवर गुफा, (६) गुरुपद—निरकार देश, (७) दूसरा सहस्रार चक्र या पूर्ण पद।

यह जो द्वितीय सहस्रार पद है वह भी अन्तिम पद नहीं है। बहुत से योगी तो प्रथम सहस्रारको ही परमपद मान लेते हैं पर जो गोरखनाथ जैसे सिद्ध हैं वे दूसरे सहस्रार तक पहुँच जाते हैं। पर यह भी सब कुछ नहीं है। नानकदेव इसके भी ऊपर कई स्थानोंको पार कर महामहिमावती विहगम पुरीमें जा सके थे जो देश कालके परिच्छेदसे शून्य पारावाररहित अकथ (अवाच) पद है। विशेष विस्तारके लिए प्राण० प्रस्तावना पृ० ७५-८४ देखना चाहिये।

अस्तु, यह तो अवान्तर बात हुई। प्रासंगिक यह है कि कबीरदासने पृथ्वीके

लखर दस मुकाम माने है, वे क सि मुकाम जिय प्रकार ब्रह्माण्डमें हे उरी प्रकार
पिण्डमें भी । स्वयं कबीरसाहबने इनका साक्षात्कार किया था, इगका प्रमाण
उनकी वाणियोंमें है—

विश्व० पृ० २३९-४०, क० मन० पृ० ५७६

ध्यानसे देखा जाय तो नायपन्थी योगियोंके सूक्ष्म वेद, (देखिए ऊपर पृ० ३४) द्वैताद्वैतविलक्षण, (दे० ऊपर पृ० ३२) निरंजन पद, (दे० ऊपर पृ० ५२—५३) नायपद (दे० ऊपर चौथा अध्याय) आदिके भीतर ही ऐसी उद्भूत कल्पनाके बीज वर्तमान थे । यह मारा बखेड़ा असलमें एक बड़ी पुरानी परम्पराका विकास मालूम पड़ता है । कबीरदासके नामपर चलनेवाले बहुत-से पद इस कल्पनाके पोषक बताये जा सकते हैं । हमने पहले ही एक वाणीमें लक्ष्य किया है (ऊपर पृ० ५९) कि निरंजन एक महाठग है और उसने सारे जगतको धोखा देनेके लिए यह जाल पसार रखा है । स्वयं बीजकमें इस आशयके पद

छूँटे जा सकते हैं जिनमें बताया गया है कि अलख निरंजनके बाँधनेसे सारा जगत बँधा हुआ है^१। उसीने नाना प्रकारके कर्मचक्र बनाए हैं जिनमें संसार चक्कर मार रहा है, उसीने वेदों और शास्त्रोंका, तीर्थों और व्रतोंका, दान और पुण्यका चक्का चलाया है। बीजकर्मों इक्कीगवीं रमैनीके अन्तमें एक साखी उद्धृत की गई है, “ मैं ही सिरजाता हूँ, मैं ही मारता हूँ, मैं ही जलाता हूँ (या जीर्ण करता हूँ), मैं ही खाता हूँ, मैं ही जल और स्थलमे रमा हुआ हूँ,— मेरा ही नाम निरंजन है^२ । ” इन सबसे यह साबित होता है कि निरंजन कोई सचमुच ही वेसा ही पदार्थ है जैसा हम देख आए हैं। शास्त्रीय विचारके टीकाकार श्रीविचारदासने इस जगह निरंजनका अर्थ ‘ यम ’ किया है। परन्तु एक बार यदि हम चित्तसे निरंजनकी ऊपर बताई कल्पना हटा दे तो कमसे कम बीजकर्मके इन पदोंसे निरंजनका अर्थ सर्वशक्तिमान निर्दोष ब्रह्म किया जा सकता है। उसे दैतान समझनेकी विलकुल जरूरत नहीं।

फिर बीजकर्म ११४ वें शब्दके अनुरार भी आदिपुरुष निरंजन-त्रिदेव आदिकी परम्पराका समर्थन होता है और यह भी समर्थित होता है कि कबीरदास

१ अलख निरंजन लख न कोइ । जेहि बंधे बंधा सब लोई ।

—रमैनी २१ की साखी

सन्धुच ही इस विपत्ति-सागरसे मनुष्योंका उद्धार करनेका दावा करते थे^१ । परन्तु प्राचीन पौथियोंमें पाये गये पदोंको पढनेसे ऐसा लगता है कि निरंजनवाली पौराणिक कल्पना चाहे जितनी प्राचीन परम्पराका विकसित रूप क्यों न हो कबीरदास उसे ज्योका त्यों नहीं मानते थे । वे ब्रह्म या निरंजनको शैतान तो मानते ही नहीं थे, उल्टे उसे परम काम्य समझते थे । वस्तुतः जैसा कि इस अध्यायके आरंभमें ही बताया जा चुका है निरंजन या धर्मरायको परम देवत समझनेवाला सम्प्रदाय बादमें जिस समय कबीर पंथमें अन्तर्भुक्त हुआ था उसी समय निरंजनकी महिमा घटानेका प्रयत्न किया गया होगा । यह तो हम पहले ही देख चुके हैं कि कबीरदास द्वैताद्वैत विलक्षणवादमें योगियोंसे प्रभावित थे (ऊपर पृ० ३२-३३), फिर यह भी निश्चित है कि वे उस परम सहजावस्थाको महान् पद समझते थे जहाँ अल्लाह या रामकी गम नहीं होती^२ । कई पदोंसे स्पष्ट है कि कालसे उनका मतलब निरंजनसे नहीं है और ब्रह्म न तो उनकी दृष्टिमें ठग ही है और न ब्रह्मज्ञान हेय ही^३ ।

कबीर-ग्रन्थावलीमें एक ऐसा पद है जिससे पता चलता है कि भिन्न भिन्न चक्रोंमें देवताओंके निवासका जो विवरण कबीरदासने दिया है वह अपेक्षाकृत सहज है और सर्वांशमें ऊपर बताई हुई व्यवस्थाके अनुकूल नहीं है। षट्दल-कमलमें कालका अभाव बताया गया है और शायद 'मनके मोहन वीठुला' या विट्ठल भगवानका वह निवासस्थान है। अष्टदल कमलमें श्रीरंग केलि करते हैं पर द्वादशदल-बिहारी भगवानके रूपका स्पष्ट उल्लेख नहीं किया गया। यह जहर बताया गया है कि त्रिवेणी स्नानके (देखिये ऊपर पृ० ४५) बाद सनकादिकका साथ हो जाता है,—अर्थात् शायद वैकुण्ठबिहारी त्रिण्युक्ता स्थान नजदीक आ जाता है। फिर गगन-गुफामें अनन्ततारका-दर्शन बताया गया है और षोडशदल कमलमें बनवारीके मिल जानेकी बात है^१। ऐसा जान पड़ता है कि कबीरदासका

मतलब इस पदमें उस सहज समाधिसे है जिसमें पद पदपर भगवानका दशन होता है और इस पदमें आये हुए विट्ठल, श्रीरग, बनगारी आदि पद पारि-भाषिक नहीं बल्कि सीधे-साधे ढंगसे भगवानके वाचक हैं। सब पूछा जाय तो कबीरदास योगमार्गकी क्लिष्ट साधनाओंको भी बाह्याचार ही समझते रहे। उनके जैसा उन्मुक्त विचारका मनुष्य किसी प्रकारकी हठियोंका कायल नहीं हो सकता था। बारबार वे जिग सहज-समाधिकी घोषणा कर गये हैं उसमें नाना प्रकारके प्राणायाम, आसन, समाधि और मुद्राएँ परम-तत्त्वकी उपलब्धिके साधन हैं, साध्य नहीं। सहज समाधिसे ही अगर वह उद्देश्य सिद्ध हो जाता है तो कायाको क्लेश देनेसे क्या लाभ है ? ओंख मूँढ़े विना, मुद्रा धारे विना, आसन लगाये विना खुली ओंखोंसे परमाराध्यका मनोहर रूप देख सकना ही सहज समाधि है। ऐसे साधकका हिलना-डुलना सब कुछ परिक्रमा है, सोना-बैठना ही दण्डवत् है, बोलना ही नाम-जप है, खाना-पीना ही पूजा है। एक बार इस सहज समाधिमें जो साधक रम गया वह उस अपूर्व अनहद नादकी निरन्तर सुनता रहेगा जिसके सुनने मात्रसे रोम यकित हो जाते हैं, समस्त इन्द्रिय श्लथबन्ध हो जाते हैं, मन आनन्दसे परिपूर्ण हो जाता है^१। उसीमें समस्त कुशलोंका कुशल है जिसमें सहज समाधि प्राप्त हो जाती है। यह उपाधिमय शरीर सहज-समाधिमय बन जाता है, दुखके दुर्गमें सुखका विश्रामागार बन

अनुमानतः कबीरदासके समयका एक अपेक्षाकृत सहज मतवाद बादमें चलकर जटिल हो गया है। स्पष्ट है^२, कबीरदाग निर्गुण या निरंजन ब्रह्मको शैतान-जसा नहीं समझते थे। परन्तु यह बात भी सन्देहके परे है कि गोरख-नाथके योगमार्गमें वेदान्त, वेद, अद्वैत और निर्गुण ब्रह्मको द्वैताद्वैत-विलक्षण और सगुण-निर्गुणसे अतीत परम तत्त्वकी अपेक्षा छोटा समझा गया है और कबीरदासमें यह भाव ज्योंका त्यों रह जाता है। वस्तुतः कबीरके मतसे भगवान्के निर्गुण होनेका अर्थ सगुणनिर्गुणातीत होना होता है और यह दोनों बातें अर्थात् भगवान्को निर्गुण, निरजन और गुणातीत कहना असंगत नहीं है। यह जानी हुई बात है कि भगवान् अलौकिक गुणोंके आश्रय हैं और इसी-लिये लोकमें जो बात परस्परविरोधी दिराती है वह भगवान्में संगत हुआ करती है।

६—कुछ अन्य शब्दोंके भाग्य-विपर्यय

‘निरजन’ शब्दके इस भाग्य-विपर्ययको देखकर आश्चर्य नहीं करना चाहिये । भारतवर्षकी जलवायुमें ही कुछ ऐसा गुण है कि यहाँके साधक और पण्डित समस्त प्रचलित पौराणिक परम्पराको स्वीकार करते हैं, अपने विशेष मतकी पुष्टिके लिए उससे सगति बैठते हैं और अपने उपास्य देवको सबके सिरपर बैठा देते हैं । विष्णुको भजनेवाले शिवको विष्णुका दास बनाते हैं और शिवको भजनेवाले विष्णुको शिवका भक्त और फिर शक्तिके उपासक शिवकी छातीपर कालीका कराल ताण्डव देखकर भाव-विह्वल हो उठते हैं । यह चिरपरिचित घटना है । निरजन बेचारेको जरा कड़ा दण्ड मिला है । वह ईश्वरसे शैतान हो गया है,—अवश्य ही कबीरदासके हाथों नहीं बल्कि उनके चेलोंकी कृपासे ।—परन्तु इस प्रकारकी मनोरंजक परिणति तक कई अन्य शब्दोंको भी जाना पड़ा है । दुर्गतोकी जमातमें निरंजन अकेला नहीं है ।

सबसे अधिक मनोरंजक है शून्य और सहज, नाद और विदु तथा खसम और घरनी । शून्य और सहज तो भारतीय साहित्यके अत्यधिक मनोरंजक शब्दोंमेंसे हैं । बौद्ध महायान सम्प्रदायके दार्शनिकोंकी दो शाखायें हैं । एक मानती है कि ससारमें सब कुछ शून्य है, किसीकी भी कोई सत्ता नहीं और दूसरी शाखावाले मानते हैं कि जगत्के सभी पदार्थ बाहरी तौरपर असत् होनेपर भी चित्तके निकट सत् हैं । असत् अर्थात् सत्ता-रहित या नौन एक्जिस्टेंट और सत् अर्थात् सत्तावान् या एक्जिस्टेंट । इन दोनों शाखाओंमेंसे पहलीको शून्यवाद कहते हैं और दूसरीको विज्ञानवाद । नागार्जुनने शून्यकी व्याख्या करते हुए कहा है कि इसे शून्य भी नहीं कह सकते, अशून्य भी नहीं कह सकते और दोनों (=शून्याशून्य) भी नहीं कह सकते । फिर यह भी नहीं कह सकते कि यह शून्य भी नहीं है और अशून्य भी नहीं है । इसी भावकी प्रशंसिके लिए ‘शून्य’ का व्यवहार होता है^१ । इस प्रकार यह सिद्धान्त बहुत कुछ अनिर्वचनीयतावादका रूप ग्रहण कर लेता है । हमने ऊपर देखा है

उभय नोभय नैव प्रज्ञप्त्यर्थं तु कथ्यते ॥

(पृ० ४४) कि नायपथी लोग अपने रागके ऊपरी सदृशार चक्रको 'शून्य चक्र' कहते हैं। उनके मतसे जब जीवात्मा नाना प्रकारकी यौगिक क्रियाओं-द्वारा इस चक्रमें पहुँचता है तो वह समस्त ब्रह्मोंसे ऊपर उठता है और 'केवल' रूपमें विराजता है। यही शून्यावस्था है जिरामे आत्माको और किसी प्रकारकी अनुभूति नहीं होती, न सुखकी न दुःखकी, न रागकी, न द्वेषकी, न हर्षकी, न भ्रमर्षकी इन रागस्त ब्रह्मोंसे रहित कंत्रलावरथाको शून्यावस्था कहना अनुचित नहीं है। पर स्पष्ट ही यह अर्थ बोद्ध अर्थसे कुछ दूर हट गया है। मजेदार बात यह है कि योगी लोग इस केवल 'शून्यावस्था' को 'शून्या-शून्य-अवस्था' भी कहते हैं और इस प्रकार शब्दोंमें नागार्जुनके बताये हुए परम लक्ष्यको ज्योका त्यों स्वीकार करते हुए भी अर्थमें एकदम भिन्न हो गये हैं।

यह जो केवलावस्था है वह और भी पुराने कालसे सम्बद्ध है। सहजयानी सिद्ध लोग इसी केवलावस्थाको बार बार शून्य पदसे पुकारते हैं (चर्या० १३-१, १७-२, २८-५, ३१-१ इत्यादि)। इन सहजयानी सिद्धोंने प्रायः 'शून्य' और 'सहज' शब्दका व्यवहार एक साथ किया है। यह परम्परा अर्थात् 'शून्य' और 'सहज' का साथ व्यवहार करना नायपथी योगियोंमें ज्योकी त्यों चली आई है और कबीरदास आदि सन्तोंने भी इस परम्पराको लुप्त होने नहीं दिया है। कबीरदास प्राय 'सहज-शून्य' का एक ही साथ प्रयोग करते हैं और कितनी ही जगह उन्होंने एक ही अर्थमें भी प्रयोग किया है। हम पहले ही देख आये हैं कि सहजावस्था जो नायपथियोंकी चरम साधना है इस शून्यावस्थासे भिन्न नहीं है। यही बात सहजयानी सिद्धोंके विषयमें भी कही जा सकती है। इस मतमें चार प्रकारके आनन्द माने गये हैं प्रथमानन्द, परमानन्द विरमानन्द और सहजानन्द। परन्तु योगियोंके 'सहजानन्द' से सहजयानियोंके 'सहजानन्द' का तार्किक भेद है। योगीको जहा इस अवस्थामें आत्मोपलब्धि होती है, वह आत्मारास हो जाता है अर्थात् अपने आपही रमने लगता है, वहाँ सहजयानीको इस अवस्थामें इन्द्रिय-बोधके लोप हो जानेका तो अनुभव होता ही है, अपने आपको जाननेकी स्थिति भी लुप्त हो जाती है। वहाँ वह केवल एक ऐसी अवस्थामें पहुँच जाता है जिसे किसी शब्दसे कहकर नहीं समझाया जा सकता, जो अनुभवेकगम्य है। सरहपाद यही बात बतानेके लिये कह गये हैं कि—

इन्दिअ जत्थ विलअ गउ, णद्धिउ अप्प सहावा ।

सो हल्ले सहज न तत्तु फुड्ढ, पुच्छहि गुफ पावा ॥

कबीरदासके आश्रिभावके अव्यवहित पूर्वकालमें एक ऐसी भी अत्रस्या वीती है जब सहजयानी सिद्ध लोग शून्यको तनात्मक बतानेके लिये एक अन्य शब्दका व्यवहार करने लगे थे। यह शब्द है 'सुखराज' या 'महासुख'। इतना वे भी मानते थे कि सर्वज्ञ भगवान् बुद्धदेवने इस शब्दका कभी प्रयोग नहीं किया और भावकी प्रज्ञप्तिके लिये भी कुछ नहीं कहा। वस्तुतः 'सुखराज' अर्थात् अनात्मक 'सुख' की कल्पना बौद्ध धर्ममें बहुत परवर्ती घटना है। परन्तु साथ ही इस मतके माननेवाले बुद्धदेवके मौनका अपन पक्षकी पुष्टि ही उपयोग करते थे। उनका कहना था कि यद्यपि भगवान् बुद्ध सर्वज्ञ थे तथापि वे इस महासुखराज विषयमें जो मौन रह गये वह इसलिये कि यह वाणीमें परे था, 'जय हो इस कारणरहित सुखराजकी, जो जगतके नाशमान चंचल पदार्थोंमें एकमात्र स्थिर वस्तु है और सर्वज्ञको भी इसकी व्याख्या करते समय वचन-दरिद्र हो जाना पड़ा था।—'

जयति सुखराज एप कारणरहित सदोदितो जगता ।

यस्य च निगदन-समये वचनदरिद्रो बभूव सर्वज्ञः ॥

सो यह सुखराज ही सार है, यही शून्यावस्था है क्योंकि इसका न आदि है, न अन्त है, न मध्य है। न इसमें अपना ज्ञान रहता है न परायेका। न यह जन्म है न मोक्ष, न भव, न निर्वाण। इसी अपूर्व महासुखराजको सहपादने इस प्रकार कहा है—

आइ ण अन्त ण मज्झ णउ णउ भव णउ णिब्बाण ।

एहु सो परम महासुह णउ पर णउ अप्पाण ॥

—ज० डि० ले० पृ० १३

किम प्रकर यह सहजमत बादमें चलकर सहजिया वैष्णव सम्प्रदायमें बदल गया यह साधनाके इतिहासमें बड़ी मनोरंजक कहानी है, पर हम उधर नहीं जा सकते क्यों कि वह कबीरदासके बादकी घटना है।

कबीरदासने 'शून्य' और 'सहज' से जिस प्रकारकी समाधिकी बात कही है वह योगियोंकी सहजावस्थासे भिन्न है। वे उस सन्तको अपना सारा जप-तप दलालीमें भेंट कर देनेको तैयार थे जो उन्हें सहज सुखके योग्य बना दे, जो उन्हें एक बूढ़ सी राम-रस चखा दे। यह राम ही उनकी सहजा-

वस्थाका सुख है^१ । इसी 'राम-रस' का आस्वादन उन्होने सहज शून्यमें किया था । इसी 'रामरस' से शिव सनकादि मत्त हो गये थे । इडा और पिंगलाकी भट्टी बनाई, उसमें ब्रह्म-अग्नि जला दी, सूर्य और चन्द्रसे दसो दरवाजे बन्द कर दिये और उट्टी गंगा बहाकर पानीकी व्यवस्था की, तब जाकर पोचो प्राणोको साथ लेकर 'राम-रस' चुआया गया और कबीरदासने छक कर पान किया । सद्गुरु न मिले होते तो यह चिचित्र रस सम्भन न होता^२ । खैर, कबीरदास भाग्यशाली थे, उन्हें राम-रसका चस्का लग गया और वे दिन-रात इस महारसमें बुद बने रहे । इस प्रकार कबीरदास हृद छोड़कर बेहदमें पहुँच सके थे और वहाँ 'शून्य' राशेवरमें आप्राण मज्जन करके ऐसे महलमें विश्राम कर सके थे जहाँ मुनिजन भी नहीं पहुँच पाते^३ । राहजावस्था भी कबीरदासके मतसे वह है जहाँ भक्त सहज ही भगवान्‌को पा सके । पुत्र-कलत्र और वित्तका त्याग करना कृच्छ्रता है, कोई एक ऐरा योग है जिसमें ये चीजें स्वयं छूट जाती हैं ।

३ हृद छाडि बेहद गया, किया सुन्नि असनान ।

मुनिजन महल न पावई, तहा किया विश्राम ॥

—क० ग्र०, ५-११ (पृ० १३)

कबीरदासने इसी अनासक्ति-योगको अपनाया था और उन्हें अपने पुत्र और बलत्रकी ममता और अर्थ और कामकी चिन्ता सहज ही चली गई थी,— वे ' एकमेक ' होकर रामसे सहज ही मिल सके थे—

सहजै सहजै सब गए, सुत बिन कामिणि-काम ।

एकमेक है मिलि रह्यौ, दासि कबीरा राम ॥

सहज सहज सब कोई कहै, सहज न चीन्है कोइ ।

जिन्ह सहजै हरिजी मिलै, सहज कहीजै सोइ ॥

—क० प्र० २१, ३-४ (पृ० ४२)

किन्तु हमने ऊपर देखा है कि कबीरपथी लोगोंने इस ' सहज ' शब्दका भी लोक विशेषके अर्थमें ही प्रयोग किया है । कबीरदासने यद्यपि यहाँ सहज ही हरिको पा लिया था पर कबीरके शिष्योंको यह पसन्द नहीं था कि उन्हें सहज ही छोड़ दिया जाय । सो सहज शून्यकी नैरात्म्य, केवल्य, महासुख, राम रस-निर्झरसे होती हुई सहज लोक तरु पहुँचनेकी यात्रा बडी ही मनोरंजक है । फिर भी इतना तो सन्तोष क्रिया ही जा सकता है कि उस परिणतिके पश्चात् भी सहजलोकमें वास करनेवाला सहज-पुरुष निरंजन जैसा ठग और धोकेबाज नहीं बताया गया है और वह सत्यलोक-रूप परमपदसे बस एक ही सीढी नीचे है ।

' खसम ' शब्द और भी मनोरंजक है । सिद्धोंके गानों और दोहोंमें यह कई जगह आया है । सरोजवज्रकी निम्नलिखित चौपाईमें यह दो बार आया है । एक जगह केवल ' खसम ' है और दूसरी जगह ' खसम-महावे ' या ' खसम-स्वभावेन ' के रूपमें है—

सब्र रुअ तहि खसम करिज्जन ।

खसमसहाद्वै मण वि धरिज्जइ ॥

दुर्भाग्यवश इस चौपाईपर अद्वयवज्रकी टीका खण्डित मिली है । आखिरी पंक्तिका अर्थ उन्हें ' मनश्च खसमस्वभावेन धार्यते ' अर्थात् ' मन भी रामम स्वभावेसे धारण किया जाता है ' इस प्रकार किया है । परन्तु इसके बादकी चौपाईकी टीकामें जो कुछ लिखा है उससे कोई सन्देह नहीं रह जाता कि ' खसम ' वस्तुतः सहजयानी लोगोंकी सहजावस्था या शून्यावस्थाका वाचक शब्द है । ' खसम ' का शब्दार्थ भी ' शून्यके समान ' या ' आकाशके समान ' (नायपथियोंके शब्द ' शून्योपम ' और ' गगनोपम ' से तुलना कीजिये ।)

है। अद्वयवज्र लिखाते हैं कि, “ तथा सोऽपि रासमस्वरूपं मन, तस्मिन्मनः क्रियते। एव यः करोति स उत्तमः पुरुषः सहज्रनभावे रम्यते तीव्रत इति यावत्। ” अर्थात् आकाशके समान व्यापक मनमे जो साधक अपने मनको लीन कर देता है वह उत्तम पुरुष निश्चय ही राभासे तीव्र करता है। (सहजान्नाय-वर्जिता पृ० ११०-१११)

इसी तरह शजरपादके निम्नलिखित पदमें ‘ खसमे रामतुला ’ शब्द आगा है—

हेरिषे मेरि तइला बाडी खगमे समतुला
पुरुषए सेरे कभासु फुटिला।

टीकाकार यहाँ ‘ रासमे रामतुला ’ का अर्थ ‘ प्रभास्वरतुल्यभूता ’ अर्थात् ‘ अत्यन्त उज्ज्वल ’ किया है। जान पड़ता है कि सहजयानी लोगोमे इस शब्दका प्रयोग सून्यावस्था और नेरात्म्य-भानके लिये किया जाता था। इस भावके व्यञ्जक जितने भी पुराने शब्द योगियों और तांत्रिकोंके साहित्यमे वच रहे हैं उनका अर्थ योद्धा बदल गया है। नेरात्म्यका रवान ‘ भावाभावविनिर्मुक्तावस्था ’ ने ले लिया है अर्थात् बोद्ध लोग जहो उन शब्दोमे आत्माके लुप्त होनेका भाव लिया करते थे (नेरात्म्य), वहाँ योगी और तांत्रिक लोग एक ऐसी अवस्थाका अर्थ रामक्षणे लगे जिसमे साधकको न भावभा अनुभव होता है न अभावता—न तो वह ‘ है ’ को महसूस करता है और न ‘ ना ’ को (भाव-अभाव विनिर्मुक्त-अवस्था)। यही योगियोकी दुर्लभा सहजावस्था है। ध्यान देनेकी बात है कि इस अवस्थाके लिये योगियोंन ‘ रासम ’ शब्दके तुल्यार्थक ‘ गगनोपम ’ शब्दका व्यवहार किया है। ‘ अश्वत्-गीता ’ में अव्युत्की इस गगनोपमावस्थाका विस्तारपूर्वक वर्णन है। गगनोपमावस्था (या रा-सम अवस्था) जहाँ द्रव और अद्रव, नित्य और अनित्य, सत्य और असत्य देवता और देवलोक आदि कुछ भी प्रतीत नहीं होते, जो मायाप्रपञ्चके ऊपर है, जो दम्भादि व्यापारके अनीत है, जो सत्य और असत्यके परे है, जो ज्ञानरूपी अमृतपानका परिणाम है—

 स्वरूपरूप परमार्थतत्त्वम् ॥

जय यह शब्द कबीरदास तरु पहुँचा तबतक हमसे मिलता-जुलता एक अरबी शब्द खमम (=पति) भारतवर्षकी सीमामें पहुँच चुका था । कबीरदासको यह शब्द दो मूलोंसे प्राप्त हुआ । इटयोगियोंके माध्यमसे यह आत्माके शून्यचक्रमें पहुँचकर समभावकी अवस्थाको प्राप्त होनेके अर्थमें आया और मुसलमानी माध्यमसे पतिके अर्थमें । हमने पहले ही देखा कि कबीरदास योगियोंके कृच्छ्राचार-द्वारा प्राप्त समाधिमें बहुत ऊँची अवस्था नहीं मानते थे । मेरुदण्डपर बुलेचा डालकर समाधि लगानेको वे कच्चा योग ही समझते थे—

मेरुदण्डपर डारि दुलैचा जोगी तारी लवैं ।

सो सुमेरकी खाक उडैगी कच्चा योग कमावैं ॥

बीजकके ६५ वें पदमें यह बताया गया है कि योगियोंका महाकाळको धोखा देनेकी धुनमें लगे रहना कितना हैस्यास्पद है । भला हृदयमें भगवद्भक्ति न हो तो शरीरकी साधना कहाँ तक साध दे सकती है ? जो रस बघनेमें है ही नहीं, उसे टोंटीके रास्ते गिरानेका प्रयत्न हास्यास्पद नहीं तो क्या है—

जरि गौ कन्था धज गौ दूटी । भजि गौ डडे खपर गौ फूटी ।

कहहिं कबीर इ कलि है खोटी । जो रखे करवा सो निकरे टोंटी ।।

इसीलिए कबीरदासने शून्य समाधिवाली गगनोपमावस्था या खसम भावको सामाजिक ध्यानन्द ही माना है, बड़ी चीज तो सहज समाधि है जिसके लिये न

उड़के जहरत है न कंथाकी, न मुद्रा आवश्यक है न आसन (पृ० ६७ टि० देखिये) । यही कारण है कि खसमका अर्थ राव समय उन्होंने ' निकृष्ट पति ' समझा । इन्द्रिय-बधुओका रासमके साथ ' सूतने ' अर्थात् औषिक्त क्रियाओद्वारा मुग्ध बने रहनेको उन्होंने कुछ इसी अर्थमें प्रयोग किया है । फिर रासम वह पति है जो अपनी पत्नीको वश न कर सके और इंद्रियोंके दाम्न मनको भी इसी लिये कबीरदासने कभी कभी रासम कहा है । कमरा कम कबीरदासके नामपर चलने वाले बहुतेसे परवर्ती भजनोर्म इसका इस दूसरे अर्थमें ही प्रयोग अधिक है । टीकाकारों और भक्ताने अपनी उर्वर कल्पनाके बलपर इस शब्दका अर्थ कभी जीव, कभी मन और कभी परमात्मा भी किया है ।

मेरा अनुमान है कि कबीरदास ' खसम ' शब्दकी पुरानी परम्परासे जहर वाकफ थे और उन्होंने जान-बूझकर खसमावस्थाकी तुलना निकृष्ट पतिसे की है । उद्देश्य योगियोंकी कच्चाई बताना था । तिहतरवीं रमैनीमें यह शब्द इस प्रकार आया है :

आबन मरै सुपैबी सौरी, खसम न चीन्है घरनि भै बौरी ।

सौंझ-मकारा दियना बारै, खसम छोड़ि सुमिरै लगवारै ।

ठीक इसी प्रकारकी उक्तियों सिद्धोंकी वाणियोंमें खोजी जा सकती हैं । सिद्ध लोग ' घरणि ' या घरनीका अर्थ तीन वृत्तियोंमेंसे कोई एक समझते हैं । यद्यपि इन तीन वृत्तियोंके नाम उस जमानेकी नीच रागिणी जानेवाली जातियोंके नामपर हैं पर वे बौद्ध तान्त्रिक साधनकी बहुत ऊँची अवस्थाओंकी छोटिका हैं । सहज-सतकी तीन वृत्तियों (या मार्ग) ये हैं (१) अवधूती, (२) चाण्डाली, (३) डोम्बी या बगाली । अवधूतीमें द्वैत-ज्ञान बना रहता है, चाण्डालीमें द्वैत ज्ञानके बने रहनेको कह भी सकते हैं, नहीं भी कह सकते, पर डोम्बी या बंगालीमें विनुद्ध अद्वैत-ज्ञान ही विराजा करता है । एकका रास्ता इबा मार्गसे है, दूसरीका विगला मार्गसे और तीसरीका सुपुत्रासे । भूसुकपादने इसी लिए अपनेको सम्बोधित करके कहा है कि ' ऐ भूसुक, तूने चण्डालिनी घरनीको तो अपना लिया, अब आज बंगालिन घरनी भी बना ले और इस प्रकार सर्वद्वन्द्व-विनुर्मुक्त खसम-भावको प्राप्त हो '

आजि भूसु बंगाली भइली, गिअ घरणी चाण्डाली लइली ।

इस प्रकार इस साहित्यमें ' घरणी ' शब्द प्रायः ही तीन वृत्तियोंके अर्थमें संकेतित है । इस अर्थके प्रकाशमें कबीरदासकी ऊपरवाली रमैनीका विचार किया जाय तो

अर्थ बहुत साफ हो जाता है। खसम भावको पहचाननेवाली वृत्ति सुषुम्नावाहिनी है, अन्य मार्ग जो द्वैतज्ञानमूलक हैं, उन्हें यह वृत्ति पहचानती नहीं।

इसी प्रकार निम्नलिखित साखीमें भी खसम भावकी अपेक्षा भक्तिप्रतिपाद्य भगवद्भावको श्रेष्ठ बताया है—

भोरै भूली खसमके, कजहुँ न किया विचार।

सतगुरुसाहिब बताइया पूरवला भरतार ॥

परतु ऐसा जान पड़ता है कि या तो कभी कभी कबीरदास स्वयं खसम शब्द परम्परासमर्थित अर्थमें प्रयोग नहीं करते थे या फिर ऐसे पद कबीरदासके नाम पर बादमें चल पड़े होंगे। बीजकमें ही खसम शब्दका ऐसा प्रयोग पाया जाता है जिसका बहुत सीख-तान करने पर भी 'खसमावस्था' अर्थ नहीं किया जा सकता^१। उदाहरणार्थ,

भाई, मैं दूनो कुल उजियारी।

बारह खसम नहरे खायो, सोरह खायो ससुरारी।

दत्यादि (शब्द ६२)

हमने यह पहले ही देखा है कि कबीरदासजीमें शून्य-सहजमें 'राम रस' पानेका अनुभव किया था। अपने आपको खसमावस्था या गगनोपम भावके ऊपर उठाकर प्रेम-प्रवण 'हरिरस' की ओर उन्मुख करनेके लिए वे जो कुछ कहते हैं उससे तो खसम शब्दका पुराना अर्थ ही समर्थित होता है—

धीरौ मेरे मनवों तोहि धरि टोंगौ, तं तो कियो मेरे खसमसँ खाँगौं।

प्रेमकी जेवरिया तेरे गले बाँधूँ, तहाँ लै जाउँ जहाँ मेरे मावौ।

काथा नगरी पैसि किया मैं बासा, हरि-रस छौंढि विपै-रसि माता ॥

कहै कबीर तन-मनका ओरा, भाव-भगति हरिसँ गँठ जोरा ॥

इस प्रकार 'सहज' और 'शून्य' की भाँति 'खसम' और 'घरनी' की परिणति भी साधना साहित्यकी एक मनोरञ्जक घटना है।

१ प० चन्द्रबली पाण्डेने साप्ताहिक 'आज' में एक लेख 'खसमकी खोज' नामसे लिखा था। इसमें उन्होंने दिखाना चाहा है कि खसम शब्दका अर्थ कबीरदासकी वाणि योंमें 'निष्कृत पति' नहीं होता बल्कि पति स्वामी आदि साधारण अर्थमें ही होता है। पाण्डेजीकी नहीं मानते कि कबीरदासके इस शब्दके प्रयोगमें कोई जटिलता है। पाण्डेजीके लेखमें जानने योग्य बातें हैं पर मुझे अपना मत परिवर्तन करनेकी कोई आवश्यकता नहीं मालूम हुई।

७—योगपरक रूपक और उलटबाँसियाँ

कबीरदासके नामपर बहुतसे योग-परक रूपक और उलटबाँसियोंका पाया जाना बड़े भारी भ्रम और विवादका विषय बन गया है। ऐतिहासिक दृष्टिसे न देखा सकेके कारण अनेक पण्डित इसके वास्तविक रहस्यको नहीं समझ सके। कबीरदास जिस वशमें उत्पन्न हुए थे उसमें योग-चर्चा अत्यंत मामूली धर्म-चर्चाके समान थी। बाहर भी योगियोंका बहुत जबरदस्त प्रभाव था। इन योगियोंकी अद्भुत क्रियायें साधारण जनताके लिए आश्चर्य और श्रद्धाका विषय थीं। परन्तु इन योगियोंका किसी भी विषयमें साधारण जनतासे साम्य नहीं था। बल्कि ये लोग गर्वपूर्वक चोपणा करते फिरते थे कि वे तीन लोकसे न्यारे हैं। सारी दुनिया भ्रममें उलटी बही जा रही है, सही रास्तेपर वे ही लोग हैं जो हठयोगके सिद्धान्तों और व्यवहारोंको मानते हैं। 'गोरक्ष-सिद्धान्त-सग्रह' में कहा गया है कि

“एक योगसम्प्रदायके सिवा अन्य सभी मतोंकी बात उट्टी है। नाथका अश नाद है, नादका अश प्राण और उधर शक्तिका अश बिन्दु है और बिन्दुका अश शरीर। इससे स्पष्ट है कि नाद और प्राण बिन्दु और शरीरसे अधिक महत्त्वपूर्ण हैं, अर्थात् पुत्र-क्रमकी अपेक्षा शिष्य क्रम अधिक मान्य है। दुनियाके लोग ठीक इसके उल्टे चलते हैं। उनका दृष्टिमें पुत्र-क्रम ही अधिक मान्य है और शिष्य-क्रम अल्प-मान्य। परन्तु नाथपन्थी लोग शिष्यक्रमको प्रधान मानते हैं, और यही ठीक भी है। दुनियाका क्रम है : धर्म-अर्थ-काम-मोक्ष, ब्रह्मचर्य-गार्हस्थ्य-वानप्रस्थ-सन्यास, शृङ्गार-हास्य-करण रौद्र बीभत्स-भयानक-अद्भुत-शान्त, पृथ्वी-जल-तेज-वायु-आकाश, ब्रह्मा-ब्रह्मण्य-शिव इत्यादि, —सब उल्टा। क्योंकि जो श्रेष्ठ है उसको पहले स्थान देना चाहिए अपेक्षाकृत कम श्रेष्ठको बादमें। इस प्रकार वास्तविक क्रम विरुद्ध उल्टा होगा। यथा मोक्ष धर्म-अर्थ-काम, सन्यास-वानप्रस्थ-गार्हस्थ्य-ब्रह्मचर्य, शान्त-करण अद्भुत-वीर-रौद्र-हास्य-भयानक-बीभत्स शृङ्गार . इत्यादि। यही योग सम्प्रदायकी रीति है, यही तन्त्र सम्प्रदायकी।” (पृ० ५८—५९।) इस सम्प्रदायिक वृत्तिका परिणाम यह हुआ कि योगी और तान्त्रिक लोग दुनियासे उलटी बात कहनेके अभ्यस्त हो गये। विरोधाभास यह कि ऐसा कहनेसे उनकी

होम सब व्यर्थ हैं ! क्योंकि घरनी तो असलमें महामुद्रा है । उसके बिना निर्वीण पद कैसे मिल सकता है^१ ।

योगियो, सहजानियो और तान्त्रिकोंके ग्रन्थोंसे ऐसी उल्टनागियोंका सप्रह क्रिया जाय तो एक विराट् पोधा तैयार हो सक्ता है । परन्तु हमें अधिक संग्रह करनेकी जरूरत नहीं । इस प्रकरणमें जो प्रसंग उल्लेखित क्रिया जा रहा है उसीको सुनकर धैर्य सम्हाल रराना आसान काम नहीं है ।

सहजयानियोंमें इस प्रकारकी उल्टी गानियोंका नाम 'सन्ध्या भाषा' प्रचलित था । म० म० हरप्रसाद शास्त्रीके मतसे 'सन्ध्या-भाषा'से मतला ऐसी भाषासे है जिसका कुछ अर्थ रामझमें भाये और कुछ अस्पष्ट लगे, पर ज्ञानके दीपकसे जिसका सब स्पष्ट हो जाय । इस व्याख्यामें 'सन्ध्या' शब्दका अर्थ 'गोष्ठा' मान लिया गया है और यह भाषा अन्धकार और प्रकाशके बीचकी, — सन्ध्याकी भाँति ही कुछ स्पष्ट और कुछ अस्पष्ट बताइ गई है । किन्तु ऐसे बहुतसे विद्वान् हैं जो उक्त भाषाका यह अर्थ रवीकार नहीं करना चाहते । एक पण्डितने अनुमान भिन्नया है कि इस शब्दका अर्थ सन्धि देशकी भाषा है । सधि दश भी, इग पण्डितके अनुमानके अनुसार, वह प्रदेश है जहाँ विहारकी पूर्वी सीमा और बंगालकी पश्चिमी सीमा मिलती है । यह अनुमान स्पष्ट ही वे बुनियाद है, क्योंकि इसमें मान लिया गया है कि बंगाल और विहारके आधुनिक विभाग सदासे इसी भाँति चले आ रहे हैं । म० म० प० विशुशेखर भट्टाचार्यका मत है कि यह शब्द मूलन 'सन्धा भाषा' है, 'सन्ध्या भाषा' नहीं । अर्थ अभिगन्धिसहित या अभिप्राययुक्त भाषा है । आप 'सन्धा' शब्दको संस्कृत 'राधाय' (=अभिप्रेत्य) का अपभ्रष्ट रूप मानते हैं । बौद्ध शास्त्रके किसी वचनमें सहजयान और वज्रयानमें यह रूप धारण क्रिया है । अगलमें, जैसा कि भट्टाचार्य महाशयने सिद्ध कर दिया है, वेदों और उपनिषदांमें भी ऐसे उदाहरण रोज निकाले जा सकते हैं जिनमें सधा भाषा जैसी भाषाके प्रयोग मिल जाते हैं । परन्तु बोद्ध नर्सकी अन्तिम यात्राके समय यह शब्द और यह शैली

अत्यधिक प्रचलित हो गई थी और साधारण जनतापर इसका प्रभाव भी बहुत अधिक था ।

परन्तु रूपको और उलटबोसियोंको समझनेके लिये केवल ऊपर बताये हुए शब्द ही पर्याप्त नहीं हैं। वस्तु-धर्मके साथ जिस किसी भी उपमानका साधर्म्य हो सकता है उसे ही अतिशयोक्ति अलंकारकी शैलीपर उरा वस्तुका वाचक मान लिया गया है। उदाहरणार्थ चित्त चञ्चल है, इसलिये हरिण-मच्छ-आदि कई चान्चल-धर्मी उपमानोंको चित्तका वाचक मान लिया गया है। इसी तरह समारमें विषयी लोग डूब जाते हैं इसीलिये वह सागरका समानधर्मी है जिसमें एक बार पड़ जानेवालेको मार्ग नहीं मिलता। फिर वह गहन वनके समान भी है जहाँ पद पदपर हिच जन्तुओंके समान कुचुत्तियोंका भय है। इस प्रकार संसारके लिये 'सागर' और 'वन' पर्यायवाची हो गये हैं।

योगियोंके उक्त शब्दोंके साथ कवीरदासके अपने शब्द भी मिले हुए हैं। 'धिलैया', 'भूसा', 'पूत', 'बोझ माता' आदि शब्द योगियोंके साहित्यमें नहीं मिलते। कमसे कम मुझे देखनेको नहीं मिले। इन स्थानोंपर उद्देश्य माया और जीवसे होता है। इस प्रकार श्री विचारदासजीने अपनी विद्वत्तापूर्ण पुस्तकमें इन शब्दोंको संकेतित माना है।

मन—मच्छ, माछ, मीन, जुलाहा, साउज, सियार, रोझ, हस्ती, मतंग, निरजन आदि।

जीवात्मा—पुत्र, पारथ, जुलाहा, दुलहा, सिंह, भूसा, भौरा, योगी आदि।

माया—माता, नारी, छेरी, गैया, बिलैया।

नर-तन—थौवन, दिवस, दिन।

इन्द्रिय—सखी, सहेलरी, इत्यादि।

—विचार० पृ० ४०

१ खोज की जाय तो कवीरदासके पदोंमें इन शब्दोंसे मिलते जुलते संकेतित बहुत से शब्द ढूँढे जा सकने ह। उदाहरणार्थ, बिहगम (क० ग्र० पद ६), मृग (पद ९), बिल (पद ९), गगा यमुना (पद १४ और १८), बेलि (पृ० २६, साखी ५८, ३-४), राई (पद ६, १८, १७६) चन्द्र (पद ६, १८, १७७) त्रिवेणी (पद ४, १८) इत्यादि भूरिज्ञ पाये जा सकते ह।

श्री विचारदासजीका दावा है कि ये शब्द सम्प्रदायमें स्वीकृत हैं। परन्तु उन्होंने भी यह दावा नहीं किया कि ये ही सब कुछ हैं। इनके अतिरिक्त और भी बहुत-से शब्द हैं जिनकी चर्चा उन्होंने विस्तार-भयसे नहीं की है। परन्तु यह बात अच्छी तरहसे समझ लेना चाहिए कि अतिशयोक्ति अलंकारकी शैलीपर कहे जानेपर भी वे रमयं अतिशयोक्ति अलंकार नहीं हैं। इनमें कुछका तो तत्तत् शास्त्रमें सकेतितार्थ निश्चित ही है अर्थात् वहाँ उपमेयोपमान भावकी कल्पना ही नहीं की गई। उदाहरणार्थ, जब इडा और पिंगलाको गंगा और यमुना कहा गया है तो प्रस्तुत गंगा-यमुनामें (उपमानमें), अप्रस्तुत इडा पिंगलाके (उपमेयके) अथेका 'निगिरण-पूर्वक अध्यवसान' नहीं है, जब कि ऐसा होना ही अतिशयोक्ति अलंकारका बीज है,—बल्कि वहाँ गंगा-शब्दका सकेतितार्थ ही इडा है और पिंगला शब्दका सकेतितार्थ ही यमुना है। इस प्रकार जितनी उलट-बॉसियाँ हैं उनमें साधारण तौरसे विपरीत भाव दिखानेपर भी योगशास्त्रीय परिभाषाओंका ही व्यवहार है। परन्तु यही बात रूपकोंके बारेमें ठीक नहीं है ('रूपक' से यहाँ अलंकार रूपकका विशिष्ट अर्थ न लेकर सामान्य अर्थ ही लेना चाहिए)। अधिकांश रूपकोंमें प्रस्तुत अर्थका निगिरण सचमुच ही हुआ है जिसका परिणाम यह हुआ है कि टीकाकारोंकी कल्पनाको यथेष्ट स्वाधीनता मिल गई है। एक ही पदमें आये हुए एक ही शब्दको भिन्न भिन्न टीकाकारोंने भिन्न भिन्न अर्थोंमें ग्रहण किया है। इस तरह ऊपर श्री विचारदास द्वारा बताये सकेतितार्थोंको साम्प्रदायिक मन्त्र मान भी लें तो इनके अतिरिक्त बहुतेरे शब्द रह जाते हैं जिनके लिये अलग अलग कल्पनाकी गुंजाइश रह जाती है।

परम्परा निस्सन्देह किसी तत्त्वके समझनेका उत्तम साधन है, पर परम्पराका ऐतिहासिक विकास और भी अधिक महत्त्वपूर्ण साधन है। सहजयानी सिद्धों, नाथपन्थी योगियों और निर्गुण मतके सन्तोंके सांकेतिक शब्दोंकी तुलना करनेपर हम निस्सन्देह इस परिणामपर पहुँचते हैं कि दूसरी श्रेणीके सकेतितार्थोंमें,— अर्थात् जहाँ प्रस्तुतार्थका अप्रस्तुतार्थ द्वारा निगिरण हो गया होता है वहाँ धर्म ही संकेतका कारण है, धर्म नहीं। दूसरे शब्दोंमें कहा जाय तो जब ये सिद्ध, योगी और सन्त लोग मनको मच्छ या हरिण कहते हैं तब 'मन' से संकेतित चाञ्चल्य-धर्म होता है, चाञ्चल्यधर्म ही हरिण नहीं। वह हरिण किसी

अन्य साधर्म्यवश किसी अन्य वस्तुका द्योतक भी हो सकता है। 'हरिण' या 'मच्छ' शब्दसे साधर्म्यके प्रसंगवश कई पदाथ ग्रहण किये जा सकते हैं। उदाहरणार्थ हरिणका भीतियुक्त स्वभाव वगी कमजोर साधकका भी द्योतक हो सकता है।

अधिक निश्चित उदाहरणके लिये भूसूकपादका यह यह पद लिया जाय—

अपणा मासे हरिणा वैरी । खनह न छाइअ भूऊ अहेरी ॥

तिण न छुअइ हरिण पिणइ न पाणी । हरिणा हरिणीर निलअ न जाणी ।

यहा—हरिण=चित्त

आखेटिक=स्वयं भूसूकपाद (साधक)

हरिणी=ज्ञानमुद्रा

इसमें 'हरिण' 'हरिणी' शब्द जो भिन्न भिन्न अर्थमें प्रयुक्त हुए हैं वे दो भिन्न धर्मोंके कारण, यह बात टीकाकारने साफ साफ स्वीकार की है^१। धर्म भी एक अर्थगत है दूसरा शब्दगत। चित्तको हरिण इसीलिये कहा गया है कि वह चाञ्चल्यधर्मि है और ज्ञान मुद्राको हरिणी इसीलिये कहा गया है कि विषयान और भयग्रह आदिको हरिण करती है और भूसूकपाद अपनेको आखेटिक इसलिये कहते हैं कि उनमें गुरुके वचनरूपी वाणोंसे चित्त-चाञ्चल्यको वेग सवने योग्य आखेटकत्व धर्म विद्यमान है।

इसी प्रकार कृष्णाचायेके,

मारिअ शसासु ननेद घरे शाली ।

माअ मारिअ कान्ह भइल कपाली ॥

इस पदमें,

सास = श्वास, ननेद = इन्द्रिय, मा = काया, कपाली = स्वयं कृष्णाचाय
(= साधक)^२ ।

२ चर्या० ११-५, पृ० २१-२२

—चर्या० पृ० १२-१३

इन शब्दोंमें साधर्म्यकी प्रधानता ही सकेतका कारण समझी गई है। उदाहरणोंकी सख्या और भी बढ़ाई जा सकती है। स्वयं कबीरदासने भी कभी जीवात्माको दूहा कहा है और कभी मनको ही इस शब्दसे स्मरण किया गया है। कभी उनके राम भी इस बूल्हापदको सुशोभित करते हैं। अगर सर्वत्र 'दुल्हा' में एक ही धर्मका आरोप होता तो ऐसा होना मभव नहीं था।

'निरजन' शब्दके बारेमें जो साम्प्रदायिक विचार बादसे प्रतिष्ठित हुआ था, उस देखते हुए निरजनको मनका वाचक समझ लेना कुछ आश्चर्यकी बात नहीं है। हम पहले ही देख चुके हैं कि न तो परम्परा ही और न कबीरदासकी पुगानी वानियों ही निरजनको मन (या भगवानके अतिरिक्त और कोई वस्तु) समझनेका समर्थन करती हैं। कबीरदासने तो स्पष्ट रूपसे 'निरजन'से निरुपाधि निर्गुण गोविन्दको सम्बोधित किया है,—गोविन्द जिसका कोई रूप नहीं, रस नहीं, मुद्रा नहीं, माया नहीं, जो मुद्रा भी नहीं, पहाड़ भी नहीं—सबसे 'त्रिलक्षण, सबके अतीत'। कबीरदास समारको ही अजन समझते हैं, उत्पत्ति भी, परिवर्तन भी, आवागमन भी, योग भी,—सब कुछ अजन है, सब कुछ म्लघ है। निरजन या निष्कलुष अकेले राम हैं जो सब घटमें समाये हुए हैं। एक अन्य पदम तो निरजनसे मन लगानेका उपदेश देकर उन्होंने मानों साफ घोषणा कर दी है कि निरजन कोई और है, मन कुछ और^२। फिर भी यह अस्वीकार नहीं

गाव्दे, तू निरजन, तू निरजन, त निरजन राया ॥

तेरे रूप नाहीं रेख नाहीं, मुद्रा नाहीं माया ॥

ममन् नाहीं, सिखर नाहीं, धरती नाहीं गगना ॥

रवि ससि नेउ एने नाहीं, बहत नाहीं पवना ॥

नाद नाहीं, ब्यद नाहा, काल नाहीं काया ॥

जलने जल ब्यब न होने तव तूहि राम राया ॥ इत्यादि,

—क० ग्र० पद २१५

अजन अलय निरजन सार । यहै चीन्हि नर करहु विचार ।

अजन उत्पत्ति वरत्तनि लोइ । विना निरजन मुक्ति न होई ॥

अजन आवै अजन जाइ । निरजन सब घटि रह्यौ ममाइ ।

जोग न्यान तय सै विकार । कहै कबीर मेरे राम अथार ॥

—क० ग्र० पद ३३७

किया जा सकता कि कबीरके उत्तराही चेलोने 'निरंजन' को जिस रीमा तक घसीटा उसके आधारपर सम्प्रदायमें 'निरंजन' का अर्थ मन हो जाना बहुत अन्याय नहीं है ।

इतनी नीररा चर्चाके बाद हम कबीरद्वाराकी बहुतेरी उलटबोसियो और अधिकांश योगपरक रूपकोंके समझने योग्य अवस्थामें आ गये हैं । जहो शास्त्रीय सकेतोंको ग्रहण किया गया है । (अर्थात् गंगा, यमुना, सरस्वती, त्रिवेणी, बाराणसी, सूर्य, चन्द्र, सोमरस, वारुणी, मदिरा, गोमारा, ब्रह्मपथ, भुजगी, नागिन, बिल, अमृत, इमवान, बेलि, लता, शून्य, गगन, आदि) वहां तो विशेष सुविधा है । हम आँख मूदकर अराली रहस्यको समझ सकते हैं । इस प्रकार, पूतके (जीवके) पहले बौद्ध माताका (मायाका) जन्म, बौद्धीका (ब्रह्मनाडीका) भुजगको प्राप्त कर जाना (क० प्र० पद, १६२,), किसी विचित्र बेलिका (उन्मनीका) लहलहाना और (विषय-वारिसे) सीचनेपर कुम्हला जाना और आकाश (शून्य-चक्र) में फल देना (क० प्र० पृ० ८६, साखी ५८३), चन्द्र (तालुके नीचे) ओर सूर्यके (नाभिके ऊपर) खंगोमें बंकनालकी (कुडलिनीकी) डोरी बोधकर झूलती हुई सखियोकी (इन्द्रियोकी) क्रीड़ासे दुलहिनका (मनका) आकर्षित होना, नीचेरो ऊपरको बढ़ती हुई गंगायमुना, [इडा पिंगला—मूलकमल (नाभिकमल) के घाटपर ओर सगम त्रिवेणीके पार है] और उनमे घटचक्रकी गगरीका सरा जाना (क० प्र० पद १८), धागेके (ध्यानके) टूटनेसे गगनका (शून्य रामाधिका) विनिष्ट होना और सबदका गायब हो जाना (क० प्र० पद ३२), जहाँ सूर्य और चन्द्रका प्रकाश नहीं जाता वहाँ (अर्थात् राहृहार चक्रमें) आनन्दरूपका दर्शन पाना, (क० प्र० ३१), शून्यमें अनाहत तूर्यका-उजना (क० प्र० पद ७), डाइनका (मायाका) कुत्तेपर (मनपर) डोरा डालना, पोच कुटुम्भियोका (तत्त्वोंका), शक्तका वजना, रोझ, सृग या शशकका (मनका) पारधीको (जीवको) घेर लेना (क० प्र० पद ९) आदि बातें अत्यन्त सरल हो जाती है ।

१ ना हज जाऊ ना तीरथ पूजा । एक पिडाभ्यां तो क्या इजा ॥
कहै कबीर भरम सब भाला । निरंजनखें मन लागला ॥

परन्तु बहुत-सी बातें फिर भी अनुमान सापेक्ष रह जाती हैं क्योंकि उनका सकेत निश्चित नहीं है और कौन सा धर्म उनमें आरोपित करना उचित है, यह सपूर्णतया श्रोतापर निर्भर करता है। बहुत चार केवल सख्यावाचक विशेषण ही अर्थवगमका कारण होता है। पौंच कुटुम्ब (क० प्र० पद ९) में ' पौंच ' शब्दका आना ही सूचित करता है कि या तो ये पौंच इन्द्रियों हैं या पौंच तत्त्व। प्रसंगानुसार यह निश्चित करनेमें विशेष कठिनाई नहीं पड़ती कि वे तत्त्व ही हैं। ऊपर जो योगशास्त्रीय सिद्धान्त बताये गये हैं और और भी आगे चलकर जो भक्ति सम्बन्धी सिद्धान्त कहे जायेंगे उन्हें ध्यानमें रखकर अर्थ करनेवाला कल्पना-शील श्रोता कोई भी सिद्धान्त-सम्मत अर्थ उनमेंसे निकाल सकता है। एक पद बीजकसे उद्धृत किया जा रहा है। यह पद ' कबीर-ग्रन्थावली ' में भी थोड़े पाठान्तरके साथ है। प्रथम पाठ भेद यह है कि जहाँ बीजकमें ' सन्तो ' सबोधन है, वहाँ ' कबीर ग्रन्थावली ' में ' अव्यत '। कहना नहीं होगा कि इस सबोधन-भेदसे अर्थमें बड़ा अंतर आ जाता है। पहले लक्ष्य कर चुके हैं कि कबीरदास सन्तोंको सबोधन करके अपना मत व्यक्त करते हैं पर अवधूतको सबोधन करके उसके मतका खण्डन करते हैं। मुझे ' कबीर ग्रन्थावली ' वाला पाठ (क० प्र० पृ० १४१-१४२) ठीक जँचता है। अप्रासंगिक होनेपर भी यहाँ स्मरण करा दिया जा सकता है कि बीजकका पाठ भी आँख मूँदकर नहीं ग्रहण करना चाहिये। पद इस प्रकार है :

सन्तो, जागत नींद न कीजै ।

काल न खाय, करुण नहि व्याप, देह जरा नहि छीजै ॥

उलटि गंग समुद्रहि सोखै औ ' सूर गरास ।

इनकी तुलना करनेसे स्पष्ट ही जान पड़ेगा कि टीकाकारोंने काफी स्वाधीन कल्पनासे काम लिया है। ऊपरकी दो टीकाओंमेंसे विचारदासजीकी टीका विश्वनाथसिंहजीकी अपेक्षा परम्पराके अधिक नजदीक है। वस्तुतः जिन शब्दोंका सांकेतिकार्थ शास्त्रीय परम्परासे समर्थित है उनके ही विषयमें निश्चित रूपसे कहा जा सकता है, बाकी जितने भी संकेत-शब्द हैं उनका तद्रत धर्मके अनुरार ऐसा कोई भी अर्थ किया जा सकता है (और किया भी गया है) जो प्रसंगके अनुकूल हो और कबीरदासके सिद्धान्तके विरुद्ध न हो। इसका मतलब यह हुआ कि यदि कबीरदासके सिद्धान्तका ज्ञान करना है तो योग रूपक और उलटबोंसियों बहुत कम सहायता कर सकती हैं, क्योंकि वे अपनी व्याख्याके लिये स्वयं सिद्धान्तोंकी अपेक्षा रखती हैं, ऊपरके टीकाकारोंमें श्रीविश्वनाथसिंहजु देव साकेत-वासी रामको ही कबीरका प्रतिपाद्य समझते हैं जब कि श्रीविचारदासजी निर्गुण निराकार ब्रह्मको। दोनों ही विचार कबीरके नहीं हो सकते। फिर भी अपने अपने सिद्धान्तकी पुष्टिके लिये दोनोंने अपने मनोऽनुकूल अर्थ लगा लिये हैं। इसीलिये यह दृढतापूर्वक कहा जा सकता है कि कबीरदासके सिद्धान्तोंकी

जानकारीके लिये उनकी सीधी-सादी वाणियों और पद ही सहायक हो सकते हैं । किसी भी योगपरक रूपक और उलटबॉसिका अर्थ करते समय दो बातोंका ध्यान रखना परम आवश्यक है—(१) शास्त्रीय परम्परा और (२) कबीरदासका व्यक्तिगत मत । पहले विषयकी चर्चा हमने पिछले अध्यायोंमें कर ली है, जो जोड़ा बाकी है उसकी अगले अध्यायमें कर लेंगे । परन्तु दूसरी बातका कहना जरा कठिन है । शास्त्रीय परम्परा, बंशगत प्रभाव और पारिपार्श्विक अवस्थाओंकी छलनीसे छानकर ही हम कबीरदासके व्यक्तित्वका कुछ अनुमान लगा सकेंगे । अगले अध्यायोंमें उस तरफ हमारा प्रयत्न रहेगा ।

योगशास्त्रीय मतोंका यह जो ऊपर ब्यौरा दिया गया है उसकी सहायतासे ही हम कबीरके योगपरक रूपकों और उलटबॉसियोंका अर्थ समझ सकते हैं । तब प्रश्न हो सकता है कि क्या कबीरदास वही मानते थे जो हठयोगी लोग माना करते थे ? ऊपर हमने कई बार कहा है कि कबीरदास योगियोंके द्वारा प्रभावित तो बहुत हैं, पर वे स्वयं वही नहीं हैं जो योगी हैं । हम यहाँ फिर एक बार कहते हैं कि कबीरदास योगिक क्रियाओंको भी बाह्य आचार ही मानते थे । वे उन सारी क्रियाओंको सहजावस्थाकी प्राप्तिका कारण नहीं मानते थे । उनके मतसे उन क्रियाओंके द्वारा प्राप्त शून्य-भाव (या ख-सम भाव) शराबीके नशेकी भौति अस्थायी है । योग-द्वारा प्राप्त शम-भाव है तो ठीक, पर शाश्वत नहीं है । शाश्वत है सहज समाधि, सहज भजन । अनहदनाद बजता ठीक है पर वही परम सत्य नहीं है, चरम वह है जो उसे बर्जाता है । जो तोड़ भी सकता है और जोड़ भी सकता है, जो बना भी सकता है और बिगाड़ भी सकता है । वह घडू-दर्शनका विषय नहीं है और न छयानवे पाखण्डोंकी पहुँचके भीतर है और न जप-तप-पूजा-अर्चामा ही विषय है । शास्त्र लिख लिख कर लोगोंने लोगोंको धोखा ही दिया है । कबीरदासका कहना है कि योगी हो या जंगम, सब झूठी आशा ले लेकर ही अपनी साधना कर रहे हैं । जो चरम सत्य और परम तत्त्व है वह भक्तिसे

ही मिल सकता है १ । क्या विपरीत है यह तमाशा ! अनहद नादकी बुराशामे फंसकर ये योगी तहाँ चले गये जहाँ शून्य है,—जहाँ कुछ भी नहीं है !— निरालम्ब शून्यमे भटकनेवाले इस जीव (योनी) ने किमी ऐसे लाज बचाव-हारेकी परवा तक न की, उमका हाथ भी छोड़ दिया और खुद बेहाथ हो गया । गसार सखामका शिकार है, काल अहेरी राम को मार रहा है । भलेमानसो, रागका सुमरिन करो । कालने खुटिया पकड़ रखी है, कौन जान कहां और कम उ मारेगा !—

८—ब्रह्म और माया

सभी परम्परायें इस बातका समर्थन करती हैं कि कबीरदासका रामानन्दके साथ संबंध था। कबीरदासने स्वयं स्वीकार किया है कि रामानन्दने उन्हें चेताया था पर क्या चेताया था और स्वयं क्या चेतें हुए थे इस विषयमें नाना मुनियोंके नाना मत हैं। प० रामचंद्र शुक्लने लिखा है कि “ तत्त्वदृष्टिसे रामानुजाचार्यजीके मतावलम्बी होनेपर भी अपनी उपासना इन्होंने अलग की। इन्होंने उपासनाके लिये वैकुण्ठनिवासी विष्णुका स्वरूप न लेकर लोभमें लीला-विस्तार करनेवाले उनके अवतार रामका आश्रय लिया। इनके इष्टदेव राम हुए और मूल मंत्र रामनाम।

कर्मके क्षेत्रमें शास्त्र-मर्यादा इन्हें मान्य थी पर उपासनाके क्षेत्रमें किसी प्रकारका लौकिक प्रतिबंध ये नहीं मानते थे। सा जातिके लोगोको एकत्र कर राम भक्तिका उपदेश ये देने लगे और रामनामकी महिमा सुनाने लगे। इनकी उपासना दारय-भावकी थी (इन्होंने) ब्रह्म-सूत्रपर आनन्द-भाष्य, श्रीमद्भगवद्गीता-भाष्य, वैष्णव-मतांतर भास्कर, श्रीरामार्चना-पद्धति आदि कई ग्रन्थोंकी रचना की जिनमेंसे अब बहुतोंका पता नहीं लगता।” (शुक्ल पृ० १२२-४) खेद है कि शुक्लजीने यह नहीं लिखा कि ऊपर बताई हुई पुस्तकोंमें जो लापता है वह कौन मौन हैं और जो बची हैं वे कौन हैं तथा अपना उक्त मत शुक्लजीने किन पुस्तकोंके आधारपर स्थिर किया है। उन्होंने श्रीरामानन्ददिविजय और वैष्णव-मतान्तर-भास्करसे दो श्लोक अपनी पुस्तकमें उद्धृत किये हैं और इसलिये यह अनुमान किया जा सकता है कि इस मतको शुक्लजीने इन्हीं दो पुस्तकोंके आधार-पर स्थापित किया होगा। मुझे ये पुस्तकें देखनेमें नहीं मिली हैं। पर कुछ पण्डितोंका दावा है कि रामानन्दजी और चाहे जिस दृष्टिसे रामानुजके मतावलम्बी क्यों न रहे हों तत्त्वदृष्टिसे वे उनके मतावलम्बी नहीं ही थे। कुछ दूसरे पण्डित ठीक इनके विरुद्ध मतका प्रतिपादन करते हैं, वे तत्त्वदृष्टिसे तो रामानन्दको रामानुजका अनुयायी मानते हैं पर उपासना-पद्धतिमें एतदम अलग। इसमें कोई सन्देह नहीं कि सारी परम्परायें रामानन्दका रामानुज-सम्प्रदायसे सम्बन्ध बताती हैं पर

साथ ही कुछ ऐसी दलीलें भी उपस्थित की गई हैं जिनसे इस अनुमानकी पुष्टि होती है कि दोनों आचार्याका सम्बन्ध दूरका ही था। कहा गया है कि रामानंदके प्रवर्तित सम्प्रदायमें राम और सीताको जिस प्रकार एकमात्र परमाराध्य माना जाता है उस प्रकार रामानुजके प्रवर्तित श्रीवैष्णवसम्प्रदायमें नहीं। श्रीवैष्णव लोग सभी अवतारोंकी उपासना करते हैं। फिर रामानन्दी लोगोंमें जो मंत्र प्रचलित है वह भी रामानुज सम्प्रदायके मन्त्रसे भिन्न है। उनका तिलक भी यद्यपि रामानुजी मतके तिलकसे मिलता जुलता है फिर भी हू-ब-हू वही नहीं है, योड़ा भिन्न है। स्वयं रामानंदजी त्रिदण्डी सन्यासी नहीं थे, यह भी सिद्ध किया गया है। फिर और भी एक विचारणीय बात है। रामानन्दी संप्रदायका नाम हू-ब-हू वही नहीं है जो रामानुजीय संप्रदायका। इस प्रकार नीचे लिखी तालिकासे स्पष्ट हो जायगा कि दोनों संप्रदायोंमें सभी महत्त्वपूर्ण बातोंमें भेद है।

	रामानुजीय	रामानन्दीय
संप्रदाय—	श्रीवैष्णव सम्प्रदाय	श्रीरामप्रदाय
मंत्र	ॐ नमो नारायणाय	ओ रामाय नमः
भाष्य—	श्री-भाष्य	आनन्द भाष्य

फिर भी परम्परासे रामानन्दका राजध रामानुजीय सम्प्रदायसे सिद्ध है। इसका समाधान इस प्रकार किया है : अनुमान कर लिया गया है कि तागिल देशमें बहुत पुराने जमानेसे कोई राम-सम्प्रदाय चला आ रहा था जो कभी श्रीवैष्णवोंमें अन्तर्भुक्त हो गया था। रामानन्द उसी सम्प्रदायके आचार्य थे। कहा गया कि ऐसा मान लेनेसे सभी बातोंकी सन्तोषजनक सीमासा हो जाती है^१। पहले एक सशय स्वप्ना करके फिर उसका समाधान करनेका प्रयत्न भारतीय साधना और साहित्यके इतिहासमें यह अकेला नहीं है।

इधर पं० वैष्णवदासजी त्रिवेदी न्यायरत्न वेदान्ततीर्थने 'कल्याण' में एक लेख लिखा है। उसमें रामानंदाचार्यके आनन्द-भाष्यके आधारपर बताया गया है कि आचार्यने (रामानंदने) विशिष्टाद्वैत मतको ही ब्रह्म-सूत्र-सम्मत बताया है। अर्थात् तत्त्व-दृष्टीसे वे रामानुजके मतको ही मानते थे। इस प्रकार "रामानन्दा-

चार्यन अनन्यभक्तिको ही मोक्षका अव्यवहितोपाय माना है, प्रपत्तिको मोक्षका हेतु माना है, कर्मको भक्तिरा अंग माना है, जगत्का अभिन्न निमित्तोपादानकारण ब्रह्मको माना है। जीवोंका परस्पर भेद और नानात्व माना है। तथैव जीवोंका स्वरूपतः अणुत्व, कर्तृत्व, भोक्तृत्व, ज्ञातृत्व और नित्यत्व इत्यादि माना है। जीवोंका ब्रह्मसे भेद माना है। विद्योपकारिका वर्णाश्रम व्यवस्थाको स्वीकार किया है। विवर्तवादका बारंबार प्रत्याख्यान किया है। 'नारदपंचरात्र' को बहुधा प्रमाण-रूपसे स्वीकार किया है। 'निर्विशेष-ब्रह्म'का अनेक स्थलोंपर निराश करके 'सर्विशेष ब्रह्म का प्रतिपादन किया है। 'सत्ख्यातिवाद'को स्वीकार किया है और वेदोंका अपौरुषेयत्व माना है^२।' इस मतके लिए आनन्द भाष्यके उद्धरण उद्धृत किये गये हैं किन्तु आनन्द-भाष्यकी प्रामाणिकताके बारेमें इधर काफी सन्देह प्रकट किया गया है।

परन्तु एक दूसरी दलील जो फर्कहरने पैग की है, काफी बजनदार है। कहा जाता है कि रामानन्द ही पहले पहल 'अव्यात्म-रामायण' और 'अगस्त्य-सुतीक्ष्णसवाद' अपने साथ ले आये थे और इस बातमें तो कोई सन्देह ही नहीं कि उनके सम्प्रदायमें इन ग्रन्थोंका आज भी बहुत समादर है। प्रसिद्ध राम भक्त गोसाईं तुलसीदासजीके 'रामचरित-मानस' पर अध्यात्म-रामायणका प्रभाव सबको मालूम है। आज भी रामानन्दी वेष्णव इन ग्रन्थोंको सम्प्रदायमान्य ग्रन्थ मानते हैं, और यह आश्चर्यकी बात है कि ये ग्रंथ विशिष्टाद्वैतकी अपेक्षा शांकर-

२ 'परिणामवाद' अर्थात् अत्यक्त प्रकृतिमें उत्तरोत्तर विकार या परिणामद्वारा सृष्टिका विकास अपने आप होता है एसा सांख्य शास्त्रका मत है। 'आरम्भवाद', अर्थात् ईश्वरकी इच्छासे परमाणुद्वारा सृष्टि होती है, ऐसा न्याय शास्त्रका मत है। इन दोनोंके विरुद्ध अद्वैत-वेदान्ती 'विवर्तवाद' को मानते हैं।—अर्थात् जगत् ब्रह्मका विवृत या रुदित रूप है, एसा मानते हैं। सीपीको यदि कोई भ्रमवशात् चादी समझ ले तो चाँदीको सीपीका विवृत कहा जाएगा। रामानुजीय मतमें 'परिणामवाद' का माना जाता है। दूधका विवृत रूप दही है, वह अन्य वस्तु तो हो जाता है पर यह नहीं कहा जा सकता कि वह दूधसे भिन्न ही है। परिणामवाद और विवर्तवादको 'सत्कार्यवाद' या 'सत्ख्यातिवाद' कहते हैं और आरम्भ-वादको 'असत्कार्यवाद'। माध्ववेदान्ती भी नेयाधिकोंकी भांति 'असत्कार्यवादी' हैं।

मतकी ओर अधिक झुके हैं (तु० अध्यात्म रामायण १, ३२-५१) । म० म० पं० गिरिधर शर्माजीने सप्रमाण सिद्ध किया है कि गोस्वामीजीने रामायणमें अद्वैत-मतको ही मान्य समझा है (तुलसी-ग्रंथावली, नि० ६३-१३०) । इस प्रकार यह अनुमान असंगत नहीं जँचता कि रामानन्दजीके मतमें भक्ति ही सबसे बड़ी चीज थी, तत्त्ववाद नहीं । उनके शिष्योंमें और सम्प्रदायमें अद्वैत-वेदान्तका पूर्ण समादर है, तथापि वे स्वयं विशिष्टाद्वैत-वादके प्रचारक थे । इसी तरह उनके शिष्योंमें केवल एक बातको छोड़कर अन्य बातोंमें काफी स्वतन्त्रताका परिचय पाया जाता है । वह बात है भक्ति—अनन्य भक्ति । उनके कितने ही शिष्य उनकी भौंति वर्णाश्रम-व्यवस्थाको नहीं मानते, जीवोंका ब्रह्मसे भेद नहीं मानते और कितने ही यह तक नहीं मानना चाहते कि दिव्य गुणोंसे भगवान्‌का सगुणत्व भी सिद्ध होता है और संपूर्ण वेदान्त-शास्त्र सगुण ब्रह्मका ही प्रतिपादक है (१, १-२) । केवल एक ही बात उनके सर्व शिष्योंमें समान भावसे समादृत है : अनन्यभक्ति ही मोक्षका अव्यवहित उपाय है । प्रपत्ति या शरणागति ही मोक्षका परम साधन है ।

ऐसी हालतमें यह प्रश्न बहुत कुछ गौण हो जाता है कि कवीरने जो कुछ रामानन्दसे चेता था वह रामानन्दके चेते हुए ज्ञानका कौन-सा रूप है । रामानन्दके प्रधान उपदेश अनन्य-भक्तिको कवीरने शिरसा स्वीकार कर लिया था । बाकी तत्त्वज्ञानको उन्होंने अपने संस्कारों, रुचि और शिक्षाके अनुसार एकदम नवीन रूप दे दिया था । अब तक हम उनके संस्कारोंकी चर्चा करते आये हैं जिनका प्रभाव उनके पदों और साखियोंमें है और, खूब सम्भव है, जिनका ज्ञान उन्हें रामानन्दजीके सत्संगसे प्राप्त हुआ था । यही ज्ञान कबीरदासको अक्षखंड सिद्धों और योगियोंकी परम्परासे अलग कर देता है । कवीरके विद्यार्थीके लिए इसका बहुत महत्त्व है ।

यह स्मरण रखना चाहिए कि जब हम शंकर, रामानुज और रामानन्दके वेदान्त मतकी चर्चा करते हैं तो हमारा मतलब एक पूरे तत्त्ववाद (फिलॉसॉफिकल सिस्टम) से होता है; किन्तु कवीरकी वाणियाँ वह चीज नहीं हैं । वेदान्त-मतको पाँच छोटे विभागोंमें बाँट लिया जा सकता है : धर्मविज्ञान (थियॉलॉजी), सृष्टि-तत्त्व (कास्मोलॉजी), अंतःकरणविज्ञान (साइकोलॉजी), मोक्षविज्ञान (लिबरेशन) और जन्मान्तर-व्यवस्था । इनमें प्रथम और अन्तिमके विषयमें तो

क्रीरवामने स्पष्ट भाषामें अपना मत व्यक्त किया है पर वाकी तीनके विषयमें उनका मत अनुमान रापेक्ष ही है ।

वेदान्तशास्त्रके अनुसार मनुष्यका सबसे बड़ा लक्ष्य या पुख्खार्थ मोक्ष है,— मोक्ष अर्थात् छुटकारा । यह ससार दुःखरूप है और मोक्ष ब्रह्म स्वरूप ही है । अन्य दर्शनोकी भोति वेदान्त इसे प्राय नहीं मानता । कहा गया है कि मनुष्य जत्र जान जायगा कि वह क्या है, और उसके आत्माका बडे आत्मासे,—अर्थात् परमात्मासे क्या सम्बन्ध है तो वह छूट जायगा । क्योंकि वह जो छूट नहीं रहा है, उसका कारण अज्ञान है या फिर गलत ज्ञान है । इसीलिए सही ज्ञान ही छुटकारा है । इस सही ज्ञानको 'विद्या' कहते हैं । इसलिए 'विद्या' का एकमात्र प्रेपय है 'आत्मा' या 'ब्रह्म' का ज्ञान । यही कारण है कि इस विद्याको 'आत्म-विद्या,' 'आत्मविज्ञान,' 'ब्रह्मविद्या' और 'ब्रह्मज्ञान' शब्दसे पुकारते हैं ।

यह जो ब्रह्मकी जानकारी है वह दो प्रकारकी होती है । एकको ऊँची जानकारी या 'परा विद्या' कहते हैं और दूसरीको घटिया जानकारी या 'अपरा विद्या' । पहले प्रकारकी जानकारी (परा विद्या) ही ठीक ठीक समझने (सम्यग्दर्शन) में महायक है, इसका एकमात्र फल मोक्ष है । दूसरी जानकारी (अपरा विद्या) का लक्ष्य ब्रह्मोपासना है । इससे कर्म-समृद्धि होती है, सुख और कल्याण (अभ्युथ) प्राप्त होते हैं और वीरे वीरे मुक्ति भी मिल सकती है (कर्ममुक्ति) । पहली विद्या का विषय परंब्रह्म है, दूसरीका अपरंब्रह्म ।

श्रुतियोंके परिशीलनसे स्पष्ट ही जान पड़ता है कि ऋषियोंके मस्तिष्कमें ब्रह्मके दो स्वरूप ये: एक गुण, विशेषण, आकार और उपावसे परे,—निर्गुण, निर्विशेष, निराकार और निरुपाधि, और दूसरा इन सब वातासे युक्त अर्थात् सगुण सविशेष साकार और सोपाधि । पहला परंब्रह्म है और दूसरा अपरंब्रह्म । आपात दृष्टिसे ऐसा जान पड़ता है कि यह बात एकदम असगत है कि एक ही वस्तु एक ही साध सगुण भी हो और निर्गुण भी, साकार भी हो और निराकार भी, सविशेष भी हो और निर्विशेष भी, सोपाधि भी हो और निरुपाधि भी । इसके उत्तरमें वेदान्ती लोग कहते हैं कि ब्रह्म अपने आपमें तो निर्गुण, निराकार, निर्विशेष और निरुपाधि ही है परन्तु अविद्या या गलतफहमीके कारण, या उपासनाके लिये हम उसमें उपाधियों या सीमाओंका आरोप करते हैं । वस्तुतः सोपाधिक ब्रह्म भ्रम-मात्र है, ठीक उसी तरह तो नहीं जिस तरह सीपीको चोंडी समझनेवालेका

भ्रम मात्र है, असलमे यह आर्यभ्रम है, फिर भी गलतीसे यदि कोई सीपीको चादी समझ ले तो भी सीपी सीपी ही रहेगी, चादी नहीं हो जागगी। इसी प्रकार निर्गुण और निरुपाधि ब्रह्मको जब हम गलतीसे समुण और रोपाधि मान लेते हैं तब भी बरतुत हमी भ्रमंगे होते ह, ब्रह्म तो निर्गुणका निर्गुण आर निरुपाधिका निरुपाधि ही जना रहता है। इसीलिये जो 'पर निर्गुण' ब्रह्म है उसे श्रुतिश्रो बार बार इस प्रकार प्रकट करती ह, "वह मोटा भी नहीं, पतल भी नहीं, छोटा भी नहीं, बड़ा भी नहीं, लोहित भी नहीं, स्नेह भी नहीं, छायायुक्त भी नहीं, अन्वकार भी नहीं, वायु भी नहीं, आकाश भी नहीं." इत्यादि (बृहदारण्यक ३।८।८), या "यह भो नहीं, वह भी नहीं, ---नेति नति (वही २ ३ ४), " या "वह शब्द-रहित, स्पर्शरहित, स्पर्शरहित, व्ययरहित, रमरहित गन्धरहित है (कठ० ३ १५)" इत्यादि। किन्तु ये सभी बात अतद्ब्याप्तितरसे नहीं गई हैं अर्थात् इस प्रकारके कथनका अर्थ यह है कि 'परब्रह्म' समस्त ज्ञान वस्तुओं, गुणों और विशेषणोंसे विलक्षण है। इसका अभावस्व अर्थ नहीं है। कबीरदासने इस शैलीका आश्रय करके भगवानके विषयमें अनेक पद गाये हैं^१।

भावभ्रमसे कहनेके लिये वेदान्ती लोग दो-तीन शब्दोंका व्यवहार करते ह। सर्वाधिक प्रचलित शब्द हैं गत और चित। इन दो शब्दोंसे वेदान्ती बताना चाहते ह कि 'ब्रह्म है' (गत) और वह 'चेतन्यस्वरूप' (चित) है। जिस प्रकार नमकीके डेलेमें बाहरसे भीतरतक सर्वत्र नमकीनी ही नमकीनी है तर्गी प्रकार ब्रह्म भी शुरुसे आखिरतक केवल चेतन्य ही चैतन्य है। इन दो भाव-रूपोंके अतिरिक्त एक और भावरूप भी परवर्ती वेदान्त-ग्रन्थोंमें महत्त्वपूर्ण स्थान अधिकार कर सका है। वह है आनन्द। अर्थात् ब्रह्म आनन्दस्वरूप है। किसी

लेकिन श्रुतिमें ब्रह्मको और भी दो प्रकारसे कहा गया है ' (१) " यह सप्त कुष्ठ करनेवाला है, सब कामनाओसे भरा पूरा है, सब रसोंका आश्रय है, सप्त गन्धमय है " इत्यादि (छान्दोग्य ३-१४), फिर, अग्नि उसका गिर है, सूर्य चन्द्र ओंसे हैं, दिशाए कान है " (मुण्डक० २-१-४) इत्यादि। इन वाक्योंमें स्पष्ट ही ब्रह्ममें सीमाओंका और गुणोंका आरोप किया गया है। यह इसलिये कि यहाँ लक्ष्य ज्ञान नहीं, उपासना है। ब्रह्मका इस प्रकार सौंपात्रिक भविष्येक और सगुणरूप विचार करनेवालेका उद्देश्य ज्ञान नहीं होता, उपासना हुआ करती है। ऐसा करनेसे मोक्ष या निःश्रेयसकी सिद्धि नहीं होती, अमृत्युय या कल्याणकी प्राप्ति होती है। इससे स्वर्ग मिलता है अपवर्ग नहीं। परन्तु जो साधक उत्तम ज्ञानके अधिकारी नहीं हैं वे इस मार्गसे चलकर भी धीरे-धीरे मुक्ति पा लेते हैं। (२) कभी कभी ब्रह्मको श्रुतिमें ' छोटेसे छोटा, ' ' अगुण मात्र पुरुष, ' ' हृदय-कमल-नासी ' और ' वामन ' आदि भी कहा गया है। ऐसे स्थलोंपर अभिप्राय जीवात्मासे होता है।

यह जो गुणमय अपरब्रह्म है उनीपरसे वेदान्त-शास्त्रका ईश्वरसम्बन्धी विचार विकसित हुआ है। इस गुणमय ईश्वरसे ही सत्कारका कारवार चलता है। यही जीवको उसके कर्माके शुभाशुभ फलका दाता है। मायावादी वेदान्ती कहत है कि मायोपाधिक चैतन्य ही परमेश्वर है। इसे और मायाको ठीक ठीक समझनेके लिये जोड़ा और भी अवान्तर प्रसंग उठाना पड़ेगा।

सबध केवल योग्यताका सबध है, परन्तु दूसरे आचार्य हैं जो मानते हैं कि वरन्तु इन दोनोकी रूत्ता नहीं है, दगरा पहलेकी ही शक्ति है। पहलेको आत्मा कहते हैं, साख्यवादी उसे 'पुरुष' कहते हैं और दूसरे तत्त्वको 'प्रकृति' या 'माया' कहते हैं। गीतामें भगवान्‌ने प्रकृतिको अपने ही अधीन बताया है और कहा है कि मेरे द्वारा नियोजित होकर ही प्रकृति इस सचराचर सृष्टिको प्रभाव करती है (गीता-९, १०)। वेद-बाह्य बौद्धादि संप्रदायके लोग यह मानते हैं कि यह चेतन सत्ता भाषनाके द्वारा जब प्रकृतिके मन्धनोसे मुक्त होती है तो उसी प्रकार लुप्त हो जाती है जिस प्रकार दीपककी लौ, परन्तु इस बातमें वे भी विश्वास करते हैं कि शरीर और इन्द्रियादिकी अपेक्षा वह वस्तु अधिक स्थायी है। वह सैकड़ों जन्म ग्रहण करनेके बाद सैकड़ों शरीरों और इन्द्रियोंसे युक्त हो लेनेके बाद 'निर्माण' की अवस्थाको अर्थात् बुझ जानेकी अवस्थाको प्राप्त होती है।

इस प्रश्नका उत्तर देनेके लिए शास्त्रकारोंने लिंग-शरीरकी बात बताई है। यह तो निश्चित है कि आत्मा एक शरीरसे दूसरेमें सक्रमित होता है। गीतामें भगवान्ने कहा है कि जिस प्रकार मनुष्य पुराने वस्त्रको छोड़कर नया धारण करता है, उसी प्रकार आत्मा जीर्ण शरीरको परित्याग कर नवीन शरीर धारण करता है (गीता २-२२)। इसी प्रकार बृहदारण्यक उपनिषद्में बताया गया है कि जो कि जिस प्रकार एक वृत्तसे दूसरेपर जाते समय पहले अपने शरीरका अगला हिस्सा रखती है और फिर बाकी हिस्सेको खींच लेती है, उसी प्रकार आत्मा पुराने शरीरको छोड़कर नये शरीरमें प्रवेश करता है (बृहदारण्यकोपनिषद् ४, ४२)। इससे केवल इतना ही जाना जा सकता है कि आत्मा स्वयं ही दूसरे शरीरमें प्रवेश करता है, पर उदाहरणसे सिद्धान्त निकालना ठीक नहीं, क्योंकि उदाहरण

चेंबल क्रियाके एक अशके लिए ही प्रयुक्त होता है। उपनिषदोंमें बार बार कहा गया है कि आत्माके साथ सूक्ष्म या लिंग शरीर भी जाता है। बहद्वारण्यकम बताया गया है कि यह आत्मा विज्ञान, मन, पाण, श्रोत्र, पृथ्वी, जल, वायु, आकाश, तेजस, अतितेजस्, काम, अकाम, क्रोध, अक्रोध, धर्म और अधर्म इत्यादि सब कुछ लेकर निर्गत होता है। यह जैसा करता है, वसा ही पल पाता है (गृहदा-रथक ४, ४, ५)। इसका अर्थ यह हुआ कि आत्माके साथ ही साय ममस्त वर्मावर्म तथा तन्मात्रगण वेधे होते हैं। साख्यकारिकामें (साख्य कारिका ४०) करीब करीब इन सभी बातोंको एक शब्दमें ' लिंग-शरीर ' कहा गया है। बताया है कि प्रकृतिके विकारस्वरूप तेईस तत्त्वोंमें अंतिम पौंच तो अत्यन्त स्थूल हैं, बाकी अष्टारहों तत्त्व मृत्युके समय पुरुषके साथ ही साथ निकल जाते हैं। जब तब पुरुष ज्ञान प्राप्त किये बिना मरता है, तब तब ये तत्त्व उसके साथ साथ लगे होते हैं। अब, यह तो स्पष्ट ही है कि इन अष्टारह तत्त्वोंमेंसे पथम तेरह अर्थात् बुद्धि, अहंकार, मन और वसो इन्द्रिय तो प्रकृतिके गुण-मान हैं, उनकी स्थितिके लिए किसी ठोस आधारकी जरूरत है। वे बिना आधार रह ही नहीं सकते। वस्तुतः पंचतन्मात्रोंको मृत्युके समय आत्माका अनुसरण करते जो बताया गया है, वह इसीलिए कि वे तन्मान उक्त तरह तत्त्वोंको वहन करनेका सामर्थ्य रखते हैं,—ये अपेक्षाकृत ठोस हैं। जब तक मनुष्य जीता होता है, तब तक तो उसका स्थूल शरीर इन गुणोंका आश्रय होता है, पर जब वह मर जाता है तब पंचतन्मात्र ही इन गुणोंके वाहक होते हैं (साख्यकारिका ४१)। उपनिषदोंमें इसी बातको और लंगसे कहा गया है। इनके अनुसार प्रकृति या माया कोई स्वतन्त्र वस्तु नहीं है, केवल ब्रह्म या आत्माका ही नामरूपात्मक स्वरूप है। बदलनेवाली वस्तु नाम और रूप है और स्थिर शायत वस्तु आत्मा है, ठीक उसी प्रकार जिस प्रकार हार, अंगूठी, ककण आदिमें बदलनेवाली वस्तु नाम और रूप है, पर स्थिर वस्तु सोना है। नाम-रूपका आवरण सर्वत्र एत-सा ही नहीं है। कहीं वह गाढा है, कहीं पतला। इसके भी नाना स्तर हैं। जउ हैं, चेतन है, फिर चेतनही भी लाखों योनियों हैं। इन सब योनियोंमें मनुष्य योनि श्रेष्ठ है। आत्माके दो आवरण हैं। पहला आवरण तो शुक्र-शोणित-निर्मित शरीर है। इसीको उपनिषदोंमें अजमग-कोष कहा गया है। दूसरा आवरण अधिक सूक्ष्म

है। उसमें क्रमशः प्राणमय, मनोमय, ज्ञानमय और आनन्दमय कोप ह (तैत्तिरीय उपनिषद् २, १, ५, ३, २, ६)। इसका अर्थ यह है कि स्थूल शरीरकी अपेक्षा प्राण सूक्ष्म है, उनकी अपेक्षा मन, उनकी अपेक्षा बुद्धि और इन सबकी अपेक्षा सूक्ष्म आत्मा है। भगवान् ने गीतामें कहा है कि इन्द्रियगण पर (सूक्ष्म) हैं, पर इनसे भी सूक्ष्म मन है और उससे भी सूक्ष्म बुद्धि है और इस बुद्धिसे भी सूक्ष्म जो बुद्ध है, वही वह (आत्मा) है (गीता ३, ४२)। स्थूल अन्नमय कोषको छोड़कर बाकी जो सब कोप हैं, उन्हें, इन्द्रियाँ और पचतन्मात्रोंको वेदान्ती लोग सूक्ष्म या लिङ्ग-शरीर कहा करते हैं। जब मृत्युके बाद स्थूल देहसे आत्माका विच्छेद हो जाता है, तब भी लिङ्ग-शरीरसे उमका झुटकारा नहीं होता। गीतामें कहा गया है कि आत्मा उसी प्रकार प्रकृतिस्थ मन और पाँच ज्ञानेन्द्रियोंको खींचकर अपने साथ ले जाता है, जिन प्रकार वायु पुष्पादि आश्रयसे गन्धको (गीता १५, ७-८)। इस प्रकार साख्यकारोंका सिद्धान्त है कि मृत्युके बाद आत्माके साथ ही साथ एक लिङ्ग-शरीर जाता है, जो ममस्त कर्मफलात्मक सस्कारोंको साथ ले जाता है। इस लिङ्ग शरीरमें जिन अट्टारह तत्त्वोंका समावेश है, उनमें बुद्धि तत्त्व ही प्रधान है। वेदाती लोग जिसे ' कर्म ' कहते हैं, उसीको साख्यवादी बुद्धिका ' व्यापार ', ' धर्म ' या ' विकार ' कहते हैं। इसीको साख्यकारिकामें ' भाव ' कहा गया है। जिस प्रकार फूलमें गंध और कपड़ेमें रंग लगा रहता है, उसी प्रकार यह ' भाव ' लिङ्ग-शरीरमें लगा रहता है (साख्य कारिका ४०)।

यह यह सकना कठिन है कि यह जगत् कब उत्पन्न हुआ था अर्थात् इम

- १ वेदान्तमें कठ प्रकारमें यह बात बताई गई है। कहीं इमके ये सत्रह अवयव बताए गये हैं पाँच ज्ञानेन्द्रियाँ, पाँच कर्मन्द्रियाँ, बुद्धि, मन और पाँच प्राण (वेदान्त सार १३)। फिर आठ पुरियाका उल्लेख है। यह पुर्यष्टक ही लिङ्ग शरीर बताया गया है। आठ पुरिया ये हैं १ पाँच ज्ञानेन्द्रिय, २ पाँच कर्मन्द्रिय, ३ मन, बुद्धि, अहकार, चित्त, ४ पाँच प्राण, ५ पाँच भूत-सूक्ष्म या तन्मात्र, ६ अविद्या ७ काम, ८ कर्म (सुरेश्वराचार्यका पचीकरण वातिक ३२-३७)। इसका और अन्य विधानोका सामञ्जस्य गमनीयलिपित वेदान्तसार (१३) की विद्वन्मनोरजनी टीकामें देवना चालिप।

नाम-रूपात्मक जड़-जगत्की रीयति करने हैं। यह अनादि है, इसलिए यह कर्म-प्रवाह भी अनादि है। बृहदारण्यक उपनिषद्म नाम और रूपके साथ कर्मकी भा गणना है (बृहदारण्यक १, ६-१)। वशान्ती लोभ यद्यपि इसे मात्तव्यादिकी भाति खतत्र तत्त्व नहीं मानते, तथापि कर्म-प्रवाह को तो अनादि मानत ही है। आत्माको जब अपनी आर प्रकृति या मायाकी वास्तविक रात्ताका ज्ञान हो जाता है, तभी वह कर्म बन्धरो मुक्त हो जाता है। भगवान्ने गीतामें कहा है कि ज्ञानकी अग्नि गमस्त कर्माको भस्मसात कर देती है और ज्ञानसे बढकर मोड़ वस्तु पवित्र नहीं है (गीता ४-३७-२८)। उपनिषदोंमें ब्रह्मको मय स्वरूप, ज्ञान स्वरूप और आनन्द स्वरूप कहा गया है (तैत्तिरीय २, ११ बृहदारण्यक ३-६-२२) ऐसा माननेके कारण गम्ना हिन्दू-साहित्य ज्ञानको एक विशेष दृष्टिकोणसे देखाता है। वह यह नहीं मानता कि ज्ञानकी प्राप्तिमें मनुष्य नित्य अप्रसर होता जा रहा है, उसकी दृष्टिमें चरम ज्ञान अपने आपमें ही है। यद्यपि ज्ञान अनन्त है, पर उसका अपना वास्तविक रूप भी वैसा ही है। इसलिए चरम और अनन्त ज्ञानको पाना असम्भव तो है ही नहीं, उसके साध्यके भीतर ही है। हिन्दू-साहित्यमें इसीलिए नित्य नवीन ज्ञानके अनुसंधानके प्रति एक प्रकारकी उदासीनताका भाव है। वह उग विद्याको विद्या ही नहीं मानता जो मुक्तिका कारण न हो^१, जो मनुष्यको कर्म जन्मसे मुक्तकारा न दिला दे। इस बातन भी गारे हिन्दू साहित्यको प्रभावित किया है।

शास्त्रकारोंने कर्मको रामझनेके लिए कई प्रकारके भेद दिए ह। मनुस्मृतिमें कहा गया है कि कायिक, वाचिक और मानसिक ये तीन प्रकारके कर्म हैं और उनकी गति भी उत्तम, मध्यम और अधम भेदसे तीन प्रकारकी होती है। (मनु १२-३)। शांतातपने सैकड़ों प्रकारके पापों, उनके फलस्वरूप प्राप्त होनेवाले रोगोंका उल्लेख किया है और उनके प्रायश्चित्तका भी विधान किया है। पुराणोंमें कर्मविपाकके विषयमें बहुत कुछ कहा गया है। गरुड़ पुराणमें विस्तृत रूपसे अनेक कर्म और तज्जन्य प्राप्य फलोंका उल्लेख है। शास्त्रोंमें साधारणतः तीन प्रकारके कर्म बताए गए हैं : सचिन, प्रारब्ध और क्रियमाण। मनुष्यने जो कुछ कर्म किया है, उसे ' सचिन कर्म ' कहते ह। जिस पुराने कर्मके फलको वह भोग रहा

१ ना त्रिधा या विमुक्तये ।

है उसे 'प्रारब्ध कर्म' कहते हैं। जो कुछ वह नये सिरेसे करने जा रहा है, उसे 'क्रियमाण कर्म' कहते हैं। ज्ञान होनेपर राचित कर्म तो नष्ट हो जाते हैं, पर प्रारब्ध कर्मको भोगना ही पड़ता है। ज्ञानकी अभिसे संचित कर्म जलकर दग्ध बीजकी तरह निष्फल हो जाते हैं और ज्ञानी प्रारब्ध कर्मके सस्कारवश उसी प्रकार शरीर धारण किए रहता है, जैसे कुम्हारका चलाया हुआ चक्र दण्ड उठा लेनेपर भी वेगवश कुछ देर चलता रहता है (साख्य कारिका—६७)। इन बातोंमें स्वर्ग और नरकके विचार भी सम्मिलित हैं। कर्मबन्धके दार्शनिक रूपके साथ स्वर्ग नरकके पौराणिक विचारोंका सामंजस्य भी किया गया है। साधरणतः पुण्य कर्मसे आत्माका कुछ दिनतक स्वर्गमें रहना और फिर पुण्य क्षीण होनेपर मर्त्य लोकमें आ जाना (गीता—९, २०-२१) और इसी तरह पाप भोगके लिए कुछ दिन नरकमें जाना और भोग लेनेके बाद फिर मर्त्यलोकमें आ जानेकी बात भी कही गई है। साख्यकारिकामें बताया गया है (सां० का०—४१) कि कर्म (पुण्य) के द्वारा ऊर्ध्वगमन, अधर्म (पाप) के द्वारा अधोगमन होता है। ज्ञानसे मोक्ष और अज्ञानसे बन्धन होता है। महाभारतमें एक और विचित्र बात बताई गई है (स्वर्गरोहण पर्व—३, १४) कि जो आदमी अधिक पुण्यशाली होता है, वह पहले अपने स्वरूप पापोंको भोगनेके लिए नरकमें जाता है, और फिर स्वर्गमें और जो आदमी अधिक पापी होता है वह इसी प्रकार अपने स्वल्प पुण्योंको भोगनेके लिये पहले स्वर्गमें जाता है और फिर नरकमें। कुछ विद्वानोंका विचार है कि स्वर्ग-नरक विचार और मोक्ष-विचार ये दोनों दो जातिके भारतीय मनीषियोंकी चिन्ताके परिचायक हैं। पहले विचार वैदिक ऋषियोंके है और दूसरे वेद बाह्य आर्यैतर मुनियोंके। उपनिषद्कालमें ये दोनों विचार मिलना शुरू हुए और काव्य-कालमें पूर्ण रूपसे मिलकर एक जटिल परलोक व्यवस्थामें परिणत हो गये।

यह त्रिगुणात्मिका प्रकृति ही माया है। पर जो माया चैतन्यस्वरूप ब्रह्मको ईश्वर रूपमें प्रकट करती है वह सत्त्व-गुण प्रधान है अर्थात् उसमें रजोगुण और तमोगुणका प्रायः अभाव है। कुछ वेदान्ती आचार्य प्रकृतिको दो प्रकारकी मानते हैं विशुद्ध सत्त्वप्रधान और अविशुद्ध सत्त्वप्रधान। पहलीको 'माया' कहते हैं, दूसरीको 'अविद्या'। पहली ईश्वरकी उपाधि है दूसरी जीवकी (पंचदशी १, १५-१६), इसीलिये कहा जा सकता है कि माया ही ससारको चला रही है, क्योंकि मायोपाधिक चैतन्य ही ईश्वर है। इसी भावको लक्ष्य करके ऋषीर-

दासने कहा था कि यह रघुनाथकी माया ही है जो शिखार खेतन निहली है और साम्प्रदायिक जालोम फेगाकर मुनि, पीर, जैन, जोगी, जगम, ब्राह्मण और मन्थासीको मार रही है^१। स्पष्ट ही प्रतीत होना है कि कबीरदासका यहो 'रघुनाथ' से तात्पर्य वेदान्तियोंके परब्रह्मसे है। परन्तु कबीरदासक पदोंसे जान पड़ता है कि उन्होंने 'माया' को 'अविद्या' से अलग करके नहीं देखा। वेदान्त-ग्रन्थोंमें माया और अविद्याकी एकात्मताके पोषक वाक्य बहुतसे मिल सकते हैं। सो, माया ही कबीरदासके मतसे जीवोंको भरमा रही है। नही उन्हें भी भुलवाने पहुँची थी। कबीरने होशियारीसे जवाब दिया था कि 'माया बहन, तू यहाँसे चली जा, कबीर फँसनेवाला जीव नहीं है। तुझे तो पाट-पट्टर चाहिये और बेचारा कबीर कमीनी जातिका जुलाहा है।' माया सहज ही ठोक्नेकी नहीं। उसने जवाब दिया, 'भई, म तो अपना काम करती ही जाऊगी। अपने साहबको मुझे लेखा तो देना ही पड़ेगा।' कबीर बोले, 'माया रानी, पत्थर नहीं भीम सकता। कबीर नहीं डिगेगा। जिम मच्छकी तू मन्डी है वह मेरा रखवाला है। जरा भी तेरी ओर नजर डालू तो वह नाराज हो जाय। तू ओर जगह जाँ।'

और भी आगे बढ़कर कबीर पंथमें एक और अध्याय जोड़ा गया था। निरजन-विषयक विचार हम देख चुके हैं। माया इती निरजनकी शक्ति है। ब्रह्माण्डमें जो माया है, पिण्डमें वही कुण्डलिनी है। कुण्डलिनीका ही नाम माया

कबीरदामने मायाके सबधम जो कुछ कहा है वह वस्तुतः वेदान्तद्वारा निर्धारित अर्थमे ही। खूब सम्भव है कि कबीरदासने भक्ति-सिद्धान्तके साथ ही मायासूत्री उपदेश भी रामानदाचार्यसे ही पाया था, इसीलिये वे बराबर भक्तको माया-जालसे अतीत समझते हैं। यहाँ इतना और कह रखा जाय कि कबीरदासके 'निर्गुण ब्रह्म' मे 'गुण' का अर्थ सत्त्व रज आदि गुण हैं, इसलिये 'निर्गुण ब्रह्म' का अर्थ वे निराकार निस्सीम आदि समझते ह, निर्विषय नहीं।

ऊपरकी चर्चापरसे यदि किसी नतीजे तक पहुँचा जा सकता है तो वह यही है कि (१) आचार्य रामानन्दने अपने शिष्योंको किसी वेदातिक वादका बधन नहीं लगाया था। वे स्वयं यद्यपि विशिष्टाद्वैतवादी थे पर अद्वैतवादी भक्तिग्रन्थोको बडे सम्मानकी दृष्टिसे देखते थे। उनके लिये भक्ति ही बड़ी चीज थी, फिर चाहे वह निर्गुणकी हो या सगुणकी, द्वैत भावसे हो या अद्वैत-भावसे। (२) उनकी

१ वो ओकार आदि जो नाम हैं। लिखिक मैटै ताहि सो माने ॥

वो ओकार कहे मन कोइ। जिन्हि वह लपटा सो विरल हाइ ॥

उपदिष्ट भक्ति भिन्न भिन्न रुचि, विद्या और सस्कारवाले त्रिष्विधोंमें नाना रूपमें प्रकट हुई और (३) कबीरदासके पदोंसे, जैसा कि हम आगे देखेंगे, एकेश्वरवाद, विशिष्टाद्वयवाद, अद्वैतवाद, द्वैतद्वैतविलक्षणवाद आदि कई परस्परविरोधी मतोंके समर्थन हो सकते हैं, पर इस विरोधका कारण कबीरदासके विचारोंकी अस्थिरता नहीं है बल्कि यह है कि वे भगवान्को अगुभवकाम्य और निखिलातीत तथा समस्त ऐश्वर्यों और विभूतियोंका आवार रागमने थे। इसीलिये लौकिक दृष्टिसे जो बातें परस्पर विरोधी दीखती हैं अलौकिक भगवत्स्वरूपमें वे सब घट जाती हैं। यह बात भक्तिकी दुनियामें नई नहीं है। भक्त लोग एक ही राय भगवान्के लिये कई परस्पर विरोधी विशेषणोंका व्याहार करते हैं। लघुभागवतामृत (पृ० ३१७) में बताया गया है कि प्राकृत विशेषणोंसे भगवान्के अचिन्त्य रूपका बोध दुष्कर है। यही कारण है कि उनमें ऐसी अनेक विशेषणोंका प्रयोग किया जाता है जो लौकिक दृष्टिसे परस्परविरोधी जन्तते हैं। इस अन्तिम बातकी विवेचना करनेका अगगर हम आगेके अध्यायमें भी पायेंगे।

९—निर्गुण राम

कई बार कबीरदासके अलोचकोने आश्चर्य प्रकट किया है कि उन्होंने निर्गुण रामकी उपासना कैसे वताई। वेदान्त-ग्रन्थोंमें ब्रह्मज्ञानके कई प्रकारके अविकारी ज्ञानके उपासके हैं। उत्तम अधिकारी ब्रह्मके चेतन्यमय स्वरूपकी उपलब्धि करके जीते ही जीते मुक्त हो जा जाता है, अर्थात् ज्ञान प्राप्त होनेके बाद यद्यपि उम्मा गरीर कुछ दिनों तक आहार, निद्रा-आदि विकारोंका वशवर्ती रहता है पर वस्तुतः उसका आत्मा छुटकारा पा गया होता है। जिस प्रकार कुम्हारका चक्का डडके चूर्णण वेगके हटा लेनेपर भी पुराने वेगके कारण कुछ और देर तक घूमता है उसी प्रकार जीवन-मुक्तका शरीर कुछ और काल तक चलता रहता है, पर अगलमें उसका आत्मा मुक्त हो गया होता है। “जागृत, स्वप्न और सुषुप्ति इन तीन अवस्था-रूप जो माया है वही त्रैलोक्यका कारण है। जो कुछ दिख रहा है वह सभी इस मायाके कारण। किन्तु, परब्रह्मके दर्शनके बाद मायाकी मरीचिका जाती रहती है और जगत् असत्य भासने लगता है। सकल वस्तु स्वरूप वह परब्रह्म नाम रूपा और क्रियासे रहित है। किन्तु जो इस जगत्की मायाके बलसे सृष्टि करता है वह ईश्वर है। यही ईश्वर सब कुछमें प्रविष्ट हो रहा है।” (आत्मज्ञान ४-५) उत्तम अधिकारी इस तत्त्वको राम-दम-नियम सयमादिके अभ्यासके द्वारा आयत्त कर लेता है (पच० ९-२०) परन्तु बुद्धिकी अत्यन्त मन्दताके कारण या साधकोंके अभाववश जो व्यक्ति उत्तम अधिकारी नहीं हो सकता वह क्या करे? क्या वह शृगुणकी ही उपासना करे और ‘पर निर्गुण ब्रह्म’ की आशा छोड़ दे? पंचदशीमें विद्यारण्यस्वामीने उत्तरमें कहा है कि नहीं, वह निर्गुण तत्त्वकी उपासना करे। यदि कहो कि जो वाणी और मनके गोचर है ही नहीं उसकी उपासना कैसे हो सकती है, तो उठे तुम्हींसे प्रश्न किया जा सकता है कि जो वस्तु वाणी और मनके परे है, अर्थात् जिस तक न तो वाणी पहुँच पाती है और न मन, उसका अनुभव भी तो संभव नहीं है, उसका ज्ञान लेना भी तो संभव नहीं दिखता। फिर यदि यह संभव है तो उपासना क्यों

समझ नहीं है ? विद्यारण्यस्वामीके कथनमें ही कबीरके आलोचकोका उत्तर पाया जा सकता है, क्योंकि उन्होंने अत्यन्त स्पष्ट भाषामें कहा है कि निर्गुण त्वात्त्वरूपी उपासना असंभव नहीं है (९, ५५) ।

शुद्ध साम्प्रदायिक पंडितोंकी ओरसे इस प्रकारके ' रहस्योद्घाटन ' का दावा किया गया है कि सन्त मतके प्रवर्तक आदि गुरु कबीरसाहबके विचार हैं कि जो मन्दाधिकारी सत्त्वशुद्धिके अभावसे आत्म-विचार नहीं कर सकता वह निर्गुण ब्रह्मोपासना भी नहीं कर सकता, क्योंकि महावाक्यजन्य परोक्ष ज्ञानसे होनेवाली ब्रह्मोपासना मनकी कल्पना है । इस कारण उससे हृदयके विकार अहंकारादिकी निवृत्ति नहीं हो सकती, प्रत्युत महा अहंकारकी उत्पत्ति होती है जो कि वासना-वाले मन्दाधिकारियोंको हानि पहुंचा सकती है । जो हृदय वासना पंकिल है उसमें ब्रह्मदेवकी प्रतिष्ठा किस प्रकार हो सकती है ? अतः विकारोंको दूर करनेके लिये भी विषयानित्यता और परिणाम-विराता (अर्थात् विषय अनित्य है और परिणाममें विरस है) इत्यादिक विचार ही उपयुक्त हैं । कामनादिक विकार-वाले पुरुष प्रवृत्त विचारके बिना ब्रह्मोपासनासे आत्मसाक्षात्कार नहीं कर सकते अतः विकार निवृत्तिके लिये विचार करनेकी अनुमति सद्गुरुने इस प्रकार दी है—

करु विचार जिहि राव दुख जाई । परिहरि झूठाकेर सगाई ॥

और

भव अति गरुभा दुख करि भारी । करु जिय जतन जो देखु बिचारी ॥

वागाथगोचराकारमित्येव यत् वेद्यसौ ।

वागाथगोचराकारमित्युपासीत नो कृत ॥—पृ० ०९, ५४-५७

वस्तुतः यम-नियमादि अनुष्ठानपूर्वक क्रिये जानेवाले संसारानित्यादि विचारमें सत्त्व शुद्धि हो जानेपर ब्रह्मोपासनाकी आवश्यकता नहीं रहती^१ ।

इस प्रसंगमें विद्यारण्य स्वामीके इस मतपर शका प्रकट की गई है कि—

यावच्चिन्त्यस्वरूपत्वाभिमान स्तस्य जायते ।

तावद्विचिन्त्य पश्चान्च तयैवामृति वारयेत् ।

इस देशमें विद्यारण्य स्वामीके भक्तों और समर्थकोंकी कमी नहीं है। वे विद्वान् और समर्थ भी हैं। निश्चय ही वे इन शकाका जवाब दे लेंगे। हम यहाँ उन उलझनमें पड़नेकी कोई जरूरत नहीं है। पर कवीरदासके नामपर प्रचलित पदों और साखियोंका सीमासाधा अर्थ करनेपर हम इस नतीजेपर पहुँचते हैं कि निस्संदेह कवीरदासने आत्म-विचारको बहुमान दिया है पर जो लोग उसने अधिकारी नहीं हैं उनके लिए 'निर्गुण राम' के अपनेका उपदेश भी दिया है। निर्गुण रामके जपका अर्थ वही है जो महावाक्योंके चिन्तनका अर्थ है। नाम-जपका महावाक्य-चिन्तनसे इतना अन्तर जतर है कि नाम-जप करनेवाला जहाँ विचारसे बिल्कुल शुन्य रह सकता है वहाँ महावाक्योंका मनन करनेवाला किसी न किसी कोटिके विचारमें लगा ही रहैगा। महावाक्योंके स्मरणसे अपनेमें ब्रह्मत्वाभिमान होनेका मतलब ही यह है कि अपनेको ब्रह्म समझते रहनेका अभ्यास करना। हमने पहले ही लक्ष्य किया है कि कवीरदास 'भाई' सजो-जनके द्वारा माधारण संसारिक जीवोंको सजोधन करते हैं और उसे अपना व्यक्तिगत उपदेश देते हैं—हे भाई, निर्गुण रामका जप करो। अविगतिकी गति लखना सहज नहीं है (तुलनीय०—अवाङ्मानसगम्यस्य वेदनं न च सभवत्—पच०

रामके इस परम प्रसाद और अनुग्रहकी याद दिलानेवाले पदमें क्या यही कहा गया है कि वासना पकिल हृदयवाला मदाधिकारी,—जिसे विशाल भवसमुद्रमें आरपार कुछ भी नहीं दिखाई दे रहा, जो चारों ओर तरंगायित विषय-वीचिको देखकर हतबुद्धि हो रहा है, निर्गुण उपासनाका पात्र नहीं है ? तलिक उल्टे इस पदमें क्या यह नहीं बताया गया कि अज्ञानपूर्वक ध्यान करनेमे भी आदमी परम पद पा लेना है ? आखिर कीट-भ्रमरीका प्रसिद्ध उदाहरण इसी बातको बतानेके लिये ही तो प्रयुक्त होता है । फिर यह क्या आश्चर्यका विषय नहीं है कि इस पदको उपासनाके प्रत्याख्यानमे पमाणस्वरूप पेश किया गया है ? कबीरदासने राम नामकी अपरपार महिमा वर्णनके प्रसंगमें द्विभारहित भाषामें कहा है कि गणिका और अजामिल जैसे अज्ञानी पापी भी पार हो गये ।^२

इसमें तो कोई सन्देह नहीं कि हरि, गोविंद, राम, केशव, माधव आदि पौराणिक नामोंको कबीरदास कचित् कदाचित् ही सगुण अवतारके अर्थमें व्यवहार करते हैं। एकदम नहीं करते, ऐसा नहीं कहा जा सकता। पर जन्म के अपने परम उपास्यको इन नामोंसे पुकारते हैं तो सगुण अवतारोंसे उनका मतलब नहीं होता। उनका 'अल्लाह' अलख निरंजन देव है जो सेवासे परे है, उनका 'विष्णु' वह है जो ससाररूपमें विस्तृत है, उनका 'कृष्ण' वह है जिसने ससारका निर्माण किया है, उनका 'गोविंद' वह है जिसने ब्रह्माण्डको धारण किया है, उनका 'राम' वह है जो सनातन तत्त्व है, उनका 'खुदा' वह है जो दस दरवाजोंको खोल देता है, 'रव' वह है जो चौरासी लाख योनियोंका परवरदिगार है, 'करीम' वह है जो इतना सब कर रहा है, 'गोरख' वह है जो ज्ञानसे गम्य है, 'महादेव' वह है जो मनकी जानता है, 'सिद्ध' वह है जो इस चराचर दृश्यमान जगत्का साधक है, 'नाथ' वह है जो त्रिभुवनका एकमात्र यति या योगी है—जगत्के जितने साधक हैं, सिद्ध हैं, पैगवर हैं, वे इस एककी ही पूजा करते हैं। अनन्त हैं इसके नाम, अपरंपार उसका स्वरूप। वही कबीरदासका भगवान् है (क० ग्र० पद ३२७)। यह राम निरंजन है, उसका रूप नहीं, रेखा नहीं, वह रागुद्र भी नहीं, पर्वत भी नहीं, भारती भी नहीं, आकाश भी नहीं, सूर्य भी नहीं, चन्द्र भी नहीं, पानी भी नहीं, पवन भी नहीं, समस्त दृश्यमान पदार्थोंसे विलक्षण सबसे न्यारा (क० ग्र० पद २१९) वह समस्त वेदोंसे अतीत, भेदोंसे अतीत, पाप और पुण्यसे परे, ज्ञान और ध्यानका अविषय, स्थूल और सूक्ष्मसे त्रिवर्जित, भेष और भीखके अगम्य, डिभ और रूपसे अतीत—अनुपम त्रैलोक्यविलक्षण परम तत्त्व है (क० ग्र० पद २२०)।

परमात्माका वर्णन इसी रूपमें न किया गया हो। पुराणोंका सगुणवाद जेमा प्रचल है वैसा ही निर्गुणवाद भी। वे भी वेदान्तके भावोंसे प्रभावित हैं और उष्ण पुराणोंमें उनका बड़ा ही हृदयप्राही विवेचन है। परन्तु, वे जानते हैं कि निर्गुणवादके तत्त्वोंको समझाना कतिपय तत्त्वज्ञोंका ही काम है, इसलिये, उनमें सगुणवादका ही विस्तार है, क्योंकि वह धोव-सुलभ है। बिना उपासना किये उपासक सिद्धि नहीं पाता। उपासना सोपानपर चढ़कर ही माधक उस प्रभुके सामीप्य स्थापना अधिकारी बना है जो ज्ञान गिरा-गोतीत है। उपासनाके लिये उपास्यकी प्रयोजनीयता अविदित नहीं। यदि उपास्य अचिन्तनीय अव्यक्त है अथवा ज्ञानका विषय नहीं तो उसमें भावोंका आरोप नहीं हो सकता। एसी अवस्थामें भक्ति कियकी होगी ? प्रेम किससे किया जायगा ? ओर किनके गुणोंका मनन-चिन्तन करके मनुष्य अपनी आत्माको उन्नत बना सकेगा ? इन्हा जानोपर दृष्टि रखकर परमात्माके सगुण रूपकी कल्पना है। जो यह समझता है कि बिना सगुणोपासना किये हम परमात्माके निर्गुण-स्वरूपका ज्ञान प्राप्त कर लेंगे वह उसी जिज्ञासुके समान है जो विश्व-नियन्ताका तो परिचय प्राप्त करना चाहता है, किन्तु, यही नहीं जानता कि विश्व क्या है। पुराण सगुण-पथका पथिक बनाकर निर्गुणकी प्राप्ति कराते हैं किन्तु बड़ी बुद्धिमत्ता और विवेकके साथ। यही कारण है कि मुखसे निर्गुणवादका गीत गानेवाले भी अन्तमें पुराण शैलीकी परिविके अन्तर्गत हो जाते हैं। चाहे कबीर साहब हों अथवा पन्द्रहवीं सदीके द्रमरे निर्गुणवादी, उन सबके मार्गदर्शक गुप्त रूपसे पुराण ही हैं। १”

विचारणीय यह है: कबीरदासके उन पदोंका जिनमें उन्होंने बारबार “ दश-रथसुत तिहें लोक बखाना। राम नामकर मरम है आना। ”— जेसी वाते जह-कर पुराणप्रतिपादित सगुण ब्रह्मका प्रत्याख्यान करना चाहा है। क्या ऐसा अर्थ भी लगाया जा सकता है कि मुहसे विरोध करते रहनेपर भी कबीरदास अमलमें पुराण-विरोधी नहीं थे ? तुलसीदासजीने ऐसा नहीं समझा था। रामचरित मानसमें ‘ दशरथ-सुत ’ वाली उक्ति उद्धृत करके ही उन्होंने उसका सीधी भाषामें प्रत्याख्यान किया है। उनके मतसे इस प्रकार कथन करनेवाले वेद और पुराण प्रतिपादित मद्धर्मके जाननेवाले नहीं थे। बालकाण्डमें पार्वतीने शिवसे पूछा—

राम सो अवध नृपति सुत सोई । की अज अगुण अलख गति कोई ॥
 जो नृप तनय तो ब्रह्म किमि, नारिविरह मति भोरि ।
 देरि चरित महिमा सुनत, भ्रमति बुद्धि अति मोरि ॥ १०८ ॥

इमके उत्तरमें गोस्वामी तुलसीदासजीने शिवजीके मुखसे जो उत्तर दिलवाया है वह ध्यानसे सुनने लायक है

इस उद्धरणके मोटे टाइपके शब्दोपर ध्यान देकर देखा जाय तो कोई सन्देह नहीं रह जाता कि तुलसीदासके मनमें 'दशरथसुत तिहुँ लोक-वखाना, राम-नाम कर मरम है आना' वाली कबीर-पथियोंकी उक्ति ही थी। बार बार 'दशरथ-सुत 'नृपसुत', 'नृप तनय', 'कोउ आना', आदि पद अचानक नहीं आ गये हैं, जान बूझकर और सोच समझकर ले आये गये हैं। इससे यह तो निश्चित है कि तुलसी-दासजी इस मतको श्रुतिसम्मत या पुराणभारगी नहीं मानते थे। इतना ही नहीं वे इसे अज्ञानजन्य पाखण्ड ही समझते रहे। यह दूसरी बात है कि उनका समझना ठीक या नहीं, प्रकृत प्रसंग यह है कि गोस्वामीजीने द्विधाहीन और सकोचहीन भाषामें इस प्रकारके विचारको वेद-पुराण-ग्राह्य माना है।

इस प्रकार कबीरदासके मतको वेद-पुराण-सम्मत न तो गोस्वामीजी जैसे विराधियोंने माना है और न उनके पक्के अनुयायी शिष्योंने। एकके मतसे यह प्रबल पाखण्ड या और दूसरेके मतसे स्वयं वेद पुराण ही पाखण्ड थे। इन उभय कोटियोंमें और चाहे जो भी असमानता हो, इस बातमें कोई सन्देह नहीं कि दोनों ही यह स्वीकार करते हैं कि वेद पुराणमें वही नहीं है जो कबीरदासने कहा है। फिर जो लोग कबीरदासको एकदम उपनिषद्का सोलह आना अनुयायी समझते हैं और घोषणा करते हैं कि "यद्यपि कबीरदासने मुक्तिका साक्षात् साधन निर्विशेष आत्म-तत्त्वज्ञानको ही माना है तथापि परम्परा-मुक्तिके साधन सात्त्विक पूजा तथा अवतारोपासना, योग-जप-तप-सयम तीर्थ व्रतदानादिकोंकी व्यर्थता उन्होंने कहीं नहीं लिखी, किन्तु धर्मध्वजी पाखण्डियोंके द्वारा की हुई उनकी दुरुपयोगिताका ही खण्डन किया है," वे लोग क्या कहना चाहते हैं, वे ही जानें।

कबीरदासने तो जोरदार भाषामें और साफ साफ आचार-मात्रका प्रत्याख्यान किया है, फिर चाहे वह परम्परारामयित हो या व्यक्ति विशेषके उर्वर मस्तिष्कसे उद्भाषित ।

ऋबीरदासके राम पुराण प्रतिपादित अवतार नहीं थे, यह निश्चित है । वे न तो दशरथके घर उत्तरे थे और न लकाके राजाके नाश करनेवाले हुए, न तो देवकीकी कोखसे पैदा हुए थे और न यशोदाने उन्हें गोद खेलाया था न तो वे श्वालोके सग घूमा करते थे और न उन्होंने गोवर्धन पर्वतको धारण ही किया था, न तो उन्होंने वामन होकर बलिको छला था और न वेदोद्धारके लिये वराहरूप धारण करके धरतीको अपने दाँतोंपर उठाया ही था, न वे गण्डकके शालिग्राम हैं, न वराह, मत्स्य, ऋच्छप आदि वैषधारी विष्णुके अवतार, न तो वे नरनारायणके रूपमें बदरिकाश्रममें ध्यान लगाने बटे थे और न परशुराम होकर क्षत्रियोंका वस करने गये थे, और न तो उन्होंने द्वारिकामें शरीर छोड़ा था और न वे जगन्नाथ-धाममें बुद्धरूपमें ही अवतरित हुए । कबीरदासने बहुत विचार करके कहा है कि ये सब ऊपरी व्यवहार हैं । जो रासारमें व्याप्त हो रहा है वह राम इनकी अपेक्षा कहीं अधिक अगम अपार है^१ । उसको दूर रोजनेकी जरूरत नहीं, वह सारे शरीरमें भरपूर हो रहा है, लोहू झूठ है, चाम झूठ है, रास्य है वह राम जो इस

यह कहना कि “कवीरदास कभी तो अद्वैतवादकी ओर झुकते दिखाई देने हैं और कभी ऐश्वर्यवादकी ओर, कभी वे पौराणिक सगुण भावसे भगवानको पुकारते हैं और कभी निर्गुण भावसे, असलमें उनका कोई स्थिर तात्त्विक मिद्धान्त नहीं था,” केवल अश्रद्धाप्रसूत है। ऐसी बातें वहीं लोग कहते हैं जो गुणमें ही मान बैठते हैं कि कवीरदास एक अशिक्षित जुलाहे थे और उलझी-सीधी अटपटी बानियोंसे साधारण जनतापर ‘प्रभाव जमाना चाहते थे !’ ऐसे कथनाका उत्तर देना बेकार है। बिना श्रद्धा-भक्ति लिये जिस किसी भक्तके कथनोंको क्यों न पढा जाय इस प्रकारके निष्कर्ष निकाल लिये जा सकते हैं। वस्तुतः कवीरदासका एकरववाद उच्च प्रकारका था ही नहीं जेमा मुसलमानी धर्ममें स्वीकृत बताया जाता है। इस मतके अनुसार ईश्वर समस्त जगह और जीवोंसे भिन्न और परम समर्थ है। कवीरदासने स्पष्ट शब्दोंमें लोगोंको मानवान किया है कि वह ब्रह्म व्यापक है, सबमें एकभावसे व्याप्त है, पंडित हो या योगी, राजा हो या प्रजा, बग्य हो या रोगी, वह सबमें आप रम रहा है और उसमें सब रम रहे हैं। यह जो नाना भाक्तिका प्रपंच दिखाई दे रहा है, अनेक घट और अनेक भाण्ड दिरा रह ह, सब कुछ उसीका रूप है २ । मारा खलक ही खालिक है और खालिक ही खलक है ३ ।

(वस्तुतः जत्र कबीरदास निर्गुण भगवान्का रमरण करते हं तो उनका उद्देश्य यह होता है कि भगवान्के गुणमय शरीरकी जो कल्पना की गई है वह रूप उन्हें मान्य नहीं है। परन्तु 'निर्गुण'से वे केवल एक निषेधात्मक भाव ग्रहण करते हों सो बात भी नहीं है। वस्तुतः वे भगवान्को सत्त्व, रज और तमोगुणोंसे अतीत मानते हैं और इसी गुणातीत रूपको निर्गुण शब्दसे प्रकट करते हैं ॥“ हे सन्तो, मे धोखेकी बात किससे कहूँ। गुणहीमें निर्गुण है और निर्गुणमें गुण : इस सीधे रारतेको छोड़कर कहाँ वहता फिरा जाय ? लोग उसे अजर कहते हैं, अमर कहते हैं पर असल बात कोई कहता ही नहीं। वस्तुतः वह अलग्न है, अगम्य है। निषेधात्मक विशेषण केवल धोखे हैं। यह तो ठीक है कि उसका कोई स्वरूप नहीं है, कोई वर्ण नहीं है पर यह ओर भी अधिक ठीक है कि वह सब घटमें समाया हुआ है (और इसीलिये सभी रूप उगके रूप हैं और सभी वर्ण उसके वर्ण हैं, फिर उमें अरूप या अवर्ण कैसे कहें ?) पिण्ड और ब्रह्माण्डकी बाते रुही जाती हैं पर चाहे पिण्ड हो और चाहे ब्रह्माण्ड, सभी देश और कालमें सीमित हैं पर उनका न तो आदि है और न अन्त। फिर उरो पिण्ड और ब्रह्माण्डमें व्याप्त कह ही दिया गया तो क्या उगका ठीक ठीक परिचय मिल गया ? सही बात यह है कि वह पिण्डसे भी परे है, ब्रह्माण्डसे भी परे है। कबीरदास कहते हैं कि उनका हरि इन सबसे परे है। वह अगुण ओर सगुण दोनोंके ऊपर है, अजर और अमर दोनोंसे अतीत है, अरूप और अवर्ण दोनोंके परे है, पिण्ड और ब्रह्माण्ड दोनोंके अगम्य है। यही कबीरदासका निर्गुण राम है^१। ”

जा सकता है कि वह भाव-रूप है और न यही कहा जा सकता है कि वह अभाव-रूप है, 'भावाभावविनिर्मुक्त' है। फिर उसे किसी पक्ष-विशेषके द्वारा भी नहीं समझाया जा सकता। न तो वह द्वैत पक्षका विषय है, न अद्वैत पक्षका प्रतिपाद्य। अमलमें सथाना माधु वही है जो निष्पाप भावसे उसको भजता है। जैसे तिनकेसे तिनका बँवा होता है वैसे ही लोग एक दूसरेसे बँधे हुए हैं। जिसे आत्म-दृष्टि प्राप्त है वही ठीक ठीक देख पाता है। वह जानना एम्मेक होकर जानना है, एकमेक अर्थात् प्रेम प्रीतिसे भरे मनको परम प्रीतिके एरुमात्र आश्रय भगवान्में लीन कर देना। इसे ठीक ठीक कह कर नहीं समझाया जा सकता। यह पूर्णकी पूर्ण दृष्टिसे पूर्णको ही देखना है। वह अद्वैतवादीकी भोंति चिदात्मक ब्रह्म सत्तामें चेतन्यका विलय नहीं है वरिक्त जैसा कि स्वयं कवीरने ही कहा है सहज भावसे एवमेक होकर रामसे मिल रहना है। सहज भी ऐमा 'सहज' नहीं,—परम प्रेमाश्रय भगवान्मे सहज ही मिल रहना सहज है।

फिर उसे न तो भीतर कहा जा सकता है न बाहर। बाहर कहे तो सद्गुरु लज्जित होंगे क्योंकि सद्गुरुहृदयमें वह भीतर ही बँटा है और रामस्त जगतको जो हम देखा रहे हैं और पहचान रहे हैं वह इसीलिये कि वह भीतर बैठा हुआ दिखा रहा है और पहचानवा रहा है, सद्गुरुको हम बाहर कैसे ऋहे ? फिर अगर भीतर कहें तो गारा सासार,—समूची बाह्य रूपमें दृश्यमान सृष्टि झूठी हो जाती है। अरालमें वह गहरसे भीतर तक ँगा व्याप्त हो रहा है कि कहकर समझाया नहीं जा सकता। न तो वह दृष्टिका विषय है (बाह्य) और न मुष्टिका (आन्तर)। वह अलग है, अगम है, अगोचर है। उसे पुस्तकमें लिखकर प्रकट नहीं किया जा सकता। उसे वही भला भौति जानते हैं जो पहचानते हैं। जो नहीं जानते वे कहनेपर विश्वास ही नहीं करेंगे।^१

“ हमारे भीतर इस इच्छाका निकेतन हृदय है। हमारा वह इच्छामय हृदय क्या शून्यमें प्रतिष्ठित है ? उसकी पुष्टि मिथ्यासे होती है ? उसका गम्य स्थान क्या व्यर्थताके बीचमें है ? फिर भला यह विचित्र उपसर्ग (इच्छा-हृदय) कहींसे आया ? किस उपायसे वह मुहूर्त-भरके लिये यहाँ टिका हुआ है ? जगतमें क्या भिर्फ एक ही धोखा है, और वह धोखा हमारा हृदय है ? ऋभी नहीं। हमारा यह इच्छारसमय हृदय जगद्व्यापी इच्छा रसकी नाडीके साथ बँधा हुआ है। वहाँसे वह आनन्द-रस पाकर जी रहा है, न पानेसे उसका प्राण निकल जाता है—वह अन्न वस्त्र नहीं चाहता, विद्या-शक्ति नहीं चाहता, चाहता है अमृत, चाहता है प्रेम। जो कुछ चाहता है उसे इसीलिये चाहता है कि वह वस्तु क्षुद्र-रूपसे ससारमें और चरम रूपसे उन (भगवान्) में वर्तमान है,—नहीं तो किसी रुद्ध द्वारपर भिर पटककर मरनेके लिये उसका जन्म नहीं हुआ है। हृदय अपनेको जानता है इसीलिये यह भी निश्चय रूपसे जानता है कि उसकी एक परिपूर्ण कृतार्थता अन्तरमें वर्तमान है। इच्छा केवल उसीकी ओर है, यह बात नहीं है, दूरी ओर भी है—० दूरी ओर भी इच्छा न होती तो वह निमेष भरके लिये भी इधर नहीं रह सकती थी,—एक कण-भर भी इधर ऐसी बची न रहती जिससे निश्वास-प्रदवासरूप प्राण-क्रिया भी चल सकती। इसीलिये उपनिषदोंने इनना जोर देकर कहा है कि—कोह्येवान्यात् कः प्राण्यात् यदेष आकाश आनन्दो न स्यात्, एष ह्येवानन्दयति। ”—कौन शरीरकी चेष्टा करता और कौन जी सकता था, यदि आकाशमें वह आनन्द न होता,—वे ही आनन्दके दाता हैं।

“ दो इच्छाओंके बीच दूतीका कार्य करती है प्रार्थना। यह प्रार्थना-दूती दो इच्छाओंके मध्यवर्ती विच्छेदके ऊपर व्याकुल वेशमें खड़ी है। इसीलिये असाधारण साहसके साथ वैष्णव भक्तने कहा है कि जगतके विचित्र सौन्दर्यके भीतर भगवान्की बशी जो नाना सुरोंमें बज रही है वह सिर्फ हमारे लिये उनकी प्रार्थना है,—हमारे हृदयको वे इसी अनिर्वचनीय सगीतके द्वारा पुकार रहे हैं। ”

इसीलिये तो यह सौन्दर्य सगीत हमारे हृदयकी विरह-वेदनाको जगा देता है।^१
 उनकी ऐसी पुकार पर भी क्या हमारे मनकी प्रार्थना नहीं जायेगी ? वह क्या
 उनके विरहकी धूलि-आसनपर लोट कर रो नही उठेगी ? असात्य अधिकार और
 मृत्युके निरानन्द निर्वासनसे अभिरारकी यात्राके समय यह प्रार्थना कूती ही
 क्या अपनी कम्पित दीप शिखाको लेकर हमारा रास्ता दिखाती हुई आगे आगे
 नही चलेगी ? जितने दिन तक हमारे पास हृदय है, जितने दिनतक प्रेमस्वरूप
 भगवान् अपने नाना सौन्दर्याद्वारा इस जगत्को आनन्द निकेतनके रूपमें सजा
 रहे हं, तबतक उनसे मिलन हुए बिना मनुष्यकी वेदना उसे दूर होगी ? तबतक
 ऐसा कौन सन्देह-कठोर ज्ञानाभिमान है जो मनुष्यकी प्रार्थनाको अपमानित करके
 लौटा दे सके ? ”

इसी त्रिगुणातीत, द्वैताद्वैतविलक्षण, भावाभावविनिर्मुक्त, अलस, अगोचर
 अगम्य, प्रेमपारावार भगवान्को कबीरद्वारा ' निर्गुण राम ' कहकर सरोवन
 किया है। वह समरत ज्ञात तत्त्वोंसे भिन्न है फिर भी गर्वमय है। वह अनुभवैक-
 गम्य है,—केवल अनुभवसे ही जाना जा सकता है। इगी भावको^२

बड़े महन्त बनते हैं, हाट-वाजारमें समाधि लगाते हैं और मौका पाते ही तोप-घन्टूक लेकर पिच पड़ते हैं ! भला दत्तात्रेयने भी कभी मवासियों द्वारा शत्रुओंपर चढाई की थी, शुकदेवने भी कभी तोप सग्रह किये थे, नारदने भी कभी घन्टूक दागी थी ! अजीब हैं ये निरक्त जिनकी सोनेकी गदियों जगमगा रही हैं, टापी-घोड़ोंके ठाठ लगे हैं, करोड़-पतियोकी-सी दान है^१ ! ! रग ढगसे मालूम होता है कि यह नागा लोगोंकी कुम्भकी चढाई जसी कोई घटना रही होगी । दम प्रकार बहुवा-विचित्र वाद्याङ्गपर-मूलक साधनाओंके बीच कगीरदासन अपनी प्रेम भक्तिकी साधना शुरू की थी ।

जनतामें सर्वाधिक प्रभाव हिन्दू मत या पौराणिक धर्मका था । इसके बाद ही योगियोंकी प्रचलना थी । ब्राह्मणोंके विषयमें विशेष कहनेकी आवश्यकता ही नहीं क्योंकि जिन लोगोंके हाथमें इस पुस्तकके पहुँचनेकी आशा है वे सभी लोग दम भक्तों भली भाँति जानते हैं । योगियोंकी साधनाका उल्लेख पहले ही हो चुका है । यहाँ संक्षेपमें उन मोटी वाताही चर्चा कर लेना आवश्यक समझा गया है जिन्हें कगीरदास पौराणिक ब्राह्मण धर्मकी विशेषता मानते थे और बारम्बार प्रत्याख्यानयोग्य समझते थे ।

सबसे मुख्य बात यह है कि कगीरदासने पौराणिक हिन्दू धर्मके आचार-ग्राह्यको ही अधिक लक्ष्य किया था । कोई पूजा या उत्सव उनकी दृष्टिमें ज्यादा खटकता था पर उस पूजा या उत्सवके पीछे छिपा हुआ तत्त्ववाद प्रायः ही उनकी दृष्टिमें

उपस्थित नहीं होता था। मूर्तिहीन उपासना उनको घुरी लगती थी पर ऐसा जान पड़ता है कि मूर्तियाँ तत्त्ववाद उन्हें भाव्य ही न था। शायद ही किसी दार्शनिक तत्त्ववाद या पौराणिक रहस्य-व्याख्याका उल्लेख उन के ग्रन्थों में पाया जाय।

वेदपाठ, तीर्थस्नान, व्रतोद्यापन, छुआछूत, आतारोपारना, कर्म भाण्ड इत्यादि सबके विरुद्ध कबीरदासने लिखा है पर ईश्वर भी उनको गूढ़ व्याख्याओंको था इनकी पृष्ठभूमिके तत्त्ववादको उल्लेखयोग्य नहीं गगना। वस्तुतः गारा हिन्दू धर्म उनकी दृष्टिमें एक बाह्यान्तराह्वृत टकोमला-गारा था। उन्होंने योगार्थको भी ढकोमला ही समझा था पर हमने पिछले अध्यायोंमें देखा है कि इस विषयका वर्णन वे राम लेकर करते हैं और उगली छोटी छोटी शिक्षणाओंकी भी जानकारी रखते हैं। परन्तु हिन्दू-मत या तत्त्ववादकी ओर न तो उगली वंसी जिज्ञासा ही है और न निष्ठा ही। बीजरूपे करीब एक दर्जन पद सीधे 'पण्डित' या 'पाण्डे'को सगे इन कर्मके कहे गये हैं। इनमेंसे कई पद बहुत मागूली परिवर्तनके साथ 'कबीर-ग्रन्थावली'में भी आये हैं। इन पदोंमें वे पण्डितोंके तरह-तरहके प्रश्न पूछते हैं। कदते हैं, छूत कहांसे आ गई? पवन, तीर्थ और रजके सम्बन्धसे गर्भाशयमें गर्भ रहता है, फिर वह अष्टांगलालके नीचेमें उतरकर पृथ्वीपर आता है, ऐसी हालतमें यह जूत कैसे आ गई? पत्नी तू भरती है जिसमें चोरासी लारा गोनिक प्राणि योंका शरीर सडकर मिट्टी हो गया, इस एक ही पाटपर परमपिताने गानों बिठाया है तो फिर उन कहां रहती? इत्यादि। परंतु तर्क निश्चय ही युक्तिरामत है पर जिम 'पण्डित' से यह प्रश्न पूछा जाता है वह इसका बहुत सीधा जवाब

पण्डित, ब्राह्म मनसब जानी।

कहु धां तूति कदते उपजी तब तूति तुम मानी।

बाद बदे रुधिरके सगे घटहीमर घट सपथे।

अस्ट कबल होय पुहुभी बाया छूति कहते उपजे।

तूतिहि जेवन छूतिहि अचवन छूतिहि जगत उपाया।

रुहहि कबीर ते छूति विवरजित जाके सग न माया।

जानता है। उस सीधे जवाबको प्रश्नकर्ताने एकदम भुला दिया है। गलत हो या नहीं 'पंडित' यह विश्वास करता है कि जून उसकी सृष्टि नहीं है वरिष्क एक अनादि कर्मप्रवाहका फल है। वह विश्वास करता है कि प्राणिमात्र जन्म-कर्मके एक दुर्वार प्रवाहमें बहे जा रहे हैं। अगर उसे सचमुच निरुत्तर करना है तो या तो उसे उस अनादि कर्मप्रवाहकी युक्तिके भीतरस समझाना चाहिये या फिर जन्म-कर्म-प्रवाहके इस विश्वासको ही निर्मूल खिन्न कर देना चाहिये। यह अत्यन्त मोटी-सी बात है। पर कबीरदासके निकट 'पंडित' या 'पांडे' बतना अदना सा और उपेक्षणीय बात है कि उन्होंने कभी इस रहस्यको समझनेकी कोशिश नहीं की।

इसी प्रकार वे पूछते हैं "पंडित, तोब कर बनाओ तो नहीं, किम प्रकार आवागमन छूट सकता है और धर्म अर्थ-काम-मोक्ष ये सब फल किम दिगाम बसते हैं? अगर गोपालके बिना ससारका कोउ स्थान ही नहीं है तो मला लोग नरक कैसे जाते हैं? देखो भाई, जो नहीं जानता उनके लिये नरक है, स्वर्ग है, परन्तु जो हरिको जानता है उनके लिए कुछ भी नहीं है।" कहना बेकार है कि इस तत्त्वसे पंडित अपरिचित नहीं है। वह भी जानता है कि यह स्वर्ग और नरककी कल्पना अत्रिशाकी उपज है पर वह कितने ही प्रकारके अविचारियोंके अस्तित्वमें विश्वास करता है। उसे निरुत्तर करनेके लिये हम अधिकारी भेदके सिद्धान्तोंकी ही जड़ रोदनी चाहिये थी। इस प्रकार कबीरदासका 'पंडित' यह पत्राचारी अधकचरा ब्राह्मण है जो ब्राह्मण-मतरक अत्यन्त निचले स्तरका नेता है।

जहा जहाँ भी कबीरदासने पंडितके बाह्याचारका खण्डन किया है वही उसे नितान्त अदना आदमी समझके किया है। वे वह जानते ही नहीं कि पंडितके पास भी तत्त्वज्ञान है, मोक्ष और अपवर्गकी व्याख्या है, व्यावहारिक और पारमार्थिक गतापर बहस है, स्थूल और सूक्ष्मकी गयीदा है, कर्म और बंधकी वारणा है। यह वे कल्पना भी नहीं करते कि पंडित ऐसे प्रश्नोंपर अपने शास्त्रोमे विचार भी किया करता है।

यहा उस कवनका यह तात्पर्य नहीं है कि कबीरदासने बाह्याचारोंकी व्यर्थना समझनेम गलती की है। यही डरी बातका उल्लेख किया जा रहा है कि कबीर-दासन 'पंडित' या 'पंडे' को केना समझा या या केगा देखा या। शास्त्रीय आचार जालको छिन्न करके और लोकाचारके जालको ढाहकर वे सहज ही सहज भय नरु पहंच सके थे, इसम कोई संदेह नहीं। यहाँ केवल इतना ही प्रकृत है कि कबीरदासका 'पंडित' बहुत अदना आदमी है, स्वर्ग और नरकके सिवा और कुछ जानता ही नहीं, जान-पात और ह्युताहृतका अब उपायक है, तीर्थ-स्नान और व्रत-उपासका ठेठ समर्थक है, —तत्त्वज्ञानहीन, आत्म विचार-विवर्जित विवेकबुद्धिहीन, अटट गंवार।

अब एक बार योगमार्गके सूक्ष्म ज्ञानके साथ ब्राह्मण मतके इग अल्पज्ञानकी कल्पना की जाय तो उस 'मत्स्य सिद्धान्त' का महल बालूकी भीतपर राड़ा दिखाई देगा जिसे इतना प्रचारित किया गया है। कहा गया है कि कबीरदास मुसलमान बंधमे पेदा होकर भी 'सत्संग'के बलपर हिन्दू शास्त्रीय मतोंको इतना जान सके थे। यह सिद्धान्त वस्तुतः किसी दृढ प्रमाणपर आधारित नहीं है। यह कहना तो अनुचित है कि कबीरदास सत्संगी नहीं थे, —जरूर ही रहे होंगे पर हिन्दूधर्मसम्बन्धी उगका ज्ञान गत्यंभ करके बटोरा हुआ नहीं था। वस्तुतः योगमत, द्वैतद्वैत त्रिलक्षण-परमात्म-विश्वास, निर्गुण निराकारकी भावना, समाधि सहजावस्था, सतम-स्वभाव आदिका संपूर्ण ज्ञान उन्हें अपनी कुल-परम्परा और कुल गुरु-परम्परासे प्राप्त हुआ था। पौराणिक हिन्दूमतको दूरपर जेठे हुए दर्शककी भौति ही उन्होंने देखा था। इस बातकी उन्होंने कोई परवा ही नहीं की कि उनके भीतर भी कोई आध्यात्मिक तत्त्व है या नहीं।

हमने ऊपर लक्ष्य किया है कि बाह्याचारमूलक जिन धार्मिक कृत्योंका खण्डन कबीरदासने किया है लगभग उन सभीका खण्डन उनके पूर्ववर्ती हठयोगियोंन

उसी प्रकारकी चक्रनाचूर करनेवाली भाषामें क्रिया है। लेकिन यह परम्परा और भी पुरानी तथा और भी व्यापक है। योगियांक भी पूर्ववर्ती सहजयानी सिद्धोंने भिन्न भिन्न मतके बाह्याचारका वैसा ही जोरदार राण्डन क्रिया है। सरोरुहपाद कहते हैं कि “ ब्राह्मण ब्रह्मके मुखसे पैदा हुए थे, जब हुए थे तब हुए थे। इस समय तो वे भी वैसे ही पैदा होते हैं जैसे दूसरे लोग। तो फिर ब्राह्मणत्व कहाँ रहा ? यदि कहो कि सस्कारसे ब्राह्मणत्व होता है तो चाण्डालको भी सरकार दे कर क्यों नहीं ब्राह्मण हो जाने देते ? अगर कहो कि ये लोग हाथमें कुम जल लेकर घर बैठे हवन करते हैं। यदि आगमें घी डाल देनेसे मुक्ति होती हो तो क्यों नहीं मजको डालने देते ? होम करनेसे मुक्ति होती हो या नहीं, बुआँ लगनेसे आँखोंको कष्ट जरूर होता है ।”^१ इसी प्रकार नमन राजुओंको लक्ष्य करके सरोरुहपाद कहते हैं कि ‘ये लोग कपट माया फलाकर लोगोंको टगा करते हैं। तब तो ये जानते ही नहीं। मलिन वेश धारण किये फिरते हैं और गरीबको व्यर्थ ही कष्ट देते हैं। नमो घूमते हैं और बैश उत्पन्न (लुचन) देते हैं। यदि नमन दिग्गजको मुक्ति मिलती हो तो स्थार कुत्तोंकी मुक्ति पहले होनी चाहिये। यदि नमन दिग्गजको मुक्ति होती हो तो ऐसे बहुताँकी मुक्ति हो जानी चाहिये जिन्हें लोभ हे ही नहीं। यदि पिच्छी ग्रहण करनेसे मुक्ति होती हो तो मयूर इसका पयम अधिकारी है। यदि उच्छ भोजनसे मुक्ति होती हो तो हाथी-घोड़ोंको मुक्ति पहले होनी चाहिए’^२

सभी दोहे 'पाहुँ दोहा' (प्रो० हीरालाल जैन सम्पादित), कारजा (बरार) १९४२, से लिये गये हैं ।

क्रिये जा सकते हैं। ये दोहे भी सन् ईसवीकी प्रथम सहस्राब्दीके अन्त्य भागके हैं। अर्थात् लगभग उसी समयके हैं जा कि सहजगनके बौद्ध गान और दोहे लिखे जा रहे थे।

इस प्रकार कबीरदासने बाह्याचारमूलक धर्मकी जो आलोचना की है उसकी एक सुदीर्घ परम्परा थी। इसी परंपरासे उन्होंने अपने विचार स्थिर किये थे। इनके समयमें एक और भी प्रधान धर्ममत भारतवर्षमें आ चुका था। उसमें भी बाह्याचारकी प्रवृत्तता थी। कबीरदासने स्वयं इस धर्मद्वारा प्रभावित वंशमें जन्म ग्रहण किया था इसलिए उसकी आचार-ग्रहणतासे वे भी परिचित थे। परन्तु मुठ्ठा और काजीको भी वे 'पंडित'के समान ही अटना और हीनवीर्य समझते रहे। ऐसा नहीं जान पड़ता कि उन्होंने मुगलमान धर्मके बाह्याचारोंके निवा उमके किसी अंगकी गहरी जानकारी प्राप्त करनेकी चेष्टा की हो। उन्होंने सुन्नत, वांग और कुरबानी आदिकी खरी आलोचना की है। पर चाहे मुसलमानी धर्मके बाह्याचारका स्पष्ट हो या हिंदू मतके, उन्होंने अपने पूर्वजती अक्षय्य योगियोंकी भोक्ति सहज राण्डनके लिये खण्डन नहीं किया। उनका केंद्रीय विचार भक्ति था। वे भक्तिको प्रधान मानते थे। उसके रहनेपर बाह्याचारका होना न होना गौण बात है। ऐसा जहर है कि वे भक्तिकी प्राप्तिके बाद बाह्याचारोंका स्वयं नष्ट हो जाना जसी बातपर विश्वास करते हैं। उनके मतसे भक्ति और बाह्याचारका सर्वव सूर्य और अन्धकारका-सा है। एक साथ दोनों नहीं रह सकते। काजी कितना पढते पढते मर गया पर तत्त्व नहीं समझ सका। कबीरदास कहते हैं कि यद्यपि उनका शरीर मुसलमानी आचारमें संस्कृत बनाया जाकर मुसलमान बना लिया गया पर वस्तुतः यह संस्कार बाह्य ओर अबूरा है। उन्हें इस संस्कारद्वारा मार्जित होनेका अफसोस नहीं था। वे तो भक्तिकी टेक गहे हुए थे और काजी झर झरके भी उनको उस मार्गसे विचलित नहीं कर सकता। एक बार भक्तिकी टेक गह ली तो कोई भी बाह्याचार रास्ता रोकके खडा नहीं हो सकता। पंडितोंने कहा है

काजी कौन कतेब बखानै ।

पढन पढत केते दिन बीने गनि एके नहि जाने ।

सकनसे नेह पकरि करि खनति यह न बद् रे भाई ।

जौर खुदाइ तुम्ह मोहिं करता तौ आपैं कटि किन जाई ।

कि कबीरदासकी भक्तिमें सूफी साधनाका प्रभाव है। उनकी प्रेम और विरह-संबंधी उक्तियोंमें इस प्रभावका अस्तित्व दिखाया गया है। यह बात ठीक हो सकती है। यद्यपि कबीरदासके खुदके वचनोंके बलपर कहा जा सकता है कि प्रेमभक्तिका बीज उन्हें अन्यत्रसे मिला था पर सूफी साधकोंसे उनका प्रभावित होना असम्भव नहीं है। परन्तु, जो लोग उन्हें मुस्लिमप्रभावापन्न सुधारक मानते हैं वे बहुत ही उथले प्रमाणोंपर उड़ती उड़ती बातें करते हैं। कबीर-पंथियोंका और कोई दावा ठीक हो या नहीं उनका यह दावा सोलह आने संगत है कि कबीरदास मुसलमान नहीं थे, क्योंकि मुसलमानी वंशमें जन्म और लालन-पालन होना ही किसीको मुसलमान नहीं बना देता। जन्मसे वे मुसलमान रहे हों या नहीं, विश्वासमें वे एकदम मुसलमान नहीं थे। उनके ऊपर मुसलमानी संस्कृति और धर्म-विश्वासका कोई गहरा असर नहीं पड़ा था। और उन्होंने कहीं भी अपनेको मुसलमान नहीं कहा। मुस्लिम धर्म-साधनासे उनका संबंध नाममात्रको ही था। पर मुसलमान वंशमें प्रतिपालित होनेके कारण उनमें एक प्रकारका साहसिक भाव आ गया था और उस दार्शनिक तर्क-जालसे वे मुक्त थे जो उनके पूर्ववर्तियों सिद्धों और योगियोंको अभिभूत किये हुए था। इसीलिये वे सहज बातको सहज ढंगसे—बिना अपर-पक्षकी कल्पना किये—कह सके थे। यह मुस्लिम परिवारमें पालित होनेका उत्तम फल था। नहीं तो जिन खण्डनात्मक विचारोंके लिये उन्हें मुस्लिमप्रभावापन्न सुधारक माना जाता है उनकी परम्परा बहुत पुरानी थी।

पण्डितोंने एकेश्वरवाद और अद्वैतवादकी बहस उठाकर यह साचित करनेकी कोशिश की है कि कबीरदासका अमुक विषयमें एकेश्वरवादी मत मुसलमानी भावका सूत्रक है। सही बात यह है कि जब कबीरदास राम और रहीमकी एकताकी बात करते हैं तो उनका मतलब भारतीय परम्पराके 'अद्वैत ब्रह्म'को सामी धर्मके 'पैगंबरी खुदा'के साथ घुला देना नहीं होता। वे अत्यन्त सीधी-सी बात अत्यन्त सीधे तौरपर कहते हैं कि सृष्टिके रचयिता भगवान्को

हौं तौ तुरक किया करि रुचति औरतिसौ का कहिये ।

अरध सरीरी नारि न छूटे आधा हिन्दू रहिये ।

यदि मानते हो तो दोकी कल्पना व्यर्थ है। एक ही परम तत्त्वको राम और रहीम कह देनेसे वह दो नहीं हो जायगा। माला और तमबीहपर जप करनेके कारण वह वस्तु भिन्न नहीं हो जायगी जो उपास्य है। इस कथनका यह तात्पर्य नहीं कि सृष्टिके रचयिताको उपादान कारण या निमित्त कारण जो भी कहो दोनो एक ही बात है, या जगत्को ब्रह्मका परिणाम कहो या विवर्त कहो दोनो एक ही बात है या खुदाको प्रकृतिका कारण मानो या प्रकृतिके साथ उसका अनिर्वचनीय सवय मानो दोनोमें कोई फर्क नहीं है। बिलकुल नहीं। इस कथनका तात्पर्य यह है कि साधारण जनता जो दार्शनिक विवादकी खबर कुछ भी नहीं रखती जिम सर्वसामर्थ्य-युक्त परमात्मामें विश्वास करती है वह गफ़ ही है। उसके सृष्टिरचनाके प्रकारसे कोई बहस नहीं है, सृष्टि और प्रकृतिके साथ उसके संबन्धको लेकर शास्त्रार्थ नहीं है, सही बात यह है कि नामके बदलनेसे वस्तु नहीं बदल जाती। एक समाजका 'भोदू' मोटी तौरपर जिरा परमात्माकी कल्पना करता है वह दूसरे समाजके 'भोदू' की उत्पनासे भिन्न नहीं है। यही कारण है कि कबीरदासने उसी अक्षरपर जोर दिया है जो सर्व साधारणकी समझके भीतर है—

हमरे राम रहीम करीमा,
केसो अलह राम सति सोई।
जिममिल भेटि बिसभर एकै,
और न बूजा कोई ॥

यदि यह एकेश्वरवाद है तो अद्वैतवाद या त्रिशिष्टाद्वैतवाद या कोई और वाद क्यों नहीं है? स्वयं कबीरदास अपनेको इन 'भोदुओं' के लिए निर्दिष्ट पद्धतिसे ऊपर देखते थे। वे भगवानके सभी नामोंसे एक वस्तुका ध्वनित होना तो मानते थे पर शायद अच्छी तरह ही जानते थे कि इन नामोंसे अलग अलग

तरहके विचार उलझे हुए हैं। राम कहते ही 'दशरथ-सुत' का याद आ जाना संभव है और अलाहके राम नाम देता हुआ मुन्ला प्रयित है, इसीलिये ग्यय दे उरा परमात्माको नामातीत भी मानते थे। जिस प्रकार उसका कोई रूप नहीं है उसी प्रकार कोई नाम भी नहीं है, कबीरदासकी जो इसी लिये उग परम तर पर लगी हुई थी जिसके यहा अल्लाह या राम किगी भी गम नहीं है,—जो भगवत्सम्बन्धी तत्तत उद्भट नत्पनाओंकी पहुचके बहुत ऊपर है—

अलह रामकी गम नहीं

तहो कबीर रहा त्यो लख।

किन्तु प्रश्न है कि आरारि वह कोन-सी वस्तु ह जिगो कबीरदासको इतना महिमाशाली बना दिया है ? हमने अब तक देखा है कि उनके अधिकांश विचार एक पुरानी वीर्ष परम्पराकी देन हैं। यह नहीं कि कोई बात परम्परासे आनेके कारण ही हीन हो जाती है,—सत्य, दया धर्म, करुणा-भाव आदि बातें अनादि कालसे रामादृत हैं फिर भी आजका सत्यवादी, दयावान और कारुणिक व्यक्ति इस परम्परा-विहित महत्त्वका अधिकारी होनेके कारण हीन या कम महत्त्वपूर्ण नहीं होता। कबीरदासने अगर महान् आदर्श पुरानी परम्परासे लिया है तो इसीलिये कबीरका महत्त्व कम नहीं हो जाता। इस अध्ययनका उद्देश्य भी ऐसा कुछ दिराना नहीं है पर कबीरदासका पाठक जानता है कि उनक पदोंमें उसे एक कोई अनन्यसाधारण बात मिलती है जो गिद्धों ओर योगियोंकी अकगडता भरी उक्तियोंमें नहीं है, जो वेदान्तियोंके तर्क-कर्कश ग्रन्थोंमें नहीं है, जो रामाजसुधारकोंकी 'हाय हाय' में भी नहीं है।—कोई अनन्यसाधारण बात। वह क्या है ? फिर वह वस्तु भी क्या है जिसे रामानन्दसे पाकर कबीर जैसा मस्तमौला फण्ड हमेंगके लिये उनका कृपज्ञ हो गया ? दोनोका एक ही उत्तर है। वह बात भक्ति थी। वह योगियोंके पास नहीं थी, राहजयानी सिद्धोंके पास नहीं थी, कर्मकाण्डियोंके पास नहीं थी, 'पण्डितों' के पास नहीं थी, 'मुन्नाओं' के पास नहीं थी, 'काजियों' के पास नहीं थी। इसी परमाद्भुत रत्नको पाकर कबीर कृतकृत्य हो रहे। भक्ति भी किसकी ? रामकी। रामनाम रामानंदका अद्वितीय दान था। उनके पहले उत्तराखण्डमें राम विष्णुके अवतार जरूर समझे जाते थे पर 'परात्पर परब्रह्म' नहीं माने जाते थे। इस त्रिगुणातीत मायाधीश परब्रह्म-स्वरूप रामकी भक्तिको रामानंद ही ले आये। राम और उनकी भक्ति थे ही रामानंदकी कबीरको देन

है। उन्हीं दो वस्तुओंमें कमीरको योगियोंसे अलग कर दिया, मिद्धोंसे अलग कर दिया, पण्डितोंसे अलग कर दिया, मुल्लाओंसे अलग कर दिया। इन्हींको पाकर कवीर 'वीर' हो गये,—सत्रसे अलग, सबसे ऊपर, सत्रसे विलदाण, सत्रसे गरस, सत्रसे तेज।

ऊपर बताई हुई वाह्याचारबहुल शुष्क साधनाकी मरुभूमिमें कवीर खड़े थे। वे महज ही गठ जानेवाले जीव नहीं थे। उनकी भेदक दृष्टिसे वंश और भूषाकी व्यर्थता छिप नहीं सकती थी, योया तर्क और कुटिल तत्त्वज्ञान उन्हें भरसा नहीं सकता था, कूट प्रचन और मयुर शब्दजाल उन्हें कैसा नहीं सकते थे। वे सर्वत्र एक विचित्र प्रकारका अभाव अनुभव कर रहे थे। सारा ससार अपनी अपनी आगमें जल रहा था। ऐसा कोई नहीं मिलता था जिसेसे लगकर वे रह सकें। कसाला यह था कि जिससे हृदयकी बात कहते वही डंक मार देता, निर्भय भावसे निःशरु होकर जिस आदमीसे दिलकी बात कही जा सके ऐसा कोई मिल नहीं रहा था। वे व्याकुल भावसे कुछ रोज रहे थे पर पा नहीं रहे थे, सारा मन और प्राण राक्षसके विषसे जर्जर हो गये थे। हृदय बेचैन था, ऐसा प्रेमी मिल नहीं रहा था जिसके प्रेमपूर्ण संसर्गसे यह साराका मारा हलाहल अमृत हो जाता। ठीक ऐसे ही समयमें रामानन्दसे उनको भेंट हुई। यह बहुत अच्छा हुआ जो गुरु मिल गये, नहीं तो बड़ी हानिकारी संभावना थी। कौन जानता है, कमीर भी औरोकी तरह माया-रूपी दीपकको अपना पूर्ण लक्ष्य समझ कर पतंगकी तरह न कूद पडते ? सारी दुनिया तो ऐसी ही है। कौन है जो इस माया दीपकका पतंग नहीं बन गया ? ऐसे बड़भागी अंगुलियोंपर ही गिने जा सकते हैं जो गुरुकी

रूपसे उजर जाते हैं। कबीरदासने सद्गुरुको पाकर अपनेको बड़भागी समझा, गुरुकी सफलता केवल गुरु के ही महस्वपर ही निर्भर नहीं होती। शिष्य भी ऐसा ही कृती चाहिये। कबीर ऐसे ही शिष्य थे^१।

११—‘ सन्तो, भक्ति रातो गुरु आनी ’

कबीरदासने बार बार कहा है कि सद्गुरु भक्ति ले आए ह¹। यह भक्ति क्या है ? कबीरदासकी इस भक्तिकी व्याख्या करनेका प्रयाग बहुतेने क्रिया है। पर या तो उन्हें अपवर्ण गवार समझ कर इस प्रकार समाधान कर लिया गया है कि उन्हें निर्गुण सगुण और द्वैत-अद्वैत आदि किसी भी विषयका ठीक ठीक ज्ञान नहीं था या फिर उन्हें सर्वज्ञ सर्व नियन्ता समझ कर उनके नामपर विचित्र त्रिचित्र बातोंका ‘ सागर ’ निर्माण किया गया है और मनमानी कथायें तैयार करके सप्रदायके लोगोको भुलावा देनेका प्रयत्न किया गया है। दोनों ही रात गलत हैं। प्रथम पक्ष तो यही नहीं समझ पाता कि निर्गुण अद्वैतके साथ भक्ति कैसे चल सकती है ? पाठगोने अब तक देख लिया होगा कि कबीर तात्त्विक दृष्टिसे अद्वैतवादी नहीं थे और उनके ‘ निर्गुण राम ’में आर वेदान्तियोंके पारिभाषिक ‘ निर्गुण ब्रह्म ’ में मौलिक भेद है। फिर भी इसमें तो कोई सन्देह नहीं कि कबीरदास रामको रूप रेखा, आकार-प्रकार, द्वैत अद्वैत, भाव-अभावस परे समझते थे (देखिये ऊपर पृ० १२२-१२७)। परन्तु यह है कि क्या ऐसा रूपातीत भगवान भक्तिका विषय हो सकता है ?

रहित प्रेम है वह न तो निरुपाधिक स्वरूपके लिये असंभव है और न अद्वैत भावनाके विरुद्ध । नारद पंचरात्रम स्पष्ट रूपसे कहा गया है कि भगवानके सर्वाधि-पाधि-निर्गुक्त स्वरूपको तत्पर होकर (अर्थात् अनन्य भावसे) रामस्त इन्द्रियों और मनके द्वारा सेवन करना ही भक्ति है^१ । अद्वैत भावना भक्तिके मार्गमें बाधक नहीं है इसके प्रमाण है, तुलसीदास, शंकराचार्य और अन्यान्य गुरुतेरे शैव ओर तान्त्रिक साधक । इस भावनाके अनुरार जीव वरजुतः भगवानका ही रूप है जो प्रगल्भ अपनेको धृक् रामक्ष रहा है । इस अशक्ती अपने स्वाभाविक रूपसे फिर जानेकी जो चेष्टा है वह वाभवगुलक आर्पण है । नदीके प्रवाहका प्रत्येक बिन्दु जो समुद्रकी महान रात्तार्गे विलीन होनेके लिये दौड़ लगा रहा है वह इसी भवेद-गतीति-जन्य प्रगके कारण^२ । भक्तिके आचार्य मानते हैं कि भगवानका स्वरूप मानवीय चिन्तन शक्तिके वशका नहीं है । वह अचिन्त्य है । अनन्त है उराकी शक्ति और अगम्य है उराकी मूर्ति । कबीरदासने उसी बातको समझानेके लिये भगवान्को अविगत-आल अनूपम कहा है (क० प्र० पद ६), अचिन्त्य और अकथ बताया है (पद ३६), गेगेका गुं (पद ६८) और शंकरा (पद १५६) कहा है ।

यद्यपि विधिरूपसे कथंचित् समझाया जा सकता है (क्योंकि श्रुतियोंमें नेति नेति कह रहकर उसे निषेध रूपमें ही समझाया गया है, केवल ‘ सत्-चित्-आनन्द ’ कहकर ही उसके विधि-रूपकी ओर इशारा किया गया है) फिर भी हम नहीं जानते कि सत्ता (सत्), चैतन्य (चित्) और आनन्दके अतिरिक्त उसमें और क्या है । कितने ही भक्त होते हैं जो उसके अश-विशेषके साथ ही अपनी अभिन्नता अनुभव करके आत्मराम हो रहते हैं । वे भगवान्के केवल चैतन्य-अशके साथ अपने चित्स्वरूपको अभिन्न समझ लेते हैं । ऐसे ही भक्त अद्वैत-वेदान्ती हैं । यद्यपि वे अपनेको ज्ञानमार्गी कहते हैं तथापि वे भी वस्तुतः भगवान्के परम प्रेमके ही साधक हैं । एक और प्रकारके साधक हैं जो माया और परम पुरुषको अलग अलग कर शक्ति और शक्तिमानके भेदको कभी भूलते ही नहीं । ये ऐश्वर्यरूपके उपासक भी वस्तुतः भगवान्के परम प्रेमके ही उपासक हैं । भगवान्का प्रेम एक और अखण्ड है । उसके अश-विशेषके प्रति आसक्ति प्रकट करने मात्रसे उसकी अखण्डता खण्डित नहीं होती । भक्तिके साथ इन साधना-मार्गोंका कोई विरोध तो क्या होगा, वे सभी वस्तुतः भक्तिके ही प्रकार हैं । यही दिखानेके लिए श्रीमद् जीवगोस्वामिपादने भागवत-मन्दर्भमें पहले ही भगवान्के इस अखण्ड-प्रेम परिपूर्ण रूपकी वन्दना इस प्रकार की है—

यस्य ब्रह्मेति सज्ञां क्वचिदपि निगमे याति चिन्मात्र-सत्ता-

(भागवत-सन्दर्भ १।८)

जो लोग भक्तिमूलक वाणियोंको ऊपर ऊपरसे ही खुरचकर रस निकाल लेना चाहते हैं उन्हें उस रसका साक्षात्कार नहीं हो सकता । भक्ति भाग्यकी चीज है, प्रेम-प्रीतिका विषय है, वह उसे नहीं पा सकता—

भाग बिना नहीं पाइये, प्रेम प्रीतिकी भक्त ।
बिना प्रेम नहीं भक्ति कछु, भक्ति परयो सब जक्त ॥

(स० क० सा० १५।११)

भक्तिका साहित्य भी प्रेमही अपेक्षा रगता है ।

भक्तोक्ता यह भी दावा है कि वेदान्तमें जिसे 'ब्रह्म-जिज्ञासा' या त्रस्राकी जानकारीकी इच्छा कहा गया है वह वस्तुतः भक्ति ही है, क्योंकि, पटोपनिषदमें (२।२२) साफ साफ कहा गया है कि ' परमात्मामें जिज्ञासी भक्ति-श्रद्धा है उसीसे परमात्मा प्रसन्न होते हैं ' और वे जिज्ञासे प्रसन्न होते हैं वही जिज्ञासा आदिके द्वारा उन्हें प्राप्त करता है । और फिर यह अत्यन्त मोटी-सी बात है कि जगत्तक श्रद्धा और प्रेम अधिक नहीं हो जाते तब तत्क जाननेकी इच्छा (जिज्ञासा) भी नहीं जागती । इसीलिए माना वेदान्त-दर्शनके प्रथम सूत्र ' अथातो ब्रह्म-जिज्ञासा ' की कमी ही पूरा करनेके लिए ही भक्ति-सूत्रकारोंने कहा, ' अथातो ब्रह्म जिज्ञासा । सा परानुराक्तरीश्वरे (अर्थात् त्रवमजिज्ञासा और कुछ नहीं हैश्वरविषयक परम अनुराक्ति ही है) । ' बोधसार ' में आचार्य नरहरिपादने भी कहा है कि जिसो वेदान्तमें अपरोक्षानुभूति कहते हैं वह वस्तुतः प्रेम-लक्षणा भक्तिका ही परिणाम है^१ । और भागवतमें अद्वैतुक निष्काम भक्तिका फल वराभ्य और ज्ञान ही बनाया गया है^२ जो वेदान्तका भी लक्ष्य है ।

अब यह गानी हुई बात है कि प्रेम आश्रय-भेदसे भिन्न हो जाता है । रूप-गोस्वामिपादने कहा भी है कि स्वभाव, संस्कार और रुचिवश शक्त लाखाँ स्तरहके हो सकते हैं । इसीलिए भक्तिके अग और भेद भी अनन्त प्रकारके कल्पना किए जा सकते हैं या फिर एक ही भेद माना जा सकता है । वह इस प्रकार कि भक्ति एक ही है, केवल आश्रय-भेदसे अनेक प्रकारकी दीखती है (भ० र० १।४२-३) । भक्ति-शास्त्रीय-ग्रन्थोंमें जो अग और भेद गिनाए गए हैं वे उपलक्षण-मात्र हैं । वस्तुतः जैसा कि गोस्वामि तुलसीदासजीने कहा है,

१ नायमात्मा प्रवचनेन लब्धो न मोक्षया न बहुना श्रुतेन ।

योवैष ष्टुगुते तेन लभ्यतरथैष आत्मा वृणुते तनू स्वाम् ॥—अष्टो० पृ० ६

सो गुरुपदाश्रय प्रभृति जो भेद भक्ति गान्धोमे उताये गए ह वे अन्तिम और पूर्ण नहीं है । श्रवण कीर्तन आदि प्रकार भी उपलक्षण भर ही हैं । भक्तिके लिए केवल एक ही बात आवश्यक है,—अनन्यभावसे भगवान्की शरणागति, अर्थात् प्रेम, विलासार्थ आत्मसमर्पण । कबीरदाममे इन बातोंकी चरम परिणति हुई है । वे गोविन्दको बार बार पुकार कर रहते हैं^१, ‘हे गोविन्द, मैं तुम्हारी शरण आया हूँ, क्यों नहीं मुझे उबार देते ? वृक्षके नीचे आदमी छायाके लिए जाता है, अगर उस वृक्षसे ही ज्वाला निकलने लगे तो उपाय ही क्या रह जायगा ? आदमी पानी पीकर शीतल होनेके लिए जलाशयमे जाता है पर अगर वहाँसे आगकी लपटे निकलने लगे तो क्या किया जा सकता है ? हे नाथ, कबीर केवल तुम्हींको जानता है, वह तुम्हारे ही शरण आया है । पर कैसे आश्चर्यकी बात है कि तुम्हीं उसे जला रहे हो । हे गोविन्द, सचमुच ही तुम डरनेकी चीज बन गये हो । कहीं तो तुम्हें अपने प्रेम पीयूषसे शरणागतकी रक्षा करनी थी, सो तो तुमने^२की नहीं उल्टे वियोगकी वहिमें झुलसाने लगे । (पद-११२)

यही है वह अपूर्व तन्मयता, अहैतुक प्रेम, अनन्य-परायण विश्वास और एकान्त निष्ठा जो भक्तिकी एकमात्र शर्त है। कबीर निरसन्देह ऐसे भगवान्को मानते थे जो इन्द्रातीत है, पक्षातीत है, द्वैताद्वैत विलक्षण है, त्रिगुण-रहित है, ‘अपरम्पार पारपुरुसोत्तिम’ है, अरुण है, अकल है, अतीत है, परन्तु कौन भक्त भगवान्को एसा नहीं मानता जो लोग शास्त्रज्ञानका दावा करते हैं और फिर भी कबीरकी भक्ति और अद्वैत भावना और निर्गुण-प्रेमको परस्पर विरोधी समझते हैं उनका उद्देश्य क्या है, यह वही जाने। हम तो दृढताके साथ कहनेका साहस करते हैं कि कबीरकी भक्ति और भगवद्भावनामें न तो युक्तिसे विरोध है और न शास्त्रसे। कही जो विरोध दीखता है तो उसका ऐतिहासिक कारण है। उसका समाधान कर लेना ऋठिन नहीं है। कबीरदास योग मार्गकी ओर झुके हुए थे। उनके कुलमें और कुल गुरु परम्परामें वह मार्ग प्रतिष्ठित था। बादमें उनका समागम रामानन्दसे हुआ। यह बात कुछ असम्भव नहीं कि रामानन्दके प्रभावसे आनेके पूर्व उन्होंने ऐसे बहुत-से पद लिखे हों जिनमें योग-सम्प्रदायकी परम्परा-प्राप्त अक्खवता ही परिलक्षित होती हो और भक्ति-रसका लेश भी न हो। कबीर जैसा फक्कड़ जिस चीजको गलत समझेगा उससे इसीलिए अनन्त काल तक चिपका नहीं रहेगा कि वह कुल-परम्परासे आई है—

१२—व्यक्तित्व-विश्लेषण

कधीरदासकी वाणी वह लता है जो योगके क्षेत्रमें भक्तिका बीज पत्रसे अकुरित हुई थी। उन दिनों उत्तरके हठयोगियों और दक्षिणके भक्तोंमें मौलिक अन्तर था। एक दूट जाता था पर झुकना न था, दूसरा झुक जाता था पर दूटता न था। एकके लिए समाजकी ऊँच-नीच-भागना मजाक और आक्रमणका विषय थी, दूसरेके लिए भयार्दा और स्फूर्तिका। और फिर भी त्रिरोवाभास यह कि एक जहाँ सामाजिक विषमताओंको अन्याय समझकर भी व्यक्तिको सबके ऊपर रखता था वहाँ दूसरा सामाजिक उन्नतताका अविचारी होकर भी अपनेको 'तृणादपि सुनीचेन' (तृणसे भी गया गुजरा) समझता था। योगी उटकर जाति-भेदपर आघात करता था, बाह्याचार और तन्मूलक श्रेष्ठताको फटकर वताता था, पर भीतर और बाहर योग-मार्गना प्रत्येक अनुयायी अपनेको समाजके अन्य निरुद्ध जीवोंसे श्रेष्ठ समझता था, दूसरोंकी बहिर्मुखी वृत्तिपर तरस खाता था, नाना प्रकारकी पेचीदी बातोंमें उसका मजाक बनाता था और आशा करता था कि लोग उसके अचरज-करिमें देखकर दौतों तले उँगली दवा ल। भक्त जाति भेद, वर्णाश्रम व्यवस्था और उच्च-नीच भयार्दाको शिरसा स्वीकार कर लेता था, आनेकी भयगागरमें भटकता हुआ गुमराह प्राणी मानता था, अपनी पुरानी पाप-भावनाके लिये बार बार पश्चात्ताप करता था और आशा करता था कि सर्वान्तर्यामी भगवान् उसके हार्दिक अनुतापको जरूर सुन लेंगे और भव-बन्धनसे उसे मुक्त कर देंगे। एकको अपने ज्ञानका गर्व था, दूसरेको अपने अज्ञानका भरोसा, एकके लिये पिण्ड ही ब्रह्माण्ड था और दूसरेके लिये समस्त ब्रह्माण्ड भी पिण्ड, एकका भरोसा अपनेपर था दूसरेका रामपर, एक प्रेमको दुर्बल समझता था, दूसरा ज्ञानको कठोर, एक योगी था दूसरा भक्त।

साधारण जनतामें इन दोनोंसे दो प्रकारकी प्रतिक्रिया हुई। एकने श्रद्धालु गृहस्थके चित्तमें शकाका भाव पैदा कर दिया। वह सोचने लगा कि माया विकराल है, इससे छुटकारा पाना कठिन है, सिद्धिका मार्ग विघ्न सकुल है। योग-क्रियाहीन व्यक्तिकी न जाने कौन-सी दुर्गति होगी, चौरासी लाख योनियोंमें न जाने वह कब तक भटकता फिरेगा। भयजाल विकट है, मायाचक्र अनन्त है,

साधन-मार्ग दुरधिगम्य है, विघ्नाधी वाहिनी रास्ता रोक राड़ी है और गृहस्थ लाचार है। दूसरे (भक्त) ने उसे लापरवाह बना दिया। गलतीसे भी एक बार हरिनाग जिराने ले लिया उसे कुछ ओर करनेकी जरूरत नहीं, विष्णुका तिलक एक बार अगर सिरपर चढ़ गया तो वैकुण्ठका दरवाजा खुला है, तुलसीकी माला यदि किराी प्रकार मिल गई तो गोलो कर्म स्थान निश्चित है। कलियुग सब युगोंसे अच्छा है क्योंकि इसमें मानस-पापका कुछ फल नहीं होता किन्तु मानस पुण्यका पूरा फल मिलता है। रामका नाम रामसे भी बड़ा है, भयक्री कोई जरूरत नहीं। योगने गृहस्थको जरूरतसे ज्यादा रंशयालु बना दिया था, भक्तिने पूरा धागा-वादी। एकने मुक्तिको महंगा रोदा बना दिया दूसरेने बहुत सस्ता। योगमें गलदश्रु भावुकताको कोई स्थान नहीं। जो भक्ति पद पदपर भक्तको कम्प, धावेग, जड़ता और रोमोद्गमकी अवस्थामे ले आ देती है वह इस क्षेत्रमें अपरिचित थी। और यदि सच्चमुच ही भाग और त्रिभाग करिप्त हैं, कल्प-विकल्प बेकार हैं, ससार मृगमयी चिका है, परमतत्त्व त्रिभाग और अविभागसे परे है, सूक्ष्म और स्थूलके अतीत है, — यदि वह एक-रस है, सम-रस है तो फिर रोगेसे होता क्या है? अराण्ड चैतन्यरूप अमायिक परमपुरुष के सामने यह विलाप क्यों? उरा गुण हीन, विचारहीन, दया-माया-हीनकी पूजा क्या और स्तुति क्या? निर्ममता और अमायिकता योगकी पहली शर्त है। डरीलिए वह अपने अनुयायीको अकलङ्क बना देना है। कबीरदाराने यह अकलङ्कना योगियोंसे विरासतमें पाई थी। ससारमें भटकते हुए जीवोंको देख कर करुणा के अश्रुसे वे कातर नहीं हो आते थे बल्कि ओर भी कठोर होकर उसे फटकार बताते थे। वे प्रह्लादकी

परन्तु अक्खडता कबीरदासका सर्वप्रधान गुण नहीं है । जब वे अवधू या योगीको सम्बोधन करत हैं तभी उनकी अक्खडता पूरे चढावपर होनी है । वे योगके त्रिवट रूपमोका अवतरण करते हैं, गगन और पवनकी पहेली बुझाते रहते हैं, सुख और सहजका रहस्य पूछते रहते हैं, द्वैत आर अद्वैतके गत्वकी चर्चा करते रहते हैं और अवधूके अज्ञानपर कुटिल हँसी-सी हँसा करते हैं—

 अचर लौकी गम्म बताव, गो है मुक्ति विरोगी ॥
 कह अस अरुह दुहते न्यारा, सत्त-भगतके पारा ।
 कहै कवीर ताहि लरा जोगी, उतरि जाग भव-पारा ॥

इसी भाषाको योगी समझते थे । ठीक भी है, यदि रामाधि-मात्रगम्य निर्ममकी
 भजन-पूजा विहित नहीं है तो योगीसे भी तो उलटके उसी शुष्कता और उसी
 निर्ममताके साथ पूछा जा सकता है कि या, उन्मनि तरु तो ठीक है, वहा
 तुमने माना कि अक्षर-पुरुषका राक्षा-कार कर लिखा परन्तु फिर ? जब समाधि
 भग हुई,—जब उनमनिकी तारी बूटी, तब ? तब तो फिर उसी भाजलमें फिर
 लौट आये । अब तुम्हारी क्या गति होगी ? रो, कवीरदास अवधूलसे बात करते
 समय पूरी अकराङ्गतासे काम लेते हे और अपने व्यक्तित्वको उहुत ऊँचे उठानर
 बोलते हैं, क्योंकि वे अवधके इस मनोभात्रको पहचानत ह । एक बार अगर उसे
 अपने व्यक्तित्वको ऊपर उठा ले जानेकी छूट दे दी गई तो फिर उनमें पार पाना
 कठिन है । विरोधीके ही अरुचो विरोधीको वायल करने में मलामें कवीरदास
 उस्ताद है । गगन और पत्रनके बलपर आतक जमाने मलामे यह छोटा-सा पक्ष
 कितना सहज और फिर भी कितना तिलमिला देनेवाला है : गगना पवना दोनों
 बिनरो कहे गया जोग तुम्हारा ?

यह उनकी अनधिकार चर्चा नहीं थी । वे रामाधिगम्य परमपुरुषका राक्षा-
 त्कार कर चुके थे, पत्रनको उलटकर सहघार चक्रमे ले जा चुके थे, वहाँके
 गगनका अनन्य साधारण गर्जन सुन चुके थे, अवशेष अमृत-वर्षी पावसका
 अनुभव कर चुके थे, उस महाच पदको देरा आए थे जहाँ कोई पिरला ही जा
 सकता है, जहाँ वेद और कतेबकी गम नहीं है, जहाँकी गगन गुफाम किररी
 गैबकी चाँदनी छिंटकी हुई है, जहाँ उदय और अस्तका नाम भी नहीं है, जहाँ
 दिन और रातकी पहुँच नहीं है,—जो प्रेमके प्रकाशका समुद्र है, जो सदानन्दका
 विशाल निक्षर है, जो भ्रम और भ्रान्तिसे परे है, जो एकरा है, ब्रह्मकी छौलमें
 (ध्यानन्दमें) वे निश्चितरूपसे झूल चुके थे—

करत मल्लोल दरियावके बीचमें,
 ब्रह्मकी छीलमें हंस झल्ले ।
 अर्ध औ ' ऊर्ध्वकी पैंग वाढी तहों,
 पलट मन पवनको कँवल फूलै ॥
 गगन गरजै तहों सदा पावस झरै,
 होत झनकार नित वजत तूरा ।
 वेद कत्तेवकी गम्म नाही तहों,
 कहे ऋषीर कोई रमै सूरा ॥
 गगनकी गुफा तहें गैबका चोंदना,
 उदय और अस्तका नाम नाही ।
 दिवस औ रैन तहें मेक नहि पाइये,
 प्रेम-परकामके विन्धु माहीं ॥
 मदा आनन्द दुख-वद ब्यापे नहीं,
 पूरनानन्द भरपूर देखा ।
 भर्म और भ्रान्ति तहें नेरु आवे नहीं,
 कहें कबीर रस एक पेखा ॥

—शब्दा० पृ० १०४

परन्तु वे स्वभावसे फक्कड़ थे। अच्छा हो या बुरा, खरा हो या खोटा, जिससे एक बार चिपट गये उससे जिन्दगीभर चिपटे रहो, यह सिद्धान्त उन्हें मान्य नाही था। वे सत्यके जिज्ञासु थे और कोई मोह-ममता उन्हें अपने मार्गसे विचलित नहीं कर सकती थी। वे अपना घर जलाकर हाथमें मुराबा लेकर निकल पड़े थे और उसीको साथी बनानेको तैयार थे जो उनके हाथों अपना भी घर जलवा सके—

हम घर जारा आपना, लिया मुराबा हाथ ।

अब घर जारों तासुका, जो चलै हमारे साथ ॥

—स० क० सा० ५।८

वे सिरसे पैर तक मस्त-मौला थे। मस्त,—जो पुराने कृत्योंका हिसाब नहीं रखता, वर्तमान कर्मोंको सर्वस्व नहीं समझता और भविष्यमें सब कुछ श्राद्धकार निकल जाता है। जो दुनियादार किये करायिका लेखा-जोखा दुस्त रखता है वह

मसन नहीं हो सकता । जो अनीतका चिह्न ग्योले रहता है वह भविष्यका कान्त दर्शी नहीं बन सकता । जो इशकका मतमाला है वह दुनियाके माप जोखसे अपनी सफलताका हिसाब नहीं करता । कवीर जसे फक्कड़को दुनियाकी होशियारीसे क्या वास्ता ? वे प्रेमके मतवाले थे मगर अपनको उन दीवानोंमें नहीं गिनत थे जो माझकके लिये सरपर कफन बोधे फिरते हैं, जो जेकरारीकी तबपनमें इशकका चरम फउ पानेका भान करते हैं, क्योंकि बेकरारी उम वियोगमें होती है जिनमें प्रिय दूर हो,—उसे पाना कठिन हो । पर जहाँ प्यारेसे एक क्षणके लिए भी गिओह नहीं, वहाँ तबपन कैसी ? जो गगरा भारी है उसमें छलकन कहाँ ? जहाँ द्रव-मायना ही मिट गई हो उम अजब मरतीम बेचेनी कहाँ ?—

हमन हें इशक मस्ताना, हमनको होशियारी क्या ।
 रह आजाद या जगस, हमन दुनियामे यारी क्या ।
 जो बिछुडे हे पियारेसे, भटकते दर-उदर फिरते ।
 हमारा यार है हममें, हमनको इन्तजारी क्या ।
 खलक मय नाम अपनको, बहुत कर सिर पटकता है ।
 हमन गुरुनाम सौचा है, हमन दुनियासे यारी क्या ।
 न पल बिछुडे पिया हमसे, न हम बिछुडें पियारेसे ।
 उन्हीसे नेह लागी है, हमनको बेकरारी क्या ।
 कवीरा इशकका मातप, दुईको दूर कर दिलमे ।
 जो चलना राह नाजुक है, हमन सिर बोझ भारी क्या ॥

शब्दा० पृ० १६-१७

इसीलिए ये फक्कड़राम किसीके बोखेमें आनेवाले न थे । दिल जम गया तो ठीक है और न जमा तो राम राम करके आगे चल दिये । योग-प्रक्रियाको उन्होंने उटके अनुभव किया, पर जैची नहीं । उन नकटोंके समान लुप्पी साधना उन्हें मालूम न था जिन्होंने इस आशापर नाक कटा ली थी कि इस बाधाके दूर होते ही स्वर्ग दिखाई देने लगता है । उन्हें यह परवा न थी कि लोग उनकी असफलतापर क्या क्या टिप्पणी करेंगे । उन्होंने बिना लाग-लपेटके, बिना झिझक और सकोचके पैलान किया—

आसमानका आसरा छोड़ प्यारे,
 उलटि देख घट अपना जी ।

तुम आपसे आप तहकीन करो,
तुम छोड़ो मनकी कल्पना जी ।

क० १० पृ० १२३, पन् ८७

आममान अर्थात् गगन-चन्द्रकी परम ज्योति । जो वस्तु केवल शारीरिक व्यायाम और मानसिक शम-दमादिका साध्य है वह चरम गन्ध नहीं हो सकती । योगी लोग एक प्रकारकी जट-ममात्रकी बात स्वीकार करते हैं जिसमें योगी लक्ष्य-ध्रष्ट होकर जड़ शरीर-विकारको सिद्धि समझन लगता है । परमपुत्र्य योगका परम प्रतिपाद्य है, आत्मा-गम्य है, वह भौतिक ज्ञानका विपक्ष नहीं है । कृत्रिम शारीरिक और मानसिक स्वायत्तसे दीखनेवाली ज्योति जड़ वित्तकी कल्पना मात्र है । वह भी नाश्वर्य है । तनीरने कहा, ओर आगे चलो । जबल किया जाह्य है, ज्ञान चाहिए । बिना ज्ञानके योग व्यर्थ है । केवल पिण्डमें,— तत्रापि गगन गुफामें या शून्यचक्रमें यदि घटप्रदामी मिलता है तो कही विमिश्रित ही गलन हो गया है । अगर रहते हो कि वह केवल भीतर ही है तो बाहरका यह सारा विश्वब्रह्माण्ड मारे लज्जाके पानी पानी हो जाता है । क्या गगन-गुफाके बाहर सब कुछ भगवानके बाहर है, क्या उसके कककणमें प्रभु व्याप्त नहीं है, क्या वह व्यर्थ ही जगतमें पडा हुआ है ? पर अगर इसीकी ओर ताके, यही मान ल कि बाहरकी सारी दुनियामें ही वह परम पुरुष रम रहा है और भीतर उससे शून्य है तो यह बात झूठ है । कबीरदासने कितनी ही बार 'कमल-कुआमें ब्रह्मरस' का पान किया था, गगनसे झरते हुए अमृत-रसका आस्वादन किया था । यह झूठ है कि वह परम-पुरुष भीतर नहीं है । जो रहता है कि वह भीतर ही है बाहर नहीं, वह सारे बाह्य जगतको व्यर्थ ही लज्जित करता है और जो कहता है कि वह भीतर है ही नहीं, वह झूठा है । कबीरदास हैरान हैं कि क्या कहकर इस अकथ कथाको कहें—

ऐसा लो, नहि तैसा लो ।

मैं केहि विधि कयौं, गंभीरा लो ।

भीतर कहूँ, तो जगमय लाजै

बाहर कहूँ, तो झूठा लो ।

बाहर-भीतर, सकल निरन्तर

गुरु-परतापैं दीठा लो ।

कबीरकी यह घर फूंक मस्ती, फस्नडाना लापरवाही और निर्मम अकखड़ता उनके अखण्ड आत्मविश्वासका परिणाम थी। उन्होंने कभी अपने ज्ञानको, अपने गुरुको और अपनी सावनाको सन्देहकी नजरोसे नहीं देखा। अपने प्रति उनका विश्वास कहीं भी डिगा नहीं। कभी गलती महसूस हुई तो उन्होंने एक क्षणके लिए भी नहीं सोचा कि इस गलतीके कारण वे स्वयं हो सकते हैं, उनके मतसे गलती बराबर प्रक्रियामे होती थी, मार्गमें होती थी, सावनमें होती थी। शायद उनके नामपर चलनेवाले हजारों भजनोंमेंसे एक भी हमारे इस कथनके प्रतिवादमें नहीं उद्धृत किया जा सकता। उनकी अखण्ड आत्म-निष्ठामें एक क्षणके लिए भी दुर्बलता नहीं दिखाई दी। वे वीर साधक थे, और वीरता अखण्ड आत्मविश्वासको आश्रय करके ही पनपती है। कबीरके लिए सावना एक विकट सग्रामस्थली थी जहाँ कोई पिरला शूर ही टिक सकता था। जिसे अपने सिरको उतारकर देनेकी कला नहीं आती वह इस मार्गका राही नहीं बन सकता—

पकरि समसेर मैदानमें पैसिये,
देह परजत वरु जुद्ध भाई ।
काट सिर बैरियों दाब जहँका तहँ,
आय दरवारमें सीस नाई ।
करत मतवाल जहँ सतै-जन सूरमा,
धुरत निरसान तहँ गगन धाई ॥
कहै कबीर अब नामसों सुरखरु,
मौज दरबारकी भक्ति पाई ॥

शब्दा० पृ० १०६

कबीर जिस राईकी साधना करते थे वह मुफ्तकी बातोंसे नहीं मिलता था। उस रामसे सिर देकर ही सौदा किया जा सकता था—

सॉई सैत न पाइये, बातों मिलै न कोय ।
कबीर सौदा रामसों, सिर चिन कहै न होय ॥

स० क० सा० ८५ ४६

रामानन्दकी प्रेम-भक्तिका यह एक अभूतपूर्व परिणाम हुआ। भक्तिके अश्रु, स्वेद, कम्प आदि महाभाव हवा हो गये। भगवान्‌का प्रेम बड़ी चीज है, पर उस बड़ी चीजको पानेकी साधना भी बड़ी होनी चाहिये। प्रेमका यह व्यापार कुछ

खालाका घर नहीं है कि बात बातपर मचल गये और फरमाइश पूरी हुई। यहाँ तो वही प्रवेश पानेका हकदार है जो पहले मिर उतारकर धरतीपर रख दे—

कबीर यहु घर प्रेमका, खालाका घर नाहिं ।

सीस उतारे हाथि करि, सो पैसे घरमाहि ॥

कबीर निज घर प्रेमका, मारग अगम-अगाध ।

सीस उतारि पगतलि वर, तब निकटि प्रेमका रसाद ॥

—क० प्र० पृ० ६९

यह प्रेम किसी खेतमे नहीं उपजता, किसी हाटमे नहीं विकता, फिर भी जो कोई भी इसे चाहेगा, पा लेगा। वह राजा हो या प्रजा, उसे सिर्फ एक शर्त माननी होगी, वह है शर्त मिर उतारकर धरतीपर रख ले। जिसमें माहम नहीं, जिसमें रम अखण्ड प्रेमके ऊपर विश्वास नहीं, उस कायरकी यहां दाल नहीं गलगी। हरिके मिल जानेपर साहस दिमानेकी बात करना बेकार है, पहले हिम्मत करो, भगवान् आगे आकर मिलेंगे। उबली भावुम्ता, हिस्टीरिक प्रेमोन्माद और बातूनी इश्रू यहाँ बेकार है,—अपने अधिगम्यपर अखण्ड विश्वास ही इस प्रेमकी कुञ्जी है,—विश्वास, जिसमें सकोच नहीं, द्विधा नहीं, वाया नहीं।

प्रेम न खेतो नीपज, प्रेम न हाट विकाय ।

राजा-परजा जिस ऋषै, मिर दे सो ले जाइ ॥

सूरे सीस उतारिया, छाडी तनकी आम ।

आगेये हरि मुलफिया, आवत देख्या दाम ॥

भगति दुहेली रामकी, नहि कायरका काम ।

सीस उतार हाथि करि, सो लेसी हरि नाम ॥

—क० प्र० पृ० ७०

कबीरदास भक्त और पतिव्रताको एक कोटिमें रखते थे। दोनोंका धर्म कठोर है, दोनोंकी शक्ति कोमल है, दोनोंके सामने प्रलोभनका दुस्तर जजाल है, दोनों ही काचन-पद्मधर्मी हैं,—बाहरसे सृदु, भीतरसे कठोर, बाहरसे कोमल, भीतरसे पृथ, सबकी सेवामें व्यस्त, पर एककी आराधिका पतिव्रता ही भक्तके साथ तुलनीय हो सकती है। सतीकी सिद्ध-रेखाके बदले काजल नहीं दिया जा सकता और कबीरके नैनोमे भी राम रम गया है, दूसरा नहीं रम सकता—

कबीर रेस मिदूरकी, काजल दिया न जाइ ।
 नैनु रमइया रमि रहा, दूजा कहाँ ममाइ ।
 भक्तकी यह प्रार्थना केवल यतीको ही शोभ मरती है—
 नना अतर भाव तू, ज्याही नेन झँपेऊँ ।
 नाँ हौं देखौ औरकूँ, ना तुझ देखन वेऊँ ॥
 मेरा मुझमें कुछ नहीं, जो कुछ है सो तेरा ।
 तेरा तुझको गौपता, क्या लगे है मेरा ॥

कबीरदासमें यह जो अपने प्रति और अपने प्रियके प्रति एक अस्पष्ट अवि-
 चलित विश्वास था उसीने उनकी कवितामें असाधारण शक्ति भर दी है । उनके
 भाव सीधे हृदयसे निकलते हैं और श्रोतापर सीधे चोट करते हैं । जो लोग इस
 रहस्यज्ञे नहीं जानते वह व्यर्थ ही पाण्डित्य-प्रदर्शनसे पाठकोला समय नष्ट करते
 हैं । प्रेम-भक्तिका यह पौधा भावुकताकी ओँचसे न तो छुलसता ही है और न
 तर्कके तुषारपातसे सुरझाता है । वह हृदयके पातालभेदी अन्तस्तलसे अपना रस
 सचय करता है । न ओँधी उसे उखाड़ सकती है और न पानी उसे ढाह सकता
 है । इम प्रेममें मादकता नहीं है पर मस्ती है, कर्कशता नहीं है पर कठोरता
 है । असयम नहीं है पर मौज है, उच्छृखलता नहीं है पर स्वाधीनता है,
 अन्धानुकरण नहीं है पर विश्वास है, उजड़ता नहीं है पर अवखडता है,—
 इसकी प्रचण्डता सरलताका परिणाम है, उग्रता विश्वासका फल है, तीव्रता
 आत्मानुभूतिका विवर्त है । यह प्रेम वज्रसे भी कठोर है, कुसुमसे भी कोमल ।
 इसमें हार भी जीत है, जीत भी जीत है ।

हारौं सो हरि मान है, जो जीतू तो दाव ।

पारब्रह्मसो खेलता, जो मिर जाय तो जाय ॥

—स० क० सा० ८५-९०

इस सरलता और विश्वासके कारण ही जहाँ वे एक स्थानपर भगवानके
 निकट अतिशय विनीत और हतदुर्ष वीखते हैं वहाँ दूसरे स्थानपर चुनौती देते
 हुए भी दिख जाते हैं । पर कहीं भी उन्होंने शिकायत नहीं की, मचलनेका
 अभिनय नहीं किया, उपालम्भोंकी झड़ी नहीं लगाई,—महानकी महत् भय्या-
 दाको उन्होंने कभी अपनी ससीमतासे गंदला नहीं किया । सोंडैके प्रति उनकी
 भक्ति अडिग है । वे रामके कुत्तेके रूपमें अपना परिचय देते नहीं लजाते । कबीर

रामका कुत्ता है, नाम उसका मुतिया है। रामने ही इस मुतियाके गलेमे एक रस्सी बंध दी है। सो वह जिधर खांचता है, मुतिया भी उधर ही जाता है। जब वह तो तो करके पुकारता है तो मुतिया भी उसके पास चला जाता है और जब दुर दुर करता है तो बेचारे मुतियाको भागनेके सिवा ओर चारा ही क्या है ? कबीरदास कहते हैं कि भगवान् जैसे रखे वैसे ही रहना श्रेयस्कर है, वह जो दे दे वही खा लेना कर्तव्य है। निरीह सारल्यका यह चरम दृष्टान्त है—

कबीर कृता रामका, मुतिया मेरा नाउँ ।
गले रामकी जेम्डी, जित राचे तित जाउँ ॥
तो तो कर तो वाहुडा, दुरि दुरि कर तो जाउँ ।
ज्यूँ हरि राख त्यूँ रह्यौ, जो देव मो ग्याउँ ॥

—क० प्र० पृ० २०

आत्ममर्पणकी यह दृष्टि है। इतनेपर भी मनको प्रतीति नहीं होती कि यह प्रेम-रस पर्याप्त है। क्या जाने उस प्रियतमको कौनसा ढग पसन्द हो, कौन सी चेशाभूषा रुचिकर हो। हाय, उस अज्ञ मरनाने प्रियका समागम कैसा होता होगा !—

मन परतीति न प्रेम रस, ना इम तनमे ढग ।
क्या जाणौ उस पीव हूँ, कैसी रहसी रंग ।

—क० प्र० पृ० २०

इस उक्तिको अपने प्रति अविश्वाम समझना गलती होगी। इसमे केवल प्रेमातिशय्य और औत्सुक्य प्रकट हुआ है। भक्तको अपने ऊपर पूर्ण विश्वाम है पर प्रियकी उच्चता और महिमाके प्रति उसका विश्वास और भी अधिक है। अविचल प्रेमी ही यह सोचता है कि उसका प्रेमी कहीं अतृप्त न लौट जाय। अपनी अपूर्णता इस उत्सुकता और आशकाका कारण होती है, अपने प्रति अवज्ञा नहीं।

पता नहीं कि कबीरदासने 'मुतिया' नाम क्यों पसन्द किया। क्या अनुमान किया जाय कि उनका बचपनका नाम मुतिया था ? अमम्भव नहीं। पर मुतिया नाम है बड़ा जानदार। इस नाममें ही कुत्तेकी मारी निरीहता मानों दुम हिलती हुई सामने खड़ी हो जाती है। कभी कभी आश्चर्य हो जाता है कि क्या यह वही आदमी है जो बीसियों बार गगनगुफाका चक्कर लगा लेनेके बाद उधरके कोने

कोनेसे ऐसा परिचित हो गया कि वढेसे वढे अवधूतको ललकार सकता है, जो शास्त्र और परम्पराके जटिल जालमें घुसकर इस सफाईके साथ उसकी प्रियियों त्रिधिल का देता है कि जाल फेलानेवाला ही आश्चर्य-भरी मुद्रासे देखता रह जाता है, जो क्षण भरके लिये भी अपने ज्ञानको नहीं भूलना चाहता और जिसकी उक्तियों प्रतिपक्षके ऊपर सीधा आघात करती है ! परन्तु इसमें आश्चर्यकी कोई बात नहीं। सरल आदमी ही प्रचण्ड होता है, विश्वासपरायण मनुष्य ही निरीह होता है, निष्ठावान् ही विनीत होता है।

कबीर जब 'पंडित' या 'शेख' पर आक्रमण करनेको उद्यत होते हे तो उतने माववान नहीं होते जितने अवधूत या योगीपर आक्रमण करने समय दिखते हैं। कारण यह है कि 'पंडित' और 'शेख' के ज्ञान-भाण्डारको उन्होंने उतनी सूक्ष्मताके साथ नहीं देखा जितनी गरीबीसे अवधूतकी भावना देखी है। इसीलिए यह आक्रमण उतना उग्र भी नहीं होता। वह पण्डित और शेखको इस प्रकार पुकारते हैं गोया वे नितान्त नगण्य जीव हो,—केवल बाह्याचारोंके गड्ढर, केवल कुमस्कारोंके गुड्डे। साधारण हिन्दू गृहस्थपर आक्रमण करते समय वे लापरवाह होते हैं और इसीलिए लापरवाही-भरी एक हँसी उनके अधरोंपर मानों खेलती रहती है। मानों वे इन अदने आदमियोंको इस योग्य भी नहीं समझ रहे हों जिनपर आक्रमण किया जा सके। परन्तु इस लापरवाहीके कारण ही इन आक्रमणोंमें एक सहज सहज भाव और एक जीवन्त काव्य मूर्तिमात्र हो उठा है। गही लापरवाही कबीरके व्यंग्योंकी जान है। सच पूछा जाय तो आजतक हिन्दीमें ऐसा जटिल व्यंग्य-लेखक पैदा ही नहीं हुआ। उनकी साफ चोट करनेवाली भाषा, बिना कट भी सब कुछ कह देनेवाली शैली और अत्यन्त सादी किन्तु अत्यन्त तेज प्रकाशन-भगी अनन्य-साधारण है। हमने देखा है कि बाह्याचारपर आक्रमण करनेवाले सन्तों और योगियोंकी कमी नहीं है, पर इस कदर सहज और सरस ढंगसे चकनाचूर करनेवाली भाषा कबीरके पहले बहुत कम दिखाई दी है। व्यंग्य वह है, जहाँ कहनेवाला अधरोष्ठोंमें हँस रहा हो और सुननेवाला तिलमिला उठा हो और फिर भी कहनेवालेको जवाब देना अपनेको और भी उपहासास्पद बना लेना हो जाता हो। कबीरदास ऐसे ही व्यंग्यकर्ता थे—

ना जाने तेरा साहब कैसा है।

मसजिद भीतर मुल्ला पुकारै, क्या साहब तेरा बहिरा है ?

चिउंटीके पग नेवर बाजे, मो भी साहब सुनता है ।
 पडित होयके आमन मारै, लम्बी माला जपता है ॥
 अन्तर तेरे कपट-रुतरनी, मो भी साहब लखता है ।
 ऊँचा-नीचा महल बनाया, गहरी नव जमाना है ॥
 चलनेका मनसूया नाहीं, रहनेको मन करता है ।
 कौड़ी कौडी माया जोडी, गाड़ि जमीमें धरता है ॥
 जेहि लहना है मो लै जइ है, पापी वहि वहि मरता है ।
 मतवन्तीको गजी मिलै नहि, वेदया पहिरै खासा है ॥
 जेहि घर साव् भीख न पावे, भडुआ खात वतासा है ॥
 तीरा पाय परख नहिँ जाने, कौड़ी परखन करता है ।
 कहत कबीर सुनो भाई मावो, हरि जैसेको तैसा है ॥

— कबीर उच० पृ० १५४

यह भाषा झकझोर देनेवाली है,—जितनी ही सारी उतनी ही तज ।
 पढते समय साफ मालूम होता है कि कहनेवाला अपनी ओरसे एकदम निश्चिन्त
 है । अगर वह अपनी ओरसे इतना निश्चिन्त न होता तो इस तरहका करारा
 व्यग नहीं कर सकता ।

कबीरके पूर्ववर्ती मिड और योगी लोगोकी आक्रामणात्मक उक्तियाँ एक
 प्रकारकी हीन भावनाकी ग्रथि या इनफीरियारिटी कम्प्लेक्स पाया जाता है । वे
 मानों लोमड़ीके राट्टे अग्रोकी प्रतिव्यनि हैं, मानाँ चिलम न पा सकनेवालोके
 आक्रोश हैं । उनमें तर्क है पर लापरवाही नहीं है, आक्रोश है पर मस्ती नहीं
 है, तीव्रता है पर मृदुता नहीं । कबीरदासके आक्रमणोंमें भी एक रस है, एक
 जीवन है, क्योंकि, वे आक्रान्तके वैभवसे परिचित नहीं थे और अपनेको समस्त
 आक्रमण-योग्य दुर्युणोंसे मुक्त समझते थे । इस तरह जहाँ उन्हें लापरवाहीका
 अर्थ मिला था वहाँ अग्रण्ड आत्म-विश्वासका कृपाण भी ।

कबीर उस समाजमें पालित हुए थे जो न तो हिन्दुओंद्वारा समाहत था न
 मुसलमानोंद्वारा पूर्ण रूपसे स्वीकृत । वह कुलपरम्परासे ज्ञानार्जनके अयोग्य
 समझा जाता था । बाहरके प्रलोभनसे हो या भीतरके आघातसे, वह मुसलमानी
 राजत्वकालमें मुसलमान धर्म ग्रहण करनेका सौभाग्य प्राप्त कर सका था पर न
 तो राजवर्गके ग्रहण कर लेनेके कारण उसमें राजकीय गरिमाका संचार ही हुआ

था और न प्राचीन हीनतासे उद्धार ही। नाम मात्रकी मुसलमान इस जुलाहा जातिके रक्तमें प्राचीन योगमार्गीय विश्वास पूरी मात्रामे वर्तमान था पर शास्त्र-ज्ञान प्राप्त करनेका दरवाजा उसके लिए रुद्ध हो गया था। ये गरीबीमें जनमते थे, गरीबीमें ही पलते थे और उसीमें ही मर जाया करते थे। ऐसे कुलमें पैदा हुए व्यक्तिके लिये कल्पित ऊँच-नीच भावना और जाति व्यवस्थाका फौलादी ढाँचा तर्क और बहसकी वस्तु नहीं होती, जीवन मरणका प्रश्न होता है। कबीरदास इसी समाजके रत्न थे। वे सामाजिक विषमताओंको बौद्धिक तर्क-विलासकी वस्तु न समझते रहे हों, तो यह आश्चर्यकी बात नहीं है। सौभाग्यवश उन्हें व सब युक्तियों नर्हा मालूम थीं जो इस स्पष्ट ही अनुचित समाज-व्यवस्थाको उचित साबित कर सकती हैं। उन शास्त्रीय विचारोंसे सर्वथा मुक्त थे जो सामाजिक जीवनमें स्थितिशील (स्टैटिक) देखनेमें ही समाजका मूल्याण समझते हैं। और भी उनमें आत्म-विश्वास परिपूर्ण मात्रामे था। यह जो बाह्याचारोंकी जानन्त प्रतिक्रिया, शास्त्रीय विचारकी अनभिज्ञताके कारण निर्भीक आक्रमणकारिता और अपनी निर्दोषिताका परिपूर्ण भरोसा है उसने उनके आत्मविश्वासको भी आक्रामक (एग्रेसिव्ह) बना दिया था और उनकी लपरवाहीको भी रक्षणात्मक (डिफेंसिव्ह) बना दिया था। इसीलिए वे सीधी बातको भी ललकारनेकी भाषामें ही बोलते थे। सारी परिस्थितिका विश्लेषण न कर सकनेवाले पंडित इसे अटपटी वाणी समझकर सन्तोष कर लेते हैं या फिर घमण्ड और दम्भ समझकर कुछ आश्चर्यसे हो लेते हैं।

जो लोग पौराणिक कथाओंको जानते हैं उन्हें मालूम है कि करीब करीब सभी देवताओं और ऋषि मुनियोंके नाम ऐसी कहानियाँ मिलती हैं जिनसे उनके चरित्रकी विशुद्धतामें सन्देह होता है। पर जो लोग पुराणोंके तत्त्ववादके जानकार हैं वे उनमें भी भगवल्लीलासा आभास पाते हैं और उन्हें न तो उक्त कथाओंमें अविश्वास होता है और न उन मुनियों या देवताओंके चरित्रके विषयमें सन्देह। कबीरदास पौराणिक कथाओंके थोड़े-बहुत जानकार थे पर तत्त्ववादके कायल न थे, शायद जानते भी नहीं थे। इसीलिये उन्होंने कथापर विश्वास करके मुनियों और देवताओंके चरित्रको उसी रूपमें स्वीकार किया जिस रूपमें लिखा गया है। अपने ऊपर उनका विश्वास प्रबल था और पौराणिक कथाओंमें सुर-नर-मुनिके चरित्रोंपर सन्देह करनेका अवसर दिया। इसीलिये अत्यन्त सीधी और सहज बात

कहते समय भी उनके आत्मविश्वासका आक्रामक रूप प्रकट हो ही गया—

झीनी झीनी बीनी चदरिया ।

काहेक ताना काहेकै भरनी, कौन तारसे बीनी चदरिया ।

इगला-पिगला ताना भरनी, सुममन तारसे बीनी चदरिया ॥

आठ कँवल दल चरखा डोलै, पाँच तत्त्व गुन तीनी चदरिया ।

साईको मियत मास दस लागै, ठोक ठोकके बीनी चदरिया ॥

नो चादर सुर नर मुनि ओढिन, ओढिके मेली कीनी चदरिया ।

दाम कबीर जतनसे ओढिन, ज्योंकै त्यों वर दीनी चदरिया ॥

—शब्दा० पृ० ७६

इसमें दम्भका लेग भी नहीं है, घमण्डका स्पर्श भी नहीं है। है केवल अपने असण्ड विश्वास और पौराणिक कथानकोंकी सरलनापूर्ण स्वीकृति। मचमुच ही तो इम पच तत्त्व और तीन गुणकी शरीर-चादर सभी मुनियों और देवताओंके ओढके मली कर दी है। पुराण तो ऐसा ही बताते हैं और यह भी सच है कि कबीरदासने उस चादरको मेली नहीं होने दी। कबीरकी अन्तरात्मा इस महा-सत्यका अविसवादी साक्षी है। फिर इसमें दम्भ या घमण्ड कहाँ है ? पर जो कोई इसे पढेगा वह इस आत्म-विश्वासके आक्रमणकारी पहलकी लक्ष्य किए बिना नहीं रहेगा। सारी बात कुछ इस लहजेमें कही गई हैं कि वह आक्रमणमूलक हो गई है। 'सुर-नर-मुनि'को उँगली दिखाकर कहना और उनकी तुलनामें अपने आपको बठा देना और फिर उनसे बड़ा बताना निश्चय ही एक ऐसा तीव्र कटाक्ष है जो लक्ष्यभूत श्रोताको चिढाए बिना नहीं रह सकता। पर लक्ष्य करने योग्य है वहनेवालेकी लापरवाही। वह इतनी बड़ी चिढा देनेवाली बात कह गया है लेकिन कटुताके साथ नहीं, और प्रत्याक्रमणकी चिन्ताके साथ तो बिल्कुल नहीं।

ऐसे ये कबीर। सिरसे पैर तक मस्त मौला, स्वभावसे फक्कड़, आदतसे अक्खड़, भक्तके सामने निरीह, भेषधारीके आगे प्रचण्ड, दिलके साफ, दिमागके दुस्त, भीतरसे कोमल, बाहरसे कठोर, जन्मसे अस्पृश्य, कर्मसे वन्दनीय। वे जो कुछ कहते थे अनुभवके आवारपर कहते थे इसीलिए उनकी उक्तियों वेधनेवाली और व्यंग्य चोट करनेवाले होते थे। उनके पूर्ववर्ती बाह्याचार-विरोधियोंने स्वयं अपने लिये बाह्याचारका आडम्बर बना रखा था, इसलिये उनमें वह मस्ती-भरी लापरवाही नहीं थी जो कबीरको इतना आकर्षक बनाये हुए है। फिर उनके पूर्ववर्ती महजयानी बौद्ध, और योगी लोग जितनी भी पोथीकी निन्दा

क्यों न करूं, पोथी उनकी पढी होती थी और भीतर ही भीतर वे पोथीकी महिमासे अभिभूत होते थे। कबीरके समान निर्भीक आत्म-विश्वासक माय वे कभी नहीं कह सके कि—

मेरा तेरा मनुआ कसे इरु होइ रे !

म कहता ह्य ओगिन दया

तू कहता कागदकी लेखी,

म कहता गुरझावनहारी

तू राख्यो अरुझाट रे !

अखर आत्म-विश्वास और अहैतुक भक्तिके बिना टतनी सफाइसे कोई नहा कह सकता कि तू राख्यो अरुझाट रे ! सहज वानको सहज ही न कह व्यर्थ तर्क-फेनिल बना देना ही क्या अधिकांश 'कागदकी लेखी' का कार्य नहीं है ? कबीरके बहुत दिन बाद एक दूसरे भक्तने कहा था—शुरुसे ही कुछ लोग नाना प्रकारके पारिभाषिक शब्दोंमें सोचनेका अभ्यास कर लेते हैं। इनम जो जितना ही अधिक कल्पना-प्रवीण होता है वह उतना ही बड़ा पंडित माना जाता है, पर सही बात यह होती है कि इस कौशलसे वे भगवानसे क्रमशः दूर ही होते जाते हैं और अपनी कल्पनाओंको ही ये तर्क-निष्ठ लोग 'शास्त्र' नाम देते हैं।—

कवीर 'ज्ञानके हाथी' पर चढ़े थे पर 'सहजका हुलीचा' डाले बिना नफा, भक्तिके मन्दिरमे प्रविष्ट हुए थे पर 'खालाका घर' समझकर नहीं, बाढ्या-चारका खण्डन किया था पर निरुद्देश्य आक्रमणकी मशासे नहीं, भगद्विरट्टकी ओँचमें तपे थे पर ओँखोंमें ओस भर कर नहीं,—रामको आग्रहपूर्वक पुकारा था पर बालकोषित मचलनके साथ नहीं—सर्वत्र उन्होंने एक समता (वैलैम) रखी थी। केवल कुछ थोड़ेसे विपर्ययोंमें वे समता खो गये थे। अज्ञानण सामाजिक उच्च नीच मर्यादाके समर्थनोंको वे कभी क्षमा नहीं कर सके, भगवान्के नामपर पाखण्ड रखनेवालोंको उन्होंने कभी छुट्टी नहीं दी, दूसरोंको गुमराह बनानेवालोंको उन्होंने कभी तरह देना उचित नहीं समझा। ऐसे अवसरोंपर वे उग्र थे, कठोर थे और आक्रामक थे। पर गुमराह लोगोंकी गलती दिखानेमें उन्हें एक तरहका रस मिलता था। व्यग करनेमें उन्हें जेमे तृप्ति मिलनी थी। निम्नलिखित पदमें गगा नहानेवालियोंकी कृती क्रम कर खपर ली गई है—

भक्तिके अतिरेकमें उन्होंने कभी अपनेको पतित नहीं समझा। क्योंकि उनके दैन्यमें भी उनका आत्म-विश्वास साथ नहीं छोड़ देता था। उनका मन जिस प्रेमरूपी मदिरासे मतवाला बना हुआ था वह ज्ञानके गुडसे तैयार की गई थी, इसीलिए अन्वयश्रद्धा, भावुकता और हिस्टीरिक् प्रेमोन्मादका उनमें एकाग्रता अभाव था। युगावतारकी शक्ति और विश्वास लेकर वे पैदा हुए थे और युगप्रवर्तकनी दृढता उनमें वर्तमान थी इसीलिए वे युग प्रवर्तन कर सके थे। एक वाक्यमें उनके व्यक्तित्वको कहा जा सकता है : वे सिरसे पैर तक मस्न मौला थे — बेपरवाह, दृढ, उग्र, कुसुमादपि कोमल, वज्रादपि कठोर ।

१३—भारतीय धर्म-साधनामें कबीरका स्थान

जिस युगमें कबीर आविर्भूत हुए थे उसके कुछ ही पूर्व भारतवर्षके इतिहासमें एक अभूतपूर्व घटना घट चुकी थी। यह घटना इस्लाम जैसे एक सुसंगठित सम्प्रदायका आगमन था। इस घटनाने भारतीय धर्ममत और समाज-व्यवस्थाको बुरी तरहसे झकझोर दिया था। उसकी अपरिवर्तनीय समझी जानेवाली जाति-व्यवस्थाको पहली बार जबर्दस्त ठोकर लगी थी। सारा भारतीय वातावरण सङ्कुच्य था। बहुतेसे पंडित-जन इस सक्षोभका कारण खोजनेमें व्यस्त थे और अपने-अपने ढंगपर भारतीय समाज और धर्म-मतको संभालनेका प्रयत्न कर रहे थे।

समसे पहले यह समझ लिया जाय कि यह घटना अभूतपूर्व क्यों थी और इसमें नवानता क्या थी? भारतवर्ष कोई नया देश नहीं है। बड़े बड़े साम्राज्य उसकी धूलमें दबे हुए हैं, बड़ी बड़ी धार्मिक घोषणायें उसके वायुमण्डलमें निनादित हो चुकी हैं, बड़ी बड़ी सभ्यतायें उसके प्रत्येक कोनेमें उत्पन्न और तिलीन हो चुकी हैं, उनके स्मृति-चिह्न अब भी इस प्रकार निर्जीव होकर खड़े हं माना दृष्टास करती हुई विजयलक्ष्मीको बिजली मार गई हो! अनादिकालसे उसमें अनेकों जानियों, कबीलों, नस्लों और शुभककड़ खानाबदोशोंके झुण्ड इस देशमें आने रहे हैं। कुछ देरके लिये इन्होंने देशके वातावरणको विषुब्ध भी बनाया है पर अन्ततक वे पराये नहीं रह सके हैं। उनके देवता तैत्सीस करोड़ विहास्यनोमसे किसी एकको दखल करके बैठ जाते रहे हैं और पुराने देवताओंके सम्मान ही श्रद्धाभाजन बन जाते रहे हैं,—कभी कभी अधिक सम्मान भी पा सके हैं। भारतीय संस्कृतिकी कुछ ऐसी विशेषता रही है कि उन कबीलों, नस्लों और जातियोंकी भोतरी समाज व्यवस्था और धर्म-मतमें किसी प्रकारका हस्तक्षेप नहीं किया गया है और फिर भी उनको सपूर्ण भारतीय बना लिया गया है। भागवतमें ऐसी जातियोंकी एक पूरी सूची देकर बताया गया है कि एक बार भगवान्का आश्रय पाते ही ये शुद्ध हो गई हैं। इनमें किरात हैं, हूण हैं, आंध्र हैं, पुलिन्द हैं, पुक्कस हैं, आभीर हैं, शूद्रा हैं, यवन हैं, खस हैं, शक हैं

आर भी निश्चय ही ऐसी बहुत जातियों हैं जिनका नाम भागवतकार नहीं गिन गय । भारतीय मरुति इनने अतिथियोंको अपना सजी थी, इसका कारण यह है कि बहुत शुरूसे ही उसकी धर्म-साधना वैयक्तिक रही है । प्रत्येक व्यक्तिको अलगसे धर्मापासनाका अधिकार है । झुड बोंबर उतभव हो सकते हैं, भजन नहीं । प्रत्येक व्यक्ति अपने कियेका जिम्मेदार आप है । श्रेष्ठताकी निशानी किसी धर्ममतको मानना या देव विशेषकी पूजा करना नहीं वक्तिक आचार-शुद्धि और चरित्र है । यदि एक आदमी अपने पूर्वजके वताये धर्मपर दृढ़ है, चरित्रसे शुद्ध है, दूसरी जाति या व्यक्तिके आचरणकी नकल नहीं करता बल्कि स्वधर्ममें मर जानेको ही श्रेयस्कर समझता है, ईमानदार है, सत्यवादी है, तो वह निश्चय ही श्रेष्ठ है, फिर वह चाहे आभीर-उग्रका हो या पुष्कस-श्रेणीका । कुलीनता पूर्व जन्मके कर्मका फल है, चरित्र इम जन्मके कर्मका प्रतीक है । देवता किसी एक जातिको सम्पत्ति नहीं है, वे सबके हैं और सबकी पूजाके अधिकारी हैं । पर यदि स्वयं देवता ही चाहत हैं कि उनकी पूजाका माध्यम कोड विशेष जाति या व्यक्ति हो सकता है तो भारतीय समाजको इममें भी कोई आपत्ति नहीं । ब्राह्मण मातंगी देवीकी पूजा ऋषेण पर मातंगक जरिये । क्या हुआ जो मातंग चाण्डाल है । राह यदि प्रसन्न होनेके लिये डोमोंको ही दान देना अपनी शर्त रखते हैं तो डोम ही सही । ममस्त भारतीय समाज डोमको ही दान देकर प्रहणके अनर्थसे चद्रमाकी रक्षा करेगा । इस प्रकार भारतीय मरुतिने समस्त जातियोंको उनकी सारी विशेषताओं-समेत स्वीकार कर लिया । पर अबतक कोई ऐसा 'मजहब' उसके द्वारपर नहीं आया था जिसको हजम कर सकनेकी शक्ति वह नहीं रखता था ।

'मजहब' क्या है ? मजहब एक सघटित धर्ममत है । उहुतसे लोग एक ही देवताको मानते हैं, एक ही आचारका पालन करते हैं, और किसी नस्ल, कबीले या जातिक किसी व्यक्तिको जब एक बार अपने सघटित समूहमें मिला छेद है तो उसकी सारी विशेषताये दूर कर उम्नी विशेष मतवादको स्वाकार कराते हैं । यहाँ

धर्मसाधना व्यक्तिगत नहीं, समूहगत होती है। यहाँ धार्मिक आग सामाजिक विधि-निषेध एक दूसरेमें गुथे होते हैं। भारतीय समाज नाना जातियोंका सम्मिश्रण था। एक जातिका एक व्यक्ति दूसरी जातिमें बदल नहीं सकता, परन्तु मजहब इससे ठीक उलटा है। वह व्यक्तिको समूहका अंग बना देता है। भारतीय समाजकी जातियाँ कई व्यक्तियोंका समूह हैं, परन्तु किसी मजहबके व्यक्ति बृहत् समूहके अंग हैं। एकका व्यक्ति अलग हस्ती रखता है पर अलग नहीं हो सकता, दूसरेका अलग हो सकता है पर अलग सत्ता नहीं रखता।

मुसलमानों में एक 'मजहब' है। भारतीय समाज-मण्डलसे निकल उठे तोरपर उसका संगठन हुआ था। भारतीय समाज जाति-गत विशेषता रखकर व्यक्तिगत धर्मसाधनाका पक्षपाती था, इस्लाम जातिगत विशेषताको लोप करके समूहगत धर्मसाधनाका प्रचारक था। एकका कन्द्रबिन्दु चारित्र्य था, दूसरेका धर्म-मत। भारतीय समाजमें यह स्वीकृत तथ्य था कि विश्वास चाहे जो भी हो, चारित्र्य शुद्ध है तो व्यक्ति श्रेष्ठ हो जाता है, फिर चाहे वह किसी जातिका भी क्यों न हो। मुसलमानों समाजका विश्वास था कि इस्लामने जो धर्म-मत प्रचार किया है उसको स्वीकार कर लेनेवाला ही अनन्त स्वर्गका अधिकारी है, जो इन धर्ममतमें नहीं मानता वह अनन्त नरकमें जानेको बाय है। भारत-वर्षको ऐसे मतसे एकदम पाला नहीं पड़ा था। उसने कभी यह विश्वास ही नहीं किया कि उसके आचार और मतको न माननेवाली जातिका क्रोध तोड़ना उसका परम कर्तव्य है। किसी औरका परम कर्तव्य यह बात हो सकती है, यह भी उसे नहीं मालूम था। इसीलिये जब नवीन धर्म-मतने सारे सभारक क्रोधको मिटा देनेकी प्रतिज्ञा की और सभी पाये जानेवाले साधनोंका उपयोग आरम्भ किया तो भारतवर्ष इसे ठीक ठीक समझ ही नहीं सका। इसी लिये कुछ दिना तक उसकी समन्वयारिम्भका बुद्धि कुण्ठित हो गई। वह विशुद्ध-सा हो उठा। परन्तु विधाताको यह वृथा और विश्वोभ पसन्द नहीं था।

ऐसा जान पड़ता है कि पहली बार भारतीय मनीषियोंको एक सपनवद्ध धर्म-चारके पालनकी जहरत महसूस हुई। इस्लामके आनेके पहले इन विशाल जन-समूहका कोई एक नाम तक नहीं था। अब उसका नाम 'हिन्दु' पडा। हिन्दु अर्थात् भारतीय, अर्थात् गैर-इस्लामी मत। स्पष्ट ही इस गैर-इस्लामी मतमें कई तरहके मत थे, कुछ ब्रह्मवादी थे, कुछ कर्मकाण्डी थे, कुछ शैव थे, कुछ वैष्णव थे, कुछ

शाक्त थे, कुछ स्मार्त थे तथा और भी न जाने क्या क्या थे। हजारों योजनाओं तक निस्तृत और हजारों वर्षोंमें परिव्याप्त इस जनसमूहके विचारों और परम्पराप्राप्त मतोंका एक विशाल जगल खड़ा था। स्मृति, पुराण, लोकाचार और कुलाचारकी विशाल वनस्थलीमेंसे रास्ता निकाल लेना जेडों ही दुष्कर कार्य था। स्मार्त पण्डितोंने इसी दुष्कर व्यापारको शिरोधार्य किया। मारे देशमें शास्त्रीय वचनोंकी छानबीन होने लगी। उद्देश्य था कि इस प्रकारका सर्व-सम्मत मत निकाल लिया सके, श्राद्ध विवाहकी एक ही रीति-नीति प्रचलित हो सके, उत्सव समारोहका एक ही विधान तयार हो सके। भारतीय मनीषाका जालोंको आधार मान कर अपनी मनसे बड़ी समस्याके समाधानका यह सबसे बड़ा प्रयत्न था। हेमाद्रिसे लेकर कमलाकर और रघुनन्दन तक बहुतेरे पण्डितोंने बहुत परिश्रमके बाद जो कुछ निष्पत्ति किया वह यद्यपि सर्ववादिगम्मत नहीं हुआ, परन्तु, निस्सन्देह स्तूपीभूत शाल्व-वाक्योंकी छानबीनसे एक बहुत कुछ मिलता जुलता आचार-प्रवण धर्ममत रियर किया जा सका। निबध ग्रन्थोंकी यह बहुत बड़ी देन थी। जिस बातको आजकल 'हिन्दू-मोलिडरिटी' कहते हैं उसका प्रथम भित्ति स्थापन इन निबध-ग्रन्थोंके द्वारा ही हुआ था। पर समस्याका समाधान इससे नहीं हुआ।

इन प्रयत्नकी सबसे बड़ी कमजोरी इसकी आचारप्रवणता ही थी। जो नया धर्मसत भारतीय जन-समाजको सक्षुब्ध कर रहा था वह इस जाचारको कोई महत्त्व ही नहीं देता था। उसका सगठन बिल्कुल उटटे किनारेसे हुआ था। निबन्ध ग्रन्थोंन जिस आचार-प्रधान 'एकधर्म'-तत्त्वका प्रचार किया उसक मूलमें ही सबको स्वीकार करनेका सिद्धान्त काम कर रहा था। समस्त शास्त्रीय वाक्याको नतशिरसे स्वीकार करके ही यह असाध्य साधन किया गया था। पर जिस प्रतिद्वन्द्वीसे काम पड़ा था वह बहुत वर्जनाप्रही था अर्थात् वह निर्दयतापूर्वक अन्यान्य मतोंको तहस-नहस करनेकी दीक्षा ले चुका था और वार्षिक वर्जनशीलता ही उसका मुख्य अस्त्र था। यद्यपि वह समाज वार्षिक रूपमें वर्जनशील था पर सामाजिक रूपमें ग्रहणशील था, जब कि हिन्दू-समाज धार्मिक रूपमें ग्रहणशील होकर भी सामाजिक रूपमें वर्जनशील था। हिन्दू-समाज वार्षिक साधनाको स्वीकार कर सकता था पर किसी व्यक्ति-वितोषको धर्म-मतमें ग्रहण

करनेका पक्षपाती नहीं था। उधर मुसलमानी समाज व्यक्तिको अपने धर्ममतमें शामिल कर लेनेको परम कर्तव्य समझता था; परन्तु किसी विशेष धर्म-साधनको अपने किसी व्यक्तिके लिये एकदम वर्जनीय मानता था। निबंध-प्रन्थोंने हिंदूको और भी अधिक हिंदू बना दिया, पर मुसलमानोंको आत्मसात् करनेका कोई रास्ता नहीं बताया।

इस प्रकार मुसलमानोंके आगमनके साथ ही साथ हिन्दू-धर्म प्रधानतः आचार-प्रवृत्त हो गया। तीर्थ, व्रत, उपवास और होमाचारकी परम्परा ही उसका केन्द्रबिंदु हो गई। इस समय पूर्व और उत्तरमें सबसे प्रबल सम्प्रदाय नाथपंथी योगियोंका था। हमने पहले ही देखा है कि ये लोग शास्त्रीय स्मार्त मतको भी नहीं मानते थे और प्रस्थानत्रयी (अर्थात् उपनिषद्, ब्रह्मसूत्र और गीता) पर आधारित किसी दार्शनिक मतवादके भी कायल नहीं थे। पर जनताका ध्यान ये आकृष्ट कर सके थे। विविध सिद्धियोंके द्वारा वे काफी सम्मान और संभ्रमके पात्र बन गये थे। ये गुणातीत शिव या निर्गुण-तत्त्वके उपासक थे। पर इनकी उपासना ध्यान और समाधिके द्वारा होती थी। विविध भौतिकी शारीरिक साधनाओंके द्वारा, जिन्हें कार्या-साधन कहते थे, लोग परम तत्त्वको पानेके प्रयासी थे। इनमें जो सिद्ध, साधक कौर अवधूत थे वे घरबारी नहीं होते थे पर इनके शिष्योंमें बहुतसे आश्रमभ्रष्ट गृहस्थ थे जो योगी जातिका रूप धारण कर चुके थे। हिंदूधर्म इन आश्रमभ्रष्ट गृहस्थोंका सम्मान तो करता ही न था उल्टे उन्हें तिरस्कारकी दृष्टिसे ही देखता था। ये आश्रम-भ्रष्ट गृहस्थ न तो हिंदू थे,—क्योंकि वे हिंदुओंके किसी मत या आचारके कायल न थे,—और न मुसलमान—क्योंकि इन्होंने इस्लामी धर्म-मतको स्वीकार नहीं कर लिया था। कुछ कालके इस्लामी संसर्गके बाद ये लोग धीरे धीरे मुसलमानी धर्ममतकी ओर झुकने लगे पर इनके संस्कार बहुत दिनोंतक बने रहे। जब वे इसी प्रक्रियामेंसे गुजर रहे थे उसी समय कबीरका आविर्भाव हुआ था।

यहाँ दो और प्रधान धार्मिक आन्दोलनोंकी चर्चा कर लेना चाहिये। पहली धारा पश्चिमसे आई। यह सूफ़ी लोगोंकी साधना थी। मजहबी मुसलमान हिंदू धर्मके मर्मस्थानपर चोट नहीं कर पाये थे, वे केवल उसके बाहरी शरीरको विक्षुब्ध कर सकते थे। पर सूफ़ी लोग भारतीय साधनाके अविरोधी थे। उनके उदारतापूर्ण प्रेम-मार्गने भारतीय जनताका चित्त जीतना आरम्भ किया था। फिर भी ये

लोग आचार प्रधान भारतीय समाजको आकृष्ट नहीं कर सके। उसका सामग्र्य आचार-प्रधान हिंदूधर्मके साथ नहीं हो सका। यहाँ यह बात स्मरण रखनेकी है कि न तो सूफी मतवाद और न योगमार्गीय निर्गुण परम तत्त्वकी साधना ही उम विपुल वैराग्यके भारको वहन कर सकी जो बौद्ध सधके अनुकरणपर प्रतिष्ठित था। देशमें पहली बार वर्णाश्रम-व्यवस्थाको एक अनुभूत-पूर्व विकट परिस्थितिका सामना करना पड़ रहा था। अब तक वर्णाश्रम-व्यवस्थाका कोई प्रतिद्वंद्वी नहीं था। आचार भ्रष्ट व्यक्ति समाजसे अलग कर दिये जाते थे और वे एक नई जातिकी रचना कर लेते थे। इस प्रकार सेकड़ों जातियों और उपजातियों सृष्ट होते रहनेपर भी वर्णाश्रम व्यवस्था एक प्रकारसे चलती ही जा रही थी। अब सामने एक जबरदस्त प्रतिद्वंद्वी समाज था जो प्रत्येक व्यक्ति और प्रत्येक जातिको अगीकार करनेको बद्धपरिंकार था। उसकी एकमात्र शर्त यह थी कि वह उसके विशेष प्रकारके धर्म-मतको स्वीकार कर ले। समाजसे दण्ड पानेवाला बहिष्कृत व्यक्ति अब असहाय नहीं था। इच्छा करते ही वह एक सुमघटित समाजका सहारा पा सकता था। ऐसे समयमें दक्षिणसे वेदान्त भावित भक्तिका आगमन हुआ जो हम विशाल भारतीय महाद्वीपके इस छोरसे उस छोर तक फैल गया। डा० ग्रियर्सनने कहा था कि, "बिजलीकी चमकके समान अचानक इस समस्त (धार्मिक मतोंके) अन्धकारके ऊपर एक नई बात दिखाई दी। यह भक्तिका आन्दोलन है।" इसने दो रूपोंमें आत्म-प्रकाश किया। पौराणिक अवतारोंको केन्द्र करके सगुण उपासनाके रूपमें और निर्गुण परब्रह्म जो योगियोंका ल्येय था, उसे केन्द्र करके निर्गुण प्रेम-भक्तिकी साधनाके रूपमें। पहली साधनाने हिन्दू-जातिकी बाह्याचारकी शुष्कताको आन्तरिक प्रेमसे सींचकर रसमय बनाया और दूसरी साधनाने बाह्याचारकी शुष्कताको ही दूर करनेका प्रयत्न किया। एकने समझौतेका रास्ता लिया, दूसरीने विद्रोहका, एकने शास्त्रका सहारा लिया, दूसरीने अनुभवका; एकने श्रद्धाको पथ प्रदर्शक माना, दूसरीने ज्ञानको, एकने सगुण भगवान्को अपनाया, दूसरीने निर्गुण भगवान्को। पर प्रेम दोनोंका ही मार्ग था, सूखा ज्ञान दोनोंको अप्रिय था, केवल बाह्याचार दोनोंको सम्मत नहीं थे, आन्तरिक प्रेम-निवेदन दोनोंको अभीष्ट था, अहेतुक भक्ति दोनोंकी काम्य थी, बिना शर्तके भगवान्के प्रति आत्मसमर्पण दोनोंके प्रिय साधन थे। इन बातोंमें दोनों एक थे। सबसे बड़ा अन्तर इनके लीलासंबन्धी विचारोंमें था। दोनों

ही भगवान्की प्रेम-लीलामे विश्वास करते थे। दोनोंका ही अनुभव था कि भगवान् लीलके लिये ही हम जागतिक प्रपंचको सम्हाले हुए हैं। पर प्रधान भेद यह था कि सगुण-भावसे भजन करनेवाले भक्त भगवान्को दूरसे देखनेमें रम पाते रहे, जब कि निर्गुण भावसे भजन करनेवाले भक्त अपने आपमें रमे हुए भगवान्को ही परम काम्य मानते थे।

लीला क्या है ? भारतीय भक्तोंका सबसे ऊँची कल्पना है। हम जानते हैं कि भगवान् अगम्य हैं, अगोचर हैं, निरजन हे, अकल हैं, अनीह हैं। हम यह भी जानते हैं कि वे अनुभवेकाम्य हैं, केवल अपने स्वरूपसे ही उनको माधक अनुभव कर सकता है, वे गूँगेके गुड़ हैं, अनिर्वचनीय हैं। पर यह सज्जनकी वाते है। भक्त लोग भगवान्को ज्ञानके द्वारा अगम्य मानते हैं, क्योंकि मनुष्यकी शक्ति सीमित है, उसकी बुद्धि की दौड़ बहुत मामूली है। परन्तु वे प्रेमसे गम्य हैं 'ज्ञानके अगम्य तुम प्रेमके भिखारी हो।' क्यों कि ज्ञान सब मिलाकर हमें हमारी अल्पज्ञता ही दिखा देता है। पर प्रेम सपूर्ण वृत्तियोंको भर देता है। पुत्रमे किननी ही वृत्तियों क्यों न हो, माता उसे अपनी छातीसे लगा लेती है, क्यों कि मातृ स्नेह सभी कमियोंको भर देता है। प्रेमी सम्पण अभावको अपने प्रेमसे भर देता है, 'जो मिलिये सँग सज्जन तो बरक-जरक हूँ की न।' क्यों कि नरक आखिर कुछ अभावका ही तो नाम है, दुःख तो सुराका अभाव-मात्र है और अभावको दूर करनेका एक-मात्र ब्रह्माज्ञ प्रेम है। दरिद्रता, पीडा और अभाव सग एक ही शब्दके पर्याय हैं और युगयुगान्तरके कवि और मनीषी अनुभव करके कह गये हैं कि सम्पूर्ण अभावोंको दूर करनेकी एक-मात्र शक्ति प्रेम है—'दूट खाट घर टपकत खदियों दूट। पियकी बॉह उमिसवा मुखकी छट।' कोई पूछे कि ऐसा क्यों होता है तो इसका भी कोई जवाब नहीं है। यह भगवानकी माया है। भगवानके समान ही रहस्यपूर्ण वैसी ही अनिर्वचनीय। और फिर दुबारा यह प्रश्न हो सकता है कि माया क्यों ? क्यों पूग परमात्माको अपनी सृष्टिके अभावको दूर करनेके लिये इसी विचित्र वस्तु,— मायाकी जहरत पड़ी।

इस प्रश्नका उत्तर कठिन है। ज्ञानी इसे भी माया कहता है। विज्ञानी शायद 'इन्स्टिक्ट' कह दे, पर एक नाम दे देनेसे समस्या हल नहीं हो जाती। माया है, यह ठीक है। क्यों कि विश्व-जगतमें हम ऐसे ऐसे रहस्योंको

पाने हैं जो बुद्धिके परे हैं । हृदयके परे हैं । वे रहस्य हैं, माया हैं । पर 'क्यों है' का कोई उत्तर नहीं । भक्त इसका उत्तर देता है कि भगवान् परम प्रेममय है और यह सब उनकी लीला है । जो कुछ भी दिखाई दे रहा है, जो कुछ भी घट रहा है और जो कुछ भी घटना सम्भव है, वह सब कुछ उस परम प्रेममयकी लीला है,—उस खेलनेमें आनन्द मिलता है । वह भक्तकी सारी अपूर्णताओंको पूर्ण करता है, इसी लिए वह परम-प्रेम-स्वरूप है । परन्तु भक्त क्यों प्रेम करता है ?—क्योंकि वह अपनेको परिपूर्ण करता है ।—भगवान्को क्या कमी है जो प्रेमका भिखारी बना रहता है ? भक्तका कहना है कि इराका और कोई कारण नहीं, यह प्रेम व्यापार ही एक लीला ही है । लीला क्यों ?—लीलाके लिये । लीलाके लिये सौन-सी वस्तु ? लीला ही ।—लीलाका फल क्या है ?—लीला ही । 'नाह लीलायाः किञ्चित्प्रयोजनमस्ति, लीला एव प्रयोजनत्वात् ।' जो इस लीलाको नहीं समझता वही भ्रममें है । लीला भगवान्के आनन्द स्वरूपका प्रकाश है । उपनिषद्ने बताया है कि उसी आनन्दसे भूतमात्रकी उत्पत्ति हुई है । जो कुछ देख रहा है, जो कुछ घटित और घटमान है वह आनन्दमें ही है । अगर यह आनन्द न होता तो उत्पन्न होनेपर भी प्राणिगण जीवित नहीं रह सकतें । आनन्द ही जीवनका आधार है (तैत्तिरीय ३-६) । यदि आकाशके कोने कोनेमें यह आनन्द भरा न होता तो कोई प्राण धारण नहीं कर सकता था । क्योंकि भगवान् आनन्दमय है, रस-स्वरूप है । और फिर भी विशेषता यह कि रस पाकर ही वह आनन्दी होता है । स्वयं रमरूप होकर भी वह रसका चाहक है, और स्वयं आनन्दरूप होकर भी वह तब तक आनन्दवान् नहीं होता जब तक उसे रस न मिल जाय । यह विरोधाभास है, पर भक्तोंका दावा है कि उन्होंने अनुभव-रूपमें साक्षात्कार किया है—

रसो वै सः । रस होवाय लब्ध्वानन्दी भवति । को होवान्यात् कः प्राप्यात् यदेव आकाश आनन्दी न स्यात् ।

(तैत्तिरीय० २—७)

जो तर्कसे इसका अनुसंधान करना चाहेगा उसके लिये यह बात रहस्य-सी दीखेगी पर जो प्रेमकी दृष्टिसे देखेगा उसके लिये इसमें कोई रहस्य नहीं है, कोई असंगति नहीं है और न कोई विरोध ही है । उसके लिये यह भगवान्की लीला है । वह स्वयं इस लीलाका जाल पसारे हुए है, इसलिये स्पष्ट ही उसे

प्रेमकी भूख है। यह पूठना बेकार है कि उसे क्या कमी है जो यह भूख लगी ? क्योंकि यह सब उमकी लीला है। सही इतना ही है कि वह रम पाये बिना आनन्दी नहीं होता,—‘रसं ह्येपायं लब्धानन्दी भवति।’ इसी लीलाके लिये प्रेम भिरारी साईं राह चलते भक्तपर रंग डाल देता है। जो दुनियादार है और जिनकी वृत्तियाँ बहिर्मुखी हैं वे उस रंगकी लीलाको अनुभव ही नहीं करते, अपने रास्ते चले जाते हैं। पर जो अनुभवी हैं वे व्याकुल हो उठते हैं। उन्हें एक व्याकुल पुकार सुनाई देती है। जैसे प्रियतमने छेड़सान्नी करके एक ऐगी पुकार फेंकी है जिसकी चोट सँभालना मुश्किल है। यह पुकार मारे शरीरको बेव डालती है। इसकी कोई औषध नहीं, मन्त्र नहीं, जड़ी नहीं, बूटी नहीं, बेचारा बध क्या कर सकता है ? इस प्रकारकी चोट जिसे लगी वही अभिभूत हो गया। देवता हो या मनुष्य, मुनि हो या राह चलता आदमी, पीर हो या औलिया, एक बार चोट लगनेपर अपनेको सँभाल रखना कठिन हो जाता है। कबीरदास गवाह है, कि साईंके इस रंगका चोट खाया मनुष्य सब रंगोंसे रंग जाता है, और फिर भी उसका रंग सब रंगोंसे न्यारा होता है। स्वयं कबीरदास रंग चुके थे। वे इस अकारण प्रेम-पुकारसे घायल हो चुके थे। व्याकुल भावसे वे सतगुरुके पास इसका उपाय पूछने गये थे—

सतगुरु हो महाराज, मोपे साईं रंग डारा।

सब्दकी चोट लगी मेरे मनमें, बेव गया तन सारा।

औषध-मूल फूट नहीं लागै, ना कर वैद बेचारा।

सुर-नर मुनिजन पीर-औलिया, कोई न पाये पारा।

साहब कबीर सर्व रंग रँगिया, सब रँगसे रँग न्यारा ॥

—शब्दा० ५ पृ० ९

फागुनकी ऋतु नजदीक आ जाती है, प्रियतमके रंग डालनेसे अपने आपको भूल गया हुआ भक्त व्याकुल भावसे सोचने लगता है—हाय, वह सुख फिर क्या मिल सकेगा ? क्या वह अलबेला साईं फिर मिलेगा ? फिर उसके रंगकी चोट खानेका सौभाग्य भाग्यमें बदा है ? कौन है जो पियाके पास तक पहुँचा सके ? धन्य ह जो प्रियके साथ एकमेव होकर फाग खेलती है, धन्य है वे जो उसकी मनभावती हैं और अभागिन हैं वह सखी जो ऐचातानीमें ही रह गई। प्रियका रूप क्या वर्णन किया जा सकता है ? प्रेम-दीवानी प्रेमिका उसे अलगसे

कैसे मगझावे ? वह तो उसीमें समा गइ है,—तन्मय हो गई है । कबीरदाम इस फागलालाका आनन्द अनुभव कर चुकें थे । उनकी गवाहीपर हम विद्वान् कर सकते हैं कि वह फाग साधारण फाग नहै । इस पृथ्वीपर उसकी तुलनामें कोई फाग खड़ी ही नहै हो सकती । यह कहनेकी चीज नहीं है, अनुभव करनेकी चीज है,—‘अस्य कहानी’ है,—‘विरलाक नमीतमे इन परमसुखका अनुभव वदा है—

रितु फागुन नियरानी हो,
 कोड पियासे मिलवे ॥
 सोई सुदर जाको पियाको ध्यान है,
 सोइ पियाकी मनमानी ।
 खेलत फाग अग नहि छोड़े,
 सतगुरुसे लिपटानी ।
 इरु इरु सरियों खेल पर पट्टेची,
 इरु इरु कुल अरुहानी ।
 इरु इरु नाम विना वहकानी,
 हो रही ऐचातानी ॥
 पियको रूप कहों लागि बरनौं,
 रपहि माहि समानी ।
 जो रंग रंगे सकल छवि छाके,
 तन-मन सरहि भुलानी ॥
 या मत जाने यहि रे फाग हं,
 यह कुछ अश्रय कहानी ।
 कह कीर सुनो भाई मा जो,
 यह गति निरल जानी ॥

(शब्दा० २२, पृ० १५)

यह है लीला । इसका रहस्य समझना कठिन है, क्योंकि यह रहस्यका समाधान है । समाधानका समाधान क्या ? भक्तका दावा है कि यह अनुभवसे पाई जाती है । लीला ही लीलाका मार्ग है । लीला ही साधन है, लीला ही साध्य है । जो साधक एक बार इसकी मस्तीसे वाकफ हो गया वह आठों पहर मतवाला बना रहता है, नहीं, वह आठों पहरको,—सम्पूर्ण कालको निचोबर उसका मन पीता है । वह

आठों पहर मस्तीसे मत्त रहता है, ब्रह्मकी छौलमें वह जीवन धारण करता है । छौल अर्थात् आनन्द । वह भगवदानन्दमें, अर्थात् भगवान्‌की लीलामें ही वास करता है । उसके लिए सत्यको पकड़ना आसान हो जाता है, क्योंकि वह सोंच और कोंचके ऊपर उठ जाता है । उसका जन्म और मरणका भ्रम भाग जाता है । उसे कोई भय नहीं होता, दुःख नहीं होता, वह निर्भय हो जाता है—

आठहूँ पहर मतवाल लागी रहै,
आठहूँ पहरकी छाक पीवे ।
आठहूँ पहर मस्तीन माता रहै,
ब्रह्मकी छौलमें साथ जीवै ।
सोंच ही रहतु औ सोंच ही गहतु है,
कोंचको त्याग करि सोंच लागी ।
कहे कबीर यों साध निर्भय हुआ,
जनम और मरणका भ्रम भागा ।

(शंदा० पृ० १०३-४)

भक्तकी भगवान्‌के साथ यह जो आनन्द-केलि या प्रेम लीला है वही मध्य युगक समस्त भक्तकी साधनाका केन्द्र बिन्दु है । भगवान्‌के साथ यह रसमय लीला ही भक्तका परम काम्य है,—लीला जिसका कोई प्रयोजन नहीं, फल नहीं, कारण नहीं, आदि नहीं, अन्त नहीं । इसी बातको मध्ययुगके अन्यतम वैष्णव भक्त विश्वनाथ चक्रवर्तीने कहा था, 'प्रेम ही परम पुरुषार्थ है,— प्रेमा पुमर्था महात् ।' साधारणतः जिनको पुरुषार्थ कहा जाता है वे धर्म-अर्थ-काम-मोक्ष भक्तके लिए कोई आकर्षण नहीं रखते । और कबीरदासने इसी बातको और शक्तिशाली ढंगसे कहा था—

राता-माता नामका, पीया प्रेम अघाय ।
मतवाला दीदारका, भोगे मुक्ति बलाय ॥

(क० वच० पृ० १३)

और भक्तके आदर्शकी घोषणा करते हुए द्विधाहीन भाषामे कहा है—
भागविना नहि पाइये, प्रेम-प्रीतिकी भक्त ।
बिना प्रेम नहीं भक्ति कछु, भक्ति-भरथो सब जक्त ॥

प्रेम जिना जो भक्ति है, सो निज दम्भ-बिचार ।

उदर भरनेके कारणे, जनम गयायौ सार ॥

(स० क० सा० पृ० ४१)

परन्तु कबीरदास अपने युगके सगुण साधना-परायण भक्तोंसे कुछ भिन्न थे । यद्यपि दोनोंकी साधनाका केन्द्र बिन्दु यह प्रेम-भक्ति है,—इसे आनन्दकेलि, प्रीति, भक्ति, प्रेमलीला आदि जो भी नाम दे दिया जाय,—तथापि एक बातमें वे सबसे अलग हो जाते हैं । हमने ऊपर लक्ष्य किया है कि भारतीय मनीषी उन दिनों स्मृति और पुराण ग्रन्थोंकी छान बीनमें जुटे हुए थे । उन्होंने प्राचीन भारतीय परम्पराको क्षीरोधार्य कर लिया था,—अर्थात् सब कुछ मानकर, सभके प्रति आदरका भाव बनाये रहकर अपने चलनेका मार्ग तै करना । समुणोपामक भक्त गण भी सम्पूर्ण रूपसे इस पुरानी परम्परामें प्राप्त मनोभावके पोषक रहे । समस्त शास्त्रों और मुनिजनोंके अकृण्ट चित्तसे अपना नेता मानकर उनके वाक्योंकी सगति प्रेम-पलमें लगाने लगे । इसके लिए उन्हें मामूली परिश्रम नहीं करना पड़ा । समस्त शास्त्रोंका प्रेम-भक्ति मूलक अर्थ करनेमें उन्हें नाना अवि-कारियों और नाना भजनशैलियोंकी आवश्यकता स्वीकार करनी पड़ी, नाना अवस्थाओं और अवसरोंकी कल्पना करनी पड़ी, शास्त्र-ग्रन्थोंके तारतम्यकी भी कल्पना करनी पड़ी । सात्त्विक, राजसिक और तामसिक प्रकृतिके प्रस्तारसे अनन्त प्रकृतिके भक्तों और अनन्त प्रणालीके भजनोंकी कल्पना करनी पड़ी । सबको उन्होंने उचित मर्यादा दी । यद्यपि अन्त तक चल कर उन्हें भागवत महापुराणको ही सर्व प्रमाण-ग्रन्थ मानना पड़ा था पर उन्होंने किसी भी शास्त्रकी उपेक्षा या अवहेलना न की । उनकी दृष्टि बराबर भगवान्के परम-प्रेममय रूप और उनकी मनोहारिणी लीलापर निबद्ध रही पर उन्होंने बड़े धैर्यके साथ अन्यान्य शास्त्रोंकी सगति लगाई और एक अभूतपूर्व निष्ठा और मर्यादा-प्रेमको समाजमें प्रतिष्ठित कराया ।

कबीरदासका रास्ता उल्टा था । उन्हें सौभाग्यवश सुयोग भी अच्छा मिला था । जितने प्रकारके संस्कार पढ़नेके रास्ते हैं वे प्रायः सभी उनके लिये बन्द थे । वे मुसलमान होकर भी असलमें मुसलमान नहीं थे, हिन्दू होकर भी हिन्दू नहीं थे, वे साधु होकर भी साधु (=अगृहस्थ) नहीं थे, वे वैष्णव होकर भी वैष्णव नहीं थे, योगी होकर भी योगी नहीं थे । वे कुछ भगवान्की ओर ही सबसे न्यारे बनाकर भेजे गये थे । वे भगवान्की वृसिद्धावतारकी मानवप्रतिभूर्ति थे ।

नृसिंहकी भोंति वे नाना असम्भव समझी जानेवाली परिस्थितियोंके मिलन-विन्दुपर अवतीर्ण हुए थे। हिरण्यकशिपुने नर मोंग लिया था कि उसको मार सफ़नेवाला न मनुष्य हो न पशु, मारे जानेका समय न दिन हो न रात, मारे जानेका स्थान न पृथ्वी हो न आकाश, मार सफ़नेवाला हथियार न वातुका हो न पाषाणका—इत्यादि। इसीलिये उसे मार सफ़ना एक असम्भव और आश्चर्यजनक व्यापार था। नृसिंहने इसीलिए नाना क्रोटियोंके मिलन-विन्दुको चुना था। असम्भव व्यापारके लिये शायद ऐसी परस्पर विरोधी क्रोटियोंका मिलन विन्दु भगवान्को अभीष्ट है। ऋषीरदास ऐसे ही मिलन विन्दुपर रूढ थे। जहाँसे एक ओर हिन्दुत्व निकल जाता है और दूसरी ओर मुसलमानत्व, जहाँ एक ओर ज्ञान निकल जाता है दूसरी ओर भक्ति-मार्ग, जहाँसे एक तरफ़ निर्गुण भावना निकल जाती है दूसरी ओर सगुण साधना,—उसी प्रवास्त चौरस्तेपर वे खड़े थे। वे दोनों ओर देख सकते थे और परस्पर-विरुद्ध दिशामें गये हुए मार्गको दोषगुण उन्हें स्पष्ट दिखाई दे जाते थे। यह ऋषीरदासका भगवद्भक्त सौभाग्य था। उन्होंने इसका खूब उपयोग भी किया।

जसा कि शुरुमें ही बताया है, ऋषीरदासने अपनी प्रेम भक्तिमूला रावनाका आरम्भ एकदम दूसरे किनारेसे किया था। यह किनारा सगुण साधकोंके किनारेसे ठीक उल्टे पड़ता है। सगुण साधकोंने सब कुछ मान लिया था, कबीरने सब कुछ छोड़ दिया था। प्रथम श्रेणीके भक्तोंकी महिमा उनके अत्यन्त परिश्रम और अव्यय धैर्यमें है और कबीरकी महिमा उसके उत्कट साहसमें। उन्होंने सफेद कागजपर लिखना शुरू किया था। वे उस पाण्डित्यको बेकार समझते थे जो केवल ज्ञानका बोझ होना सिखाता है, जो मनुष्यको जड़ बना देता है और भगवान्को प्रेमसे वंचित करता है। भगवत्प्रेमपर उनकी दृष्टि इतनी दृढ़ निबद्ध थी कि इस ढाई अक्षर (प्रेम) को ही वे प्रधान मानते थे—

पढि पढिके पत्थर भया, लिखि लिखि भया जु ईद ।

कहै कबीरा प्रेमकी, लगी न एकौ छीट ॥

पोथी पढि पढि जग मुआ, पढित भया न कोइ ।

ढाई अक्षर प्रेमका, पढै सो पढित होइ ॥

यह प्रेम ही सब-कुछ है, वेद नहीं, शास्त्र नहीं, डुरान नहीं, जप नहीं, माला नहीं, तस्बीह नहीं, मविर नहीं, मस्जिद नहीं, अवतार नहीं, नबी नहीं, पीर नहीं, पगम्बर नहीं। यह प्रेम समस्त जाह्याचारोकी पहुँचके उहुत ऊपर है। समस्त सम्कारोंके प्रतिपाद्यसे कही श्रेष्ठ है। जो कुछ भी इसके रास्तेमें खड़ा होता है वह हेय है।

उन्होंने समस्त जतों, उपवासों और तीर्थोंको एक साथ अस्वीकार कर दिया। इनकी सगति लगाकर और अविकारी-भेदकी कल्पना करके इनके लिए भी बुनियातके मान-सम्मानकी व्यवस्था कर जानेको उन्होंने बेकार परिश्रम समझा। उन्होंने एक अज्ञात निरजन निर्लेपके प्रति लगनको ही अपना रुद्ध घोषित किया। इस लगन या प्रेमका साधन यह प्रेम ही है और कोई भी मव्यवर्ती साधन उन्होंने स्वीकार नहीं किया। प्रेम ही साध्य है, प्रेम ही साधन,—जत भी नहीं, मुहर्रम भी नहीं, पूजा भोग नहीं, नमाज भी नहीं, हज भी नहीं, तीर्थ भी नहीं।

एक निरजन अलह मेरा, हिंदू तुस्क दहूँ नहि मेरा।

राखू ब्रत ना महरम जाना, तिस ही सुमिहूँ जो रहै निदानां।

पूजा उरें न निमाज गुजारू, एक निराकार हिरदै नमसकारूँ।

नां हज जाऊँ न तीरथ-पूजा, एक पिछाण्यां तौ क्या बूजा।

कहै कबीर भरम सब भागा, एक निरंजन-सूँ मन लागा।

(१० प्र० पद ३३८)

जा ये पीर पैगंबर, काजा-मुला, रोजा-नमाज और पवित्रमकी भक्ति हैं वे सभी गलत हैं और वे जो देव और द्विज, एकादशी और दिवाली पूरव दिशाकी भक्ति हैं वे भी गलत हैं। भला हिन्दुओंके भगवान् तो मन्दिरमें रहते हैं और सुमलमानोंक खुदा मस्जिदमें, पर जहाँ मन्दिर भी नहीं है और मस्जिद भी नहीं है वहाँ किसकी ठकुराई काम कर रही है ? कबीरदासने इन सबको अस्वीकार कर दिया और उन लोगोंको भी अस्वीकार कर दिया जो ओख मूँदकर चलना ही पसन्द करते हैं, अपने आत्मारामको ही सगी बनाकर वे निकल पडे। बोले-ओ फकीर, तू अपनी राह चल। मन्दिरमें भी मत जा और मस्जिदकी ओर भी रुख न कर। काहेको टटेमे पड़ता है। तेरे राम-रहीमा, केसौ-करीमामें तो कोई भेद नहीं है, तेरे लिये तो दोनों एक ही हैं, एकमेवाद्वितीयम्।—

हमरे राम-रहीम-करीमा, केसौ अलह-राम सति सोई ।
 बिसमिल मेटि बिसभर एँकै, और न बजा काई ॥
 इनके काजी मुला पीर पगवर, रोजा पछिम-निजाजा ।
 इनके पूरब-दिसा देव-दिज-पूजा, ग्यारसि-गग-दिवाजा ॥
 तुरुक मगीति देहुरे हिन्दू, दुहूठा राम खुदाई ।
 जहाँ मसीति-देहुरा नाही, तहाँ काफो ठकुराई ॥
 हिंदू तुरुक दोऊ रह तूटी, फ़ूटी अरु कनराई ।
 अरध उरव दसहूँ दिस जित तित पूरि रत्ना राम राई ।
 कहै कगीरा दास फ़कीरा, अपनी राहि चलि भाई ।
 हिंदू तुरुकना करता एँकै, ता गति लग्यी ना जाई ॥

(रु० प्र० पद ५८)

परन्तु कबीर यहीं नहीं रुके। अगर 'अल्लाह' शब्द मुस्लिम धर्मका प्रति-निधित्व करता है और 'राम' शब्द हिन्दू सस्कृतिका तो वे इन दोनोंको सलाम कर देनेको तैयार हैं। आखिर कोई न कोई शब्द तो व्यनहार करना ही पड़ेगा। पर अगर अरबी फ़ारसीके शब्द मुस्लिम सस्कृतिकी और सस्कृत-हिन्दीके शब्द हिन्दू सस्कृतिकी अवश्य याद दिला देते हैं तो कबीरदास इस बुद्धि भेदको भी पनपने नहीं देते। ये वेद और कुरानक भी आगे बढकर कहते हैं—

गगन गरजे तहाँ सदा पावस झरे, होत झनकार नित बजत तूरा ।

वे-कतौनकी गम्य नाही तहाँ, कहे कबीर कोइ रमै सूरा ॥

—शब्दा० पृ० १०४

इस प्रकार सब बाहरी धर्मचारोंको अस्वीकार करनेका अपार साहस लेकर कबीरदास साधनाके क्षेत्रमें अवतीर्ण हुए। केवल अस्वीकार करना कोई महत्त्वकी बात नहीं है। हर कोई हर किसीको अस्वीकार कर सकता है। पर किसी बड़े लक्ष्यके लिये बाधाओंको अस्वीकार करना सचमुच साहसका काम है। विना उद्देश्यका विद्रोह विनाशक है, पर साधु उद्देश्यसे प्रणोदित विद्रोह शरका धर्म है। उन्होंने अटल विश्वासके साथ अपने प्रेम-मार्गका प्रतिपादन किया। हठियों और कुसस्कारोंकी विशाल वाहिनीसे वह आजीवन जूझते रहे, प्रलोभन और आघात,—काम और क्रोध भी उनके मार्गमें ज़रूर खड़े हुए होंगे, उन्होंने उनको असीम साहसके साथ जीता। ज्ञानकी तलवार उनका एक-मात्र साधन था, इस अद्भुत शमशेरको उन्होंने

क्षण-भरके लिये भी रुकने नहीं दिया। वह निरन्तर इरुसार बजती रही, पर शीलके स्नेहको भी उन्होंने नहीं छोड़ा,—यही उनका कवच था। इन कुसस्कारों, रूढियां और बाह्याचारके जजालोंको उन्होंने वेदवर्दीके साथ काटा। वे शिर हथेलीपर लेकर ही अपने भाग्यका सामना करने निकले थे। क्षण-भरके लिये भी उनकी भवे कुचित नहीं हुई, माथेपर बल नहीं पडा। वे सच्चे शूरकी भांति जूझते ही रहे।

एक ममसेर इरुसार बजती रहै
 खेल कोड सूरमा सन्त झेले।
 काम-दल जीति करि क्रोध पैमाल करि
 परम सुख धाम तहँ सुरति मेले ॥
 नालसे नेह करि ज्ञानको खज ले
 आय चौगानमे गेल खेले।
 कह कबीर मोड सन्त जन सूरमा
 नीमशो साप करि करम ठल ॥—(शब्दा० पृ० १०६)

जो लोग कबीरदासको हिन्दु मुस्लिम वर्माका सर्व-वर्म-समन्वयकारी सुवारक मानते हैं वे क्या कहते हैं, ठीक समझमें नहीं आता। कबीरका रास्ता बहुत साफ था। वे दोनोंको शिरसा स्वीकार कर समन्वय करनेवाले नहीं थे। समस्त बाह्याचारोंके जजाला और सस्कारोंको विध्वंस करनेवाले क्रान्तिकारी थे। ममबोता उनका रास्ता नहीं था। इतने बड़े जजालको नहीं कर सकनेकी क्षमता मामूली आदमीमें नहीं हो सकती। कमजोर स्नायुका आदमी इतना भार बर्दाश्त नहीं कर सकता। जिसे अपने मिशनपर अस्पृष्ट विश्वास नहीं है वह इतना अमम साहसी हो ही नहीं सकता।

कबीरने जो ममस्त बाह्य-आचारोंको अस्वीकार करके मनुष्यको साधारण मनुष्यके आसनपर और भगवानकी 'निरपेक्ष' भगवानके आसनपर बठानेकी साधना की थी। उसका परिणाम क्या हुआ और भविष्यमें वह उपयोगी होगा या नहीं, यह प्रश्न उतना महत्त्वपूर्ण नहीं। सफलता महिमाकी एक-मात्र कसौटी नहीं है। आज शायद यह सत्य निविड भावसे अनुभव किया जानेवाला है कि सबकी विशेषताओंको रखकर मानव-मिलनकी साधारण भूमिका नहीं तैयार की जा सकती। जातिगत, कुलगत, धर्मगत, सस्कारगत, विश्वासगत, शास्त्रगत, सम्प्रदायगत बहुतेरी विशेषताओंके जालको छिन्न करके ही वह आसन तैयार

भिया जा मक्कना है जहाँ एक मनुष्य दूसरेसे मनुष्यकी हैसियतसे ही मिले । जज तक यह नहीं होता तज तक अशान्ति रहेगी, मारामारी रहेगी, हिन्सा-प्रतिस्पर्धा रहेगी । कबीरदासने डम मही साधनाका तीज योगा या । फल क्या हुआ, यह प्रश्न महत्त्वपूर्ण नहीं है । आधुनिक कालके श्रेष्ठ कवि रवीन्द्रनाथने विश्वासपूर्वक गाया है कि जायनमे जो पूजाये पूरी नहीं हो सकी है, म ठीक जानता हू कि वे भी खो नहीं गई है । जो फूल गिलनेसे पहले ही पृथ्वीपर झड गया है, जो नदी मरुभूमिक मार्गमे ही अपनी वारा खो गई है,—मैं ठीक जानता हू कि वे भी खो नहीं गई है । जीवनम आज भी जो कुछ पीछे छूट गया है, जो उठ अदूर रह गया है, म ठीक जाता हू, वह भा व्यर्थ नहीं हो गया है । मेरा जो भविष्य है, जो अज भी अछूता है, वे मय तम्हारी वीणाके तारमे बज रहे हैं, मैं ठीक जानता हू, ये भी खो नहीं गये ह—

जीवने यत पूजा हलो ना सारा,
जानि हे जानि ताओ हय नि हारा ।

ये फुल ना फुटित झरेठे वरणीते
ये नदी मरुपथे हारालो वारा ।

जानि हे जानि ताओ हय नि हारा ।

जीवने आजो गाहा रयेठे पिछे,
जानि हे जानि ताओ हय नि मिछे,

आमार अनागत आमार अनाहत
तोमार वीणा तारे बाजिछे ता'रा ।

जानि हे जानि ताओ हय नि हारा ।—गीतांजलि

कबीरदासकी साधना भी न तो लोप हो गई है, न खो गई है । उनका पक्का विश्वास था कि जिसके साथ भगवान् हैं और जिसे अपने इष्टपर अखण्ड विश्वास है उसकी साधनाको करोड़ करोड़ काल भी झन्झोरकर विचलित नहीं कर सकते—

जाके मन विश्वास है, सदा गुप्त है संग ।
कोटि काल झकझोरही, तऊ न हो चित भंग ॥

(स० क० सा० पृ० १८४)

१४—भगवत्प्रेमका आदर्श

दृग्मने देखा कि कबीरदासकी भक्ति-माधनाका त्रेत्रविन्दु प्रेमलीला है। किन्तु इस लीलाका जो स्वरूप कबीरदानने उपरिखत किया है वह बहुत व्यापक और विगल है। भक्तस्वामी प्रियाने लिये भगवानस्वामी प्रेमिकने जो चुनरी सँवार की है वह मामूला चुनरी नहीं है और उस चुनरीको वारण कर सक्नेको क्षमता भी मामूला नहीं है। स्वयं प्रिय ही जिनपर प्रसन्न होकर यह चुनरी ठे ठे वही इसे पा सकता है, वही इसे पहन सकता है,—यमेवैव गणुते तेन लभ्य। कमी है वह चुनरी ? अष्टप्रहरहपी आठ हाथकी वह बनी है और पचतत्त्वस्वामी पँच रंगसे रंगी है। समूचा काल उसका उपादान है और समस्त जड़ प्रकृति उसकी प्रकाशिका। कालके महान उपादानसे जो आवरण पड़ तैयार हुआ है उसको प्रकाशित करनेके लिये पचतत्त्व ही उपयुक्त रंग है। कालका अनादि-अनन्त प्रवाह सचमुच ही तब तक व्यक्त नहीं हो सकता था जब तक पचतत्त्वोंके द्वारा हम उसपर लकीर खींच खींचके न देख लें। काल अविभाज्य है, अगणनीय है, अपरिमेय है। ठोस पदार्थोंके द्वारा ही हम उसका विभाग करते हैं, गणना करते हैं, परिमाण करते हैं। सूर्य-चन्द्र-तारा-ग्रह-उपग्रह आदि बाह्य वस्तुओंसे और मन बुद्धि आदि अन्त करणसे हम इस अविभाज्य कालका रस ग्रहण करते हैं। इसीलिये काल रूप सनातन तत्त्वसे बनी हुई चुनरीके लिये पचतत्त्व (और इसीलिये लक्षणासे जड़ प्रकृति) ही उपयुक्त रंग है। इस महान शृंगार-पटके आँचलमे सूर्य, चन्द्र और तारोंकी जगमग ज्योतिका जलना ही उपयुक्त चित्रण सामग्री है। इस अन्नादि अनन्त चुनरीको किसीने ताने बानेपर नहीं बना—यह सनातन है, चिर नवीन है। पियाने प्रसन्न होकर जिस प्यारीको यह शृङ्गार-शाटिका दान की हो, वन्य है वह प्रियतमा, बलिहारी है उस प्रियतमकी !—

चुनरिया हमरी पियाने सँवारी,
कोई पहिरै पियकी प्यारी ।
आठ हाथकी बनी चुनरिया
पँच रँग पटिया पारी ।

चाँद सुफ़ज जामे ओँचल-लागे
जगमग जोति उजारी ।
बिनु ताने यह बनी चुनरिया
दान फ़रीर बलिहारी ॥

यह विशाल परिधेय पट जिस धियन दिया है वह अजीब मस्तमौला है । प्रेम उसका सस्ता भी नहीं है, हल्का भी नहीं है । वह जिसे यह चुनरी देता है उससे बहुत बड़ा भूख्य चुका लेता है । इस चुनरीको पा लेना सौभाग्यकी बात है पर इसको सँभालके रख लेना हिम्मतका काम है । भक्त गण साक्षी हैं कि इस महान् दानको जिस व्यक्तिने हल्का और मुलायम समझा वह हमेशाके लिये गया । भगवान्‌ने जिस उपहारको प्रेमपूर्वक दिया हो उसे हल्का और मुलायम समझना गलती है । प्रेम जितना ही महान् होगा, उसकी कीमत भी उतनी ही अधिक होगी । यह तो माला नहीं है, यह उमकी तलवार है । भक्तने भावुकताके आवेशमें जिसे भगवान्‌की वरमाला समझा वह वस्तुतः तलवार निकली । आगके समान है उसकी ओँच, वज्रके समान है भार । “ हे प्रिय, तुमने कलकी सुहाग-रातको यह क्या रख दिया है ? प्रात कालीन तरण प्रकाश उद्यो ही खिडकीके रास्ते तुम्हारी शय्यापर पड़ा त्यों ही मने देखा कि यह तो तुम्हारी तलवार है । चहकते हुए सबैरेके पक्षीने व्यग क्रिया—‘ नारी तूने क्या पाया है ? ’ ना, यह माल्य नहीं है, नैवेद्यका पात्र नहीं है, गन्धजलकी डारी भी नहीं है,—अरे, यह तो तुम्हारी भयकर तलवार है ।—

ए तो माला नय गो, ए ये
तोमार तरवारि ।
जखे ओठे आगुन येन
वज्र हेन भारी— “
ए ये तोमार तरवारि ।
तरण आलो जानला बेये
पड़लो तोमार शयन छेये
भोरैर पाखी झुवाय गेये
‘ की पैलि तुइ नारी । ’
नय ए माला, ए आला ।

गवजलेर झारी,
ए ये भीषण तरवारि ।

(—रवीन्द्रनाथ 'खेया')

भक्त हैरान है ! इसे ही क्या दान कहत हैं ? हाय, हाय, उसे वह कहीं छिपा कर रखे ? स्थान कहाँ है ? 'हाय प्यारे, यही क्या तुम्हारा दान है ? मे शक्ति हीना नारी, मुझे क्या यह आभूषण शोभेगा ? तुम्हारे इस प्रमोपहारको रखनेका एकमात्र स्थान तो यह कलेजा है, पर वहाँ रखती हूँ तो प्राण व्यथासे कौप उठते ह, तो भी हे प्रियतम, तुम्हारे इस दानको मे इसी कलेजेसे लगा लूंगी । मैं जान गई कि तुम निसे प्यार करते हो उनके लिये फूलनी सेज नहीं देते, दु खना घँटीला मार्ग दिखा देते हो—

ताड तो आभि भावि बसे

ए कि तोमार दान ?

कोयाय एरे छुकिये राखि

नाइ ये हन स्थान ।

ओ गो ए कि तोमार दान ?

शक्तिहीना मरि लाजे

ए भूषण कि आमार साजे ?

राखते गेले बुकर माझे

व्यथा ये पाय प्राण ।

तवु आजि बइव बुके

एइ वेदनार मान ।

निये तोमारि एइ दान ।

—(रवीन्द्रनाथ खेया)

सो उस मस्ताने प्रियतमकी चुनरी सँभालना भी कठिन काम है । रणरगका मतवाला सुरा दो-चार क्षणके लिये जूझता है । क्योंकि उसे जो उपहार मिला है, वह स्थूल है, इस उपहारका प्रेम भी स्थूल है । भले वह उपहार राज्य हो, यश हो, मान हो, वन हो । सतीका सप्राम एकाध पलक रहता है, वह भी प्रलोभनोंसे जूझती है पर जो वर्म उसे उपहारके रूपमें मिला है वह सूक्ष्म होनेपर भी सासारिक है । परन्तु भक्तका सप्राम दिन-रातका जूझना है, मन और प्राणकी बाजी है । जरा-सी बाग ढीली हुई कि वह गिरा । उसका गिरना

भी मामूली गिरना नहीं है क्योंकि वह आत्ममानसे गिरता है और धरतीपर टुम्ड़े टुम्ड़े होकर चिखर जाता है। इस भयकर ज्वलाकार कारण यह है कि भक्तको जो प्रेम उपहारसे मिला है बहुत वैशकीमत है। उसका दाम चुकाना मामूली बात नहीं है। वह फूलोकी सेज नहीं है, काँटोंका जंगल है। यह दिन-गनका ज्वलना, दुरा और विपत्तिम बढ़ते जाना, त्रिमी त्रिलेका ही काम है—

साधका खेल तो तिमट बेडा मती
गती ओ सूरकी चाल आगे।
सूर धमसान है पलरु दो-चारका
मती धमसान पल एक लागे।
साध मप्राम है रैन-दिन ज्वलना
देह पर्जनतका काम भाई।
कहैं हवीर दुक वाग डीली कर

(शब्दा० पृ० १०८)

तो क्या भगवान्‌का पेम किसी एक व्यक्तिको ही प्राप्त होता है ? और लोग क्या निपट ठूठ ही हैं ? नहीं, भला कौन है जिसे प्रियतमने गनातन काल-तत्तकी बनी हुई और पच-तत्तकी रंगी हुई चुनरी नहीं दी है ? दी तो है लेकिन सँभालके रख सँभनेवाला ही उसका प्रिय है, उस महान् शृङ्गार-पटका मूथ समझ सकनेवाला धन्य है। बाकी लोग जो उसे मलिन कर रहे हैं, छिन्नभिन्न कर रहे हैं, हसका माने बैठे हैं, वे दयनीय नहीं तो क्या है ? प्रियतम तो परापर पुकार रहा है,—शब्दकी चोटसे बेध रहा है,—कौन है जो उसके गाय आनन्दकलिको निकट पड़ेगा। चुनरी गन्दी हो गई है या गन्दी हो रही है, इस बातसे मनमें पश्चाताप भी तो हो। अरे ओ सुहागिन, साहय जब तुझे अपनायेगा तो तेरी चुनरीका दाग भी मिट जायगा। क्यों नहीं तू एक बार उसकी पुकारपर चल पड़ती !

भोरी चुनरीमें परि गयो दाम पिया।
पौच तत्तकी बनी चुनरिया, सोरह सँ बंद लागे जिया।

यह चुनरी मेरे मेकेते आई, ससुरामे मनुओं खोय दिया ।
मलि मलि बोई दाग न टूट, ब्यानको मायुन लाय पिया ।
कहै कवीर दाग न छूटि ह, न साहेव अयनाय लिया ॥

(श-श० पृ० ५८)

इस प्रकार कबीरदासने इस प्रेमलीलाको एक बहुत ही प्रीयवती भावनाके रूपमें देखा है । एक बार जिसे भगवानकी रहस्य-कैलिकी पुकार सुनाई दे जाती है वह व्याकुल हो उठता है, प्रिय मिलनक लिये उसकी तडपन संसारके किमी और विरह व्यापारसे तुलनीय नहीं हो सकती । चण्डिका विरह प्रसिद्ध है पर वह भी तो रातनी समाप्तिके बाद प्रियके साथ आत्माकीसे मिल जाती है । रामना विरह इतना आसान नहीं है । एक बार जो इस विरहकी चपेटमें आ गया वह कुछ ऐसा बेहाल हो जाता है कि कहकर प्रकाश करना कठिन है । उसे न दिनमें मुख मिलता है न रातमें, न नयनेमें, न जाग्रतमें, न स्वप्न, न छाँहमें । राम विरहका मारा भक्त हर एक सावकसे पूछना रहता है कि वह कहाँ है, उसका प्रियतम कितना है, उसके पास जानेका रास्ता क्या है ? वह ठीक उस विरहसे ऊँची विरहिणीके समान होता है जो हर-एक राहगीरसे पूछती रहती है कि उसके प्रियतम का आश्रम ?—

चक्री विछुरी रेणिकी, आइ मिली परभाति ।
जे जन विछुरे रामसे, ते दिन मिले न राति ॥
वासरि सुख ना रेण सुख, ना सुख सपुनमाहि ।
कवीर विछुर्या रामसू, ना सुख धूप न छाँह ॥
विरहिन ऊभी पयसिरि, पथी बूझे वाड ।
एक मनद कहि पीनका, कज रे मिलैगे आड ॥

(क० प्र० पृ० ७-८)

रवीन्द्रनाथने जिसे तलवार कहा है, कबीरदासने उसीको वाण कहा है । यह वाण जब प्रियतमके कमानसे खिचकर भक्तके कलेजेमें लगता है तो अन्तर छेद देता है, कलेजेको बेव देता है । जब तक यह वाण लग नहीं जाता तब तक कुछ पता नहीं चलता और जब एक बार कलेजेमें घुस जाता है तो उसकी पीड़ा तक ऐसी मधुर लगती है, कुछ इतनी मनभावनी होती है कि भक्त बार बार प्रार्थना करता है कि हे प्रिय, इस वाणसे फिर छेद दो, फिर इस हृदय-देशको

कुरेद डालो । अग तो वह वाण ही जीवन-आधार हो जाता है । उसके बिना भक्तको मल नहीं पडती—

कर कमान सर साधि करि, रचि जु मार्या माहि ।
भीतरि भिया सुमार है, जीये कि जीव नाहि ॥
जब हूँ मारा खेचि करि, तप मै पाई जाणि ।
लागी चोट मरम्मकी, गई कलेजा छोंड़ि ॥
जिसि सरि मारी काटिह, नो सर भेरे मन बरया ।
तिहि सरि अजहूँ मारि, सर विनु नचुपाऊँ नही ॥

(क० प्र० पृ० ८-९)

परन्तु वह प्रिय बडा ही कठोर है, और जेमा कि रवीन्द्रनाथने कहा है, ' दु खकी रातका राजा है, अन्वकार-भरे महलका बादशाह है ! ' उसे सुख और साज पमन्द नहीं, अपनी प्रेयसीके धिरहमें वह रस लेता है । वह सहज ही नहीं गलता । जब दु खकी ओंवी आती है, तब विजलीकी ऋङ्कके साथ वह भक्त प्रेयसीके छिन्न-भिन्न शयन-कथापर आ विराजमान होता है । उसका गस्ता दुःखका है, सकटका है, जूझनेका है, त्रिपत्तिका है ! भोले हैं वे, जो दु खकी इस महिमाको नहीं समझते । अरे कौन है वहाँ पड़ा हुआ ? खोल दे दरवाजा, जल्दी खोल दे । मांगल्य-शाखकी गम्भीर व्यनसे मुखरित कर दे दिगन्तको । घनी कालं गहरी रातमें अँधेरे घरका वाक्शाह आया है । देख, ओंधीसे दिशाये समाच्छन्न हैं, आकाशमें बारम्बार वज्र-निनाद हो रहा है, विजली झलक रही है । रीच ले आ, बिछा दे अपनी फटी गूदड़ी । अचानक दुःखकी रातका मेरा राजा ओंधीके साथ आ पहुँचा है !

ओरे दुयार खुले दे रे—

वाजा शय बाजा ।

गभीर राते एसेछे आज

ओंधार घरेर राजा ।

वज्र डाके शून्य तले

विद्युतेरि झिलिक झले

छिन्न शयन टेने एने

आडिना तोर साजा ।

झङ्गेर साथे हठात् एलो
दु ख--रातेर राजा ।

(रवीन्द्रनाथ खेया)

सो कनीरदासका प्रियतम भी ' दुःखका राजा है ' । उसका रास्ता देखते देखते आँखोंमें झाई पड़ गई है, नाम पुकारते पुकारते जीभमें छाले पड़ गये हैं । रातदिन आँखोंसे निझर झर रहा है, मुखसे पपीहेकी रट लगी हुई है,—विरह-वेदनासे सारा शरीर म्लान हो गया है । यह अजब ' दुःख ' है । लोग इसे सासारिक पीड़ा समझते हैं जो केवल कष्ट देती है, केवल अभावका प्रतिनिधित्व करती है । लेकिन यह पीड़ा अभाव-जन्य नहीं है, भाव-स्वरूप है । लोग जिसे दु ख कहते हैं उससे यह भिन्न है । यह जो परमप्रियतमके लिये रो-रोकर आँखें लाल हो गई हैं, वह भी एक अनिर्वचनीय आनन्द है,—प्रेमकषायित नयनोन्मी अद्भुत खमारी है । प्रियतम इस दुःखके मार्गसे आता है, रोदन ही उसका मार्ग है । वह हँसीको पसन्द नहीं करता, सुप्तको नहीं चाहता और इसलिये इस रोदनमें भक्त एक प्रकारका उल्लास अनुभव करता है, क्योंकि यह प्रेमीके मिलनका मार्ग है—

अखड़ियों झोंई पबी, पन्य निहारि निहारि ।
जीभड़ियों छाला पड़्या, राम पुकारि पुकारि ॥ २२ ॥
नेना नीझर लाइया, रहट बसें निस-जाम ।
पपीहा ज्यू पिव पिव करौ, कबच मिलहुगे राम ॥ २४ ॥
अखड़ि प्रेम-कमाइयों, लोग जाणे दु खड़ियों ।
सोंई अपणै कारणे, रोई रोई रत्तड़ियों ॥ २५ ॥
हँसि हँसि कन्त न पाइये, जिनि पाया तिन रोइ ।
जो हँसि हँसि ही हट्टि मिलै, तो न दुहागिनि कोइ ॥

(क० प्र०, पृ० ९)

एक बार अगर वह प्रियतम मिल जाय तो भक्त उसे नेनोम इस प्रकार बन्द कर ले कि न वह और किसीको देख सके और न प्रियतमको ही किसी औरके देखनेका मौका मिले—

नेना अन्तरि आपनूं, ज्यूँ हौं नैन झँपेउं ।
नों हौं देखौं औरकूं, ना तुझ देखन देउ ॥ (क० प्र०, पृ० १९)

कबीरदासके प्रेमके आवर्ष सती और शूर हैं। जो प्रेम पदपदपर भावविह्वल कर देता है, जो मन और बुद्धिका मन्थन कर मनुष्यको परवश बना देता है, जो उत्तम भावावेश प्रेमीको हृत्चेतन बना देता है वह कबीरदासका अभीष्ट नहीं है। भक्तका सग्राम शूरके सग्रामसे भी बढ कर है, सतीके आत्मबलिदानसे भी श्रेष्ठ है। परन्तु फिर भी यदि भक्तके आत्मबलिदानकी झलक कहीं दिख सकती है तो वह सती और शूरमें ही दिखती है—

साधु सती औ सूरमा, इन पठतर कोउ नाहि ।

अगम-पंथकौं पग धरें, डियैं तो कहीं समाहि ॥ ३१ ॥

साधु सती ओ सूरमा, कबहुँ न फेरै पीठ ।

तीनों निकसि जो बाहुँरै, ताको मुँह मति दीठ ॥ ३९ ॥

दूटै बरत अकाससो, कौन सकत है झेल ।

साधु सती अरु सूरका, आनी ऊपर खेल ॥ २६ ॥

(स० क० सा०, पृ० २२०)

परन्तु फिर भी,

आगि ओंच सहना सुगम

सुगम खड्गकी धार ।

नेह निबाहन एकरस

महा कठिन व्यवहार ॥ ६१ ॥

यह जो एकरस प्रेम है उसका निबाहना सचमुच कठिन व्यवहार है। एकरस अर्थात् जो भावावेशसे उफन न पड़े और विरह-तापसे बैठ न जाय, जो क्षणिक आवेशमें ज्ञान और कर्मकी मर्यादा न तोड़ दे और चिर-अभ्याससे जड़ आवर्तन-का रूप न ग्रहण कर ले। रवीन्द्रनाथने इस बातको बहुत ही कवित्वपूर्ण और मार्मिक भाषामें व्यक्त किया है। “ हे नाथ जो भक्ति तुम्हें लेकर अधीर हो उठती है, क्षणभरमें नृत्य गीत-गानेके रूपमें विह्वल हो उठती है, भावोन्मादसे मत्त बना देती है, वह ज्ञानको लोप कर देनेवाली (बेहोश कर देनेवाली) उफनती हुई फेनमयी भक्तिकी मद-धारा मुझे नहीं चाहिये। हे नाथ, मुझे शान्त भक्तिरूपी स्निग्ध अमृतसे भरा हुआ मगल कलश दान करो,—मंगल कलश, जो ससारके भवन-द्वारपर सुशोभित हो,—जो भक्ति मेरे समस्त जीवनमें गूढ और गभीर भावसे फैल जायगी, समस्त कर्मोंमें मुझे बल देगी, और हमारी उन सारी

शुभ चष्टाओको भी आनन्द और कृत्याणसे भर देगी जो त्रिफल हो चुकी हैं । यह शान्तरस-भक्ति मुझे नव प्रेमोम तृप्ति देगी, समस्त दुःखोंमें कृत्याण देगी, समस्त सुखोंमें दाहहीन दीप्ति भर देगी । भावनावेगके औंछुओंको रोककर मेरा चित्त परिपूर्ण अमत्त और गम्भीर बना रहेगा—

ये भक्ति तोमारो लये बर्य नाहि माने,
मुहूर्ते विहल हय नृत्य-गीत-गाने,
भावोन्माद मत्तताय, सेइ ज्ञानहारा
उद्भ्रान्त उन्डलफेन भक्ति मद-द्वारा
नाहि चाहि नाय । दाओ भक्ति शान्तिरस,
स्निग्ध-मुधापूण करि, सगल म्लम
ससार भवन-द्वारे । य भक्ति-अमृत
समस्त जीवन मोर हडबे विस्तृत
निगूड गभीर, सर्व र्मे दिबे बल
व्यर्थ शुभ चेटारे ओ करिबे सफल
आनन्दे कृत्याण । सर्व प्रेमे दिबे तृप्ति
सर्व दुःखे दिबे क्षेम, सर्व सुखे दीप्ति-
दाहहीन । सम्बरिया भाव-अश्रुनीर
चित्त रबे परिपूर्ण अमत्त गभीर ।

(—नैवेद्य)

सो, करीरदामका आदर्श भी वही है जो क्षण भरके भावावेशमें उफन नहीं पड़ता । यह प्रेम मृत्युमा प्रेम है, मिर उतार कर ही किसीको इस प्रेम मंदिरमें बैठनेका अधिकार मिलता है । अगम्य है इसका मार्ग, अगाध है इसका विस्तार । यह खालाका घर नहीं है जहाँ, मचलने और रोनेसे ही फरमाइश पूरी हो जाती है—

कभीर यहु घर प्रेमका, खालाका घर नाहि ।
सीम उतारै हाधि करि, सो पसे घर माहि ॥
कभीर निज घर प्रेमका, मारग अगम-अगाध ।
सीम उतारि पगतलि धरै, तब निकटि प्रेमका स्वाद ॥

(क० प्र०, पृ० ६९)

और फिर जिस सतीने हाथमें सिंदूरकी डिविया ले ली है, उसे मृत्युका क्या डर ?—सिंदूरकी डिविया अर्थात् अचल सौभाग्यकी निशानी। भक्त भी भगवानके साथ अनन्त मिलनका अभिज्ञान जब पा जाता है तो उसे मृत्युका कोई डर नहीं रहता। मृत्यु उसके लिये आनन्द है क्योंकि इसी दरवाजेसे 'पूरण परमानन्द' का आगमन होता है। मृत्यु तो सीमाके अन्तका नाम है और सीमाका अन्त पाना ही असीमकी गोदमें जाना है। इसलिये भक्त मृत्युकी परवा तो करता ही नहीं, उन्टे उसे चाहता है, कब वह दिन आयेगा जब वह मृत्युके द्वारा इस सीमाको पार कर जायगा और असीम 'पूरण परमानन्द' में मिल जायगा।—

अब तो ऐसी हूँ पडी, मनकारु चित कीन्ह ।
मरने कहा डराइये, हाथि स्वंधौरा लीन्ह ॥
जिस मरनैयै जग डरै, सो मेरे आनन्द ।
कर मरिहूँ कब देखहु, पूरण परमानन्द ॥

(क० प्र०, पृ० ६९)

मृत्यु ? मरना भी कोई चाहिगा ? पर भक्त मरना चाहता है, आत्म-हत्या नहीं। सांसारिक विषयी व्यक्ति आत्म हत्या करते हैं। मृत्यु तो संग्राममें होती है, जौहरसे होती है,—जहाँ मरनेवाला अपनेको बलिदान कर देता है। जो अपनेको बलिदान नहीं करता वह रोग-शोकका शिकार हो जाता है। उसकी मृत्यु या तो परवश-मृत्यु है या आत्म घात है। पर जो प्रतिक्षण अपनेको उत्सर्ग कर सका है, जो सदा सिर हथेलीपर लिये हुए है, वह जीता भी है तो मृत्युका वरण करके। अपना आपा ही तो सीमा है, बधन है, भय है। उसको त्याग देना और बलिदान कर देना ही मृत्यु है। सो कबीरदास इसी मृत्युको वरण करनेकी सलाह देते हैं। मरके मरना तो कोई मरना नहीं हुआ, क्यों न जीते ही मरा जाय ? अपने आपको उत्सर्ग कर देना ही जीते हुए मर जाना है।—

हैं तोहि पूछौं हे सखी, जीवत क्यों न मराइ ।

मूवा पीछे सत करै, जीवत क्यू न कराइ ॥ क० प्र० पृ० ७१

कवीरके प्रेमका जो आदर्श है वह कविवर रवीन्द्रनाथके प्रेम-लीलाके आदर्शसे मिलता सा है। रवीन्द्रनाथने बहुत अधिक सरस और कवित्वपूर्ण भंगीमें जिस प्रेमलीलाको व्यक्त किया है उसे कबीरने सरल, फलकबाना और अर्थपूर्ण

भाषामें व्यक्त किया है। रवीन्द्रनाथ काव्यके सुकुमार मध्यमका सहारा लेते हैं और नये-पुराने, बाहरके ओर धरके शत-शत विचारोंकी सहायतासे जिस भाव-जगत्का निर्माण करते हैं वह अपूर्व है, परन्तु, यह कहनेमें कोई हर्ज नहीं कि उनके आदर्शका वसा ही रूप कबीरमें मिल जाता है। कभी कभी रवीन्द्रनाथकी कवितायें और अलोचनायें कबीरकी समझनेमें सहायक होती हैं। फिर भी दोनोंमें एक बड़ा भारी भेद है जो जानना कबीरके पाठकके लिये बड़े कामकी चीज है। ऊपर हमने कई जगह लक्ष्य किया है कि कबीर और रवीन्द्रनाथ दोनोंकी ही धारणा है कि भगवान् भक्तके साथ प्रेम-केलिके लिये व्याकुल रहते हैं। पर रवीन्द्रनाथकी अधिकांश कविताओं और गीतियोंमें भक्तके पास भगवान् स्वयं अभिमार करते हैं जब कि कबीरकी अधिकांश कविताओंमें भक्त ही अभिमारिकाका कार्य करता है। ऐसा तो नहीं है कि रवीन्द्रनाथमें एक जगह भी भक्त अभिसारके लिये नहीं निकला हो और कबीरमें कहीं भी भगवान्ने अभिसारका प्रयत्न न किया हो, पर सब मिलाकर कबीरका भक्त अभिसारका प्रयत्न स्वयं करता है जब कि रवीन्द्रनाथका भगवान् निरन्तर अभिसार करता रहा है।

कबीरदासकी भक्त-रूपी अभिसारिका भारती सजाकर प्रियको छूँदने निकल पड़ती है, प्रेम-रसके दूँदसे उसकी चुनरी भीजती रहती है—

भीजे चुनरिया प्रेमरस-दूँदन ।
भारती साजके चली है सुहागिनि,
प्रिय अपनेको टँडन ।

—शब्दा० पृ० ९

या फिर वह प्रियमतकी ऊँची अटारी तक पहुँचकर भी लजासे भरी ऊपर जानेमें सकोच करती है, पर उसको एक गये होते हैं, यदि हिम्मत करके चढ़नेके लिये पैर भी उठाती है तो सीढियोंपर ही लड़खड़ा जाती है, अग अग यहरा जाते हैं, चित्त भयसे कॉप उठता है,—अनाड़ी नारी इस महीन ऊँचे सँकरे मार्गकी याह ही नहीं पा पाती। और फिर भी यह कैसा मोह है, सद्गुरुके उपदेशसे उसका अन्तरपट ज्यों ही खुलता है त्यों ही ऊँचाई गायब हो जाती है, दूरी दूर हो गई होती है और एकानका पता ही नहीं रहता। प्रियतम हृदयमें ही कबीरा करते पाये जाते हैं—

पिया मिलनकी आस रहो कबलौ खरी ।
 ऊँचे नहि चढि जाय मने लज्जा भरी ॥
 पाँव नहीं ठहराय चढ़ गिर गिर परहँ ।
 फिरि फिरि चढहुँ सम्हारि चरन आगे धरहँ ॥
 अग अग यहराय तो केहि विधि डरि रहँ ।
 करम-कपट भग घेरि तो भ्रममें परि रहँ ॥
 बारी निपट अनारि तो झीनी गैल है ।
 अटपट चाल तुम्हार मिलन कस होइ है ॥
 छोरो कुमति-बिकार सुमति गहि लीजिये ।
 सतगुरु शब्द सम्हारि चरन चित दीजिये ॥
 अन्तरपट दे खोल शब्द उर लाव री ।
 दिल-बिच दास कबीर मिलै तोहि बावरी ॥

(क० वच० पृ० १४१-२)

या फिर वह ऊँचे रपटीले मार्गपर व्याकुल भावसे निकल पड़ती है, पाँव डगमगाते रहते हैं, मन लाज ओर कुलकी मर्यादाओंके भंग होनेके भयसे मशक बना रहता है, नैहरकी बसनेवाली होनेके कारण वह नैहरमें प्रिय-समागम,—सो भी अभिसारकी लज्जा नहीं छोड़ पाती, ऊँचे महलको देखकर भौंचक्का रह जाती है । परन्तु सद्गुरु रूपी दूती मिलते ही प्रियतमके गले लगना उसके लिये सम्भव हो जाता है—

मिलना कठिन है कैसे, मिलौंगी प्रिय जाय ।
 समझि-सोचि पग वरौं जतनसे, बार बार डिग जाय ।
 ऊंची गैल राह रपटीली, पाँव नहीं ठहराय ॥
 लोक लाज कुलकी मरजादा, देखत मन सकुचाय ।
 नेहर-नास वसौं पीहरमें, लाज तजी नहि जाय ॥
 अधर-भूमि जहँ महल पियाका, हमप चढ्यौ न जाय ।
 धन भइ बारी पुरुष भये भोला, सुरत झकोरा खाय ॥
 दूती सतगुरु मिले बीचमें, दीन्हों भेद वताय ।
 साहब कबीर पिया सो भेट्यौ, सीतल कठ लगाय ॥

(क० वच० पृ० १३६-७)

और सही बात तो यह है कि उसे नैहर अच्छा लगता ही नहीं। उसके-
प्रियतमकी नगरी,—जहाँ दिन रात मोती बरसते हैं, जहाँ प्रियकी मधुर मुरलीसे
दिगन्त मुखरित होता रहता है, जहाँ बिना मूलके कमल-पुष्पों और अन्य नाना-
विव कुसुमोंके सौरभसे वायुमण्डल व्याप्त रहता है,—वह नगरी उसको खींचती
रहती है। वह अभिसार-यात्राको निकलनेकी बाध्य है। चातक जैसे चोंदकी ओर
टक लगाये रहता है वैसे ही वह उस प्रेममयी नगरीको ताकती ही रह जाती है—

मोतिया बरसे रौरे देसवां दिन-राती ।

मुरली-शब्द सुनि मन आनद भयौ, जोति बरै दिन-राती ।

बिना मूलके कमल प्रगट भयौ, फुलया फुलत भौति भौती ।

जसे चकोर चद्रमा चितवै, जेसे चातक स्वाती ॥ इत्यादि ।

(शब्दा० पृ० ७२)

उस परम अद्भुत नगरीके सामने क्या नैहर भा सकता है ? कैसी है वह
नगरी ? परम रमणीय उस अद्भुत नगरीके भीतर कोई पहुँच नहीं पाता। चोंद
और सूर्य भी, पवन और पानी भी वहाँ जानेमें असमर्थ हैं। इस अगम
अगोचर स्थानतक प्रियतमके पास विरहकी मारी प्रियाका सदेश भी तो नहीं
कोई पहुँचा सकता। हाय सखी, कोई उपाय क्यों नहीं सोचती, किस प्रकार
उस अजब सासुरेको जाऊ ? लेकिन कनीरदामको निश्चित रूपसे मालूम है कि
उस नगरीको पहुँचा दे सकनेवाला साथी एक सद्गुरु ही है। वही वहाँतक
प्रियाको पहुँचा सकता है। नहीं तो प्रियतमका मिलन स्वप्नमें भी असम्भव
ही है।

नहरवा हमकों नहीं भावै ।

साईकी नगरी परम अति सुदर, जहाँ कोई जाइ न आवै ।

चाद-पुरुज जहँ पवन न पानी, को सन्देश पहुँचावै ?

दरद यह सोई, को सुनावै ?

आगे चलौ पन्थ नहीं सुझै, पीछे दोष लगावै ।

केहि विधि ससुरे जाँव मोरी सजनी, विरहा जोर जनावै ।

विषै-रस नाच नचावै ।

बिन मतगुरु अपनो नहिं कोई, जो यह राह बतावै ।

कहत कबीर सुनो भाई साधो, सपने न प्रीतम पावै ।

तपन यह जियकी बुझावै ।— (शब्दा० पृ० ७२)

सिर्फ यात्राके विषयमें ही कबीरदासकी परिकल्पित भक्ताभिसारिका स्वयं क्रियात्मक प्रयत्न करती हो, यह बात नहीं है। प्रियके शान्त स्निग्ध क्रोडमें शयन करनेका प्रयत्न भी पहले उसीकी ओरसे होता है—

एँ खियों अलसानी, पिया हो सेज चलो ।

खभ पकरि पतग अस डौले, बोलै मधुरी बानी ।

फूलन सेज बिछाइ जो राख्यौ, पिया बिना कुम्हलानी ।

धीरै पॉव धरौ पलगापर, जागत ननैद जिठानी ।

कहत कबीर सुनो भाई साधो, लोक-लाज बिछलानी ॥

(क० वच० १६६)

परन्तु रवीन्द्रनाथकी भक्त प्रेयसी और तरहकी है। उसके जीवन-देवता उसके हृदयमें अपनी प्यास बुझानेके लिये आते हैं—

ओहे अन्तरतम,

मिटेछे कि तव सकल पियाष

आसि' अन्तरे मम ।

अरी ओ अभागिन, तुझे कैसी नीद आ गई थी जो प्रियतमके पास आनेपर भी जाग नहीं सकी। वह निस्तब्ध रात्रिमें आया था, हाथमें उसके वीणा थी, तेरे स्वप्नमें उसने गम्भीर रागिणी बजा दी और तू सोती ही रही ? हाय, जागके देखती हूँ, दक्खिनी हवाको पागल बनाकर उसका सौरभ अन्धकारमें व्याप्त होकर प्रवाहित हो रहा है ! हाय, क्यों मेरी रात व्यर्थ चली जाती है, उसे नजदीक पा कर भी नहीं पा सकती, क्यों उसकी मालाका स्पर्श मेरे वक्षःस्थलको नहीं लगने पाता—

से ये

पाशे ऐसे बसेछिल, तसु जागिनि ?

की घूम तोरे पेयेछिल हतभागिनि ?

एसे छिल नीरव राते, वीणाखानि छिल हाते,

स्वपन माझे बाजिये गेलो, गभीर रागिणि ।

जेगे देखि दखिन-हाओया पागल करिया ।

“ शयनके सिरहाने अभी अभी प्रदीप बुझा या, जाग उठी थी प्रभातकालके फोकिलके शब्दोंसे । अलस चरणोंसे (चलकर) रिडकीपर आकर बैठी थी, निश्चिन्त केशोंमें नई माला धारण की थी । ऐसे ही समयमें जब कि रास्ता अरुणधूसर हो उठा था, राजमार्गपर तरुण पथिक दिखाई दिया । सोनेके मुकुटपर उषाका आलोक पड़ रहा था । गलेमें सुसज्जित मुक्ताकी माला शोभ रही थी । कातरकण्ठसे पुकारा—‘ वह कहीं है, कहीं है वह ? ’—व्यग्र चरणोंसे मेरे ही द्वारपर उतर कर ।—मैं लाजसे मरी जा रही थी, कैसे कहूँ कि ‘ ऐ बटोही, वह मैं ही हूँ, वही तो मैं हूँ । ’”

“ गोधूलि वेला थी, तब भी प्रदीप नहीं जला था, मैं माथेमें मोनेकी धन्वी पहन रही थी,—हाथमें मोनेका दर्पण लेकर खिडकीपर अपने मनसे क्वचरी पोंच रही थी । ऐसे ही समय सध्या दूर पथपर वह ऋण नयनोंवाला तरुण पथिक रथपरसे उतरा । फेन और पसीनेके कारण घोड़े व्याकुल हो रहे थे । उसके बन्नों और भूषणोंमें धूल भर गई थी । कातरकण्ठसे उसने पुकारा—‘ वह कहीं है ? वह कहीं है ? ’—क्लान्त चरणोंसे हमारे ही द्वारपर उतर कर । हाथ मैं लाजसे मरी जा रही थी । कैसे कहती कि ‘ ऐ थके बटोही, वह मैं ही हूँ, वही तो मैं हूँ । ’

“ फागुनकी रात है । घरमें प्रदीप जल रहा है, दक्षिणी हवाके झकोरे छातीपर लग रहे हैं, यह मुकरा सारिका (मैना) मोनेके पिजडेमें सो रही है, द्वारके सामने द्वारपाल भी सो रहा है । सोहागघर दूरके धुएँसे दूर हो उठा है । अगुदनी गन्धसे सारा शरीर व्याकुल है, मोर-पखी कलुकी मने पहन ली है । दूर्वाके समान उस श्यामल वक्षस्त्रलपर आंचल दींचकर विजन राजमार्गके उस पार देख रही है । दूरमें उतरकर खिडकीके नीचे गठ गई हूँ । अकेली बैठी तीन पहरतक उदास भावसे गान गाती रही हूँ—‘ हताश पथिक, वह मैं ही तो थी, वही तो मैं थी । ’” —‘ अष्ट-लक्ष ’ से अनुवादित ।

इसी प्रकार

“ हे सुन्दर, तुम आज प्रातःकाल आये थे, अरुणवर्णका पारिजात तुम्हारे हाथोंमें था । सारी नगरी निद्रित थी, रास्तेमें कोई पथिक भी नहीं था । तुम

अपने सोनेके रथपर अकेले ही चले गये । सिर्फ एक बार रुक भेरी खिड़कीकी ओर तुमने करुणाभरी आँखोंमें देखा था,—हाँ, सुंदर, तुम आज प्रातः काल आये थे । ”

सुंदर, तुमि एसेछिले आजि प्राते,
अरुण वरण पारिजात लये हाते ।
निद्रित पुरी, पथिक छिल ना पथे,
एका चलि गेले, तोमार सोनार रथे,
वारेक धामिया मोर वातायनपाने

चेये छिले तव करुण नयन पाते ।

सुन्दर, तुमि एसेछिले आजि प्राते । (गीतांजलि)

स्पष्ट ही कबीर और रवीन्द्रनाथकी प्रेम लीला एक ही प्रकारकी होनेपर भी दोनोंमें मौलिक भेद है । एककी केलि यत्न-साधित है, दूसरेकी स्वय-प्राप्त, एक अपनेको और अपने पौरुषको भूलकर भी भूलना नहीं जानता, दूसरा अपनेको और अपनी शक्तिको स्मरण रखकर भी भूल जाता है, एक क्रियात्मक है, दूसरा भावनात्मक, एकका मार्ग साधनाका मार्ग है, दूसरेका मार्ग सौन्दर्यका, एक करनेमें विश्वास करता है दूसरा होनेमें, एक प्रधान रूपसे सन्त है, दूसरा कवि । परन्तु दोनोंमें प्रियसे मिलनेकी व्याकुलता है, दोनोंका ही प्रियतमके प्रेमपर अखण्ड विश्वास है, दोनोंमें ही आत्मार्पणका भाव प्रबल है, दोनों ही प्रिय-प्राप्तिको सहज लभ्य व्यापार नहीं मानते, दोनोंका ही प्रेम हिस्टीरीक प्रेमोन्मादका परिपथी है । दोनों ही कठोर साधना और कोमल भक्तिके हामी हैं । अद्भुत है वह प्रेम, अपूर्व है उसकी ज्योति । दुःख और द्वन्द्वसे परे, भ्रम और भ्रान्तिसे अतीत यह एकरस प्रेम ही परम पुरुषार्थ है—

गगनकी गुफा तहँ गैबका चोदना, उदय औ ' अस्तका नाम नाही ।

दिवस औ रैन तहँ नेक नहि पाइये, प्रेम परकासके सिंधुमाही ।

सदा आनंद दुख-द्वंद्व व्यापे नहीं, पूरनानंद भरपूर देखा ।

सर्म औ ' भ्राति तहँ नेक आवे नहीं, कहेँ कबीर रस एक पेखा ॥

(शब्दा० पृ० १०५)

१५—रूप और अरूप, सीमा और असीम

इस ससारमें सब सब-कुछ चंचल है। चलता जा रहा है, चूँकि कुछ भी स्थिर नहीं है, सब कुछ गतिशील, परिवर्तनीय, इसीलिये संसारकी स्थिति है। यह एक अद्भुत विरोधाभास है, पर है मत्य। समस्त ससरणशील वस्तुओंकी अस्थिरताके होते हुए भी यह सार 'है'। इसका 'है'—भाव ही सूचित करता है कि सब चलमान वस्तुओंके भीतर एक अविचल सत्य प्रतिष्ठित है। "जो लोग अनलकी साधना करते हैं और जो सत्यकी उपलब्धि करना चाहते हैं, उन्हें बार बार यह बात मोचनी होती है, कि वे चारों ओर जो कुछ देख और जान रहे हैं वही चरम सत्य नहीं है, वह अपने आपमें स्वतन्त्र नहीं है, और किसी भी ढंग वह अपने आपको पूर्ण रूपसे प्रकाश नहीं कर रहा है। यदि ये वस्तुएँ ऐसी होती तो वे सभी स्वयंभू रूपप्रकाश होकर स्थिर हो रहतीं। पर उनमें एक अन्तहीन गति है, अविराम अस्थिरता है। ये जो अन्तहीन गतिके द्वारा अन्तहीन स्थितिको निर्देश कर रहे हैं वही हमारे चित्तका परम आश्रय और चरम आनन्द है। अतएव, आध्यात्मिक साधना कभी भी रूपकी साधना नहीं हो सकती। यह समस्त रूपोंके भीतरसे चंचल रूपके वधनको अतिक्रम करके, बुध सत्यकी ओर चलनेकी चेष्टा करती है। जोई भी इन्द्रियागोचर वस्तु जो अपनेको ही चरम या स्वतंत्र समझनेका भान करती है वस्तुतः वैसी नहीं है। साधक इस भानके आवरणको भेद करके ही परम पदार्थको देखना चाहता है, यदि नाम रूपका यह आवरण चिरन्तन होता तो वह भेद नहीं कर सकता था। यदि वे अविद्यात भावसे नित्य प्रवहमान होकर अपने आपको ही सीमा तोवते हुए न चलते, तो उन्हें छोड़कर और किसी बातके लिए मनुष्यके मनमें स्थान भी न होता। तब उन्हें ही सत्य समझकर हम निश्चिन्त हो रहते, तब विज्ञान और तत्त्वज्ञान इन सारे अचल प्रत्यक्ष सत्योंके नीपण शृंखलमें बंधकर एकदम मूक और मूर्छित हो रहते। इनके पीछे कुछ भी न देख सकते। किन्तु ये सारे खण्ड-वस्तु-समूह केवल चल ही रहे हैं, कतार बाँधकर खड़े होकर रास्ता नहीं रोके हुए हैं, इनीलिए हम अखण्ड सत्यका और अक्षय पुरुषका साधन पाते

हैं।” (रवीन्द्रनाथ) इसीलिये भक्त जन रूप-मात्रके इस निरन्तर गतिशील पहलुपर बराबर जोर देते रहते हैं। मध्ययुगमें वैराग्योद्देशके लिये इस पहलुका अधिक उपयोग किया गया है। कबीरने भी किया है, पर कबीरका लक्ष्य उस समस्त अस्थिर ह्पराशिके भीतरसे स्थिर अरूप-तत्त्वकी ओर इशारा करना अधिक रहा है। वे दस दिनके लिए अपनी नौबत बजाकर इस नगर और गलीको हमेशाके लिये नमस्कार करके चल देनेवालोंको उस परमतत्त्वकी बार बार याद दिला देते हैं जो स्थिर है, शाश्वत है, रूपातीत है—

कबीर नौबत आपणी, दिन दस लेहु बजाइ ।
ए पुर-पाटन ए गली, बहुरि न देखै आइ ॥ १ ॥
जिनके नौबति बाजती, मैगल बंधते बारि ।
एके हरिके नौब बिन, गये जन्म सब हारि ॥ २ ॥

(क० प्र०, पृ० २०)

इस विनाशकी दुनियामें एक-मात्र अविनाशी तत्त्व राम है। नष्ट होते हुए शरीरको अगर बचा लेना है तो इसी अविनाश्वरकी शरण जाओ। नहीं तो इस कच्चे कुम्भके फूटनेमें क्या देर है ?

कबीर यह तन जात है, सकै तो लेह बहोड़ि ।
नागे-हाथ ते गये, जिनके लाख-करोड़ि ॥ ३७ ॥
यहु तन काचा कुभ है, चोट चहुँ दिस खाइ ।
एक रामके नौब बिन जदि तदि परल जाइ ॥ ३८ ॥

(क० प्र०, पृ० २४)

परन्तु रूप और सीमा चाहे जितनी भी क्यों न हो हम उनके द्वारा ही अरूप और असीमको पानेकी ओर उन्मुख होते हैं। साधक रूप और सीमाकी सहायतासे उस शाश्वत अरूप और परिव्याप्त असीमको देखता है जो उसका चरम प्राप्तव्य है। कवि शब्द और अर्थका सहारा लेकर अरूप रसकी ओर उन्मुख होता है, कलाकार रेखा और रंगकी सहायतासे रूपातीत भावकी अभिव्यक्ति करता है, और भक्त भी नाम और रूपकी सीढियोंसे ही उठकर अनाम और अरूप परम तत्त्वकी झोंकी पाता है। यह जो रूप है और सीमा है वह वस्तुतः जड़ प्रकृतिका ही विकार है। इसीको कबीरदास ‘गुण’ कहते हैं। जो वस्तु गुणातीत है वह गुणोंमें नहीं है ऐसा नहीं कह सकते। यह धोखा है,—भ्रम है।

जो लोग 'गुण' को 'निर्गुण' का उल्टा समझते हैं। 'गुण' 'निर्गुण' की विरोधी वस्तु नहीं है। निर्गुण परमात्मा क्या गुणोंमें नहीं है? यह जो धरती, आकाश, चन्द्र, तारा दिखाई दे रहे हैं वे क्या त्रिगुणात्मिका प्रकृतिके विकार नहीं हैं और इसीलिये क्या ये परमात्मासे खाली हैं? यह हो नहीं सकता। सोये लोग भोले ही हैं। जो गुणको निर्गुणके बाहर या विरुद्ध मानते हैं,—वस्तुतः गुणसे हम निर्गुणका अनुमान करते हैं। दूसरे शब्दोंमें रूप हमें अरूपकी ओर उन्मुख कर देता है, सीमा असीमका सन्धान बतताती है। गुण और निर्गुण केवल तारतम्य बतानेके मास्ते हैं। जब कहा जाता है कि भगवान् गुणमय नहीं हैं तो उसका मतलब यही होता है कि जो रूप और सीमा हमें दिख रही है वह अरूप और असीमको ठीक ठीक प्रकार नहीं कर सकती,—भगवान् न तो वह रूप ही है न उसके समान ही है। वह उससे अतीत है, परे है। 'निर्गुण' कहनेसे यदि यह अर्थ लिया जाता है कि वह दृश्यमान गुणोंसे बाहर है या विरुद्ध है, तो भ्रम है, बोखा है—

सतो, बोखा कासूं कहिये
 गुणमै निरगुण निरगुणमें गुण,
 बाट छोड़ि वयू बहिये ?
 अजरा अमरा कयै सब कोई,
 अलख न कथणा जाई,
 नाहि सरप, बरण नहिं जाकै,
 घटि घटि रह्यौ ममाई ॥
 प्यड-ब्रह्मड छोडि जे कथिये,
 कहै कवीर हरि सोई ॥

(क० प्र० पद १८०)

इसीलिए वह अद्भुत अनुपम रामतत्त्व कहकर बताया नहीं जा सकता। उसको सगुण-निर्गुणमेंसे किसी भी नामसे पुकार नहीं सकते पर न तो वह सगुण वस्तुमें अविद्यमान है और न निर्गुण वस्तुद्वारा असूचितव्य। वह इन झमेलोंसे ऊपर है। सीमा रूपदर्शी बुद्धि उस तत्त्वको नहीं समझ सकती। उसके मुँह

भी नहीं, माथा भी नहीं, रूप भी नहीं और रूपक भी नहीं। वह सूक्ष्म से भी सूक्ष्म है, पुष्प सौरभसे भी महीन है, वह अनुपम तत्त्व है।

जाकेँ मुँह माया नहीं, नाहीं रूपक-रूप।

पहुप ग्रासथे पातला, ऐसा तत्त अनूप ॥ ४ ॥

(क० प्र० ६०)

‘ मुँह और माया ’ तो उपलक्षण मात्र है। वह समस्त रूप और रीमा-ओसे परे है, वह मन और बुद्धिके भी परे है। उममें मोह नहीं, माया ममता नहीं। ऐसे ही निर्मम निर्मोही पियासे प्रेम-श्रीझाका व्रत भक्तोंने लिया है। ऐसे प्रियके मिलनकी क्या आशा की जा सकती है। भक्त रूपी नारी चाहे जैसी भी विरहिणी हो,—दिनका भोजन और रातकी नींद खो चुकी हो, गहेलियोंकी रग-केलि और ज्ञातिकुलको धन-सम्पत्तिको छोड़ आई हो, वन-खण्डमें तपस्या कर चुकी हो और पानीसे निकली हुई मछली-सी तड़प रही हो, पर प्रियतम क्यों गलेगा ? वह तो आकार और रूपके परे है, मोह और ममतासे ऊपर है, कामना और लालसाके अगम्य है, वह मिलेगा कैसे ? ममताभरी प्रियसीका निर्ममसे मेल क्या, लालसाकी आँखोंसे अलखका लखाव क्या, रूपसे अरूपका सामंजस्य क्या ? यह रहस्यमय प्रेम-केलि चल कैसे सकती है ? कबीरदास जवाबमें कहते हैं कि मिर्फ एक ही मार्ग है। तुम्हारे शरीरमें जो जड़ विकार हैं,—जो इन्द्रिय, मन और बुद्धि हैं,—उनको तुमने गलतीसे अपना मान लिया है। ये उस निर्मोहीकी ओर उन्मुख करनेके साधन हैं, परन्तु यदि उन्हें ही तुमने उनके मिलनेका साधन भी समझा है तो यह भ्रम है। तुम्हारे इस नाशमान् ससीम जड़ विकारके बीच एक स्थिर शाश्वत चेतन है, वह इन्द्रिय-मन और बुद्धिके अगोचर है, वही उस निर्मोही प्रियतमका वास्तविक आकर्षण-स्थान है। निर्मोही प्रियतमको पाना चाहते हो तो शरीर, मन और बुद्धिको अपना स्वरूप समझनेके रूपमें जो पर्दा पड़ा हुआ है उसे दूर करो। एक बार इस भ्रमके पर्देको दूर कर दो तो देखो कि प्रियतम दूर नहीं है, तुम्हारी रग रगमें भीना हुआ है। उस भ्रमके पर्देमें भी है, पर दीखता तब तक नहीं जब तक तुम उस पर्देको अपना स्वरूप समझते रहो। भगवान् और भक्तमें अब भेद नहीं रह सकेगा। युग-युगान्तरसे ये दोनों एकमेक होकर रह रहे हैं—

कैसे जीवगी विरहिनी
 पिया तिन कीज कौन उपाय ।
 विवस न भूक रेनि नहि सुख हे,
 जैसे फलियुग जाम (?)
 खेलति फाग छौंढि चलु सुदर
 तजु चलु धन औ वाम ॥
 वन खंड जाय नाम लै लावौ
 मिलि पिधमे सुख पाय ।
 तलफन मीन बिना जल नसे,
 दरसन लीजै वाय ।
 तिन आकार रूप नहि रेखा
 कौन मिलेगी आय ।
 अपना पुरुष समुझि ले सुन्दरि
 देखो तन निरताप ।
 सव्द महपी जिव पिय बूझौ
 छौंढौ भ्रमकी टेक ।
 कहैं कनीर और नहि दूजा
 जुग जुग हम तुम एक ॥

(शब्दा० पृ० १०-११)

यही कारण है कि कबीरदासने कामना और लालसाके त्यागको भक्तिभी आवश्यक शर्त रखी है । जब भगवान लालसा और कामनाकी पहुँचके बाहर ही हैं तो क्यों न पहले कामना और लालसाको खत्म किया जाग ? जब तक मनमें कहीं भी कामना है, तक शरीर और मनके प्रति आत्माभिमानका भ्रम है । यह भ्रम और भक्ति एक साथ नहीं रह सकती । सो कबीरदास पुकार पुकार कर कह गये कि सकामताका भ्रम छोड़कर ही भक्तिके मेदानमें आओ—

और कर्म सब कर्म हैं, भक्तिर्म्म निःकर्म ।
 कहै कबीर पुकारिकै, भक्ति करो तजि भर्म ॥

(क० वच०, पृ० ११)

निष्कर्म अर्थात् निष्काम । निष्काम भावसे ही भक्ति हो सकती है, क्योंकि, जिस देवताकी भक्ति करनी है वह स्वयं निष्काम है—

जब लागि भगति सकामता, तब लागि निर्फल सेव ।

कहै कबीर वै ब्यू मिलै, निहकामी निज देव ॥

फिर एक बार समस्त कामनाआका विमर्जन कर जब भक्तरूपी सुन्दरी अपने निर्गुण प्रियतमका दर्शन पाती है तो जो अद्भुत कौतुक उसे दिखाई देता है, वह कहकर समझानेकी बात नहीं है । वह प्रियतम समस्त ऋलकी सीमाओंके परे है इसलिये अनन्त है, समस्तदेशके परे है इसलिए असीम है । सो उस अनन्तका प्रकाश अपरम्पार है, सुन्दरी कुतूहल विस्फारित नयनोंसे उस अपूर्व नेजको देखती है,—मानों कोटि कोटि सूर्योंकी सेना खड़ी हो । वहाँ पाप नहीं, पुण्य नहीं, कर्म नहीं, आचार नहीं,—केवल अपरिमेय ज्योतिका प्रकाश, अगम्य अगोचर तेजकी शिलमिल ज्योति । ऐसे तेजोमय अद्भुत लोभमें प्रवेश करते ही भक्त भी हृद छोड़कर बेहद हो जाता है,—अपने स्वधर्म और स्वभावमें प्रतिष्ठित हो जाता है—

कबीर तेज अनंतका, मानों उगी सूरज सेणि

पतिसंग जागी सुदरी, कौतिग दीठा तेषि ॥

पारब्रह्मके तेजका, कैसा है उनमान ।

कहिबेकू सोभा नहीं, देख्या ही परमान ॥

अगम-अगोचर गमि नहीं, तहों जगमगै ज्योति ।

जहों कबीर बन्दगी, (तहों) पापपुन्य नहीं छोति ॥

और

हृदै छोंडि बेहद गया, हुआ निरन्तर बास ।

कंवल जु फूल्या फूल विन, को निरधै निज दास ॥

(क० प्र० पृ० १२)

जहाँ अनन्त कोटि सूर्य सतत प्रकाशमान हैं वहाँ केवल ज्योतिका ही निर्झर झर रहा है । उस स्थानपर अगर बिना फूले ही कमल फूलता रहे तो आश्चर्य क्या है ? फूलनेपर कमलके खिलनेका तो हिसाब वहाँ है जहाँ रोज अधकार आता है और कमलको अनफूला कर जाता है । पर जहाँ सूर्योंकी सेना खड़ी हो वहाँ कमलका सकोच कैसा ? सो यह कमल निरन्तर खिला रहता है । पिंडमें यही कमलशून्य

या सहस्रार" चक्र है और त्रह्णाण्डमे सर्वतोव्याप्त महा आकाश । यही परम अत्रकाश हृद छोड़कर वेहद होनेका उपयुक्त स्थान है । एक वाग पिडस्थित आकाश (शून्य) में जब भक्त पहुँच जाता है—जब इम विशाल शून्यमें स्नान करता है—तो प्रियतमके उस क्रीड़ा-हर्म्यम पहुँचना है जो सिर्फ योग और तप साधनेवाले मुनियोंको दुर्लभ है । यह प्रेम-लोक देवताओंमें भी दुर्लभ है क्योंकि वे हमके उपासक हैं, मुनियोंको अगम्य है क्योंकि कमीरदाम उन्हें योगमार्गके पथिक मानते थे, पीर-जौलियोंको भी दुर्लभ है, क्योंकि उनका मार्ग अल्लाह और रामकी भेद-बुद्धिमा है,—सबकी पहुँचके बाहर जो प्रेमलोक है वहाँ केवल भक्तको ही प्रवेश पानेका अधिकार है ।—भक्त जो राम नामका छत्रा हुआ है

सुर-नर-मुनिजन-ओलिया, ए मय खेल तीर ।

अलह-रामका गम नही, तहँ पर किया कमीर ।

(म० क० सा० पृ० ६४)

हृद छँड़ि वेहद गया, किया मुक्ति असनान ।

मुनिजन महल न पावई, तहँ किया विश्राम ॥

पिंजर प्रेम प्रकासिया, जाग्या जोत अनंत ।

ससा खूटा सुख भया, मिल्या पियारा कन्त ॥

(क० प्र० पृ० १३)

परन्तु इस दुनियाकी छोटी-मोटी रूपात्मक कल्पनाओंके आधारपर हम इस अनन्त तेजःपुज लोकका अनुमान भी नहीं कर सकते । साधारण मनुष्य उम पर्दा-नशीन नववर्षी भोंति है जो आधी खुली खिड़कीपर खड़ी हुई घुँघटके भीतरसे समारको देख रही है । उसके सामनेवाले रास्तेपर लोग आते रहते हैं, पर वह उसका कुछ भी उद्देश्य नहीं समझ पाती क्योंकि सम्पूर्ण देखनेका उसे अभ्यास नहीं है । ऋषिवर रवीन्द्रनाथ ठाकुरने इस भावको अपनी एक कवितामें मार्मिकताके साथ प्रकट किया है—

“तुम आधी खुली खिड़कीके किनारे खड़ी हो । नई बहू हो क्या ? शायद तुम खूबीवालेकी इन्तजारमें हो कि तुम्हारे द्वारपर आयेगा । तुम सामने देख रही हो कि बैलगाड़ी धूल उड़ाती हुई चली जाती है, भरी नौकायें हवाके जोरसे पालोंके सहारे बही जा रही हैं । मैं सोच रहा हूँ कि इस आधी खुली

खिड़कीपर धूँघटकी छायासे ढकी हुई तुम्हारी आखोंको यह विश्व कैसा दिख रहा होगा। निश्चय ही यह छायामय भुवन तुमने स्वप्नों (कल्पनाओं) से गढ़ा होगा, चायद किसी नानीके मुहसे सुनी हुई परियोंकी कहानीके सोंचेमें वह टला होगा,—जिसकी लोरियोंकी बनी कहानीका न आदि है, न अन्त है।

“मैं सोच रहा हूँ कि हठात् यदि एक दिन वैशाखके महीनेमें आँधीके झोंकोंसे नदी लाज-शर्म छोडकर बन्धनहीन सूने आसमानमें नाच उठे, यदि उसका पागल-पन जाग पड़े,—और फिर उस आँधीके झोंकोंसे तुम्हारे घरकी सभी जजीरें खुल जायें और तुम्हारी आँखोंपर गिरा हुआ धूँघट भी उड़ जाय,—और फिर यह सारा जगत् विद्युत्की हँसी हँस एक क्षणमें शक्तिका वैश वारण करके तुम्हारे घरमें घुस पड़े और आमने-सामने खड़ा हो जाय तो फिर कहाँ रहेगी यह आधे टँके हुए अलम दिवसकी छाया, वह खिड़कीवाली दृश्यावली और सपनों-सनी अपनी कल्पनासे गढ़ी हुई भाया ?—सभी उड़ जायेंगे।

“सोचता हूँ कि उस समय तुम्हारी धूँघट-रहित काली आँखोंके कोनेमें न जाने किसका प्रकाश काँपेगा, अपने आपमें खोये हुए प्राणोंके आनन्दमें अच्छा और बुरा सब कुछ डूब जायगा, और तुम्हारे वक्ष स्थलमें रक्तकी तरगिनी उत्ताल नर्तनसे नाच उठेगी। फिर तुम्हारे शरीरमें तुम्हारी यह ककण और किकिणी अपने चंचल कम्पनोंसे कौन-सा सुर बजा देंगी। आज तुम अपनेको आधी ढकी रख कर, घरके एक कोनेमें खडी होकर न जाने किस मायाके साथ इस जगत्को देख रही हो ?—मैं मन ही मन यही सोच रहा हूँ। तुम्हारे रास्तेमें आज जो आवागमन चल रहा है वह निरर्थक खेल-सा लग रहा है, छोटे दिनके कायोंकी छोटी छोटी हँसियों और रुलाइयों न जाने कितनी उठती हैं और विलीन हो जाती हैं !—मन ही मन यही सोच रहा हूँ।” (खेया)

यह जो कल्पनाके गढ़े हुए रूप-जगत्का व्यापार है वह तब तक हमारी दृष्टिको रोके हुए है जब तक अनन्त सत्यका प्रकाश एकाएक आकर उसे छिन्नभिन्न नहीं कर जाता। जिस दिन छिन्न-भिन्न कर जायगा उस दिन, कबीरदास गवाह हैं कि, जो हृदय दिखाई देगा वह एकदम विचित्र होगा। न वहाँ धरती होगी, न गगन, न पानी, न पवन, न तिथि, न वार, चाँद, न सूर्य, न हाट, न बाट, —सबसे परे सबसे विचित्र। वहाँ कालका बन्धन नहीं है, भूत भविष्यका

भेद नहीं है। जिसे हम लाख युग पहलेकी बात कहते हैं वह वहाँ प्रत्यक्ष है, जिसे हम कोटि कल्प बादकी बात कहेंगे वह वहाँ विद्यमान है, क्योंकि वहाँ अनन्त स्थिति है, शाश्वत सत्ता है। हमारी आँख क्षणिक और चलमान जगत्की परिभाषा इनमें ही देखनेकी अभ्यस्त हैं। उस अनन्त स्थितिशील देश-काल-व्यवच्छेदके अतीत परम प्रकाशमय लोकको हम क्या समझेंगे ?

चोंद नहीं स्रज नहीं, हता न वो ओंकार ।
 तहों कबीरा रामजन, को जाने ससार ॥
 वरती-गगन-पवने नहीं, नहीं होत तिथि-गार ।
 तब हरिके हरिजन हुते, कहै कमीर बिचार ॥
 जा दिन किरतम ना हता, नहीं हाट नहि वाट ।
 हुता कमीरा सन्त-जन, (जिन) देखा औषट घाट ॥
 नहीं हाट नहीं बाट है, नहि धरती नहि वीर ।
 असख्य युग परले गया, तब ही कहै कबीर ॥
 पवन नहीं पानी नहीं, नहि वरती आकास ।
 एक निरजन देवका, कबिरा दाम-खवाम ॥

(स० क० सा० पृ० ६३-४)

उस देशका सब कुछ विचित्र है। वह देश जहाँ बारह महीने वसन्त है, जहाँ प्रेमका निर्झर झरता रहता है, जहाँ अनन्त ज्योतिर्पुंजसे महा-अमृत बरसता रहता है, जहाँ जाति-कुल वर्णका विशेषत्व नहीं, जहाँ आकाश और धरतीमें अन्तर नहीं, जहाँ परब्रह्मकी आनन्द-केलि निरन्तर चल रही है, जहाँ अगम्यका दीपक बिना बाती और तेलके ही जल रहा है। अपूर्व है वह देश ! कबीर उसी देशके वासी थे :

हम वासी उस देशके, जहाँ बारह मास विलास ।
 प्रेम झरे विकसै कँवल, तेजपुज परकास ॥
 हम वासी उस देशके, जहवाँ नहि मास वसन्त ।
 नीझर झरे महा अमी, भीजत हैं सब सन्त ॥
 हम वासी उस देशके, जहाँ जाति बरन कुल नाहिं ।
 शब्द मिलावा होय रहा, देह मिलावा नाहिं ॥

हम वासी वा देशके, जहाँ पारब्रह्मका खेल ।
दीपक जरै अगम्यका, बिन बाती बिन तेल ॥

(स० क० सा० ६४-५)

यह कुछ उस प्रकारका देश है जिसे रवीन्द्रनाथने 'सब-पाया-है-का देश' कहा है। जहाँ दूरका राही एक रातके लिये आकर देख ही नहीं पाता कि इस 'सब-पा-लिया है-के देश' में क्या है।

एक रजनीर तरे हेथा, दूरेर पांथ एसे,
देखते ना पाय, कि आछे, इस सब पेयेछिर देशे ? (खेया)

कबीरने बताया है कि उस परिपूर्ण देशमें शब्द-मिलावा हो रहा है,—केवल भाव-रूपमें मिलन हो रहा है, देह रूपमें नहीं—'शब्द-मिलावा होय रहा, देह मिलावा नाहिं।' क्योंकि जड़ ससीम देह उस अनन्त भाव-लोकको बर्दाश्त नहीं कर सकती। प्रश्न है कि वहाँ जाकर क्या भक्त उस अनन्त ज्योति और अनन्त प्रेममें लोप हो जाता है ? क्या वह भी चिन्मय ब्रह्ममें विलय हो जाता है ? कबीरदास ऐसे अद्वैत-भावमें विश्वास नहीं करते। मिलन होगा यह ठीक है, पर भक्त जन वहाँ फिर भी साक्षी रूपसे वर्तमान रहेंगे। वे दो नहीं होकर रहेंगे, भगवानसे एकमेक होकर मिल जायेंगे; परन्तु उस मिलनके आनन्दको अनुभव करते रहेंगे। यह कैसे सम्भव है ? क्या एकमेक और पृथक सत्ता दोनों सम्भव हैं। लौकिक दृष्टिसे जो बातें असम्भव दिखती हैं ऐसी बहुतेरी बातें भगवानके विषयमें सम्भव हैं। फिर इसी 'द्वैताद्वैत-विलक्षण' भावको हम कैसे असम्भव मानें ? कबीर साक्षी हैं कि गगनमें गहरे गंभीर मेघ गर्जते रहते हैं, अमृतकी झड़ी लगी होती है और सन्तजन सिहर सिहर कर इस आनन्द-रसकी वर्षामें भीँजते रहते हैं, उस अन्तकी ज्योति छलकती रहती होती है और परम प्रेमके आनन्द-निकेतनमें गुरुकी कृपावाले सन्तजन पहुँच जाते हैं (अवश्यक ही, निगुरोंकी गति वहाँ नहीं है)—

गगन गरजै बरषै अमी, बादल गहर गंभीर ।
चहुँ दिसि दमकै दामिनी, भीजै दास कबीर ॥
गगन मंडलके बीचमें, तहवाँ छलकै नूर ।
निगुरा महल न पावई, पहुँचैगे गुरु पूर ॥

(स० क० सा० पृ० ६२)

गगन गरजि अमृत चवै, कदली कँवल-प्रकास ।
तहाँ कबीरा बन्दगी, कै कोई निज दास ॥

(क० प्र० पृ० १५)

कबीरदासका यह असीम प्रियतमका प्रेम साधनाके साहित्यमें अपूर्व है । हृदय-जीवका बेहदके प्रियसे मिलनमें एक ऐसा अलौकिक रस है जो अनुभव-द्वारा ही जाना जा सकता है । असीमकी सीमाके लिये व्याकुलताका प्रमाण यह सारा विश्व है । अगर असीम अपने आपमें ही सन्तुष्ट होता तो यह सीमाका सर्जन निरर्थक है । भक्त कबीरने इस इतने बड़े विश्व-व्यापारको निरर्थक नहीं समझा । उन्होंने उसे इस असीम प्रियतमकी लीलाका उन्मेषयिता माना है । सीमा माना उस असीमकी ओर उठी हुई उँगली है । वह असीमका पथ बताती है पर स्वयं उसीमें असीम नहीं माना जा सकता । इसीलिए प्रेम तो असीमका ही ठीक है, सीमाके प्रति आत्मक जीव उस पीरमें नहा पा सकता—

बेहद अगाथी पीव है, ये सज हृदके जीव ।
जे नर राते हृदमो, ते कबी न पावे पीव ॥
हममें पीव न पाइये, बेहदमें भरपूर ।
हृद बेहदकी गम लखे, तासो पीव हजूर ॥

(स० का० सा० पृ० २६२)

कबीरदामने इसीलिए सीमाको छोड़कर असीमका प्रेम किया था । उस असीमरूपी अनन्त अवकाजवान मैदानमें वे पैर फैलाकर सो रहे थे—

हृद छाड़ि बेहद गया, रहा निरन्तर होय ।
बेहदके मैदानमें, रहा कबीरा मोय ॥

(स० क० सा० पृ० २६३)

पैर फैलाकर सोने लायक अवकाश सीमाओं और बन्धनोंसे भरी दुनियामें ओर कहीं मिल सकता है ? कविवर रवीन्द्रनाथ अपनी 'सव-पा-लिया है-के डेज' वाली कविताम भी उल्लसित भावसे कहते हैं, "अहा, इस 'सव-पा-लिया-है-के डेज' के रास्तेमें ठेलमठेल और धक्काधुक्की नहीं है और बाजारमें यहाँ शोर-गुल नहीं है । भरे ओ कवि, यहीं तू अपनी कुटी बना ले । रास्तेकी धूल यही झाड़ दे, बोझा उतार दे, अपने सितारके तार ठीक कर ले और अपनी सारी खोज यहीं बन्द कर दे (क्योंकि तू अब अपने गन्तव्यपर पहुँच चुका है) ।

आज सौंझको यहीं पैर फैलाकर बैठ जा,—यहीं इस तारा-भरे आकाशके नीचे
' सब-पा-लिया-है-के देशम । ' ”

नाइक पये ठेलाठेलि, नाइक हाटे गोल,
ओरे कवि एइ खाने तोर, कुटीरखानि तोल ।
धुये फेल रे पयेर धुलो, नामिये दे रे बोझा,
वेंधे ने तोर सेतार खाना, रेखे दे तोर खोजा ।
पा छडिये बसू रे हेयाय, सारा दिनेर शेषे,
तारार भरा आकासतले, सब पेयेछिर देशे ॥ (खेया)

आखिर इस देशमें इतनी निश्चिन्तता क्यों है ? कोई इन वेहड़ी मैदानमें सो
रहता है और कोई पैर फैलाकर बैठ रहता और सितारके तार संभालने लगता
है, ऐसा क्यों ? यहाँ क्या मिलता है, क्या बीसता है कि इतने निश्चिन्त मनसे
सन्त और कवि जम जाते हैं ? क्योंकि

हरि-सगति सीतल भया, मिटी मोहकी ताप ।
निसि बामर सुख-निधि लव्या, जब अन्तरि प्रगठ्या आप ॥
तन पाया तन वीसरा, जब मन धरिया ध्यान ।
तपन गई सीतल भया, जब सुनि किया असनान ॥ (क० ग्र० पृ० १५)

इस असीम-अनन्त शून्यमें स्नान करते ही सारी व्यथा शान्त हो गई । सारे
कथन, सारा विज्ञापन यहाँ उपशमित हो गया । जिसे खोजा जा रहा था वह
जब स्वयं आ गया, तो ताप कैसा, चांचल्य कैसा ?

धिति पाई मन थिर भया, सतगुरु करी सहाइ ।

(स० ऋ० सा० पृ० ६८)

यह है कबीरकी असीम-सत्ताकी प्रीति। किन्तु कबीर परम सावधानीके साथ पाठकको शब्दोंकी सकीर्ण अर्थवत्ताकी याद दिला देते हैं। 'बेहद' शब्दमें साधारणत यह भाव है कि जो हृद् न हो या जो हृद्के विरुद्ध हो। यह बात आशिकरूपमें ही सत्य है। वस्तुतः सीमा असीमसे बाहर भी नहीं, उसीकी विरोधी भी नहीं है, उसका अभाव तो एकदम नहीं। इसलिए बेहदीकी प्रीति बताते समय कबीरदास सावधान कर देते हैं। इसे सीमाका विरोधी समझना गलत है, सीमाके विरुद्ध मानना भी गलत है। बेहद वह है जो सीमा और सीमाभाव दोनोंके परे है, जो हृद् और गैर-हृद् दोनोंके ऊपर है। इस हृद् बेहदसे अतीत वस्तुको ही भाषाकी सीमित शक्तिके कारण कबीरदास 'बेहद' कहते हैं। हृद् या सीमामें मनुष्य बसते हैं, बेहद या सीमाभावमें साधु बसते हैं, पर असल सन्त वह है जो इन दोनोंको छोड़ गया है, जो सीमातीत असीमका प्रेमी है—

हृदमें रहै सो मानवी, बेहद रहै सो साधु ।

हृद्-बेहद दोनों तजै, तिनका मता अगाधु ।

हृद्-बेहद दोनों तजी, अवरन किया मिलान ।

कहै कबीर ता दासपर, बारौ सकल जहान ॥

उपसंहार

कवीर धर्मगुरु थे। इसलिए उनकी वाणियोंका आध्यात्मिक रम ही आस्पाद्य होना चाहिये, परन्तु, विद्वानोंने नाना रूपमें उन वाणियोंका अव्ययन और उपयोग किया है। काव्य-रूपमें उसे आस्पादन करनेकी तो प्रथा ही चल पडी है। समाज-सुधारकके रूपमें, सर्व धर्म-समन्वयकारीके रूपमें, हिन्दू-मुस्लिम-ऐक्य-विधायकके रूपमें, विशेष सम्प्रदायके प्रतिष्ठाताके रूपमें और वेदान्त व्याख्याता दार्शनिकके रूपमें भी उनकी चर्चा कम नहीं हुई है। यों तो 'हरि अनन्त हरिकृपा अनन्ता, विविध भौति गावहि श्रुति-सन्ता' के अनुसार कवीर-कथित हरि कथाका विविध रूपमें उपयोग होना स्वाभाविक ही है, पर कभी कभी उत्साहपरायण विद्वान् गलतीसे कवीरको इन्हीं रूपोंमेंसे किसी एकका प्रतिनिधि समझकर ऐसी ऐसी बातें करने लगते हैं जो असंगत कही जा सकती हैं।

भाषापर कवीरका जबरदस्त अविचार था। वे वाणीके डिक्टेटर थे। जिस बातको उन्होंने जिस रूपमें प्रकट करना चाहा है उसे उसी रूपमें भाषासे कह-लवा लिया है,—बन गया है तो सीधे सीधे नहीं तो दूरेरा देकर। भाषा कुछ कवीरके सामने लाचार-सी नजर आती है। उसमें मानो ऐसी हिम्मत ही नहीं है कि इस लापरवाह फकड़की किसी फरमाइशको नाहीं कर सके। और अकह-कहानीको रूप देकर मनोग्राही बना देनेकी तो जसी ताकत कवीरकी भाषामें है वसी जहुत कम लेखकोंमें पाई जाती है। असीम अनन्त ब्रह्मानन्दमें आत्माका साक्षीभूत होकर मिलना कुछ वाणीके अगोचर, परकड़में न आ सकनेवाली ही बात है। पर 'बेहदी मैदानमें रहा कवीरा' में न केवल उस गम्भीर निगूड तत्त्वको मूर्तिमान कर दिया गया है बल्कि अपनी फकड़ाना प्रकृतिकी सुहर भी मार दी गई है। वाणीके ऐसे बादशाहको साहित्य-रसिक काव्यानन्दका आस्वाद करानेवाला समझें तो उन्हें दोष नहीं दिया जा सकता। फिर व्यग करनेमें और चुटकी लेनेमें भी कवीर अपना प्रतिद्वन्दी नहीं जानते। पंडित और काजी, अवधू और जोगिया, मुद्दा और मौलवी,—सभी उनके व्यंगसे तिलमिला जाते हैं। अत्यन्त सीधी भाषामें वे ऐसी गहरी चोट करते हैं कि चोट खानेवाला केवल धूल झाड़के चल देनेके सिवा और कोई रास्ता ही

नहीं पाता। इस प्रकार यद्यपि कबीरने कहीं काव्य लिखनेकी प्रतिज्ञा नहीं की तथापि उनकी आध्यात्मिक रसकी गगरीसे छलके हुए रससे काव्यकी कटोरीमें भी कम रस इकट्ठा नहा हुआ है।

हिन्दी साहित्यक हजार वर्षोंके इतिहासमें फ़रीद जैना व्यक्तित्व लेकर कोई लेखक उत्पन्न नहीं हुआ। महिमामें यह व्यक्तित्व केवल एक ही प्रतिद्वन्दी जानता है, तुलसीदास। परन्तु तुलसीदास और कबीरके व्यक्तित्वमें बड़ा अन्तर था। यद्यपि दोनों ही भक्त थे, परन्तु दोनों स्वभाव, सम्कार और दृष्टिकोणमें एकदम भिन्न थे। मस्ती, फ़क़ड़ाना स्वभाव और मन कुटमो झाउ-पटकार चल देनेवाले तेजने कबीरको हिन्दी साहित्यका अद्वितीय व्यक्ति मन दिया है। उनकी प्राणियोंमें सब कुच्छको छार उनका सर्वजयी व्यक्ति व विराजता रहता है। उसीने कबीरकी प्राणियोंमें अनन्य-साधारण जीवन-रस भर दिया है। फ़रीदकी प्राणोंका अनुकरण नहीं हो सकता। अनुकरण करनेकी सनी चेष्टाएँ व्यर्थ सिद्ध हुई हैं। इसी व्यक्तित्वके कारण कबीरकी उक्तियों श्रोताको उल्लसक आकृष्ट करती हैं। इन्हीं व्यक्तित्वके आकर्षणको सहृदय समालोचक खेला नहीं पाता और रीक्षक फ़रीदको 'कवि' कहनेमें सन्तोष पाता है। ऐसे आकर्षक वक्ताको 'कवि' न कहा जाय तो और कहा क्या जाय? परन्तु यह भूल नहीं जाना चाहिए कि यह कविरूप घल्लुमें मिली हुई वस्तु है। कबीरने कविता लिखनेकी प्रतिज्ञा करके अपनी वाते नहीं कही थी। उनकी छन्दोयोजना, उक्तिवचित्र्य और अलंकार-विधान पूर्ण-रूपसे स्वाभाविक और अयत्नसाधित हैं। काव्यगत रुचियोंके स तो वे जानकार थे और न फ़ायल। अपने अनन्य-साधारण व्यक्तित्वके कारण ही वे सहृदयको आकृष्ट करते हैं। उनमें एक और बड़ा भारी गुण है जो उन्हें अन्यान्य सन्तोंसे विशेष बना देता है। यद्यपि कबीरदास एक ऐसे विराट् और आनन्दमय लोककी बात करते हैं- जो साधारण मनुष्योंकी पहुँचके बहुत ऊपर है और वे अपनेको उस देशका निवासी बताते हैं जहाँ वारह गहने वसन्त रहता है, निरन्तर अमृतकी झड़ी लगी रहती है (दे० ऊपर पृ० २११) फिर भी, जैसा कि एवेलिन अण्डरहिलने कहा है, वे उस आत्मविस्मृतिकारी परम उल्लासमय साक्षात्कारके समय भी दैनन्दिन-व्यवहारकी दुनियाको छोड़ नहीं जाते और साधारण मानव-जीवनको भुला नहीं देते। उनके परमजबूतीके साथ बरतीपर जमे रहते हैं, उनके महिमा-मन्वित और आवेगमय त्रिचार, पराबर धीर और

सजीव बुद्धि तथा सहजभाव द्वारा नियंत्रित होते रहते हैं जो सन्चे मरमी कवियोंमें ही मिलते हैं। उनकी सर्वाधिक लक्ष्य होनेवाली विशेषताएँ हैं— (१) मादगी और सहजभावपर निरन्तर जोर देते रहना, (२) बाह्य धर्माचारोंकी निर्मम आलोचना और (३) सब प्रकारके विरागभाव और हेतुप्रकृतिगत अनुसवित्ताके द्वारा सहज ही गलत दिखनेवाली बातोंको दुर्भ्य और महान् बना देनेकी चेष्टाके प्रति वैर-भाव (इसके लिए कबीरवाणीके ७५, ७८, ८० और ९० नम्बरके पद देखिए)। इसीलिए वे साधारण मनुष्यके लिए दुर्भ्य नहीं हो जाते और अपने असाधारण भावोंको ग्राह्य बनानेमें सदा सफल दिखाई देते हैं। कबीरदासके इस गुणने सैकड़ों वर्षसे उन्हें साधारण जनताका नेता और साथी बना दिया है। वे केवल श्रद्धा और भक्तिके पात्र ही नहीं प्रेम और विश्वासके आस्पद भी बन गये हैं। सब पूछा जाय तो जनता कबीरदासपर श्रद्धा करनेकी अपेक्षा प्रेम अधिक करती है। इसीलिए उनके सन्तरूपके साथ ही उनका कविरूप बराबर चलता रहता है। वे केवल नेता और गुरु नहीं हैं, साथी और मित्र भी हैं।

कबीरने ऐसी बहुत-सी बातें कहीं हैं जिनसे (अगर उपयोग किया जाय तो) समाज सुधारमें महायत्ना मिल सकती हैं, पर इसीलिए उनको समाज-सुधारक समझना गलती है। वस्तुतः वे व्यक्तिगत साधनाके प्रचारक थे। समष्टि-वृत्ति उनके चित्तका स्वाभाविक धर्म नहीं था। वे व्यष्टिवादी थे। सर्व-धर्म-समन्वयके लिए जिस मजबूत आवारकी जरूरत होती है वह वस्तु कबीरके पदोंमें सर्वत्र पाई जाती है, वह बात है भगवान्के प्रति अहेतुक प्रेम और मनुष्यमात्रको उसके निर्विशिष्ट रूपमें समान समझना। परन्तु, आजकल सर्वधर्मसमन्वयसे जिस प्रकारका भाव लिया जाता है वह कबीरमें एकदम नहीं था। सभी धर्मोंके बाह्य आचारों और आन्तर सस्कारोंमें कुछ-न-कुछ विशेष देखना और सब आचारों सस्कारोंके प्रति सम्मानकी दृष्टि उत्पन्न करना ही यह भाव है। कबीर इसके कठोर विरोधी थे। उन्हें अर्थ-हीन आचार पसन्द नहीं थे, चाहे वे बड़ेसे बड़े आचार्य या पैगम्बरके ही प्रवर्तित हों या उच्चसे उच्च समझी जानेवाली धर्म-पुस्तकसे उपदिष्ट हों। बाह्याचारकी निरर्थक पूजा और संस्कारोंकी विचारहीन गुलामी कबीरको पसन्द नहीं थी। वे इनसे मुक्त मनुष्यताको ही प्रेमभक्तिका पात्र मानते थे। धर्मगत विशेषताओंके प्रति सहन-शीलता और सभ्रमका भाव भी उनके पदोंमें

नहीं मिलता। परन्तु वे मनुष्य मात्रको समान मर्यादाका अधिकारी मानते थे; जातिगत, कुलगत, आचारगत श्रेष्ठताका उनकी दृष्टिमें कोई मूल्य नहीं था। सम्प्रदाय-प्रतिष्ठाके भी वे विरोधी जान पड़ते हैं। परन्तु फिर भी विरोधाभास यह है कि उन्हें हजारोंकी सख्याम लोग सम्प्रदाय-विशेषके प्रवर्तक माननेमें ही गौरव अनुभव करते हैं।

जो लोग हिन्दू-मुस्लिम एकताके अन्तमें दीक्षित हैं वे भी कबीरदासको अपना मार्गदर्शक मानते हैं। यह उचित भी है। राम-रहीम और केशव-करीमकी जो एकता स्वयं-मिद्ध है उसे भी सम्प्रदाय-युद्धिसे विकृत मस्तिष्कवाले लोग नहीं समझ पाते। कबीरदाससे अधिक जोरदार शब्दोंमें इस एकताका प्रतिपादन किसीन नहीं किया। पर जो लोग उन्माहाधिक्यवश कबीरको केवल हिन्दू-मुस्लिम एकताका पैगम्बर मान लेते हैं वे उनके मूल स्वरूपको भूलकर उसके एक-देश मात्रकी बात करने लगते हैं। ऐसे लोग यदि यह देखकर क्षुब्ध हों कि कबीरदासने 'दोनों धर्मोंकी ऊँची सस्कृति या दोनों धर्मोंके उच्चतर भावोंमें सामंजस्य स्थापित करनेकी कहीं भी कोशिश नहीं की, और सिर्फ यही नहीं, बल्कि उन सभी धर्मगत विशेषताओंकी खिल्ली ही उड़ाई है जिसे मजहदी नेता बहुत श्रेष्ठ धर्माचार कहकर व्याख्या करते हैं, ' तो कुछ आश्चर्य करनेकी बात नहीं है, क्योंकि कबीरदास इस बिन्दुपरसे धार्मिक द्वन्द्वोंको देखते ही न थे। उन्होंने रोगका ठीक निदान किया था या नहीं, इसमें दो मत हो सकते हैं पर औषध निर्वाचनमें और अपथ्य वर्जनके निर्देशमें उन्होंने बिल्कुल गलती नहीं की। यह औषध है भगवद्विश्वास। दोनों धर्म समान-रूपसे भगवानमें विश्वास करते हैं और यदि सचमुच ही आदमी धार्मिक है तो इस अमोघ औषधका प्रभाव उसपर पड़ेगा ही। अपथ्य हैं बाह्य आचारोंको धर्म समझना, व्यर्थ कुलाभिमान, अकारण ऊँच-नीचका भाव। कबीरदासकी इन दोनों व्यवस्थाओंमें गलती नहीं है और अगर किसी दिन हिन्दुओं और मुसलमानोंमें एकता हुई तो इसी रास्ते हो सकती है। इसमें केवल बाह्यआचारवर्जनकी नकारात्मक प्रक्रिया नहीं है, भगवद्विश्वासका अविलम्ब सीमेंट भी काम करेगा। इसी अर्थमें कबीरदास हिन्दू और मुसलमानोंके ऐक्य-विधायक थे। परन्तु जैसा कि आरम्भमें ही कहा गया है, कबीरदासको केवल इन्हीं रूपोंमें देखना सही देखना नहीं है। वे मूलतः भक्त थे। भगवानपर उनका अविच्छल अखण्ड विश्वास था। वे कभी सुधार करनेके फेरमें

नहीं पड़े। सायद वे अनुभव कर चुके थे कि जो सत्य सुखरना नहीं चाहता उसे जन्मर्दस्ती सुखारनेका व्रत व्यर्थका प्रयास है। वे अपने उपदेश 'साधु' भाईको देते थे या फिर स्वयं अपने आपको ही सम्बोधित करके कह देते थे। यदि उनकी बात कोई सुननेवाले न मिले तो वे निश्चिन्त होकर सत्यको ही पुकार कर कह उठते 'अपनी राह तू चले कगीरा।' अपनी राह अर्थात् धर्म, सम्प्रदाय, जाति, कुल और शास्त्रीक रूढियोंसे तो बद्ध नहीं है, जो अपने अनुभवके द्वारा प्रत्यक्षीकृत है।

कगीरदासका यह भक्त रूप ही उनका दारनयिक रूप है। इसी केन्द्रके इर्द गिर्द उनके अन्य रूप सत्यमेव प्रकाशित हो उठे हैं। मुदिकल यह है कि इस केन्द्रीय वस्तुका प्रकाश भाषाकी पहुँचके बाहर है। भक्ति कहकर नहीं समझाई जा सकती, वह अनुभव करके आस्थाजन की जा सकती है। कगीरदासने दृढ़ बातको हज़ार तरहसे कहा है। इस भक्ति या भगवानके प्रति अहैतुक अनुरागकी बात कहते समय उन्हें ऐसी बहुत-सी बात कहनी पड़ी हैं जो भक्ति नहीं हैं पर भक्तिके अनुभव करनेमें सहायक हैं। मूल वस्तु चूँकि वाणीक अगोचर है, इसीलिए मूल वाणीका अभ्ययन करनेवाले विद्यार्थीको अगर भ्रममें पड़ जाना पड़ा हो तो आश्चर्यकी कोई बात नहीं है। वाणीद्वारा उन्होंने उस निगूढ़ अनुभवेकगम्य तत्त्वकी ओर इशारा किया है, उसे 'ध्यानित' किया है। ऐसा करनेके लिए उन्हें भाषाके द्वारा रूप राड़ा करना पड़ा है और अल्पको रूपक द्वारा अभिव्यक्त करनेकी साधना करनी पड़ी है। काव्यशास्त्रके आचार्य इसे ही कविकी सबसे बड़ी शक्ति बताते हैं। रूपके द्वारा अल्पकी व्यञ्जना, कथनके ज़रिए अल्पका अन्वय, काव्य शक्तिका चरम निदर्शन नहीं तो क्या है? फिर भी वह ध्यानित वस्तु ही प्रधान है, ध्यानित करनेकी शैली और साधनी नहीं। इस प्रकार काव्यत्व उनके पदोंमें फोकसका माल है,—गडिप्रोउकट है, वह तोलतार और सीरेकी भक्ति और चीजोंको बनाते बनाते अपने आप बन गया है।

प्रेम भक्तिको कगीरदासकी वाणियोंकी केन्द्रीय वस्तु न माननेका ही यह परिणाम हुआ है कि अच्छे अच्छे विद्वान् उन्हें घमडी, अटपटी वाणीका चोलनहारा, एकेश्वरवाद और अद्वैतवादके बारीक भेदको न जाननेवाला, अहंकारी, अगुण-सगुण-विवेक-अनभिज्ञ आदि कहकर अपनेको उनसे अधिक योग्य मानकर सन्तोष पाते रहे हैं। यह मानी हुई बात है कि जो बात लोकमें अहंकार कहलाती है वह भगवत्प्रेमके क्षेत्रमें,—स्वाधीनभर्तृका नायिकाके गर्वकी

भक्ति अपने और अपने प्रियके प्रति अखण्ड विश्वासकी परिचायक है, जो वात लोकमें दृष्टपन और कायरता कहलाती है वही भगवत्प्रेमके क्षेत्रमें भगवानके प्रति भक्तका अनन्यपरायण आत्मार्पण होती है और जो वात लोकमें परस्पर विरुद्ध जंचती हैं भगवानके विषयमें उनका विरोध दूर हो जाता है । लोकमें ऐसे जीवकी रूपना नहीं की जा सकती जो कर्णहीन होकर भी सब कुछ सुनता हो, चक्षुहित बना रहकर भी सब कुछ देख सकता हो, वाणीहीन होकर भी वक्ता हो सकता हो, जो छोटसे छोटा भी हो और बड़ेसे बड़ा भी, जो एक भी हो और अनेक भी, जो बाहर भी हो और भीतर भी, जिसे सबका मालिक भी कहा जा सके और सजका सजक भी, जिसे सजके ऊपर भी कहा जा सके और सर्वमय सेवक भी, जिसे समस्त गुणोंका आरोप भी किया जा सके और गुण-हानताका भी, और फिर भी जो न इन्द्रियका विषय हो, न मनका, न बुद्धिका । परन्तु भगवानके लिए सब विशेषण सब देशोंके सावक सर्व भावसे देते रहे ह । जो भक्त नहीं है, जो अनुभवद्वारा साक्षात्कार किये हुए सखसे विश्वास नहीं रखते, वे केवल तर्कम उलझकर रह जाते हैं पर जो भक्त हैं, वे भुजा उठाकर घोषणा करते हैं, 'अगुणहि-सगुणहिं नहि कळु भेदा ।' (तुलसी-दाम) । परन्तु तर्कपरायण व्यक्ति इस वचनके अस्पष्टपनको बदतोव्याघात कहकर सन्तोष कर लेता है । यदि भक्तिको कबीरदासकी वाणियोंकी केन्द्रीय वस्तु मान लिया जाता तो निस्सन्देह स्वीकार कर लिया जाता कि भक्तके लिए वे सारी बातें बेमतलब हैं जिन्हें कि विद्वान् लोग बारीक भेद कहकर आनन्द पाया करते ह । भगवानके एतिसूचनीय स्वत्पको भक्तने जैसा कुछ देखा है वह वाणीके प्रकाशन क्षेत्रके बाहर है, इसीलिए वाणी नाना प्रकारसे परस्पर विरोधी और अविरोधी शब्दोंद्वारा उस परम प्रेममयका रूप निर्देश करनेकी चेष्टा करती है । भक्त उसकी असमर्थतापर नहीं जाता, वह उसकी रूपातीत व्ययजनाको ही देखता है ।

भक्ति तत्त्वकी व्याख्या करते करते उन्हें उन बाह्याचारके जचालोको साफ करनेकी जरूरत महसूस हुई है जो अपनी जड़ प्रकृतिके कारण विशुद्ध चेतन-तत्त्वकी उपलब्धिसे बाधक हैं । यह बात ही समाज-सुधार और साम्प्रदायिक ऐक्यकी विधात्री बन गई है । पर यहाँ भी यह कह रखना ठीक है कि यह भी फोकडका माल या बाईप्रोडक्ट ही है ।

जो लोग इन बातोंसे ही कबीरदासकी महिमाका विचार करते हैं वे केवल

सतहपर ही चक्कर काटते हैं। कबीरदास एक ज़रूरत का क्रांतिकारी पुरुष थे। उनके कथनकी ज्योति जो इतने क्षेत्रोंको उद्भासित कर सकी है सो मामूली शक्तिमत्ताकी परिचायिका नहीं है। परन्तु यह समझना कि उद्भासित पदार्थ ही ज्योति है, बड़ी भारी गलती है। उद्भासित पदार्थ ज्योतिकी ओर इशारा करते हैं और ज्योति किधर और कहाँ है, इस बातका निर्देश देते हैं। ऊपर ऊपर सतहपर चक्कर काटनेवाले समुद्र भले ही पार कर जायें पर उसकी गहराईकी थाह नहीं पा सकते। इन पक्तियोंका लेखक अपनेको सतहका चक्कर काटनेवालोंसे विशेष नहीं समझता। उसका हठ विश्वास है कि कबीरदासके पदोंमें जो महान् प्रकाशपुञ्ज है वह बौद्धिक आलोचनाका विषय नहीं है। वह म्यूजियमकी चीज नहीं है वरिष्ठ जीवित प्राणवान् वस्तु है। कबीरपर पुस्तके बहुत लिखी गई हैं, और भी लिखी जायेंगी पर ऐसे लोग कम ही हैं जो उस साधनाकी गहराई तक जानेकी चेष्टा करते हों। रामकी वानरी सेना समुद्र जहर लेंघ गई थी पर उसकी गहराईका पता तो मंदर पर्वतको ही या जिसका विराट् शरीर आपातालनिमग्न हो गया था—

अब्धिलेहित एव वानरभट्टै किन्त्वस्य गम्भीरताम्
आपाताल-निमग्न पीवरतनु-जानाति मन्द्राचल ।

सो, कबीरदासकी सच्ची महिमा तो कोई गहरेमें गोता लगानेवाला ही समझ सकता है।

फिर भी लेखकने इस पुस्तकमें जो लम्बी व्याख्या प्रकाशित की है उसके लिए उसे पश्चात्ताप नहीं है। कबीरने जिन तत्त्वोंको अपनी रचनासे ध्वनित करना चाहा है उसके लिए कबीरकी भाषासे ज्यादा साफ और जोरदार भाषाकी सम्भावना भी नहीं है और ज़रूरत भी नहीं है। परन्तु कालक्रमसे वह भाषा आजके शिक्षित व्यक्तिको दुरूह जान पड़ती है। कबीरने शास्त्रीय भाषाका अध्ययन नहीं किया था, पर फिर भी उनकी भाषामें परम्परासे चली आई विशेषताएँ वर्तमान हैं। इसका ऐतिहासिक कारण है। इस ऐतिहासिक कारणको जाने बिना उस भाषाको ठीक ठीक समझना सम्भव नहीं है। इस पुस्तकमें उसी ऐतिहासिक परम्पराके अध्ययनका प्रयास है। यह प्रयास पूर्णरूपसे सफल हुआ ही होगा, ऐसा हम दावा नहीं करते, परन्तु वह गईणीय नहीं है, इस बातमें लेखकको कोई सन्देह नहीं है।

कबीरदासने रजय अरूपको रूप देनेकी चष्टा की थी। परन्तु वे स्वयं कह गये हैं कि ये सारे प्रयास तभी तक थे जब तक परम प्रेमके आवार प्रियतमका मिलन नहीं हुआ था। साखी, पद, शब्द और दोहरे उसी प्राप्तिके साधन हैं, मार्ग हैं (दे० पृ० २१५)। गन्तव्य तक पहुँच जानेपर मार्गका हिसाब करना बेकार होता है। फिर इन साखी, शब्द और दोहरोंकी व्याख्याके प्रयासको क्या कहा जाय ? ये तो साधनको समझानेके साधन,—साधनके भी साधन हैं !

प्रसंग-रूपसे हमसे कबीरदासकी भाषा और शैली समझानेके कार्यसे कमी कमी आगे बढ़नेका साहम किया गया है। जो वाणीके अगोचर है, उसे वाणीके द्वारा अभिव्यक्त करनेकी चेष्टा की गई है, जो मन और बुद्धिकी पहुँचसे परे है उसे बुद्धिके उलपर समझनेकी कोशिश की गई है, जो देश और कालकी सीमाके परे है उसे दो-चार-दस पृष्ठमें बाँध डालनेकी साहसिकता दिखाई गई है। कहते हैं, समस्त पुराणों और महाभारतीय महिला लिखनेके बाद व्यास देवने अत्यन्त अनुतापके साथ कहा था कि हे अखिल विश्वके गुरुदेव, आपका कोई रूप नहीं है फिर भी मैंने ध्यानके द्वारा इन प्रथोमे रूपकी कल्पना की है, आप अनिर्वचनीय हैं, व्याख्या करके आपके स्वरूपको समझा सकना सम्भव नहीं है फिर भी मैंने स्तुतिद्वारा व्याख्या करनेकी कोशिश की है,—वाणीद्वारा प्रकाश करनेका प्रयास किया है। तुम समस्त-भुवन-व्याप्त हो, इस ब्रह्माण्डके प्रत्येक अणु-परमाणुमें तुम भिने हुए हो, तथापि तीर्थ-यात्रादि विधानसे उस व्यापिकको खंडित किया है। भला जो सर्वत्र परिव्याप्त है उसके लिये तीर्थविशेषमें जानेकी व्यवस्था क्या ? सो हे जगदीश, मेरी बुद्धिगत विकलताके ये तीन अपराध,—अरूपकी रूपकल्पना, अनिर्वचनीयका स्तुति-निर्वचन, व्यापिका स्थान-विशेषमें निर्देश—तुम क्षमा करो। क्या व्यासजीके महान् आदर्शका पदानुसरण करके इस लेखकको भी यही कहनेकी जरूरत है ?—

रूपं रूपविवर्जितस्य भवतो ध्यानेन यत्कल्पितम्,
स्तुत्या निर्वचनीयताऽखिलगुरोद्वीकृतायन्मया ।
व्यापित्व च निराकृतं भगवतो यत्तीर्थयात्रादिना,
क्षान्तव्यं जगदीश, तद् विकलता-दोषत्रयं मत्कृतम् ॥

परिशिष्ट—१

परवर्ती कबीरपन्थी सिद्धान्त

इस पुस्तकके अन्तमें कबीर-वाणी नामसे एक सग्रह जोड़ दिया गया है। कई विद्यार्थियों और मित्रोंके अनुरोधसे उसपर टिप्पणियाँ भी लिखी गई हैं जो सप्रहीन पदोंको समझनेमें सहायक हो सकती हैं। प्रथम सौ पदोंका महत्त्व रवीन्द्रनाथके अनुवादके कारण है। इनमें कुछ पद परवर्ती जान पड़ते हैं। इन परवर्ती पदोंको ठीक ठीक समझनेके लिये परवर्ती कबीरपन्थी सिद्धान्तोंकी जानकारी आवश्यक है। मैंने इस विषयपर अलग पुस्तक लिखी है। यहाँ संक्षेपमें इन सिद्धान्तोंकी चर्चा कर दी जाती है। व्याख्यात्मक टिप्पणियोंमें जहाँ आवश्यक होगा वहाँ इस परिशिष्टके अनुच्छेदोंका हवाला दे दिया जायगा।

१ पहले यह जीव जब अपने सत्य-स्वरूपमें था, उसकी सत्य-स्वरूप देह थी, पिण्ड और ब्रह्माण्ड सत्य-स्वरूप और पक्के थे, पाँच पक्के तत्त्व और गुण थे। पाँच पक्के तत्त्वोंके नाम हैं—(१) धर्म (२) दया (३) शील (४) विचार और (५) सत्य। तीन गुण हैं विवेक-विराम्य, गुरु-भक्ति और साधु भाव। इन्हीं पाँच तत्त्वों और तीन गुणोंकी देह हँसाकी थी। इस जीवका प्रकाश और स्वभाव अद्वितीय था। जब इस जीव (हँसा) ने अपनी सुन्दरताका विचार किया तब उसको बड़ा आनन्द हुआ और उसे अपनी देहकी सुधि भूल गई। फिर तो पक्की देह पलटकर कच्ची देह बन गई। तत्त्व और प्रकृति सब बदल गए। धैर्यसे आकाश, शीलसे अग्नि, विचारसे जल, दयासे वायु और सत्यसे पृथिवी हो गई। इस प्रकार पक्के गुणसे कच्चे गुण हो गए। फिर तो पचीस प्रकृति आदि कच्चे आकारका प्रादुर्भाव हुआ।

२. जिस समय यह अपनी देहकी ज्योति, प्रभाव और प्रकाशको देखकर आनन्दमें ब्रेसुध हुआ उस समय उसने आँख उठाकर शून्यमें देखा। यहाँ

उसकी छाया देख पड़ी जो स्त्रीरूप हो गई। इसीसे वादमें चलकर उगका सयोग हुआ। इसीको माया और ब्रह्मका सयोग कहते हैं। इसीसे समस्त प्रकारकी रचना हुई।

३ वादमें इस जीवको अहंकार उत्पन्न हुआ तब वह जानने लगा कि मय मैं ही हूँ। फिर तो स्वाभाविक 'एकोऽहं बहु स्या' की स्फुरना उठी। इसी ब्रह्म सच्चिदानन्दकी घात सब वेद, शास्त्र, किताब आदि करते हैं परन्तु स्रसवेद ही चानता है कि यह ब्रह्म सच्चिदानन्द स्वयं बन्धनमें है और सर्वदा आवागमनमें बद्ध है। जयसे यह जीव सूक्ष्मसे स्थूल देहमें आया तभीसे भ्रमम पड़ गया और उसी भ्रमकी अवस्थाम वेद किताब ग्रन्थ वाणी आदि बनाया जिसका कुछ नारापार नहीं।

४ जब यह एकसे अनेक होता है तब अज्ञानी हो जाता है और जब अद्वैतकी ओर मुख फेरता है और आत्मज्ञानके हेतु प्रयत्न करता है तब इसमें पुन ज्ञानका प्रकाश आ जाता है और ससार लय हो जाता है क्योंकि जिसकी ओर ध्यान न होगा वह अवश्य ही नाश हो जावेगा, परन्तु अद्वैतमुख होनेके बाद भी जीवमें वासना बनी ही रहती है। जब तब वासनाका बीज नहीं नष्ट हो जाता तब तब मुक्ति कैसे सम्भव है? यही कारण है कि जीव निरन्तर सूक्ष्मसे स्थूल और स्थूलसे सूक्ष्मकी ओर चढता-उतगता चौरासी लाख योनियोंके भवजालमें भटकता रहता है। जीव अपनी उपायों और युक्तियोंसे ज्ञानाग्निको उठाता है तो ज्ञानाग्नि प्रकट होकर कर्माको जला देती है। जिस प्रकार लाल अगार थोड़ी देर तक चमक दिखा लेनेके बाद ठण्डा बनकर कोयला हो जाता है उसी प्रकार ज्ञानाग्नि भी ठण्डी हो जाती है और ब्रह्मपदको प्राप्त जीव फिर ससार चक्रमें आ फँसता है। वेद-वेदाङ्ग केवल ब्रह्मत्व-प्राप्तिका उपाय बताते हैं पर उन्हें बिल्कुल पता नहीं कि ब्रह्मत्व जितना बड़ा पद भी कथों न हो, जीवको स्थायी सुख नहीं दे सकता।

५ पारख गुरुके सिवा इस भ्रमजालसे छुड़ानेवाला दूसरा कोई नहीं है। जब जीव तीर्थ-व्रत, वेद-कुरान, रोजा नमाज, उपासना-योग आदि करके एक गया और कुछ करते नहीं बना तब उसने नौ कोशों और छः देहोंमें अपना घर बनाया। नौ कोश ये हैं—अक्षय कोश, शब्दमय कोश, प्राणमय०, आनन्दमय०,

मनोमय०, प्रकाशमय०, ज्ञानमय०, आकाशमय०, विज्ञानमय०। छ देह इस प्रकार है—

(१) स्थूल देह—पच्चीस तत्त्वों अर्थात् पृथ्वी, जल, अग्नि, वायु, आकाश, दस इन्द्रिय, पाँच प्राण, चार अन्त करण और जीव। इसकी अवस्थाका नाम जाग्रत अवस्था है।

(२) सूक्ष्म शरीर सत्रह तत्त्वों अर्थात् पाँच प्राण, दस इन्द्रिय, मन और बुद्धिसे बनता है। अवस्था स्वप्न है।

(३) काण्ठ देह तीन तत्त्वों अर्थात् चित्त, अहङ्कार और जीवात्मासे बनता है। अवस्थाका नाम सुषुप्ति है।

(४) महाकारण देह दो तत्त्वों—अहङ्कार और जीवात्मा—का है। अवस्था तुरीया।

(५) कैवल्य देह एक तत्त्व—चित्त—जीवात्मा—से बना है। अवस्था तुरीयातीत है।

(६) हम देह—इसमें कोई तत्त्व नहीं है। जिस प्रकाशमें यह जीव समष्टि-रूप था उसी प्रकाशको उसने अपना स्वरूप माना। सो ऐसा मानना हमका भ्रममात्र है।

६ बड़े बड़े वर्माचार्य और मुनि पगम्बर ज्यादासे ज्यादा इन्हीं नौ कोशों और छः देहोंकी बात जानते हैं और निम्नलेकी राह नहीं पा रहे हैं। एक मात्र शरीर साहा इनका भ्रम छुड़ानका सामर्थ्य रखते हैं। यह स्पष्ट रूपसे समझ लेना चाहिए कि हम-देह भी भ्रम ही है, यद्यपि हम-रूप (विशुद्ध चेतन्य) ही जीवका स्वरूप है और उसको प्राप्त होना ही कनीरपन्थी साधकका परम काम्य है। क्योंकि निम्न ब्रह्म प्रकाशमें तम अर्थात् अन्धकार भरा हुआ है उसको जो छटा हमका शरीर मानते हो, और यह भी मानते हो कि हम वही है, ऐसा मानकर उसमें निमग्न होनेसे तुम्हारी दशा चार प्रकारकी हुई। बाल, मूक, पिशाच और जड़। बुद्धि ठिकाने न रही, एकदम अचेत हो गए। पूर्ण गुरुके बिना तुमको हम देह कदापि प्राप्त न होगी। जिसको तुमने हम देह अनुमान कर रखा है सो तुम्हारी भूल और भ्रम है। इसका स्वरूप सद्गुरुकी

दया बिना कदापि प्राप्त नहीं हो सकता। कहते हैं, स्वयं कबीरदासने छ देहोंका परिचय बताया है और यथाप्रसंग यह भी कहा है कि इस रूपके गुण अकथ हैं।

७. सद्गुरुकी कृपासे जब इस भ्रान्त जीवको पारख गुरुका सन्निधान प्राप्त होता है तब इसका एक-अनेकका भ्रम नष्ट होता है और वह अपने सत्य-स्वरूपको पा जाता है। पारखसे ही इसका मन और बुद्धि स्थिर होनी है और आवागमन छूट जाता है। स्वसवेदके अनुसार वेदने जो 'तत्त्वमसि' आदि महावाक्योंका उपदेश दिया है उसके तीनों पद तत्—त्वम्—असि धोखा हैं। इन तीनोंके ऊपर पारख पद है। वही सत्य पद है। उसीसे जीवोंकी मुक्ति होती है। जो कोई उस पारख-पदको प्राप्त कर लेता है वही पारखी कहलाता है। वह पारखी सच्चा गुरु हो सकता है। चूंकि वही एकमात्र ऐसा है कि जीवोंके बन्धनको छुड़ा सकता है इसलिए उसे 'बन्दी छोड़' कहते हैं। वह एक अन्नन्त, बाहर भीतर, पिण्ड ब्रह्माण्ड सबके भेद और कसर-खोटको भिन्न भिन्न करके परखा देता है। पारख पदको प्राप्त हुआ पुरुष फिर कभी पतित नहीं होता।

८ कैवल्य शरीरसे लेकर स्थूल देह तक सभी नाशमान् हैं, निर्मूल हैं, किसीमें अन्धकार है, किसीमें प्रकाश, किसीमें थोड़ा ज्ञान है, किसीमें बहुत, किसीमें थोड़ा सामर्थ्य है किसीमें बहुत, कोई थोड़े दिन जीता है कोई दीर्घायु होता है। क्या हुआ? कैसे ही पदको प्राप्त हो परन्तु जब तक इन पाँच देहोंके अहंकारसे न छूटेगा तब तक सुखको प्राप्त न हो सकेगा। ये पाँचों अहंकार काल पुरुषके हैं। इन्हीं द्वारा विधि निषेध दोनों कर्मके भेद बताए हैं। इसके भेदको इस कबीरके अतिरिक्त दूसरा कोई नहीं जान सकता।

९ क्षमा, सन्तोष, विचार और सत्संग ये चारों मुक्तिके पौरिये हैं। इन चारोंको जो धारण करेंगे उन्हें सब कुछ प्राप्त होगा। इनसे अन्तःकरण शुद्ध होता है। इन चारोंके बिना किसीकी मुक्तिका मार्ग नहीं मिल सकता।

परिशिष्ट-२

कबीर-वाणी

[१ से १०० तक आचार्य क्षितिमोहन सेनके सग्रहसे उद्धृत और अन्तराष्ट्रीय ख्यातिके वे पद्य हैं जिन्होंने महाकवि रवीन्द्रनाथ ठाकुर जैसे व्यक्तिको आकृष्ट किया, जो उन्हें इस योग्य जँचे कि भारतीय मनीषाके प्रति पाश्चात्य विद्वानोंकी उपेक्षा और अवज्ञाको दूर कर सकेंगे और इसलिए जिनका अंग्रेजी अनुवाद उन्होंने स्वयं किया। यूरोपीय भाषाओंमें इनके अनुवादोंसे कितने ही चोटीके समीक्षक भारतीय साधना और साहित्यके विषयमें अपना मत बदलनेको बाध्य हुए।

हिन्दीके पाठकोंको इन कविताओंके पढते समय दो बातें ध्यानमें रखनी चाहिए, (१) ये कवितायें मुख्यतः पश्चिमी विद्वानोंकी दृष्टिमें रखकर सगृहीत हुई थीं और (२) इनके सग्रहकर्ता आचार्य सेनने छपी पोथियोंकी अपेक्षा साधुओंके मुँहसे सुनी हुई वाणियोंकी अधिक ठीक माना था। प्रत्येक पदके अन्तमें दी हुई दो "सख्यायें आचार्य सेनके सग्रहकी जिल्द और पृष्ठका निर्देश करती हैं।

१०१ से २५६ तकके पद पिछले अध्यायोंमें प्रतिपादित सिद्धान्तोंका और भी अधिक समर्थन करनेकी दृष्टिसे सगृहीत हुए हैं। जिस क्रमसे सिद्धान्तोंका प्रतिपादन है, उसी क्रमसे सग्रह भी।]

मोक्षों कहाँ बूढ़े वन्दे, मैं तो तेरे पासमे ।
 ना मैं टेवल ना मैं मसजिद, ना कावे कैलासमे ।
 ना तो कौन क्रिया-कर्ममे, नहीं योग बेरागमे ।
 खोजी होय तो तुरतै मिलिहं, पल भक्ती तालासमे ।
 कहै कबीर सुनो भाई रावो, सब स्वॉसोकी स्वॉसमे ॥ (१-१३)

१ इस पदका भाग्यार्थ यह है कि भगवान् देवल (मन्दिर), मस्जिद या तीर्थस्थानोंमें नहीं मिलते, बाहरी क्रिया कर्मसे या योग तैराग्यसे भी नहीं मिलते । वे मनुष्यके अन्तरमें ही वर्तमान हैं । वहीं उन्हें सहज ही पाया जा सकता है ।

विशेष—प्रथम और दूसरी पंक्तिके बीचमें छपी हुई पुस्तकोंमें इतना अधिक है—

ना म छगरी ना मे भेड़ी ना म छुरी गँडारामें ।
 नहीं खालमे नहीं पूछमे ना हड्डी ना मासमें ।

फिर अन्तिम पंक्तिके पहले यह पंक्ति है ।

मैं तो रहो सहरके वाहर मेरी पुरी मवासमें ।

(दे० शब्दा० पृ० १११ २)

अधिक पाई जानेवाली पंक्तियोंमें भी यही भाव है । बलि देनेके या कुर्बानीके जितने उपकरण हं उनमें भी भगवान् नहीं ह ।

मवायका अर्थ 'सरन' बनाया जाता है । 'मैं तो रहो' आदि पंक्तिका मतलब यह है कि भीड़भाड़में या दुनियावी कामकाजमें नहीं रहता । 'शहर' का तात्पर्य भीड़भाड़, कामकाज आदिमें है । 'मेरी पुरी मवासमें' का मतलब यह है कि जो सब कुछ छोड़कर मेरी शरण आ जाता है, मैं उसीको सुलभ होता हूँ । मैं अर्थात् भगवान् ।

सन्तन जात न पूछो निरगुनियों ।
 साव ब्राह्मन साव छत्तरी, साधै जाती बनियों ।
 सावनमों छत्तीम कौम है, टेडी तोर पुछनियों ।
 साव नाऊ साव घोषी, साव जाति है बरियों ।
 सावनमों गंढास सन्त हे, सुगच ऋषि मो भगियों ।
 हिन्दू-तुर्क दूद दीन गने हे, कछु नहीं पहचनियों । (१- १६)

२ साध=साधु । सावन=सावण । पुत्रनया=पूटना, प्रदत्त करना । सुगच ऋषि=सुगच सुदर्शन । यज्ञनागर, उग्रगीता, कबीर मन्सूर आदि कबीरपंथी ग्रन्थोंमें बताया गया है कि कलियुगके आरम्भमें जब कबीरसाहब इस पृथ्वीपर प्रकट हुए थे तो काशीके सुदर्शन नामके महात्माने उनसे दीक्षा ली थी । वे जातिक भगी थे । युधिष्ठिरने महाभारतकी लड़ाई जीत लेनेके बाद भ्रातृहत्याके पापसे उद्धार पानेके लिये एक बड़ा यज्ञ किया था । श्रीकृष्णचन्द्रने इस यज्ञमें एक घटा बँव दिया था । जब घटा सात बार बजे तभी पाप छूटेगा, ऐसा संकेत कर दिया था । हजारों ब्राह्मण और साधु भोजन कर चुके पर घटा नहीं बजा, तब श्रीकृष्णके कहने पर भीम काशीके सुदर्शन भगीको लिवा लाने गये । भीमके अहंभावके कारण सुदर्शनने जाना अस्वीकार कर दिया । तब स्वयं युधिष्ठिर जाकर उन्हे देे आये और भोजन कराया । उनके भोजन करनेपर ही घटा बजा । प्रयाग क्षेत्रमें श्रीकृष्णके कहनेसे सब लोग गये । वहाँ जलमें सबने अपनी छाया देखी । कंगल सुदर्शनकी छाया मनुष्यकी थी, बाकी सबकी कुत्ते आदि निकृष्ट चीसकी । भगियों=भगी । दान=धर्म । पहचनियों=भेद, पहचान, विशेषता ।

इस पदका भाव यह है कि निर्गुण साधुकी जाति पूटना बेकार है । सभी जातिके लोग साधु हो चुके हैं । आ० श्रुतिमोहन सेनने 'साधै' का अर्थ 'साधन करते हैं' ऐसा किया है ।

विशेष - छपी पोथियोंमें इस पदके अन्तमें ये तीन पद और हैं—

लाखन जाति जगनमों फैली कालको फद पसरियों ।

साधो भाई, जीवत ही करो आसा ।
 जीवत समझे जीवत बूझे, जीवत मुक्तिनिवासा ।
 जीवत करमकी फाँस न काटी, मुये मुक्तिकी आसा ।
 तन छूटे जिव मिलन कहत है, सो सब झूठी आसा ।
 अबहुँ मिला तो तबहुँ मिलेगा, नहीं तो जमपुरवासा ।
 सत्त गहे सतगुरुको चीन्हे, सत्त-नाम विस्वासा ।
 कहै कबीर साधन हितकारी, हम साधनके दासा ॥ (१-५७)

सब तत्तनमा सन्त बड़े हैं सब्द रूप जिन देहियों ।
 कहै कबीर सुनो भाई साधो सत्तरूप वहि जनियों ।

कालको = कालका फन्दा पसारा हुआ है । तत्तनमा=तत्त्वोंमें । सब्दरूप...
 =जिनकी देह शब्दरूप है । सत्त जनियों=उन्हें सत्यपुरुषका रूप ही समझो ।

३ इस पदका भाव यह है कि जीते जी ही सदाचरण और भक्तिके द्वारा भगवानसे मिलनेकी आशा करो । नाना प्रकारके तीर्थ, व्रत और तप करनेके बाद जब मृत्यु होगी तब वैकुण्ठ मिलेगा, यह एक मिथ्या आशा है । तन आसा=जो लोग यह कहते हैं कि शरीर छूटनेके बाद जीवका भगवानसे मिलन होगा (या परम पद मिलेगा) वह सब झूठी आशा दिखाते हैं । जो इस समय मिला है वही उस समय (मृत्युके बाद) भी मिलेगा । सत्त विसवासा= सत्यको ग्रहण करे, सत गुरुकी पहचान और सत्य नामपर विश्वास रखे, तभी मिलनेकी आशा कर सकता है ।

विशेष—छपी पुस्तकोंमें ' अबहुँ मिला सो ' इस पंक्तिके बाद ये दो पंक्तियों अधिक हैं—

दूर दूर दूँडै मम लोभी मिटै न गर्भ-तरासा ।

साध सतकी करै न बदगी कटै करमकी फासा ।

गर्भतरासा=गर्भव्रास, बार बार जन्म-मरणके चक्करमें पड़ते रहनेका डर ।

बागो ना जा रे ना जा, तेरी कायामे गुलजार ।

सहस्र कँवलपर बैठके तू देखे रूप अपार ॥ (१-५८)

४ इसका भाव भी पद १ से मिलता जुलता है । बगीचेका सान्दर्भ्य देखनेके लिये किसी वाहरी उपवनमें जानेकी जरूरत नहीं है, शरीरमें ही फूल खिले हुए हैं । शरीरके भीतर जो सहस्र दलका कमल है (सहस्रार चक्र) उसीपर बैठकर अर्थात् पूर्ण समाधिके द्वारा अपार रूपको देख । छयी पोथियोंमें यह पद इस प्रकार है—

बागों ना जा रे ना जा, तेरे कायामे गुलजार ।

करनी-क्यारी बोट कर तू रहनी कर रखवार ।

दुर्मति काग उडाइ के देख अजय वहार ॥

मन माली परबोधिए करि सजमकी बार ।

दया पौद सूखे नहीं छिमा सींच जल डार ॥

गुल और चमनके बीचमें फूला अजय गुलाव ।

मुक्ति कली सतमालकी पहिरे गूयि-गलहार ॥

अष्ट कमलसे ऊपजे लीला अगम अपार ।

कहैं कबीर चित चेतके आवागमन निवार ॥

इस पदमें बागका रूपक पूरा पूरा (सांग) है । इस बगीचेमें करनी क्यारी है, रहनी (=रहनेका भाव, आचरण) रखनाला है, दुर्मति (कुमति) बगीचेको दूषित करनेवाला काग है । मन माली है, समय बेझा है, दया पौधा है, अमा सींचनेका जल है । गुल और चमनके बीचमें जो गुलाब है वह क्या है, यह बात साम्प्रदायिक व्याख्याओंमें देनेको नहीं मिली । चमन (बाग) तो स्पष्ट ही शरीर है, गुल संभवतः सहस्रार है और इन दोनोंके बीच खिला हुआ अद्भुत गुलाब सम्भवतः समाधि या लय है । मुक्ति कली है, जिससे सत्य नामकी माला गँधी जा सकती है । अष्टकमल=आठ कमल । कबीरपन्थी पुस्तकोंमें कभी कभी नौ कमलाकार चक्रोंकी बात आती है । अन्तिम या नवें कमलपर जब योगी पहुँचता है तो उसके सकल्प-विकल्पका लय हो जाता है परन्तु बाकी आठ कमलोंमें वह अनेक लीलाएँ देख सकता है ।

अवधू, माया तजी न जाई ।
 गिरह तजके बस्तर बाँधा, बस्तर तजके फेरी ॥
 काम तजेते क्रोध न जाई, क्रोध तजेते लोभा ।
 लोभ तजे अहंकार न जाई, मान-गडाई-सोभा ॥
 मन वैरागी माया ल्यागी, शब्दमे सुरत समाई ।
 कहै कबीर सुनो भाई मायो, यह गम निगले पाई ॥ (१-६३)

५ हे अवधूत, माया छोडना मठन है । गृह छोडा तो वस्त्र (मप) वारण किया और अय वस्त्र छोडा तो फेरी देन लगे—भीष मॉगने लगे । इस पद्यके ' गिरह ' शब्दका अर्थ क्षितिमोहन सेनने ' गॉठ ' किया है । छपी पोथियोमे दूसरी पक्तिके बाद तीन पक्तियोँ और हँ । इन पक्तियोँसे गिरहका अर्थ गृह (गृहस्थी) ही संगत जान पडना है । पक्तियोँ इस प्रकार हँ—

लडिका तजिके चेला कीन्हा तहुँ मति माया घेरी ।

जैसे बेल बागम अरुझी माहि रही अरुझाई ।

छोरेसे यह छूटे नाही कोटिन करै उपाई ॥

भाव यह है कि गृहस्थाश्रममे लडिका छोड दिया परन्तु साधु होकर फिर तुमने चेला बनाया और वही माया फिर तुम्हारी बुद्धिको घेरे रही । यह माया उस लताकी भौंति है जो पहले बागमे देहसे उलझी और फिर बीचमे राहभर उलझी ही रही । किन्ती तरह छूटी नहीं । नाम छोडा तो क्रोध न छूटा, क्रोध भी छोडा तो लोभ गले आ पडा इत्यादि । मन वैरागी समाई=वस्तुतः सच्चा वैराग्य वह है जहाँ मन वैराग्यवश मायाको छोड देता है । (फिर आदमी चाहे गृहस्थाश्रममें रहे या साधु हो जाय, कोई हर्ज नहीं)—जब मन ही माया छोड देता है तो सुरति शब्दमे समा जाती है अर्थात् वह स्मृतिशक्ति जिसे आरंभमें भगवानने जीवको अपनेमें अनुरक्त होनेके लिये वी यी परन्तु जिसे वह भ्रमवश ससारमे लगाकर भ्रम-जालमे फँस गया था, मनके वैरागी होने पर ससारसे हटकर शब्दमें लग जाती है और फिर वह क्रमशः भगवानकी ओर उन्मुख होता है (तुलनीय वादि मगल—' प्रथम सुरति समरथ किया ' इत्यादि) । आ० क्षितिमोहन सेनने इस पक्तिका अर्थ इस प्रकार किया है—मनने वैराग्य-वश माया तो छोडी पर शास्त्र-नाक्यमें उलझा रहा । यह गम=यह रहस्य ।

चदा झलकै यहि घटमाहीं । अवी आँखन मूँझै नाहीं ॥
 यहि घट चदा यहि घट सूर । यहि घट गाँज अनहद तूर ॥
 यहि घट बाजै तबल-निसान । बहिरा शब्द सुनै नहि कान ॥
 जब लग मेरी मेरी करै । तब लग काज एको नहि सै ॥
 जब मेरी ममता मर जाय । तब लग प्रभु काज मेँवारे आय ॥
 ज्ञानके कारन करम कमाय । होय ज्ञान तब करम नसाय ॥
 फल कारन फल बनगय । फल लागे पर फल मुखाय ॥
 मृगा पाम करतरी वाम । आप न खोजे खोजे घाम (१-८२)

६ सीधा मतलब यह है कि हमें शरीर में उसी ज्योतियों और सभी मंगल-वाद्य वर्तमान है जो बाह्य जगत् में दिखते हैं । हमें वह विप्रव्यापी अनाहत ध्वनि भी सुनाई देनी है । परन्तु जिसके भीतरकी आँखें नहीं हैं वह इस ज्योतिको नहीं देख पाता । जब तक ममता बनी रहती है तब तक तो कोई काम नहीं निकलता पर ममताके नष्ट होते ही भगवान सहामता करते हैं और विगड़ा काम बन जाता है । ज्ञान होनेपर कर्मका बन्धन नष्ट हो जाता है, जिस प्रकार फलके आनेपर फूल सूख जाता है । पर जिस प्रकार फलके लिए ही वृक्ष फूलता है उसी प्रकार ज्ञानके लिए ही साधक कर्म किए जाता है । जिस प्रकार कस्तूरी-मृगके पास कस्तूरी रहती है लेकिन वह अपनेमे तो उसे खोजता नहीं, घासमे खोजता है, उसी प्रकार मनुष्यके भीतर ही परम गन्ध वर्तमान है पर अज्ञानके कारण वह विषयोंके पीछे पीछे भागता फिरता है । चन्द्र, सूर्य, अनाहदनाद आदि पारिभषिक भी हैं । इनके अर्थके लिये पृ० ४६ आर ८१-८३ देखिए । कबीरदास आदि निर्गुणमार्गी मन्त्र कहते थे कि जो कुछ ब्रह्माण्डमें है वही पिण्डमें है । घटका अर्थ पिण्ड या शरीर है । छपा पोषियोमे डम पदमे कुछ सवाभावाकी उक्तियों भी हैं । 'जब मेरी ममता' आदि पक्तिके बाद ये पक्तियाँ हैं—

जब लागि सिध रहै बनमाहि । तब लागि तह बन फूलै नाहि ॥
 उलट स्थार सिहको साय । तब वह बन फूलै हरियाय ॥

प्रसंगसे स्पष्ट है कि यहाँ सिंह ममता ओर स्थार ज्ञान है। पृ० ८३-८४ से स्पष्ट है कि सिंह आत्माको कहते हैं, यहाँ लक्षणासे अहंकार और ममत्व अर्थ है। स्थार अन्तःकरणका प्रतीक है। अन्तःकरणम बुद्धि भी है जो ज्ञानका आश्रय है। इस प्रकार यहाँ भाव यह है कि जब तक इस मनमें अहंकाररूपी सिंह है तब तक वह सूखा रहता है, जब ज्ञानका उदय होता है और अहंकार नष्ट हो जाता है तो मन सफल होता है, अपना अभीष्ट पाता है। फूल और हरियाली जिस प्रकार वनमें ही रहती है उसी प्रकार परम प्राप्तव्य भी मनुष्यके भीतर ही है।

७ सम्भवतः यह पद कबीरदासका रचा हुआ नहीं है। पदका भाव यह है कि ब्रह्म ही इस जगतका एकमात्र कारण है और आत्मासे अभिन्न है।

इस घट अन्तर बाग-जगीचे, इसीमें सिरजनहारा ।
 इस घट अन्तर सात समुन्दर, इसीमें नौ लख तारा ।
 इस घट अन्तर पारस मोती, इसीमे परखनहारा ।
 इस घट अन्तर अनहद गरजै, इसीमे उठत फुहारा ।
 कहत कबीर सुनो भाई साधो, इसीमें साईं हमारा ॥ (१-१०१)

वीजका ही परिणत रूप वृक्ष है और वृक्षको छोड़कर छाया नहीं रह सकती, उसी प्रकार ब्रह्मका ही परिणतरूप यह जगत है और माया उससे अलग कोई सत्ता नहीं रखती । अलख अर्थात् इन्द्रियातीत, जिसे आँख आदिसे देखा न जा सके । सुन्न=शून्य, यहाँ आकाशसे मतलब है । जिस प्रकार ममस्त आकाश महाकाशमें ही वर्तमान हैं उसी प्रकार जो कुछ भी अनन्त प्रकारकी वस्तुएँ दिख रही हैं वह ब्रह्मका ही अंग हैं । अच्छर=अक्षर=कूटस्थ जीवात्मा । वेदान्त मतमें अविद्यामे चेतनका आभास पड़ता है, उस अविद्याच्छन्न चेतनको कूटस्थ कहते हैं । कूटस्थ और जीवमें भेद यह है कि कूटस्थ अविद्यासे अवच्छिन्न सिर्फ चेतनमात्रको कहते हैं, जब यह चेतनके आभास और बुद्धिसे युक्त होता है तो इसे जीव कहते हैं । सुख-दुःखकी अनुभूति जीवको ही होती है । गीतामें भगवानने कहा है कि मैं क्षर और अक्षरसे अतीत हूँ । इसपरसे पण्डित लोग अक्षर कूटस्थको मानत हैं और क्षर नाशमान जगतको । यहाँ नि अक्षरसे इसी क्षर और अक्षरसे अतीतका तात्पर्य जान पड़ता है । सूर्यमें जिस प्रकार किरण है और किरणमें प्रकाश है । क्यों कि किरण और प्रकाश अभिन्न हैं उसी प्रकार परमात्मामें जीव है और जीव तथा ब्रह्म अभिन्न हैं । जीवमे प्राण है, प्राणमे शब्द है और शब्दमें अर्थ (पदार्थ) हैं । इस प्रकार ब्रह्मसे लेकर अर्थ (पदार्थ, विषय—शब्द स्पर्श रूप रस गन्ध) सभी न्यारे भी हैं और मिले भी हैं । वृक्ष अंकुर आदि सब वही है । आत्ममे साईं=आत्मामें ही परमात्मा है, परमात्मामें साईं (=आभास) है क्योंकि परमात्मा या ईश्वर वस्तुन मायाच्छन्न चेतनका ही नाम है, आभासमें प्रतिबिम्बरूप समस्त जगत है । यह कबीर साईं (=स्वामी=देखनेमें समर्थ) देख रहे हैं । इस पदकी अत्यधिक वैदान्तिकता और कबीरके साथ प्रयुक्त 'साईं' शब्दसे इसकी प्रामाणिकतामें सन्देह होना है ।

८ छोटे पदके समान भाव है । जो बछु पिंडे सोइ ब्रह्मडे ॥

९ व्याख्याकृ लिये पृ० १५९ देखिए । छपी पुस्तकोम अन्तिम पक्तिका पाठ है—
बाहर भीतर सकल निरन्तर गुरु परतापै दीठा लो ।

यहाँ ' चित्त अचित्त लो ' पाठ है जिसका भाव यह है कि चेतन और अचेतन दोनों उसकी दो पीठे हैं । दोनोंको वह व्याप्त करके वर्तमान है । किसी किसीने पीठका अर्थ पीड़ा किया है अर्थात् भगवान् चेतन और अचेतन दोनोंके अधिष्ठान है । दृष्टि न मुष्टि=जो न देखनेमें आवे न मुट्टीमें पकड़नेमें आवे । परगट अगोचर=प्रत्यक्ष भी और अप्रत्यक्ष भी ।

१० ऐ फकीर तूने ही मेरी लगन लगा दी । सोवत ही =सोती थी । सब्दन मारि=सगीतकी चोर्स (क्षि० मो० से०) । कहै जगह टीकाकारोंने ' सब्द ' का अर्थ कबीर साहबकी सार वाणी किया है । बूडत ही=हूबती थी । तुम मोसें

फकिरवा=तुमने मुझे बन्धन मुक्त किया । जो पारख पदको प्राप्त कर लेना है वही पारखी गुरु होता है और उसीको 'बन्दी छोड़' कहते हैं । कबीरदास 'बन्दी छोड़' रूपमें सम्प्रदायम प्रसिद्ध हैं । फकीरसे तात्पर्य गुरुसे है । यदि यह पद कबीरदासका हो तो फकीरका लक्षणार्थ परमात्मा ही हो सकता है ।

११ जियरा=जी, हृदय । स्पष्ट है । अन्तिम अंशका अर्थ है कि कबीर कहते हैं कि ऐ सखी, जिनमें प्रेम होता है वही प्रियको जानता है और उसे ही प्यार करता है । बाहरी साज-सिंघारसे क्या होता है । तू व्यर्थ काजल पार रही है (=श्रृंगारका आयोजन कर रही है ।) प्रिय-मिलनकी आशा न कर (क्यों कि तेरे भीतर प्रेम नहीं है) । भाव यह है कि बाहरी पूजा-पाठसे भगवान नहीं मिलते, भीतरका प्रेम चाहिए ।

 पुरातन=पुरानी । ' संसय सोक त्रास 'में 'वहाँ' पद सत्य लोका वाचक है ।
 हिओं=यहाँ=मर्त्यलोक । मदन वन=रामदेवका वन । सोऽह=ब्रह्मके साथ
 जीवकी अभिज्ञता जो 'हमा'का भ्रम है । (दे० अनुच्छेद ५, ६)

१३ अनगढिया देवा=जो देवता मूर्तिरूपमें नहीं गढा जा सकता और जिसका
 आरम्भ नहीं है, रूपातीत अनादि । गढे देव=मूर्ति, अवतार, मूर्ति हाथसे और
 अष्टतार मनसे गढे गए हैं । निरजन=सगुण ब्रह्म, ईश्वर (दे० पृ० १०१) ।
 राग लखै सो तरियौ— जिसने प्रेमको देखा है वह तर गया, राग=प्रेम । छपी
 पोथियोंमें रागके स्थानपर राम पाठ है ।

१४ समुद्र और समुद्रकी तरंगमे कोई भेद नहीं है, केवल नाम और रूपका भेद है। इसी प्रकार जगत ही ब्रह्म है और ब्रह्म ही जगत है। जक्त = जगत। अभेदजन्य प्रेमके लिये दे० पृ० १४४। माल गोयम् = परब्रह्ममें एक जगतके बाद दूसरा जगत इस प्रकार चल रहा है जैसे जपमालाके मनके, चलते हैं। छपी पोथीमें 'कबीर गोयम्' पाठ है जिमका अर्थ है 'कबीर कहते हैं।'

१५ सत्यलोकका वर्णन है। जो कुछ ब्रह्माण्डमें है वह पिंडमें है। हमने पहले ही देखा है कि साधक सहजममाधिके द्वारा सत्यलोकका भी आनंद अपनेमें अनुभव कर सकता है। इस सत्यलोकमें नित्य बसन्त वर्तमान है, वह परम पुरुष

नित्य ही जीवरूप प्रियाके साथ फाग खेल रहे है । छपी पोथियोंमें प्रथम पंक्तिका पाठ इस प्रकार है—

जहँ सतगुरु खेलत रितु वसत । परम जोत जहँ साधु सन्त ॥
 तीन लोफसे भिग राज । जह अनहद बाजा-रजै बाज ॥

इससे अर्थ अधिक स्पष्ट होता है । यहाँ साधु सन्त ज्योतिरूपमें है क्योंकि सत्यलोकमें हंम देह केवल प्रकाश रूपमें रहती है । जहाँ अनहद बाजा बजता रहता है, प्रकाशकी ऐसी धारा बहती रहती है कि कठिनाईसे कोई इस धाराको पार कर सकता है । कोटि कोटि कृष्ण, विष्णु ईश्वर, सरस्वती आदि जहाँ हाथ जोडे रहते हैं, वहाँ अन्य देवताओं मुनियों और गधर्षोंकी क्या गिनती हो सकती है ! साहब = सत्यगुरु, भगवान् । चोवा चन्दन और पुष्प बास तथा फाग खेलनेकी सामग्री है । फाग खेलना लाक्षणिक प्रयोग है । इसका लक्ष्यार्थ जीव और भगवान्का अनन्त प्रेम और मिलनजन्य आनन्द है । छपी पोथियोंमें दो तीन पंक्तियों और हैं पर वे महत्त्वकी नहीं हैं ।

चतुरा झले चतुराडया ओ झल्लै राजा सेन ।

औ चद सूर दोळ झल्ले नाहा पावे भेय ।

इसमें सेध = सेयक, भेय = भेद, रहम्य ।

चौरासी जिव=चौरासी लाख योनियोंमें भटकनेवाले जीव। आने न कइहूँ हाय=कोटि कोटि कल्पसे झल रहे हँ पर कभी मुँहमें ' हाय ' नहीं कहते। धरि वेह =स्वय विष्णु भी बार बार अवतार लेकर डूयी चक्रमें पड़े हुए हैं।

१७ इन पदोंमें सुरत (सुरति) और निरत (निरति) शब्द पारिभाषिक हैं। ज्ञानस्थितिवोध और सन्तोषवोध आदि सापदायिक प्रयोंमें इन शब्दोंकी जटिल व्याख्याएँ मिलनी हैं। निरति जब सुरतिमें मिलती है और सुरति जब शब्दमें मिलती है तो हस वेदकी प्राप्ति होनी है। यह भी कहा गया है कि—

शब्द सुरति और निरति ये कहियेसो हँ तीन ।

निरति लौटि सुरतिहिं मिळा, सुरति शब्दमें लीन ॥

हमने अपनी नई पुस्तकमें इनके अर्थोंकी विस्तृत विवेचना की है। साधारणतः ' रति ' प्रवृत्तिको कहते हैं। निरति बाहरी प्रवृत्तिकी निवृत्तिकी और सुरति

(३) कहें कबीर तहँ रैन-दिन आरती

अन्तर्मुखी वृत्तिको कहते हैं। निरति वस्तुतः अभावात्मक वस्तु है और सुरति भावात्मक। आचार्य क्षितिमोहन सेनने सुरतिको अर्थ प्रेम और निरतिको वैराग्य किया है। जब बाह्यमुखी वृत्ति अन्तर्मुखी वृत्तिमें लीन होती है तो जीवको जीव और ब्रह्मके अमेदकी प्रतीति होती है। कबीरपयी लोग इसको अन्तिम अवस्था नहीं मानते क्योंकि यह भी भ्रम है। जब निरति अमेद प्रतीतिरूपी अहंभावसे मुक्त होकर शब्दमें लीन होती है तभी जीव अपने सच्चे रूपमें स्थित होता है। इस जगतको अन्तःकरण ओर बाह्यकरणोंके द्वारा ही अनुभव किया जाता है। इसी लिये यह सुरति और निरतिके ताने-पानेसे बना है। निरति निश्चितरूप होनेके कारण स्थूल है और सुरति अन्तर्मुखी होनेके कारण सूक्ष्म। इसी लिये इस पदके आरम्भमें ही सुरतिको राग और निरतिको वीणाका तार कहा गया है।

(१) तपन=सूर्य। वरत है=जलते हैं। नौबतिया =शून्यमें नौबत बजती रहती है। पिड . =प्रिय ऐसे शून्यमें विराजमान हैं। छपी बोधियोंके पाठसे इन पदोंमें बड़ा अन्तर है (देखिए शब्दा० ९६ और आगे) जहाँ आवश्यक है वही पाठान्तरोधी चर्चा इस टिप्पणीमें कर दी गई है, सर्वत्र नहीं।

(२) क्षण गात्रै=क्षण भर या पल भरकी आरती वहाँ नहीं होती, सारा सभार दिन-रात आरती उतारता रहता है। सुरत =निश्चान बजता है। गव=विचित्र, अद्भुत। झालरा=झालर, झिलमिल ज्योति।

(३) पीवकी परख=प्रियकी पहचान, प्रियसे सर्वत्र भगवान्का तात्पर्य है। सुरत...आनै=अन्तर्मुखी और वहिर्मुखी प्रवृत्तियोंको मनमें लीन करके इष्ट

और पिगला नाबियोंके मार्गमें उन्हेँ ले आवे अर्थात् समाधिके लिये उद्बुद्ध करे । गंगा=इबा । यमुना=पिगला । वहाँ निर्मल नीर झरता है अर्थात् विशुद्ध ज्ञान-धारा बह रही है । छपी पोथियोंके पाठसे यह भाव अविक स्पष्ट होता है और पदमें तुक भी मिलती है—

कर्म और भर्म समार सब करतु है पीवकी परख कोई सन्त जानै ।
 सुरत और निरत मन पवनको पकरि करि गंग और जमुनके घाट भानै ।
 पांचको नाथ करि साध सोह लिया अधर दरियावका सुख मानै ॥
 कहँ कबीर सोई सत निर्भय बरा जन्म औ मर्नका भर्म भाने ।

इसमें पाँचको नाथसे ज्ञानद्वियोंको वशमें करनेका भाव है । उन्हेँ भी साध ले लेनेका निर्देश है । अ पर दरियाव=शून्यमें स्थित समुद्र (आनंदका सागर) । भानै=बता सकता है या तोड़ (भग कर) सकता है ।

(४) बोजूद (अरबी बोजूद=सत्ता) अस्तित्व । देख,, =उस परम सत्ता (परमात्मा) में अद्भुत विश्राम मिलता है । मौजूद=परमात्माकी निकटताकी अनुभूति । इस पत्तिके बाद छपी पोथियाँमें यह पक्ति है जो अर्थको स्पष्ट करती है—

फेर मन पवनको घेर उलटा चढै
 पांच पच्चीसको उलटि लावै ।

भाव ऊपरके पदके समान ही है अर्थात् मन और पवनको जगत्की ओर जानेसे रोक कर उलटा चलावे—समाधिकी ओर ले जाय और पांच (ज्ञानेंद्रिय) पच्चीस (तत्त्वों) को अन्तर्मुख करे । सुरति अर्थात् अन्तर्मुखी वृत्ति (भगवत्प्रवृत्ति) की डोरी-पर सुख-समुद्र (=परम आनंद) का झूला लगावे । नाद

(शब्द) वहाँ मेघभी भॉति गरजता रहता है और बिना पानीके ही उस समा-
विमें कमल खिला दिखता है, मन-रूपी भँवर उसपर छा जाता है ।

विशेष—‘ वज्र ’, ‘ वुज्र ’ और ‘ मौजूद ’ सूफ़ी साधकोंके पारमार्थिक शब्द हैं । ‘ वज्र ’ उल्लासमयी मत्तावस्थाको कहते हैं । सूफ़ी साधनामें यह साधकके आरुक्छुभावकी पॉचवीं अवस्थाका नाम है । इस अवस्थामें साधकके चित्तमें उल्लासजन्य मत्तताका भाव आता है । इसके बाद जो अवस्था शुरू होती है उसे ‘ वुज्र ’ या स्थितिरूपा सत्ता कहते हैं । इसमें साधकका चित्त निर्द्वन्द्व होकर अपनेमें आप ही स्थिति पा जाता है । इसके बाद वाली अवस्थाका नाम ‘ मौजूद ’ है जिसमें साधक परमात्माका सान्निध्य अनुभव करता है और अपनेको परमसत्तामें स्थित पाता है ।

(५) भाव ऊपरके समान ही है ।

(६) पॉचकी प्यास=विषयोंका सुख (ज्ञानेन्द्रियोंके पॉच विषय हैं—शब्द स्पर्श, रूप, रस, गंध), तीनकी ताप=आविभौतिक, आविदैविक और आ-व्या-त्मिक दुःख, दुःखत्रय । जनम परत है=जन्म और मरणकी वहाँ ताली बजती रहती है । उठत. बाजै=अनाहत ध्वनिकी ज्ञनकार अनुभूत होती रहती है । तिरलोक . त्रिलोक धामका प्रेम वहाँ बज उठा है—(धि० म० से०) । छपी पोथियोंमें ‘ त्रिजुटी-महल ’ पाठ है ।

 होय बेगम्म जो गम्म पावै ।
 गुनाकी गम्म ना अजब विमराम है
 सैन जो लखै सोइ सैन गावै ।

(८) दच्छ और बाम = जिस प्रकार दाहिना और बायों एक ही वस्तुके दो पहलू हैं उसी प्रकार जन्म और मरण भी एक ही सत्ताके दो पहलू हैं । सैन नाहीं=गूगा जिस प्रकार इशारेसे ही कुछ बता सकता है, कहकर नहीं, उसी प्रकार यह रहस्य वचनसे नहीं समझाया जा सकता । वेद और कत्तेब (कुरान) शब्दमय हैं इसलिए उनकी गम्म (पहुँच) वहाँ तक नहीं है ।

(९) शून्यके आसनपर (समाधिकी अवस्थामें आत्मा शून्य या सहस्रारमें रहता है) बैठकर साधनके अगम (रहस्यातीत) रसका प्याला पिया और वह योगकी इस मूल युक्तिको पा गया है । वह बे-गमपुर शहर अर्थात् जिस शहरमें कोई गम नहीं है, केवल आनन्द ही आनन्द है, उसमें बिना किसी पन्थ (सप-दाय-विहित उपासनामार्ग) के पहुँच जाता है । क्यों कि उसे जगदेव जगदी-श्वरकी दया सहज ही मिल जाती है । वहाँ व्यामके द्वारा वह बिना आँखोंकी सहायताके ही उस वस्तुको देखता है जिसे अगम और अगाध कहा गया है

काँचकूँ त्यागकर साँच लगा ।

इस बे-गमपुर शहर तक पहुँच पाना कठिन है । वही पहुँच पाता है जो बे गम हो जाता है, निर्द्वन्द्व हो जाता है ।

(१०) मुख=मूर्ख । तिको=उसका । गूगेका सैनके लिये देखिए ऊपर (८)

(११) बिन. रहै=विना हाथके और विना तौत (तन्त्री=वीणा) के ही बहों नाद गाया करता है (राग बजाया करता है) ।

२१ घर घर दीपक = प्रत्येक घरमें दीपक जलता है अर्थात् प्रत्येक व्यक्तिके भीतर भगवानकी ज्योति है । लखत देखनेका अभ्यास करनेसे वह दिखाई देता है । जीतेजी = जो जीने ही जी मर गया—इच्छा द्वेषसे परे हो

मन रोमांच और औत्सुक्यसे भर गया है—छावै प्रेम मन तनमें। चित्तरूपी कमल-दलका रस पान करो। —मनहीमें उम परम सुखका साक्षात्कार करो। शरीरमें प्रेमकी लहरें तरंगित हों। शोभाका समुद्र जो यह महल है—अन्त करण है—वहाँ मिलनका सूचक शख घण्टा और महनाई आदि वाजे बज रहे हैं। कवीरदास कहते हैं कि ऐ साधु, तू अमर साहबको—अक्षय मुहाग देनाले स्वामीको अपने भीतर ही देर।

सायकालका अंधेरा अनेक सन्तोंके माध्यमे बुढापेका प्रतीक है। किन्तु इस पदमे यह प्रियसमागम-कालका प्रतीक है। पिंडमें इमना योगपरक अर्थ इस प्रकार होगा—सुपुष्पा मार्ग खोल दो और इम प्रकार गगन (ज्ञान, सहस्रार) मे समाधिचिन्त्य प्रेमका अनुभव करो। इस समाधिकालमें शख घण्टा काहल आदिकी ध्वनि पहले सुनाई देनी है फिर वह उपरत हो जाती है और साधक परम-ज्योतिकी अपूर्व गोभा देखता है और परमात्माको घटमें ही प्राप्त करता है।

२४ रहनि अपार = अनन्त कालके लिये रहना, शाश्वत स्थिति। पुरइनि = कमलका पत्ता जिस परसे पानी पाराकी तरह ढरक जाता है। कमलपत्रकी उपमा उन लोगोंके लिये दी जाती है जो सत्कारमें रहकर भी सत्कारके मोहमें नहीं फँसते।

२५ हरिने = भगवान् अपने आपको छिपा रखा है। नफीज=नफीस, सुंदर।

२७ अनचिन्हार=अपरिचित । चूँच=चोंच । सुरत लौ=अन्तर्मुखी समाधि ।

जहाँ हरस तहँ पूरन सुख है, गह सुख कासौ कहला ।
कहै कबीर बल बल सतगुरुकी, धन सिप्यका लहना । (२-८१)

निरगुन आगे सरगुन नाचै,

चेलाके पावँ गुरूजी लागै,

प्रश्न
कबीर, कवसे भये वैरागी ।
तुम्हरी सुरति कहाँको लागी ॥

उत्तर

बइचित्राका मेला नाहीं, नहीं गुरू नहीं चेला ।
सकल पसारा जिन दिन नाहीं, जिहि दिन पुरुष अकेला ॥
गोरख, हम तबके अहै वैरागी ।
हमरी सुरति ब्रह्मसो लागी ।

कहै लहना=बलिहारी है उम मत्यगुरुकी और वन्य है उम शिष्यका ऐसे गुरुको पाना ।

२८ निर्गुणके आगे सरगुण नाच रहे हैं और मोऽहका तूर्य वज्र रहा है । सोऽहं= 'वह मैं ही हूँ' ऐसी अभेदकी प्रतीति । यहाँ गह निर्गुण ब्रह्म है और मैं जीव है । जीवका अहकार ही उसे ब्रह्मके साथ एक अनुभव कराता है, ऐसा कबीरपन्थी मत है (दे० अनु० ४) । यह ऐसा हुआ मानों गुरु (परब्रह्म) चेला (जीव) के पेरों पडते हैं । क्योंकि सोऽहंमें सः (=वह=ब्रह्म) दूरका होनेसे अप्रधान होता है और अह (=मैं=जीव) निकटका होनेसे प्रधान ।

२९ बइचित्रा=वैचित्र्य, नानात्व, एकका अनैक होना । ब्रह्मा टीका= ब्रह्माने सब सृष्टि रचनाका अधिकार नहीं पाया था और विष्णुने भी पालन

ब्रह्मा नाहि जब टोपी दीन्ही, बिस्तु नहीं जब टीका ।
 सिव-शक्तीकै जनमै नाहीं, तवै जोग हम सीखा ॥
 कासीमें हम प्रगट भये है, रामानद चेताये ।
 प्यास अहदकी साथ हम लाये, मिलन-करनको आये ॥
 सहजै सहजै मेला होइगा, जागी भक्ति उतगा ।
 कहै कबीर सुनो हो गोरख, चलो गीतके सगा ॥ (२-८७)

या तरिवरमे एक पखेरू, भोग सरस वह डोलै रे ।
 वाकी सत्र लखै नहिं कोई, कौन भावसो बोलै रे ।
 दुर्म-डार तहँ अति घन छाया, पछी बसेरा लेई रे ।
 आवै साँझ उडि जाय सबेरा, मरम न काहू देई रे ।
 सो पछी मोहि कोइ न बतावै, जो बोले घटमोही रे ।
 अवरन-वरन रूप नाहिं रेखा, बैठा प्रेमके छोही रे ।
 अगम अपार निरन्तर बासा, आवत-जात न दीसा रे ।
 कहै कबीर सुनो भाई साधो, यह कुछ अगम कहानी रे ।
 या पछीके कौन ठौर है, बूझो पडित ज्ञानी रे । (२-९९)

करनेका अधिकार नहीं पाया था । टोपी देना = राज्य पाना । टीका लेना = सिंहासनपर अभिषिक्त होना । प्यास अहदकी = असीमको पानेकी तृष्णा । उतंगा = ऊँची ।

गीत = शब्द . राग । यह पद गोरखनाथ और कबीरके सवादके रूपमें लिखा गया है और परवर्ती जान पड़ता है । इसका भाव है कि आत्मा ब्रह्मा विष्णु और शिवके सृष्टि होनेके पूर्व भी विद्यमान था । इस भावके दोहे क प्र में भी मिलते हैं (दे० पद ११७)

३० इस पदके पखेरू और पछी (पक्षी) शब्द जीवात्मा (हंस) के वाचक हैं । भोग रे = सरस समोगके रससे मस्त होकर वह झूम रहा है । संघ = सधान, खोज, परिचय । दुर्म = द्रुम, पेड़, यहाँ मनुष्यके शरीरसे मतलब है । मरम... रे = किसीको अपना मर्म (रहस्य) नहीं जानने देता ।

निस-दिन सालै घाव, नीद आवै नहीं ।
पिया-मिलनकी आस, नैहर भावै नहीं ॥
खुल नये गगन-किवाड, मन्दिर उजियार भयो ।
भयो है पुरुषसे भेट तन-मन वार दयो ॥ (२-१००)

३२

नाचु रे मेरे मन मत्त होय ।
प्रेमको राग बजाय रैन-दिन शब्द सुनै सब कोइ ।
राहु-केतु नवप्रह नाचै जन्म जन्म आनद होइ ।
गिरी-समुन्दर धरती नाचै, लोक नाचै हँस-रोइ ।
छापा-तिलक लगाइ बॉस चढ, हो रहा जगसे न्यारा ।
सहस कला कर मन मेरौ नाचै, रीझै सिरजनहारा ॥ (२-१०३)

३३

मन मस्त हुआ तब क्यो बोले ।
हीरा पायो गौठ गठियायो, बार बार बाको क्यो खोले ।

३१ गगन किवाड़=शून्यका दरवाजा, यान साधनाक पक्षम समाधि ।

३२ भाव यह है कि सृष्टिके आनन्दसे समस्त चराचर ब्रह्माण्ड नाच रहा है, ग्रह-तारिकाएँ, पहाड़-समुद्र सब उल्लासके साथ नाच रहे हैं । ईसकर या रोकुर सारा लोक ही नाच रहा है । फिर, ऐ मेरे मन, क्यों न मेरे साथ तू भी मत्त होकर नाचे ? नाचना तो पड़ेगा ही, फिर प्रसन्न होकर आनन्दका नृत्य कर । छापा-तिलक लगानेवाले अपनेको दुनियासे विशेष समझते हैं । उनका अपनेको अलग समझना वैसा ही उपहामासुपद है जैसा धरती पहाड़को नाचते देख कोई आइसी बरतीमें बॉम गाड़कर ऊपर जा बैठे और समझ ले कि वह इस विकट नृत्यसे छुटकारा पा गया । मेरा मन सहस्रकलापर नाच रहा है और इस नाचके सिरजनहार रीझ रहा है, क्यो कि उसने लीलाहीके लिये तो सब कुछ सिरजा है ।

३३ इस पदके भीतरी अर्थके लिए पृ० ११४-२१५ देखिए । सुरत-कलारी

हलकी थी तब चढी तराजू, पूरी भई तब क्यो तोले ।
 सुरत-कलारी भई मतवारी, मदवा पी गई बिन तोले ॥
 हसा पाये मानसरोवर, ताल तलैया क्यो डोले ।
 तेरा साहब्र है घरमाहीं, बाहर नैना क्यो खोले ।
 कहै कबीर सुनो भाई साधो, साहन मिल गये तिल ओले ॥
 (२-१०५)

३४

मोहि तोहि लागी कैसे छूटे ।
 जैसे कमलपत्र जल बासा,
 ऐसे तुम साहिव हम दासा ॥
 जैसे चकोर तकत निस चदा,
 ऐसे तुम साहिव हम बदा ॥
 मोहि तोहि आदि-अन्त बन आई,
 अब कैसे लगन दुराई ॥
 कहै कबीर हमरा मन लागा,
 जैसे सरिता सिध समाई ॥ (२-११०)

३५

बालम, आओ हमारे मेह रे ।
 तुम बिन दुखिया देह रे ।
 सब कोई कहे तुम्हारी नारी, मोकों लागत लाज रे ।
 दिलसे नहीं दिल लगाया, तब लग कैसा सनेह रे ।
 अन्न न भावै नींद न आवै, गृह-बन धरै न धीर रे ।
 कामिनको है बालम प्यारा, ज्यो प्यासेको नीर रे ।

• तोले=सुरतिहपी कलारी (मद्य बेचनवाली) ने मत्त होकर बिना तोले ही बहुत पी लिया । तिल ओले=तिलकी ओटमें ।

है कोई ऐसा पर-उपकारी, पियसो कहै सुनाय रे ।
अब तो बेहाल कवीर भयो है, विन देखे जिव जाय रे ॥ (२-११३)

कहै कवीर सोई लुन जागै ।
शब्द-ज्ञान उर-अन्तर लागै ॥ (२-१२६)

सती घमसान पल एक लागै ।

देह परजन्तका काम भाई ॥ (१-३४)

बलवान् होता है वहाँ काम नहीं रहता । ज्ञान और अज्ञानका तथा प्रेम और कामका सम्बन्ध प्रकाश और अन्धकारके सम्बन्धके समान है ।

(२) समसेर=तलवार । (दे० पृ० १६०)

(३) शूर युद्धसे भागता नहीं और जो भागता है वह शूर नहीं । तनहूषी खेत (मैदान) में काम-क्रोध आदि शत्रुओंसे घमसान मची हुई है । साही=साथी ।

(४) दे० पृ० १९० । बिकट बेंडा=अत्यन्त कठिन ।

सहज सुन्नमे रहै समाना, सहज समाधि लगावै ।
उन्मुनि रहै ब्रह्मको चीन्है, परम तत्वको ध्यावै ।

३९ यह शरीर तम्बूरेका तार है । ऐचत . का=जिग प्रकार तम्बूरेकी खटियों मरोरनेसे और तार सींचनेसे सुन्दर ध्वनि निकलती है उसी प्रकार इन्द्रिय-दमन और मनके सयमसे भगवानका राग इससेसे प्रफट होता है । रागमें इलेष है (१) सगीत (२) प्रेम । टटे =जब इन्द्रिय और मन बुद्धि आदिका समवाय नष्ट हो जाता है, यह स्थूल और सूक्ष्म शरीर चूर्ण-विचूर्ण हो जाता है, तब जीव निज स्वरूपमें दिखर होता है । यह अगम पन्थ किसी शरका ही हो सकता है ।

४० सच्चा योग गृहस्थाश्रममें ही सम्भन है । सहज सुन्न ..=सहज ही शक्तमें

सुरत-निरतसो मेला करके, अनहद नाद बजावै ।
 घरमे बसत बस्तु भी घर है, घर ही बस्तु मिलावै ।
 कहै कबीरा सुनो हो साधू, ज्योका त्यो ठहरावै ॥ (१-६९)

समा जाय (हठयोग आदिनी क्रियासे नहीं), सहज समाधि लगावे (दे० पृ० १५१) । उन्मुनि=उन्मनी (दे० पृ० ५०) । सुरत-निरत (देखिए ऊपर पद १७ की व्याख्या) । ज्योका त्यो=निजएप, हस देह (दे० अनु० ४) ।

 कहै कबीर जेहि सूझ-ब्रह्म जस, तेई तस आज सुनायो ॥ (१-९४)

४३ भाव यह है कि भगवान् तो प्रकृतशामी हैं फिर भी मूर्ख लोग उन्हें बाहर खोजते फिरते हैं । आत्मज्ञानमे ही वह मिलते हैं, तीर्थप्रतसे नहीं ।

४४ गैव=अद्भुत ।

४५ पावक =काठमे सर्वत्र अभि है फिर बट प्रकृत कैसे होती है और प्रकृत होनेके बाद काठको भस्म करके ऊहों लीन हो जाती है ? भाव यह है कि भगवान् भी सर्वव्यापक हैं, साधनामे मिलते हैं और सावकके स्थूल शरीरको

समाप्त करके फिर भी सर्वव्यापक बन रहते हैं । साधकके भीतर भगवानकी ही उद्योति जलती है ।

४६ काया (शरीर) की शुद्धि सहज ही होती है, कृन्त्राचारसे नहीं । जिस प्रकार वटके बीजमें ही उसके वृक्षकी सत्ता रहती है और उस सत्ताके अभावम वृक्ष भी नहीं होता और पवन-पानी आदि भी नहीं पा सकता उसी प्रकार आपा (=आत्मा) में ही सब कुछ है । जीवात्मा वस्तुतः परमा मासे भिन्न नहीं है । जलसे भरा हुआ घड़ा जैसे समुद्रमें डुनाया जाय वैसे भगवान्की असीम सत्ताके भीतर ही इस शरीरसे आच्छन्न भगवद्दश जीव है । उनको...=उनका नाम लेना लक्षित नहीं । क्योंकि नाम लेनेसे भ्रम हो सकता है कि वे मुझसे भिन्न हैं ।

४७ तरवर=ससार, मूल बिना खड़ा है अर्थात् मायाजन्य है । गुरू=

६८ मुरलियाकै धुन=ब्रह्माण्डमे व्याप्त अनाहत नाद जिसे साधक लोग भगवान्की पुकार कहा करते हैं । इस पदकी व्याख्या समाधिके पक्षमें हो सकती है । बिना बसन्तका फूलनेवाला फूल शून्यका सहस्रार चक्र है । भँवरका लक्ष्यार्थ मन है । मेघ बरसाने=समाधिकी पूर्णताकी हालतमें ' धर्म मेघ ' की धारासार वृष्टि होती है । उस समय योगी समस्त क्लेशों और कर्मासि निवृत्त हो जाता है (पातंजल सूत्र ४।२९) । यहाँ उसीसे मतलब है । तारी लगना=समाधि लगना ।

पाई खाई=मैंने कूँचेसे सूता साफ करनेकी क्रिया पा ली है, यह बात तूने त्रिश्वास कर ली, लेकिन मैं तो पाईकी तुरिया भी बेचकर खा गई ! उस क्रियाका साधन भी हजम नर गई । माई री कौन बुने ! ऐसैं इस प्रकार (इस प्रेमका) कुछ ऐसा रस बन आया कि मने पाईपर यह सारा रस फैला दिया है, कौन बुने यह कपड़ा ! (इस रससे मत्त होनेके कारण मुझे दिख रहा है कि) ताना नाच रहा है, बाना नाच रहा है, कूँचा और भरना (तानाको भरनेवाला सूत) भी नाच रहे हैं और करिगह (बुननेके स्थान) में बैठा हुआ कबीर भी नाच रहा है । माईरी, इस तानेको चूहा काट गया है (यह कपड़ा बुननेके काम लायक रहा ही नहीं), कौन बुने भला इसे !

१०४ यह बीजकका प्रसिद्ध पद (शब्द ६४) है । टीकाकारोंने इसके विस्तृत अर्थ दिए हैं ।

अहुँठा=ब्रह्म मापनेका गज, यहाँ साडे तीन हाथ मापका शरीर । चरखी, वह यंत्र है जिपपर सूत लपेटा जाता है । सर-खूटी=सरकण्डेकी लकड़ियाँ जो तानेको अलग अलग किये रहती हैं । राम=चैतन्य, नारायण=चैतन्यका अधिष्ठान जड़ । मॉडी=कपड़ेमें कलप देनेका मसाला विशेष । चौद सूर्य=इन्द्रा और पिगला नादियाँ । मॉझ-दीप=मध्यवर्ती द्वीप, सुषुम्ना । त्रिभुवननाथ=मन । मुररिया= (१) मॉजते समय सूत टूट जानेपर जब उसे बाँधते हैं तो 'मुरेरा' देना कहते हैं, (२) मुरलीको स्मरण दिलाता है । पाई=सूत साफ करनेकी क्रिया । भरना=कमठियोंके बीचसे सूत निकालकर ताना भरा जाता है । व बाँधे=तानाके आधे आधे सूत नीचे ऊपर ले जानेके लिये राखकी कमचियोंके छेदोंसे एक एक तागा निकालकर बाँधते हैं, उसे बै बाँधना कहते हैं । माझा=सूतको मॉजकर साफ करना । तिहुँलोक=तीन फेरी करके सूतको गोंस देते हैं उसे

 तीनि लोक एक करिगह कीन्हौ, दिगमग कीन्हौ ताना ।

तिलोक कहते हैं (विश्व०) उबान=रूपमें जो सूत बाहर रह जाता है उसे उबान कहते हैं । करिगह=रूपका बुननेका स्थान । दिगमग=जहाँ तहो डाल देना (विश्व०), दूसरे टीकाकार ' उगमग ' अर्थात् चंचल अर्थ करते हैं । बैठावन=रूपके समेटकर जुलाहा सूतको बैठावन बटाता है अर्थात् जमाता है । पदका भाव यह है कि ऐ चपल वृत्तिवाले मनुष्य (जुलाहा), हरि-नामका कपड़ा बुनो जिसका देवता, मनुष्य और मुनि ध्यान करते हैं । इस शरीरके भीतर अगुणमात्र जीवको मापनेका गज बनाओ, उन चारों वेदोंको चरखी बनाओ जिनमें सद्-विचारके सूत गिपटे हुए हैं, चेतन (राम) और अचेतन (नारायण) को सर और खंडी बनाओ, भवमागरको कठौता बनाओ और उस कठौतेम इस त्रिगुणात्मक शरीरमें ही मॉड़ी समजो । कोइ विरला ही इस जानता है, क्योंकि यद्यपि यह कपड़ेकी मॉडाकी भाँति फलस्वरूप है तो भी कपड़ेकी मॉडाके समान ही मॉजनेपर निर्मल बना देनेका साधन भी है । जुलाहे कपड़ेमें मॉड़ी देकर मॉजत है जिससे कपड़ेकी मैल कट जाती है । यहाँ मन ही मॉजनेवाला है । इस कपड़ेक तानको इड़ा और पिगला नाडियोंके गोडेसे फेलाओ और मनके द्वारा उनकी मध्यवर्ती नाडी सुषुम्नाका शोवन करो (मॉजो) । मॉजते समय यदि सूत टूट जाय तो श्याम नामकी गाँठ बाँध दो जो श्यामकी मुरलीके समान तुम्हागा ध्यान अपनी ओर रींचे रहेगा । कँचेसे सूता साफ करके जब इरा हरिनामके बख्खवा भरना भरो तो ' राम ' नामके दो अक्षराका बँध बाध लो । जिस प्रकार जुलाहे ब भरनेके बाद तिलोका बाँधते हैं उसी प्रकार तुम भी त्रिलोक्यको इस नाममें बाँध लो, तब तो कहीं कोई वस्तु उबान न रह जायगा । तीनों लोकको ही करिगह बनाओ, फिर तानाको उठाकर अलग रखो और आदि पुरुषका बैठावन बैठाओ अर्थात् इस हरिनामके बख्खके प्रत्येक सूतको इस प्रकार जमाकर बटाओ कि आदिपुरुषमय हो जाय और तुम्हें अपना सच्चा रूप सूझ जाय । कबीरदास कहते हैं कि इसी प्रकारका कपड़ा बुनकर वे ज्योतिर्म समा गए हैं ।

१०८ उन्मुनि=समाधि । गगनरस=शून्यचक्रमें प्राय आनन्द, भावाभाव-विनिर्मुक्ता अवस्था (दे० पृ० ७६) । गुड करि ससारी=(मदिरा रूपक है) ज्ञानके गुड और ध्यानके महुआसे ससाररूपी भट्टीमे महारस (आनन्द) की मदिरा चुआई । दोनों लोकमें दो पुटोंको जोडकर यह रस चुआया गया है । भट्टीको जलानेके लिये काम ओर क्रोधके दो पलीते बनाए हैं । सुषुम्ना नाडी रूपी नारी सहजमे समाकर इस रसको पिला रही है और पीनेवाला छक कर पी रहा है । इस महारसके पानसे ससारके बंधन—सकोच, झिझक, लज्जा—छूट गए हैं । सुनि—शून्य चक्रमें मादल बज रहा है और वहाँ मेरा मन नाच रहा है । गुरुप्रसादि काछै=गुरुके प्रसादसे सहज ही सुषुम्नाके पाम मैंने अमृत-रस पा लिया । काययोगके द्वारा जो रस मिलता है वह क्षणिक होता है किन्तु जब तक सहज समाधिकी अवस्था प्राप्त नहीं होती, जब तक ज्ञान और ध्यानका बना हुआ महारस नहीं पी लिया जाता तब तक पूर्ण मिलन नहीं होता । पूरेके मिलनेसे ही वास्तविक आनन्द मिलता है । तप अर्थात् कृच्छ्र साधनाका ताप दूर होता, भव-बन्धन छूट जाता है और ज्योतिमे ज्योति मिल जाती है ।

इस पदमें बताया गया है कि मदिरा (पचमकारका एक प्रधान उपादान) से मत्त बनना कोई बड़ी बात नहीं है । ज्ञान और ध्यानके द्वारा सहज ही

अजर=जराहीन, नित्य नवीन । दसवे धर(=दसवें द्वारपर समाधि लगी, तब वह अलख पुरुष दिखा जिसका (योगी लोग) ध्यान करते हैं (दे० पृ० ६३) बिना ताल परै=बिना सरोवरके कमल, कमलके बिना फूल, चन्द्रके बिना ज्योत्स्ना आदिसे कवीरका तात्पर्य यह है कि प्रफुल्लता या आह्लादकता प्रभृति वर्म लोकमें बिना ठोस गुणमय आधारके नहीं दिखते, किन्तु जिस आनन्दलोककी बात वे बता रहे हैं वहाँ प्रफुल्लता आदि वर्म तो हैं पर उनके ठोस आधार पुष्पकी आकृति आदि नहीं हैं और न उनके ठोस गुणमय हेतु सरोवर आदि हैं वहाँ । प्रफुल्लता आह्लादकता आदि अनवच्छिन्न (एवम ट्रेकट) वर्मकी विभूति मात्र होती है ।

१११ अमीरस=अमृत रस । अस्मानी शब्द=अनाहत नाद । सरिता... . सोखै=नदी उमड़कर समुद्रको सुखा लेती है अर्थात् भक्ति भवसागरको सुखा देती है, संसारिक ताप दूर कर देती है । ररकार=ध्वनिविशेष ! कवीरसम्प्रदायमें तीन ध्वनियोंके सुनाई देनेकी चर्चा आती है—सोहँ सोहँ (उँ०) और ररकार ।

कोट =पानी—करोडो विजलीकी झिलमिलाहट वहाँ झलकती रहती है और दिन रात (आनन्द-गारिकी) वर्षा होती रहती है । एक तत राजै=एक समान विराजते हैं ।

११२ सीधा अर्थ यह जान पड़ता है कि रामकी माया, चाहे तो रमको राजा कर दे, राजाको रम, लौंगमें फूल लगा दे, चदनमें फूल, रेडको मलयागिरि बना दे और उससे सुगंधी निकलने लगे, अवा तीन लोक ब्रह्माण्ड खडम तमासा देखने लगे, पगु (लंगडा) मेरु सुमेरु लौधने लगे और मुक्त (निर्वाध) होकर ससारमें डोलता फिरे, गूंगा ज्ञान विज्ञान प्रकाशित करता फिरे और अनहद बानी बोलने लगे, आकाशको बौधकर पातालमें पठा दे और शेष नागको स्वर्गमें भेज दे । कबीर कहते हैं कि राम ही राजा है । जो कुछ कहे वही उन्हें शोभता है । सांप्रदायिक व्याख्याओंके लिए दे० शब्द २३, पर त्रिज्या और विद्व० ।

१२३ (१) पानीमें आग लगी और कवू=भइभूजा, आग लगानेवाला, जल गया । आग भगवद्विरह, पानी भव-सागर और कवू मनकी कल्पना है । टीकाओंमें ' कवू ' का अर्थ कीचड़ दिया हुआ है (कर्म रुदय कवू) । उस अर्थको माननेपर भाव यह होगा कि पानी कीचड़ तक जल गया उसका कोई अवशेष नहीं बचा । उतर-दखिनके पडिता=उत्तरके ज्ञानमार्गी योगी, दक्षिणके वेणवमार्गी आचार्य नहीं समझ सके । (२) गुरु (भगवान्) ने आग लगाई । चेला=जीवका अहंकार भाव अर्थात् अपनेको पृथक् माननेका अभिमान । आग=विरहामि । तिणका=इस शब्दके दो भाव हैं, एक तृण और दूसरा उनका । (तदीय जन) अर्थात् भक्त । तिणका अर्थ हुआ निरभिमान भक्त । गलि पूरेकै लागि=पूरेके गले लगकर, पूर्णसे मिलकर (भक्त बच गया) । (३) अहेडी=अहेरी (गुरु) । दौ=दावामि (विरहामि) । दाझत है=जलता है । मिरग=मृग (मन) (४) पाणी. परजली=पानीमें प्रज्वलित हुई । अप्रबल=बलवान् । सल्लिता=नदी । (५) समुद्र (भवसागर), नदियों=प्रवृत्तियों । मच्छ=जीव । रूखी=ऊर्ध्व ब्रह्माण्डमें ।

११४ फुलवा=कमल । भारा=जीवात्मा । भंवर-गुफामें ६२ दलके श्वेत कमलकी वात बताई जाती है । इमीको ' निजपट ' कहते हैं । यहाँ पहुँचनेपर जीवका अहभाव नष्ट हो जाता है । परन्तु यहाँ भी उसे सच्चा ज्ञान नहीं प्राप्त होता । जब उस गुफासे ऊपर उठना है तब उसे निरकार देशमें सत्य पुरुषका साक्षात्कार होता है । फिर वह संमस्त आशा आर्कावाओं और राग-विरागके ऊपर चला जाता है । फूलके छनेसे मरनेवाला जीवका अहभाव है और फूलक नष्ट होनेसे निराश होना उसी परमपदको सूचित करता है । कमलोंकी माला गंधनेवाली कुण्डलिनी है ।

११५ (१) चन्द्र सूर=इडा और पिंगला । वक नालि=कुण्डलिनी । पौच पियरिया=पौंच ज्ञानेन्द्रिय । पिय=मन ।

(४) गंगा=इडा, यमुना=पिगला, त्रिवेणी=ब्रह्मरन्ध्र (दे० पृ० ४५) ।

(५) नाद विद=नाद और विदु । कनिहार=कर्णधार, पतवार पकड़नेवाला । गुरगमि=गुरुके बताए मार्गसे ।

अवधू, ऐसा ग्यान विचार ।

११७ एक सौ पाचवे पद्यके समान भाव है ।

११८ मायाका वर्णन है । कारे=काले ऋगाले, गृहस्थ । युवा । मूडे=मुडित
केगवाले, सन्यासी । रहै न मैके, =न मफ रहती है न सासुरे जाती है, फिर
भी पतिके साथ भोनी है । माया अनादि है इसलिये उसके मैकेका प्रश्न ही नहीं
उठता, उसका पतिगृह समस्त जगत है अतएव सासुरे जानेका सवाल नहीं
उठता । वह मायापति अपर ब्रह्मक साथ नित्य बनी रहती है ।

११९ भरे=सेरेपर, छोटी नाउपर । पेठपत्तोको काटकर उतराकर बहने लायक
भेला बनाया जाता है । यहाँ जब शरीरसे मतलब है । जो लोग इस जब शरीर-

रूपी भेलेको ही सय कुछ समझकर डसीपर भरोसा करके भव-सागरमें चल पड़े वे अधधर (आधी धारमें) डूब गए । निराधार=शरीरको सय कुछ न समझकर इसके भीतरवाले चैतन्यको आधार करनेवाले । अवर चले=जो लोक अधर मार्गसे या शून्य मार्गसे चले वे नगरमें अर्थात् अपने गन्तव्य स्थान तक पहुँच गए । बाट= रास्ता, बाध्याचार, मंदिर=घर । चहूँ दिसि भीगे=जो लोग त्रिषय-वासनाके मंदिरमें घुसे वे भीगे गए, पर जो बाहर रहे वे सूखे रहे । सरि=चितापर, भगवद्विरहकी आगसे मतलब है । दूषा=दुखी रहे । बिन नैनन=बाहरी आँखोंके अभावमें और ज्ञान-चक्षुसे । लोचन अछते=बाहरी आँखोंके रहते हुए ।

१२० भक्तिरूपी राम गुनकी बेल (लना) को अवधूत गोरषनाथने जाना था । न उमकी जाति (नाति) है, न रूप है, न छाया है । बिना पानीके बुद्धि पाती है । बेलके दो सिरे हैं जिनमें एक अवनीमें और दूसरी गगनमें फैली हुई

सावज न होय भाई सावज न होइ,
वाकी मासु भखैं सब कोइ ।

सावज एक सकल ससारा अविगत वाकी बाता ।
पेट फारि जो देखिय रे भाई, आहि करेज न आँता ।

हे । यह सहज बेल जय फूलने लगी अपनी डालियों और कोपलांकी फैलाकर—
तय मनत्पी हाथीने इसके थालेको उरबाद कर दिया फिर तो सतगुरुने इस
बेलको सहारा दिया । पाँच मखियोन मिलनर (पाँच ज्ञानद्वियोने) इस राम-
गुनकी बेलको हवाकी ओर बाधीम पानी डालनर सीचा (त्रिपय रससे सीचा) ।
परन्तु आश्चर्य यह है कि इस बेलमे जय फ़ाटा जाता है तब तो इसमे नये नये
कोपल आते हैं और जय सीचा जाता है तो कुम्हला जाती है (क्योंकि काट-
नेका मतलब है रामगुणरूपी बेलीको नीचेसे काटकर ऊपरकी ओर ले जाना और
सींचनेसे मतलब है विषय रससे सिक्क करना) । कोई बिरला ही योगी हय
निरन्तर सहज लताको जानता है ।

इस पदसे मिलता-जुलता एक गोरखवानी (पृ० १०६-१०८) में छपा है ।
इस पदमें ' तत बेली ' अर्थात् तत्परूप लताकी चर्चा है । कबीरवाले पदमें
जिस स्थानपर " बेलडिया " आदि पंक्तियों है उहाँ गोरखवानीवाले पदका
पाठ इस प्रकार है—

बेलडिया दौ लागी अवयू, गगन पहुँती झाला ।

जिम जिम बेली दाक्षबा लागी, तय मेल्हें कूपल डाला ॥

अतिम पंक्तियों इस प्रकार हैं ।

काटत बेली कूपले मेलहीं सींचतड़ा कुमलाये ।

मछिन्द्रप्रसादें जती गोरख बोल्या नित नवेलड़ी धाये ॥

१२१ सावज=शिकार (अर्थात् मायाद्वारा कल्पित यह मिथ्या जगत्), मासु
भखैं=मास खाते हैं, भोग करते हैं । सावज बाता=यह सारा ससार एक
शिकार है जिसकी बात समझमें नहीं आती । आहि, आँता=न कलेजा है, न
आँत है क्योंकि वह सपूर्ण मिथ्या है । हाइ—पवारै=धिवेकी लोग उसका हाइ

 सीर=सिर । सभ . गावे=सभी पडित इसे देखकर गोरख अधेमें पड़ गये हैं और
 कबीरदास कहते हैं कि वे लोग 'बनोरी' (अपने मनसे बनाई हुई, बनावटी
 बातें) गा रहे हैं ।

१२२ मायाका वर्णन है । मूसि=ठगर ।

जो ध्यानरूपी सूत्र तयार हुआ वह जब टूटा तो गगनवास या शून्य-समाधि भी नष्ट हो गई और जो अनाहत ध्वनि सुनाई देती रही वह भी न जाने कहीं चली गई। मुझे यह सदेह बराबर उना हुआ है पर कोई समझाके नहीं कहता (दे० खसमपर विचार)। वस्तुतः जो परमपद है वहाँ पिण्ड, ब्रह्माण्ड, पचतत्त्व, इडा पिंगला आदि नादियों यह मय कुछ है ही नहीं (अतएव इन्हींके आश्रयसे जिस स्थानतक गया है वह इन्हींके समान नाशमान है)। जोवनहार = देवनेवाला आत्मा तो इनके अतीत है और सदा उसके साथ है, ये सब गुण उसीमे समा जाते हैं। तनको विसवासा = उस समयका मालिक अब सेवक हो जाता है अर्थात् मनुष्यका वह अहभाव जो इन क्रियाओंके समय मालिक बना रहता है, परमपुरुषके साक्षात्कार होनेके बाद निरहंकार होकर दास हो जाता है। अहभाव इस निरहंकारपर विश्वास नहीं करता और

यह उसपर नहीं । कहै = कबीर कहते हैं कि इस सेवक भावका जो धामा है (निरीह भक्तका जो ध्यान सूत्र है । वह मेरी समझमें ऐसा है जिससे कभी भी समाधि नहीं टूटती (क्योंकि वह सहज हो जाती है) । जो उस परमपदमें एकमेक होकर समा नहीं गए उन्हें सीखने सुनने और पढ़नेसे क्या होता है ।

१२४ नारि=वाणी । कपरा . = कपड़ा नहीं पहनती, नगी ही रहती है । ससार को भरमानेवाले तथाकथित पंडितोंकी वाणी केवल हाथसे लिरती हुई है (समझी हुई नहीं है) । अतएव कर पल्लवके बलसे ही खेलती है । उसके अर्थ गूढ नहीं होते इस लिये वह मानों ऐसी है जो कपड़ा नहीं पहनती, उघाडी फिरता है । इस धन (धन्या=घरकी दुलारी) को निर्जीव वस्तुएँ ही प्यारी हैं । इसकी वीणा उलटी सुलटी बजती रहती है, किसीको मारती है, किसीको उबारती है । परन्तु जो भगवानके भक्त है उनपर इसकी प्रभुता नहीं चलती । वह उनकी दासी हो जाती है । इस प्रकार वह किसीको सुख देती है किसीको दुःख ।

१२५ गुनवन्ती बेलरी=भक्ति (तुल० पद १२०) । करवाई बेलि=माया । सिद्ध नाम=भगवानके नामकी सिद्धि ।

ए करुवाई बेलरी, है करुवा फल तोय ।
सिद्ध नाम जब पाइये, बेलि विछोहा होय ॥

१२६ दुद=दूध, जखेडा । बानी=बानेका, ढँगका वर्ण बान । चातक=अभिलाषी पक्षी । भला सेमरकी शाखा बढ़ानेसे और अनुपम टंगका सुदर फूल गिलानेसे क्या फायदा जिसमें अनेक फलामिलायी पक्षी लगे रहते हैं, पर फल चखते ही सूखा (तोता) उड़नेको बाध्य होतौ है । खजूरकी बडाई (लडाई) से क्या लाभ जब ग्रीष्म ऋतुमें उसकी छाया किसी काम नहीं आती । ऐसी निरर्थक बातें तुम्हारी मायाने खड़ी कर रखी हैं । वह अपनी चातुरी औरोंको सिखा देती है और वे भी इसी प्रकार निष्फल सौंदर्यसे दूसरोंको धोखा देते हैं । कामिनी (स्त्री) और सोनेमें यही सयानापन है । कवीर कहते हैं कि हे मन्तो, (यह सब देखकर) हमने रामचरणमें ही प्रीति मानी है ।

१४३ करीम=दयालु । खाक एर बहुतेरा=एक ही मझीसे अनेक रूप उत्पन्न किए हैं । अर्ध नीर=मेघमा पानी । नूर=प्रकाश । अवलिय=ओलिया, सन्त, महात्मा । विकल करि=गुणगान करके । रव=पालनकर्ता ।

१४४ परम पदमा वर्णन है । जाऊ जोय=उहा बारह महीने निल्य वसन्त रहता है । यद्यपि आम्र (तेज) अगुण्ड धारा बरमती रहती है तो भी वन अट्टारह मार (सपूर्ण) हरयाली वारण क्रिय रहता है । पानीके प्रति लोग आदर नही रखते तो भला पवनमे मेल बोई जा सकती है । पानी=मक्ति । पवन=हठ-योग । वहाँ बिना वृक्षके ही आकाश पुष्पोसे भरा रहता है, शिव और ब्रह्मा उन फूलोंकी महकका रस लेते हैं, सनकादिक मुनि अमर होकर भूले हुए हैं और चौरासी लाख योनियोंको देखते रहते हैं ।

जो पै बीजरूप भगवाना,

खोंड कहा मुख मीठा ॥
पावक कहा पाव जे दासै,
जल कहि त्रिपा बुझाई ।
भोजन कहा भूख जे भाजै,
तो सब कोइ तिरि जाई ॥

१५२ यदि भगवान् बीजरूप ह तब तो सब उन्दीका परिणाम है फिर तन मन अहंकार तथा सत्त्व-रज तम आदि गुणोंकी पृथक् सत्ता कहीं रही ? वेद और वेदके वोवक ये दोनों ही ब्रह्म हुए, जिनसे विष और अमृत नाना फल लगे हुए हैं । कबीर कहते हैं कि यह सारा प्रपञ्च का कल्पित है, इसमें भला किससे छूटा जाय और किससे उलझा जाय । यह पद कुछ पाठान्तरके साथ बीजकमें आता है । कुछ टीकाकार लोग इसे परिणामवादके खण्डनमें लिखा हुआ बताते हैं ।

१५३ पंडित झूठा वाद बदता है । राम कहने मात्रसे यदि दुनिया गति पाती तो खांब (चीनी) कहनेसे मुँह मीठा हो जाता । आग कहनेसे दाह

होता और पानी कहनेसे प्यास बुझती, इत्यादि । नरकै., जानै=आदमीके साथ
 जब तक तोता रहता है तब तक हरिनाम लेना है । पर जब कभी जंगलमें उड़
 जाता है तो याद भी नहीं करता ।

१५४ पंडित, वाद=विवाद न कर । यह सब कुछ मिट्टी ही है । थभा=खंभा ।
 व्यंद=पिंदु । भासै=तोड़ता है । घडै=गडता है ।

१५५ विआइल= प्रसव क्रिया । नारि=माया । किसीने मायाको जन्म नहीं दिया । अर्थात् वह अनादि है । रह कुमारि=वह किसीकी विधिवूर्वक पत्नी नहीं हुई । यह खाय=इसने पहले पद्मिनीका रूप पाया । पद्मिनी, सुलक्षणा स्त्री । बादमें सर्पिणीकी भाँति सारे समारम्भे खा गई । ई नाह=इस नवयुवतीके नाह (पति) इसके सामने अभी बच्चे ही हैं क्या कि शिव विश्व आदि जिन देवताओको ' मायापति ' समझा जाता है वे वस्तुतः मायाद्वारा कल्पित उपाधियोंके कारण ही पृथक् पृथक् नामगाले देवता बने हुए ह । माया अनादि है देवगण सादि । इसी लिये यह स्त्री निन्ध ही उनके सामने तेज बनी रहती है ॥ निताह=निन्ध ही । कह मारि=कवीर कहते हैं कि यह माया समस्त जगत्को प्रिय लगती है किन्तु अपने बालकोंको ही मार कर जी रही है । क्यों कि जन्म-मृत्युके भवचक्रमें पड़े हुए जीव वस्तुतः मायाके कारण ही नद्वर शरीर आदिको आत्मा मानकर नाना प्रकारका बलेश पाते हैं और बार बार जन्म मरणके चक्रमें पड़ते हैं । इस प्रकार यह माया अपने ही बालकोंको मार रही है ।

२५५ बाजतरी=यत्री, वीणा । कलि ककुही=निकृष्ट वाद्य । टीकाकारोंका कहना है कि बाजतरीरो ससारके लोगोंकी नाना मतवाली नाणी और कलि ककुहीसे वेदुआ शास्त्री पुराणिक, आदिका तात्पर्य है (त्रिज्या० पृ० ६४७) परन्तु सीधा अर्थ यह जान पड़ता है कि तेरे भीतर जो उत्तम आनन्द भ्रमि है उसे ही बजने दे, दुनियाकी टण्टोंमें न पड़ । तुझे दूसरोंकी क्या पढी है अपनी ही सम्हाल । विश्व० में कलि-कुकुरी पाठ है और अर्थ यह किया गया है कि यह शरीर यन्त्र (वीणा) है और बजानेवालेके अधीन है । वह जैसा चाहेगा बजाएगा । तू मनको ' जो बैकल कुकुरियोंके समान है ' मत छेड़, नहीं तो उसका विष तुझे भी बैकल कर देगा ।

२५६ रामके प्रति प्रेमभक्तिशून्य समाधि, अजपाजाप और अनहद नादकी अनुभूतिकी अपेक्षा अधिक महत्त्वपूर्ण और शाश्वत है ।

कूर्मपुराणम्

पूर्वभागः

प्रथमोऽध्यायः

(इन्द्रह्युम्न ब्राह्मण का मोक्ष)

नारायणं नमस्कृत्य नरं चैव नरोत्तमम्।
देवीं सरस्वतीं चैव ततो जयमदीरयेत्॥१॥

श्रीनारायण को, नरों में उत्तम श्री नर को, तथा श्री देवी सरस्वती को प्रथम नमस्कार करने के पश्चात् जय ग्रन्थ का आरंभ करना चाहिए।

नमस्कृत्याप्रमेयाय विष्णवे कूर्मरूपिणे।
पुराणं संप्रवक्ष्यामि यदुक्तं विश्वयोनिना॥१॥

मैं अप्रमेय (अमाप), कूर्मरूपधारी विष्णु को नमन करके समस्त विश्व की उत्पत्तिस्थान ब्रह्मा (अथवा कूर्मरूपधारी विष्णु) द्वारा कथित इस (कूर्म) पुराण का वर्णन करूँगा।

सत्रान्ते सूतमनघं नैमिषेया महर्षयः।
पुराणसंहितां पुण्यां पप्रच्छु रोमहर्षणम्॥२॥

अपने यज्ञानुष्ठान की समाप्ति पर नैमिषारण्यवासी महर्षियों ने निष्पाप रोमहर्षण नामक सूत से इस पुण्यमयी पुराणसंहिता के विषय में पूछा।

त्वया सूत महाबुद्धे भगवान् ब्रह्मवित्तमः।
इतिहासपुराणार्थं व्यासः सम्यगुपासितः॥३॥
तस्य ते सर्वरोमाणि वचसा ह्वषितानि यत्।
द्वैपायनस्य तु भवांस्ततो वै रोमहर्षणः॥४॥

हे महान् बुद्धिसम्पन्न सूतजी! आपने इतिहास और पुराणों के ज्ञान के लिए, ब्रह्मज्ञानियों में अतिश्रेष्ठ भगवान् व्यास की सम्यक् उपासना की है। द्वैपायन व्यासजी के वचन से आपके सभी रोम हर्षित हो उठे थे, इसीलिए आप रोमहर्षण नाम से प्रसिद्ध हुए।

भवन्तमेव भगवान् व्यासहार स्वयं प्रभुः।

मुनीनां संहितां वक्तुं व्यासः पौराणिकीं पुरा॥५॥

प्राचीन समय में स्वयं प्रभु भगवान् व्यासदेव ने आपको ही मुनियों की इस पौराणिक संहिता को कहने के लिए कहा था।

त्वं हि स्वायम्भुवे यज्ञे सुत्याहे वितते सति।
संपूतः संहितां वक्तुं स्वांशेन पुरुषोत्तमः॥६॥

स्वयम्भू ब्रह्मा के यज्ञ में विश्रान्ति पश्चात् स्नान हो जाने पर कहा था कि इस पुराणसंहिता को कहने के लिए स्वयं पुरुषोत्तम भगवान् के ही अंशरूप में आप उत्पन्न हुए हैं।

तस्माद्भवनं पृच्छामः पुराणं कौर्ममुत्तमम्।
वक्तुमर्हसि चास्माकं पुराणार्थविशारद॥७॥

इसलिए हम आपसे श्रेष्ठ कूर्मपुराण के विषय में पूछते हैं। हे पुराणों का अर्थ करने में विशारद! आप ही हमें यह कहने के लिए योग्य हैं।

मुनीनां वचनं श्रुत्वा सूतः पौराणिकोत्तमः।
प्रणम्य मनसा प्राह गुरुं सत्यवतीसुतम्॥८॥

पौराणिकों में उत्तम सूतजी ने मुनियों का वचन सुनकर सत्यवती के पुत्र व्यासदेव को मन ही मन प्रणाम करके कहा।

रोमहर्षण उवाच

नमस्कृत्य जगद्योनिं कूर्मरूपधरं हरिम्।
वक्ष्ये पौराणिकीं दिव्यां कथां पापप्रणाशिनीम्॥९॥
यां श्रुत्वा पापकर्मापि गच्छेत परमां गतिम्।
न नास्तिके कथां पुण्यामिमां ब्रूयात्कदाचन॥१०॥

रोमहर्षण ने कहा— जगत् के उत्पत्तिस्थान, कूर्मरूपधारी विष्णु को नमस्कार करके मैं इस पापनाशिनी दिव्य पुराण-कथा को कहूँगा, जिस कथा को सुनकर, पापकर्म करने वाला भी परम गति को प्राप्त करेगा। परन्तु इस पुण्य कथा को नास्तिकों के सामने कभी भी न कहें।

श्रद्धानाय ज्ञानाय धार्मिकाय द्विजातये।

इमां कथामनुवृत्त्यात्साक्षात्प्रायणेरिताम्॥ ११॥

इस पुराण कथा को श्रद्धावान्, शान्त, धार्मिक, द्विजाति को ही सुनाना चाहिए, जोकि साक्षात् नारायण के द्वारा कही गयी है।

सर्गश्च प्रतिसर्गश्च वंशो मन्वन्तराणि च।

वंशानुचरितश्चैव पुराणं पञ्चलक्षणम्॥ १२॥

सर्ग (सृष्टि-उत्पत्ति), प्रतिसर्ग (पुनः रचना या पुनः सृष्टि), वंश (राजकुलों का वर्णन या महापुरुषों की वंश परम्परा का वर्णन), मन्वन्तर (मनु के समय की अवधि), वंशानुचरित (राजकुल या महापुरुषों के इतिहास का निरूपण)— ये पुराण के पाँच लक्षण हैं।

आद्यं सनत्कुमारोक्तं नारसिंहमतः परम्।

तृतीयं स्कान्दमुद्दिष्टं कुमारेण तु भाषितम्॥ १७॥

प्रथम उपपुराण सनत्कुमार के द्वारा कहा गया है। अनन्तर नरसिंह उपपुराण है और तीसरा स्कन्द उपपुराण कुमार कार्तिकेय द्वारा कथित है।

चतुर्थं शिखर्षाख्यं साक्षान्नन्दीशभाषितम्।

दुर्वाससोक्तमाह्वयं नारदीयमतः परम्॥ १८॥

चतुर्थं शिवधर्म नामक उपपुराण है, जो साक्षात् नन्दीश्वर द्वारा कहा गया है। इसके बाद दुर्वासा द्वारा कथित आह्वयमय नारदीय पुराण है।

इसके बाद कापिल और वामन उपपुराण हैं, जो उशना (शुक्राचार्य) द्वारा कथित हैं। फिर क्रमशः ब्रह्माण्ड, वारुण, तथा कालिका नामक हैं तथा माहेश्वर, साम्ब, सर्वार्थसंघय सौर पुराण और फिर पराशर द्वारा कहे गये भारीच एवं भार्गव नाम वाले उपपुराण हैं।

(कूर्मकथा वर्णन)

इदन्तु पञ्चदशकं पुराणं कौर्ममुत्तमम्।

चतुर्धा संस्थितं पुण्यं संहितानां प्रभेदतः॥ २१॥

ब्राह्मी भागवती सौरी वैष्णवी च प्रकीर्तिताः।

चतस्रः संहिताः पुण्या धर्मकार्मार्थमोक्षदाः॥ २२॥

यह पन्द्रहवाँ उत्तम कूर्मपुराण है। संहिताओं के प्रभेद से यह पुण्य पुराण चतुर्धा संस्थित है। ये ब्राह्मी, भागवती, सौरी और वैष्णवी नाम से प्रसिद्ध हैं। ये चारों संहिताएँ धर्म, काम, अर्थ और मोक्ष को प्रदान करने वाली और पवित्र हैं।

इयन्तु संहिता ब्राह्मी चतुर्वेदैस्तु सस्मिता।

भवन्ति षट् सहस्राणि श्लोकानामत्र संख्यया॥ २३॥

यह जो ब्राह्मी संहिता है, वह चारों वेदों के तुल्य है। इसमें छः हजार श्लोक हैं।

यत्र धर्मार्थकामानां मोक्षस्य च मुनीश्वराः।

माहात्म्यमखिलं ब्रह्मन् ज्ञायते परमेश्वरः॥ २४॥

हे मुनीश्वरो! इसमें धर्म, अर्थ, काम और मोक्ष का अखिल माहात्म्य है। इसके द्वारा परमेश्वर ब्रह्म का ज्ञान प्राप्त होता है।

सर्गश्च प्रतिसर्गश्च वंशो मन्वन्तराणि च।

वंशानुचरितं पुण्या दिव्या प्रासङ्गिकी कथा॥ २५॥

ब्राह्मणाद्यैरियं धार्या धार्मिकैर्वेदपारगैः।

तामहं वर्णयिष्यामि व्यासेन कथितां पुरा॥ २६॥

1. यहाँ यदि ब्रह्माण्डसंज्ञा से ब्रह्माण्डपुराण को लिया जाता है, तो पुराणों की कुल संख्या १९ होती है। अन्यथा अष्टादश की गणना में ब्रह्माण्डपुराण रह जाता है।

इसमें सर्ग, प्रतिसर्ग, वंश, मन्वन्तर, वंशानुचरित तथा प्रसंगतः प्राप्त दिव्य पुण्य कथा का वर्णन है। वेदों में पारंगत एवं धर्मपरायण ब्राह्मण आदि द्विजाति द्वारा यह कथा धारण करने चाहिए। पूर्वकाल में व्यासजी द्वारा कथित इस कथा का मैं वर्णन करूँगा।

पुरामृतार्थं दैतेयदानवैः सह देवताः।

मथ्यानं मन्दरं कृत्वा ममभ्युः क्षीरसागरम्॥ २७॥

मध्यमाने तदा तस्मिन्कूर्मरूपी जनार्दनः।

वभार मन्दरं देवो देवानां हितकाम्यया॥ २८॥

पूर्वकाल में अमृत प्राप्ति के लिए देवताओं ने दैत्य और दानवों के साथ मिलकर मन्दराचल को मथानी बनाकर क्षीरसागर का मंथन किया। उस मंथनकाल में कूर्मरूपधारी जनार्दन विष्णु ने देवताओं के कल्याण की कामना से मन्दराचल को अपनी पीठ पर धारण किया था।

देवेषु तुष्टुवुर्देवं नारदाद्या महर्षयः।

कूर्मरूपधरं दृष्ट्वा साक्षिणं विष्णुमव्ययम्॥ २९॥

कूर्मरूपधारी, अविनाशी, साक्षी, भगवान् विष्णु को देखकर नारद आदि महर्षि और देवता उनकी स्तुति करने लगे।

तदन्तरेऽभवद्देवी श्रीनारायणवल्लभा।

जग्राह भगवान् विष्णुस्तामेव पुरुषोत्तमः॥ ३०॥

उसी मंथन के बीच नारायण की अतिप्रिया देवी भी उत्पन्न हुई। पुरुषोत्तम भगवान् विष्णु ने उन्हीं को ग्रहण किया था।

तेजसा विष्णुमव्यक्तं नारदाद्या महर्षयः।

मोहिताः सह शक्रेण श्रेयोवचनमब्रुवन्॥ ३१॥

भगवन् देवदेवेश नारायण जगन्मय।

कैसा देवी विज्ञालाक्ष्मी यथावदबुद्धि पृच्छताम्॥ ३२॥

इन्द्र सहित नारद आदि महर्षिगण उनके तेज से मोहित हो गए थे। वे अव्यक्त विष्णु से इस प्रकार कल्याणकारी वचन बोले— हे देव! देवेश! जगन्मय! भगवन्! नारायण! ये दीर्घ नेत्रों वाली देवी कौन हैं? हम पूछते हैं आप यथावत् बताने की कृपा करें।

श्रुत्वा तेषां तदा वाक्यं विष्णुर्दान्मसमर्दनः।

प्रोवाच देवीं संप्रेक्ष्य नारदादीनकल्मषान्॥ ३३॥

इयं सा परमा शक्तिर्मन्मथी ब्रह्मरूपिणी।

माया मम प्रियानन्ता यथेदं धार्यते जगत्॥ ३४॥

तब देवों का यह वचन सुनकर दानवों का मर्दन करने वाले विष्णु ने देवी की ओर देखकर निष्पाप नारद आदि ऋषियों से कहा— ये ब्रह्मस्वरूपा, परमा शक्ति और मत्स्वरूपा माया मेरी अनन्त प्रिया है, जिसके द्वारा यह जगत् धारण किया हुआ है।

अनयैव जगत्सर्वं सदेवासुरमानुषम्।

मोहयामि द्विजश्रेष्ठा ब्रह्मामि विसृजामि च॥ ३५॥

हे द्विजश्रेष्ठ! इसी माया के द्वारा मैं देव, असुर और मनुष्यों के इस संपूर्ण जगत् को मोहित करता हूँ, प्रसित करता हूँ और विसर्जित करता हूँ।

उत्पत्तिं प्रलयं चैव भूतानामागतिं गतिम्।

विद्यया वीक्ष्य चात्मानं तरन्ति विपुलाभिमाम्॥ ३६॥

सृष्ट्युत्पत्ति और प्रलय, प्राणियों का जन्म एवं मृत्यु की प्रवर्तक इस विपुल माया को ज्ञान द्वारा आत्मा का दर्शन करके जीव तर जाते हैं।

अस्यास्त्वंज्ञानधिष्ठाय शक्तिमन्तोऽभवन् सुराः।

ब्रह्मेज्ञानादयः सर्वे सर्वशक्तिरियं मम॥ ३७॥

यह माया मेरी सम्पूर्ण शक्ति है। इसीके अंश को धारण करके ब्रह्मा-शङ्कर आदि देवगण शक्तिसम्पन्न हुए हैं।

सैषा सर्वजगत्सूतिः प्रकृतिस्त्रिगुणात्मिका।

प्रागेव मत्तः संजाता श्रीःकल्पे पद्मवासिनी॥ ३८॥

वही सम्पूर्ण जगत् को उत्पन्न करने वाली त्रिगुणात्मिका प्रकृति है। यह कमलवासिनी लक्ष्मी कल्प में मुझ से पूर्व ही उत्पन्न हुई थी।

चतुर्भुजा शङ्खचक्रपद्महस्ता सगन्विता।

कोटिसर्वप्रतीकाज्ञा मोहिनी सर्वदेहिनाम्॥ ३९॥

यह चतुर्भुजा है, जिसने शङ्ख, चक्र, पद्म धारण किये हुए हैं और करोड़ों सूर्य के समान दीप्तियुक्त माला से युक्त है। यह सभी प्राणियों को मोहित करने वाली है।

नालं देवा न पितरो मानवा वासवोऽपि च।

मायापेतां सपुनर्तुं ये चान्ये भुवि देहिनः॥ ४०॥

देवगण, पितर, मानव और वसुगण तथा सम्पूर्ण पृथ्वी पर अन्य देहधारी भी जो हैं, वे इस माया को पार करने में समर्थ नहीं हैं।

इत्युक्त्वा वामुदेवेन पुनयो विष्णुमब्रुवन्।

ब्रूहि त्वं पुण्डरीकाक्ष यदि कालक्षयेऽपि च॥ ४१॥

इस प्रकार वासुदेव के कहने पर मुनियों ने भगवान् विष्णु से कहा— हे पुण्डरीकाक्ष! पूर्व व्यतीत काल के विषय में भी आप हमें बतावें।

अश्वोवाच हृषीकेशो मुनीन्मुनिगणार्चितः।

अस्ति द्विजातिप्रवर इन्द्रद्युम्न इति श्रुतः॥४२॥

पूर्वजन्मनि राजासाकष्यः शङ्करादिभिः।

दृष्ट्वा मां कूर्मसंस्थानं श्रुत्वा पौराणिकीं स्वयम्॥४३॥

तदनन्तर मुनिगण द्वारा पूजित भगवान् हृषीकेश ने उन मुनियों से कहा — इन्द्रद्युम्न नाम से प्रसिद्ध एक श्रेष्ठ ब्राह्मण हुआ था। पूर्वजन्म में वह राजा था, जो शङ्कर आदि देवों से भी वह अपराजेय था। मुझ कूर्मरूपधारी को देखकर स्वयं मेरे मुख से उसने इस पुराण-कथा को सुना था।

संहितां मन्मुखाहिव्यां पुरस्कृत्य मुनीभ्रारान्।

ब्रह्माण्ड महादेवं देवैश्छान्दान् स्वशक्तिभिः॥४४॥

मच्छक्तौ संस्थितान् बुद्ध्वा मामेव शरणं गतः।

संभाषितो मया चाथ विप्रयोनिं गमिष्यति॥४५॥

पुनः मुनीश्वरों, ब्रह्मा, महादेव और अन्य देवों को अपनी शक्ति से मेरे आगे करके मेरे मुख से इस दिव्य पुराण संहिता को सुना। तब उन सबको मेरी शक्ति के अन्तर्गत स्थित जानकर वह मेरी ही शरण में आ गया। अनन्तर मैंने उससे कहा— 'तुम ब्राह्मणयोनि को प्राप्त करोगे'।

इन्द्रद्युम्न इति ख्यातो जातिं स्मरसि पौर्विकीम्।

सर्वेषामेव भूतानां देवानामप्यगोचरम्॥४६॥

वक्तव्यं यद्गुह्यतमं दास्ये ज्ञानं तवानघ।

लब्ध्वा तन्मापकं ज्ञानं मामेवान्ते प्रवेक्ष्यसि॥४७॥

तुम्हारा नाम इन्द्रद्युम्न होगा और तुम अपनी पूर्व जाति का ज्ञान भी प्राप्त करोगे। हे निष्पाप! जो सभी प्राणियों तथा देवताओं के लिए भी दुर्लभ एवं अत्यन्त गुह्यतम है, ऐसा ज्ञान मैं तुम्हें दूँगा। ऐसे मेरे ज्ञान को प्राप्त करके अन्त में तुम मुझमें ही प्रवेश कर जाओगे।

अंशान्तरेण भूम्यां त्वं तत्र तिष्ठ सुनिर्वृतः।

वैवस्वतेऽन्तरेऽतीते कार्याय मां प्रवेक्ष्यसि॥४८॥

तुम अपने दूसरे अंश से पृथ्वी पर सुनिश्चित होकर स्थित रहो। अनन्तर वैवस्वत मन्वन्तर बीत जाने पर तुम पुनः मुझमें प्रवेश कर जाओगे।

मां प्रणम्य पुरीं गत्वा पाल्यामास घेदिनीम्।

काल्ध्वर्म गतः कालाच्छ्रेतद्वीपे मया सह॥४९॥

इति श्रीकूर्मपुराणे पूर्वभागे इन्द्रद्युम्नमोक्षवर्णनं नाम
प्रथमोऽध्यायः॥ १॥

द्वितीयोऽध्यायः

(वर्ण तथा आश्रमों का वर्णन)

कूर्म उवाच

मृगुध्वपृषयः सर्वे यत्पृष्टोऽहं जगद्धितम्।

वक्ष्यमाणं मया सर्वमिन्द्रह्युमाय भाषितम्॥१॥

कूर्म बोले— आपने जगत् का हित-विषयक जो प्रश्न मुझसे पूछा है, आप सब ऋषिगण उसे सुने। उस सबका वर्णन मैं कर रहा हूँ, जो इन्द्रह्युम्न को कहा गया था।

भूतैर्भवैर्भवद्भिश्च चरितैरुपबृंहितम्।

पुराणं पुण्यदं नृणां मोक्षधर्मानुवर्तिनाम्॥२॥

भूत, भविव्य और वर्तमान के चरित्रों से उपबृंहित यह कूर्मपुराण मोक्षधर्मानुयायी मनुष्यों के लिए पुण्यदायक है।

अहं नारायणो देवः पूर्वमासीन्न मे परम्।

उषाम्य विपुलां निद्रां भोगिशय्यां समाश्रितः॥३॥

मैं नारायण देव हूँ। मुझसे पूर्व अन्य कोई नहीं था। मैं विपुल निद्रा का आश्रय लेकर शेष-शय्या पर विराजमान था।

चिन्तयामि पुनः सृष्टिं निशान्ते प्रतिकुष्य तु।

ततो मे सहसोत्पन्नः प्रसादो मुनिपुंगवाः॥४॥

चतुर्मुखस्ततो जातो ब्रह्मा लोकपितामहः।

तदन्तरेऽभवत्क्रोधः कस्माच्चित्कारणात्तदा॥५॥

पुनः रात्रि के अन्त में जागकर सृष्टि के विषय में सोचता हूँ तभी हे मुनिश्रेष्ठो! मुझ में सहसा आनन्द उत्पन्न हुआ। उसमें चतुर्मुख लोक-पितामह ब्रह्मा उत्पन्न हुए। तत्पश्चात् मुझमें किसी कारणवश क्रोध आ गया।

आत्मनो मुनिशार्दूलास्तत्र देवो महेश्वरः।

रुद्रः क्रोधात्मको जज्ञे शूलपाणिस्त्रिलोचनः॥६॥

तेजसा सूर्यसङ्काशस्त्रैलोक्यं संदहप्रिव।

तदा श्रीरभवेदेवी कमलायतलोचना॥७॥

हे मुनिश्रेष्ठो! तब वहाँ मुझसे रौद्ररूपधारी क्रोधयुक्त महेश्वर देव उत्पन्न हुए। उनके हाथ में त्रिशूल था और तीन नेत्र थे। सूर्य सदृश तेज से वे मानो त्रैलोक्य को जला रहे थे। अनन्तर कमल के समान विशाल नेत्रों वाली देवी लक्ष्मी उत्पन्न हुई।

सुरूपा सौम्यवदना मोहिनी सर्वदेहिनाम्।

शुचिस्मिता सुप्रसन्ना पङ्कला महिमास्पदा॥८॥

दिव्यकान्तिसमायुक्ता दिव्यमाल्योपशोभिता।

नारायणी महामाया मूलप्रकृतिरव्यया॥९॥

वह सुन्दर रूप वाली, सौम्य मुखाकृतिवाली, समस्त देहधारियों को मोहित करने वाली, शुचिस्मिता, सुप्रसन्ना, सुमंगला और महिमायुक्त थी। वही दिव्य कान्ति से युक्त, दिव्य माला से उपशोभित, नारायणी, महामाया और अविनाशिनी मूल प्रकृति थी।

स्वयाम्ना पूरयन्तीदं मत्पार्श्वं समुपाविशत्।

तां दृष्ट्वा भगवान् ब्रह्मा मामुवाच जगत्पतिम्॥१०॥

अपने तेज से जगत् को व्याप्त करती हुई वह मेरे पास आकर बैठ गयी। उसे देखकर भगवान् ब्रह्मा ने मुझ जगत्पति से कहा।

मोहायाशेषभूतानां नियोजय सुकृषिणीम्।

येनेयं विपुला सृष्टिर्वद्वीते मम माधव॥११॥

हे माधव! संपूर्ण प्राणियों को मोह में फँसाने के लिए इस सुन्दरी को नियुक्त कीजिए, जिससे यह मेरी विपुल सृष्टि बढ़ती रहे।

तद्योक्तोऽहं त्रियं देवीमद्वयं प्रहसन्निव।

देवीदमखिलं विश्वं सदेवामुरयानुषम्॥१२॥

मोहयित्वा ममादेशात्संसारे विनिपालय।

ब्रह्मा के ऐसा कहने पर मैंने देवी लक्ष्मी से मुस्कराते हुए कहा— हे देवि! देवता, असुर और मनुष्य सहित इस सम्पूर्ण विश्व को मोह में डालकर मेरे आदेश से संसार में गिरा दो।

ज्ञानयोगरतान्दान्तान् ब्रह्मिष्ठान् ब्रह्मवादिनः॥१३॥

महायज्ञपरात्विप्रान्दूरतः परिवर्ज्या

परन्तु ज्ञानयोग में निरत, दान्त (इन्द्रियों को दमन करने वाला), ब्रह्मनिष्ठ, ब्रह्मवादी, क्रोधरहित एवं सत्यपरायण व्यक्तियों को दूर से ही छोड़ दो। ध्यान करने वाले, निर्मल, शान्त, धार्मिक, वेदों में पारंगत, यज्ञकर्ता, तपस्वियों और ब्राह्मणों को दूर से ही छोड़ दो। वेद और वेदान्त के विज्ञान से जिनके समस्त संशय दूर हो गये हैं ऐसे, तथा नित्य बड़े-बड़े यज्ञ करने वाले ब्राह्मणों को दूर से ही छोड़ दे।

ये यजन्ति जपैर्होमैर्दिवदेवं महेश्वरम्॥ १६॥
स्वाध्यायेनेज्यया दूरान्तान् प्रयत्नेन वर्ज्जया
भक्तियोगसमापुक्तानेश्वरार्पितमानसान्॥ १७॥
प्राणायामादियु रतान्दुरात्परिहरामलान्।

जो लोग जप, होम, स्वाध्याय तथा यज्ञ के द्वारा देवाधिदेव महेश्वर का यजन करते हैं, उन्हें यत्नपूर्वक दूर से ही छोड़ दे। भक्तियोग से समाहित चित्तवाले और ईश्वर के प्रति समर्पित मन वाले, तथा शुद्ध चित्त वालों को दूर से ही त्याग दो।

प्रणवासक्तमनसो रुद्रजप्यपरायणान्॥ १८॥

अथर्वशिरसो वेत्तुन् धर्मज्ञान्यरिवर्ज्जया

प्रणव जप में आसक्त मन वाले, रुद्र का जप करने में तत्पर, अथर्ववेद के सम्पूर्ण ज्ञाता तथा धर्मज्ञों को छोड़ दो।

बहुनात्र किमुक्तेन स्वधर्मपरिपालकान्॥ १९॥

ईश्वराराधनरतान्मन्त्रियोगान्न मोहय।

एवं मया महामाया प्रेरिता हरिवल्लभा॥ २०॥

यहाँ बहुत अधिक क्या कहा जाय? अपने धर्म का परिपालन करने वाले तथा ईश्वर की आराधना में निरत लोगों को मेरे आदेश से मोहित न करो। इस प्रकार हरिवल्लभा महामाया मेरे द्वारा ही प्रेरित हुई थीं।

यथादेशं चकारासौ तस्माल्लक्ष्मीं समर्चयेत्।

श्रियं ददाति विपुलां पुष्टिं मेधां यशो बलम्॥ २१॥

अर्चिता भगवत्यत्नीं तस्माल्लक्ष्मीं समर्चयेत्।

ततोऽसृजत्स भगवान् ब्रह्मा लोकपितामहः॥ २२॥

उसने मेरे आदेशानुसार कार्य किया। इसलिए लक्ष्मी की पूजा करना चाहिए। पूजित होने पर वह लक्ष्मी विपुल धन, समृद्धि, बुद्धि, यश तथा बल प्रदान करती है। इसलिए विष्णुपत्नी लक्ष्मी को अर्चना करना चाहिए। अनन्तर लोक पितामह भगवान् ब्रह्मा ने सृष्टि प्रारम्भ की थी।

चराचराणि भूतानि यथापूर्वं ममाज्ञया।

परीचिभ्रम्बङ्गिरसं पुलस्त्यं पुलहं क्रतुम्॥ २३॥

दक्षमन्त्रिं वसिष्ठञ्च सोऽसृजद्योगविद्यया।

वैश्यान्सृष्ट्याद्वैवः पद्भ्यां शूद्रान् पितामहः।

यज्ञनिष्पत्तये ब्रह्मा शूद्रवर्जं ससर्ज ह॥ २६॥

पूर्ववत् मेरी आज्ञा से ब्रह्मा ने स्थावर-जंगम तथा नानाविध प्राणियों की सृष्टि की। तत्पश्चात् योगविद्या से मरीचि, भृगु, अंगिरा, पुलस्त्य, पुलह, क्रतु, दक्ष, अत्रि और वसिष्ठ की सृष्टि की। ये नौ ब्रह्मा के पुत्र ब्रह्मनिष्ठ ब्राह्मणों में श्रेष्ठ ब्राह्मण हैं। ये मरीचि आदि साधक ब्रह्मवादी ही थे। ब्रह्मा ने ब्राह्मणों को मुख से और क्षत्रियों को भुजा से उत्पन्न किया। पितामह ब्रह्मा ने वैश्यों को दोनों जंघाओं से तथा शूद्रों को देव ने पैरों से उत्पन्न किया। तदनन्तर यज्ञ के सम्पादन हेतु ब्रह्माजी ने शूद्ररहित (तौनों वर्णों की) सृष्टि की।

गुप्तये सर्वदेवानां तेभ्यो यज्ञो हि निर्वभौ।

ऋचो यजुषि सामानि तथैवाथर्वणानि च॥ २७॥

ब्रह्मणः सहजं रूपं नितैषा शक्तिरव्यया।

अनादिनिश्चना दिव्या भागुत्सृष्टा स्वयम्भुवा॥ २८॥

सभी देवों की रक्षा के लिए उन्होंने यज्ञ की सृष्टि की। तदनन्तर ऋग्वेद, यजुर्वेद, सामवेद और अथर्ववेद की रचना की। ये सब ब्रह्मा के सहज रूप हैं। यह नित्य एवं अविनाशी शक्ति है। ब्रह्मा ने आदि और अन्त रहित (वेदमयी) दिव्यवाणी की सृष्टि की।

आदौ वेदमयी भूता यतः सर्वाः प्रवृत्तयः।

अतोऽन्यानि हि शास्त्राणि पृथिव्यां यानि कानिचित्॥ २९॥

न तेषु रमते धीरः पाषण्डी रमते बुधः।

सर्वास्ता निष्फलाः प्रेत्य तपोनिष्ठा हि ताः स्मृताः।

पूर्वकल्पे प्रजा जाताः सर्वबाधाविवर्जिताः॥ ३२॥

आदि में यह वेदमयी वाणी ही थी, जिससे सभी प्रवृत्तियाँ हुई हैं। इससे अन्य पृथ्वी पर जो कोई शास्त्र हैं उनमें धीर विद्वान् रमण नहीं करते, पाषण्डी विद्वान् ही रमण करता है। पूर्वकाल में वेदार्थविद् मुनियों ने जिस कार्य का स्मरण किया था उसे परम धर्म समझना चाहिए, जो अन्य शास्त्रों में है उसे नहीं। जो वेद-विरुद्ध स्मृतियाँ हैं और जो कोई कुदृष्टियाँ हैं मरणोपरान्त उसका कोई फल नहीं मिलता

1. ब्राह्मणोऽस्य मुखमासीद्बाहू राजन्यः कृतः। ऊरू तदस्य यद्वैश्यः पद्भ्यां शूद्रोऽजायत (यजु० ३१.११)

क्योंकि वे सभी तामसी कही गयी हैं। कल्प के प्रारंभ में सभी प्रकार की बाधाओं से रहित प्रजायें उत्पन्न हुई थीं।

शुद्धान्तःकरणाः सर्वाः स्वधर्मपरिपालकाः।

ततः कालवशात्तासां रागद्वेषादिकोऽभवत्॥ ३३॥

ये सभी शुद्ध चित्त वाली तथा अपने धर्म का पालन करने में तत्पर थीं। तदनन्तर काल के वशीभूत होने पर उनमें राग-द्वेष आदि उत्पन्न हुए।

अधर्मो मुनिशार्दूलाः स्वधर्मप्रतिबन्धकः।

ततः सा सहजा सिद्धिस्तासां नातीव जायते॥ ३४॥

हे मुनिश्रेष्ठो! यह अधर्म ही अपने धर्म का प्रतिबन्धक होता है अतएव उनमें सहज सिद्धियाँ अधिक प्राप्त नहीं होती।

रजोमात्रात्मिकास्तासां सिद्धयोऽन्यास्तदाभवन्।

तासु क्षीणास्वशेषासु कालयोगेन ताः पुनः॥ ३५॥

अतएव अन्य रजोगुणमयो सिद्धियाँ उनकी हुईं। तत्पश्चात् कालयोग से वे सब क्षीण हो जाने पर पुनः उत्पन्न हुईं।

वात्तोपायं पुनश्चकुरुहस्तसिद्धिञ्च कर्मजात्।

ततस्तासां विभुर्वह्ना कर्माजीवमकल्पयत्॥ ३६॥

पुनः कालक्रम से जीविकोपार्जन के उपाय (कृषि आदि) तथा कर्मज हस्त-सिद्धि की रचना की। अनन्तर सर्वव्यापी ब्रह्मा ने उत्तम कर्मोत्पन्न आजीविका की सृष्टि।

स्वायम्भुवो मनुः पूर्वं धर्मान्त्रोवाच सर्वदृक्।

साक्षात्प्रजापतेर्मूर्तिर्निर्मृष्टा ब्रह्मणो द्विजाः॥ ३७॥

कारुर्कर्म तथाजीवः पाकयज्ञादिधर्मतः।

ततः स्थितेषु वर्णेषु स्वापयामास चाश्रमान्॥ ४१॥

सर्वप्रथम सर्वदृष्टा एवं प्रजापति की साक्षात् प्रतिमूर्ति स्वायम्भुव मनु ने धर्म को कहा। इस प्रकार ब्रह्मा से भृगु आदि ब्राह्मणों की सृष्टि हुई। हे द्विजश्रेष्ठो! उन्होंने स्वायम्भुव मनु के मुख से सुनकर (प्राणियों के लिए) भिन्न-भिन्न धर्मों और कर्मों का वर्णन किया। यज्ञ करना- यज्ञ कराना और दान देना-दान लेना, पढ़ना-पढ़ाना ये छः कर्म ब्राह्मण के

लिए बताये। दान देना, अध्ययन और यज्ञ करना— ये क्षत्रिय और वैश्यों का धर्म कहा गया। उनमें भी दण्ड देना और युद्ध करना क्षत्रिय का तथा कृषि करना वैश्य का विशेष धर्म है और ब्राह्मणादि की सेवा करना शूद्रों का धर्म-साधन है। पाक यज्ञादि धर्म से शिल्प कर्म उनकी आजीविका है। इस प्रकार चारों वर्णों की प्रतिष्ठा हो जाने पर उन्होंने आश्रमों की स्थापना की।

सख्या कर्माग्निकार्यञ्च धर्मोऽयं ब्रह्मचारिणाम्।

ब्रह्मचारिवनस्थानां भिक्षुकानां द्विजोत्तमाः॥ ४६॥

साधारणं ब्रह्मचर्यं प्रोवाच कपलोद्भवः।

ऋतुकालाभिगामित्वं स्वदारेषु न चान्यतः॥ ४७॥

गृहस्थ, वानप्रस्थ, भिक्षुक—संन्यासाश्रम और ब्रह्मचारियों का ब्रह्मचर्य — ये चार आश्रम स्थापित किये गये। हे श्रेष्ठ मुनिगण! अग्निरक्षण, अतिथि-सेवा, यज्ञ करना, दान देना और देवपूजन करना— यह संक्षेपतः गृहस्थ का धर्म कहा गया है। होम, फल-मूल का भक्षण, स्वाध्याय, तप तथा न्यायपूर्वक संविभाग यह वनवासियों का धर्म है। भिक्षा से प्राप्त अन्न ग्रहण करना, मौन रहना, तप और विशेष रूप से ध्यान लगाना, यथार्थ ज्ञान और वैराग्य— यह भिक्षुक का धर्म माना गया है। भिक्षाटन, गुरुसेवा, वेदाध्ययन, सन्ध्याकर्म तथा अग्निहोम ब्रह्मचारियों का धर्म है। हे द्विजश्रेष्ठो! ब्रह्मचारी, वानप्रस्थी और संन्यासियों के लिए भी ब्रह्मचर्य पालन सामान्य धर्म है, ऐसा ब्रह्मा ने कहा है। केवल ऋतुकाल प्राप्त होने पर ही अपनी भार्या का अनुगमन करें, अन्य समय में नहीं।

पर्ववज्रं गृहस्थस्य ब्रह्मचर्यमुदाहृतम्।

आगर्भधारणादाज्ञा कार्या तेनाप्रमादतः॥ ४८॥

पर्व को छोड़कर स्त्री-सहवास करना गृहस्थ के लिए ब्रह्मचर्य कहा गया है। इसलिए प्रमादवश न होकर पत्नी के गर्भ-धारण तक ऐसा करने की आज्ञा है।

अकुर्वास्तु विप्रेन्द्रा भूषाहा तूपजायते।
वेदाभ्यासोऽन्वहं ऋक्त्वा श्राद्धज्वातिधिपूजनम्॥४९॥
गृहस्थस्य परो धर्मो देवताप्यर्चनं तथा।
वैवाह्यमग्निमिधीत सायं प्रातर्यथाविधि॥५०॥
देशान्तरगतो वाद्य मृतपत्नीक एव च।
त्रयाणामाश्रमाणास्तु गृहस्थो योनिरुध्यते॥४९-५१॥

हे विप्रेन्द्रो! ऐसा न करने पर भूषण हत्या का दोष लगता है। नियमित वेदाध्ययन, शक्ति के अनुकूल श्राद्ध करना, अतिथिसेवा तथा देवाचन गृहस्थ का परम धर्म है। सायंकाल और प्रातःकाल विधिपूर्वक वैवाहिक अग्नि को प्रज्वलित करते रहे चाहे वह परदेश गया हो अथवा मृतपत्नीक (जिसकी पत्नी का देहावसान हो गया हो) हो। इस प्रकार इन तीनों आश्रमों का मूल गृहस्थाश्रम है।

अन्य तमुपजीवन्ति तस्माच्छ्रेयान् गृहश्रमी।
एकाश्रम्यं गृहस्थस्य चतुर्णां श्रुतिदर्शनात्॥५२॥
तस्माद्गार्हस्थ्यमेवैकं विज्ञेयं धर्मसाधनम्।
परित्यजेद्वर्धकामौ यौ स्यातां धर्मवर्जितौ॥५३॥

अन्य तीनों आश्रम इसी गृहस्थाश्रम पर निर्भर हैं। अतएव गृहस्थाश्रमी सर्वश्रेष्ठ है। श्रुति की दृष्टि से भी चारों आश्रमों का एकाश्रमत्व गृहस्थाश्रम ही है। अतएव केवल गृहस्थाश्रम को ही धर्म का साधन जानना चाहिए। जो धर्म से वर्जित अर्थ और काम हो, उसका परित्याग करना चाहिए।

सर्वलोकविरुद्धञ्च धर्ममप्याधरेन्न तु।
धर्मात्संजायते ह्यर्थो धर्मात्कामोऽभिजायते॥५४॥

सर्वलोक विरुद्ध धर्म का आचरण भी नहीं करना चाहिए। धर्म से अर्थ की प्राप्ति होती है और धर्म से काम की अभिवृद्धि होती है।

धर्म एवापवर्गाय तस्माद्धर्मं समाश्रयेत्।
धर्मश्चार्यश्च कामश्च त्रिवर्गस्त्रिगुणो मतः॥५५॥

धर्म ही मोक्ष का कारण है, अतएव धर्म का ही आश्रय लेना चाहिए। धर्म, अर्थ, काम— यह त्रिवर्ग तीन गुणों वाला कहा गया है।

सत्त्वं रजस्तमश्चेति तस्माद्धर्मं समाश्रयेत्।
ऊर्ध्वं गच्छन्ति सत्त्वस्था मध्ये तिष्ठन्ति राजसाः॥५६॥
जघन्यगुणवृत्तिस्था अधो गच्छन्ति तामसाः।
यस्मिन्धर्मसमायुक्तौ ह्यर्थकामौ व्यवस्थितौ॥५७॥

इह लोके सुखी भूत्वा प्रेत्यानन्त्याय कल्पते।
धर्मात्संजायते मोक्षो ह्यर्थात्कामोऽभिजायते॥५८॥

वे तीन गुण सत्त्व, रज और तम हैं। इसलिए धर्म के आश्रित रहना चाहिए। सत्त्व गुणाश्रित ऊर्ध्वलोक को जाते हैं, रजो गुण युक्त मध्य लोक में वास करते हैं, तमो गुण वाले जघन्य (निम्न) वृत्ति में रहते हुए निम्न अधम लोक को प्राप्त करते हैं। जिस व्यक्ति में अर्थ और काम धर्म से युक्त होकर रहते हैं वह इस लोक में सुखी होकर मरणोपरान्त अनन्त सुख को प्राप्त करता है। धर्म से मोक्ष की प्राप्ति होती है और अर्थ से काम की अभिवृद्धि होती है।

एवं साधनसाध्यत्वं चतुर्विधे प्रदर्शितम्।
य एवं वेद धर्मार्थकाममोक्षस्य मानवः॥५९॥
माहात्म्यं चानुत्तिष्ठेत् स चानन्त्याय कल्पते।
तस्माद्वर्ज्यञ्च कामञ्च त्यक्त्वा धर्मं समाश्रयेत्॥६०॥

इस प्रकार चतुर्विध (धर्म, अर्थ, काम, मोक्ष) के विषय में साधन की सार्थकता दिखाई देती है। जो मनुष्य इस प्रकार धर्म, अर्थ, काम और मोक्ष के इस माहात्म्य को जानता है और इसका वैसा ही अनुष्ठान करता है उसे अनन्त सुख की प्राप्ति होती है। इसलिए अर्थ और काम को त्याग कर धर्म के आश्रित रहना चाहिए।

धर्मात्संजायते सर्वमित्याहुर्ब्रह्मवादिनः।
धर्मेण धार्यते सर्वं जगत्स्वावरजंगमम्॥६१॥

धर्म से सब कुछ प्राप्त होता है ऐसा ब्रह्मवादी कहते हैं। धर्म के द्वारा स्थावर-जगम रूप संपूर्ण जगत् धारण किया जाता है।

अनादिनिधना शक्तिः सैषा ब्राह्मी द्विजोत्तमाः।
कर्मणा प्राप्यते धर्मो ज्ञानेन च न संशयः॥६२॥

हे द्विजश्रेष्ठो! यही आद्यन्तरहिता कूटस्थ ब्राह्मी शक्ति है। कर्म और ज्ञान से ही धर्म की प्राप्ति होती है, इसमें संशय नहीं।

तस्माज्ज्ञानेन सहितं कर्मयोगं समाश्रयेत्।
प्रवृत्तञ्च निवृत्तञ्च द्विविधं कर्म वैदिकम्॥६३॥
ज्ञानपूर्वं निवृत्तं स्यात्प्रवृत्तं यदतोऽन्वया।
निवृत्तं सेवमानस्तु याति तत्परमं पदम्॥६४॥

अतएव ज्ञानसहित कर्म का आश्रय करें। प्रवृत्तिपरक एवं निवृत्तिपरक रूप से वैदिक कर्म दो प्रकार से हैं— ज्ञानयुक्त जो कर्म है वह निवृत्तिमूलक है। उससे भिन्न जो अज्ञानाश्रित

कर्म है वह प्रवृत्तिमूलक है। निवृत्त-कर्म का सेवन करने वाला परम-पद को प्राप्त होता है।

तस्मात्प्रिवृत्तं संसेव्यमन्यथा संसरेत्पुनः।

क्षमा दमो दया दानमलोभस्याग एव च॥६५॥

आर्जवं चानसूया च तीर्तानुसरणं तथा।

सत्यं सन्तोषमास्तिक्यं श्रद्धा चेन्द्रियनिग्रहः॥६६॥

देवताभ्यर्चनं पूजा ब्राह्मणानां विशेषतः।

अहिंसा प्रियवादित्वमपैशुन्यमकल्कला॥६७॥

सामासिकमिमं धर्मं चानुर्वर्ण्येऽब्रवीन्मनुः।

प्राजापत्यं ब्राह्मणानां स्मृतं स्थानं क्रियावताम्॥६८॥

इसलिए निवृत्त कर्म का ही सेवन करना चाहिए, अन्यथा संसार में पुनः भ्रमण करना पड़ता है। क्षमा, इन्द्रियों का दमन, दया, दान, लोभ का अभाव, त्याग, सरलता, अनसूया, तीर्थगमन, सत्य, सन्तोष, आस्तिकता, श्रद्धा, इन्द्रियनिग्रह, देवार्चन विशेषतः ब्राह्मण की पूजा, अहिंसा, प्रियवादिता, पिशुनता (चुगुलखोरी) न करना, निष्पाप दोनों ये चारों वर्णों के लिए सामान्य धर्म हैं, ऐसा मनु ने कहा है। कर्मनिरत ब्राह्मणों के लिए प्राजापत्य (ब्रह्मा का) स्थान कहा गया है।

स्थानमैन्द्रं क्षत्रियाणां संग्रामेष्वपलायिनाम्।

वैश्यानां मारुतं स्थानं स्वर्धर्मनुवर्तताम्॥६९॥

गान्धर्वं शूद्रजातीनां परिचारेण वर्तताम्।

अष्टाशीतिसहस्राणामृषीणामुद्धरितसाम्॥७०॥

स्मृतं तेषानु यत्स्थानं तदेव गुरुवासिनाम्।

सप्तर्षीणानु यत्स्थानं स्मृतं तद्वै वनौकसाम्॥७१॥

संग्राम में न भागने वाले क्षत्रियों के लिए ऐन्द्र (इन्द्र सम्बन्धी) स्थान और अपने धर्म का आचरण करने वाले वैश्यों के लिए मारुत (मरुत् सम्बन्धी) स्थान निर्दिष्ट है। द्विजातियों की सेवा करने वाले शूद्रों का गान्धर्व (गन्धर्वों का) स्थान कहा गया है। अष्टासौ हजार उध्वरिता ऋषियों के लिए जो स्थान कहा गया है वही स्थान गुरु के समीप अध्ययन करने वाले के लिए बताया गया है। सप्तर्षियों का जो स्थान कहा गया है, वही वानप्रस्थों को प्राप्त होता है।

प्राजापत्यं गृहस्थानां स्थानमुक्तं स्वर्धुवा।

यतीनां जितचित्तानां न्यासिनामूद्धरितसाम्॥७२॥

हैरण्यगर्भं तत्स्थानं यस्मान्नावर्तते पुनः।

योगिनाममृतं स्थानं व्योमाख्यं परमक्षरम्॥७३॥

आनन्दमैश्वरं धाम सा काष्ठा सा परा गतिः।

स्वयम्भू ब्रह्मा ने गृहस्थों का स्थान प्राजापत्य कहा है। जितेन्द्रिय यतियों तथा उध्वरिता संन्यासियों का स्थान हैरण्यगर्भ है। यह वह स्थान है जहाँ से पुनः संसार में आना नहीं पड़ता। योगियों के लिए अमृतमय नित्य अक्षर ऐश्वर्य सम्पन्न आनन्दमय व्योम नामक धाम है। वही पराकाष्ठा और वही परमगति है।

ऋषय ऊचुः

भगवन्देवतारिञ्ज हिरण्यक्षनिपुदान्॥७४॥

चत्वारो ह्याश्रमाः प्रोक्ता योगिनामेक उच्यते।

ऋषियों ने कहा— हे भगवन्! देवशत्रुओं को मारने वाले! हिरण्याक्ष का वध करने वाले! (समान रूप में) आपने आश्रम चार कहे हैं किन्तु योगियों के लिए केवल एक आश्रम ही बताया है।

कूर्म उवाच

सर्वकर्माणि संन्यस्य समाधिपचलं श्रितः॥७५॥

य आस्ते निश्चलतो योगी स संन्यासी च पञ्चमः।

सर्वेषामाश्रमाणानु द्वैविध्यं श्रुतिदर्शितम्॥७६॥

कूर्म बोले— जो सभी कर्मों को त्याग कर नित्य समाधि के आश्रित रहता है वही निश्चल योगी है और वही पञ्चम संन्यासी भी है। श्रुति के अनुसार सभी आश्रम दो प्रकार के दिखाये गये हैं।

ब्रह्मचार्युपकुर्वाणो नैष्ठिको ब्रह्मतत्परः।

योऽधीत्य विधिवद्देदानु गृहस्थाश्रममाव्रजेत्॥७७॥

उपकुर्वाणको ज्ञेयो नैष्ठिको मरणान्तिकः।

उदासीनः साधकश्च गृहस्थो द्विविधो भवेत्॥७८॥

ब्रह्मचारी के दो प्रकार बताये गये हैं— एक उपकुर्वाण और दूसरा ब्रह्मलीन नैष्ठिक। जो विधिवत् वेदों का अध्ययन करके गृहस्थाश्रम में आता है उसे उपकुर्वाण जानना चाहिए। मरणपर्यन्त ब्रह्मचर्य धारण करने वाला नैष्ठिक ब्रह्मचारी कहा गया है। उदासीन और साधक के भेद से गृहस्थी भी दो प्रकार का है।

कुटुम्ब के भरण-पोषण में तत्पर रहने वाला गृहस्थ साधक होता है और जो तीन प्रकार के ऋणों को दूर करके पत्नी और धन आदि का त्याग कर मोक्ष के इच्छुक जो एकाकी विचरता है उसे उदासीन कहते हैं। जो वन में तपस्या करता है, देवों की पूजा तथा यज्ञ करता है और स्वाध्याय में तत्पर रहता है, उस तपस्वी को वानप्रस्थी कहते हैं। जो तप के द्वारा क्षीणकाय होकर ध्यानमग्न रहता है उसे वानप्रस्थ आश्रम में रहने वाला संन्यासी समझना चाहिए। जो सदा योगाभ्यास में निरत, जितेन्द्रिय, अपने लक्ष्य पर आरोहण के इच्छुक और ज्ञान प्राप्ति के लिए प्रयत्नरत भिक्षुक पारमेष्ठिक कहा जाता है। जो आत्मा में ही रमण करने वाला, सदा आनन्दमग्न, अत्यन्त मननशील और सम्यग् दर्शन-सम्पन्न है वह योगी भिक्षु कहलाता है। उनमें भी कोई ज्ञानसंन्यासी हुआ करते हैं और कोई वेदसंन्यासी होते हैं।

कुछ कर्म संन्यासी होते हैं। इस प्रकार से पारमेष्ठिक भिक्षुक तीन प्रकार के हुआ करते हैं। योगी भी तीन प्रकार के माने गये हैं। उसमें एक भौतिक, दूसरा सांख्य (तत्त्वदर्शी) और तीसरा उत्तम योगाश्रित आश्रमी कहा गया है। पहले योगी में प्रथम भावना होती है। दूसरे सांख्य योगी में अक्षर भावना और तीसरे में अन्तिम पारमेश्वरी भावना कही गई है। इस प्रकार आश्रमों का चतुष्टयत्व जान लेना चाहिए।

समस्त वेदशास्त्रों में पंचम आश्रम की गणना नहीं है। इस प्रकार देवाधिदेव, निरञ्जन, विश्वात्मा प्रभु ने वर्णाश्रमों की सृष्टि करके दक्ष आदि ऋषियों से कहा— आप लोग अब विविध प्रजाओं का सृजन करें। ब्रह्मा के वचन सुनकर उनके पुत्र दक्ष आदि मुनिवरों ने सब देवता, मनुष्य आदि विविध प्रजा की सृष्टि की। इस प्रकार सृष्टि के कार्य में संव्यवस्थित होकर भगवान् ब्रह्मा ने कहा— मैं ही सृष्टि का पालन करूंगा और शंकर इनका संहार करेंगे। सत्त्वगुण, रजोगुण और तमो गुण के योग से उस परम पिता परमात्मा की तीन मूर्तियां हैं जिन्हें ब्रह्मा, विष्णु और महेश कहते हैं। ये एक दूसरे में अनुरक्त और परस्पर उपजीवी हैं। परमेश्वर की लीला से ये एक-दूसरे को ओर प्रणत रहते हैं। ब्राह्मी, माहेश्वरी और अक्षरभावना— ये तीनों निरन्तर रूढ़ में विराजमान रहती हैं। आद्या जो अक्षरभावना है वह मुझमें निरन्तर प्रवर्तित होती रहती है। द्वितीय अक्षरभावना ब्रह्मा की कही गई है। वस्तुतः मैं और महादेव भिन्न नहीं हैं।

देव, असुर और मानव सहित सम्पूर्ण त्रैलोक्य का सृजन करने के लिए वह अन्तर्यामी ईश्वर स्वेच्छा से स्वयं को विभक्त करके स्थित है। वह अव्यक्त परम पुरुष ब्रह्मरूप को प्राप्त हुआ। इसलिए ब्रह्मा, महादेव और विश्वेश्वर विष्णु— ये तीनों एक ही परमात्मा के कार्यवश तीन रूपों में वर्णित हैं। अतएव तीनों ही सब प्रकार से विशेषरूप से वन्दनीय और पूज्य हैं।

यदि शीघ्र ही मोक्षनामक अविनाशी स्थान को पाने की इच्छा हो तो प्रीतियुक्त होकर वर्णाश्रमप्रयुक्त धर्म से तथा भक्तिभाव से जीवनपर्यन्त प्रतिज्ञापूर्वक इसकी पूजा करनी चाहिए। हे ब्रह्मणो! इस प्रकार चारों आश्रमों का वर्णन मैंने विस्तारपूर्वक कर दिया है।

आश्रमो वैष्णवो ब्राह्मो हराश्रम इति त्रयः।
तल्लिङ्गधारी नियतं तद्भक्तजनवत्सलः॥ १०१॥
ध्यायेद्धार्ययेदेतान् ब्रह्मविद्यापरायणः।
सर्वेषामेव भक्तानां शम्भोर्लिङ्गमनुत्तमम्॥ १०२॥

वैष्णव, ब्राह्म और हराश्रम ये तीन प्रकार का आश्रम है। उन-उन के नियत लिङ्गों को धारण करने वाले, उनके भक्तजनों के प्रति वत्सलता का भाव रखने वाले और ब्रह्मविद्या में निरत रहने वाले उनका ध्यान और अर्चन करें। सभी भक्तों के लिए शम्भु के चिह्न उत्तम होते हैं।

सितेन भस्मना कार्यं ललाटे तु त्रिपुण्ड्रकम्।
यस्तु नारायणं देवं प्रपन्नः परमं पदम्॥ १०३॥
धारयेत्सर्वदा शूलं ललाटे गन्धवारिभिः।
प्रपन्ना ये जगद्बीजं ब्रह्माणं परमेष्ठिनम्॥ १०४॥
तेषां ललाटे तिलकं धारणीयन्तु सर्वदा।
योऽसावनादिभूतादिः कालात्मासौ घृता भवेत्॥ १०५॥
उपर्यधोभागयोगात्त्रिपुण्ड्रस्य तु धारणात्।

घृतन्तु शूलधरणाद्भवत्येव न संशयः।

भवत्येव घृतं स्थानमैश्वरं तिलके कृते।
तस्मात्कार्यं त्रिशूलांकं तथा च तिलकं शुभम्॥ १०८॥

ललाट में श्वेत भस्म से त्रिपुण्ड्र लगाना चाहिए। जो परम पद नारायण देव के शरणागत है, उसे ललाट में सदा गन्ध-जल द्वारा शूल को धारण करना चाहिए। जो जगत् के बीजरूप परमेष्ठी ब्रह्मा की शरण को प्राप्त हो, उसे ललाट में सर्वदा तिलक धारण करना चाहिए। ऊपरी और अधोभाग के योग से त्रिपुण्ड्र धारण करने से वह अनादि, भूतों का आदि जो कालात्मा है, वह धृत हो जाता है। और जो ब्रह्मा-विष्णु-शिवात्मक त्रिगुणात्मक प्रधान है वह शूल के धारण करने से धृत हो जाता है, इसमें संशय नहीं। तिलक धारण करने पर ब्रह्म के तेज से युक्त, शुक्ल और ऐश्वर्य का स्थानरूप जो सूर्यमण्डल है, वही धारण किया हुआ होता है। अतएव त्रिशूल के चिह्न को तथा शुभकारी तिलक को धारण करना चाहिए।

आयुष्यज्यापि भक्तानां त्रयाणां विधिपूर्वकम्।
यजेत जुहुयादन्मौ जपेद्दृष्टान्जितेन्द्रियः॥ १०९॥

एवं परिचरेद्देवान् यावज्जीवं समाहितः॥ ११०॥
तेषां स्वस्थानमचलं सोऽचिरादधिगच्छति॥ १११॥

यह सब विधिपूर्वक करने से तीनों प्रकार के भक्तों की आयु वृद्धि होती है। जितेन्द्रिय, वर्णाश्रम के विधान का ज्ञाता, शान्त, दान्त एवं क्रोध को जीतने वाला यजन करे, अग्नि में होम करे तथा जप और दान करे। इस प्रकार जीवनपर्यन्त समाहित चित्त से देवों की परिचर्या करे। ऐसा करने पर वह शीघ्र ही देवों के अचल स्थान को प्राप्त कर लेता है।

ऋषय ऊचुः

वर्णा भगवतोर्दृष्टश्रुत्वारोऽप्याश्रमास्तथा।
इदानीं क्रमपस्माकमाश्रमाणां यद् प्रभो॥ १॥
ऋषियों ने पूछा— आप प्रभु ने चारों वर्ण तथा चारों आश्रमों के विषय में उपदेश दिया। हे प्रभु! अब हमारे लिए आश्रमों का क्रम वर्णन करें।

कूर्म उवाच

ब्रह्मचारी गृहस्थश्च वा-प्रस्थो यतिस्तथा।

ऋषेणैवाश्रमाः प्रोक्ताः कारणादन्यथा भवेत्॥२॥

कूर्मरूप विष्णु बोले- ब्रह्मचर्य, गृहस्थ, वानप्रस्थ और संन्यास ये चार आश्रम हो क्रमशः कहे गए हैं। कुछ कारण से इनमें क्रमभेद हो सकता है।

उत्पन्नज्ञानविज्ञानी वैराग्यं धरमं गतः।

प्रव्रजेद्ब्रह्मचर्यात्तु यदीच्छेत्परमां गतिम्॥३॥

जिसमें ज्ञान उत्पन्न हो गया है, ऐसा विवेकी और परम वैराग्य को प्राप्त मनुष्य यदि परम गति (मोक्ष) की इच्छा करता है, तो वह ब्रह्मचर्य से संन्यास ग्रहण कर ले।

दारानाहृत्य विधिवदन्यथा विविधैर्मखैः।

यजेदुत्पादयेत्पुत्रान् विरक्तो यदि संन्यसेत्॥४॥

अनिष्टा विधिवद्यज्ञैरनुत्पाद्य तद्यात्मजान्।

न गार्हस्थ्यं गृही त्यक्त्वा संन्यसेदबुद्धिमान् द्विजः॥५॥

अन्यथा (गृहस्थ को चाहिए) विधिवत् पत्नी से विवाह करके अनेक यज्ञों का यजन करे और पुत्रों को उत्पन्न करे। यदि विरक्त हो गया हो तो संन्यास ग्रहण कर ले। परन्तु विधिवत् यज्ञों का यजन किये बिना तथा पुत्रों को जन्म दिये बिना बुद्धिमान् गृहस्थ द्विज गार्हस्थ्य धर्म को छोड़कर संन्यास ग्रहण न करे।

अथ वैराग्यवेगेन स्वातुं नोत्सहते गृहे।

तत्रैव संन्यसेद्विद्वाननिष्ट्यापि द्विजोत्तमः॥६॥

पश्चात् यदि वह वैराग्याधिक्य के कारण घर में स्थित रहने का उत्सुक न हो, तो वह द्विजश्रेष्ठ बिना यज्ञादि अनुष्ठान के ही तत्काल संन्यास ले ले।

तथापि विविधैर्यज्ञैरिष्ट्या वनमथाश्रयन्।

तपस्तप्त्वा तपोयोगाद्विरक्तः संन्यसेद्बहिः॥७॥

और भी, वह अनेक प्रकार के यज्ञों का यजन करके वानप्रस्थ का आश्रय ले ले। वहाँ तपादि करके तपोबल से विरक्त होकर बाहर ही संन्यास धारण कर ले।

वानप्रस्थाश्रमं गत्वा न गृहं प्रविशेत्पुनः।

न संन्यासी वनज्याथ ब्रह्मचर्यञ्च साधकः॥८॥

वानप्रस्थ में जाकर पुनः घर में प्रवेश न करे। उसी प्रकार साधक संन्यासी भी वानप्रस्थ और गृहस्थ में पुनः प्रवेश न करे।

प्राजापत्यान्निरूप्येष्टिमानेयीष्यत्वा द्विजः।

प्रव्रजेतु गृही विद्वान् वनाद्वा श्रुतिचोदनात्॥९॥

प्रकर्तुमसमर्थोऽपि जुहोति यजति क्रियाः।

अथः पशुर्दरिद्रो वा विरक्तः संन्यसेद्विद्वजः॥१०॥

विद्वान् गृही प्राजापत्य अथवा आग्नेयी यज्ञों का यजन करके श्रुतिवचन से वानप्रस्थ से संन्यास का प्रवचन करे। करने में असमर्थ होता हुआ भी वह सब क्रियाओं का होम और यजन करता रहता है। अन्धा, लंगड़ा या दरिद्र द्विज भी विरक्त होकर संन्यास ग्रहण कर ले।

सर्वेषामेव वैराग्यं संन्यासे तु विधीयते।

पतत्येवाविरक्तो यः संन्यासं कर्तुमिच्छति॥११॥

संन्यास ग्रहण करने में सभी के लिए वैराग्य का विधान है। जो अविरक्त पुरुष संन्यास की इच्छा करता है, वह गिर जाता है।

एकस्मिन्नथवा सम्यग्दर्शितामरणान्तिकम्।

श्रद्धावानाश्रमे युक्तः सोऽमृतत्वाय कल्पते॥१२॥

अथवा एक ही आश्रम में आजोवन सम्यक् प्रकार से आचरण करता रहे। इस प्रकार अपने आश्रम में श्रद्धावान् होकर जो रहता है, वह अमृतत्व के लिए नियुक्त होता है।

न्यायागतधनः शान्तो ब्रह्मविद्यापरायणः।

स्वधर्मपालको नित्यं ब्रह्मभूयाय कल्पते॥१३॥

न्यायपूर्वक धन कमाने वाला, परम शान्त, ब्रह्मविद्यापरायण और स्वधर्मपालक सदा ब्रह्म के लिए कल्पित होता है।

ब्रह्मण्याथाय कर्माणि निःसङ्ग कामवर्जितः।

प्रसन्नेनैव मनसा कुर्वाणो याति तत्पदम्॥१४॥

जो समस्त कर्मों को ब्रह्म में निहित करके निःसङ्ग और कामरहित होकर प्रसन्न मन से कर्म करता है, वह उस ब्रह्मपद को पाता है।

ब्रह्मणा दीयते देयं ब्रह्मणे संप्रदीयते।

ब्रह्मैव दीयते चेति ब्रह्मार्पणमिदं परम्॥१५॥

जो कुछ देय है, वह ब्रह्म के द्वारा ही दिया जाता है, अतएव ब्रह्म के लिए ही वह सब समर्पित किया जाता है। ब्रह्म ही दिया जाता है, इसलिए यही परम ब्रह्मार्पण है।

नाहं कर्ता सर्वमेतद्ब्रह्मैव कुर्वते त्वया।

एतद्ब्रह्मार्पणं प्रोक्तमृषिभिस्तत्त्वदर्शिभिः॥१६॥

में कर्ता नहीं हैं। यह सब कुछ ब्रह्म ही करता है। तत्वदर्शी ऋषियों के द्वारा यही ब्रह्मार्पण कहा गया है।

प्रीणानु भगवानीशः कर्मणानेन श्मभ्तः।

करोति सततं बुद्ध्या ब्रह्मार्पणमिदं परम्॥ १७॥

इस कर्म से नित्य, भगवान् ईश प्रसन्न हों। जो निरंतर बुद्धिपूर्वक ऐसा करता है, यही उसका परम ब्रह्मार्पण है।

यद्वा फलानां संन्यासं प्रकुर्यात्परमेष्ठरे।

कर्मणामेतदप्याहुर्व्रह्मार्पणमनुत्तमम्॥ १८॥

अथवा, जो कर्मफलों को परमेश्वर के प्रति समर्पित कर देता है, उन कर्मों का भी यही उत्तम ब्रह्मार्पण कहा गया है।

कार्यमित्येव यत्कर्म नियतं सद्भवर्जितम्।

क्रियते विदुषा कर्म तदभवेदपि मोक्षदम्॥ १९॥

जो विद्वान् अनासक्त होकर शास्त्रविहित कर्मों को यह मेरा कर्तव्य है- ऐसा मानकर, नियत रूप से करता है, उसका वह कर्म भी मोक्ष देने वाला होता है।

अथवा यदि कर्माणि कुर्यान्नित्यान्यपि द्विजः।

अकृत्वा फलसंन्यासं कथ्यते तत्फलेन तु॥ २०॥

अथवा यदि द्विज फल का त्याग किये बिना नित्य कर्मों को करता है, तो भी उस कर्मफल से वह बँधता नहीं है।

तस्मात्सर्वप्रयत्नेन त्यक्त्वा कर्माश्रितं फलम्।

अविद्वानपि कुर्वीत कर्मानोति चिरात्पदम्॥ २१॥

इस कारण सब प्रकार से यत्नपूर्वक कर्माश्रित फल का त्याग करके अविद्वान् भी यदि कर्म करता है, तो भी वह चिरकाल में उत्तम अभीष्ट पद को प्राप्त करता है।

कर्मणा क्षीयते पापमैहिकं पौर्विकं तथा।

मनःप्रसादमन्वेति ब्रह्मविज्जायते नरः॥ २२॥

कर्म के द्वारा ऐहिक और पौर्विक अर्थात् पहले जन्म के पापों का नाश होता है। तब मनुष्य मन से प्रसन्न हो जाता है और ब्रह्मवेत्ता जाना जाता है।

कर्मणा सहिताज्ञानात् सम्यग्योगोऽभिजायते।

ज्ञानं च कर्मसहितं जायते दोषवर्जितम्॥ २३॥

कर्म सहित ज्ञान से सम्यक् योग की प्राप्ति होती है। कर्म सहित ज्ञान दोषवर्जित उत्पन्न होता है।

तस्मात्सर्वप्रयत्नेन यत्र तत्राश्रमे रतः।

कर्माणिभ्रतुष्टुधर्षं कुर्यान्नैष्कर्म्यमाप्नुवात्॥ २४॥

इस कारण सब प्रकार से यत्नपूर्वक जिस किसी आश्रम में रहते हुए (आसक्ति रहित) ईश्वर की तुष्टि के लिए कर्मों को करें। इससे निष्काम भाव की प्राप्ति होती है।

संग्राह्य परमं ज्ञानं नैष्कर्म्यं तत्रसादतः।

एकाकी निर्ममः ज्ञानो जीवन्नेव विमुच्यते॥ २५॥

उनका परम कृपा से नैष्कर्म्य भाव को तथा परम ज्ञान को प्राप्त करके वह एकाकी, मोहरहित, शांत जीवन-यापन करते हुए विमुक्त हो जाता है।

वीक्षते परमात्मानं परं ब्रह्म महेश्वरम्।

नित्यानन्दी निराभासस्तस्मिन्नेव लयं ब्रजेत्॥ २६॥

अनन्तर वह परब्रह्म महेश्वर परमात्मा का दर्शन करता है तथा नित्य आनन्दमय होकर एवं निराभास होकर ब्रह्म में लीन हो जाता है।

तस्मात्सेवेत सततं कर्मयोगं प्रसन्नधीः।

तुभ्ये परमेशस्य तत्पदं याति श्मभ्तम्॥ २७॥

इसलिए प्रसन्नचित्त मनुष्य निरंतर परमेश्वर की तुष्टि के लिए कर्मयोग का आश्रय ग्रहण करें। ऐसा करने से शाश्वत पद को प्राप्त करता है।

एतद्दः कथितं सर्वं चातुराश्रम्यमुत्तमम्।

न होतस्ममतिक्रम्य सिद्धिं विन्दति मानवः॥ २८॥

इस प्रकार सभी चारों आश्रमों का अत्युत्तम वर्णन मैंने कर दिया है। इनका अतिक्रमण करके मनुष्य कभी भी सिद्धि तो प्राप्त नहीं करता।

(प्राकृत-सर्ग कथन)

सूत उवाच

श्रुत्वाश्रमविधिं कृत्स्नपृथयो हृष्टचेतसः।

नमस्कृत्य हृषीकेशं पुनर्वचनमब्रुवन्॥ १॥

सूत ने कहा- चारों आश्रमों की पूर्ण विधि को श्रवण करके ऋषिगण प्रसन्नचित्त हो गये। वे पुनः भगवान् हृषीकेश (सर्व-इन्द्रियनियन्ता) को नमस्कार कर इस प्रकार वचन बोले।

मुनय ऊचः

भाषितं भवता सर्वं चातुराश्रम्यमुत्तमम्।

इदानीं श्रोतुमिच्छामो यथा सम्भवते जगत्॥२॥

मुनियों ने कहा— आपने चारों आश्रमों का उत्तम प्रकार से वर्णन कर दिया। अब हम संसार कैसे उत्पन्न होता है, इस विषय में सुनना चाहते हैं।

कुतः सर्वमिदं जातं कस्मिंश्च लयमेधयति।

नियन्ता कञ्च सर्वेषां वदस्व पुरुषोत्तम॥३॥

हे पुरुषोत्तम! यह सम्पूर्ण जगत् कहाँ से उत्पन्न हुआ है और किसमें जाकर यह लय को प्राप्त होगा? इन सबका नियन्ता कौन है? यह आप कहें।

श्रुत्वा नारायणो वाक्यमृषीणां कूर्मरूपपृक्।

प्राह गम्भीरया वाचा भूतानां प्रभवोऽव्ययः॥४॥

कूर्मरूपधारी अविनाशी एवं भूतों के उत्पादक भगवान् नारायण ने ऋषियों के वचन सुनकर गंभीर वाणी में कहा।

कूर्म उवाच

महेश्वरः परोऽव्ययः चतुर्व्यूहः सनातनः।

अनन्तप्राप्रमेयश्च नियन्ता सर्वतोमुखः॥५॥

कूर्म उवाच— महेश्वर परम अविनाशी, चतुर्व्यूह, सनातन, अनन्त, अप्रमेय, सब प्राणियों के मुखरूप और सब पर नियंत्रण करने वाले हैं।

अव्यक्तं कारणं यत्तन्नित्यं सदसदात्मकम्।

प्रधानं प्रकृतिञ्चेति यमाहुस्तत्त्वचिन्तकाः॥६॥

तत्त्ववेत्ताओं ने उन्हीं को अव्यक्त, कारण, नित्य, सत् और असत्रूप, प्रधान तथा प्रकृति कहा है।

गन्धवर्णरसैर्होतं ऋदस्यर्शं विवर्जितम्।

अजरं ध्रुवमक्षय्यं नित्यं स्वात्मन्यवस्थितम्॥७॥

वह (परमात्मा) गन्ध, वर्ण तथा रस से हीन, शब्द और स्पर्श से वञ्चित, अजर, ध्रुव, अक्षय, नित्य और अपनी आत्मा में अवस्थित रहते हैं।

जगदो निर्महाभूतं परब्रह्म सनातनम्।

विग्रहः सर्वभूतानामात्मनाधिष्ठितं महत्॥८॥

अनाद्यन्तमजं सूक्ष्मं त्रिगुणं प्रभवाव्ययम्।

असाम्प्रतमविज्ञेयं ब्रह्माग्रे समवर्तता॥९॥

वही जगत् के उत्पत्तिस्थान, महाभूत, परब्रह्म, सनातन, सभी भूतों के विश्वरूप, आत्मा से अधिष्ठित, सर्वकारी,

अनादि, अनन्त, अजन्मा, सूक्ष्म, त्रिगुण, प्रभव, अव्यय, असाम्प्रत और अविज्ञेय ब्रह्म सर्वप्रथम विद्यमान था।

गुणसाम्ये तदा तस्मिन् पुरुषे वात्पनि स्थिते।

प्राकृतः प्लयो ज्ञेयो वावद्विद्यसमुद्भवः॥१०॥

उस समय आत्मा में अधिष्ठित पुरुष में गुण साम्य होने पर जब तक विश्व की उत्पत्ति नहीं होती है उसे प्राकृत प्रलय जानना चाहिए।

ब्राह्मी रात्रिरियं प्रोक्ता ब्रह्मः सृष्टिरुदाहता।

अहर्न विद्यते तस्य न रात्रिर्हुपचारतः॥११॥

इस प्रलय को ही ब्रह्मा की रात्रि कहा गया है और सृष्टि उसका दिन कहा गया है। उपचारतः ब्रह्मा का न तो दिन होता है और न रात ही होती है।

निशान्ते प्रतिबुद्धोऽसौ जगदादिरनादिमान्।

सर्वभूतमयोऽव्यक्तादनर्थामीश्वरः परः॥१२॥

प्रकृतिं पुरुषं चैव प्रविश्याशु महेश्वरः।

क्षोभयामास योगेन परेण परमेश्वरः॥१३॥

निशा के अन्त में जागृत होने पर जगत् के आदि, अनादि, सर्वभूतमय, अव्यक्त, अन्तर्यामी ईश्वर और परमात्मारूप महेश्वर ने प्रकृति और पुरुष ने शीघ्र प्रवेश करके परमयोग से क्षुभित कर दिया।

यथा मदो नरस्त्रीणां यथा वा मत्त्वोऽनिलः।

अनुप्रविष्टः क्षोभाय तथासौ योगमूर्तिमान्॥१४॥

जैसे कामदेव अथवा वसन्तऋतु की वायु नर और स्त्री में प्रविष्ट होकर उन्हें क्षुब्ध कर देती है। उसी तरह योगमूर्ति ब्रह्म ने दोनों को क्षुभित कर दिया।

स एव क्षोभको विप्राः क्षोभ्यश्च परमेश्वरः।

स संकोचविकासाम्यां प्रधानत्वे व्यवस्थितः॥१५॥

हे विप्रगण! वही परमेश्वर क्षोभक है और स्वयं क्षुब्ध होने वाला भी है। वह संकोच और विकास द्वारा प्रधानत्व के रूप में व्यवस्थित हो जाता है।

प्रधानाक्षोभ्यमानाच्च तथा पुंसः पुरातनान्।

प्रादुरासीन्महद्वीजं प्रधानपुरुषात्मकम्॥१६॥

क्षुब्धता को प्राप्त हुई प्रकृति से और पुरातन पुरुष से एक प्रधान पुरुषात्मक महान् बीज का प्रादुर्भाव हुआ।

महानात्मा पतिर्ब्रह्मा प्रबुद्धिः ख्यातिरीश्वरः।

प्रजा बृतिः स्मृतिः संविदेतस्पादिति तस्मृतम्॥१७॥

महान् आत्मा, मति, ब्रह्मा, प्रवृद्धि, ख्याति, ईश्वर, प्रज्ञा, धृति, स्मृति और संवित् की उत्पत्ति उसी से हुई है ऐसा स्मृति वाक्य है।

वैकारिकस्तैजसश्च भूतादिश्चैव तामसः।

त्रिक्रियोऽयमहंकारो महतः संवभूव ह॥ १८॥

वैकारिक, तेजस् और भूतादि तामस यह तीन प्रकार का अहंकार महत् से उत्पन्न हुआ था।

अहंकारोऽभिमानश्च कर्ता मन्ता च स स्मृतः।

आत्मा च मत्परो जीवो गतः सर्वाः प्रवृत्तयः॥ १९॥

वह अहंकार, अभिमान, कर्ता, मन्ता कहा गया। आत्मा मत्परायण जीव बना जिसमें सभी प्रवृत्तियाँ उत्पन्न हुईं।

पञ्चभूतान्यहंकारात्तन्मात्राणि च जज्ञिरे।

इन्द्रियाणि च सर्वाणि सर्वं तस्यात्मजं जगत्॥ २०॥

उस अहंकार से पञ्चमहाभूत, पञ्चतन्मात्रा और समस्त इन्द्रियाँ उत्पन्न हुईं। उसी से आत्मरूप सम्पूर्ण जगत् भी उत्पन्न हुआ।

मनस्त्वव्यक्तजं प्रोक्तं विकारः प्रथमः स्मृतः।

येनासौ जायते कर्ता भूतादींश्चानुपश्यति॥ २१॥

मन की सृष्टि अव्यक्त से कही गई है वही प्रथम विकार है इसी कारण वह सबका कर्ता है और सभी भूतों का अनुदृष्टा है।

कालसंख्या समासेन परार्द्धद्वयकल्पिता॥ ४॥

कूर्मरूपी भगवान् बोले— पूर्व अनुत्पाद होने से ही इनको स्वयम्भू कहा गया है और नरों का ही अयन होता है इसी कारण से नारायण कहा जाता है। संसार का हरण करने का हेतु होने से हर कहे जाते हैं तथा विभुत्व होने से इन्हें विष्णु कहा जाता है। सर्वविज्ञाता होने से भगवान् और सबका

रक्षण करने के कारण ओम् कहा गया है। सब का विज्ञान रहने के कारण सर्वज्ञ तथा सर्वमय होने से सर्व कहा जाता है। हे द्विजोत्तमो! अनेक वर्षों में भी स्वयंभू परमात्मा ब्रह्मा की कालसंख्या का वर्णन नहीं किया जा सकता। संक्षेपतः वह कालसंख्या दो परार्थ मानी गई है।

स एव स्यात्परः कालस्तदने सृज्यते पुनः।

निजेन तस्य मानेन चायुर्वर्षशतं स्मृतम्॥ ५॥

वही पर काल है। उसके अन्त में पुनः सृजन किया जाता है। उन स्वायंभुव के अपने ही मान से आयु सौ वर्ष की कही गई है।

तैः षड्भिरयनं वर्षं द्वेऽयने दक्षिणोत्तरे॥ ८॥

तीस अहोरात्र का दो पक्ष (शुक्ल और कृष्ण) वाला एक मास होता है एवं छः मासों का एक अयन होता है। दक्षिणायन और उत्तरायण नाम वाले दो अयनों का एक वर्ष होता है।

अयनं दक्षिणं रात्रिर्देवानामुत्तरं दिनम्।

एतद्द्वादशसाहस्रं साषिकं परिकल्पितम्॥ १३॥

उससे सत्ययुग का सन्ध्यांश छोड़कर अन्य सन्ध्यांश काल कुल छह सौ वर्ष का था। सन्ध्यांश के बिना दो एवं एक सहस्र वर्ष त्रेता, द्वापर तथा कलि के कालज्ञान में परिकीर्तित हुआ है। यही बारह हजार वर्ष अधिक परिकल्पित है।

तदेकसप्ततिगुणं मनोरन्तरमुच्यते।

ब्रह्मणो दिवसे विप्रा मनवश्च चतुर्दश॥ १४॥

उसका सात गुना अर्थात् इकहत्तर दिव्य युगों का एक मन्वन्तर होता है। हे विप्रगण! ब्रह्मा के एक दिन में चौदह मन्वन्तर माने जाते हैं।

विद्वानों ने एक हजार चतुर्युग को एक कल्प कहा है। हे द्विजगण! उसी प्रकार तीन सौ साठ कल्प पूरे होते हैं, तब काल विशेषज्ञों ने उसे ब्रह्मा का एक वर्ष कहा है। वही परिमाण काल सौ गुना होने पर परार्थ कहा जाता है।

तस्याने सर्वसत्वानां सहेतौ प्रकृतौ लयः।

तेनार्यं प्रोच्यते सद्भिः प्राकृतः प्रतिसंचरः॥ २०॥

उसके अन्त में सभी प्राणियों की उत्पत्ति की हेतुभूता प्रकृति में लय हो जाता है। इसलिए सजनों द्वारा इसे प्राकृत प्रतिसंचर कहा जाता है।

ब्रह्मा, नारायण और महेश— इन तीनों का प्रकृति में लय हो जाता है और समय आने पर पुनः उनका जन्म कहा जाता है।

सर्वगतत्वात्स्वतन्त्रत्वात्सर्वात्मत्वान्महेश्वरः॥ २३॥

यही अनादि कालरूप भगवान् अनन्त, अजर, अमर, सर्वगामी, स्वतन्त्र और सर्वात्मा होने के कारण महेश्वर हैं।

ब्रह्मणो वहवो रुद्रा ह्यन्ये नारायणादयः।

एको हि भगवानीशः कालः कविरिति श्रुतिः॥ २४॥

अनेक ब्रह्मा, अनेक रुद्र और नारायण आदि भी अनेक हैं, केवल कालस्वरूप, सर्वज्ञ, भगवान् ईश ही एक हैं, ऐसी श्रुति है।

एकमत्र व्यतीतं तु परार्द्धं ब्रह्मणो द्विजाः।

हे द्विजो! यहाँ ब्रह्मा का एक परार्थ बीत चुका है। सम्प्रति दूसरा परार्थ चल रहा है जो उसका यह अग्रज कल्प है।

योऽतीतः सोऽन्तिमः कल्पः पादा इत्युच्यते बुधैः।

वाराहो वर्तते कल्पस्तस्य कस्यापि विस्तरम्॥ २६॥

जो अतीत (बीता हुआ) है, उसे ही विद्वानों ने अन्तिम पादा कल्प कहा है। सम्प्रति वाराह कल्प चल रहा है, उसे विस्तारपूर्वक कहूँगा।

(सर्ग अर्थात् सृष्टि का वर्णन)

कूर्म उवाच

सृष्टिं चिन्तयतस्तस्य कल्पादिषु यथा पुरा।

अबुद्धिपूर्वकः सर्गः प्रादुर्भूतस्तमोमयः॥ १॥

कूर्मावतारी भगवान् बोले— जब प्रजापति ने पहले के समान कल्प सृष्टि का चिन्तन किया तब अबुद्धिपूर्वक एक तमोमय सृष्टि प्रादुर्भूत हुई।

तमोमोहो महामोहस्तामिच्छान्यसंज्ञितः।

अविद्या पञ्चमी तेषां प्रादुर्भूता महात्मनः॥ २॥

तम, मोह, महामोह, तामिस और अन्धतामिस इन पाँच पवों वाली अविद्या उस महान् आत्मा प्रजापति से प्रादुर्भूत हुई है।

पञ्चधावस्थितः सर्गो ध्यायतः सोऽधिमानिनः।

संवृतस्तमसा चैव बीजकुम्भवदावृतः॥ ३॥

उस प्रकार सृष्टिरचना के अभिमान से ध्यान से उत्पन्न वह सर्ग पाँच भागों में अवस्थित हो गया और वह बीजकुम्भ के समान केवल तमस अर्थात् अज्ञान से आवृत होकर स्थित है।

बहिरन्ध्राप्रकाशस्तस्यो निःसंग एव च।

मुख्या नगा इति प्रोक्ता मुख्यसर्गस्तु स स्मृतः॥४॥

वह सर्ग बाहर और भीतर प्रकाशशून्य, स्तब्ध और निःसंग था। उसके जो मुख्य पर्वत, वृक्ष आदि कहे थे, वही मुख्य सृष्टि मानी गई।

तस्याभिध्यायतः सर्गं तिर्यक् स्रोतोऽध्ववर्त्तत॥५॥

प्रभु उस सृष्टि को असाधक अर्थात् किसी भी कार्य की सिद्धि न करने वाली जानकर दूसरी सृष्टि का ध्यान करने लगे। उससे तिर्यक् स्रोत प्रवाहित हुआ।

यस्मात्तिर्यक् प्रवृत्तः स तिर्यक्स्रोतः ततः स्मृतः।

पश्चादयस्ते विख्याता उत्पद्यग्रहिणो द्विजाः॥६॥

क्योंकि वह तिरछा प्रवाहित हुआ था, इसीलिए उसे 'तिर्यक्स्रोतस्' नाम से जाना गया, क्योंकि हे द्विजो! वे पशु आदि उत्पद्यग्राही अर्थात् तिरछे मार्ग को अपनाते वाले नाम से विख्यात हुए।

तमप्यसाधकं ज्ञात्वा सर्गमन्यं ससर्ज ह।

ऊर्ध्वस्रोत इति प्रोक्तो देवसर्गस्तु सात्त्विकः॥७॥

उसको भी असाधक समझकर उन्होंने अन्य सृष्टि का सम्पादन किया। वह सात्त्विक (सत्त्वगुणप्रधान) देवसृष्टि थी, जिसे ऊर्ध्वस्रोतस् कहा गया।

प्रादुरासीत्तदा व्यक्तादर्वाक्स्रोतस्तु साधकः॥९॥

तदनन्तर सत्य का चिन्तन करते हुए वे उस समय ध्यान करने लगे। तब व्यक्त से अर्वाक् स्रोतः साधक सृष्टि का प्रादुर्भाव हुआ था।

तत्र प्रकाशबहुलास्तमोऽत्रिक्ता रजोऽधिकाः।

दुःखोत्कटाः सत्वयुता मनुष्याः परिकीर्त्तिताः॥१०॥

वहाँ उत्पन्न हुए प्रकाशबहुल, तम-उद्विक्त, रज की अधिकता वाले, दुःखोत्कट, (फिर भी कुछ) सत्वयुक्त होने से मनुष्य नाम से कहे गये।

तस्याभिध्यायतः सर्गं सर्गो भूतादिकोऽभवत्॥११॥

ते परिग्रहिणः सर्वे संविधागरताः पुनः।

खादिन्ध्याप्यशीलाह्य भूताद्याः परिकीर्त्तिताः॥१२॥

भगवान् अज ने उस सर्ग को देखकर (उससे भिन्न) दूसरी सृष्टि का ध्यान किया। ऐसा करने पर भूतादि का सर्ग उत्पन्न हुआ। वे सब परिग्रह से युक्त, अपने अनुकूल अच्छे विभाग को चाहने वाले, खाने की इच्छा करने वाले तथा शील अर्थात् सदाचारादि गुणों से रहित कहे गये।

इत्येते पञ्च कथिताः सर्गा वै द्विजपुंगवाः।

प्रथमो महतः सर्गो विज्ञेयो ब्रह्मणस्तु सः॥१३॥

द्विजश्रेष्ठो! ये पाँच प्रकार की प्रमुख सर्ग कहे गये हैं। उनमें महत् से उत्पन्न प्रथम सृष्टि (सर्ग) है, उसीको ब्रह्मा का सर्ग जानना चाहिए।

तन्मात्र की द्वितीय सृष्टि है, जिसे भूतसर्ग कहा गया है। तीसरी वैकारिक सृष्टि ऐन्द्रियक नाम से कही गई है।

मुख्यसर्गश्चतुर्वस्तु मुख्या वै स्वावराः स्मृताः॥१५॥

यह प्राकृत सर्ग बुद्धिपूर्वक संभूत है। वह चतुर्थ मुख्यसर्ग है। वे मुख्य ही स्थावर कहे गये हैं।

तदोर्ध्वस्रोतसां षष्ठो देवसर्गस्तु स स्मृतः॥१६॥

जो तिर्यक् स्रोत कहा गया है, वह तिर्यक् योनि (पशुपक्षा आदि) वाली पंचम सृष्टि है। उसी प्रकार उर्ध्वस्रोत वालों का छठव देवसर्ग कहा गया है।

ततोऽर्वाक्स्रोतसां सर्गः सप्तमः स तु मानुषः।

अष्टमो भौतिकः सर्गो भूतादीनां प्रकीर्त्तितः॥१७॥

उसके बाद अर्वाक् स्रोत वालों की सातवीं मानुषी सृष्टि है। अष्टम भूतादियों की भौतिक सृष्टि कही गई है।

नवम कौमार सृष्टि है जो प्राकृत और वैकृत दोनों हैं। पूर्व में तीनों प्राकृत सर्ग बुद्धिपूर्वक सम्पन्न हुए हैं।

बुद्धिपूर्वं प्रवर्तने मुख्याद्या मुनिपुंगवाः।
अग्रे ससर्जं वै ब्रह्मा मानसानात्मनः समान्॥ १९॥
सनकं सनातनं चैव तथैव च सनन्दनम्।
ऋतुं सनत्कुमारं च पूर्वमेव प्रजापतिः॥ २०॥

हे श्रेष्ठ मुनिगण! मुख्य आदि सृष्टियाँ बुद्धिपूर्व प्रवर्तित हैं।
अनन्तर सर्वप्रथम ब्रह्मा ने अपने समान मानसपुत्रों की सृष्टि
की। सनक, सनातन, सनन्दन, ऋतु और सनत्कुमार को
प्रजापति ने पहले ही उत्पन्न कर दिया था।

पञ्चैते योगिनो विप्राः परं वैराग्यमाश्रिताः।
ईश्वरासक्तमनसो न सृष्टी दधिरे मतिम्॥ २१॥

ये पाँचों योगी ब्राह्मणों ने परम वैराग्य को प्राप्त किया था
जिससे ईश्वरासक्त मन वाले होकर इन्होंने पुनः सृष्टि करने में
अपनी बुद्धि नहीं लगायी।

तेष्वेवं निरपेक्षेषु लोकसृष्टौ प्रजापतिः।
मुमोह मायया सद्यो मायिनः परमेष्ठिनः॥ २२॥

इस प्रकार लोकसृष्टि में उन योगियों के ऐसा निरपेक्ष हो
जाने पर मायावी परमेष्ठी को माया से प्रजापति तत्क्षण
मोहित हो गये।

संबोधयामास च तं जगन्मायो महामुनिः।
नारायणो महायोगी योगिचित्तानुरञ्जनः॥ २३॥

जगत्स्वरूप माया वाले, फिरभी महायोगी, तथा योगियों के
चित्त के अनुरंजन करने वाले महामुनि नारायण ने ब्रह्मा को
बोधित (उपदेश) किया।

बोधितस्तेन विश्वात्मा तताप परमं तपः।
स तप्यमानो भगवान्न किञ्चित्कृत्यपद्यत्॥ २४॥

उनसे उपदिष्ट हुए विश्वात्मा ने परम तप का अनुष्ठान
किया। किन्तु तप करते हुए भी भगवान् ने कुछ भी प्राप्त
नहीं किया।

ततो दीर्घेण कालेन दुःखात्क्रोधोऽभ्यजायत।
क्रोधाविष्टस्य नेत्राभ्यां प्रापतप्रभुबिन्दवः॥ २५॥
भ्रुकुटीकुटिलात्तस्य ललाट्यत्परमेष्ठिनः।
समुत्पन्नो महादेवः शरण्यो नीललोहितः॥ २६॥

तब लम्बा समय निकल जाने पर उन्हें दुःख से क्रोध
उत्पन्न हो गया। क्रोधाविष्ट हुए उनके नेत्रों से आँसुओं की
बूँदें गिरने लगीं। उस टेढ़ी भ्रुकुटी वाले परमेष्ठी के ललाट से
सब के लिए शरण योग्य, नीललोहित महादेव उत्पन्न हुए।

स एव भगवानीशस्तेजोराशिः सनातनः।
यं प्रपश्यन्ति विद्वांसः स्वात्मस्थं परमेश्वरम्॥ २७॥
वही भगवान् तेजोराशिस्वरूप सनातन ईश हैं, जिन्हें
विद्वान् अपने आत्मा में स्थित परमेश्वर के रूप में देखते हैं।

ओंकारं समनुस्मृत्य प्रणम्य च कृताञ्जलिः।
तमाह भगवान् ब्रह्मा सृजेमा विक्वियाः प्रजाः॥ २८॥
तब ओंकार का स्मरण कर, हाथ जोड़कर प्रणाम करके
भगवान् ब्रह्मा उनसे बोले— आप विविध प्रजा की सृष्टि करें।

निशम्य भगवद्वाक्यं शंकरो धर्मवाहनः।
आत्मना सदृशान् रुद्रान् ससर्ज मनसा शिवः।
कपर्दिनो निरतङ्कस्त्रिनेत्राश्रीललोहितान्॥ २९॥

ब्रह्मा के वचन सुनकर धर्मरूप वाहन वाले शिव शंकर ने
मन से अपने ही स्वरूप जैसे जटाजूट-धारी, आतंकरहित,
त्रिनेत्रधारी एवं नीललोहित रुद्रों की सृष्टि की।

तं प्राह भगवान् ब्रह्मा जन्ममृत्युयुताः प्रजाः।
सृजेति सोऽब्रवीदीशो नाहं मृत्युजरान्विताः॥ ३०॥

प्रजाः स्रक्ष्ये जगन्नाथ सृजत्वमशुभः प्रजाः।
निवार्य स तदा रुद्रं ससर्ज कमलोद्भवः॥ ३१॥

उनसे भगवान् ब्रह्मा ने कहा— जन्म-मरण से युक्त
प्रजाओं की सृष्टि करो। तब शिव ने कहा— हे जगन्नाथ! मैं
जरा-मरण से युक्त प्रजाओं की सृष्टि नहीं करूँगा। आप इस
अशुभ प्रजा की सृष्टि करें। तब कमलोद्भव ब्रह्मा ने रुद्र को
रोककर स्वयं सृष्टि की।

स्थानाभिमानिनः सर्वान् गदतस्तात्रिबोधत।
आपोऽमिरन्तरिक्षं च द्यौर्वायुः पृथिवी तथा॥ ३२॥
नद्यः समुद्राः शैलश्च वृक्षा वीर्य एव च।
लवाः काष्ठाः कलाश्चैव मुहूर्ता दिवसाः क्षपाः॥ ३३॥
अर्द्धमासश्च मासश्च अयनाब्दयुगादयः।
स्थानाभिमानिनः सृष्ट्वा साधकानसृजत्युनः॥ ३४॥

तब ब्रह्माजी ने स्थानाभिमानियों सब को उत्पन्न किया था,

वायु, पृथिवी, नदी, समुद्र, पर्वत, वृक्ष, लता, लव, काष्ठा,
कला, मुहूर्त, दिन, रात्रि, पक्ष, मास, अयन, वर्ष और युग
आदि स्थानाभिमानियों की सृष्टि करके पुनः साधकों की सृष्टि
की।

परीचिभृग्वङ्गिरसः पुलस्त्यं पुलहं ऋतुम्।

आस्थाय मानवं रूपं धर्मस्तैः संप्रवर्तितः॥ ३९॥

ब्रह्मा द्वारा सृष्ट ये साधक गृहस्थ थे। इन्होंने मानवरूप को ग्रहण करके धर्म को प्रवर्तित किया।

ततो देवासुरफितृन् मनुष्यांश्च घतुष्टयम्।
सिसृक्षुर्भगवान् ईशः स्वप्तात्मानमयोजयत्॥ ४०॥

तदनन्तर देवों असुरों, पितरों और मनुष्यों— इन चारों का सर्जन करने की इच्छा से भगवान् ईश ने अपने आपको नियुक्त किया।

युक्तात्मनस्तपोमात्रा ह्यद्रिक्त्वाभूत्प्रजापतेः।
ततोऽस्य जघनत्पूर्वमसुरा जज्ञिरे सुताः॥ ४१॥

तब युक्तात्मा प्रजापति की तपोमात्रा अधिक बढ़ गई। तब सर्वप्रथम उनकी जांघ से असुर पुत्र पैदा हुए।

उत्ससर्जामसुरान् सृष्ट्वा तां तनुं पुरुषोत्तमः।
सा घोत्सृष्ट्वा तनुस्तेन सद्यो रात्रिरजायत॥ ४२॥

असुरों की सृष्टि करके पुरुषोत्तम ने उस शरीर को त्याग दिया। उनसे उत्सृष्ट वह शरीर रात्रि बन गया।

सा तपोबहुला यस्मात्प्रजास्तस्यां स्वपन्थतः।
सत्त्वमात्रात्मिकां देवस्तनुमन्यां गृहीतवान्॥ ४३॥

वह रात्रि तपो बहुला थी, इसी कारण से प्रजा उस रात्रि में सो जाती है। अनन्तर प्रजापति ने सत्त्वमात्रात्मक दूसरा शरीर धारण कर लिया।

ततोऽस्य मुखतो देवा दीव्यतः संप्रजज्ञिरे।
त्यक्त्वा सापि तनुस्तेन सत्त्वप्राथम्यभूद्दिनम्॥ ४४॥

तस्माद्दहो धर्मयुक्ता देवताः समुपासते।
सत्त्वमात्रात्मिकामेव ततोऽन्यां जग्हे तनुम्॥ ४५॥

इसलिए धर्मयुक्त देवता दिन की उपासना करते हैं। पुनः उन्होंने सत्त्वमात्रात्मिक अन्य शरीर को धारण किया।

पितृवन्मन्यमानस्य पितरः संप्रजज्ञिरे।

तस्माद्दहैवितानां रात्रिः स्यादेवविद्विषाम्॥ ४७॥

उनके द्वारा त्यक्त वह शरीर शीघ्र ही संध्यारूप में परिणत हो गया। अतः वह संध्या देवताओं के लिए, दिन और देवशत्रुओं के लिए रात्रि हो गई।

तयोर्मध्ये पितृणां तु मूर्तिः सन्ध्या गरीयसी।
तस्माद्देवासुराः सर्वे मुनयो मानवास्तदा॥ ४८॥

रजोमात्रात्मिकां ब्रह्मा तनुमन्यां ततोऽसृजत्॥ ४९॥

उन दोनों के मध्य पितरों की मूर्तिरूप सन्ध्या अत्यन्त श्रेष्ठ थी, इसलिए सभी देव, असुर, मुनि और मानव योगयुक्त होकर रात और दिन के मध्य शरीर-संध्या की सदा उपासना करते हैं। तदनन्तर ब्रह्मा ने रजोमात्रात्मक अन्य शरीर की सृष्टि की।

ततोऽस्य जज्ञिरे पुत्रा मनुष्या रजसावृताः।

अथकारे क्षुधाविष्टा राक्षसास्तस्य जज्ञिरे॥ ५२॥

उससे रजोगुणयुक्त मानवपुत्र उत्पन्न हुए। अनन्तर उस शरीर को भी प्रजापति ने शीघ्र ही त्याग दिया। हे विप्रो! तत्पश्चात् वह शरीर ज्योत्स्नारूप में परिणत हो गया। उसी को पूर्वकालिक (प्रातः) सन्ध्या कहा जाता है। हे द्विजश्रेष्ठगण! वह अनन्तर भगवान् ब्रह्मा ने तम और रजोगुण विशिष्ट को प्राप्त करके उसका पुनः पूजन किया। तब अन्धकार में भूख से आविष्ट राक्षसगण उत्पन्न हुए।

स्थावरजंगमरूप नित्य और अनित्य दोनों प्रकार की सृष्टि थी। सृष्टि के पूर्व जो कर्म उनके थे, वे ही बार-बार सृष्टि के समय उन्हें प्राप्त हो जाते थे। हिंसा, अहिंसा, मृदुता क्रूरता, धर्म, अधर्म, सत्य और असत्य आदि उन्हीं के द्वारा किये हुए होने से उन्हीं को प्राप्त होते थे। अतएव उन्हें अच्छे प्रतीत होते थे। इन्द्रियों के विषय रूप महाभूतरूप के शरीरों में अनुभव तथा उनमें भूतों का विनियोग, प्राकृत भूतों का नाम-रूप और पदार्थों का प्रपञ्च स्वयं विधाता ने रचा था।

इदानीं संशयं चेषमस्माकं छेतुमर्हसि॥२॥

मुनियों ने कहा— हे जनार्दन! आपने मुख्य आदि सर्ग तो कह दिया, अब जो हमारा सन्देह है, उसे दूर करने में आप समर्थ हैं।

कथं स भगवानीशः पूर्वजोऽपि पिनाकयुक्।

कथं च भगवान्ब्रह्मे ब्रह्मा लोकपितामहः।
अण्डतो जगतामीशस्तत्रोक्तुमिहार्हसि॥४॥

वे भगवान् पिनाकधारी ईश (शंकर) पूर्वज होने पर भी अव्यक्त जन्मा ब्रह्मा के पुत्र कैसे हुए? और जगत् के अधिपति लोक-पितामह भगवान् ब्रह्मा अण्ड से कैसे उत्पन्न हुए? यह आप ही कहने योग्य हैं।

कूर्म उवाच

पुत्रत्वं ब्रह्मणस्तस्य पदयोनित्वमेव च॥५॥

कूर्म बोले— हे ऋषिगण! अमित तेजस्वी भगवान् शंकर का ब्रह्मा के पुत्ररूप में होना और ब्रह्मा का कमल से उत्पन्न होना कैसे हुआ? यह आप सब लोक सुनें।

अतीतकल्पावसाने तपोभूतं जगत्प्रथमम्।
आसीदेकार्णवं घोरं न देवाद्या न चर्षयः॥६॥

बोते हुए कल्प के अन्त में ये तीनों लोक अन्धकारमय थे तथा परम घोर एक समुद्र ही था। वहां न देवता ही थे और न ऋषि आदि ही।

तत्र नारायणो देवो निर्जनं निरुपप्लवे।
आश्रित्य शेषज्ञयनं सुष्वाप पुरुषोत्तमः॥७॥

वहाँ केवल पुरुषोत्तम नारायणदेव उस उपद्रवशून्य निर्जन अर्णव में शेषशय्या के आश्रित होकर सो रहे थे।

सहस्रबाहुः सर्वज्ञश्छिन्त्यमानो मनीषिभिः॥८॥

वे सहस्र शिर वाले, सहस्र नेत्र वाले, सहस्र पाद और सहस्रबाहु एवं सर्वज्ञरूप में होकर मनीषियों द्वारा ध्यान किये जाते हैं।

पीतवासा विशालाक्षो नीलजीमूतसन्निभः।
ततो विभूतियोगात्मा योगिनां तु दयापरः॥९॥

पीतवस्त्रधारी, विशाल नेत्र वाले, काले मेघ के समान आभा वाले वे पुनः ऐश्वर्यमय, योगात्मा और योगियों के लिए परम दयापरायण थे।

कदाचित्तस्य सुप्तस्य लीलासौ दिव्यमद्भुतम्।
त्रैलोक्यसारं विमलं नाभ्यां पंकजमुद्भवी॥१०॥

किसी समय सुप्तावस्था में उनकी नाभि में अनायास ही एक दिव्य, अद्भुत, तीनों लोकों का साररूप, स्वच्छ कमल प्रकाशित हुआ था।

शतयोजनविस्तीर्णं तरुणादित्यसन्निभम्।

स तं करेण विभ्रतात्मा समुत्थाप्य सनातनम्।
प्रोवाच मधुरं वाक्यं मायया तस्य मोहितः॥१३॥

उस विभ्रतात्मा ने अपने एक हाथ से सनातन सर्वात्मा को उठा लिया, फिर उसकी माया से मोहित होकर ये मधुर वचन कहे।

अस्मिन्नेकार्णवे घोरे निर्जने तमसावृते।
एकाकी को भवांश्चेति बूहि मे पुरुषर्षभा॥१४॥

इस अन्धकार से घिरे हुए निर्जन भयानक एकार्णव में एकाकी आप कौन हैं? हे पुरुषर्षभ! मुझे आप बताने की कृपा करें।

तस्य तद्दहनं श्रुत्वा विहस्य गरुडध्वजः।

उवाच देवं ब्रह्माणं मेघगम्भीरनिःस्वनः॥ १५॥

उनके यह वचन सुनकर गरुडध्वज विष्णु ने कुछ हैसकर मेघ के समान गंभीर स्वर वाले होकर ब्रह्मादेव से कहा।

भो भो नारायणं देवं लोकानां प्रभवाव्ययम्।
महायोगीश्वरं मां वै जानीहि पुरुषोत्तमम्॥ १६॥

हे ब्रह्मन्! आप मुझे लोकों की उत्पत्ति का स्थान, अविनाशी, महायोगीश्वर पुरुषोत्तम नारायण जानें।

ययि पश्य जगत्कृत्स्नं त्वं च लोकपितामह।
सर्वतमहाद्वीपं-समुद्रैः सप्तध्रुवतम्॥ १७॥

आप लोकपितामह हैं। इस सारा जगत् जो पर्वत और महाद्वीपों से युक्त तथा सात समुद्रों से घिरा हुआ है, उसे मुझमें ही देखें।

एवमाभाष्य विश्वात्मा प्रोवाच पुरुषं हरिः।
जानत्रपि महायोगी को भवानिति वेधसम्॥ १८॥

इस प्रकार कहकर विश्वात्मा हरि ने जानते हुए भी पुराण-पुरुष ब्रह्माजी से पूछा- आप महायोगी कौन हैं?

ततः प्रहस्य भगवान् ब्रह्मा वेदनिधिः प्रभुः।
प्रत्युवाचाम्युजाभासं सस्मितं श्लक्ष्णया गिरा॥ १९॥

तब कुछ हैसते हुए वेदनिधि प्रभु भगवान् ब्रह्मा ने मधुर वाणी में कमल की आभा के समान सस्मित विष्णु को उत्तर दिया।

अहं धाता विधाता च स्वयम्भुः प्रपितामहः।
मय्येव संस्थितं विश्वं ब्रह्माहं विश्वतोमुखः॥ २०॥

मैं ही धाता, विधाता और स्वयंभू प्रपितामह हूँ। मुझमें ही यह विश्व संस्थित है। मैं ही सर्वतोमुख ब्रह्मा हूँ।

श्रुत्वा वाचं च भगवान्विष्णुः सत्यपराक्रमः।
अनुज्ञाप्याय योगेन प्रविष्टो ब्रह्मणस्तनुम्॥ २१॥

सत्यपराक्रमी भगवान् विष्णु ने यह वचन सुनकर पुनः उनसे आज्ञा लेकर योग द्वारा ब्रह्मा के शरीर में प्रवेश कर लिया।

त्रैलोक्यमेतत्सकलं सदेवासुरमानुषम्।
उदरे तस्य देवस्य दृष्ट्वा विस्मयमाणतः॥ २२॥

उन ब्रह्मादेव के उदर में देव, असुर और मानव सहित इस सारे त्रैलोक्य को देखकर वे विस्मित हो उठे।

तदास्य वक्त्रान्निष्कस्य पद्मगेन्द्रनिकेतनः।
अद्यापि भगवान्विष्णुः पितामहमद्याव्रवीत्॥ २३॥

उस समय शेषशायी भगवान् विष्णु ने उनके मुख से बाहर निकलकर पितामह से इस प्रकार कहा।

भवानप्येवमेवाद्यं शश्वतं हि ममोदरम्।
प्रविश्य लोकान्यश्चैतान्विचित्रान्पुरुषर्षभ॥ २४॥

हे पुरुषर्षभ! आज आप भी मेरे इस शाश्वत उदर में प्रवेश करके इन विचित्र लोकों का अवलोकन करो।

ततः ब्रह्मादिनीं वाणीं श्रुत्वा तस्याभिनन्द्य च।
श्रीपतेरुदरं भूयः प्रविवेश कुशध्वजः॥ २५॥

तदनन्तर मन को प्रसन्न करने वाली वाणी सुनकर और उनका अभिनन्दन करके पुनः कुशध्वज ने लक्ष्मीपति के उदर में प्रवेश किया।

तानेव लोकान्गर्भस्थानपश्यत्सत्यविक्रमः।
पर्यटित्वाय देवस्य ददृशेऽन्तं न वै हरेः॥ २६॥

सत्यपराक्रमी ने उनके अन्दर स्थापित सब लोकों को देखा। अनन्तर भ्रमण करते हुए उन्हें भगवान् हरि का अन्त नहीं दिखाई पड़ा।

ततो द्वाराणि सर्वाणि पिहितानि महात्मना।
जनादिन ब्रह्मासौ नाभ्यां द्वारमविन्दत॥ २७॥

अनन्तर महात्मा जनार्दन ने सारे द्वार दन्द कर दिये। तब ब्रह्माजी को नाभि में द्वार प्राप्त हुआ।

तत्र योगबलेनासौ प्रविश्य कनकाण्डजः।
उज्जहाराम्नो रूपं पुष्कराच्चतुराननः॥ २८॥

वहाँ हिरण्यगर्भ चतुर्मुख ब्रह्मा ने योग के बल से अपने स्वरूप को पुष्कर से बाहर निकाला।

विरराजारविन्दस्थः पद्मगर्भसमद्युतिः।
ब्रह्मा स्वयंभूर्भगवाद्भ्रमणोनिः पितामहः॥ २९॥

उस समय कमल के भीतर वर्तमान जगद्योनि, स्वयंभू, पितामह भगवान् ब्रह्मा पद्म के अन्दर की कान्ति के समान ही सुशोभित हुए।

समन्यमानो विश्वेशमात्मानं परमं पदम्।
प्रोवाच विष्णुं पुरुषं मेघगम्भीरया गिरा॥ ३०॥

उस समय स्वयं को परम पद विश्वात्मा का मान देते हुए उन्होंने मेघ के समान गंभीर वाणी में पुरुषोत्तम विष्णु से कहा।

कृतं किं भवतेदानीमात्मनो जयकाक्षया।
एकोऽहं प्रवलो नान्यो मा वै कोपि भविष्यति॥ ३१॥

आपने अपनी जय की अधिलाषा से यह क्या कर दिया ? मैं ही अकेला शक्तिमान् हूँ और मेरे अतिरिक्त दूसरा कोई होगा भी नहीं।

श्रुत्वा नारायणो वाक्यं ब्रह्मणोक्तमतन्द्रितः।

सान्त्वपूर्वमिदं वाक्यं बभाषे मधुरं हरिः॥ ३२॥

ब्रह्मा द्वारा कहे गये इस वाक्य को सुनकर सावधान होते हुए नारायण हरि ने सान्त्वनापूर्ण ये मधुर वचन कहे।

भवान्याता विधाता च स्वयंभूः प्रपितामहः।

न मात्सर्याभियोगेन द्वाराणि पिहितानि मे॥ ३३॥

किन्तु लीलार्थमेवैतन्न त्वां बाधितुमिच्छया।

को हि बाधितुमन्विच्छेद्देवदेवं पितामहम्॥ ३४॥

आप ही धाता विधाता स्वयंभू और प्रपितामह हैं। मैंने किसी ईर्ष्यावश द्वार बन्द नहीं किये थे। किन्तु मैंने तो केवल लीला के लिए ही ऐसा किया था, आपको बाधित करने की इच्छा से नहीं।

न हि त्वं बाध्यसे ब्रह्मन् मान्यो हि सर्वथा भवान्।

यम क्षमस्व कल्याण यन्मयापकृतं तवा॥ ३५॥

हे ब्रह्मन्! आप किसी प्रकार बाधित नहीं हैं। आप तो सर्वथा हमारे लिए मान्य हैं। हे कल्याणकारी! जो मैंने आपका अपकार किया है, मुझे क्षमा करेंगे।

अस्माक्य कारणाद्ब्रह्मन्पुत्रो भवतु मे भवान्।

परायोनिरिति ख्यातो मत्प्रियाद्यैर्जगन्मया॥ ३६॥

हे ब्रह्मन्! इसी कारण से आप मेरे पुत्र हो जायें। हे जगन्मय! मेरा प्रिय करने की इच्छा से पदायानि नाम से विख्यात हो।

ततः स भगवान्देवो वरं दत्त्वा किरीटिने।

प्रहर्षमतुलं गत्वा पुनर्विष्णुमभाषत॥ ३७॥

अनन्तर भगवान् ब्रह्मदेव किरीटधारी विष्णु को वर प्रदान करके और अत्यन्त प्रसन्न होकर पुनः विष्णु से बोले।

भवान्सर्वात्मकोऽनन्तः सर्वेषां परमेश्वरः।

सर्वभूतान्तरात्मा वै परं ब्रह्म सनातनम्॥ ३८॥

आप सब के आत्मस्वरूप, अनन्त, परमेश्वर, समस्तभूतों की अन्तरात्मा तथा सनातन परब्रह्म हैं।

अहं वै सर्वलोकानामात्मास्लोको महेश्वरः।

मन्मयं सर्वमेवेदं ब्रह्माहं पुरुषः परः॥ ३९॥

मैं ही समस्त लोकों के भीतर रहने वाला प्रकाशरूप महेश्वर हूँ। यह समस्त चराचर मेरा अपना है। मैं ही परम पुरुष ब्रह्मा हूँ।

नावाभ्यां विद्यते ह्यन्यो लोकानां परमेश्वरः।

एका मूर्तिद्विधा भिन्ना नारायणपितामहौ॥ ४०॥

हम दोनों के अतिरिक्त इन लोकों का परमेश्वर दूसरा कोई नहीं है। नारायण और पितामहरूप में द्विधा विभक्त एक ही मूर्ति है।

तेनैवपुक्तो ब्रह्माणं वासुदेवोऽब्रवीद्विदम्।

इयं प्रतिज्ञा भवतो विनाशाय भविष्यति॥ ४१॥

उनके द्वारा ऐसा कहने पर वासुदेव ने ब्रह्माजी से कहा- आपकी यह प्रतिज्ञा विनाश के लिए होगी।

किं न पश्यसि योगेन ब्रह्माधिपतिमव्ययम्।

प्रधानपुरुषेशानं वेदाहं परमेश्वरम्॥ ४२॥

क्या आप योग द्वारा अविनाशी ब्रह्माधिपति को नहीं देखते हैं? प्रधान और पुरुष के ईश उस परमेश्वर को मैं जानता हूँ।

यं न पश्यन्ति योगीन्द्राः सांख्या अपि महेश्वरम्।

अनादिनिधनं ब्रह्म तमेव शरणं ब्रज॥ ४३॥

जिस महेश्वर को योगीन्द्र और सांख्यवेत्ता भी नहीं देख पाते हैं, उस अनादिनिधन ब्रह्म की शरण में जाओ।

ततः क्रुद्धोऽम्बुजाभाक्षं ब्रह्मा प्रोवाच केशवम्।

भगवन्नूनमात्मानं वेदिं तत्परमाक्षरम्॥ ४४॥

ब्रह्माणं जगतामेकमात्मानं परमं पदम्।

आवाभ्यां विद्यते त्वन्यो लोकानां परमेश्वरः॥ ४५॥

इस बात से क्रुद्ध होकर अम्बुज की आभा-तुल्य नेत्र वाले ब्रह्मा ने केशव से कहा- भगवन्! मैं अवश्य ही परम अविनाशी आत्मतत्त्व को जानता हूँ, जो ब्रह्मस्वरूप, जगत् की आत्मा और परमपद है। हम दोनों के अतिरिक्त लोकों का परमेश्वर कोई दूसरा नहीं है।

संत्यज्य निद्रां विपुलां स्वमात्मानं विलोक्य।

तस्य तत्कौषजं वाक्यं श्रुत्वापि स तदा प्रभुः॥ ४६॥

इस दीर्घ योगनिद्रा का परित्याग करके अपनी आत्मा में देखो। इस प्रकार उनके क्रोधभरे वचन सुनकर भी, उस समय प्रभु ने कहा-

मामैवं वद कल्याण परिव्राटं महात्मनः।

न मे ह्याविदितं ब्रह्मन् नान्यथाहं वदामि ते॥ ४७॥

हे कल्याणकर! इस प्रकार उन महात्मा के विषय में निन्दा की बात मुझ से मत कहो। हे ब्रह्मन्! मेरे लिए

अविदित कुछ नहीं है और मैं आपको अन्यथा भी नहीं कहता हूँ।

किन्तु मोहयति ब्रह्मजनन्ता परमेश्वरी।

मायाशेषविशेषाणां हेतुरात्मसमुद्भवत्वा॥४८॥

किन्तु हे ब्रह्मन्! परमेश्वर की वह अनन्त माया जो समस्त पदार्थों की हेतु और आत्मसमुद्भवा है, आपको मोहित कर रही है।

एतावदुक्त्वा भगवाच्चिष्णुस्तूर्णी बभूव ह।

ज्ञात्वा तत्परमं तत्त्वं स्वमात्मानं सुरेश्वरः॥४९॥

इस प्रकार कहकर भगवान् विष्णु चुप हो गये। उन सुरेश्वर ने अपनी आत्मा में उस परम तत्त्व को जानकर ही ऐसा कहा था।

कुतो ह्यपरिमेयात्मा भूतानां परमेश्वरः।

प्रसादं ब्रह्मणे कर्तुं प्रादुरासीन्नतो हरः॥५०॥

तदनन्तर कहीं से अपरिमेयात्मा, भूतों के परमेश्वर शिवजी ब्रह्मा का कल्याण करने की इच्छा से प्रादुर्भूत हुए।

ललाटनयनो देवो जटामण्डलमण्डितः।

त्रिशूलपाणिर्भगवांस्तेजसां परमो निधिः॥५१॥

प्रयुक्तवान् मनो योऽसौ पुरुषेन तु शङ्करः।
अवाप संज्ञां गोविन्दात्पश्योनिः पितामहः॥१८॥

विष्णु ने कहा- क्या आप शूलपाणि सनातन देव शंभु को भूल गये? जो कि पहले कहा था कि शंकर! पुत्र के रूप में आप होइए। तब जिस शंकर ने पुत्रत्व को इच्छा से मन बनाया था। इस प्रकार परायोनि पितामह को गोविन्द से यह बोध हो गया।

तदा प्राणमयो रुद्रः प्रादुरासीत्प्रभोर्मुखात्॥२२॥

तव उनसे समुद्रत भूत और प्रेत हुए। अपने आगे उन सब को देखकर ब्रह्मा अपनी आत्मा से संयुक्त हुए और तब प्रजापति ब्रह्मा ने क्रोध के आवेश में प्राण त्याग दिये। तदनन्तर प्रभु के मुख से प्राणमय रुद्र का प्रादुर्भाव हुआ।

सहस्रादित्यसङ्काशो युगान्तदहनोपमः।

रुद्रोद सुस्वरं घोरं देवदेवः स्वयं शिवः॥ २३॥

वह रुद्र सहस्र आदित्यों के समान तेजस्वी और प्रलयकालीन अग्नि की भाँति लग रहे थे। वे महादेव अत्यन्त भयानक उच्चस्वर में रोने लगे।

वे आत्मा में ही आत्मा को स्थापित करके और परम अमृतरूप शाश्वत उस अक्षर ब्रह्म का पान करके ईश्वरीय भाव को प्राप्त हो गये।

स्वात्मना सदृशानुग्रान् ससर्ज मनसा शिवः॥ ३३॥

पुनः ब्रह्मा के द्वारा आदेश मिलने पर वे प्रजा की सृष्टि करते हैं। नीललोहित शिव ने अपने ही रूप के सदृश मन से रुद्रों की सृष्टि की।

अन्याः सृजस्व जन्ममृत्युसमन्विताः॥ ३७॥

हे देव! मृत्यु-विवर्जित ऐसी प्रजा की सृष्टि मत करो। तुम दूसरी सृष्टि करो जो जन्म-मृत्यु से युक्त हो।

ततस्तमाह भगवान् कपर्दी कापशासनः।

नास्ति मे तादृशः सर्गः सृज त्वं विविधाः प्रजाः॥३८॥

इस प्रकार महादेव का स्तवन करके उनके भाव से भावित होकर ब्रह्मा सनातन ब्रह्म की स्तुति करते हुए हाथ जोड़कर प्रणाम करके खड़े हो गये। तदुपरान्त महादेव ने ब्रह्मा को दिव्य, परम श्रेष्ठ, ईश्वरीय योग, ब्रह्म-सद्भाव तथा वैराग्य दिया। प्रणतजनों की पीड़ा हरने वाले शिव ने अपने कोमल हाथों से ब्रह्मा का स्पर्श करते हुए मुस्कुराकर कहा— ब्रह्मान्! आपने मुझे अपना पुत्र बनने के लिए जो प्रार्थना की थी, उसे मैंने पूर्ण कर दिया। इसलिए अब तुम विविध प्रकार के जगत् को उत्पन्न करते रहो। हे ब्रह्मन्! मैं ही ब्रह्मा, विष्णु और शिव नामों से तीन प्रकार से विभक्त हूँ।

हे पद्मज! तुम जब-जब तुम मेरा नित्य चिन्तन करोगे तब-तब हे निष्ठाप! तुम्हें मेरा सान्निध्य प्राप्त होगा। इतना कहकर शिव गुरु ब्रह्मा का अभिवादन करके अपने मानस पुत्रों के साथ ही क्षणभर में अन्तर्हित हो गये। तदनन्तर नारायण नाम से विख्यात भगवान् प्रजापति भी योग का

आश्रय लेकर पूर्वानुरूप विविध जगत् की सृष्टि करने लगे। योगविद्या के द्वारा उन्होंने मरीचि, भृगु, अंगिरा, पुलस्त्य, पुलह, ऋतु, दक्ष, अत्रि और वसिष्ठ का सृजन किया। पुराण में ये नौ ब्रह्मा निश्चित करके बताये गये हैं। ये सभी साधक होने पर भी ब्रह्मा के तुल्य ब्रह्मवादी हैं। ब्रह्मा ने संकल्प, धर्म और शाश्वत युगधर्मों को तथा सभी स्थानाभिमानियों को पूर्व में जैसे उत्पन्न किया था, यह सब यथावत् यत्ना दिया है।

एकादशोऽध्यायः (देवी अवतार-वर्णन)

कूर्म उवाच

एवं सृष्ट्वा मरीच्यादीन्देवदेवः पितामहः।

सहैव मानसैः पुत्रैस्तताप परमं तपः ॥ १ ॥

कूर्मरूप विष्णु ने कहा— इस प्रकार मरीचि आदि प्रजापतियों की सृष्टि करके देवदेव पितामह ब्रह्मा उन मानस पुत्रों के साथ ही परम तपस्या करने लगे।

तस्यैवं तपतो वक्त्रादुद्गः कालाग्निसम्भवः।

अर्द्धनारीनरवपुः दुष्प्रेक्ष्योऽतिभयंकरः।

विभजात्मानमित्युक्त्वा ब्रह्मा घान्तर्हि भयात् ॥ ३ ॥

इस प्रकार तप करते हुए ब्रह्मा के मुख से रुद्र प्रादुर्भूत हुए जिससे प्रलयकाल की अग्नि उत्पन्न हो रही थी, होथ में त्रिशूलधारण किया था और जो त्रिनेत्रधारी थे। उनका शरीर आधा नारी और आधा नर का था। उनके सामने देखना भी कठिन था। वे अतिभयंकर थे। तब भय के मारे ब्रह्मा 'अपनी आत्मा का विभाग करो' ऐसा कहकर अन्तर्हित हो गये।

तथोक्तोऽसौ द्विधा स्त्रीत्वं पुरुषत्वं तथाकरोत्।

विभेद पुरुषत्वञ्च दशया वैकथा पुनः ॥ ४ ॥

इतना कहने पर उन्होंने स्त्री और पुरुष रूप में स्वयं को दो भागों में विभक्त कर दिया। पुनः उन्होंने पुरुष को एकादश भागों में बांट दिया।

एकादशैते कथिता रुद्रास्त्रिभुवनेश्वराः।

कपालीशादयो विप्रा देवकार्ये नियोजिताः ॥ ५ ॥

हे विप्रो! वे ही एकादश रुद्र त्रिभुवन के ईश्वर कहे गये। वे कपाली, ईशान आदि नामों से प्रसिद्ध ब्राह्मण हैं जो देवों के कार्य में नियुक्त हैं।

सौम्यासौम्यैस्त्वया शान्ताशान्तैः स्त्रीत्वञ्च स प्रभुः।

विभेद बहुधा देवः स्वरूपैरसितैः सितैः ॥ ६ ॥

इसके बाद प्रभु रुद्रदेव ने अपने सौम्य तथा असौम्य, शान्त तथा अशान्त एवं श्वेत तथा अश्वेत स्वरूपों द्वारा स्त्रीरूप के भी अनेक विभाग किये।

ता वै विभूतयो विप्रा विभ्रुताः शक्तयो भुवि।

लक्ष्म्यादयो यद्गुणा विश्वं व्याप्नोति शांकरी ॥ ७ ॥

हे ब्राह्मणो! वे सभी विभूतियाँ पृथ्वी पर लक्ष्मी आदि नामों से प्रसिद्ध शक्तियाँ कही गईं। वे शंकर की ही प्रतिमूर्ति होने से विश्व को व्याप्त करती हैं।

विभज्य पुनरीशानी स्वत्पांशमकरोद्द्विजाः।

महादेवनियोगेन पितामहमुपस्थिता ॥ ८ ॥

हे ब्राह्मणो! ईशानी (शिवशक्ति) ने महादेव की आज्ञा से अपने स्वरूपांश को दो भागों में विभक्त किया और फिर वह पितामह के समीप गई।

तामाह भगवान् ब्रह्मा दक्षस्य दुहिता भवा।

सापि तस्य नियोगेन प्रादुरासीत्प्रजापतेः ॥ ९ ॥

तब भगवान् ब्रह्मा ने उस ईशानी शक्ति से कहा— 'तुम दक्ष-प्रजापति की पुत्री बनो'। इस प्रकार प्रजापति की आज्ञा से वह भी दक्ष-प्रजापति की पुत्रीरूप में प्रादुर्भूत हुई।

नियोगाद्ब्रह्मणो देवीं ददौ रुद्राय तां सतीम्।

दर्श्यां रुद्रोऽपि जग्राह स्वकीयामेव शूलभृत् ॥ १० ॥

तदनन्तर ब्रह्मा की आज्ञा से उनमें प्रमुख सती देवी को रुद्र के लिए अर्पित की। शूलपाणि रुद्र ने भी उस दक्ष-पुत्री को अपनी पत्नी रूप में स्वीकार किया।

प्रजापतिविनिर्देशात्कालेन परमेश्वरी।

हिताय सर्वदेवानां त्रैलोक्यस्यात्पत्नो द्विजाः।

कुछ समय बाद वही परमेश्वरी सती देवी ब्रह्मा की आज्ञा से (दक्ष-यज्ञ में) अपने पुनः विभक्त कर (शरीर छोड़कर) निमालय द्वारा मेनका में उसकी पुत्री रूप में उत्पन्न हुई। तब पर्वतश्रेष्ठ हिमालय ने अपनी पुत्री पार्वती को समस्त देवों

के, तीनों लोकों के तथा अपने हित के लिए शिवजी को अर्पित की।

एतद् कथितं विप्राः पुत्रत्वं परमेष्ठिनः॥ १५॥

ब्रह्मणः पद्मयोनित्वं शंकरस्यापितौजसः॥ १६॥

वही शंकर के अर्ध शरीर को धारण करने वाली देवी माहेश्वरी, शिवा, तथा सती हैमवती नामों से प्रसिद्ध और देवों तथा असुरों द्वारा नमस्कृत है। उस देवी के अतुल प्रभाव को इन्द्र सहित सभी देव, मुनिगण, स्वयं शंकर तथा श्रीहरि विष्णु भी जानते हैं। हे विप्रों! इस प्रकार जिस रूप में रुद्रदेव ब्रह्मा के पुत्रत्व को प्राप्त हुए और ब्रह्मा की कमल से उत्पत्ति के विषय में तथा अमित तेजस्वी शिव के प्रभाव का वर्णन मैंने किया है।

अनया परया देवः स्वात्मानन्दं समश्नुते।

चतुर्व्यूहं च वेदेषु चतुर्मूर्तिर्महेश्वरः॥ १३॥

इसी परा स्वरूपा के द्वारा देव स्वात्मानन्द का अनुभव करते हैं। वे महेश्वर चारों वेदों में भी चतुर्मूर्ति रूप में स्थित हैं।

नीलोत्पलदलप्रख्यं नीलोत्पलसुगन्धि च॥ २०२॥

आप ही सदाशिवा, वियन्मूर्ति, वेदमूर्ति, और अमूर्तिका हैं— इस प्रकार एक हजार नामों से स्तुति करके वे हिमवान् गिरि पुनः प्रणाम करके भयभीत हो हाथ जोड़कर यह बोले— 'हे परमेश्वरी! तुम्हारा यह ईश्वरीय स्वरूप भयानक

है जिसे देखकर मैं भयभीत हूँ। सम्प्रति दूसरा रूप दिखाओ।
उन पर्वतराज के ऐसा कहने पर देवी पार्वती ने उस रूप को
समेटकर पुनः दूसरे रूप को दिखाया जो नीलकमल के
समान और नीलकमल जैसी सुगन्ध से युक्त था।

द्विनेत्रं द्विभुजं सौम्यं नीलालकविभूषितम्।

उसके दो नेत्र तथा दो भुजाएँ थीं। अत्यन्त सौम्य तथा
काले केशपाशों से विभूषित था। रक्तकमल के समान लाल
उनके पादतल थे और हथेलियाँ भी अत्यन्त रक्तवर्ण की थीं।
वह शोभासम्पन्न, विलासमय तथा सद्वृत्त से युक्त था।
ललाट पर उज्ज्वल तिलक था। विविध आभूषणों द्वारा
उनका वह अति कोमल और सुन्दर शरीराङ्ग विभूषित था।
उन्होंने वक्षःस्थल पर स्वर्णनिर्मित अत्यन्त विशाल माला
धारण की हुई थी। उनका स्वरूप मन्दहास्य युक्त, सुन्दर
विम्बफल के समान ओष्ठ एवं नूपुर की ध्वनि से युक्त था।
वह रूप प्रसन्नमुख, दिव्य और अनन्त महिमा का आश्रय
था। उनका ऐसा स्वरूप देखकर श्रेष्ठ शैलराज भययुक्त
होकर प्रसन्नचित्त होते हुए परमेश्वरी से बोले।

निदागत शेष नाम वाले आपके रूप आगे मैं नत होता हूँ। अप्रतिहत ऐश्वर्य से युक्त, अयुग्म नेत्रों वाले ब्रह्मामृत के आनन्दरस के ज्ञाता, युगान्त में भी शेष रहने वाले तथा द्युलोक में नृत्य करने वाले रुद्र संज्ञक आपके रूप को मैं प्रणाम करता हूँ। हे देवि! प्रहोण-शोक वाले, रूपहीन, सुरों और असुरों के द्वारा समर्चित चरण कमल वाले और सुकुमल शुभ्र दीप्तियुक्त आपके इस रूप को हे भवानी! मैं प्रणाम करता हूँ। हे महादेवि! आपको नमस्कार है। हे परमेश्वरी! आपकी सेवा में प्रणाम है। हे भगवति! हे ईशानि! शिवा के लिये वारम्बार नमस्कार है।

मैं आपके ही स्वरूप से पूर्ण हूँ और आप ही मेरा आधार हो तथा आप ही मेरी गति हो। हे परमेश्वरि! प्रसन्न हों। मैं आपकी ही शरणागति में जाऊँगा। इस लोक में मेरे समान देव या दानव कोई भी नहीं हैं कारण यह है कि मेरी तपश्चर्या का ही यह प्रभाव है कि आप जगत् की माता हो और मेरी पुत्री होकर उत्पन्न हुई हो। हे अम्बिके! हे देवि! यह तुम्हारी पितृ-कन्यका मेना अशेष जगत् की माता हुई है, यह मेरे पुण्य का गौरव है।

मेरा महान् अहोभाग्य है कि महादेवी का समागम हुआ है। हे महादेवि! हे पार्वती! आज्ञा करो, मैं क्या करूँ?

एतावदुक्त्वा वचनं तदा हिमगिरिेश्वरः।

इतना वचन कहकर उस समय गिरिराज हिमालय हाथ जोड़कर पार्वती की ओर देखते हुए उनके समीप पहुँच गये।

अथ सा तस्य वचनं निशाम्य जगतोऽरणिः।
सस्मितं प्राह पितरं स्मृत्वा पशुपतिं पतिम्॥ २४६॥

अनन्तर उनका वचन सुनकर संसार की दावाग्नि के समान पार्वती ने पशुपति अपने पति का स्मरण करके मन्द मुस्कान के साथ पिता से कहा।

श्रीदेवी बोली- हे गिरिश्रेष्ठ! यह सर्वप्रथम गोपनीय ईश्वरगोचर तथा ब्रह्मवादियों से सेवित मेरा उपदेश सुनो, जो मेरा सर्वशक्तिसम्पन्न, अनन्त, परम अद्भुत एवं श्रेष्ठ प्रेरक ऐश्वर्यमय रूप है, उसमें निष्ठा रखते हुए शान्त, और समाहितचित्त होकर मान एवं अहंकार से वर्जित तथा उसी में निष्ठवान् एवं तत्पर होकर आप उसी की शरण में जाओ।

भक्त्या त्वनन्यया तात मद्भावं परमाश्रितः।
सर्वयज्ञतपोदानैस्तदेवार्च्यस्य सर्वदा॥ २५०॥

हे तात! अनन्य भक्ति के द्वारा मेरे परम भाव का आश्रय ग्रहण करके सभी यज्ञों, तपों एवं दानों द्वारा सदा उसी का अर्चन करें।

मन से उसी को देखें, उसी का ध्यान करें और उसी का यजन करें। हे निष्पाप! मैं अपने उपदेश से आपकी संसारबुद्धि का नाश कर दूँगी। परम भक्ति के कारण ऐश्वर योग में संस्थित आपका मैं इस संसार-सागर से शीघ्र उद्धार कर दूँगी।

ध्यानेन कर्मयोगेन भक्त्या ज्ञानेन चैव हि।
प्राप्याहं ते गिरिश्रेष्ठ नान्यथा कर्मकोटिभिः॥ २५३॥

हे गिरिश्रेष्ठ! ध्यान, कर्मयोग, भक्ति तथा ज्ञान के द्वारा मुझे प्राप्त करना संभव है, अन्य प्रकार से करोड़ों कर्म करने से नहीं।

श्रुतिस्मृत्युदितं सम्यक्कर्मवर्णाश्रमात्मकम्।

अध्यात्मज्ञानसहितं मुक्तये सततं कुरु॥ २५४॥

श्रुतियों एवं स्मृतियों वर्णाश्रम के अनुसार जो अच्छे कर्म प्रतिपादित हैं, वे ही मुक्ति के लिए हैं। उन्हें अध्यात्मज्ञान सहित निरन्तर करते रहें।

धर्मात्संजायते भक्तिर्भक्त्यां संग्राह्यते परम्।
श्रुतिस्मृतिभ्यामुदितो धर्मो यज्ञादिको मतः॥ २५५॥

उस धर्माचरण से भक्ति उत्पन्न होती है, भक्ति से परमतत्त्व मोक्ष प्राप्त होता है। श्रुति-स्मृति द्वारा प्रतिपादित वह धर्म यज्ञ आदि रूप में माना गया है।

नान्यतो जायते धर्मो वेदाद्धर्मो हि निर्वर्षी।
तस्मान्मुमुक्षुर्धर्मार्थी मद्रूपं वेदमाश्रयेत्॥ २५६॥

अन्य किसी मार्ग से धर्म उत्पन्न नहीं होता। वेद से धर्म उत्पन्न हुआ है। इसलिए मुमुक्षु और धर्मार्थी को मेरे वेद स्वरूप का आश्रय लेना चाहिए।

ममैवैषा परा शक्तिर्वेदसंज्ञा पुरातनी।
ऋग्यजुःसामरूपेण सर्गादी संप्रवर्तते॥ २५७॥

(क्योंकि) वेद नाम वाली मेरी ही पुरातनी श्रेष्ठ शक्ति है। सृष्टि के प्रारंभ में यही ऋग्वेद, यजुर्वेद और सामवेद रूप से प्रवर्तित होती है।

तेषामेव च गुण्यर्थं वेदानां भगवानजः।
ब्राह्मणादीन्ससर्जाथ स्वे स्वे कर्मण्ययोजयत्॥ २५८॥

उन्हीं वेदों के रक्षार्थ भगवान् अज ने ब्राह्मण आदि की सृष्टि की और उन्हें अपने-अपने कर्म में नियोजित किया।

येन कुर्वन्ति मद्दर्शं तदर्थं ब्रह्मनिर्मिताः।
तेषामथस्ताप्ररकांस्तामिस्रादीनकल्पयत्॥ २५९॥

जो मेरे धर्म का आचरण नहीं करते हैं, उनके लिए ब्रह्मा द्वारा निर्मित अत्यन्त निम्नकोटि के तामिस्र आदि नरकों को बनाया गया है।

न च वेदादृते किञ्चिच्छास्त्रं धर्माभिधायकम्।
योऽन्यत्र रमते सोऽसी न सम्भाष्यो द्विजातिभिः॥ २६०॥

वेद से अतिरिक्त इस लोक में अन्य कोई भी शास्त्र धर्म का प्रतिपादक नहीं है। जो व्यक्ति इसे छोड़कर अन्य शास्त्रों में रमता रहता है, उसके साथ द्विजातियों को बात नहीं करनी चाहिए।

यानि शास्त्राणि दृश्यन्ते लोकेऽस्मिन्विक्रियानि तु।
श्रुतिस्मृतिविरुद्धानि निष्ठा तेषां हि तामसी॥ २६१॥

जो विविध शास्त्र इस लोक में देखे जाते हैं, वे श्रुति-स्मृति से विरुद्ध हैं, अतः उनकी निष्ठा तामसी होती है।

कापालं भैरवश्चैव यामलं वाममाहृतम्।
एवंविधानि चान्यानि मोहनार्थानि तानि तु॥ २६२॥

कापाल, भैरव, यामल, वाम, आहृत-बौद्ध तथा जैन आदि जो अन्य शास्त्र हैं, वे सब मोह उत्पन्न करने वाले हैं।

ये कुशास्त्राभियोगेन मोहयन्तीह मानवान्।
मया सृष्टानि शास्त्राणि मोहायैषां भवान्तरे॥ २६३॥

यहाँ जो लोग निन्दित शास्त्रों के अभियोग-सम्बन्ध से इस लोक में मानवों को मोहित करते हैं, उनको दूसरे जन्म में मोहित करने के लिए मेरे द्वारा ये शास्त्र रचे गये हैं।

वेदार्थवित्तमैः कार्यं यत्स्मृतं कर्म वैदिकम्।
तत्रायत्नेन कुर्वन्ति मत्प्रियास्ते हि ये नराः॥ २६४॥

वेदार्थों के ज्ञाताओं ने जिस वैदिक कर्म को करने योग्य बताया है, उसे जो प्रयत्नपूर्वक करते हैं, वे मनुष्य मेरे अतिप्रिय होते हैं।

वर्णानामनुकम्पार्थं मत्प्रियोगाद्द्विराट् स्वयम्।
स्वायम्भुवो मनुर्धर्मान्मुनीनां पूर्वमुक्तवान्॥ २६५॥

सभी वर्णों पर अनुकम्पा करने के लिए मेरे आदेश से स्वयं विराट् पुरुष ने स्वायंभुव मनु के रूप में पहले मुनियों के धर्मों को कहा था।

श्रुत्वा चान्येऽपि मुनयस्तनुखाद्धर्ममुत्तमम्।
चक्रुर्द्धर्मप्रतिष्ठार्थं धर्मशास्त्राणि चैव हि॥ २६६॥

अन्य मुनियों ने भी उनके मुख से इस उत्तम धर्म को सुनकर धर्म की प्रतिष्ठा के लिए धर्मशास्त्रों की रचना की थी।

तेषु चान्तहितेष्वेवं युगानेषु महर्षयः॥
ब्रह्मणो वचनात्तानि करिष्यन्ति युगे युगे॥ २६७॥

युगान्त काल में उन शास्त्रों के अन्तर्लौन हो जाने पर ब्रह्मा के वचन से वे महर्षिगण युग-युग में उन शास्त्रों की रचना करते रहते हैं।

अष्टादशपुराणानि व्यासादौः कथितानि तु।
नियोगाद्ब्रह्मणो राजंस्तेषु धर्मः प्रतिष्ठितः॥ २६८॥

हे राजन्! व्यास आदि द्वारा अठारह पुराण कहे गये हैं। ब्रह्मा की आज्ञा से उनमें धर्म प्रतिष्ठित है।

अन्यान्पुपुराणानि तच्छिष्यैः कथितानि तु।

युगे युगेऽत्र सर्वेषां कर्ता वै धर्मशास्त्रवित्॥ २६९॥

उनके शिष्यों द्वारा अन्यान्य उपपुराणों की रचना की गई। यहाँ प्रत्येक युग में उन सब के कर्ता धर्मशास्त्र के ज्ञाता ही हुए।

शिक्षा कल्पो व्याकरणं निरुक्तं छन्द एव च।
ज्योतिःशास्त्रं न्यायविद्या सर्वेषामुपबृंहणम्॥ २७०॥

एवं चतुर्दशैतानि तथा हि द्विजसत्तमाः।
चतुर्वेदैः सहोक्तानि धर्मो नान्यत्र विद्यते॥ २७१॥

शिक्षा, कल्प, व्याकरण, निरुक्त, छन्द, ज्योतिष, न्यायविद्या- ये सकल शास्त्रों के पोषक तथा वृद्धि करने वाले हैं। इस प्रकार हे द्विजश्रेष्ठे! ये चौदह शास्त्र उसी प्रकार चारों वेदों के साथ हो कहे गये हैं। इन शास्त्रों में धर्म है, अन्यत्र कहीं भी नहीं है।

एवं पितामहं धर्मं मनुव्यासादयः परम्।
स्थापयन्ति ममादेशाद्वाक्दाभूतसंप्लवम्॥ २७२॥

इस प्रकार पितामह द्वारा प्रतिपादित इस उत्तम धर्म को मनु, व्यास आदि मनीषी मेरे आदेश से प्रलयपर्यन्त स्थापित करते हैं अथवा स्थिर रखते हैं।

ब्रह्मणा सह ते सर्वे संग्रामे प्रतिसञ्चरे।
परस्यार्थे कृतात्मानः प्रविशन्ति परम्पदम्॥ २७३॥

वे सब मुनिगण प्रतिसंचार नामक महाप्रलय के उपस्थित होने पर कृतकृत्य होते हुए ब्रह्मा के साथ ही पर के भी अन्तरूप परम पद में प्रवेश कर लेते हैं।

तस्मात्सर्वप्रयत्नेन धर्माथं वेदमाश्रयेत्।
धर्मेण सहितं ज्ञानं परं ब्रह्म प्रकाशयेत्॥ २७४॥

इसलिए सब प्रकार से प्रयत्नपूर्वक धर्म के लिए वेद का आश्रय लेना चाहिए। क्योंकि धर्म सहित ज्ञान ही परब्रह्मा को प्रकाशित करता है।

ये तु संगान् परित्यज्य मामेव शरणं गताः।

तेषां नित्याभियुक्तानां मायातत्त्वं समुत्थितम्।
नाशयामि तपः कृत्स्नं ज्ञानदीपेन नो घिरात्॥ २७८॥

जो व्यक्ति आसक्ति को त्यागकर मेरी शरण में आ जाते हैं और ऐश्वर्य योग में स्थित होकर सदा भक्तिपूर्वक मेरी उपासना करते हैं तथा सभी प्राणियों पर दया रखने वाले शान्त, दान्त, ईर्ष्यारहित, अमानी, बुद्धिमान, तपस्वी, व्रती, मुझमें चित्त और प्राणों को लगाये हुए, मेरे ज्ञान के कथन में निरत, संन्यासी, गृहस्थी, वानप्रस्थी और ब्रह्मचारी हैं, उन सदा धर्मनिरत व्यक्तियों के महान् अन्धकारमय समुत्पन्न मायातत्त्व को मैं ही ज्ञानदीप द्वारा नष्ट कर देती हूँ, इसमें थोड़ा भी विलम्ब नहीं होता।

ते सुनिर्वृततमसो ज्ञानेनैकेन मन्यथाः।

सदानन्दास्तु संसारे न जायन्ते पुनः पुनः॥ २७९॥

जब उनका अज्ञानरूप अन्धकार नष्ट हो जाता है, तब वे केवल ज्ञान के द्वारा मन्य हो जाते हैं। वे सदानन्दरूप होकर संसार में चार-चार उत्पन्न नहीं होते।

तस्मात्सर्वप्रकारेण मद्भक्तो मत्परायणः।

अपूजयन्दक्षवाक्यं मोहिता विष्णुमायया ॥ २० ॥

वे तामसरूप अज्ञान के कारण व्याप्त मन वाले होने के कारण वृषभ्वज भगवान् शिव को नहीं देख रहे थे। इस कारण वे सभी सैकड़ों बार हजारों बार तथा उससे भी अधिक बार सर्वभूतों के अधिपति शिव की तथा वैदिक मंत्रों की निन्दा करते हुए विष्णु की माया से मोहित हुए दक्ष के वचनों का अनुमोदन करने लगे।

निन्दन्तीश्वरं मार्गं कुशास्त्रासक्तचेतसः ॥ ३० ॥

मिथ्याधीतसमाचारा मिथ्याज्ञानप्रलापिनः।

प्राप्य घोरं कलियुगं कलिजैः परिपीडिताः ॥ ३१ ॥

क्योंकि आप सब ने परमेश्वर को वेद-विधान से बाहिरकृत कर दिया है और समस्त लोकों के द्वारा वन्दित महादेव की विशेष रूप से निन्दा की है, इसलिए आप सभी ईश्वर शंकर से द्वेष करने वाले वेद-मार्ग से भ्रष्ट हो जायेंगे। और जो यहाँ कुशास्त्रों में आसक्त चित्त वाले होकर ईश्वरीय मार्ग की निन्दा करते हैं, उनका अध्ययन तथा आचार-विचार मिथ्या हो जायेगा। वैसे ही मिथ्याज्ञान के प्रलापी

परम घोर कलियुग को प्राप्त करके कलि में जन्म लेने वालों के द्वारा चारों ओर से पीड़ित होंगे।

त्यक्त्वा तपोबलं कृत्स्नं गच्छस्व नरकान्पुनः।

भविष्यति इषीकेशः स्वाश्रितोऽपि पराङ्मुखः॥ ३२॥

तुम लोग अपने संपूर्ण तपोबल का त्याग करके पुनः नरकों को प्राप्त हो जाओ। अपना आश्रय बने भगवान् इषीकेश भी विमुख हो जायेंगे।

एवमुक्त्वाथ विप्रर्षिर्विरराम तपोनिधिः।

जगाम मनसा रुद्रमशेषाघविनाशनम्॥ ३३॥

तपोनिधि वह ब्रह्मर्षि इस प्रकार कहकर रुक गये और पुनः वे मन से अशेष पापों के विनाशक रुद्रदेव की शरण में चले गये।

एतस्मिन्ननरे देवी महादेवं महेश्वरम्।

पतिं पशुपतिं देवं ज्ञात्वैतत्प्राह सर्वदृक्॥ ३४॥

इसी मध्य यह सब जानकर सर्वदृक् महादेवी सती ने महेश्वर-पशुपति देव महादेव को जाँकर कहा।

दक्षो यज्ञेन यजते पिता मे पूर्वजन्मनि।

विनिन्द्य भवतो भावमात्मानं घापि शंकरा॥ ३५॥

पूर्वजन्म के मेरे पिता दक्ष आप को प्रतिष्ठा तथा स्वयं की भी निन्दा करते हुए यज्ञ का अनुष्ठान कर रहे हैं।

देवा महर्षयश्चासंस्तत्र साहाय्यकारिणः।

विनाशयाशु तं यज्ञं वरमेतं वृणोष्यहम्॥ ३६॥

वहाँ अनेक देवता और महर्षि भी उनकी सहायता करने वाले हैं। आप शीघ्र ही उस यज्ञ को नष्ट कर दें, यही वर मैं माँगती हूँ।

एवं विज्ञापितो देव्या देवदेवः परः प्रभुः।

ससर्ज सहसा रुद्रं दक्षयज्ञजिघांसया॥ ३७॥

इस प्रकार सती के द्वारा विशेषरूप से निवेदित परम प्रभु महादेव ने दक्ष के यज्ञ का विनाश करने के लिए सहसा रुद्र रूप को उत्पन्न किया।

सहस्रशिरसं क्रुद्धं सहस्राक्षं महाभुजम्।

सहस्रपाणिं दुर्द्धवं युगान्तानलसत्रिभम्॥ ३८॥

दंष्टाकरालं दुष्प्रेक्ष्यं शङ्खचक्रयं प्रभुम्।

दण्डहस्तं महानादं शार्ङ्गिणं भूतिभूषणम्॥ ३९॥

वह रुद्र सहस्रशिर, सहस्राक्ष और महाभुजाओं से युक्त था। वह क्रुद्ध, दुर्द्धवं तथा प्रलयकालीन अग्नि के समान

दिखाई देता था। उसकी दंष्ट्रा बड़ी विकराल थी। वह दुष्प्रेक्ष्य, शंखचक्रधारी, प्रभु, दण्डहस्त, महानादकारी और भस्मभूषित था।

वीरभद्र इति ख्यातं देवदेवसमन्वितम्।

स जातमात्रो देवेशमुपतस्थे कृताञ्जलिः॥ ४०॥

वह महादेव की कान्ति से समन्वित वीरभद्र नाम से विख्यात था। वह जैसे ही उत्पन्न हुआ, हाथ जोड़कर देवेश्वर के समीप खड़ा हो गया था।

तमाह दक्षस्य मखं विनाशय शिवोऽस्तु ते।

विनिन्द्य मां स यजते गङ्गाद्वारे गणेश्वर॥ ४१॥

शिवजी ने कहा- तुम्हारा कल्याण हो और उस वीरभद्र को दक्ष के यज्ञ का विनाश करने के लिए आज्ञा दी। हे गणेश्वर! वह मेरी निन्दा करके गंगाद्वार में यज्ञ कर रहा है।

ततो बन्धप्रमुक्तेन सिंहेनैकेन लीलया।

वीरभद्रेण दक्षस्य विनाशमगमत्क्रतुः॥ ४२॥

इसके अनन्तर बन्धन से मुक्त एक सिंह के समान वीरभद्र ने अनायास ही दक्ष के यज्ञ को नष्ट कर डाला।

मन्युना चोमया सृष्टा भद्रकाली महेश्वरी।

तथा च साद्वै वृषभं समारूढ्य ययौ गणः॥ ४३॥

उस समय पार्वती ने क्रोध से महेश्वरी भद्रकाली का सृजन किया था। उसी के साथ वह गण वृषभ पर चढ़कर वहाँ गया था।

अन्ये सहस्रशो रुद्रा निसृष्टात्सेन धीमता।

रोमजा इति विख्यातास्तस्य साहाय्यकारिणः॥ ४४॥

उस धीमान् ने अन्य भी हजारों रुद्रों का सृजन कर दिया था। उसकी सहायता करने वाले वे रुद्रगण रोमज नाम से विख्यात हुए थे अथवा वे रोम से उत्पन्न हुए थे।

शूलशक्तिगदाहस्ता दण्डोपलकरास्तथा।

कालानिरुद्रसङ्काशा नादयन्तो दिशो दशा॥ ४५॥

उनके हाथों में शूल-शक्ति और गदा थी। कुछ रुद्र दण्ड और उपल हाथों में ग्रहण किये हुए थे। सभी कालानिरुद्र के समान थे और दशों दिशाओं को निनादित कर रहे थे।

सर्वे वृषभमारूढा सभार्याञ्छातिभीषणाः।

समावृत्य गणश्रेष्ठं ययुर्दक्षमखं प्रति॥ ४६॥

सभी रुद्र भार्याओं के सहित वृषभ पर समारूढ़ और अत्यन्त भीषण स्वरूप वाले थे। वे गणश्रेष्ठ वीरभद्र को समानृत करके ही दक्ष के यज्ञ की ओर गये थे।

सर्वे सम्प्राप्य तं देशं गङ्गाद्वारमिति श्रुतम्।
ददृशुर्यज्ञदेशं वै दक्षस्यामिततेजसः॥४७॥

गंगाद्वार (हरिद्वार) नाम से प्रसिद्ध उस स्थान पर जाकर उन्होंने अतिशय तेजस्वी दक्ष के यज्ञस्थल को देखा।

देवाङ्गनासहस्राक्षमप्सरोगीतनादितम्।
वेणुवीणानिनादाढ्यं वेदवादाभिनादितम्॥४८॥

वह यज्ञस्थल हजारों देवांगनाओं से युक्त, अप्सराओं के गीतों से निनादित, वेणु तथा वीणा की मधुर ध्वनि से संयुक्त, वेदों के स्वर से शब्दायमान था।

दृष्ट्वा सहर्षिभिर्वैः समासीनम्रजापतिम्॥४९॥

उवाच स प्रियो रुद्रीवीरभद्रः स्मयन्निवा॥५०॥

वयं ह्यनुचराः सर्वे शर्वस्यामिततेजसः।

भागव्यं लिप्सया भागान् प्राप्ता यच्छत्वमीप्सितान्॥५१॥

वहाँ देवों तथा ऋषियों के साथ बैठे हुए प्रजापति दक्ष को देखकर समस्त रुद्रगणों के साथ उस प्रिय वीरभद्र ने मुस्कुराते हुए कहा— हम सब अपरिमित तेज वाले भगवान् शिव के अनुचर हैं। यज्ञ में अपने भाग लेने की इच्छा से हम यहाँ आये हैं, अतः आप हमारे इच्छित भागों को प्रदान करें।

अथ चेत्कस्यचिदियं माया मुनिवरोत्तमाः।

भागो भवद्भ्यो देयस्तु नास्पृश्यपिति कथ्यताम्॥५२॥

हे मुनिवरों में श्रेष्ठ मुनियो! यह किसकी माया (चाल अथवा आज्ञा) है कि यह भाग आप लोगों को ही देय है हमारे लिए नहीं है— कृपया यह बता दीजिए।

तम्भूताज्ञापयति यो वेत्स्यामो हि वयं ततः।

एवमुक्त्वा गणेशेन प्रजापतिपुरःसराः॥५३॥

जो आपको आज्ञा करता है, उसको भी हमें बता दो। जिससे हम उसे जान लेंगे (उसकी भी खबर लेंगे)। उस गणेश्वर ने प्रजापति सहित सबको इस प्रकार कहा था।

देवा ऊचुः

प्रमाणं वो न जानीमो भागे मन्त्रा इति प्रभुम्।

मन्त्रा ऊचुः सुरा यूयं तपोपहतचेतसः॥५४॥

येनह्यवरस्य राजानं पूजयेयुर्महिम्नम्।

ईश्वरः सर्वभूतानां सर्वदेवतनुर्हरः॥५५॥

पूज्यते सर्वयज्ञेषु सर्वाभ्युदयसिद्धिदः।

देवों ने कहा— आपके देय भाग में मन्त्र हैं, यह प्रमाण प्रभु के बारे में हम नहीं जानते हैं। (ऐसा कहने पर) मन्त्रों

ने कहा था कि तुम सब देव तम से अपहृत चित्त वाले होकर यज्ञ के अधिपति महेश्वर का पूजन नहीं कर रहे हो। जो समस्त प्राणियों का ईश्वर, सर्वदेवों का तनु हर है वे तो सभी यज्ञों में पूजे जाते हैं और सब प्रकार के अभ्युदय और सिद्धियों को प्रदान करने वाले हैं।

एवमुक्त्वा महेशानमायया नष्टचेतनाः॥५६॥

न मेनिरे वयुर्मन्त्रा देवान्मुक्त्वा स्वमालयम्।

इस प्रकार कहने पर वे महेशान की माया से नष्ट चेतना वाले हो गये और उन्होंने यह बात नहीं मानी। तब मन्त्रों ने देवों का त्यागकर अपने स्थान को प्रस्थान किया।

ततः सभद्रो भगवान् सभार्यः सगणेश्वरः॥५७॥

स्युशन् कराभ्यां विप्रर्षिं दधीचं प्राह देवहा।

यस्मात्प्रसह्य तस्माद्दो नाशयाम्यद्य गर्वितान्।

इत्युक्त्वा यज्ञशालां तां ददाह गणपुङ्गवः॥५९॥

इसके उपरान्त अपने गणेश्वरों तथा भार्या भद्रकाली के सहित उस वीरभद्र भगवान् ने करों से विप्रर्षि दधीच को स्पर्श करते हुए उनसे कहा था कि— अपने बल से गर्वित होकर आप महर्षियों ने वेदमन्त्रों को प्रमाण नहीं माना, इसलिए गर्वित हुए आप सब का आज मैं बलपूर्वक नाश करता हूँ। इतना कहकर गणों में परम श्रेष्ठ उस वीरभद्र ने यज्ञशाला को जला दिया।

गणेश्वराश्च संक्रुद्धा यूषानुत्पाद्य चिक्षिपुः।

प्रस्तोत्रा सह होत्रा च अमृञ्चैव गणेश्वराः॥६०॥

गृहीत्वा भीषणाः सर्वे गङ्गास्रोतसि चिक्षिपुः।

अन्य गणेश्वरों ने भी संक्रुद्ध होकर यज्ञशाला के खंभे उखाड़कर फेंक दिये। अति भयानक उन सभी गणेश्वरों ने प्रस्तोता और होता के सहित अश्व को पकड़कर गंगा की धारा में बहा दिया।

वीरभद्रोऽपि दीप्तात्मा शक्रस्यैवोद्यतं करम्॥६१॥

व्यष्टम्भयददीनात्मा तन्वायेषां दिवौकसाम्।

भगनेत्रे तयोत्पाद्य कराग्रेणैव लीलया॥६२॥

उस दीप्तशरीर वाले और अदीनात्मा वीरभद्र ने भी इन्द्र के तथा अन्यान्य देवताओं के उठे हुए हाथों को वहीं स्तम्भित कर दिया। उसी प्रकार भग के नेत्रों को कर के अग्रभाग से बिना यज्ञ के ही उत्पाटित कर दिया था।

निहत्य मुष्टिना दन्तान् पूष्णञ्छैवमपातयत्।

तथा चन्द्रमसं देवं पादाङ्गुष्ठेन लीलया॥६३॥

धर्वयामास बलवान् स्मयमानो गणेश्वरः।

पूषा के दाँतों को अपनी मुष्टि के प्रहार से तोड़कर भूमि पर गिरा दिया और वैसे ही उस महान् बलशाली गणेश्वर वीरभद्र ने मुस्कराते हुए अनायास ही अपने पैर के अंगूठे से चन्द्रमा को भी धर्षित कर दिया था।

वह्नेर्हस्तद्वयं छित्त्वा जिह्वामुत्पाट्य लीलया॥६४॥

जघान मूर्ध्नि पादेन मुनीनपि मुनीश्वराः।

हे मुनीश्वरो! अग्नि के दोनों हाथों को काटकर उसकी जोभ को भी अनायास ही उखाड़ दिया था और दूसरे मुनियों को भी पैरों से मस्तक पर प्रहार किया था।

तथा विष्णुं सगरुडं समायान्तं महाबलः॥६५॥

विव्याध निशितैर्बाणैः स्तम्भिवित्वा सुदर्शनम्।

तान्द्रुष्ट्वा गरुडो धीमान् पलायत महाज्वः॥६८॥

विसृज्य माधवं वेगात्तद्द्रुतमिवाभवत्।

उस महाबली ने गरुड़ वाहन पर विराजमान होकर आ रहे विष्णु को देखकर सुदर्शन चक्र को स्तम्भित करके अनेक तीक्ष्ण बाणों से उन्हें वीध डाला था। तब महाबाहु गरुड़ ने वहाँ आकर उस गणेश्वर को अपने पक्षों से ताड़ित किया और समुद्र के समान गर्जना करने लगे। इसके उपरान्त रुद्र ने स्वयं सहस्रों गरुड़ों का सृजन किया, जो विनता के पुत्र से भी अधिक थे। उन्होंने उस गरुड़ पर आक्रमण कर दिया। उनको देखकर बुद्धिमान् गरुड़ बड़े ही वेग से वहाँ से भगवान् विष्णु को छोड़कर भाग निकले थे। यह एक आश्चर्य सा हुआ था।

अन्तर्हित वैनतेये भगवान् पद्मसम्भवः॥६९॥

आगत्य वारयामास वीरभद्रश्च केशवम्।

प्रासादयामास च तं गौरवात्परमेष्ठिनः॥७०॥

उस वैनतेय के अन्तर्हित हो जाने पर भगवान् पद्मयोनि वहाँ आ गये थे। उन्होंने केशव को और वीरभद्र को रोका। तब वे भी परमेश्रो ब्रह्मा के सम्मान के कारण दोनों एक दूसरे को प्रसन्न करने लगे।

संस्तूय भगवानीशं शम्भुस्तत्रागमत्स्वयम्।

वीक्ष्य देवाधिदेवं तमुमां सर्वगुणैर्वृताम्॥७१॥

तुष्टाव भगवान् ब्रह्मा दक्षः सर्वे दिवोकसः।

विशेषात्पार्वतीं देवीमीश्वरार्द्धशरीरिणीम्॥७२॥

उस ईश्वर (वीरभद्र तथा विष्णु) की स्तुति-प्रशंसा करते हुए भगवान् शम्भु स्वयं वहाँ पर आ गये। उस समय देवों के भी अधिदेव और समस्त गुणों से समावृत उमा का दर्शन करके भगवान् ब्रह्मा, दक्ष और समस्त देवगण उनकी स्तुति करने लगे। विशेष रूप से ईश्वर की अर्धशरीरिणी पार्वती की स्तुति की थी।

स्तोत्रैर्नानाविधैर्दक्षः प्रणम्य च कृताञ्जलिः।

ततो भगवती देवी प्रहसन्ती महेश्वरम्॥७३॥

प्रसन्नमनसा रुद्रं वचः प्राह घृणानिधिः।

त्वमेव जगतः स्रष्टा शासिता चैव रक्षिता॥७४॥

दक्ष ने नानाविध स्तुतिमंत्रों से कृताञ्जलि होकर प्रणाम किया। तब भगवती देवी ने प्रसन्न मन से हैंसते हुए महेश्वर रुद्र से कहा— हे दयानिधे! आप ही इस जगत् के सृजन करने वाले हैं और आप ही इस पर शासन करते हैं तथा इसकी रक्षा भी करते हैं।

अनुशाहो भगवता दक्षश्चापि दिवोकसः।

उवाच प्रणतान्देवान् प्राचेतसमथो हरः।

गच्छस्व देवताः सर्वाः प्रसन्नो भवतामहम्॥७६॥

आपको अब इस दक्ष पर और समस्त देवगण पर भी अनुग्रह करना चाहिए। इसके पश्चात् भगवान् नीललोहित कपर्दी हैंस पड़े। तब हर ने उन प्रणत हुए देवों से तथा प्राचेतस से कहा— हे देवगणों! अब आप चले जाइए। मैं आप पर प्रसन्न हूँ।

संपूज्यः सर्वयज्ञेषु न निन्दोऽहं विशेषतः।

त्वञ्चापि शृणु मे दक्ष वचनं सर्वरक्षणम्॥७७॥

आपको सभी यज्ञों में मेरी भली-भाँति पूजा करनी चाहिए और विशेष रूप से कभी भी मेरी निन्दा न करें और हे दक्ष! तुम भी सब की रक्षा करने वाला मेरा यह वचन सुनो।

त्यक्त्वा लोकैषणामेतां मद्भक्तो भव यत्नतः।

भविष्यसि गणेशानः कल्याणेऽनुग्रहाम्यमः॥७८॥

अब इस लोकैषणा का त्याग करके यत्नपूर्वक मेरे भक्त बन जाओ। ऐसा करने से इस कल्प के अन्त में मेरे इस अनुग्रह से तुम गणाधिपति बन जाओगे।

तावत्तिष्ठ ममादेशात्स्वाधिकारेषु निर्वृतः।

एवमुक्त्वा तु भगवान् सपत्नीकः सहानुगः॥७९॥

अदर्शनमनुप्राप्तो दक्षस्यामिततेजसः।

अन्तर्हिते महादेवे शंकरे पद्मसम्भवः॥८०॥

व्याजहार स्वयं दक्षमशेषजगतो हितम्।

तब तक मेरे आदेश से अपने अधिकारों से निर्वृत होते हुए स्थित रहो। इस प्रकार कहकर अपनी पत्नी तथा अपने अनुचरों के सहित भगवान् शम्भु उन अमित तेजस्वी दक्ष के लिए अदृश्य हो गये। महादेव शंकर के अन्तर्धान हो जाने पर पद्मसंभव ब्रह्मा जी ने स्वयं पूर्ण रूप से इस जगत् के हितकर वचन दक्ष प्रजापति से कहा।

ब्रह्मोवाच—

किञ्चायं भवतो मोहः प्रसन्ने वृषभध्वजे॥८१॥

यदा च स स्वयं देवः पालयेत्त्वापतन्द्रितः।

सर्वेषामेव भूतानां हृद्ये परमेश्वरः॥८२॥

ब्रह्मा जी ने कहा— जब वृषभध्वज शंकर प्रसन्न हो गये हैं, तब आपको यह मोह कैसा? क्योंकि वे देव स्वयं अतन्द्रित होकर आपका पालन कर रहे हैं। यह परमेश्वर सभी भूतों के हृदय में विराजमान रहते हैं।

पश्यन्ति यं ब्रह्मभूता विद्वांसो वेदवादिनः।

स चात्मा सर्वभूतानां स बीजं परमा गतिः॥८३॥

जो ब्रह्मभूत वेदवादी मनीषी हैं, वे इनको देखा करते हैं। वे समस्त भूतों की आत्मा हैं, वे ही हम सब का बीजरूप हैं और वे ही परम गति हैं।

सूयते वैदिकैर्मन्त्रैर्देवदेवो महेश्वरः।

तमर्चयन्ति ये रूद्रं स्वात्मना च सनातनम्॥८४॥

चेतसा भावयुक्तेन ते यान्ति परम पदम्।

देवों के देव महेश्वर वैदिक मन्त्रों के द्वारा संस्तुत हुआ करते हैं। उस सनातन रुद्र का स्वात्मा के द्वारा भावयुक्त चित्त से जो अर्चन किया करते हैं वे लोग निश्चय ही परम पद को प्राप्त करते हैं।

तस्मादनादिष्वनन्तं विज्ञाय परमेश्वरम्॥८५॥

कर्मणा मनसा वाचा समाराधय यत्नतः।

यत्नात्परिहरेण्यस्य निन्दा स्वात्पविनाशनीम्॥८६॥

इसलिए आदि मध्य और अन्त से रहित परमेश्वर को विशेष रूप से जानकर, कर्म-वचन और मन से यत्नपूर्वक

उनका ही समाराधन करो और यत्नपूर्वक अपनी ही आत्मा का विनाश करने वाली ईश की निन्दा का परित्याग कर दो।

भवन्ति सर्वदोषाया निन्दकस्य क्रिया हि ताः।

यस्तु चैव महायोगी रक्षको विष्णुरव्ययः॥८७॥

स देवो भगवान्-रूद्रो महादेवो न संशयः।

शिव की निन्दा करने वाले की वे सब क्रियाएँ केवल दोष के लिए ही हुआ करती हैं। यह जो महायोगी, अव्यय विष्णु रक्षा करने वाले हैं, वह देव भगवान् रुद्र महादेव ही हैं— इसमें तनिक भी संशय नहीं है।

मन्यन्ते ते जगद्योनिं विभिन्नं विष्णुमीश्वरात्॥८८॥

मोहादवेदं निष्ठत्वात्ते यान्ति नरकं नराः।

वेदानुवर्तिनो रूद्रं देवं नारायणं त्वा॥८९॥

एकीभावेन पश्यन्ति मुक्तिभाजो भवन्ति ते।

यो विष्णुः स स्वयं रूद्रो यो रूद्रः स जनार्दनः॥९०॥

जो लोग जगत् के योनिरूप विष्णु को ईश्वर से भिन्न मानते हैं, इसका कारण एकमात्र मोह ही होता है और वे मनुष्य अवेदनिष्ठ होने से नरक को प्राप्त करते हैं। जो वेदों के अनुवर्ती मनुष्य होते हैं वे रुद्र देव और भगवान् नारायण को एकीभाव से ही देखा करते हैं और वे निश्चय ही मुक्ति के भाजन होते हैं। जो विष्णु हैं वे ही स्वयं रुद्र हैं और जो रुद्र हैं वे ही भगवान् जनार्दन हैं।

इति मत्वा भजेद्देवं स याति परमां गतिम्।

सृजत्येष जगत्सर्वं विष्णुस्तत्पश्यतीश्वरः॥९१॥

यही एकीभाव मानकर जो देव का भजन करते हैं वे परम गति को प्राप्त हुआ करते हैं। ये विष्णु इस सम्पूर्ण जगत् का सृजन किया करते हैं और वे ईश्वर सब देखते रहते हैं।

इत्थं जगत्सर्वमिदं रूद्रनारायणोद्भवम्।

तस्मात्पक्त्वा हरेर्निन्दां हरे चापि समाहितः॥९२॥

समाश्रय महादेवं शरण्यं ब्रह्मवादिनाम्।

इस प्रकार से यह समस्त जगत् रुद्र और नारायण से उद्भव को प्राप्त है। इसलिए हरि की निन्दा का त्याग करके हर-शिव में ही समाहित चित्त होकर ब्रह्मवादियों के शरण लेने योग्य महादेव का ही आश्रय ग्रहण करो।

उपश्रुत्याथ वचनं विरिञ्चस्य प्रजापतिः॥९३॥

पूर्वसंस्कारमाहात्म्याद्ब्रह्मणो वचनादिह।

ब्रह्मा का यह वचन सुनकर प्रजापति दक्ष गोपति श्रीविष्णु तथा व्याघ्रचर्मधारी महादेव की शरण में आ गये। अन्य जो दधीच ऋषि की शापाग्नि से दग्ध महर्षिगण थे, वे सब शंकरदेव से ट्रेष रखने वाले होने के कारण मोहित होकर कलियुग के पापलोकों में उत्पन्न हुए थे। वे (दक्ष का पक्ष लेने के कारण) अपने सम्पूर्ण तपोबल को त्याग कर अपने पूर्व जन्म के संस्कारों के कारण और ब्रह्माजी के वचन से इस लोक में ब्राह्मणों के कुल में उत्पन्न हुए थे।

अनन्तर वे शापग्रस्त होने कारण रौरव आदि नरकों में गिराये गये थे। अब वे समय आने पर सूर्य के समान तेजस्वी जगत्पति ब्रह्मा के पास जाकर वहाँ स्वयम्भू ब्रह्मा द्वारा अनुज्ञात होकर अर्थात् उनसे सम्मति प्राप्तकर, पुनः देवाधिपति ईशान की समाराधना करके, तपोयोग से तथा भगवान् शंकर की कृपा से पहले जैसी स्थिति को प्राप्त होंगे।

एतद्दुः कथितं सर्वं दक्षयज्ञनिपूदनम्।
शृणुष्वं दक्षपुत्रीणां सर्वासां चैव सन्ततिम्॥९९॥

यह दक्ष प्रजापति के यज्ञ के विध्वंस का पूरा वृत्तान्त हमने कह दिया है। अब दक्षपुत्रिणों संपूर्ण सन्तति के विषय में सुनो।

सूत उवाच-

प्रजाः सृजेति सन्दिष्टः पूर्व दक्षः स्वयंभुवा।
ससर्ज देवान् गन्धर्वान्पिषीवामुरोरगान्॥१॥

महर्षि सूत बोले— 'प्रजा की सृष्टि करो' ऐसा स्वयम्भू के द्वारा आदेश प्राप्त करके पहले दक्ष प्रजापति ने देव, गन्धर्व, ऋषि, असुर और सर्पों का सृजन किया था।

यदास्य सृजतः पूर्वं न व्यवर्द्धन्त ताः प्रजाः।
तदा ससर्ज भूतानि मैथुनेनैव सर्वतः॥२॥

(परन्तु) पूर्व में जब दक्ष द्वारा उत्पन्न प्रजा वृद्धि को प्राप्त नहीं हुई, तब सब प्रकार से मैथुन-धर्म के द्वारा ही भूतों का सृजन किया।

अशिकन्यां जनयाभास वीरणस्य प्रजापतेः।

उन्होंने प्रजापति वीरण को परम धर्मयुक्ता पुत्री अशिकनी में एक हजार पुत्रों को उत्पन्न किया।

तेषु पुत्रेषु नष्टेषु मायया नारदस्य तु।

षष्टिं दक्षोऽसृजत्कन्या वैरिण्यां वै प्रजापतिः॥४॥

नारद की माया से उन पुत्रों के नष्ट हो जाने पर दक्ष प्रजापति ने उस वैरिणी (असिकनी) में साठ कन्याओं को उत्पन्न किया।

ददौ स दश धर्माय कश्यपाय त्रयोदश।

विंशत्सप्त च सोमाय चतस्रोऽरिष्टेनेमये॥५॥

उसने उन कन्याओं में से दश कन्याएँ धर्म को प्रदान की थीं। तेरह कश्यप को दी थीं। सताईस चन्द्र को अर्पित की और चार अरिष्टेनेमि को दी।

द्वे चैव बहुपुत्राय द्वे कृशाश्वाय धीमते।

द्वे चैवांगिरसे तद्वृतासां वक्ष्येऽथ विस्तरम्॥६॥

दो बहुपुत्र को और दो धीमान् कृशाश्व को दी थीं। दो अंगिरा ऋषि को प्रदान की थीं। उसी भाँति अब उनके वंशविस्तर को कहता हूँ।

मरुत्ववती वसुर्यामी लम्बा भानुररुन्धती।

संकल्पा च मुहूर्ता च साध्या विश्वा च भामिनी॥७॥

धर्मपत्न्यो दश त्वेतास्तासां पुत्रान्नियोषत।

विश्वेदेवास्तु किष्वायां साध्या साध्यानजीजनत्॥८॥

उन दश कन्याओं के नाम हैं— मरुत्वती, वसु, यामी, लम्बा, भानु, अरुन्धती, संकल्पा, मुहूर्ता, साध्या और विश्वा। ये दश धर्म की पत्नियाँ थीं। उनके सब के जो पुत्र हुए थे उनको भी अब जान लीजिए। विश्वा में विश्वेदेवों ने जन्म ग्रहण किया था और साध्या ने साध्यों को जन्म दिया था।

मरुत्वान् मरुत्वानो वस्वासुवसवस्तथा।

भानोस्तु भानवश्चैव मुहूर्तास्तु मुहूर्तजाः॥१॥

मरुत्वती में मरुत्वान् हुए और वसु से (आठ) वसुगण उत्पन्न हुए थे। भानु से (द्वादश) भानुगण हुए और मुहूर्त नामक पुत्र ने मुहूर्ता नाम की पत्नी से हुए थे।

लम्बायाश्छाद्य घोषो वै नागवीथी तु यामिजा।

पृथिवीविषयं सर्वमरुत्वत्यामजायत॥१०॥

लम्बा से घोष की उत्पत्ति हुई थी तथा नागवीथी नामक कन्या यामो से उत्पन्न हुई। अरुन्धती में समस्त पृथिवी के विषय उत्पन्न हुए थे।

संकल्पयास्तु संकल्पो धर्मपुत्रा दश स्मृताः।

ये त्वनेकवसुप्राणा देवा ज्योतिःपुरोगमाः॥११॥

संकल्पा से संकल्प नामक पुत्र हुआ। इस प्रकार ये दश धर्म के पुत्र कहे जाते हैं। जो ये अनेक वसु अथवा अनेक प्रकार के धन जिनके प्राण कहे जाते हैं, वे ज्योतिष् आदि देव कहे गये हैं।

आराध्य तपसा देवं ब्रह्माणं परमेश्वरम्।

दृष्ट्वा लेभे वरादिव्यान्स्तुत्वासौ विविधैः स्तवैः॥२२॥

उस हिरण्यकशिपु ने तपश्चर्या के द्वारा परमेश्वर ब्रह्मदेव को आराधना की। उनके अनेक प्रकार के स्तवों से उनकी स्तुति करके परम दिव्यवरों को प्राप्ति की थी।

स याचितो देववैर्मुनिर्भिच्छ मुनीश्वराः॥२५॥

इसके पश्चात् उसके बल से सभी महर्षिगण पीड़ित और ताड़ित होकर पितामह ब्रह्मदेव के समीप गये। जो परम शरण्य, रक्षक, देव, शम्भु, सर्वजगन्मय, ब्रह्मा, लोकों की सृष्टि करने वाले, त्राता, परमपुरुष, कूटस्थ और जगत् के एक ही पुराण पुरुषोत्तम हैं। हे मुनीश्वरो! उसीसे देववरों ने तथा समस्त मुनियों ने याचना की थी।

प्रणत मुनीन्द्र और अमरगणों के द्वारा भली-भाँति स्तुति किये जाने पर वह कमलासन ब्रह्मा समस्त देवों के हित का सम्पादन करने के लिए क्षीरसागर के उत्तरी तट पर पहुँचे जहाँ पर भगवान् ईश्वर हरि, शेषशय्या पर शयन किया करते हैं। वहाँ पर इस जगद्योनि, विश्वगुरु कल्याणकारी देव विष्णु का दर्शन करके ब्रह्माजी ने मस्तक से उनके चरणकमलों की वन्दना की तथा दोनों हाथों को जोड़कर प्रार्थना की।

ब्रह्मोवाच-

त्वं गतिः सर्वभूतानामनन्तोऽस्थखिलात्मकः॥ २८॥
 व्यापी सर्वाभरवपुर्महायोगी सनातनः।
 त्वमात्मा सर्वभूतानां प्रधानप्रकृतिः परा॥ २९॥

ब्रह्माजी ने कहा— हे भगवान्! समस्त भूतों के आप ही गतिरूप हैं। आप अनन्त हैं और अखिल विश्व के आत्मरूप हैं। आप सर्वव्यापक हैं। सभी देवगण आपका ही शरीर हैं। आप महान् योगी और सनातन हैं। सब भूतों की आप ही आत्मा हैं और प्रधान-अथवा परा प्रकृति भी आप ही हैं।

वैराग्यैश्वर्यनिरतो वागतीतो निरञ्जनः।

आप वैराग्य और ऐश्वर्य में निरत रहने वाले हैं, वाणी से अतीत हैं अर्थात् वाणी द्वारा आप का वर्णन नहीं किया जा सकता। आप निरञ्जन-निलेष हैं। आप सृष्टिकर्ता, भरण-पोषण करने वाले, तथा देवों के शत्रु असुरों का नाश करने वाले हैं।

त्रातुमर्हस्यननेश त्रातासि परमेश्वर।
 इत्थं स विष्णुर्भगवान् ब्रह्मणा सम्प्रबोधितः॥ ३१॥

हे अनन्त! हे ईश! आप सब की रक्षा करने योग्य हैं। परमेश्वर! आप हमारे रक्षक हैं। इस प्रकार ब्रह्मा ने भगवान् विष्णु को अच्छी प्रकार समझा दिया था।

प्रोवाचोऽत्रिद्विपदाक्ष पीतवासाः सुराद्विजाः।
 किमर्थं सुमहावीर्याः सुप्रजापतिकाः सुराः॥ ३२॥
 इमं देशमनुग्राप्ताः किं वा कार्यं करोमि वः।

द्विजगण! तब निद्रारहित होकर विकसित कमल-नयन वाले पीताम्बरधारी विष्णु ने देवताओं से कहा— हे महापराक्रमी देवो! प्रजापति के साथ आप लोग इस देश में किसलिए आये हैं? अथवा मैं आप लोगों का कौन-सा कार्य करूँ?

देवा उचुः

हिरण्यकशिपुर्नाम ब्रह्मणो वरदर्पितः॥ ३३॥
 वाषते भगवन्दैत्यो देवान् सर्वान् सहर्षिभिः।
 अवध्यः सर्वभूतानां त्वाप्ते पुरुषोत्तमम्॥ ३४॥

देवगण बोले— हिरण्यकशिपु ब्रह्मा के वरदान से गर्वित हो गया है। भगवन्! वह दैत्य ऋषियों सहित सभी देवों को पीड़ित कर रहा है। वह आप पुरुषोत्तम को छोड़कर सभी प्राणियों के लिए वह अवध्य हैं।

हनुमर्हसि सर्वेषां त्रातासि त्वं जगन्मय।

 महापुरुषमव्यक्तं ययौ दैत्वमहापुरम्।
 विमुञ्चन् भैरवं नादं शङ्खचक्रगदाधरः॥ ३९॥

जगन्मय! आप सबके रक्षक हैं, इसलिए उसका वध करने योग्य हैं। देवताओं का कथन सुनकर लोकरक्षक विष्णु ने दैत्य श्रेष्ठ का वध करने के लिए स्वयं एक पुरुष को सृष्टि की। उसका शरीर सुमेरुपर्वत के समान था, भयंकर रूप था और वह हाथों में शंख, चक्र और गदा धारण किये हुए था। उससे भगवान् ने कहा— तुम पराक्रम से दैत्यराज हिरण्यकशिपु को मारकर पुनः शीघ्र इस देश में आ जाओ। विष्णु का वचन सुनकर उसने अव्यक्त, महापुरुष और पुरुषोत्तम भगवान् विष्णु को प्रणाम किया। पश्चात् शंखचक्रधारी वह भयंकर नाद करता हुआ दैत्य के महानगर की ओर चल पड़ा।

आरुह्य गरुडं देवो महामेरुरिवापरः।
 आकर्ण्य दैत्यप्रवरा महामेघरवोपमम्॥ ४०॥
 समं च घक्रिरे नादं तथा दैत्यप्लेर्भयात्।

वह गरुड़ पर आरूढ़ होकर दूसरे महामेह पर्वत के समान दिखाई दे रहा था। महामेह के समान उसकी गर्जना सुनकर बड़े-बड़े दैत्य भी दैत्यपति हिरण्यकशिपु के भय से एक साथ महानाद करने लगे।

असुरों ऊचुः

कश्चिदागच्छति महान् पुरुषो देवनोदितः॥४१॥

विमुञ्चन् भैरवं नादं तं जानीमो जनार्दनम्।

सन्नद्धैः सायुधैः पुत्रैः सप्रह्लादैस्तदा ययौ।

दृष्ट्वा तं गरुडारूढं सूर्यकोटिसमप्रभम्॥४३॥

असुरों ने कहा— देवों द्वारा प्रेरित कोई महान् पुरुष आ रहा है। वह महान् भयानक गर्जना कर रहा है। इसलिए हमें वे जनार्दन ही जान पड़ते हैं। इसके पश्चात् समस्त श्रेष्ठ असुरों के साथ स्वयं हिरण्यकशिपु सावधान हो गया था। समस्त आयुधों से सुसज्जित एवं पूर्ण सन्नद्ध प्रह्लाद के सहित पुत्रों को साथ लेकर उसी समय हिरण्यकशिपु भी गया था और उसने गरुड़ पर समारूढ़ हुए करोड़ों सूर्यों के समान प्रभा वाले उन भगवान् विष्णु को देखा था।

पुस्त्रं पर्वताकारं नारायणमिवापरम्।

दुद्रवुः केचिदन्योन्यमुचुः सम्भ्रान्तलोचनाः॥४४॥

वह पुरुष एक विशाल पर्वत के समान आकार वाला और दूसरे नारायण के तुल्य लग रहा है। उसे देखकर कुछ दैत्य तो भयभीत होकर भाग गये थे और दूसरे कुछ भ्रमितनेत्र वाले होते हुए परस्पर कहने लगे।

अयं स देवो देवानां गोप्ता नारायणो रिपुः।

अस्माकमन्वयो नूनं तत्सुतो वा समागतः॥४५॥

यह बली नारायण देव है जो देवों का रक्षक तथा हमारा रिपु है। निश्चय ही वह अविनाशी स्वयं या उसका पुत्र यहाँ पर आ पहुँचा है।

इत्युक्त्वा शस्त्रवर्षाणि समञ्जुः पुरुषाय ते।

स तानि चाक्षतो देवो नाशयाभास लीलया॥४६॥

(एक दूसरे को) इतना कहकर उन्होंने उस पुरुष पर अपने शस्त्रों की वर्षा आरम्भ कर दी। परन्तु उस अखंडदेव ने उन शस्त्रों को लीला मात्र में ही नष्ट कर दिया।

हिरण्यकशिपुः पुत्राञ्छुत्वारः प्रथितौजसः।

पुत्रं नारायणोद्भूतं युयुधुर्मेघनिःस्वनाः॥४७॥

उस समय हिरण्यकशिपु के अतितेजस्वी चार पुत्र मेघ के समान भैरव नाद करते हुए उस नारायण से उत्पन्न पुत्र से युद्ध करने लगे थे।

प्रह्लादश्चानुह्लादश्च संह्लादो ह्लाद एव च।

प्रह्लादः प्राहिणोद्ब्राह्मणमनुह्लादोऽथ वैष्णवम्॥४८॥

तानि तं पुस्त्रं प्राप्य चत्वार्यस्त्राणि वैष्णवम्॥४९॥

न श्रेकुञ्चलित्तुं विष्णुं वासुदेवं यवातत्प्रम्।

(वे चारों) प्रह्लाद, अनुह्लाद, संह्लाद और ह्लाद थे। उनमें प्रह्लाद ब्रह्मास्त्र, अनुह्लाद वैष्णवास्त्र, संह्लाद कौमारास्त्र और ह्लाद आग्नेयास्त्र छोड़ रहा था। परन्तु वे चारों अस्त्र उस पुरुष के पास पहुँच कर यथार्थ वासुदेव विष्णु को तनिक भी डगमगा नहीं सके।

अथासौ चतुरः पुत्रान्महाबाहुर्महाबलः॥५०॥

गत्वा विज्ञापयामास प्रवृत्तमखिलं तदा॥५३॥

तदनन्तर उस महाबली और महापराक्रमी विष्णु-पुरुष ने अपने हाथों से उन चारों पुत्रों की टाँगें पकड़कर दूर पटक दिया और जोर से गर्जन किया। पुत्रों के पटक दिये जाने पर हिरण्यकशिपु स्वयं वहाँ आया और अपने पैर से वेगपूर्वक उस पुरुष की छाती पर प्रहार किया। उससे वह पुरुष गरुड़ और दूसरे अनुयायियों के साथ अत्यन्त पीड़ित होकर अदृश्य हो गया और शीघ्र ही उस स्थान को चला गया जहाँ नारायण प्रभु थे। उसने वहाँ जो घटित हुआ था, वह सारा वृत्तान्त कह सुनाया।

सञ्चिन्त्य मनसा देवः सर्वज्ञानमयोऽमलः।

नरस्यार्द्धतनुं कृत्वा सिंहस्यार्द्धतनुं तथा॥५४॥

सर्वज्ञानमय तथा निर्मल विष्णुदेव ने मन से अच्छी प्रकार विचारकर अपना आधा शरीर मनुष्यरूप का और आधा सिंहरूप में कर दिया।

नृसिंहवपुरव्यक्तो हिरण्यकशिपुः पुरे।

आकिर्बभूव सहसा मोहपदैत्यदानवान्॥५५॥

नरसिंह का शरीर धारण करके वे भगवान् अव्यक्तरूप में ही हिरण्यकशिपु के नगर में जा पहुँचे और दैत्यों तथा दानवों को मोहित करते हुए एकाएक प्रकट हो गये।

दंष्ट्राकरालो योगात्पा युगान्तदहनेपमः।

समारुह्यात्मनः शक्तिं सर्वसंहारकारिकाम्॥५६॥

भाति नारायणोऽनन्तो यथा मध्यदिने रविः।

वे दंष्ट्राओं से विकराल थे, फिर भी उनका स्वरूप योगमय था। वे उस समय प्रलयकालीन अग्नि के सदृश दिखाई दे रहे थे। सर्वसंहारकारिणी अपनी शक्ति का अवलम्बन करके वे अनन्तरूप नारायण उस समय दिवस के मध्याह्न समय के सूर्य की भाँति लग रहे थे।

दृष्ट्वा नृसिंहं पुरुषं प्रह्लादं ज्येष्ठपुत्रकम्॥५७॥

इमं नृसिंहं पुरुषं पूर्वस्मादूनशक्तिकम्॥५८॥

सहैव तेऽनुजैः सर्वैर्नाशयाशु मयेरितः।

उस नृसिंहाकृत पुरुष को देखकर हिरण्यकशिपु ने अपने ज्येष्ठ पुत्र प्रह्लाद को उसका करने के लिए प्रेरित किया। उसने कहा कि यह नृसिंहाकृति वाला पुरुष पहले से कुछ कम शक्ति वाला है इसलिए तुम अपने सभी भाइयों के सहित मेरे द्वारा प्रेरित हुए तुम शीघ्र ही उसका नाश कर दो।

स तन्नियोगादसुरः प्रह्लादो विष्णुमव्ययम्॥५९॥

ध्यात्वा पशुपतेरस्त्रं समर्जं च ननाद च।

फिर अपने पिता की आज्ञा से वह असुर प्रह्लाद उन अविनाशी विष्णु के साथ यत्नपूर्वक युद्ध करने लगा, परन्तु वह नरसिंह के द्वारा जीत लिया गया। उसके पश्चात् उसके छोटा भाई दैत्य हिरण्याक्ष ने संमोहित होकर पाशुपत अस्त्र का ध्यान करके उसे छोड़ा और गर्जना करने लगा।

तस्य देवाधिदेवस्य विष्णोरमिततेजसः॥६१॥

ननाम शिरसा देवं योगिनां हृदयेऽयम्।

किन्तु उसका वह अस्त्र देवाधिदेव अमिततेजस्वी विष्णु तथा त्रिशूलधारी शंकर को कोई हानि नहीं कर सका। इस

प्रकार अस्त्र को निवृत्त हुआ देखकर अपने भाग्य के गौरव से प्रह्लाद ने उस देव को सर्वात्मा सनातन वासुदेव समझा। तब उसने सत्त्वयुक्त चित्त से सकल शस्त्रों का त्याग करके योगियों के हृदय में शयन करने वाले विष्णुदेव को शिर से प्रणाम किया।

स्तुत्वा नारायणं स्तोत्रैः ऋग्यजुःसामसम्भवेः॥६४॥

निवार्य पितरं घ्रातून् हिरण्याक्षं तदाऽब्रवीत्।

ऋग्वेद, यजुर्वेद तथा सामवेद के स्तोत्रों से नारायण की स्तुति करके पिता, भाइयों और हिरण्याक्ष को रोककर उस समय उनसे कहा।

अयं नारायणोऽनन्त शश्वतो भगवानजः॥६५॥

पुराणः पुरुषो देवो महायोगी जगन्मयः।

अयं घाता विघाता च स्वयंज्योतिर्निरञ्जनः॥६६॥

ये भगवान् नारायण, अनन्त, शाश्वत और अज हैं। ये ही सब के धारणकर्ता, सृष्टिकर्ता, स्वयं ज्योतिःस्वरूप और निरञ्जन हैं।

प्रधानं पुरुषं तत्त्वं मूलप्रकृतिरव्ययः।

ईश्वरः सर्वभूतानामन्तर्यामी गुणातिगः॥६७॥

गच्छस्वप्नेन शरणं विष्णुमव्यक्तमव्ययम्।

ये ही प्रधान तत्त्व-मूल प्रकृतिरूप अविनाशी पुरुष हैं। वे सकल प्राणियों के ईश्वर, अन्तर्यामी और (सत्त्वादि) गुणों से परे हैं। इसलिए आप अव्यक्त और अविनाशी विष्णु की शरण में जाओ।

एवमुक्तः सुदुर्बुद्धिर्हिरण्यकशिपुः स्वयम्॥६८॥

प्रोवाच पुत्रमत्यर्थं मोहितो विष्णुमावया।

अयं सर्वात्मना कथ्यो नृसिंहोऽल्पपराक्रमः॥६९॥

समागतोऽस्मद्भवमिदानीं कालचोदितः।

ऐसा कहने पर भी अत्यन्त दुर्बुद्धि युक्त तथा विष्णु की माया से अत्यन्त मोहित हुआ हिरण्यकशिपु अपने पुत्र से बोला— यह अल्प पराक्रमी नृसिंह सब प्रकार से वध करने योग्य है। यह काल से प्रेरित होकर इस समय हमारे भवन में आया है।

विहस्य पितरं पुत्रो वचः प्राह महापतिः॥७०॥

कथं देवो महादेवः शाश्वतः कालवर्जितः॥७१॥

कालेन हन्ते विष्णुः कालात्मा कालरूपश्चकृ।

तव महाबुद्धिमान् पुत्र ने हँसकर पिता से कहा— इनकी निन्दा मत करो। ये सभी प्राणियों के एकमात्र ईश्वर और अविनाशी हैं। ये महादेव शाश्वत एवं कालवर्जित हैं। ये कालस्वरूप तथा कालरूपधारी विष्णु हैं। काल इनका क्या विनाश करेगा ?

ततः सुवर्णाकशिपुर्दुरात्मा कालचोदितः॥७२॥

नखैर्विदारयामास प्रह्लादस्यैव पश्यतः।

तदनन्तर दुरात्मा हिरण्यकशिपु पुत्र के मना करने पर भी कालप्रेरित होने से अविनाशी हरि-विष्णु से युद्ध करने लगा। अनन्त भगवान् ने आँखें लाल करके हिरण्याक्ष के बड़े भाई को प्रह्लाद के देखते-देखते नखों से चीर डाला।

हते हिरण्यकशिपौ हिरण्याक्षो महाबलः॥७४॥

विमुञ्च पुत्रं प्रह्लादं दुद्रुवे भवविह्वलः।

नृसिंहदेहसम्भूतैः सिंहैर्नृता यम्क्षयम्।

ततः संहत्य तद्रूपं हरिर्नारायणः प्रभुः॥७६॥

हिरण्यकशिपु के मारे जाने पर महाबली हिरण्याक्ष भयभीत होकर पुत्र प्रह्लाद को छोड़कर भाग गया। तब अनुह्लाद आदि पुत्रों को नृसिंह के शरीर से उत्पन्न सिंहों ने ही यमलोक भेज दिया। तदनन्तर प्रभु नारायण भगवान् ने अपने (नृसिंह) रूप को समेट लिया।

स्वमेव परमं रूपं ययौ नारायणाह्वयम्।

अभिषेकेण युक्तेन हिरण्याक्षमयोजयत्।

स वाधयामास सुरान्णे जित्वा मुनीनपि॥७८॥

फिर अपने नारायण नामक परम रूप को धारण कर लिया। नारायण के चले जाने पर असुरश्रेष्ठ दैत्य प्रह्लाद ने योग्य (शास्त्रसंमत) अभिषेक करके हिरण्याक्ष को राजसिंहासन पर प्रतिष्ठित कर दिया। तब उसने भी युद्ध में देवताओं को और मुनियों को जीतकर पीड़ित किया।

लब्धान्धकं महापुत्रं तपसाराध्यं शंकरम्।

देवाञ्जित्वा सदेवेन्द्रान् क्षुब्धा च धरणीमिमाम्॥७९॥

उसने तपस्या द्वारा शंकर की आराधना करके अन्धक नामक महान् पुत्र प्राप्त किया। उसने इन्द्र सहित देवों को जीतकर पृथ्वी को क्षुब्ध कर दिया।

नीत्वा रसातलं चक्रे वेदान्धै निष्कषांस्तथा।

ततः सद्ब्रह्मका देवाः परिप्लानमुखस्त्रियः॥८०॥

फिर उसे पाताल में ले जाकर वेदों को तेजहीन कर दिया। तब ब्रह्मा सहित सभी देवों की मुख की शोभा मलिन हो गयी।

गत्वा विज्ञापयामासुर्विष्णवे हरिर्मन्दिरम्।

स चिन्तयित्वा किष्कात्मा तद्ब्रह्मोपायमव्ययः॥८१॥

उन्होंने हरि-मन्दिर में जाकर विष्णु से निवेदन किया। तब विश्वात्मा, अविनाशी भगवान् उस (असुर) के वध का उपाय सोचने लगे।

सर्वदेवमयं शुभ्रं वाराहञ्च पुरा दधे।

गत्वा हिरण्यनयनं हत्वा तं पुरुषोत्तमः॥८२॥

पहले पुरुषोत्तम भगवान् ने सर्वदेवमय श्वेत वराह का रूप धारण किया और हिरण्याक्ष के पास जाकर उसका वध किया।

दंष्ट्रयोद्धारयामास कल्पादौ धरणीमिमाम्।

त्यक्त्वा वाराहसंस्थानं संस्थाप्यैव सुरद्विषः॥८३॥

फिर कल्प के आदि में (हिरण्याक्ष द्वारा गृहीत) उस पृथ्वी का अपनी दंष्ट्रा पर उठकर उद्धार किया। पश्चात् देव-शत्रुओं को मार कर उन्होंने अपना वाराह रूप त्याग दिया।

स्वामेव प्रकृतिं दिव्या ययौ विष्णुः परं पदम्।

अपालयत्सकं राज्यं भावं त्यक्त्वा तदासुरम्।

यज्ञते विश्विदेवात्विष्णोःसाराधने रतः॥८५॥

अपनी ही दिव्य प्रकृति का अवलम्बन लेकर श्रीविष्णु परम धाम पहुँच गये। उस देवशत्रु हिरण्याक्ष के मार दिये जाने पर विष्णुपरायण प्रह्लाद अपने आसुरी भाव को त्याग करके प्रजा का पालन करने लगे और विष्णु की आराधना में निरत हो विधिपूर्वक यज्ञ करते थे।

निःसपत्नं सदा राज्यं तस्यासीद्विष्णुवैभवात्।

ततः कदाचिदसुरो ब्राह्मणं गृहमाण्डम्॥८६॥

विष्णु के प्रसाद से उनका राज्य सदा निष्कण्टक हो गया। तदनन्तर कभी एक ब्राह्मण उनके घर आया।

न च सम्भाषयामास देवानाञ्चैव मायया।

स तेन तापसोऽत्यर्थं मोहितेनावमानितः॥८७॥

किन्तु देवताओं को माया से मोहित होने के कारण प्रह्लाद ने ब्राह्मण का आदर-सत्कार नहीं किया। इस प्रकार वैभव-प्रताप के कारण उसने तपस्वी ब्राह्मण को अपमानित किया।

शशापासुरराजानं क्रोधसंरक्तलोचनः।

यत्नद्वलं समाश्रित्य ब्राह्मणानवमन्वसे॥८८॥

सा शक्तिर्वैष्णवी दिव्या विनाशने गमिष्यति।

इत्युक्त्वा प्रथयौ तूर्णं प्रह्लादस्य गृहद्विजः॥८९॥

(अपमान के कारण) क्रोध से आँखें लाल करके उस ब्राह्मण ने असुरराज को शाप दिया कि तूने जिसके बल का आश्रय लेकर ब्राह्मणों का अपमान किया है, वही तेरी दिव्य वैष्णवी शक्ति का नारा हो जायेगा। यह कहकर ब्राह्मण प्रह्लाद के घर से शीघ्र निकल गया।

मुमोह राज्यसंसक्तः सोऽपि शापबलात्ततः।

बाधयामास विप्रेन्द्रान्न विवेद जनार्दनम्॥९०॥

इसलिए वह भी शापबल के कारण राज्य में आसक्त होकर मोहित को प्राप्त हुआ और द्विजश्रेष्ठों को पीड़ित करने लगा तथा भगवान् जनार्दन को भूल गया।

पितुर्वधमनुस्मृत्य क्रोधं चक्रे हरिं प्रति।

तयोः समभवद्युद्धं सुपोरं रोमहर्षणम्॥९१॥

नारायणस्य देवस्य प्रह्लादस्यामरद्विषः।

कृत्वा स मुमहद्युद्धं विष्णुना तेन निर्जितः॥९२॥

(इतना ही नहीं) वह पिता के वध को स्मरण करके हरि के प्रति क्रोधित भी हुआ। इस कारण नारायण और देवराज प्रह्लाद- इन दोनों में रोमांचकारी अत्यन्त भयंकर युद्ध हुआ था। ऐसा महान् युद्ध करके भी वह विष्णु के द्वारा पराजित हो गया।

पूर्वसंस्कारमाहात्म्यात्परस्मिन् पुरुषे हरी।

सञ्जातं तस्य विज्ञानं शरण्यं शरणं ययौ॥९३॥

उस समय पूर्व के संस्कारों के माहात्म्य से परम पुरुष हरि के विषय में उसे विज्ञान उत्पन्न हो गया। तब वह शरण लेने योग्य हरि की शरण में आ पहुँचा था।

ततः प्रभृति दैत्येन्द्रो ह्यनन्यां भक्तिमुद्ग्रहन्।

नारायणे महायोगमवाप पुरुषोत्तमे॥९४॥

उस दिन से वह दैत्यराज नारायण की अनन्य भक्ति करने लगा और उसने नारायण पुरुषोत्तम में महान् योग को प्राप्त किया।

हिरण्यकशिपोः पुत्रे योगसंसक्तचेतसि।

अवाप तन्महाराज्यमन्वकोऽसुरपुद्गवः॥९५॥

इस प्रकार हिरण्यकशिपु के पुत्र प्रह्लाद का चित्त योगासक्त हो गया तो असुरश्रेष्ठ अन्धक ने उसका विशाल राज्य हस्तगत कर लिया।

हिरण्यनेत्रतनयः शम्भोर्द्वैहसमुद्भवः।

मन्दरस्वामुपां देवीं चक्रे पर्वतात्पजाम्॥९६॥

शंकर की देह से उत्पन्न होने पर भी हिरण्याक्ष-पुत्र अन्धक मन्दराचल पर अवस्थित पर्वतपुत्री उमा देवी की कामना करने लगा।

पुरा दारुवने पुण्ये मुनयो गृहमेधिनः।

ईश्वराराधनार्थाय तप्येरुः सहस्रशः॥९७॥

(वे देवी मंदराचल पर कैसे गयी थीं इसका कारण बताते हैं) पूर्वकाल में पवित्र दारुवन में हजारों गृहस्थ मुनि शंकर की आराधना करने के लिए तपस्या कर रहे थे।

ततः कदाचिन्महती कालयोगेन दुस्तरा।

अनावृष्टिरीतीवोशा ह्यासीद्भूतविनाशिनी॥९८॥

तदनन्तर किसी समय कालयोग से अति दुस्तर, प्राणियों का विनाश करने वाली और अत्यन्त दारुण महती अनावृष्टि हुई थी।

समेत्य सर्वे मुनयो गौतमं तपसां निधिम्।

अयाचन्त क्षुधाविष्टा आहारं प्राणधारणम्॥९९॥

तब वहाँ के निवासी सब मुनि तपोनिधि गौतम मुनि के पास आये और उनसे प्राणधारण करने योग्य भोजन की याचना करने लगे।

स तेभ्यः प्रददावन्नं मृष्टं बहुतरं वुषः।

सर्वे वुषुजिरे विप्रा निर्विशंकेन चेतसा॥१००॥

उस बुद्धिमान् गौतम ने सब मुनियों को प्रचुर मात्रा में मधुर भोजन प्रदान किया। तब इन ब्राह्मणों ने भी शंकारहित चित्त से भोजन किया।

गते च द्वादशे वर्षे कल्याण इव शांकराः।

वभूव वृष्टिर्महती यथापूर्वमभूज्जगत्॥१०१॥

एक प्रलयकाल के समान बारह वर्ष (इसी अवस्था में) जीत जाने पर कल्याणकारी महती वृष्टि हुई और संसार भी पूर्ववत् हो गया अर्थात् अनादि से समृद्ध हो गया।

ततः सर्वे मुनिवराः समामन्त्र्य परस्परम्।

महर्षिं गौतमं प्रोद्युर्गच्छाम इति वेगतः॥१०२॥

तब सब मुनियों ने परस्पर मंत्रणा करके महर्षि गौतम से कहा— हम लोग भी अब शीघ्र जाना चाते हैं।

निवारयामास च तान् कञ्चित्कालं यवामुखम्।

उपित्वा मद्गृहेऽवश्यं गच्छन्वपिति पण्डिताः॥१०३॥

तब गौतम ने उन लोगों को रोका और कहा— हे पंडितो! आप लोग कुछ दिन और मेरे गृह में सुखपूर्वक निवास करके फिर चले जाना।

ततो मायामयीं सृष्टा कृष्णां गां सर्व एव ते।

समीपं प्रापयामासुर्गौतमस्य महात्मनः॥ १०४॥

तब उन सब पण्डितों ने एक मायामयी काले रंग की गौ की रचना की और उसको महात्मा गौतम के पास पहुँचा दिया।

सोऽनुवीक्ष्य कृपाविष्टस्तस्याः संरक्षणोत्सुकः।

गोष्ठे तां बन्धयामास स्पृष्टमात्रा ममार सा॥ १०५॥

महात्मा गौतम उसे देखकर दया से युक्त हो गये और उसका संरक्षण के प्रति उत्सुक होकर उसे गोशाला में बँधवा दिया। परन्तु वह (मायामय होने के कारण) स्पर्श करते ही मर गई।

स शोकेनाभिसन्तप्तः कार्याकार्यं महामुनिः।

न पश्यति स्म सहसा तर्षुषि मुनयोऽबुबन्॥ १०६॥

(उसे मरी जानकर) वे महामुनि शोक से अभिसन्तप्त होकर कर्तव्याकर्तव्य के निर्णय में असमर्थ हो गये। तभी सहसा उस ऋषि से मुनियों ने कहा।

गोक्थेयं द्विजश्रेष्ठ यावत्तव शरीरगा।

तावत्तेऽन्नं न भोक्तव्यं गच्छामो वयमेव हि॥ १०७॥

(तुम्हें गोहत्या का पाप लगा है, अतः) हे द्विजश्रेष्ठ! यह गोहत्या जब तक आपके शरीर में रहेगी, तब तक हम लोग आपका अन्न ग्रहण नहीं करेंगे। इसलिए हम जा रहे हैं।

तेनातोऽनुमताः सन्तो देवदारुवनं शुभम्।

जग्मुः पापवशात्प्रीत्या तप्यन्तु यथा पुरा॥ १०८॥

उनसे अनुमति मिल जाने पर वे मुनिगण पवित्र देवदारु वन में चले गये। गौतम भी पापवश होकर पहले की तरह तपस्या करने लगे।

स तेषां मायया ज्ञातां गोक्थ्यां गौतमो मुनिः।

केनापि हेतुना ज्ञात्वा शशापतीवक्रोपतः॥ १०९॥

गौतम मुनि ने किसी कारण से उन लोगों द्वारा माया से रचित गो-वध को जानकर अत्यन्त क्रोधित होकर शाप दे दिया।

भविष्यन्ति त्रयीबाह्या महापातकिभिः समाः।

बहुशस्ते तथा ज्ञापाज्जायमानाः पुनः पुनः॥ ११०॥

तुम लोग तीनों वेदों से रहित तथा महापातकियों के समान हो जाओगे। इस प्रकार शाप के कारण वे ब्राह्मण बार-बार जन्म लेते रहे।

सर्वे संग्राप्य देवेशं शङ्करं विष्णुमव्ययम्।

अस्तुवन् लौकिकैः स्तोत्रैस्त्रिष्टया इव सर्वगौ॥ १११॥

देवदेवी महादेवी भक्तानामार्तिनाशनी।

कामवृत्त्या महायोगी पापात्रस्तानुमर्हतः॥ ११२॥

तब पाप से उज्जिष्ट हुए के समान (अपवित्र) वे लोग देवाधिपति शंकर और अविनाशी विष्णु की अनेक लौकिक स्तोत्रों द्वारा स्तुति की— आप दोनों सर्वव्यापी, देवों के देव, महान् देव, भक्तों का दुःख दूर करने वाले और स्वेच्छया महायोगी हैं। आप हमें पाप से मुक्त करने में समर्थ हैं।

तदा पार्श्वस्थितं विष्णुं संप्रक्ष्य वृषध्वजः।

किमेतेषां भवेत्कार्यं प्राह पुण्यविणामिति॥ ११३॥

तब पास में खड़े हुए विष्णु को देखकर वृषध्वज शंकर ने कहा— इन पुण्य चाहने वाले लोगों का कार्य कैसे होगा ?

ततः स भगवान्विष्णुं शरण्यो भक्तवत्सलः।

गोपतिं प्राह विप्रेन्द्रानालोक्य प्रणतान् हरिः॥ ११४॥

तदनन्तर शरण देने वाले भक्तवत्सल भगवान् विष्णु प्रणाम करते हुए विप्रेन्द्रों को देखकर गोपति शंकर से बोले।

न वेदबाह्ये पुरुषे पुण्यलेशोऽपि शङ्कर।

सङ्गच्छते महादेव धर्मो वेदाद्विनिर्बभौ॥ ११५॥

हे शंकर! वेदबहिष्कृत पुरुष में पुण्य का लेश भी नहीं रहता है। क्योंकि हे महादेव! धर्म वेद से उत्पन्न है।

तथापि भक्तवात्सल्याद्भक्तिवत्या महेश्वर।

अस्माभिः सर्व एवैते गन्तारो नरकानपि॥ ११६॥

हे महेश्वर! तथापि भक्तवत्सलता के कारण हमें नरक में जाने वाले इन सब को रक्षा करनी चाहिए।

तस्माद्धि वेदबाह्यानां रक्षणाचार्य पापिनाम्।

विमोहनाय शास्त्राणि करिष्यामो वृषध्वजा॥ ११७॥

इसलिए हे वृषध्वज! वेदबहिष्कृत पापियों की रक्षा के लिए तथा उन्हें मोह में डालने के लिए ऐसे शास्त्रों की रचना करेंगे।

एवं सम्योक्षितो रुद्रो माधवेन मुरारिणा।

घकार मोहशास्त्राणि केशवोऽपि शिवेरितः॥ ११८॥

कापालं नाकुलं वामं भैरवं पूर्वपङ्क्तिमम्।

पाञ्चरात्रं पाशुपतं त्वान्यानि सहस्रशः॥ ११९॥

इस प्रकार माधव-विष्णु ने रुद्रदेव को सम्बोधित किया था और केशव ने भी शिव से प्रेरित होकर मोह उत्पन्न करने वाले शास्त्र बनाये थे, जैसे कि कापाल, नाकुल, वाम, भैरव, पूर्व और बाद का पाञ्चरात्र, पाशुपत और अन्यान्य हजारों शास्त्रों की रचना की।

सृष्ट्या तानाह निर्वेदाः कुर्वाणाः शास्त्रचोदितम्।

पतन्तो नरके घोरे बहून् कल्पान् पुनः पुनः॥ १२०॥

जायन्तो मानुषे लोके क्षीणपापचयास्ततः।

ईश्वराराधनबलाद्गच्छन्त्वं सुकृताङ्गतिम्॥ १२१॥

ऐसे शास्त्रों की रचना करने के बाद उन्होंने ब्राह्मणों से कहा— तुम लोग वेदविहीन होने से शास्त्र-प्रेरित कर्म करते हुए भी अनेक कल्पों तक बार-बार घोर नरक में गिरते हुए मनुष्य लोक में जन्म ग्रहण करोगे। तब पापराशि के क्षीण हो जाने पर ईश्वर-आराधन के बल से सद्गति को प्राप्त करोगे।

वर्त्तन्त्वं मत्प्रसादेन नान्यथा निष्कृतिर्हि वः।

एवमीश्वरविष्णुभ्यां चोदितास्ते महर्षयः॥ १२२॥

आदेशं प्रत्यपद्यन्त शिवस्यासुरविद्विषः।

चक्रुस्तेऽन्यानि शास्त्राणि तत्र तत्र रताः पुनः॥ १२३॥

तुम लोग मेरी कृपा से ऐसा बर्ताव करो, अन्यथा तुम्हारा उद्धार नहीं है। इस प्रकार महादेव और विष्णु ने उन मुनियों को प्रेरित किया था। असुरद्रोही वे महर्षि शिव के आदेश का पालन करने लगे और उन्होंने भी शास्त्रनिरत होकर अन्यान्य शास्त्रों की भी रचना की।

शिष्यान्ध्यापयामामुर्दशयित्वा फलानि च।

मोहापसदनं लोकमवतीर्थ्य महीतले॥ १२४॥

चकार शंकरो भिक्षां हितायैषां द्विजैः सह।

कपालमालाभरणः प्रेतभस्मावगुण्डितः॥ १२५॥

विमोहवैल्लोकमिमं जटामण्डलमण्डितः।

उनका फल दिखाकर वे शिष्यों को षड़ाने लगे। इधर शंकर भी भूतल पर मोह के अपसदनरूप लोक में अवतार लेकर उनके कल्याण के लिए ब्राह्मणों के साथ भिक्षाटन करने लगे। शंकर ने कपालमाला धारण की हुई थी और शरीर में प्रेतभस्म का लेप किया था तथा वे जटामण्डल से मण्डित होकर इस लोक को मोहित कर रहे थे।

निष्क्रियं पार्वतीदेवीं विष्णावमिततेजसि॥ १२६॥

नियोज्य भगवान्द्रो भैरवं दृष्टनिग्रहे।

दत्त्वा नारायणे देव्यानन्दं कुलनन्दनम्॥ १२७॥

अमिततेजस्वी विष्णु के पास पार्वती को छोड़कर भगवान् रुद्र ने दुष्टों के निग्रहार्थ भैरव को नियुक्त किया और देवी के कुलनन्दन पुत्र को नारायण के सुपुत्र कर दिया।

संस्थाप्य तत्र च गगन्देवानिन्द्रपुरोगमान्।

प्रस्थिते च महादेवे विष्णुर्विष्णुतनुः स्वधम्॥ १२८॥

स्त्रीरूपधारी नियतं सेवते स्म महेश्वरीम्।

ब्रह्मा हुताशनः शक्नो यमोऽन्ये सुरपुंगवाः॥ १२९॥

सिधैर्विरे महादेवीं स्त्रीरूपं शोभनं गताः।

वहाँ अपने गणों तथा इन्द्र आदि देवताओं को स्थापित करके महादेव ने प्रस्थान किया। तब स्वयं विष्णुतनु विष्णु, ब्रह्मा, अग्नि, इन्द्र, यम तथा अन्य श्रेष्ठ देव सुन्दर स्त्रीरूप को धारण करके महादेवी महेश्वरी पार्वती देवी की नियमपूर्वक सेवा करने लगे।

नन्दीश्वरश्च भगवान् शम्भोरत्यन्तवल्तनः॥ १३०॥

न्यषेधयदमेयात्मा कालरूपधरो हरः।

तयोः समभवद्युद्धं युधोरं रोमहर्षणम्॥ १३३॥

शंकर के अत्यन्त प्रिय गणाध्यक्ष भगवान् नन्दीश्वर द्वारदेश में ही पूर्व की भाँति (पहरेदार के रूप में) खड़े हो गये। इस बीच अन्धक नामक दुर्बुद्धि वाला दैत्य पार्वती का हरण करने के लिए मन्दराचल पर आया। अन्धक को आया देखकर अमित तेजस्वी कालरूपधारी शिवस्वरूप कालभैरव ने उसे रोका। उन दोनों में रोमाञ्चकारी अत्यन्त घोर युद्ध होने लगा।

शूलेनोरसि तं दैत्यमाजघान वृषध्वजः।

ततः सहस्रशो दैत्याः सहस्रायकसंज्ञिताः॥ १३४॥

नन्दीश्वरादयो दैत्यैरन्धकैरभिनिर्जिताः।

वृषध्वज कालभैरव ने दैत्य की छाती पर त्रिशूल से प्रहार किया। तब अन्धक दैत्य ने अन्धक नामक हजारों दैत्यों को उत्पन्न किया। उन सब अन्धक दैत्यों से नन्दीश्वर आदि शिव के गण पराजित हो गये।

घण्टाकर्णो मेघनादश्छण्डेश्छण्डतापनः॥ १३५॥

विनायको मेघवाहः सोमनन्दी च वैद्युतः।

सर्वेऽन्धकं दैत्यवरं सम्प्राप्यातिबलान्विताः॥ १३६॥

कालसूर्यप्रतीकाशा भैरवश्चाभिदुद्रुवुः।

हाहेति शब्दः सुमहान् बभूवातिभयंकरः॥ १३९॥

घण्टाकर्ण, मेघनाद, चण्डेश, चण्डतापन, विनायक, मेघवाह, सोमनन्दी एवं वैद्युत नामक अतिबलशाली गण दैत्यराज अन्धक के आगे शूल, शक्ति, ऋष्टि (दो धारवाली तलवार), गिरिशिखर तथा परश्वध (फरसे) नामक अस्त्रों से युद्ध करने लगे। अनन्तर अत्यन्त बली दैत्यराज अन्धक ने उन सब को दोनों पैरों से पकड़कर घुमाकर सौ योजन की दूरी पर एक-एक करके फेंक दिया। तत्पश्चात् अन्धक द्वारा उत्पन्न किये गये प्रलयकालीन सूर्य के समान सैकड़ों-हजारों दैत्यों ने भैरव पर आक्रमण कर दिया। तब वहाँ पर हाहाकार का अत्यन्त महान् और अत्यन्त भयंकर शब्द होने लगा।

युयुधे भैरवो देवः शूलमादाय भैरवम्।

दृष्ट्वाऽन्धकानां सुबलं दुर्जयत्रिजितो हरः॥ १४०॥

भयंकर त्रिशूल लेकर भैरवदेव युद्ध करने लगे, किन्तु शंकरस्वरूप वे भैरव अन्धकों को अतिमहती दुर्जय सेना को देखकर पराजित हो गये।

जगाम शरणन्देवं वासुदेवमजं विभुम्।

सोऽसृजद्भगवाविष्णुर्देवीनां शतमुत्तमम्॥ १४१॥

देवीपार्श्वस्थितो देवो विनाशाथ सुरद्विषाम्।

तदाऽन्धकसहस्रन्तु देवीर्भयमसादनम्॥ १४२॥

नीतं केशवमाहात्म्यात्स्लीलयैव रणाजिरे।

तब वे अजन्मा, सर्वव्यापक वासुदेव की शरण में गये। भगवान् विष्णु ने देवशत्रुओं के विनाश के लिए सैकड़ों उत्तम देवियों की सृष्टि की। देव विष्णु भी देवी पार्वती के समीप खड़े हो गये। उन देवियों ने हजारों अन्धकों को विष्णु की महिमा से लीलापूर्वक मारकर यमलोक भेज दिया।

दृष्ट्वा पराहतं सैन्यमन्धकोऽपि महासुरः॥ १४३॥

पराङ्मुखो रणान्तस्मात्पलायत महाजवः।

शत्रु से आहत अपनी सेना को देखकर महासुर अन्धक पीठ दिखाकर रण से बड़े वेग के साथ भाग गया।

ततः क्रीडा महादेवः कृत्वा द्वादशवार्षिकीम्॥ १४४॥

समागम्योपतिष्ठन् भानुमन्तपिथ द्विजाः।

प्रविश्य भवनं पुण्यमयुक्तानां दुरासदम्॥ १४६॥

तदनन्तर महादेव बारह वर्षों की अपनी यह लीला सम्पन्न करके (सब को मोहित करके) भक्तों के कल्याणार्थ मन्दराचल पर आ गये। ईश्वर को आया हुआ जानकर सभी गणेश्वर वहाँ आकर उपस्थित हो गये जैसे द्विजगण सूर्य के सामने उपस्थान करते हैं। तब शंकर ने योगविहीन पुरुषों के लिए अत्यन्त अप्राप्य अपने पवित्र भवन में प्रवेश किया।

ददर्श नन्दिन्देवं भैरवं केशवं शिवः।

प्रणामप्रवणं देवं सोऽनुगृह्याथ नन्दिनम्॥ १४७॥

शिव ने वहाँ नन्दी, भैरव और विष्णुदेव को देखा। उन्होंने प्रणामकरने के लिए तत्पर नन्दी को अनुगृहीत किया।

प्रीत्यैनं पूर्वमीशानः केशवं परिषस्वजे।

दृष्ट्वा देवो महादेवीं प्रीतिविस्फारितेक्षणाम्॥ १४८॥

सर्वप्रथम ईशान शंकर ने विष्णुदेव का प्रीतिपूर्वक आलिगन किया। तत्पश्चात् (महादेव के आगमन के कारण) प्रेम से प्रफुल्लित नेत्रों वाली महादेवी पार्वती को उन्होंने देखा।

प्रणतः शिरसा तस्याः पादधोरीश्वरस्य च।

न्यवेदयज्जयन्तस्मै शङ्करायथ शङ्करः॥ १४९॥

भैरवो विष्णुमाहात्म्यप्रतीतः पार्श्वगोऽभवत्।

महादेवी तथा शिव के चरणों में प्रणाम करके शंकर-स्वरूप कालभैरव ने शिव को अपने जय के विषय में कहा और विष्णुदेव के माहात्म्य को बताते हुए उनके समीप खड़े हो गये।

श्रुत्वा तं विजयं शम्भुर्विक्रमद्वैश्वस्य च॥ १५०॥

उस विजय को तथा विष्णु के पराक्रम को सुनकर भगवान् शंभु पार्वती देवी के साथ उत्तम आसन पर बैठ गये। तदनन्तर सभी देवगण और मरीचि आदि द्विजगण

देवाधिपति त्रिलोचन का दर्शन करने के लिए मन्दराचल पर आये।

देवासनगतान्देवीं नारायणमनोमयीम्।

वे सौ देवियों, जिन्होंने पहले दैत्य-सेना को जीता था, शंकर के दर्शन की अभिलाषा से वहाँ आयीं। उन देवियों ने श्रेष्ठ आसन पर देवी के साथ बैठे हुए शंकर को देखकर आदर से प्रणाम किया और वे अतिशय प्रेम प्रकट करती हुई गीत गाने लगीं। फिर उन्होंने शंकर के वामभाग में स्थित देवासन पर विराजमान नारायण की मनोमयी गिरिजा देवी को प्रणाम किया।

दृष्ट्वा सिंहासनासीनं देव्यो नारायणं तत्त्वा॥ १५५॥
प्रणम्य देवमीशानं पृष्टवत्यो वराह्णनाः।

फिर सिंहासन पर आसीन नारायण को देखकर देवियों ने प्रणाम किया। फिर उन उत्तम स्त्रियों ने ईशानदेव शंकर से पूजा।

कन्या ऊचुः

व्याजहार महायोगी भूताधिपतिरव्ययः।
अथन्नारायणो गौरी जगन्माता सनातनः॥ १५८॥

कन्यायें बोली— अपनी कान्ति से चमकते हुए आप कौन हैं? सूर्य की प्रभा जैसी यह बाला कौन है? यह कमललोचन कौन है, जो शरीर से सुन्दर प्रतीत हो रहा है? उनका वचन सुनकर नन्दीवाहन, महायोगी, भूताधिपति और अविनाशी शिव ने कहा— ये सनातनदेव नारायण हैं और ये जगन्माता गौरी हैं।

विभज्य संस्थितो देवः स्वात्मानं बहुधेश्वरः।
न मे विदुः परन्तत्त्वं देव्याश्च न महर्षयः॥ १५९॥

ये देवेश्वर अपने को बहुधा विभक्त करके स्थित हैं। महर्षिगण मेरा और देवी उमा का परम तत्व नहीं जानते हैं।

एकोऽयं वेद विश्वात्मा भवानी विष्णुरेव च।
अहं हि निस्पृहः शान्तः केवलतो निष्परिग्रहः॥ १६०॥

अकेले ये विश्वात्मा विष्णु और भवानी देवी ही जानती हैं। वस्तुतः मैं तो निस्पृह, शान्त, केवल और परिग्रहशून्य हूँ।

मामेव केशवं प्राहुर्लक्ष्मीं देवीमवाप्तिकाम्।
एष धाता विश्वाता च कारणं कार्यमेव च॥ १६१॥

मुझे ही विद्वान् लोग केशव-विष्णु कहते हैं, तथा अम्बिका-पार्वती को लक्ष्मी कहते हैं। वे विष्णु धाता (धारणकर्ता), विधाता, कारण और कार्यरूप हैं।

कर्ता कारयिता विष्णुर्भुक्तिमुक्तिफलप्रदः।
भोक्ता पुमानप्रमेयः संहर्ता कालरूपपृक्॥ १६२॥

वे विष्णु कर्ता और कारयिता भी हैं और भोग तथा मोक्षरूप फल देने वाले हैं। ये पुरुष (जीवात्मारूप से) भोक्ता हैं, तथापि अप्रमेय हैं। वे कालरूपधारी होने से संहारकर्ता हैं।

स्रष्टा पाता वासुदेवो विश्वात्मा विश्वतोमुखः।
कूटस्थो ह्यक्षरो व्यापी योगी नारायणोऽव्ययः॥ १६३॥

ये स्रष्टा, रक्षक, वासुदेव, विश्वात्मा, सब ओर मुख वाले, कूटस्थ, अविनाशी, सर्वव्यापी, योगी, नारायण और अविकारी हैं।

तारकः पुरुषो ह्यात्मा केवलं परमं पदम्।
सैषा माहेश्वरी गौरी मम शक्तिर्निरञ्जना॥ १६४॥

ये तारणकर्ता पुरुष, आत्मारूप से सर्वव्यापक और केवलमात्र परम पद (मोक्षरूप) हैं। यह गौरी माहेश्वरी, मेरी निरञ्जना (निलेप) शक्ति है।

शांता सत्या सदानन्दा परं पदमिति श्रुतिः।
अस्यां सर्वमिदञ्जातमत्रैव लयमेष्यति॥ १६५॥

यह शान्त, सत्यरूप, सदानन्दरूप और परम पद है, ऐसा श्रुति कहती है। वस्तुतः सम्पूर्ण जगत् इसी मेरी शक्ति से उत्पन्न हुआ है और इसी में विलीन होगा।

एषैव सर्वभूतानां गतीनामुत्तमा गतिः।
तथाहं संगतो देव्या केवलतो निष्कलः परः॥ १६६॥
पश्याम्यशेषमेवाहं परमात्मानमव्ययम्।

यही सकल गतिशील प्राणियों का उत्तम आश्रय है। इससे मिलकर मैं केवल, निष्कल और पर हूँ। मैं इस शक्तिरूप देवी से संगत होकर समग्र प्राणिसमुदाय को तथा परम अव्यय परमात्मा को देखता हूँ।

तस्मादनादिमद्वैतं विष्णुमात्मानमीधरम्॥ १६७॥
 एकमेव विजानीय ततो यास्य्य निर्वृतिम्।

 पच्यमाना न मुच्यन्ते कल्पकोटिशतैरपि।
 तस्मादशेषभूतानां रक्षको विष्णुरव्ययः॥ १७०॥
 यथावदिह विज्ञाय ध्येयः सर्वापिद प्रभुः।

इसलिए अनादि, अद्वैत, ईश्वर, आत्मस्वरूप विष्णु को
 एकरूप ही जानो। तभी मोक्ष प्राप्त करोगे। जो श्रद्धायुक्त
 होकर विष्णु को अव्यक्त और आत्मस्वरूप मानते हैं, (रे
 मुझे प्रिय हैं) परन्तु जो भेदयुक्त दृष्टि से मुझ ईशान को
 विष्णु से भिन्न मानकर पूजते हैं, वे मेरे प्रिय नहीं हैं। जो
 मोहवश जगत् की उत्पत्ति के कारणरूप विष्णु से द्वेष करते
 हैं, वे रौरव आदि नरकों में पकाये जाते हुए करोड़ों कल्प
 तक नहीं छूट पाते। इसलिए अशेष प्राणियों के रक्षक
 अविनाशी विष्णु हैं। इसलिए यह सब अच्छी तरह जानकर
 सभी आपत्तियों में प्रभु का ध्यान करना चाहिए।

श्रुत्वा भगवतो वाक्यं देवाः सर्वे गणेश्वराः॥ १७१॥
 नेमुर्नारायणं देवं देवीं च हिमशैलजाम्।

 भवानीपादशुभले नारायणपदाम्बुजे।

भगवान् का यह वचन सुनकर सभी देवों और गणेश्वरों ने
 नारायण देव तथा पार्वती देवी को प्रणाम किया। फिर
 भक्तजनों के प्रिय महादेव, हिमालयपुत्री पार्वती देवी के
 चरणयुगल तथा नारायण के चरणकमल में भक्ति के लिए
 प्रार्थना की।

ततो नारायणन्देवं गणेशा मातरोऽपि च॥ १७३॥
 न पश्यन्ति जगत्सूर्तिं तदद्भुतमिवाभवत्।
 तदनन्तर सभी गणेश्वर तथा मातृकाओं ने नारायण देव
 को तथा जगन्माता को वहाँ नहीं देखा, यह अद्भुत-सी
 घटना हुई।

 मोहितो गिरिजां देवीमाहर्तुं गिरिमाययौ।

इस बीच कामान्ध हुआ अन्धक नामक महादैत्य मोहित
 होकर पार्वती का हरण करने के लिए मन्दराचल पर आया।

अथानन्तवपुः श्रीमान्योगी नारायणोऽमलः।
 तत्रैवाविरभूदैतैर्युद्धाय पुरुषोत्तमः॥ १७५॥

इसके बाद अनन्तशरीरधारी, श्रीमान्, योगी, निर्मल,
 पुरुषोत्तम नारायण वहाँ दैत्यों से युद्ध करने के लिए प्रकट
 हो गये।

कृत्वाथ पार्श्वे भगवन्तमीशो
 युद्धाय विष्णुं गणदेवमुखैः।
 शिलादपुत्रेण च मातृकाभिः

स कालरुद्रोऽपि जगाम देवः॥ १७६॥

उस समय भगवान् विष्णु को अपने बगल में करके
 मुख्य गणदेवों, शिलादपुत्र, मातृकाओं साथ ईश्वर कालरुद्र
 ने युद्धार्थ प्रस्थान कर दिया।

त्रिशूलपादाय कृशानुकल्पं
 स देवदेवः प्रययौ पुरस्तात्।
 तमन्वयुस्ते गणराजवर्या
 जगाम देवोऽपि सहस्रबाहुः॥ १७७॥

अग्नि के समान (देदीप्यमान) त्रिशूल को लेकर महादेव
 आगे-आगे चले। उस समय उनके पीछे श्रेष्ठ गणदेव एवं
 सहस्रबाहु विष्णु भी चलने लगे।

रराज मध्ये भगवान् सुराणां
 विवाहनो वारिजपर्णवर्णः।
 तदा सुमेरोः शिखराधिरुद्र
 स्त्रिलोकहृष्टिर्भगवानिवाकः॥ १७८॥

उस समय देवताओं के मध्य गरुड़वाहन पर विराजमान
 भगवान् विष्णु कमलपत्र के समान वर्ण वाले होने से ऐसे
 प्रतीत हो रहे थे, मानों सुमेरुपर्वत के शिखर पर आरूढ़
 तीनों लोक के नेत्ररूप भगवान् सूर्य हों।

जयघ्ननादिर्भगवानमेयो
 हरेः सहस्राकृतिराविरासीत्।
 त्रिशूलपाणिर्गगने सुघोषः
 पपत देवोपरि पुष्पवृष्टिः॥ १७९॥

जयशूल, अनादि, अप्रमेय, भगवान् शंकर ने त्रिशूलपाणि
 होकर हजारों आकृतियाँ धारण कर लीं और आकाशमार्ग में
 महान् घोष करने लगे। उस समय उन देवों पर पुष्पवृष्टि
 होने लगी।

समागतं वीक्ष्य गणेश्वराजं समावृतं दैत्यरिपुं गणेशीः।
 युयोध शक्रेण समातृकाभिर्गणैरशेषैरभरप्रधानैः॥ १८०॥

उस दैत्यरिपु शंकर को महान् गणों से समावृत्त होकर आया हुआ देखकर प्रथम उस दैत्य अन्धक ने इन्द्र, मातृकाओं एवं समस्त प्रधान देवों के साथ युद्ध आरंभ कर दिया।

विजित्य सर्वानपि बाहुवीर्यात्

स संयुगे जम्भुरन्तधापा

समाययौ यत्र स कामरुद्रो

विमानमारुह्य विहीनसत्त्वा॥ १८१॥

युद्ध में अनन्तधाम शंकर ने अपने बाहुबल से सबको जीत लिया था, इसलिए वह अन्धक सत्त्व-बलहीन सा होकर विमान पर आरूढ़ होकर उस ओर गया जहाँ कालरुद्र थे।

दृष्ट्वान्धकं समायानं भगवान् गरुडव्यजः।

व्याजहार महादेवं भैरवं धृतिभूषणम्॥ १८२॥

अन्धक को आत हुआ देखकर भगवान् विष्णु ने भस्मरूप आभूषण वाले भैरव महादेव से कहा।

हनुमर्हसि दैत्येऽन्धकं लोककण्ठकम्।

त्वामृते भगवान् शक्तो हन्ता नान्योऽस्य विद्यते॥ १८३॥

लोक के लिए कण्ठकरूप इस दैत्यराज अन्धक को आप ही मार सकते हैं। आपको छोड़कर दूसरा कोई इसको मारने में समर्थ नहीं है।

त्वं हर्ता सर्वलोकानां कालात्पा ह्यैश्वरी तनुः।

सूयते विविधैर्मन्त्रैर्वेदविद्धिर्विचक्षणैः॥ १८४॥

क्योंकि आप ही ईश्वरीय शरीरधारी कालरूप होकर लोकों का संहार करते हैं। वेदवेत्ता विद्वान् विविध मंत्रों से आपकी स्तुति करते हैं।

स वासुदेवस्य खचो निज्ञाय भगवान् हरः।

निरीक्ष्य विष्णुं हन्ते दैत्येन्द्रस्य मतिन्दधी॥ १८५॥

वासुदेव का ऐसा वचन सुनकर, भगवान् शंकर ने विष्णु की ओर देखकर दैत्यराज का वध करने का निश्चय किया।

जगाम देवतानीकं गणानां हर्षवर्द्धनम्।

स्तुवन्ति भैरवं दैवमन्तरिक्षचरा जनाः॥ १८६॥

तब वे गणों का हर्ष बढ़ाने वाली देव-सेना की ओर चल पड़े। उस समय अन्तरिक्षचारी लोग भैरवरूप महादेव की स्तुति करने लगे।

जयानन्त महादेव कालमूर्ते सनातना

त्वमग्निः सर्वभावानामन्तस्तिष्ठसि सर्वगः॥ १८७॥

हे अनन्त! हे महादेव! आपकी जय हो। हे सनातन कालमूर्ते! आप सर्वगामी हैं तथा (जठररूप)अग्नि से सभी प्राणियों के भीतर रहते हैं।

त्वमनको लोककर्ता त्वन्धाता हरिरव्ययः।

त्वं ब्रह्मा त्वं महादेवस्त्वन्ध्याम परमं पदम्॥ १८८॥

आप सब के अन्तकर्ता, लोकों का निर्माण करने वाले, धाता (भरण करने वाले) और अविनाशी हरि हैं। आप ब्रह्मा, आप महादेव, आप तेजःस्वरूप और परम धाम तथा परम पद हैं।

ओंकारमूर्तियोगात्पा त्रयीनेत्रस्त्रिलोचनः।

महाविभूतिर्विशेषो जयानन्त जगत्पते॥ १८९॥

आप ओंकारमूर्ति, योगात्मा, तीनवेदरूप नेत्र वाले, त्रिलोचन, महाविभूतिमय और विश्वेश्वर हैं। हे अनन्त! हे जगत्पते! आपकी जय हो।

ततः कालानिन्द्रोऽसौ गृहीत्वान्धकपीश्वरः।

त्रिशूलाश्रेषु विन्वस्य प्रनन्तं सताङ्गतिः॥ १९०॥

तदनन्तर सखनों के गतिरूप कालान्निस्वरूप वे रुद्रदेव अन्धकासुर को पकड़कर उसे त्रिशूल के अग्रभाग पर रखकर नृत्य करने लगे।

दृष्ट्वान्धकं देवगणाः शूलप्रोतं पितामहः।

प्रणोपुरीश्वरं देवं भैरवम्भवमोचनम्॥ १९१॥

इस प्रकार त्रिशूल में परोये हुए अन्धक को देखकर ब्रह्मा और देवगण संसार से मुक्ति देने वाले ईश्वर भैरवदेव को प्रणाम करने लगे।

अस्तुवन्मुनयः सिद्धा जगुर्गन्धर्वकिन्नराः।

अन्तरिक्षोऽप्सरःसङ्घा नृत्यन्ति स्म मनोहराः॥ १९२॥

मुनिगण तथा सिद्धगण भी स्तुति करने लगे। अन्तरिक्ष में मनोहर अप्सराओं का समूह नृत्य कर रहा था।

संस्थापितोऽथ शूलाश्रे सोऽन्धको दम्बकित्विषः।

उत्पन्नाखिलविज्ञानस्तुष्टाव परमेश्वरम्॥ १९३॥

अनन्तर शूल के अग्रभाग पर स्थापित होने से अन्धक निष्पाप हो गया एवं उसमें समस्त विज्ञानों का अविर्भाव हुआ। तब वह परमेश्वर की स्तुति करने लगा।

अन्धक उवाच-

नमामि मूर्त्तां भगवन्तमेकं

समाहितो यं विदुरीशतत्त्वम्।

पुरातनं पुण्यपनंतरूपं

कालं कविं योगवियोगहेतुम् ॥ १९४ ॥

अन्धक बोला— मैं समाहित चित्त होकर एकरूप भगवान् को मस्तक झुकाकर नमन करता हूँ, जिन्हें लोग अद्वितीय, ईशतत्त्व, पुरातन, पुण्यस्वरूप, काल, कवि और योग-वियोग का हेतु जानते हैं।

दंष्ट्राकरालं दिवि नृत्यमानं

सहस्रपादाक्षिशिरोभियुक्तं

भवन्तमेकं प्रणमामि रुद्रम् ॥ १९५ ॥

दंष्ट्राओं से भयंकर लगने वाले, आकाश में नृत्य करने वाले, अग्निस्वरूप मुखवाले, देदीप्यमान सूर्यस्वरूप, सहस्रचरण, नेत्र और शिर वाले, रुद्ररूप और केवल एक आपको नमस्कार है।

जयादिदेवामरपूजिताङ्घ्रे

विभागहीनामलतत्त्वरूपः ॥

त्वमग्निरेको बहुव्याभिपूज्यो

वक्ष्यादिभेदैरखिलात्मरूपः ॥ १९६ ॥

हे देवपूजित चरण वाले, विभागहीन, निर्मलतत्त्वरूप, आदिदेव! आपको जय हो। आप एक अग्निस्वरूप होने पर भी अनेक प्रकार से पूजनीय हैं। वायु आदि भेदों से आप सब के आत्मस्वरूप हैं।

त्वामेकमाहुः पुस्त्रं पुराण-

मादित्यवर्णान्तमसः परस्तात् ॥

त्वं पश्यसीदं परिपाश्यजस्रं

त्वमन्तको योगिगणानुजुष्टः ॥ १९७ ॥

आपको ही (वेदज्ञ) एकमात्र पुराण पुरुष कहते हैं। आप सूर्य के समान वर्ण वाले और तमोगुण-अन्धकाररूपी अज्ञान से परे हैं। आप इस जगत् को देखते हैं, निरन्तर इसकी रक्षा करते हैं और आप ही इसके संहारकर्ता हैं तथा आप योगिगणों द्वारा सेवित हैं।

एकोऽन्तरात्मा बहुधा निविष्टो

देहेषु देहादिविशेषहीनः ॥

त्वमात्मतत्त्वं परमात्मज्ञद्वंद्वं

भवन्तपाहुः शिवमेव केचित् ॥ १९८ ॥

आप ही एकमात्र सब के अन्तरात्मा तथा भिन्न-भिन्न देहों में अनेक प्रकार से प्रविष्ट हैं। फिर भी आप विशेष देहादि से

रहित हैं। आप परमात्मा शब्द से अभिहित आमतत्त्वरूप हैं। कुछ लोग आपको शिव ही कहते हैं।

त्वमक्षरं ब्रह्मपरं पवित्र-

मानंदरूपं प्रणवाभिधानम् ॥

आप अविनाशी परम पवित्र ब्रह्म हैं। आप आनन्दरूप एवं प्रणव (ओंकार) नाम वाले हैं। आप वेदवेत्ताओं में प्रसिद्ध ईश्वर एवं समस्त भेदों से रहित स्वायम्भुव (ब्रह्मा के पुत्र) हैं।

त्वमिद्ररूपो वरुणोऽग्निरूपो

हंसः प्राणो मृत्युरंतोऽसि यज्ञः

प्रजापतिर्भगवानेकरूपो

नीलग्रीवः स्तूयसे वेदविद्धिः ॥ २०० ॥

आप इन्द्रस्वरूप, वरुण और अग्निरूप, हंस, प्राण, मृत्यु, अन्त तथा यज्ञरूप हैं। प्रजापति, एकरूप, भगवान् नीलग्रीव आदि नाम वाले आपकी वेदज्ञ-जन स्तुति करते हैं।

नारायणस्त्वं जगतामनादिः

पितामहस्त्वं प्रपितामहश्च ॥

वेदान्तगुह्योपनिषत्सु गीतः

सदाशिवस्त्वं परमेश्वरोऽसि ॥ २०१ ॥

आप नारायणरूप, जगत् में अनादि हैं, पितामह ब्रह्मा एवं सब के प्रपितामह हैं तथा वेदान्तगुह्यरूप उपनिषदों में आप ही गाये गये हैं। आप ही सदाशिव और परमेश्वर हैं।

नमः परस्मै तमसः परस्तात्

परात्मने पञ्चनवान्तराया ॥

त्रिशक्त्यतीताया निरञ्जनाया

सहस्रशक्त्यासनसंस्थिताया ॥ २०२ ॥

तमोगुण से परे, परमात्मा, पांच और नव तत्त्वों के अन्दर रहने वाले, या चतुर्दशभुवनात्मक, तीन शक्तियों (सात्त्विकी, राजसी, तामसी) से अतीत, निरञ्जन, सहस्र शक्त्यासनों पर विराजमान आपको नमस्कार है।

त्रिमूर्तयेऽनन्तपदात्ममूर्तये

जगन्निवासाय जगन्मयाया ॥

नमो जनानां हृदि संस्थिताय

फणीन्द्रहाराय नमोऽस्तु तुभ्यम् ॥ २०३ ॥

त्रिमूर्तिरूप, अनन्त, परमात्ममूर्ति, जगन्निवास, जगन्मय, लोगों के हृदय में अवस्थित और नागेन्द्रों का हार धारण करने वाले आपको नमस्कार है।

मुनीन्द्रसिद्धार्चितापादपद्म

ऐश्वर्यधर्मासनसंस्थिताय।

नमः परान्ताय भवोद्भवाय

सहस्रचन्द्रार्कसहस्रमूर्तेः॥२०४॥

मुनीन्द्रों और सिद्धों से पूजित चरणकमल वाले, हे सहस्र सूर्य-चन्द्रमा के समान, हे सहस्रमूर्ते! ऐश्वर्य और धर्म के आसन पर संस्थित, पर के भी अन्तरूप एवं संसार का उत्पत्तिस्थान! आपको नमस्कार है।

गुप्त रखने योग्य, हृदयरूपी गुहा में स्थित और वेदान्त के विज्ञान से विनिश्चित आपको नमस्कार है। त्रिकाल से रहित और निर्मल धाम वाले महेश को नमस्कार है। शिव को नमस्कार है।

एवं स्तुतः स भगवान् श्लाघादवतार्य तम्।

तुष्टः प्रोवाच हस्ताभ्यां स्पृष्ट्वा च परमेश्वरः॥२०७॥

इस प्रकार स्तुति करने पर भगवान् परमेश्वर संतुष्ट हो गये और उसे त्रिशूल के अग्रभाग से उतारकर दोनों हाथों से स्पर्श करके बोले।

प्रीतोऽहं सर्वथा दैत्य स्तवेनानेन साम्प्रतम्।

सम्प्राप्य गाणपत्यं मे सन्निधाने सदा वस॥२०८॥

हे दैत्य! तुम्हारे इस स्तोत्र से मैं अब सर्वथा सन्तुष्ट हूँ। इसलिए मेरे गणों के अधिपति होकर तुम सर्वदा मेरे निकट वास करो।

आरोगश्छिन्नसंदेहो देवैरपि सुपूजितः।

नदीश्वरस्यानुचरः सर्वदुःखविवर्जितः॥२०९॥

(त्रिशूल के अग्रभाग से) छिन्नशरीर हुए भी तुम रोगरहित रहोगे। तुम देवों से अच्छी प्रकार पूजित होकर नन्दीश्वर का अनुचर बनकर समस्त दुःखों में वर्जित होकर रहोगे।

एवं व्याहृतमात्रे तु देवदेवेन देवताः।

गणेश्वरं महादैत्यपथकं देवसन्निवो॥२१०॥

इस प्रकार महादेव के कहने मात्र से ही देवताओं ने महादैत्य अन्धक को देवों के समीप गणेश्वररूप स्वीकार किया।

सहस्रसूर्यसङ्कलशं त्रिनेत्रं चंद्रचिह्नितम्।

नीलकण्ठं जटामौलिं शूलाशक्तं महाकरम्॥२११॥

उस समय वह सहस्र सूर्यों के समान प्रकाशित, त्रिनेत्रधारी तथा चन्द्रमा से शोभित था। उनका कंठ नीला एवं जटाजूट-धारी था। वह शूल से विद्ध था और उसके हाथ विशाल थे।

दृष्ट्वा तं तुष्टुर्वुदैत्यमाश्रयं परमज्ञताः।

उवाच भगवान् विष्णुर्देवदेवं स्मयन्निवो॥२१२॥

ऐसे उस दैत्य को देखकर देवगण परम आश्चर्य में पड़कर उसकी स्तुति करने लगे। तब भगवान् विष्णु ने मुस्कराते हुए, महादेव से कहा।

स्थाने तव महादेव प्रभावः पुरयो महान्।

नेक्षते ज्ञातिजान् दोषान् गृह्णाति च गुणानपि॥२१३॥

हे महादेव! आपका प्रभाव एक महान् पुरुष जैसा है। वह ज्ञातिजनित दोषों को नहीं देखता, अपितु गुणों को ही ग्रहण करता है।

इतीरितोऽथ भैरवो गणेशदेवपुङ्गवः।

सकेशवः सहायको जगाम शङ्करांतिकम्।

निरीक्ष्य देवमागतं सप्रह्वरः सहायकम्।

समायत्वं समातृकं जगाम निर्वृतिं हरः॥२१४॥

इस प्रकार कहने पर गणों के अधिपति देवश्रेष्ठ भैरव विष्णु और अन्धक सहित महादेव के निकट पहुँच गये। नारायण, अन्धक और मातृकाओं के साथ आये हुए कालभैरव को देखकर शंकर परम शांति को प्राप्त हुए।

प्रगृह्य पाणिनेश्वरो हिरण्यलोचनात्मजं

जगाम यत्र शैलजा विमानमीशवत्सना॥

विलोक्य सा समागतं पतिं भवार्तिहारिणम्।
उवाच सान्धकं सुखं प्रसादमन्धकप्रति॥ २१५॥

तब महादेव ने हिरण्याक्षपुत्र अन्धक को हाथ से पकड़कर वहाँ गये जहाँ शिववल्लभा पार्वती विमान में विराजमान थीं। भववाधा को दूर करने वाले पति शिव को अन्धक के साथ आये हुए देखकर पार्वती ने अन्धक के प्रति अनुग्रहपूर्वक यह वचन कहा।

अन्धकको महेश्वरीं ददर्श देवपार्ष्वगां
पपात दण्डवत् क्षितीं ननाम पादपश्ययोः।
नमामि देववल्लभामनादिमद्भिर्जामिमां
यतः प्रधानपुरुषीं निहन्ति याखिलज्जगत्॥ २१६॥

अनन्तर महादेव के पास स्थित महेश्वरी पार्वती को देखकर अन्धक पृथ्वी पर दण्डवत् गिर गया और उनके चरणकमलों में प्रणाम करने लगा। (वह बोला—) जिनसे प्रकृति और पुरुष उत्पन्न होते हैं और जो सम्पूर्ण जगत् का संहार करती हैं, उस अनादि शिवप्रिया पार्वतीजी को मैं प्रणाम करता हूँ।

विधाति या शिवासने शिवेन साकमव्यया।
हिरण्यवेऽतिनिर्मले नमामि तां द्विमाद्भिर्जाम्।
यदन्तराखिलज्जगज्जगन्ति यान्ति संक्षयं
नमामि यत्र तामुमामशेषदोषवर्जिताम्॥ २१७॥

जो अविनाशिनो देवी शिवजी के साथ अत्यन्त निर्मल सुवर्णमय शिवासन पर शोभित हो रही हैं, उन पार्वती को मैं नमस्कार करता हूँ। जिनके भीतर यह सम्पूर्ण जगत् अस्तित्व एवं संहार को प्राप्त करते हैं, उन सकल दोष रहित उमा देवी को प्रणाम करता हूँ।

न जायते न हीयते न वद्धति च तामुमां
नमामि तां गुणातिगां गिरीशपुत्रिकायामाम्।
क्षमस्व देवि शैलजे कृतं मया विमोहितं
सुरासुरैर्नमस्कृतं नमामि ते पदाम्बुजम्॥ २१८॥

जिनका जन्म, ह्रास और वृद्धि नहीं होती, उन गुणातीत हिमालय कन्या को प्रणाम करता हूँ। हे शैलजे! मैंने मोहित होकर ऐसा आचरण किया, मेरा अपराध क्षमा करें। देवों और असुरों से नमस्कृत आपके चरणकमल को नमस्कार करता हूँ।

इत्थं भगवती देवी भक्तिनम्रेण पार्वती।
संस्तुता दैत्यपतिना पुत्रत्वे जगृहेऽन्धकम्॥ २१९॥

इस प्रकार भक्ति से नम्र होकर दैत्य ने भगवती पार्वती देवी की स्तुति की। तब भगवती ने अन्धक को अपने पुत्र के रूप में स्वीकार कर लिया।

ततः स मातृभिः सार्द्धं भैरवो रुद्रसम्भवः।
जगाम त्वज्ञया शम्भोः पातालं परमेश्वरः॥ २२०॥
यत्र सा तामसी विष्णोमूर्तिः संहारकारिका।
समासते हरिरव्यक्तो नृसिंहाकृतिरीश्वरः॥ २२१॥

तदनन्तर रुद्रोत्पन्न भैरव परमेश्वर शंकर की आज्ञा से मातृका देवियों के साथ पाताल में चले गये। जहाँ वह संहार करने वाली तामसी नृसिंहाकृतिरूप विष्णुमूर्ति रहती है, और हरि स्वयं अव्यक्तरूप से रहते हैं।

ततोऽनन्ताकृतिः शम्भुः शेषेणापि सुपूजितः।
कालाग्निरुद्रो भगवान् युजोजात्मानमात्मनि॥ २२२॥

तदनन्तर अनन्त आकृति वाले शंकर की शेषनाग ने भी पूजा की। तब भगवान् कालाग्निरुद्र ने अपने स्वरूप को अपने आत्मरूप में ही योजित कर दिया अर्थात् भैरवस्वरूप को समेट लिया।

युञ्जतस्तस्य देवस्य सर्वा एवाथ मातरः।
बुभुक्षिता महादेवं प्रणम्याहुस्त्रिलोचनम्॥ २२३॥

भैरवदेव के योगलौन हो जाने पर सभी मातायें क्षुधापीडित होकर त्रिलोचन महादेव को प्रणाम करके कहने लगीं।

मातर ऊचुः

बुभुक्षिता महादेव त्वमनुजानुमर्हसि।
त्रैलोक्यं भक्षयिष्यामो नान्यथा तृप्तिरस्ति नः॥ २२४॥

मातायें बोली— हे महादेव! हम भूखी हैं। आप आज्ञा दें। तीनों लोक को हम खा जायेंगी, अन्यथा हमारी तृप्ति नहीं होगी।

एतावदुक्त्वा वचनं मातरो विष्णुसम्भवाः।
भक्षयाञ्छिक्रे सर्वं त्रैलोक्यं सचराचरम्॥ २२५॥

इतना कहकर विष्णु से उत्पन्न वे मातृकार्णै समस्त चराचर सहित तीनों लोकों का भक्षण करने लगीं।

ततः स भैरवो देवो नृसिंहवपुषं हरिम्।
दृष्यौ नारायणदेवं प्रणम्य च कृताञ्जलिः॥ २२६॥

तदुपरान्त उन भैरवदेव ने नृसिंह शरीरधारी हरि का ध्यान करके हाथ जोड़कर नारायण देव को प्रणाम किया।

उपेशचिन्तितं ज्ञात्वा क्षणात्प्रादुरभूद्धरिः।
 विज्ञापयामास च तं भक्षयन्तीह मातरः॥ २२७॥
 निवारयाशु त्रैलोक्यं त्वदीया भगवन्निति।
 संस्मृता विष्णुना देव्यो नृसिंहवपुषा पुनः।
 उपतस्थुर्महादेवं नरसिंहाकृतिं ततः॥ २२८॥

शंकर को चिन्ता जानकर हरि तत्क्षण प्रकट हो गये और उनसे निवेदन किया कि आपसे प्रकट हुई ये मातायें यहाँ तीनों लोकों को खा रहीं हैं। हे भगवन्! इन्हें शीघ्र रोको। तब पुनः नृसिंहशरीरधारी विष्णु के द्वारा स्मरण किये जाने पर वे देवियाँ नरसिंहाकृतिवाले महादेव के पास गयीं।

सम्प्राप्य सन्निधिं विष्णोः सर्वसंहारकारिकाः।
 प्रददुः शम्भवे शक्तिं भैरवापातितेजसे॥ २२९॥

विष्णु का सात्रिध्य पाकर सब का संहार करने वाली देवियों ने अत्यन्त तेजस्वी भैरवरूप शंभु को अपनी शक्ति प्रदान की।

अपश्यंस्ता जगत्सृतिं नृसिंहपतिभैरवम्।
 क्षणादेकत्वमापन्नं शेषाहिं चापि मातरः॥ २३०॥

उन माताओं ने उस समय देखा कि जगत् के उत्पादक ब्रह्मा, अत्यन्त भीषणरूप वाले नृसिंह तथा अनन्त शेषनाग क्षणभर में ही एक हो गये।

व्याजहार हृषीकेशो ये भक्ताः शूलपाणये।
 ये च मां संस्मरन्तीह पालनीयाः प्रयत्नतः॥ २३१॥

उस समय हृषीकेश-विष्णु ने कहा था कि जो शूलपाणि शंकर के भक्त हैं और जो मेरा स्मरण करते हैं, वे हमारे लिए प्रयत्नपूर्वक पालन करने योग्य हैं।

ममैव मूर्तिरतुला सर्वसंहारकारिका।
 महेश्वरांगसंभृता भुक्तिमुक्तिप्रदायिनी॥ २३२॥

क्योंकि सबका संहार करने वाली यह अतुल्य भैरव की मूर्ति मेरी ही है, भले ही वह महेश्वर के अंग से उत्पन्न है। यह (भक्तों को) भुक्ति और मुक्ति दोनों को देने वाली है।

अनन्तो भगवान् कालो द्विधावस्था ममैव तु।
 तामसी राजसो मूर्तिर्देवदेवश्चतुर्मुखः॥ २३३॥

इस प्रकार भगवान् अनन्त (शेषनाग) और कालभैरव ये दोनों अवस्थाएँ मेरी ही हैं। यह मेरी तामसी मूर्ति है और देवों के देव चतुर्मुख ब्रह्मा राजसी मूर्ति है।

सोऽहं देवो दुराधर्षः काले लोकप्रकालनः।
 भक्षयिष्यामि कल्पान्ते रौद्रेण निखिलं जगत्॥ २३४॥

वह मैं देव दुराधर्ष विष्णु, काल आने पर कल्पान्त के समय लोकप्रकालन (भयानक) रौद्ररूप से सम्पूर्ण जगत् का भक्षण करूँगा (इसलिए अभी इसका भक्षण न करो)।

या सा विमोहिनी मूर्तिर्मम नारायणाद्भ्या।
 सत्वोद्भक्ता जगत्सर्वं संस्थापयति नित्यदा॥ २३५॥

जो मेरी नारायण नाम की मोहिनी मूर्ति है, वह सत्त्वगुण की अधिकता से युक्त है अतः यह नित्य सम्पूर्ण जगत् को स्थिर रखती है।

स विष्णुः परमं ब्रह्म परमात्मा परा गतिः।
 मूलप्रकृतिरव्यक्ता सदानन्देति कथ्यते॥ २३६॥

वही विष्णु परम ब्रह्म, परमात्मा, परागति, अव्यक्त मूलप्रकृति होने से सदानन्दा कही जाती है।

इत्येवं बोधिता देव्यो विष्णुना विष्णुमातरः।
 प्रपेदिरे महादेवं तमेव शरणं परम्॥ २३७॥

इस प्रकार विष्णुमाता देवियों को विष्णु ने समझाया था, तब वे उन्हीं श्रेष्ठ महादेव विष्णु की शरण में आ गई थीं।

एतद् कथितं सर्वं मयायकनिषूदनम्।
 माहात्म्यं देवदेवस्य भैरवस्यामितीजसः॥ २३८॥

इस प्रकार मैंने अन्धक का विनाश वाला सम्पूर्ण कथानक तथा अमित तेजस्वी देवदेव भैरवरूप शंकर का माहात्म्य भी आपको को बता दिया।

इति श्रीकूर्मपुराणे पूर्वभागे अथकनिवर्हणं नाम

सूत उवाच-

अथके निगृहीते वै प्रह्लादस्य महात्मनः।
 विरोचनो नाम बली बभूव नृपतिः सुतः॥ १॥

सूत बोले— इस प्रकार अन्धकासुर के दण्डित होने पर (बाद में गाणपत्य प्राप्त होने से) महात्मा प्रह्लाद का बलवान् पुत्र विरोचन नाम का राजा हुआ।

देवाञ्जित्वा सदेवेन्द्रान् बहून्वर्षान्महासुरः।
 पालयामास धर्मेण त्रैलोक्यं सचराचरम्॥ २॥

महासुर विरोचन ने इन्द्र सहित देवताओं को जीतकर बहुत वर्षों तक चराचर सहित तीनों लोकों का धर्मपूर्वक पालन किया।

तस्यैव वर्तमानस्य कदाचिद्विष्णुचोदितः।

सनत्कुमारो भगवान् पुरं प्राप महामुनिः॥३॥

उसके इस प्रकार रहते किसी समय विष्णु द्वारा प्रेरित महामुनि भगवान् सनत्कुमार असुरराज के नगर में पहुँचे।

गत्वा सिंहासनगतो ब्रह्मपुत्रं महासुरः।

ननामोत्थाय सिरसा प्राञ्जलिर्वाक्यमब्रवीत्॥४॥

सिंहासन पर आसीन महासुर ने उठकर उस ब्रह्मपुत्र के समीप जाकर शिर से प्रणाम किया तथा हाथ जोड़कर मुनि को यह वाक्य कहा।

धन्योऽस्यनुगृहीतोऽस्मि सम्प्राप्तो मे पुरोत्तमम्।

योगीश्वरोऽद्य भगवान्यतोऽसौ ब्रह्मवित्स्वयम्॥५॥

उस कल्माषपाद के क्षेत्र में (स्वयं प्रजोत्पत्ति में असमर्थ होने से) महान् तेजस्वी वसिष्ठ ने अश्मक नामक पुत्र को उत्पन्न किया था, जो इश्वाकु कुल के ध्वजरूप में प्रतिष्ठित हुआ। अश्मक की उत्कला नाम की भार्या में नकुल नामक

पुत्र राजा हुआ, जो राजा राम के भय से दुःखी होकर वन में चला गया था। वहाँ भी उसने नारी कवच (स्त्री-वेप) धारण किया था। उस नकुल से शतरथ नामक पुत्र हुआ था। उससे इलिविलि हुआ था और फिर उससे श्रीमान् वृद्धशर्मा उसका पुत्र हुआ था।

भरतो लक्ष्मणश्चैव शत्रुघ्नश्च महाबलः।

सर्वे शक्रसभा युद्धे विष्णुशक्तिसमान्विताः॥१७॥

रघु से अज और अज से राजा दशरथ उत्पन्न हुए। इन महाराज दशरथ से ही दाशरथि राम परमवीर और धर्मज्ञ रूप में लोक में प्रख्यात हुए। राम के अतिरिक्त भरत-लक्ष्मण और अति महान् बलवान् शत्रुघ्न भी हुए थे। वे सभी विष्णु की शक्ति से समन्वित होने से युद्ध में इन्द्र के समान थे।

तपसा तोषिता देवी जन्केन गिरीन्द्रजा॥१९॥

प्रायच्छञ्जानकीं सीतां राममेवाश्रितां पतिम्।

विश्वभोक्ता साक्षात् विष्णु ही अपने अंश से रावण के नाश के लिए उत्पन्न हुए थे। राम की भार्या परम भाग्यवती राजा जनक की शुभ आत्मजा सीता नाम से तीनों लोकों में विख्यात हुई थी। वह शील और औदार्य गुणों से समन्वित थी। क्योंकि राजा जनक ने तप द्वारा हिमालयपुत्री पार्वती देवी को प्रसन्न किया था इसलिए पार्वती ने सीता जनक को पुत्ररूप में दी थी, और सीता अपने पतिरूप में राम के आश्रित हुई।

देवो वा दानवो वापि स सीतां लब्धुमर्हति।

नीललोहित त्रिशूलधारी भगवान् शंकर ने भी परम प्रसन्न होकर शत्रुओं के नाश के लिए एक अद्भुत धनुष जनक को प्रदान किया था। हे द्विजश्रेष्ठो! उस बुद्धिमान् राजा जनक ने अपनी पुत्री को प्रदान करने की इच्छा की थी। तब शत्रुओं का नाश करने वाले राजा जनक ने पृथ्वी पर ऐसी घोषणा की कि जो कोई पुरुष इस (शिव) धनुष को उठाने में समर्थ होता है, वह देव या दानव कोई भी हो सीता को प्राप्त कर सकता है।

उद्ववाहाथ तां कन्यां पार्वतीमिव शंकरः॥२४॥

रामः परम्यर्मात्मा सेनामिव य घण्मुखः।

ऐसी प्रतिज्ञा को जानकर बलवान् प्रभु श्रीराम ने जनक के घर जाकर उस धनुष को लीलामात्र में ही तोड़ दिया। उसके बाद जैसे पार्वती को शंकर ने और कार्तिकेय ने सेना से विवाह किया, उसी तरह परम धर्मात्मा श्रीराम ने उस कन्या के साथ विवाह किया।

इसके अनन्तर बहुतसा समय व्यतीत हो जाने पर राजा दशरथ ने स्वयं ही अपने ज्येष्ठ पुत्र वीर राम को राजा बनाने की इच्छा की। तब इनकी पत्नी सौभाग्यवती और सुन्दर हास्ययुक्त स्वभाववाली कैकेयी भ्रमित मन होकर अपने पति को रोका और कहा—

मत्सुतं भरतं वीरं राजानं कर्तुमारभत्॥२७॥

पूर्वमेव वरी यस्मात्तौ मे भवता यतः।

स तस्या वचनं श्रुत्वा राजा दुःखितमानसः॥२८॥

आप मेरे वीर पुत्र भरत को राजा बनाने के योग्य हैं। क्योंकि आपने मुझे पहले ही दो वरदान प्रदान किये थे। राजा दशरथ उसका वचन सुनकर मन से अति दुःखी होने लगा।

बाढमित्युद्धवीहाक्यं तथा रामोऽपि धर्मवित्।

प्रणाम्याथ पितुः पादौ लक्ष्मणेन सहाच्युतः॥२९॥

ययौ वनं सपत्निकः कृत्वा समयमात्पवान्।

किन्तु दुःखित होते हुए भी वचन बढ़ता के कारण उस राजा ने 'बहुत अच्छा' ऐसा कहा और धर्मवेत्ता राम ने भी यही कहा था। अच्युत (मर्यादा से च्युत न होने वाले) श्रीराम ने लक्ष्मण को साथ लेकर पिता के चरणों में प्रणाम किया और वे जितेन्द्रिय राम समय (१४ वर्ष के समय की प्रतिज्ञा) करके पत्नी के साथ वन गये।

दुःखशोकापिसन्तप्तौ बभूवुररिन्दमौ।

इस प्रकार महाबली भगवान् प्रभु ने लक्ष्मण के साथ वहाँ वन में चौदह वर्षों तक निवास किया था। किसी समय जब वे वन में वास कर रहे थे, रावण नामधारी राक्षस ने परिव्राजक के वेष में आकर सीता देवी का हरण किया और अपनी नगरी में चला गया। श्रीराम और लक्ष्मण ने सीता को वहाँ पंचवटी में न देखकर बहुत व्याकुल हो उठे और वे शत्रुओं का नाश करने वाले थे, फिर भी दुःख और शोक से संतप्त हो गये।

हे द्विजोत्तमो! फिर किसी समय अक्लिष्ट कर्म वाले श्रीराम का कपि सुग्रीव तथा वानरों के साथ मित्रता हो गई थी। उसमें भी जो सुग्रीव का एक अनुगामी वायु का पुत्र और महान् तेजस्वी वीर हनुमान नामधारी वानर था, वह तो सदा श्रीराम के अत्यन्त प्रिय हो गये थे। हनुमान ने परम धैर्य धारण करके श्रीराम के आगे यह निहय करके कहा था कि मैं सीताजी को अवश्य लाऊँगा। इतना कहकर उसने सीता का दर्शन करने में तत्पर होकर सागरपर्यन्त समस्त भूमण्डल में विचरण किया था।

और वे सागर के मध्य संस्थित रावण की नगरी लङ्कापुरी में पहुँच गये थे। वहाँ पर एक वृक्ष के मूल में निर्जन प्रदेश में हनुमान् ने निर्मल और शुचिस्मिता सीताजी को देखा जो राक्षसियों से चिरो हुई थीं। उनके नेत्र अश्रुओं से डबडबाये हुए थे, फिर भी देखने वाले को प्रिय लगती थीं। राम का स्मरण करती हुई वे निर्देष लग रही थीं। वे मन में इन्दीवर के समान श्यामवर्ण वाले श्रीराम तथा लक्ष्मण का चिन्तन कर रही थी। एकान्त पाकर हनुमान् ने सीताजी को अपना परिचय दिया था।

संशय के निवारण के लिए उन्होंने श्रीराम की अंगूठी सीताजी को दी थी। उस समय अपने स्वामी की वह परम सुन्दर अंगूठी को देखकर प्रीति से विस्फुरित नेत्रों वाली सीताजी ने श्रीराम को ही आया हुआ मान लिया। उस समय सीताजी को देखकर हनुमान् ने उन्हें आश्चस्त किया और कहा कि मैं आपको महाबाहु श्रीराम के समीप में ले जाऊँगा— इतना कहकर ही वे फिर श्रीराम के समीप चले गये थे। जितेन्द्रिय हनुमान् ने श्रीराम से सीता देवी के दर्शन की बात बताकर लक्ष्मण के द्वारा पूजित होते हुए श्रीराम के आगे खड़े हो गये।

सेतुमध्ये महादेवपीशानं कृत्तिवाससम्॥४६॥
 स्वापयामास लिङ्गस्य पूजयामास राघवः।

इसके पश्चात् बलशाली श्रीराम ने लक्ष्मण और हनुमान के साथ उस राक्षस से युद्ध करने के लिए विचार किया था। सैकड़ों वानरों के द्वारा उस महोदधि पर सेतु बनाकर लंका जाने का मार्ग बनाया। तत्पश्चात् परम धर्मात्मा प्रभु राम ने रावण का वध कर दिया था और पत्नी, पुत्र तथा भाइयों सहित सभी का वध करके शत्रुनाशन श्रीराम वायु के पुत्र हनुमान् की सहायता से देवी सीता को वापस लाये थे। उन्होंने समुद्र के मध्य निर्मित सेतु के नीचे कृत्तिवासा ईशान महादेव का लिङ्ग स्थापित किया था। उसके बाद राघव श्रीराम ने महादेव की पूजा की थी।

 महापातकसंयुक्तास्तेषां पापं विनश्यति।
 अन्यानि चैव पापानि स्नातस्वात्र महोदधौ॥४९॥

उसके बाद पार्वती के साथ महादेव शङ्कर देव श्रीराम के समक्ष प्रत्यक्ष हुए थे। भगवान् ने श्रीराम को एक उत्तम वरदान दिया था कि आपने जो यह मेरे लिङ्ग की स्थापना की है, उसका सभी द्विजातिगण दर्शन करेंगे। उनमें जो भी कोई महापातकी भी होगा तो उसका भी सम्पूर्ण पाप नष्ट हो जायेगा। इसी प्रकार जो मनुष्य वहाँ महासागर में स्नान करेगा, उसके अन्य भी समस्त पापों का नाश हो जायेगा।

 यावत्सेतुश्च तावच्च स्वास्याप्यत्र तिरोहितः।
 स्नानं दानं तपः श्राद्धं सर्वं भवतु चाक्षयम्॥५१॥

उस रामेश्वर के लिङ्ग का दर्शन करने से ही सब पापों का नाश हो जाता है— इसमें लेशमात्र भी संशय नहीं है। जब तक ये पर्वतों का समुदाय और यह भूमि स्थित रहेंगे और जिस समय तक यह सेतु स्थित रहेगा मैं तिरोहित होकर यहीं पर वर्तमान रहूँगा। यहाँ पर किया हुआ स्नान-दान-तप और श्राद्ध सभी कुछ शुभकर्म अक्षय होगा।

स्मरणादेव लिङ्गस्य दिनपापं प्रणश्यति।

 सनन्दी सगणो रुद्रसत्रैवान्तरधीयत।
 रामोऽपि पालयायास राज्यं धर्मपरायणः॥५३॥

उस लिङ्ग के स्मरणमात्र से ही दिनभर का किया हुआ पाप नष्ट हो जाता है। इतना कहकर भगवान् शम्भु ने श्रीराम को गले लगा लिया था। फिर नन्दी और गणों के सहित ही भगवान् रुद्र वहाँ पर अन्तर्धान हो गये थे। फिर धर्मपरायण श्रीराम ने भी राज्य का पालन किया था।

कृतौजश्च चतुर्वीर्यभूक्तार्तवीर्यस्तथार्जुनः॥१८॥

दुर्दम का पुत्र धीमान् तथा शक्तिमान् अन्धक हुआ। अन्धक के चार लोकप्रसिद्ध पुत्र हुए— कृतवीर्य, कृतानि, कृतवर्मा और चौथा कृतौज। कृतवीर्य का कार्तवीर्यार्जुन नामक पुत्र हुआ।

सहस्रबाहुद्युतिमान्धनुर्वेदविदां वरः।

तस्य रामोऽभवन्मृत्युर्जामदग्न्यो जनाईनः॥१९॥

वह सहस्र भुजाओं से युक्त, द्युतिमान् तथा धनुर्वेदवेत्ताओं में श्रेष्ठ था। जमदग्नि के पुत्र भगवान् परशुराम उसकी मृत्यु का कारण बने।

शूरश्च शूरसेन्श्च कृष्णो धृष्णस्तथैव च।

जयध्वजश्च बलवान्नारायणपरो नृपः॥२१॥

कार्तवीर्यार्जुन के सौ पुत्र हुए थे, जिनमें पाँच महारथी, अस्त्र चलाने में निपुण, बली, वीर, धर्मात्मा और मनस्वी थे। उनके नाम थे— शूर, शूरसेन, कृष्ण, धृष्ण और जयध्वज। इनमें जयध्वज बलवान् तथा नारायण की भक्ति में परायण था।

शूरसेनादयः पूर्वं चत्वारः प्रथितौजसः।

रुद्रभक्ता महात्मानः पूजयन्ति स्म शङ्करम्॥२२॥

शूरसेन आदि प्रथम चार राजा प्रसिद्ध पराक्रमी, रुद्रभक्त और महात्मा थे। वे शंकर की उपासना करते थे।

जयध्वजस्तु मतिमान्देवं नारायणं हरिम्।

जगाम शरणं विष्णुं दैवतं धर्मतत्परः॥२३॥

बुद्धिमान् एवं धर्मपरायण जयध्वज भगवान् नारायण हरि के शरणापन्न हो विष्णु देवता की उपासना करता था।

तपुधुरितरे पुत्रा नायं धर्मस्तवानघ।

ईश्वराराधनरतः पितास्माकमिति श्रुतिः॥ २४॥

उससे अन्य पुत्रों ने कहा— हे निष्पाप! तुम्हारा यह धर्म नहीं है। हमारे पिताजी शंकर की आराधना में निरत रहते थे, ऐसा सुना जाता है।

तानद्भवीन्महातेजा ह्येष धर्मः परो मम।

विष्णोरंशेन सम्भूता राजानो ये महीतले॥ २५॥

उससे महातेजा जयध्वज ने कहा— यह मेरा परम धर्म है। पृथ्वी पर जितने राजा हुए हैं, वे विष्णु के अंश से उत्पन्न हुए हैं।

राज्यं पालयितावश्यं भगवान्पुरुषोत्तमः।

पूजनीयोऽजितो विष्णुः पालको जगतां हरिः॥ २६॥

भगवान् पुरुषोत्तम राज्य का अवश्य पालन करेंगे। संसार के पालक हरि एवं अपराजेय विष्णु ही पूजनीय हैं।

सात्त्विकी राजसी चैव तामसी च स्वयं प्रभुः।

तिस्रस्तु मूर्तयः प्रोक्ताः सृष्टिस्थित्यन्तहेतवः॥ २७॥

प्रभु की सृष्टि, स्थिति और प्रलय की हेतुभूत तीन प्रकार की मूर्तियाँ हैं— सात्त्विकी, राजसी और तामसी।

सत्त्वात्मा भगवान्विष्णुः संस्थापयति सर्वदा।

सृजेद्ब्रह्मा रजोमूर्तिः संहरेत्तामसो हरः॥ २८॥

सत्त्व स्वरूप भगवान् विष्णु सर्वदा सृष्टि की स्थापना करते हैं। रजोमूर्ति ब्रह्मा सृष्टि करते हैं और तामस महेश संहार करते हैं।

तस्मान्महोपतीनानु राज्यं पालयतापिदम्।

आराध्यो भगवान्विष्णुः केशवः केशिर्मर्दनः॥ २९॥

इसलिए इस राज्य का पालन करते हुए राजाओं के आराध्य केशिहन्ता केशव भगवान् विष्णु हैं।

निज्ञाय तस्य वचनं भ्रातरोऽन्ये मनस्विनः।

प्रोचुः संहारको रुद्रः पूजनीयो मुमुक्षुभिः॥ ३०॥

उसका यह वचन सुनकर दूसरे जो मनस्वी भाई थे वे बोले— जो लोग मोक्ष की इच्छा करते हैं, उन्हें संहारकर्ता रुद्र की पूजा करनी चाहिए।

अयं हि भगवान् रुद्रः सर्वं जगदिदं शिवः।

तमोगुणं समाश्रित्य कालान्ते संहरेत्प्रभुः॥ ३१॥

ये भगवान् रुद्र शिव कालान्त (कल्पान्त) में तमोगुण का आश्रय लेकर इस सम्पूर्ण जगत् का संहार कर देते हैं।

या सा घोरतया मूर्तिरस्य तेजोमयी परा।

संहरेद्विद्यया पूर्वं संसारं शूलभृत्तया॥ ३२॥

उनकी जो अत्यन्त घोरतम तेजोमयी श्रेष्ठ मूर्ति है, उस विद्यास्वरूप मूर्ति द्वारा त्रिशूलधारी शंकर (संहारकाल में) प्रथम संसार का संहार करते हैं।

ततस्तानद्भवीद्राजा विचिन्त्यासौ जयध्वजः।

सत्त्वेन मुच्यते जन्तुः सत्त्वात्मा भगवान्हरिः॥ ३३॥

तदनन्तर राजा जयध्वज ने सोचकर उन लोगों से कहा— सत्त्वगुण से प्राणी मुक्त हो जाता है और भगवान् हरि सत्त्वस्वरूप हैं।

तपुधुर्प्रतिरो रुद्रः सेवितः सात्त्विकैर्जनैः।

मोक्षयेत्सत्त्वसंयुक्तः पूजयेत्सततं हरम्॥ ३४॥

उससे भाइयों ने कहा— सात्त्विक लोग रुद्र की सेवा करते हैं। सत्त्वसंयुक्त जीवात्मा को भगवान् शंकर मुक्त कराते हैं। इसलिए निरन्तर शिव की पूजा करनी चाहिए।

अथाद्भवीद्राजपुत्रः प्रहसन्वै जयध्वजः।

स्वधर्मो मुक्तये मुक्तो नान्यो मुनिभिरिष्यते॥ ३५॥

इसके बाद राजपुत्र जयध्वज ने हँसते हुए कहा— मुक्ति के लिए अपना धर्म समीचीन होता है, दूसरा नहीं— ऐसा मुनियों को अभीष्ट है।

तथा च वैष्णवीं शक्तिं नृपाणान्दधतां सदा।

आराधनं परो धर्मो मुरारेरमितौजसः॥ ३६॥

इसलिए वैष्णवी शक्ति को सदा धारण करते हुए राजाओं के लिए अमित तेजस्वी विष्णु की आराधना करना परम धर्म है।

तमद्भवीद्राजपुत्रः कृष्णो मतिमतां वरः।

वदजुर्नोऽस्मज्जनकः स धर्मं कृतवानिति॥ ३७॥

तब बुद्धिमानों में श्रेष्ठ राजपुत्र कृष्ण ने उससे कहा— हमारे पिता अर्जुन ने जिनका अनुष्ठान किया, वही हमारा धर्म है।

एवं विवादे वित्ते शूरसेनोऽद्भवीद्वचः।

प्रमाणमुषयो ह्यत्र द्युपुस्ते तत्तथैव तत्॥ ३८॥

इस प्रकार विवाद बढ़ जाने पर शूरसेन ने यह वचन कहा— इस विषय में ऋषि लोग ही प्रमाण हैं। वे जो कहें वही हमें करना है।

ततस्ते राजशार्दूलाः पप्रच्छुर्ब्रह्मवादिनः।

यत्वा सर्वे सुसंख्याः समर्षीणां तदाश्रयम्॥ ३९॥

तदनन्तर उन राजश्रेष्ठों ने ब्रह्मावादिनों से पूछा और सब अत्यन्त उत्साहित होकर सर्षपियों के आश्रम में पहुँचे।

तानुवन्स्ते मुनयो वसिष्ठया यथार्थतः।

या यस्याधिपता पुंसः सा हि तस्यैव देवता॥४०॥

वसिष्ठ आदि मुनियों ने उनसे यथार्थतः बताया कि जिस देवता में जिसकी अभिरुचि हो, वही उसका उपास्य देव है।

किन्तु कार्यविशेषेण पूजिता चेष्टदा नृणाम्।

विशेषात्सर्वदा नायं नियमो ह्यन्यथा नृपाः॥४१॥

किन्तु कार्य विशेष से पूजित होने पर देवता मनुष्यों का इष्ट साधन करते हैं। हे नृपगण! कार्यविशेष व्यतीत हो जाने पर सब समय ऐसा हो यह नियम नहीं है।

नृपाणां दैवतं विष्णुस्त्वेश्च पुरन्दरः।

विप्राणामग्निरादित्यो ब्रह्मा चैव पिनाकश्च॥४२॥

राजाओं के देवता विष्णु, शंकर और इन्द्र हैं। ब्राह्मणों के देवता अग्नि, सूर्य, ब्रह्मा और शंकर हैं।

देवानां दैवतं विष्णुर्दानवानां त्रिशूलधृक्।

गन्धर्वाणां तथा सोमो यक्षाणामपि कथ्यते॥४३॥

देवों के देवता विष्णु और दानवों के देवता त्रिशूलधारी (शिव) हैं। चन्द्रमा गन्धर्वों और यक्षों के भी देवता कहे जाते हैं।

विद्याधराणां वाग्देवी सिद्धानां भगवान् हरिः।

रक्षसां शंकरो रुद्रः किन्नराणाञ्च पार्वती॥४४॥

सरस्वती विद्याधरों की और भगवान् हरि सिद्धों के और शंकर रुद्र राक्षसों के देवता माने जाते हैं। पार्वती किन्नरों की देवता हैं।

ऋषीणां भगवान् ब्रह्मा महादेवस्त्रिशूलधृत्।

मान्या स्त्रीणामुमा देवी तथा विष्णुर्विभ्रास्कराः॥४५॥

ऋषियों के देवता भगवान् ब्रह्मा और त्रिशूलधारी महादेव हैं। स्त्रियों के देवता विष्णु, शिव, सूर्य तथा पार्वती देवी हैं।

गृहस्थानाञ्च सर्वे स्युर्वह वै ब्रह्मचारिणाम्।

वैखानसानामर्कः स्वाद्यतीनां च महेश्वरः॥४६॥

गृहस्थों के सभी देवता हैं। ब्रह्मचारियों के देवता ब्रह्मा, वानप्रस्थियों के सूर्य और संन्यासियों के देवता महेश्वर हैं।

भूतानां भगवान् रुद्रः कुष्माण्डानां विनायकः।

सर्वेषां भगवान् ब्रह्मा देवदेवः प्रजापतिः॥४७॥

भूतों के देवता भगवान् रुद्र और कुष्माण्डों (एक प्रकार भूतों की जाति) के देवता विनायक हैं। देवेश्वर प्रजापति भगवान् ब्रह्मा सबके देवता हैं।

इत्येवं भगवान् ब्रह्मा स्वयं देवो ह्यभाषत।

तस्माज्जयध्वजो नूनं विष्णुवाराधनमर्हति॥४८॥

ऐसा भगवान् ब्रह्मा ने स्वयं कहा है। इसलिए जयध्वज निश्चित रूप से विष्णु की आराधना करने के अधिकारी हैं।

किन्तु स्त्रेण तादात्म्यं बुध्वा पूज्यो हरिर्वरैः।

अन्यथा नृपतेः शत्रुं न हरिः सहरेद्यतः॥४९॥

किन्तु रुद्र के साथ विष्णु का तादात्म्य समझकर मनुष्य हरि की आराधना करे। अन्यथा राजा के शत्रु का नाश हरि नहीं करेगा।

सम्प्रणम्याथ ते जग्मुः पुरीं परमशोभनाम्।

पालयाञ्चक्रिरे पृथ्वीञ्चित्वा सर्वान्निपुनणे॥५०॥

अनन्तर वे (राजागण) प्रणाम करके अपनी परम सुन्दर नगरी में चले गये और युद्ध में शत्रुओं को जीतकर पृथ्वी का पालन करने लगे।

ततः कदाचिद्विप्रेन्द्रा विदेहो नाम दानवः।

भोषणः सर्वसत्वानां पुरीं तेषां समाबधौ॥५१॥

हे विप्रेन्द्रगण! तदनन्तर किसी समय सभी प्राणियों के लिए भोषण विदेह नामक दानव उनके नगर में आ पहुँचा।

दंष्टाकरालो दीप्तात्पा युगान्तदहनेपमः।

शूलमादाय सूर्यामं नादयन्वै दिशो दश॥५२॥

वह अपनी दंष्ट्रा से भयंकर, प्रदीप्त शरीर और प्रलयकालिक अग्नि के सदृश दिखाई देता था। सूर्य के समान चमकते हुए त्रिशूल को लेकर दशो दिशाओं को शब्दायमान कर रहा था।

तत्रादश्रवणान्मर्त्यास्तत्र ये निवसन्ति ते।

तस्यजुर्जीवितं त्वन्येदुशुर्भयविह्वलाः॥५३॥

वहाँ जो मनुष्य निवास कर रहे थे, वे उसके नाद को सुनने के कारण प्राणत्याग करने लगे। कुछ लोग भयविह्वल हो भागने लगे।

ततः सर्वे सुसंयताः कार्तवीर्यात्पजास्तदा।

शूरसेनादयः पञ्च राजानस्तु महाबलाः॥५४॥

तब कृतवीर्य के पुत्र शूरसेन आदि पाँच महाबली राजा युद्ध के लिए तैयार हो गये।

युष्पुर्दानवं शक्तिगिरिकूटसिमुद्गरैः।

तान सर्वान् स हि विप्रेन्द्राः शूलेन ग्रहसन्निवाम्॥५५॥

वे शक्ति, गिरिकूट, तलवार तथा मुद्गर लेकर दानव की ओर दौड़े। हे विप्रेन्द्रो! उस दानव ने शूल से मानो परिहास करते हुए उन सबको हतप्रभ कर दिया।

युद्धाय कृतसंरम्भा विदेहं त्वभिदुद्रुवुः।

शूरोऽस्त्रं प्राहिणोऽर्षेन्द्रं शूरसेनस्तु वारुणम्॥५६॥

वे पाँचों राजा युद्ध के लिए उत्साहित होकर आक्रमण करने लगे। शूर ने रौद्र अस्त्र को और शूरसेन ने वारुण अस्त्र को छोड़ा।

प्राजापत्यं तथा कृष्णो वायव्यं धृष्ण एव च।

जयध्वजश्च कौबेरमैत्रमानेयमेव च॥५७॥

कृष्ण ने प्रजापत्य अस्त्र को, धृष्ण ने वायव्य को और जयध्वज ने कौबेर, ऐन्द्र और आग्नेय अस्त्र को चलाया।

भङ्गयामास शूलेन तान्यस्त्राणि स दानवः।

ततः कृष्णो महावीर्यो गदामादाय भ्रौषणाम्॥५८॥

सृष्टमात्रेण तरसा चिक्षेप च ननाद च।

उस दानव ने उन अस्त्रों को अपने शूल से तोड़ दिया। तदनन्तर महाशक्तिशाली कृष्ण ने अपनी भयंकर गदा उठा ली और स्पर्श करते ही उसे वेगपूर्वक फेंक दिया तथा गर्जना करने लगा।

सम्प्राप्य सा गदाऽस्योरो विदेहस्य शिलोपमम्॥५९॥

न दानवञ्जालयितुं ज्ञशाकान्तकसन्निभम्।

दुद्रुवुस्ते भयप्रस्ता दृष्ट्वा तस्यातिपौरुषम्॥६०॥

वह गदा उस विदेह की चट्टान के समान छाती को प्राप्त करके अर्थात् टकराकर भी यमराज के सदृश उस दानव को विचलित न कर सकी। उसके इस अति पौरुष को देखकर राजा लोग भयभीत होकर भाग गये।

जयध्वजस्तु पतिमान् सस्मार जगतः पतिम्।

विष्णुं जविष्णुं लोकादिमप्रमेयमनामयम्॥६१॥

त्रतारं पुरुषं पूर्वं श्रीपतिं पीतवाससम्।

ततः प्रादुरभूद्यत्कं सूर्यायुतसमप्रभम्॥६२॥

परन्तु बुद्धिमान् जयध्वज ने जगत् के पति, जयशील, लोक के आदि, अप्रमेय, अनामय, रक्षक, पूर्वपुरुष, लक्ष्मीपति, पीताम्बर विष्णु का स्मरण किया। तब दस हजार सूर्य के समान चमकने वाला सुदर्शन चक्र प्रकट हुआ।

आदेशाद्वासुदेवस्य भक्तानुग्रहणान्तदा।

जग्राह जगतां योनिं स्मृत्वा नारायणं नृपः॥६३॥

भक्तों पर अनुग्रह करने के लिए वासुदेव की आज्ञा से आये हुए उस चक्र को राजा ने जगत् के उत्पत्तिस्थान नारायण का स्मरण करने के उपरान्त ग्रहण कर लिया।

प्राहिणोऽहं विदेहाय दानवेभ्यो यथा हरिः।

सम्प्राप्य तस्य घोरस्य स्कन्धदेशं सुदर्शनम्॥६४॥

पृथिव्यां पातयामास शिरोऽग्निशिखराकृति।

तस्मिन् हते देवरिपौ शूराश्चा भ्रातरौ नृपाः॥६५॥

उसने विदेह दानव पर चक्र को छोड़ा जैसे विष्णु दानवों पर छोड़ते हैं। उस भयंकर दानव के स्कन्धप्रदेश को पाकर चक्र ने पहाड़ की चोटी के समान उसके सिर को भूमि पर गिरा दिया। उस देवशत्रु के मारे जाने पर राजा शूर आदि प्रसन्न हुए।

तद्धि चक्रं पुरा विष्णुस्तपसाराध्य शंकरम्।

यस्मादवाप ततस्मादसुराणां विनाशकम्॥६६॥

सूतजी ने कहा— प्रभु माधव ने इस प्रकार से बड़े ही भक्तिभाव से देवेश्वर की स्तुति की और हे विभ्रो! उन देव और देवी के चरणों में उन्होंने दण्डवत् प्रणाम किया।

उत्थाप्य भगवान् सोमः कृष्णं केशिनिषूदनम्।

बभाषे मधुरं वाक्यं मेघगम्भीरनिःस्वनः॥७९॥

मेघ के तुल्य गम्भीर ध्वनि वाले भगवान् सोम ने केशिनिषूदन कृष्ण को उठाकर मधुर वचन कहा।

किमर्थं पुण्डरीकाक्ष तप्यते भवता तपः।
त्वमेव दाता सर्वेषां कामानां कर्मणामिह॥८०॥

शम्भु ने कहा— हे पुण्डरीकाक्ष! आप किस प्रयोजन हेतु ऐसा कठोर तप कर रहे हैं? इस संसार में आप स्वयं ही सम्पूर्ण कर्मों के फलों तथा कामनाओं के प्रदाता हैं।

त्वं हि सा परमा मूर्तिर्मम नारायणाह्वया।
न विना त्वां जगत्सर्वं विद्यते पुरुषोत्तम॥८१॥

आप वही मेरी नारायण नाम वाली परम मूर्ति हैं। हे पुरुषोत्तम! आपके बिना इस सम्पूर्ण जगत् की विद्यमानता ही नहीं है।

वेत्थ नारायणानन्तमात्मानं परमेश्वरम्।
महादेवं महायोगं स्वेन योगेन केशव॥८२॥

हे नारायण! हे केशव! आप अनन्तात्मा-परमेश्वर महादेव और महायोग को अपने ही योग के द्वारा जानते हैं।

श्रुत्वा तद्ब्रह्मणं कृष्णः प्रहसन्वै वृषभध्वजम्।
उवाचाऽन्वीक्ष्य विश्वेशं देवीञ्च हिमशैलजाम्॥८३॥

श्रीकृष्ण ने उनके इस वचन को सुनकर हँसते हुए वृषभध्वज विश्वेश तथा हिम शैलजादेवी को देखकर कहा।

ज्ञातं हि भवता सर्वं स्वेन योगेन शङ्कर।
इच्छाम्यात्पस्यं पुत्रं त्वद्भक्तं देहि शङ्कर॥८४॥

हे शङ्कर! आपने अपने योग से सभी कुछ जान लिया है। मैं अपने ही समान आपका भक्त पुत्र प्राप्त करना चाहता हूँ उसे आप प्रदान कीजिए।

तथास्त्वित्याह विश्वात्मा प्रहृष्टमनसा हरः।
देवीमात्सोक्य गिरिजां केशवं परिष्वजे॥८५॥

फिर विश्वात्मा हर ने बहुत ही प्रसन्न मन से कहा था— तथास्तु-अर्थात् ऐसा ही होवे। फिर गिरजा देवी की ओर देखकर केशव श्रीकृष्ण का आलिङ्गन किया था।

ततः सा जगतां माता शङ्करार्द्धशरीरिणी।
व्याजहार हृषीकेशं देवी हिमगिरीन्द्रजा॥८६॥

इसके उपरान्त भगवान् शङ्कर की अर्द्धाङ्गिनी, जगत् की माता, हिमगिरि की पुत्री पार्वती देवी ने हृषीकेश कृष्ण से इस प्रकार कहा था।

अहं जाने तवानन्तं निष्कलां सर्वदाच्युत।
अनन्यामीश्वरे भक्तिमात्मन्यपि च केशव॥८७॥

हे अनन्त! हे केशव! हे अच्युत! मैं आपकी ईश्वर के प्रति अनन्य निश्चल भक्ति को सर्वदा जानती हूँ और जो मुझ में है, वह भी जानती हूँ।

त्वं हि नारायणः सक्षात्सर्वात्मा पुरुषोत्तमः।
प्रार्थितो दैवतैः पूर्वं सञ्जातो देवकीसुतः॥८८॥

(मैं जानती हूँ कि) आप साक्षात् नारायण सर्वात्मा पुरुषोत्तम हैं। देवताओं द्वारा पहले प्रार्थना की गई थी, इसीलिए देवकी के पुत्ररूप में आपने जन्म ग्रहण किया है।

पश्य त्वमात्मानमात्मानं मम सम्प्रति।
नावयोर्विद्यते भेद एकं पश्यन्ति सुरयः॥८९॥

सम्प्रति आप अपनी ही आत्मा से अपने को और मुझे भी उस आत्मा में देखो। हम दोनों में कोई भेद नहीं है। विद्वान् लोग हम दोनों को एक ही देखते हैं।

इमानिह वरानिष्टान्तो गृह्णीष्व केशव।
सर्वज्ञत्वं तथैश्वर्यं ज्ञानं तत्पारमेश्वरम्॥९०॥

ईश्वरे निष्कलां भक्तिमात्मन्यपि परं बलम्।

फिर भी हे केशव! आप मुझसे अभीष्ट वरदानों को ग्रहण करें। सर्वज्ञता, ऐश्वर्य, परमेश्वर सम्बन्धी ज्ञान, ईश्वर में निश्चल भक्ति और आत्मा में भी परम बल— ये सभी ग्रहण करो।

एवमुक्तस्तथा कृष्णो महादेव्या जनार्दनः॥९१॥
आदेशं शिरसा गृह्य देवोऽप्याह तथेश्वरम्।

महादेवी पार्वती देवी के द्वारा इस प्रकार कहने पर जनार्दन श्रीकृष्ण ने उनके आदेश को शिर से ग्रहण किया। तब देव शंकरने भी उसी प्रकार से ईश्वर को आशीर्वाद कहे।

प्रगृह्य कृष्णं भगवान्श्वेशः
करेण देव्या सह देवदेवः।

सम्पूज्यमानो मुनिभिः सुरैः-

जंगाम कैलासगिरिं गिरीशः॥९२॥

इसके अनन्तर देवी के साथ ही देवों के देव भगवान् ईश ने अपने हाथ से कृष्ण को पकड़कर मुनियों और देवेश्वरों के द्वारा भली-भाँति पूजित होते हुए वे गिरीश शंकर कैलास पर्वत को चले गये।

वहाँ पर एक रत्नजटित भवन में देवाधिदेव शम्भु के निकट आसन पर विराजमान देवकीपुत्र हरि गोविन्द को उन्होंने देखा।

उस समय मधुर स्वर में विविध वाद्ययन्त्र बजने लगे। हजारों शंख गूँज उठे और बीणा से निकलती ध्वनि सभी दिशाओं में फैल गई।

प्रविष्टमात्रे गोविन्दे पुरीं द्वारवतीं शुभाम्।

अगायन्मधुरं गानं स्त्रियो यौवनशोभिताः॥ ३८॥

गोविन्द के उस शुभ द्वारवती पुरी में प्रवेश करते ही युवती स्त्रियां मधुर गीत गाने लगीं।

वरासने महायोगी भाति देवीभिरन्वितः॥ ४०॥

इस प्रकार आशीर्वाददि से संवर्धित होकर भगवान् कृष्ण ने नगरी में प्रवेश किया और वहाँ उत्तम आसन पर विराजमान होते हुए वे महायोगी देवियों के साथ अत्यन्त सुशोभित हुए।

सुरम्ये मण्डपे शुभ्रे शङ्खाद्यैः परिवारितः।

आजगमुर्देवगन्धर्वा द्रष्टुं लोकादिमव्ययम्।

महर्षयः पूर्वजाता मार्कण्डेयादयो द्विजाः॥ ४३॥

हे द्विजगण! उस समय देव, गन्धर्व, पूर्वजात मार्कण्डेयादि महर्षिगण उन लोकादि, अविनाशी प्रभु को देखने के लिए आ गये।

ततः स भगवान् कृष्णो मार्कण्डेयं सपागतम्।

ननापोत्थाय शिरसा स्वासनञ्च ददौ हरिः॥ ४४॥

तब भगवान् कृष्ण हरि ने वहाँ पर आये हुए मार्कण्डेयजी को शिर झुकाकर प्रणाम किया और उन्हें आसन प्रदान किया।

तदनन्तर देवदेव हरि ने मध्याह्न के समय स्नान करके श्वेत वस्त्र धारण कर हाथ जोड़कर सूर्य की उपासना की।

प्रविश्य देवभवनं मार्कण्डेयेन चैव हि।

पूजयामास लिङ्गस्वयं भूतेशं भूतिभूषणम्॥४८॥

उसी प्रकार मार्कण्डेय ऋषि ने भी देवभवन में प्रवेश करके भस्मरूप आभूषण वाले, लिङ्गस्वरूप, भूतपति महादेव की पूजा की।

समाप्य नियमं सर्वं नियन्ता स स्वयं नृणाम्।

भोजयित्वा मुनिवरं ब्राह्मणानभिपूज्य च॥४९॥

कृत्वात्मयोगं विप्रेन्द्रा मार्कण्डेयेन चाच्युतः।

कथां पौराणिकीं पुण्यां चक्रे पुत्रादिभिर्वृतः॥५०॥

हे विप्रेन्द्रो! मनुष्यों के स्वयं नियन्ता प्रभु ने सभी कर्म नियमपूर्वक समाप्त करके मुनिवर को भोजन कराकर और ब्राह्मणों का अभिवादन करके स्वयं भी अच्युत ने आत्मयोग— अपना कार्य संपादन करके पुत्रादि के साथ बैठकर मार्कण्डेय मुनि के साथ पवित्र पौराणिक कथा की।

अथैतत्सर्वमखिलं दृष्ट्वा कर्म महामुनिः।

मार्कण्डेयो हसन्कृष्णं वभाषे मधुरं वचः॥५१॥

अनन्तर महामुनि मार्कण्डेय ने यह सारा नित्यकर्म देखकर हैसते हुए कृष्ण से ये मधुर वचन कहे।

मार्कण्डेय उवाच

कः समाराध्यते देवो भक्ता कर्मभिः शुभैः।

बृहि त्वं कर्मभिः पूज्यो योगिनां ध्येय एव च॥५२॥

त्वं हि तत्परमं ब्रह्म निर्वाणमपमलं पदम्।

भासावतरणार्थाय जातो वृष्णिकुले प्रभुः॥५३॥

मार्कण्डेय बोले— इन शुभ कर्मों द्वारा आप किस देवता की आराधना कर रहे हैं? बताने की कृपा करें। आप तो स्वयं इन कर्मों द्वारा पूज्य और योगियों के लिए ध्येय हैं। आप ही वह परम ब्रह्म हैं, जो मोक्षरूप निर्मल पद हैं। आप प्रभु तो वृष्णिकुल में पृथ्वी का भार उतारने के लिए उत्पन्न हुए हैं।

तमब्रवीन्महाबाहुः कृष्णो ब्रह्मविदां वरः।

शृण्वतामेव पुत्राणां सर्वेषां प्रहसन्निव॥५४॥

तब उन सभी पुत्रों के सुनते हुए ही ब्रह्मविदों में श्रेष्ठ महाबाहु कृष्ण ने हैसते हुए से उन मुनि से कहा—

श्रीभगवानुवाच

भवता कथितं सर्वं सत्यमेव न संशयः।

तथापि देवमीशानं पूजयामि सनातनम्॥५५॥

श्रीभगवान् ने कहा— आपने जो कुछ भी कहा, वह सब सत्य है, इसमें संशय नहीं है। तथापि मैं सनातन देव ईशान (शंकर) की पूजा करता हूँ।

न मे विप्रास्ति कर्तव्यं नानवाप्तं कथञ्चन।

पूजयामि तथापीशं जानन्वै परमं शिवम्॥५६॥

हे विप्र! मेरे लिए न तो कुछ करने को है और न मुझे कुछ अप्राप्त ही है, तथापि यह जानते हुए भी मैं परम शिव ईश की पूजा करता हूँ।

न वै पश्यन्ति ते देवं मायया मोहिता जनाः।

तवश्रीवात्मनो मूलं ज्ञापयन् पूजयामि तम्॥५७॥

न च लिङ्गवर्धनात्पुण्यं लोके दुर्गतिसाक्षनम्।

तथा लिङ्गे हितार्थेषां लोकानां पूजयेच्छिवम्॥५८॥

माया से मोहित लोग उन देव (शंकर) को नहीं देख पाते हैं। परन्तु मैं अपने कारण का परिचय देते हुए उनका पूजन करता हूँ। इस संसार में लिङ्गवर्धन से अधिक पुण्यदायक कुछ भी नहीं है, वही दुर्गति का नाश करने वाला है। इस प्रकार प्राणियों के हित की कामना से लिङ्ग में शिव की पूजा करनी चाहिए।

योऽहं तल्लिङ्गमित्याहुर्वेदवाद्बिदो जनाः।

ततोऽहमात्ममीशानं पूजयाम्यात्मनैव तत्॥५९॥

यह लिङ्ग मेरा ही स्वरूप है, ऐसा वेदशास्त्रों के ज्ञाता सज्जन कहते हैं। इसीलिये मैं अपने ही आत्मस्वरूप ईशान की पूजा करता हूँ।

तस्यैव परमा मूर्तिस्तन्मयोऽहं न संशयः।

नावयोर्विद्यते भेदो वेदेवेतन्न संशयः॥६०॥

मैं उन्हीं की परमा मूर्ति हूँ, मैं ही शिवमय हूँ, इसमें कोई संदेह नहीं। हम दोनों में कोई भेद विद्यमान नहीं है, यह बात वेदों में प्रतिपादित है, इसमें थोड़ा भी संशय नहीं है।

एष देवो महादेवः सदा संसारभीरुभिः।

याज्यः पूज्यश्च वन्द्यश्च ज्ञेयो लिङ्गे महेश्वरः॥६१॥

संसार में भयभीत मनुष्यों द्वारा यही देव महादेव सदा याज्य, पूज्य और वन्दनीय हैं। इस लिङ्ग में महेश्वर को ही प्रतिष्ठित जानना चाहिये।

मार्कण्डेय उवाच

किं तल्लिंगं सुरश्रेष्ठ लिङ्गे संपूज्यते च कः।

बृहि कृष्ण विशालाक्ष गहनं ह्येतदुत्तमम्॥६२॥

श्रीमार्कण्डेय मुनि ने पूछा— हे सुरश्रेष्ठ! यह लिङ्ग क्या है और लिङ्ग में किस की पूजा होती है? हे विशाल नेत्रों वाले कृष्ण! आप इस गूढ़ एवं उत्तम विषय को कहें।

श्रीभगवानुवाच

अव्यक्तं लिङ्गमित्याहुरानन्दं ज्योतिरक्षयम्।

वेदा महेश्वरं देवमाहुर्लिङ्गिनमव्ययम्॥६३॥

श्रीभगवान् ने कहा— अक्षय, ज्योतिःस्वरूप, अव्यक्त आनन्द को ही लिङ्ग कहा गया है और वेदशास्त्र अविनाशी महेश्वर देव को लिङ्गी (लिङ्ग का धारणकर्ता) कहते हैं।

पुरा चैकार्णवे घोरे नष्टे स्वावरजंगमे।

प्रबोधार्थं ब्रह्मणो मे प्रादुर्भूतो महाशिवः॥६४॥

तस्मात्कालात्समारभ्य ब्रह्मा चाहं सदैव हि।

पूजयाधो महादेवं लोकानां हितकाम्यया॥६५॥

प्राचीन काल में जब स्थावर-जङ्गम के नष्ट हो जाने पर सर्वत्र जल व्याप्त होकर एक ही समुद्ररूप हो गया था, तब ब्रह्मा और मुझे प्रबोधित करने के लिये वहां शिव का प्रादुर्भाव हुआ। उसी समय से लोकों के कल्याण की इच्छा से ब्रह्मा तथा मैं दोनों ही सदा महादेव की पूजा करते हैं।

मार्कण्डेय उवाच

कथं लिङ्गमभूत्पूर्वमैश्वरं परमं पदम्।

प्रबोधार्थं स्वयं कृष्ण वक्तुमर्हसि साम्प्रतम्॥६६॥

श्रीमार्कण्डेयजी बोले— हे कृष्ण! अब हमें यह बतायें कि पूर्वकाल में आप लोगों को प्रबोधित करने के लिए वह ईश्वरीय परम पदरूप लिङ्ग स्वयं प्रकट कैसे हुआ?

श्रीभगवानुवाच

आसीदेकार्णवं घोरमविभागं तमोनयम्।

पठे चैकार्णवे तस्मिञ्छुचक्रगदाधरः॥६७॥

सहस्रशीर्षा भूत्वाहं सहस्राक्षः सहस्रपात्।

सहस्रबाहुः पुरुषः शयितोऽहं सनातनः॥६८

श्रीभगवान् ने कहा— जब विभागरहित, तमोमय, घोर एकमात्र अर्णव ही था, तब उस एकार्णव के बीच शंख, चक्र-गदाधारी, हजारों सिर, हजारों आँखें, हजारों पाद, और हजारों बाहु वाला सनातन मैं शयन कर रहा था।

एतस्मिन्ननरे दूरे पश्यामि स्थापितप्रभम्।

निमेषमात्रेण स मां प्राप्तो योगविदां वरः।

व्याजहार स्वयं ब्रह्मा स्मयमानो महाद्युतिः॥७१॥

इसी अन्तराल में मैंने दूर पर स्थित अमित प्रभा वाले, करोड़ों सूर्य के समान आभा वाले, प्रकाशमान, शोभासम्पन्न, महायोगी, चतुर्मुख, संसार के कारण, पुराण पुरुष, कृष्णमृग का चर्म धारण किये हुए, शूक्ल, यजुः तथा सामवेद द्वारा स्तुति किये जाते हुए ब्रह्मदेव को देखा। क्षणभर में ही वे योगवेत्ताओं में श्रेष्ठ, महाद्युति ब्रह्मा मुस्कराते हुए स्वयं मेरे समीप आकर बोले।

कस्त्वं कुतो वा किञ्चेह तिष्ठसे वद मे प्रभो।

अहं कर्ता हि लोकानां स्वयम्भूः प्रपितामहः॥७२॥

हे प्रभो! आप कौन हैं, कहाँ से आये हैं और किस कारण यहाँ स्थित हैं? आप मुझे बताने की कृपा करें। मैं लोकों का जन्मदाता स्वयम्भू पितामह ब्रह्मा हूँ।

एवमुक्तस्तदा तेन ब्रह्मणाहमुवाच ह।

कालानलसमप्रख्यं ज्वालामालासमाकुलम्।

क्षयवृद्धिविनिर्मुक्तमादिमध्वान्तवर्जितम्॥७५॥

उन ब्रह्मा के ऐसा कहने पर मैंने उनसे कहा— मैं पुनः-पुनः लोकों की सृष्टि करने वाला हूँ और उसका संहार करने वाला हूँ। परमेष्ठो की माया के कारण इस प्रकार का विवाद बढ़ जाने पर (हम लोगों को) यथार्थ स्थिति का ज्ञान कराने के लिये उस समय शिवस्वरूप परम लिङ्ग का प्रादुर्भाव हुआ। वह लिङ्ग प्रलयकालीन अग्नि के समान अनेक ज्वाला-मालाओं से व्याप्त, क्षय एवं वृद्धि से मुक्त और आदि, मध्य तथा अन्त से रहित था।

ततो मामाह भगवान्यो गच्छ त्वमाशु वै।
अन्तमस्य विजानीष्व ऊर्ध्वं गच्छेऽहमित्यजः॥७६॥
तदाशु समयं कृत्वा गतामूर्ध्वं पश्य तौ।
पितामहोऽप्यहं नान्तं ज्ञातवन्तौ समेत्य तौ॥७७॥

तव भगवान् शिव ने मुझ से कहा— तुम शीघ्र ही (लिङ्ग के) नीचे की ओर जाओ और इसके अन्त का पता लगाओ और ये अजन्मा ब्रह्मा ऊपर की ओर जायें। तदनन्तर शीघ्र ही प्रतिज्ञा करके हम दोनों ऊपर तथा नीचे की ओर गये, किन्तु पितामह तथा मैं दोनों ही उसका अन्त नहीं जान पाये।

ततो विस्मयमापन्नौ भीतौ देवस्य शूलिनः।

प्रोचरन्तौ महानादमोङ्कारं परमं पदम्।
तं ब्रह्मलिपुटौ भूत्वा शम्भुं तुष्टुवतुः परम्॥७९॥

तदनन्तर त्रिशूलधारी देव की माया से मोहित हम दोनों भयभीत एवं आश्चर्यचकित हो गये और उन विश्वरूप ईश्वर का ध्यान करने लगे। फिर परमपद महानाद ओंकार का उच्चारण करते हुए दोनों हाथ जोड़कर प्रणाम करते हुए परम शम्भु की स्तुति करने लगे।

इस प्रकार स्तुति किये जाने पर महायोगी महेश्वर देव प्रकट होकर करोड़ों सूर्य के समान सुशोभित होने लगे। वे हजारों-करोड़ों मुखों से मानों आकाश को अपना ग्रास बना रहे थे। हजारों हाथ और पैर वाले, सूर्य, चन्द्रमा तथा अग्निरूप (तौन) नेत्रन वाले, पिनाकपाणि, व्याघ्रचर्मरूप बख्तधारी, त्रिशूलधारी, सर्प का यज्ञोपवीत धारण करने वाले और मेघ तथा दुन्दुभि के सदृश स्वर वाले थे।

• महादेव ने कहा— हे श्रेष्ठ देवो! मैं प्रसन्न हूँ। मुझ महादेव का दर्शन करो और समस्त भय का परित्याग करो। पूर्वकाल में मेरे ही शरीर से तुम दोनों सनातन (देव) उत्पन्न हुए थे। मेरे दक्षिण पार्श्व में ये लोक पितामह ब्रह्मा, वाम पार्श्व में पालनकर्ता विष्णु और हृदय में शंकर स्थित हैं।

हे मुनिश्रेष्ठ! इस प्रकार कहकर भगवान् महादेव मुझ पर तथा ब्रह्मा पर अनुग्रह करके वहाँ पर अन्तर्धान हो गये। ब्रह्मन्! तब से लोक में लिङ्गपूजा की प्रतिष्ठा हुई। यह जो लिङ्ग कहा जाता है, वह ब्रह्म का श्रेष्ठ शरीर है।

हे अनघ! मैंने इस लिङ्ग का माहात्म्य तुम्हें बताया। इसे योगज्ञ ही जानते हैं। न देवता जानते हैं न दानव। यही एक शिव नाम वाला अव्यक्त परम ज्ञान है। ज्ञान-दृष्टि वाले इसी के द्वारा उस सूक्ष्म अचिन्त्य (तत्त्व) का दर्शन करते हैं। इस लिङ्गस्वरूप देवाधिदेव महादेव भगवान् रुद्र को हम नित्य नमस्कार करते हैं।

वेद के रहस्यरूप आपको नमस्कार है, नीलकण्ठ को नमस्कार है। विशेष भय उत्पन्न करने वाले, शान्त, स्थाणु तथा कारणरूप को नमस्कार है। वामदेव, त्रिलोचन, महिमावान्, ब्रह्म, शंकर, महेश, गिरीश तथा शिव को नमस्कार है। इन्हें निरन्तर नमस्कार करो, मन से महेश्वर का ध्यान करो। इससे शीघ्र ही संसार सागर से पार हो जाओगे।

इस प्रकार वासुदेव के द्वारा कहे जाने पर मुनि श्रेष्ठ (मार्कण्डेय) ने विश्वतोमुख देव ईशान (शंकर) का ध्यान किया। श्रीकृष्ण को विनयपूर्वक प्रणाम कर उनकी आज्ञा प्राप्त कर महामुनि (मार्कण्डेय) त्रिशूल धारण करने वाले देवाधिदेव के अभीष्ट स्थान को चले गये।

सूतजी बोले— तदनन्तर महेश्वर से वर प्राप्त किये हुए कृष्ण ने जाम्बवती से महात्मा साम्ब नामक श्रेष्ठ पुत्र को उत्पन्न किया और प्रद्युम्न का भी महाबली अनिरुद्ध नामक पुत्र हुआ। गुणसम्पन्न वे दोनों कृष्ण का ही दूसरा शरीर थे।

कंस, नरक आदि सैकड़ों असुरों को मारकर और लीलापूर्वक इन्द्र को जीत कर तथा महामुर बाण को पराजित कर, सम्पूर्ण जगत् को प्रतिष्ठित कर और लोक में शाश्वत धर्मों को स्थापित करके नारायण ने अपने धाम जाने का उत्तम विचार किया।

विधात्मा (कृष्ण) ने बुद्धिमान् बलराम के साथ आसनों पर उपविष्ट भृगु आदि महर्षियों को प्रणाम और अभिवादन करके उनसे कहा— हे मुनीश्वरो! सभी कार्य किये जा चुके हैं। अब मैं विष्णुसंज्ञक अपने उस परमधाम को जाऊँगा, आप लोग प्रसन्न हो।

इस समय अशुभ घोर कलियुग आ गया है। इसमें सभी लोग पाप का आचरण करने वाले हो जायेंगे। हे श्रेष्ठ ब्राह्मणो! आप लोग अज्ञानियों के लिये हितकारी इस विशेष ज्ञान का प्रचार करें, जिससे ये सब कलि द्वारा उत्पन्न पापों से मुक्त होंगे।

जो लोग इस कलियुग में मुझ प्रभु का एक बार भी स्मरण करेंगे, पुरुषोत्तम में भक्तियुक्त हुए उनका पाप नष्ट हो जायेगा। हे ब्राह्मणो! जो कलियुग में भक्तिपूर्वक और वैदिक विधि से नित्य मेरा अर्चन करेंगे, वे मेरे पद को प्राप्त करेंगे।

जो हजारों ब्राह्मण आप लोगों के वंश में जन्म लेंगे, कलियुग में उनकी नारायण में भक्ति होगी। नारायण में भक्तिनिरत लोग उस सर्वोत्तम पद को प्राप्त करते हैं, किन्तु जो महेश्वर से द्वेष करते हैं, वे वहाँ नहीं जा सकेंगे। जो उस महेश्वर की निन्दा करते हैं, उनका ध्यान, योग, तप, ज्ञान और यज्ञादि विधि सभी कुछ शीघ्र ही नष्ट हो जाता है।

जो नित्य एकान्त भाव में आश्रय ग्रहण कर मेरी अर्चना करता है, परन्तु देव ईशान की निन्दा करता है, वह दस हजार वर्षों तक नरक में पड़ा रहता है। इसलिये हे द्विजो! मन, वाणी तथा कर्म से पशुपति तथा मेरे भक्तों की भी निन्दा का यत्नपूर्वक त्याग करना चाहिये।

जो द्विजोत्तम दक्ष प्रजापति के यज्ञ में दधीच के द्वारा शापग्रस्त हुए कलियुग में भक्तों द्वारा उनका भी यत्नपूर्वक परिहार कर देना चाहिए। आपके कुल में उत्पन्न जो ब्राह्मण महादेव ईशान-शंकर से द्वेष करने वाले हैं, और गौतम ऋषि के द्वारा शापग्रस्त होकर पृथ्वी पर उत्पन्न हुए हैं, उनसे भी श्रेष्ठ ब्राह्मणों को बात नहीं करनी चाहिए।

हे द्विजोत्तमो! भगवान् व्यास के द्वारा ऐसा कहने पर शत्रु के पुर को जीतने वाले कुन्तीपुत्र अर्जुन ने इन्हें प्रणाम कर युगधर्मों को पूछा। सत्यवती के पुत्र व्यासमुनि ने भगवान् शंकर को प्रणाम कर सम्पूर्ण सनातन युगधर्मों को उन्हें बतला दिया।

व्यासजी बोले— नरेश्वर! पार्ष्व! संक्षेप में युग धर्मों को तुम्हें बतलाता हूँ, मैं विस्तार से वर्णन नहीं कर सकता हूँ। पार्ष्व! विद्वानों द्वारा पहला कृतयुग कहा गया है, तदनन्तर दूसरा त्रेतायुग, तीसरा द्वापर तथा चौथा कलियुग कहा गया है। कृतयुग में ध्यान, त्रेता में ज्ञान, द्वापर में यज्ञ तथा कलियुग में एकमात्र दान ही श्रेष्ठ साधन बताया गया है।

त्रिपादहीनसिद्धेनु सत्तामात्रेण तिष्ठति।

कृतयुग में ब्रह्मा देवता होते हैं, इसी प्रकार त्रेता में भगवान् सूर्य, द्वापर में देवता विष्णु और कलियुग में महेश्वर रुद्र ही मुख्य देवता हैं। ब्रह्मा, विष्णु तथा सूर्य— ये सभी कलियुग में पूजित होते हैं, किन्तु पिनाकधारी भगवान् रुद्र

चारों युगों में पूजे जाते हैं। सर्वप्रथम कृतयुग में सनातन धर्म चार चरणों वाला था, त्रेता में तीन चरणों वाला तथा द्वापर में दो चरणों से स्थित हुआ, किन्तु कलियुग में धर्म तीनों पादों से रहित होकर केवल सत्तामात्र से स्थित रहता है।

कृतयुग में (स्त्री-पुरुष के संयोगजन्य) मैथुनी सृष्टि होती थी और लोगों की आजीविका साक्षात् लोभरहित रहती थी। समस्त प्रजा सर्वदा सात्त्विक आनन्द से तृप्त और भोग से सम्पन्न रहती थीं। हे पुरंजय! उन प्रजाओं में उत्तम और अधम का भेद नहीं था, सभी निर्विशेष थे। उस कृतयुग की प्रजा में आयु, सुख और रूप समान था। सम्पूर्ण प्रजा शोक से रहित, अनेक तत्त्वों से युक्त, एकान्तप्रेमी, ध्याननिष्ठ, तपोनिष्ठ तथा महादेव की भक्ति में संलग्न थी। परंतप! वे प्रजाएँ निष्काम कर्म करने वाली, सदा प्रमुदित मनवाली और बिना घर के पर्वतों एवं समुद्र के समीप वास करने वाली थीं।

सर्वः प्रत्युपयोगस्तु तासां तेभ्यः प्रजायते ॥ २१ ॥

हे द्विजो! तदनन्तर काल के प्रभाव से इस त्रेता नामक युग में आनन्दोत्लास नष्ट हो गया था, उसमें सिद्धि का लोप होने पर अन्य सिद्धि प्रवर्तित हुई। जलों का सुख समाप्त हो जाने पर मेघात्मना ने मेघ और विद्युत् से वर्षा की सृष्टि की। पृथ्वी तल पर एक बार ही उस वृष्टि का संयोग होने से उन प्रजाओं के लिये गृह-संज्ञक वृक्षों का प्रादुर्भाव हुआ। उन (वृक्षों) से ही उनके उपयोग की सभी वस्तुएँ उनसे ही प्राप्त होने लगीं।

प्रणश्यन्ति ततः सर्वे वृक्षास्ते गृहसंज्ञिताः।

इस प्रकार त्रेता युग के प्रारम्भ में वह समस्त प्रजा उन वृक्षों से ही जीवन निर्वाह करती थी। तदनन्तर बहुत काल व्यतीत होने पर उन प्रजाओं में विपर्यय के कारण अनायक ही राग और लोभ का भाव उत्पन्न हो गया। पुनः उनमें तत्काल के प्रभाव से विपर्यय आ जाने के कारण वे गृहसंज्ञक सभी वृक्ष नष्ट हो गये।

तब उन (वृक्षों) के नष्ट हो जाने पर वह मैथुनी प्रजा विघ्नान्त हो गईं। तब सत्य युग को याद करते हुए वे सभी प्रजाजन उस पूर्वोक्त सिद्धि का ध्यान करने लगे। ऐसा करने से वे लुप्त गृह-संज्ञक वृक्ष पुनः प्रादुर्भूत हो गये।

वृक्षांस्तान् पर्यगृह्णन् मधु वा माक्षिकं बलात्।

वे वस्त्रों, आभूषणों तथा फलों को उत्पन्न करने लगे। उन प्रजाओं के लिये उन वृक्षों के प्रत्येक पत्र पुटों में गन्ध, वर्ण और रस से समन्वित, बिना मधु-मक्खियों के बना हुआ महान् शक्तिशाली मधु उत्पन्न होने लगा। उसीसे त्रेतायुग के आरम्भ में समस्त प्रजा जीवन-निर्वाह करती थीं। उस सिद्धि के कारण वे सारी प्रजाएँ हृष्ट-पुष्ट तथा ज्वर से रहित थीं। तदनन्तर कालान्तर में वे सभी पुनः लोभ के वशीभूत हो गये और वे उन वृक्षों तथा उनसे उत्पन्न अमाक्षिक मधु को बलपूर्वक ग्रहण करने लगे।

वार्त्तायाः साधिका ह्यन्या वृष्टिस्तासां निकामतः।

उनके इस प्रकार पुनः लोभकृत ऐसा व्यवहार करने से वे कल्पवृक्ष कहीं-कहीं मधु के साथ ही नष्ट हो गये। तब वे असह्य शीत, वर्षा एवं ताप से अत्यधिक दुःखी रहने लगे। उन्होंने शीतोष्णादि द्वन्द्वों से पीड़ित होते हुए आवरणों की रचना की। तब मधुसहित कल्प वृक्षों के नष्ट हो जाने पर उन्होंने द्वन्द्वों के निराकरण का उपाय सोचा और आजीविका के साधनों का चिन्तन किया। तदनन्तर त्रेता युग में उन प्रजाओं की आजीविका को साधिका अन्य सिद्धि पुनः प्रादुर्भूत हुई और उनकी इच्छा के अनुकूल वृष्टि हुई।

निरन्तर वृष्टि होने के कारण जो जल नीचे की ओर प्रवाहित हुआ, उससे उनके लिये अनेक स्रोतों तथा नदियों की उत्पत्ति हुई। जब पृथ्वीतल पर बहुत सा जल प्राप्त हो गया तो भूमि और जल का संयोग होने से अनेक प्रकार की औषधियाँ उत्पन्न हो गयीं। बिना जोते-बोये ही विभिन्न ऋतुओं के अनुसार होने वाले पुष्प एवं फलों से युक्त चौदह प्रकार के ग्राम्य एवं जंगली वृक्ष और गुल्म उत्पन्न हो गये। तदनन्तर उन प्रजाओं में सब प्रकार से राग और लोभ व्याप्त हो गया।

यह सब त्रेतायुग के प्रभाव से अवश्यभावी था। तदुपरान्त उन लोगों ने अपनी-अपनी शक्ति के अनुसार बलपूर्वक नदियों, क्षेत्रों, पर्वतों, वृक्षों, गुल्मों तथा औषधियों

पर अधिकार जमाना प्रारम्भ किया। उनके विपरीत आचरण के कारण वे सभी औषधियाँ पृथ्वी में प्रवेश करने लग गयीं।

तब पितामह के आदेश से महाराज पृथु ने पृथ्वी का दोहन किया। तदनन्तर वे सभी प्रजाएँ क्रोधाविष्ट होकर परस्पर एक-दूसरे की वस्तुएँ छीनने लगीं। काल के प्रभाव से उनमें बलात् सदाचार विनष्ट हो गया। यह सब जानकर भगवान् ब्रह्मा ने मर्यादा की प्रतिष्ठा के लिये और ब्राह्मणों के कल्याण के लिये क्षत्रियों की सृष्टि की।

वेदव्यासैश्चतुर्धा च न्यस्यते द्वारपदिषु।

प्रभु ने त्रेतायुग में वर्णाश्रम की व्यवस्था की और पशुहिंसा से वर्जित यज्ञों का प्रवर्तन किया। अनन्तर द्वार में भी लोगों के बुद्धिभेद से राग, लोभ तथा युद्ध होने लगा और अपनी बुद्धि का ही विनिन्द्य मानकर उस समय एक ही वेद चतुष्पादात्मक तथा तीन पादों में विभक्त हो गया। द्वार आदि युगों में वेदव्यास के द्वारा यह वेद चार भागों में उपस्थापित हुआ।

ऋषिपुत्रैः पुनर्वेदा भिद्यन्ते दृष्टिविध्रमैः॥ ४४॥

अवृष्टिर्मरणञ्चैव तथैवान्ये ह्युपद्रवाः॥ ४७॥

ऋषिपुत्रों के द्वारा पुनः दृष्टिभेद से वेदों का विभाजन हुआ। मन्त्र और ब्राह्मणों के विन्यास तथा स्वर एवं वर्ण के विपर्यय के कारण महान् ऋषियों ने वेदों की ऋक्, यजुः एवं साम नामक मन्त्रों की संहिताओं का नामकरण किया।

कहीं-कहीं दृष्टिभेद से समानता की उद्भावनता हुई और हे सुव्रत! उन्होंने ब्राह्मण, कल्पसूत्र, वेदान्त, इतिहास-पुराण और धर्मशास्त्र रचना की। तदनन्तर वहां वर्षा का अभाव, मृत्यु और अनेक उपद्रव भी होने लगे।

दोषाणां दर्शनाच्चैव द्वापरे ज्ञानसम्भवः॥४९॥

मन, वाणी तथा शरीर-सम्बन्धी दुःखों के कारण मनुष्यों को निर्वेद उत्पन्न होता है। फिर निर्वेद के कारण उनमें दुःख से मुक्ति पाने की बुद्धि उत्पन्न होती है और विचार से वैराग्य उत्पन्न होता है। वैराग्य से अपने दोष दिखलायी पड़ते हैं। दोष-दर्शन के कारण द्वापर में ज्ञान उत्पन्न होता है।

द्वापरे व्याकुलीभूत्वा प्रणश्यति कलौ युगे॥५१॥

हे द्विजो! द्वापर में यह वृत्ति रजोगुण और तमोगुण से युक्त हुई। आद्य अर्थात् कृतयुग में धर्म प्रतिष्ठित था, वही त्रेता में भी प्रवर्तित हुआ है। द्वापर में व्याकुल होकर वह धर्म कलियुग में आते-आते नष्ट हो जाता है।

अनेकदोषदुष्टस्य कलैरेको महान् गुणः॥ ३७॥

वह मानव अनायास ही महान् पुण्य प्राप्त कर लेता है। अनेक दोषों से दूषित कलियुग का यह एक महान् गुण है।

यथा रुद्रनमस्कारः सर्वकामफलो ब्रुवः।

अन्यदेवनमस्कारान्न तत्फलमवाप्नुयात्॥ ४०॥

एवंविधे कलियुगे दोषाणामेव शोभनम्।

महादेवनमस्कारो ध्यानं दानपिति क्षुतिः॥ ४१॥

इस प्रकार के कलियुग में दोषों की ही शुद्धि होती है। महादेव को नमस्कार करना ही ध्यान और दान है— ऐसा श्रुति कथन है।

तस्मादनीश्वरानन्यान् त्यक्त्वा देव महेश्वरम्।
समाश्रयेद्विरूपाक्षं यदीच्छेत्परमं परम्॥४२॥

इसलिए यदि परम पद की इच्छा हो तो अन्य अनीश्वर देवों को छोड़कर विरूपाक्ष महेश्वर का आश्रय ग्रहण करना चाहिए।

यत्र तत्र विपन्नस्य गतिः संसारमोक्षणी॥३६॥

परमेश्वरि! प्राणी के लिए तप को पाना दुर्लभ है। परन्तु जहाँ-कहाँ भी काशी में मरने से वह संसार से मुक्ति प्रदान करने वाली गति प्राप्त करता है।

वायुभक्षश्च सततं वाराणस्यां स्थितो नरः।
यदि पापो यदि शठो यदि घाघार्मिको नरः॥५२॥
वाराणसीं समासाद्य पुनाति स कुलत्रयम्।

अन्यत्र भी गंगास्नान, श्राद्ध, दान तथा जप सुलभ है, परन्तु ये सब और व्रत आदि वाराणसी में अत्यन्त दुर्लभ हैं। वाराणसी में नित्य यज्ञ और हवन करे, दान करे और अन्य देवों का अर्चन करे और वायु का भक्षण करता हुआ सतत वाराणसी में रहने वाला नर यदि पापी, शठ और अधार्मिक हो तो भी वह वाराणसी को प्राप्तकर अपने तीन कुलों को पवित्र कर लेता है।

वाराणस्यां महादेवं ये स्तुवन्त्यर्घयन्ति च॥५३॥
सर्वपापविनिर्मुक्तस्ते विज्ञेया गणेश्वराः।

जो लोग वाराणसी में महादेव की स्तुति और पूजा करते हैं, वे समस्त पापों से मुक्त शिव के गणेश्वर हैं, ऐसा जानना चाहिए।

अन्यत्र योगाज्ञानाद्वा संन्यासादथवा अन्यतः॥५४॥
प्राप्यते तत्परं स्थानं सहस्रेणैव जन्मना।
ये भक्ता देवदेवेशे वाराणस्यां वसन्ति वै॥५५॥
ते विदन्ति परं मोक्षमेकेनैव तु जन्मना।
यत्र योगस्तथा ज्ञानं मुक्तिरेकेन जन्मना॥५६॥

दूसरे स्थानों में योग, ज्ञान, संन्यास अथवा अन्य किसी प्रकार से उस परम स्थान को सहस्र जन्मों प्राप्त किया जाता है। परन्तु वे जो देवेश्वर शिव के भक्त वाराणसी में रहते हैं, उन्हें एक ही जन्म में वह परम मोक्ष मिल जाता है, जहाँ योग, ज्ञान और मोक्ष उसी एक जन्म में प्राप्त हो जाते हैं।

अविमुक्तं समासाद्य नान्यद् गच्छेतपोवनम्।
यतो मया न मुक्तं तदविमुक्तमिति स्मृतम्॥५७॥

अविमुक्त क्षेत्र को प्राप्तकर अन्य किसी तपोवन में नहीं जाना चाहिए। क्योंकि यह क्षेत्र मेरे द्वारा मुक्त नहीं हुआ, इसीलिए इसे अविमुक्त कहा गया है।

तदेव गुह्यं गुह्यानामेतद्विज्ञाय मुच्यते।
ज्ञानध्याननिविष्टानां परमानन्दमिच्छताम्॥५८॥
या गतिर्विहिता सुधुसाविमुक्ते पृतस्य तु।

वही क्षेत्र गुह्यों में भी गुह्य है, यह जानकर मनुष्य मोक्ष प्राप्त करता है। हे सुधु! ज्ञान-ध्यान में संलग्न परमानन्द की

प्राप्ति चाहने वालों की जो गति होती है, वही सद्गति अविमुक्त में मरने वाले को मिलती है।

यानि कान्यविमुक्तानि देवैस्तानि नित्यशः॥५९॥
पुरी वाराणसी तेभ्यः स्थानेभ्योऽप्यधिक्य शुभम्।
यत्र साक्षान्महादेवो देहान्तेऽक्षय्यमीश्वरः॥६०॥
व्याचष्टे तारकं ब्रह्म तथैव ह्यविमुक्तकम्।
यत्तत्परतरं तत्त्वमविमुक्तमिति स्मृतम्॥६१॥
एकेन जन्मना देवि वाराणस्यां तदाप्यते।
भूमध्ये नाभिमध्ये च हृदयेऽपि च मूर्द्धनि॥६२॥
यथाविमुक्तमादित्ये वाराणस्यां व्यवस्थितम्।
वरुणायास्तथा ह्यस्या मध्ये वाराणसी पुरी॥६३॥

देवताओं द्वारा जो कोई अविमुक्त स्थान बताये गये हैं, उन सब स्थानों से भी अधिक शुभदायक वाराणसी नगरी है। जहाँ साक्षात् महादेव ईश्वर देहावसान के समय जीव को अक्षय तारक ब्रह्म और अविमुक्त मंत्र का उपदेश करते हैं। देवि! जो परात्पर तत्त्व है वह अविमुक्त कहा गया है। वाराणसी में रहते हुए वह एक ही जन्म में प्राप्त हो जाता है। भौहों के बीच, नाभि के अन्दर, हृदय में, मस्तक में और आदित्यलोक में जिस प्रकार अविमुक्त अवस्थित है उसी प्रकार वाराणसी में है। यह नगरी वरुणा और असी नामक दो नदियों के मध्य विराजमान होने से वाराणसी नाम से प्रसिद्ध है।

तत्रैव संस्थितं तत्त्वं नित्यमेवाविमुक्तकम्।
वाराणस्याः परं स्थानं न भूतं न भविष्यति॥६४॥
यथा नारायणो देवो महादेवादिवेश्वरात्।
तत्र देवाः सगन्धर्वाः सख्यशोरगरक्षसाः॥६५॥
उपास्ते मां सततं देवदेवः पितामहः।

उसी वाराणसी में अविमुक्तक नामक परम तत्त्व नित्य ही संस्थित है। इसीलिए इस वाराणसी से श्रेष्ठ दूसरा स्थान न हुआ है और होगा भी नहीं, जिस प्रकार श्रीनारायण तथा महेश्वर। क्योंकि महादेव से श्रेष्ठ दूसरा कोई देव हुआ ही नहीं है। उस वाराणसी में देव, गन्धर्व, यक्ष, नाग, राक्षस तथा देवदेव ब्रह्मा भी निरन्तर मेरी उपासना करते हैं।

महापातकिनो ये च ये तेभ्यः पापकृत्तयाः॥६६॥
वाराणसीं समासाद्य ते यान्ति परमां गतिम्।
तस्यान्मुमुक्षुर्नित्यतो वसेधामरणान्तिकम्॥६७॥

जो महापातकी हैं और जो उनसे भी अधिक पाप करने वाले हैं, वे वाराणसी को पाकर परम गति को प्राप्त करते हैं।

इसलिए मोक्षाभिलाषी जन मरणपर्यन्त नियमपूर्वक काशी में वास करे।

वाराणस्यां महादेवि ज्ञानं लब्ध्वा विमुच्यते।
किन्तु विघ्ना भविष्यन्ति पापोपहतचेतसाम्॥६८॥

हे महादेवि! वाराणसी में ज्ञान प्राप्त करके जीव विमुक्त हो जाता है। किन्तु पाप से उपहत चित्त वालों को वहाँ विघ्न होते हैं।

ततो नैव चरेत्पापं क्वायेन मनसा गिरा।
एतद्ब्रह्मस्य वेदानां पुराणानां द्विजोत्तमाः॥६९॥

हे द्विजश्रेष्ठो! इसलिए वहाँ शरीर, मन तथा वाणी से भी पाप का आचरण न करे। वेदों तथा पुराणों का यही रहस्य है।

अविमुक्तश्रेयं ज्ञानं न किञ्चिद्द्वेषि तत्परम्।
देवतानामुषीणाञ्च शृण्वतां परमेष्ठिनाम्॥७०॥
देव्यै देवेन कथितं सर्वपापविनाशनम्।

अविमुक्तश्रेयःज्ञान से परतर अन्य कुछ भी मैं नहीं जानता हूँ। देवताओं तथा परमेश्वरी ऋषियों के सुनते हुए ही महादेव ने पावन्तो से सर्वपापविनाशक इस नगरी के विषय में यह कहा था।

यथा नारायणः श्रेष्ठो देवानां पुरुषोत्तमः॥७१॥
यथेश्वराणां गिरीशः स्थानानाञ्छैतदुत्तमम्।

जैसे देवताओं में पुरुषोत्तम नारायण श्रेष्ठ हैं और जैसे ईश्वरों में महादेव श्रेष्ठ हैं वैसे स्थानों में वाराणसी उत्तम है।

यैः समाराधितो रुद्रः पूर्वस्मिन्नेव जन्मनि॥७२॥
ते विन्दन्ति परं क्षेत्रमविमुक्तं शिवालयम्।
कलिकल्मषसम्भूता येषामुपहता मतिः॥७३॥
न तेषां वीक्षितं शक्यं स्थानं तत्परमेष्ठिनः।

जिन्होंने पूर्वजन्म में रुद्र की आराधना की है, वे लोग उत्तम अविमुक्तक्षेत्र शिवधाम को प्राप्त करते हैं। कलियुग के पाप से उत्पन्न जिनकी मति नष्ट हो गई है, वे परमेश्वरी के धाम काशी को देखने में समर्थ नहीं हैं।

ये स्मरन्ति सदा कालं विन्दन्ति च पुरीमिमाम्॥७४॥
तेषां विनश्यति क्षिप्रमिहामुत्र च पातकम्।

जो सर्वदा उसका स्मरण करते रहते हैं और इस पुरी में आकर रहते हैं, उनके इस लोक के और परलोक के समस्त पाप शीघ्र ही नष्ट हो जाते हैं।

यानि चेह प्रकुर्वन्ति पातकानि कृत्वाः॥७५॥

नाशयेतानि सर्वाणि तेन कालतनुः शिवः।

इस शिवालय में रहने वाले कभी कुछ पाप (अज्ञानवश) कर लेते हैं, तो इन सब पापों का कालविग्रही शिव नाश कर देते हैं।

आगच्छतामिदं स्थानं सेवितुं भोक्षकाक्षिणाम्॥७६॥
मृतानां वै पुनर्जन्म न भूयो भवसागरे।
तस्मात्सर्वप्रयत्नेन वाराणस्यां वसेन्नरः॥७७॥
योगी वाप्यथवायोगी पापी वा पुण्यकृतमः।
न लोकवचनान् पित्रोर्न चैव गुरुवादातः॥७८॥
मतिरुक्तमणीया स्यादविमुक्तगतिं प्रति॥७९॥

भोक्ष की कामना से इस स्थान का सेवन करने के लिए आये हुए मनुष्य यदि काशी में ही मर जाते हैं तो, उनका भवसागर में पुनर्जन्म नहीं होता। इसलिए सब प्रकार से प्रयत्नपूर्वक मनुष्य वाराणसी में वास करे, चाहे वह योगी हो अथवा अयोगी, पापी हो या पुण्यकर्मा। न तो लोगों के कहने से, न माता-पिता और न गुरु के कहने से ही आदि मुक्तक्षेत्र में गति लाभ करने के सम्बन्ध में अपनी बुद्धि को लौधना नहीं चाहिए।

यहाँ वह लिङ्ग परम ज्ञानस्वरूप होने से उत्तम पञ्चायतन (शिव, विष्णु, ब्रह्मा, देवी और गणपति)—पाँच देवों का स्थान है। यह मुनियों द्वारा अर्चित और वाराणसी में होने से नित्य मोक्षदायक है।

अत्र साक्षान्महादेवः पञ्चायतनविग्रहः।

यहाँ साक्षात् भगवान् महादेव रुद्र पञ्चायतन (पाँचो देवों का) विग्रह धारण करके रमण करते रहते हैं। वे ही प्राणियों के मोक्षदाता हैं।

ओङ्कारबोधितं लिङ्गं पञ्चायतनमुच्यते॥ ८॥

गोचर्ममात्रं विप्रेन्द्रा ओंकारेश्वरमुत्तमम्॥ ११॥

हे विप्रेन्द्रो! मत्स्योदरी नदी के तट पर एक पुण्यमय, अत्यन्त गोपनीय शुभ स्थान है। वहाँ गोचर्म प्रमाण वाला उत्तम यह ओंकारेश्वर लिङ्ग है। (गोचर्म भूमि का एक मापदण्ड है)

कृत्तिवासेश्वरं लिङ्गं मध्यमेश्वरमुत्तमम्।

विश्वेश्वरं त्र्योङ्कारं कपर्दीश्वरमुत्तमम्॥ १२॥

एतानि गुह्यलिङ्गानि वाराणस्यां द्विजोत्तमाः।

हे द्विजश्रेष्ठो! कृत्तिवासेश्वरलिङ्ग, उत्तम मध्यमेश्वरलिङ्ग, विश्वेश्वरलिङ्ग, ओंकारलिङ्ग तथा उत्तम कपर्दीश्वरलिङ्ग— ये वाराणसी में गुप्त स्थान में स्थापित लिङ्ग हैं। शंकर के अनुग्रह के बिना इस लोक में इन्हें कोई नहीं जानता है।

एवमुक्त्वा ययौ कृष्णः पाराशर्यो महामुनिः।

कृत्तिवासेश्वरं लिङ्गं द्रष्टुं देवस्य शूलिनः॥ १४॥

इस प्रकार कहकर पराशरपुत्र महामुनि कृष्णद्वैपायन व्यास त्रिशूलधारी महादेव के कृत्तिवासेश्वर लिङ्ग को देखने के लिए गये।

शिष्यों के साथ उनकी अर्चना करके ब्रह्मवेत्ताओं में श्रेष्ठ भगवान् व्यास ब्राह्मणों को कृत्तिवास का माहात्म्य बताने लगे।

ब्राह्मणान् हनुमायात येऽत्र नित्यमुपासते॥ १६॥

पूर्वकाल में इस स्थान पर एक दैत्य हाथी का रूप धारण कर शंकर के समीप उन ब्राह्मणों को मारने के लिए आया था, जो यहाँ नित्य उपासना करते थे।

तेषां लिङ्गान्महादेवः प्रादुरासीत् त्रिलोचनः।

निश्चय ही सिद्ध जन ये गीत गाते हैं कि जो ब्राह्मण वाराणसी में वास करते हैं तथा जो कृतिवासलिङ्ग की शरण में जाते हैं, उनकी एक ही जन्म में मुक्ति हो जाती है।

कपर्दीश के आगे मृत्यु को प्राप्त हुई वह बाला मृगी आकाश में सूर्य की प्रभा के समान प्रभावाली महाज्वाला के रूप में दिखाई पड़ी।

तेषां प्रोवाच भगवादेवाग्रे चोपविश्य सः।
कपर्दीश्वस्य माहात्म्यं प्रणम्य वृषभध्वजम्॥ ११॥

भगवान् व्यास महादेव के सामने बैठ गये और वृषभध्वज को प्रणाम करके उन शिष्यों से कपर्दीश का माहात्म्य कहने लगे।

(कपर्दीश का स्मरण करते ही उसके सभी पाप नष्ट हो जाते हैं। कपर्दीश्वर के पूजन से वाराणसी में निवास करने वालों के काम, क्रोध आदि दोष तथा सभी विघ्न समाप्त हो जाते हैं। इसलिए उत्तम कपर्दीश्वर लिङ्ग के दर्शन सदैव करने चाहिए)।

इदं देवस्य तल्लिङ्गं कपर्दीश्वरमुत्तमम्।
पूजितव्यं प्रयत्नेन स्तोत्रव्यं वैदिकैः स्तवैः॥ १२॥

उसने दिनरात पुष्प-धूपादि सहित अनेक स्तुति मंत्रों द्वारा नमस्कार और प्रदक्षिणा करके रुद्ररूपी प्रणव का जप किया।

उस योगात्मा ने नैष्ठिकी दीक्षा प्राप्त करके वहाँ निवास किया। उसने किसी समय वहाँ आये हुए एक क्षुधापीडित प्रेत को देखा, जिसका शरीर मात्र हड्डी और चर्म से आवृत था। वह बार-बार श्वास ले रहा था। उसे देखकर मुनिवर परम कृपालु हो उठे और पूछने लगे— 'आप कौन हैं? किस स्थान से यहाँ पहुँचे हैं? तब भूख से पीड़ित उस पिशाच ने उनसे यह वचन कहा।

कथयिष्यामि ते वत्स तीर्थयात्राविधिक्रमम्।

मार्कण्डेय ऋषि ने कहा— हे वत्स! अब मैं तीर्थयात्रा करने की विधि का जो क्रम है, उसे, आर्षविधान के अनुसार जिस प्रकार देखी गई है और जैसे सुनी है, वैसे तुम्हें बताऊँगा।

प्रयागतीर्थयात्रार्थो यः प्रयाति नरः क्वचित्।

फिर वह उत्तर में कुरुक्षेत्रों में जाकर चिर काल तक आनन्द भोगता है। प्रयाग में स्थित वटवृक्ष का आश्रय प्राप्त कर जो प्राणत्याग करता है, वह स्वर्गलोकोंका अतिक्रमण करके रुद्रलोक को प्राप्त होता है। जहाँ ब्रह्मा आदि देवगण, अपने अधिपति सहित समस्त दिशायेँ, लोकपालसमूह, पितृलोकनिवासी पितृगण, सनत्कुमार आदि ऋषिगण एवं अन्यान्य ब्रह्मर्षि, नाग, सुपर्ण तथा सिद्ध नित्य वास करते हैं और प्रजापति सहित भगवान् विष्णु भी रहते हैं।

गंगायमुनयोर्मध्ये पृथिव्या जघनं स्मृतम्।
प्रयागं राजशार्दूल त्रिषु लोकेषु विश्रुतम्॥१२॥

हे नृपश्रेष्ठ! गंगा और यमुना का संगमस्थल यह प्रयागराज तीर्थ पृथिवी का जघन-स्थल कहा गया है। इसी कारण यह त्रैलोक्य में प्रसिद्ध है।

तत्रापिषेकं यः कुर्यात्सङ्गमे शंसितव्रतः।
तुल्यं फलमवाप्नोति राजसूयाश्वमेधयोः॥१३॥

तो व्रत-नियमपूर्वक वहाँ संगम में स्नान करता है, वह राजसूय और अश्वमेध यज्ञ के बराबर फल भोगता है।

न मातृवचनात्तान् न लोकवचनादपि।

षष्टितीर्थसहस्राणि षष्टिकोट्यस्तथापराः।
तेषां साश्रित्यमत्रैव तीर्थानां कुरुनन्दन॥१५॥

हे तात! इसलिए न तो माता के कहने पर या न अन्य लोगों के कहने पर ही प्रयाग-गमन के प्रति निश्चय को बदलना चाहिए। हे कुरुनन्दन! यहाँ पर साठ हजार तथा साठ करोड़ तीर्थों का साश्रित्य प्राप्त होता है।

या गतिर्व्योग्युक्तस्य संन्यस्तस्य मनीषिणः।
सा गतिस्त्यजतः प्राणान् गङ्गायमुनसङ्गमे॥१६॥

योगी, संन्यासी या मनीषी को जो गति प्राप्त होती है, वही गति गंगा-यमुना के संगम में प्राण त्यागने से मिलती है।

न ते जीवन्ति लोकेऽस्मिन् यत्र तत्र युधिष्ठिर।
ये प्रयागं न सम्प्राप्तास्त्रिषु लोकेषु वञ्चिताः॥१७॥

हे युधिष्ठिर! इस लोक में यत्र-तत्र रहने वाले लोग (वस्तुतः) जीवित नहीं हैं जो प्रयाग को जा नहीं सके हैं। वे तीनों लोकों में वस्तुतः छो गये हैं। (उनका यह मनुष्य जन्म व्यर्थ है ऐसा जानना चाहिए)

एवं दृष्ट्वा तु तत्तीर्थं प्रयागं परमं पदम्।
पुच्यते सर्वपापेभ्यः शशाङ्क इव राहुणा॥१८॥

इस प्रकार उस परम पदरूप प्रयाग का दर्शन करके मनुष्य सभी पापों से मुक्त हो जाता है, जैसे राहु से ग्रस्त चन्द्रमा (मुक्त हो जाता है)।

कम्बलाश्वतरी नागौ यमुनादक्षिणे तटे।
तत्र स्नात्वा च पीत्वा च पुच्यते सर्वपातकैः॥१९॥

यमुना नदी के दक्षिण तट पर कम्बल और अश्वतरी नामक दो नाग रहते हैं। वहाँ पर यमुना में स्नान करके आचमन करने से मनुष्य सभी पापों से मुक्त हो जाता है।

तत्र गत्वा नरः स्नानं महादेवस्य धीमतः।
समस्तांस्तारयेत् पूर्वान्दशास्तीतान् दशावरान्॥२०॥

मनुष्य वहाँ स्नान करके धीमान् महादेव की कृपा से अपने साथ-साथ पूर्वजों की अतीत दस पीढ़ियों तथा भावी दस पीढ़ियों को भी तार देता है।

कृत्वापिषेकं तु नरः सोऽश्वमेधफलं लभेत्।
स्वर्गलोकमवाप्नोति यावदाभूतसंपन्नम्॥२१॥

वहाँ स्नान करके वह नर अश्वमेध यज्ञ का फल प्राप्त करता है और प्रलयकाल पर्यन्त स्वर्गलोक को प्राप्त करता है अर्थात् निवास करता है।

पूर्वपार्श्वे तु गंगायास्त्रैलोक्ये याति मानवः।
अवटः सर्वसामुद्रः प्रतिष्ठानं च विश्रुतम्॥२२॥

गंगा के पूर्वी भाग पर त्रैलोक्य में प्रसिद्ध सर्वसामुद्र (सब समुद्रों का जलवाला) नामक अवट-कूप है एवं प्रतिष्ठान नामक एक तीर्थ प्रसिद्ध है।

ब्रह्मचारी जितक्रोधस्त्रिरात्रं यदि तिष्ठति।
सर्वपापविशुद्धात्वा सोऽश्वमेधफलं लभेत्॥२३॥

यदि मनुष्य वहाँ ब्रह्मचर्यपूर्वक ज़ोधजयी होकर तीन रात तक ठहरता है तो सभी पापों से मुक्त शुद्धात्मा होकर अश्रमेय का फल प्राप्त करता है।

उत्तरेण प्रतिष्ठानं भागीस्थ्यास्तु सव्यतः।

हंसप्रपतनं नाम तीर्थं त्रैलोक्यविश्रुतम्॥ २४॥

अश्रमेयफलं तत्र स्मृतमात्रे तु जायते।

यावच्चन्द्रश्च सूर्यश्च तावत्स्वर्गे महीयते॥ २५॥

प्रतिष्ठान से उत्तर और गंगा से दक्षिण की ओर हंसप्रपतन नामक तीर्थ है जो त्रैलोक्यप्रसिद्ध है। उसका स्मरण करने मात्र से ही अश्रमेय का फल मिल जाता है। वह जब तक सूर्य और चन्द्रमा स्थित हैं तब तक स्वर्ग में पूजित होता है।

उर्वशीपुलिने रम्ये विपुले हंसपाण्डुरे।

परित्यजति यः प्राणाञ्छृणु तस्यापि यत्फलम्॥ २६॥

वहाँ हंस के समान धवल, रमणीय विशाल उर्वशीपुलिन नामक क्षेत्र में जो प्राणत्याग करता है, उसका जो फल है, वह सुन लो।

षष्टिवर्षसहस्राणि षष्टिवर्षशतानि च।

आस्ते स पितृभिः सार्द्धं स्वर्गलोके नराधिप॥ २७॥

हे राजन्! साठ हजार और साठ सौ वर्षों तक वह पितरों के साथ स्वर्ग में रहता है।

अथ सन्ध्यावटे रम्ये ब्रह्मचारी समाहितः।

नरः शुचिरुपासीत ब्रह्मलोकमवाप्नुयात्॥ २८॥

अनन्तर रमणीय सन्ध्यावट के नीचे ब्रह्मचर्य धारण कर, समाहितचित्त होकर पवित्र मन से जो मनुष्य उपासना करता है, वह ब्रह्मलोक को प्राप्त होता है।

कोटितीर्थं समासाद्य यस्तु प्राणान् परित्यजेत्।

कोटिवर्षसहस्राणि स्वर्गलोके महीयते॥ २९॥

जो कोटि नामक तीर्थ में जाकर अपने प्राणों का त्याग करता है, वह हजारों करोड़ों वर्ष तक स्वर्गलोक में पूजित होता है।

यत्र गङ्गा महाभागा बहुतीर्थतपोवना।

सिद्धं क्षेत्रं हि तज्जेवं नात्र कार्या विचारणा॥ ३०॥

क्षितौ तारयते मर्यात्रागांस्तारयतेऽप्यधः।

दिवि तारयते देवांस्तेन सा त्रिपथा स्मृता॥ ३१॥

जहाँ अनेक तीर्थों और तपोवनों से युक्त महासौभाग्ययुता गंगा है, वह सिद्ध क्षेत्र है, इस विषय में विचार नहीं करना चाहिए। यह गंगा पृथ्वी पर मनुष्यों को, पाताल में नागों को

और स्वर्ग में देवों को तार देती है, अतः वह त्रिपथा कहलाती है।

यावदस्वीनि गङ्गायां तिष्ठन्ति पुरुषस्य तु।

तावद्वर्षसहस्राणि स्वर्गलोके महीयते॥ ३२॥

जब तक मनुष्य की अस्थियां गंगा में रहती हैं, उतने हजार वर्ष तक वह स्वर्गलोक में प्रतिष्ठित रहता है।

तीर्थानां परमं तीर्थं नदीनां परमा नदी।

षोडश सर्वभूतानां महापातकिनामपि॥ ३३॥

यह गंगा तीर्थों में परम तीर्थ है और नदियों में उत्तम नदी है। यह सभी प्राणियों तथा महापातकियों के लिए भी मोक्षदायिनी है।

सर्वत्र सुलभा गंगा त्रिषु स्वानेषु दुर्लभा।

गंगाद्वारे प्रयागे च गंगासागरसंगमे॥ ३४॥

गंगा सर्वत्र सुलभ है, किन्तु गंगाद्वार, (हरिद्वार), प्रयाग और गंगासागर के संगम- इन तीन स्थानों में दुर्लभ है—

सर्वेषामेव भूतानां पापोपहृतघेतसाम्।

गतिमन्वेषमाणानां नास्ति गंगासमा गतिः॥ ३५॥

पाप से उपहत चित्तवाले और सद्गति को खोजने (इच्छा) वाले सभी प्राणियों के लिए गंगा के समान अन्य कोई कोई गति नहीं है।

पवित्राणां पवित्रं यन्मङ्गलानाम् मंगलम्।

महेश्वरात्परिघृष्टा सर्वपापहरा शुभा॥ ३६॥

यह पवित्र पदार्थों में अधिक पवित्र तथा मंगलमय वस्तुओं में मंगलस्वरूप है। शिव (की जटा) से निकली हुई गंगा समस्त पापों को हरने वाली और शुभ है।

कृते तु नैमिषं तीर्थं त्रेतायां पुष्करं वरम्।

द्वापरे तु कुरुक्षेत्रं कलौ गंगा विशिष्यते॥ ३७॥

सतयुग में नैमिषारण्य तीर्थ, त्रेता में पुष्कर और द्वापर में कुरुक्षेत्र श्रेष्ठ हैं, किन्तु कलियुग में गंगा का महत्त्व सब से अधिक है।

गंगामेव नियेवने प्रयागे तु विशेषतः।

नान्यत्कलियुगे रौद्रे भेषजं नृप विद्यते॥ ३८॥

अकामो वा सकामो वा गंगायां यो विपद्यते।

स मृतो जायते स्वर्गे नरकं च न पश्यति॥ ३९॥

हे नृप! लोग विशेष रूप से प्रयागराज में ही गंगा का सेवन करते हैं। इस भयानक कलियुग में गंगाजी से अन्य कोई औषध नहीं है। अनिच्छा से या इच्छापूर्वक गंगा में जो

कोई शरीरत्याग करता है, वह मरने पर स्वर्ग जाता है, नरक को नहीं देखता है।

मार्कण्डेय बोले— तीनों लोक में प्रसिद्ध महाभागा सूर्य-पुत्री यमुना नदी के रूप में वहाँ आकर मिलती है। जिस मार्ग से गंगा निकलती है, वहाँ से यमुना गई है। सहस्रों योजन दूर से भी उसका नामकीर्तन करने से वह पापों का नाश करने वाली होती है। यमुना में स्नान करने और उसका जल पीने से मनुष्य सभी पापों से मुक्त होकर अपने सात कुल को पवित्र कर लेता है।

वायु ने कहा है कि स्वर्ग, पृथ्वी और अन्तरिक्ष में साढ़े तीन करोड़ तीर्थ हैं। गंगा उन सब तीर्थों से युक्त है। जहाँ महाभागा गंगा है, वह देश तपोवन है। गंगा तट पर स्थित उसे सिद्धक्षेत्र जानना चाहिए। जहाँ माधव के साथ महेश्वर महादेव रहते हैं, वही नित्य तीर्थ और तपोवन है।

यह सम्पूर्ण कालचक्र प्रतिष्ठित है। द्विजोत्तमो! सूर्य के रथ का दूसरा अक्ष (चक्र या धुरा) चालीस हजार तथा साढ़े पाँच हजार योजन का है।

अक्ष के प्रमाण तुल्य दोनों ओर के युगार्ध (जूआ) का प्रमाण है। धुरे के आधार में स्थित ह्रस्व अक्ष उस युगार्ध के बराबर है। द्वितीय अक्ष में स्थित वह चक्र मानसाचल पर स्थित है। सात छन्द (उस रथ के) सात अक्ष हैं। उनके नाम जान लो।

गायत्री, बृहती, उष्णिक्, जगती, पंक्ति, अनुष्टुप् तथा त्रिष्टुप्— ये सात छन्द सूर्य के (सात) अक्ष कहे गये हैं। मानसाचल पर पूर्व दिशा में महेन्द्र की महानगरी है। दक्षिण में यम की और पश्चिम में वरुण की है।

उत्तर में सोम की नगरी है। उनके (भी) नाम (क्रमशः) समझ लो— अमरावती, संयमनी, सुखा तथा विभावरी। दक्षिण दिशा की ओर से प्रक्षिप्त बाण के समान देवों के भी देव पितामह ज्योतिषक्र को ग्रहण कर भ्रमण करते हैं।

कुलालचक्रपर्यन्तं भ्रमत्येष यथेश्वरः।

करोत्येष यथा रात्रिं विमुञ्चन्नेदिनीं द्विजाः॥ ३९॥

हे विप्रेन्द्रो! इन सप्तद्वीपों में सभी कालों में सूर्य दिन के मध्यभाग अवस्थित है एवं रात्रि के अर्धभाग में सदा सम्पुख रहता है। हे विप्रेन्द्रो! कुम्हार के चक्र के छोर के

समान सभी दिशाओं तथा विदिशाओं में भी सभी समय सूर्य अपने उदय और अस्त होने के लिए सदा सम्पुख रहता है। यह इक्षर सूर्य भ्रमण करता हुआ संपूर्ण पृथ्वी को छोड़ता रहता है और दिवस तथा रात्रि को करता है।

दिवाकरकरैरतपूरितं भुवनत्रयम्।

त्रैलोक्यं कथितं सद्भिलोकानां मुनिपुंगवाः॥ ४०॥

इस प्रकार ये तीनों भुवन सूर्य की किरणों से व्याप्त हैं। हे मुनिश्रेष्ठो! विद्वानों ने (समस्त) लोगों के सामने इस त्रैलोक्य का वर्णन किया है।

आदित्यमूलमखिलं त्रैलोक्यं नात्र संशयः।

भवत्यस्माज्जगत्सर्वं सदेवासुरमानुषम्॥ ४१॥

स्त्रेन्द्रोपेन्द्रचन्द्राणां विप्रेन्द्राणां दिवोकसाम्।

द्युतिमान्द्युतिमत्कृत्स्नमजयत्सर्वलौकिकम्॥ ४२॥

सम्पूर्ण त्रिलोक का मूल यह आदित्य है, इसमें संशय नहीं। इनसे से देवता, असुर तथा मनुष्यों से युक्त सम्पूर्ण जगत् उत्पन्न होता है। रुद्र, इन्द्र, उपेन्द्र, चन्द्रमा एवं श्रेष्ठ विप्रेन्द्र तथा समस्त देवताओं की कान्ति से युक्त यह सूर्य समस्त जगत् को कान्तिमान् करते हुए समस्त लोकों को जीत रहा है।

सर्वात्मा सर्वलोकेशो महादेवः प्रजापतिः।

द्वादशान्ये तथादित्या देवास्ते येऽधिकारिणः।

निर्वहन्ति वदन्यस्य तदंशा विष्णुमूर्तयः॥ ४४॥

इसलिए सूर्य ही सब का आत्मा, सभी लोकों का स्वामी, प्रजापति, महान् देव, तीनों लोकों के मूल और परम देवता है। वस्तुतः द्वादश आदित्य और अन्य बारह अधिकारी रूप देवता हैं, वे उसी सूर्य के अंशभूत और विष्णु के मूर्तिरूप हैं। वे उन्हीं के कार्य को सम्पादित करते हैं।

यजन्ति यज्ञैर्विविधैर्भुनीन्द्राश्छन्दोमयं ब्रह्मयमं पुराणम्॥ ४५॥

इसी कारण गन्धर्व, यक्ष, नाग तथा किन्नर आदि सभी सहस्रबाहु (हजारों किरणों वाले) सूर्य को नमस्कार करते हैं। मुनीन्द्रगण विविध यज्ञों द्वारा छन्दोमय एवं ब्रह्मस्वरूप पुरातन सूर्य देव का यजन करते हैं।

सुतजी बोले— इस प्रकार ये देवाधिदेव महादेव सब के पितामह सूर्यदेव कालस्वरूप होकर नियत काल तक (स्वयं) ईश्वरीय शरीरों को धारण करते हैं।

तस्या ये रश्मयो विप्राः सर्वलोकप्रदीपकाः।

तेषां श्रेष्ठाः पुनः सप्तरश्मयो गृहमेधिनः॥ २॥

हे विप्रो! सभी लोकों में प्रदीपस्वरूप उनकी जो रश्मियाँ हैं, उनमें भी ग्रहों की उत्पादिका होने से सात रश्मियाँ अत्यन्त श्रेष्ठ हैं।

सुषुप्तो हरिकेशश्च विश्वकर्मा तथैव च।

विश्वश्रवाः पुष्कान्यः संयद्सुरतः परः॥ ३॥

अर्वावसुरिति ख्यातः स्वरकः सप्त कीर्तिताः।

सुषुम्नः सूर्यरश्मिस्तु पुष्पाति शिशिरश्रुतिम्॥ ४॥

सुषुम्न, हरिकेश, विश्वकर्मा, विश्वव्याचा, संयद्सु, अर्वावसु तथा स्वरक— ये सात रश्मियाँ कही गयी हैं। सुषुम्न नामक सूर्य की रश्मि चन्द्रमा की कान्ति को पुष्ट करती है।

तिर्वर्गूर्ध्वप्रचारोऽसौ सुषुम्नः परिपठ्यते।

हरिकेशस्तु यः प्रोक्तो रश्मिर्नक्षत्रपोषकः॥ ५॥

विश्वकर्मा तथा रश्मिर्बुधं पुष्पाति सर्वदा।

विश्वश्रवास्तु यो रश्मिः शुक्रं पुष्पाति नित्यदा॥ ६॥

यह सुषुम्न रश्मि तिरछे रूप से ऊपर की ओर गमन करने वाली बताई गई है। हरिकेश नामक जो रश्मि कही

गयी है, वह नक्षत्रों का पोषण करती है। विश्वकर्मा नामक रश्मि सदा बुधग्रह का पोषण करती है। विश्वव्याचा नाम की जो रश्मि है, वह नित्य शुक्र का पोषण करती है।

संयद्भूमिरिति ख्यातो यः पुष्पाति स लोहितम्।
बृहस्पतिं सुपुष्पाति रश्मिर्वावसुः प्रभुः॥७॥

संयद्भु नाम से प्रसिद्ध जो रश्मि है, वह मंगल का पोषण करती है और प्रभावशाली अर्वावसु नामक रश्मि बृहस्पति का अच्छे प्रकार पोषण करती है।

शनैश्चरं प्रपुष्पाति सप्तमस्तु स्वरस्तथा।

आदानात्रित्यमादित्यस्तेजसां तमसामपि।

सप्तम स्वर नामक रश्मि शनिश्चर का पोषण करती है। इस प्रकार सूर्य के प्रभाव से सभी नक्षत्र एवं तारागण नित्य वृद्धि को प्राप्त होते हैं और वृद्धि प्राप्त कर नित्य (अन्य पदार्थों को) आप्यायित करते हैं। द्युलोक, पृथ्वीलोक एवं निशा-सम्बन्धी तेजसमूह और अन्धकार का नित्य आदान (ग्रहण) करने के कारण उन्हें आदित्य कहा जाता है।

तासाञ्जतुःशता नाड्यो वर्षने चित्रमूर्तयः॥१२॥

वह सूर्य अपनी हजारों नाड़ियों (किरणों) द्वारा चारों ओर से नदियों, समुद्रों, कूपों, स्थावर तथा जङ्गम और नहरों आदि के जल को ग्रहण करता है। उसकी हजारों रश्मियाँ शीत, वर्षा एवं उष्णता को स्रवित करने वाली हैं और उनमें विचित्र मूर्तिस्वरूपा चार सौ किरणें वर्षा करती हैं।

चन्द्रगा, गाहा, काञ्चना और शतना— ये अमृत नाम वाली सभी रश्मियाँ वृष्टिसर्जक हैं। हिमोद्धत ये नाड़ियाँ पुनः रश्मिरूप में निःसृत होती हैं। वे रेषी, मेषी, वासी, ह्यदिनी तथा सर्जना नाम वाली हैं।

चन्द्रास्ता नामतः सर्वाः पीतास्ताः स्युर्गर्भस्तयः।

शुक्लास्ता नामतः सर्वास्त्रिविधा वर्मसर्जनाः।
समं विभर्ति ताभिः स मनुष्यपितृदेवताः॥१६॥

ये सभी रश्मियाँ पीत वर्ण की और चन्द्रा नाम वाली हैं; शुक्ला, कुंकुमा और विभ्रभृत् नामक सभी रश्मियों का नाम शुक्ला है। ये तीन प्रकार की रश्मियाँ धूप की सृष्टि करने वाली हैं। वे सूर्यदेव उनके द्वारा समान-रूप से मनुष्यों, पितरों तथा देवताओं का पोषण करते हैं।

मनुष्यानीष्येनेह स्वधया च पितृनपि।
अमृतेन सुरान्सर्वास्त्रीस्त्रिभस्तर्यवत्यसौ॥१७॥

ये मनुष्यों को औषध द्वारा, पितरों को स्वधा द्वारा और देवताओं को अमृत के द्वारा— इस प्रकार तीनों को तीन पदार्थों द्वारा तृप्त करते हैं।

वरुणो माघमासे तु सूर्यः पूषा तु फाल्गुने॥१९॥

वे प्रभु वसन्त एवं ग्रीष्म ऋतु में छः किरणों द्वारा तपते हैं। शरद् और वर्षा ऋतु में चार रश्मियों के द्वारा वर्षा करते हैं तथा हेमन्त एवं शिशिर ऋतु में तीन रश्मियों से हिमपात करते हैं। सूर्य माघ मास में वरुण और फाल्गुन में पूषा कहलाते हैं।

अर्यमा दशभिः पाति पर्जन्यो नवभिस्तथा॥

षड्भो रश्मिसहस्रैस्तु विष्णुस्तपति विश्वेषु॥ २५॥

मित्र नामक सूर्य सात हजार रश्मियों से तपते हैं और त्वष्टा आठ हजार रश्मियों से ताप देते हैं। अर्यमा दस हजार रश्मियों से और पर्जन्य नौ हजार रश्मियों पालन करते हैं। विश्व को धारण करने वाले, विष्णु (नामक सूर्य) छः हजार रश्मियों से तपते हैं।

वसन्ते कपिलः सूर्यो ग्रीष्मे काञ्चनसप्रभः।

श्वेतो वर्षासु विज्ञेयः पाण्डुरः शरदि प्रभुः॥ २६॥

प्रभु सूर्य वसन्त ऋतु में कपिल (भूरे) वर्ण के, ग्रीष्म में सुवर्ण के समान, वर्षा में श्वेत, शरद में पाण्डुर (सफेद-मिश्रित पोले) रंग के प्रतीत होते हैं।

हेमन्ते ताप्रवर्णः स्याच्छिशिरे लोहितो रविः।

ओष्धीषु कल्पां धन्ते स्वधामपि पितृव्यम्॥ २७॥

सूर्योऽमरेष्वमृतं तु त्रयं त्रिषु नियच्छति।

हेमन्त में ताँबे के समान वर्ण वाले और शिशिर में सूर्य लोहित (लाल) वर्ण के होते हैं। सूर्य ओषधियों में रश्मियों का आधान करते हैं। पितरों को स्वधा और देवताओं को अमृतत्व — इस प्रकार तीनों में तीन पदार्थ प्रदान करते हैं।

अन्ये चाष्टौ ब्रह्मा ज्ञेयाः सूर्येणाधिष्ठिता द्विजाः॥ २८॥

चन्द्रमाः सोमपुत्रश्च शुक्रश्चैव बृहस्पतिः।

भौमो मन्दस्तथा राहुः केतुमानपि चाष्टमः॥ २९॥

हे द्विजे! अन्य आठ ग्रहों को सूर्य से अधिष्ठित जानना चाहिये। चन्द्रमा, चन्द्रमा का पुत्र बुध, शुक्र, बृहस्पति, मंगल, शनि, राहु तथा आठवाँ केतुमान् ग्रह है।

सर्वे ध्रुवे निबद्धा वै ब्रह्मास्ते वातरश्मिभिः।

ध्राम्यमाणा यथायोगं भ्रमन्त्यनु दिवाकरम्॥ ३०॥

ध्रुव में आबद्ध वे सभी ग्रह वातरश्मियों के द्वारा भ्रमण करते हुए यथास्थान सूर्य की परिक्रमा करते हैं।

अस्मात्प्रवृत्तानि वातचक्रेरितास्तथा।

यस्माद्ब्रह्मति तान्वायुः प्रवहस्तेन स स्मृतः॥ ३१॥

वायु चक्र द्वारा प्रेरित वे ग्रह अस्मात्प्रवृत्त के समान भ्रमण करते हैं। चूँकि वायु उनका वहन करती है, इसलिये उसे 'प्रवह' कहा गया है।

रथस्त्रिचक्रः सोमस्य कुन्दाभास्तस्य वाजिनः।

वामदक्षिणतो युक्ता दश तेन क्षपाकरः॥ ३२॥

वीथ्याभ्रयाणि चरति नक्षत्राणि रविर्यथा।

ह्यसकृद्धी तु विप्रेन्द्रा ध्रुवाभाराणि सर्वदा॥ ३३॥

सोम का रथ तीन चक्रों वाला है। उसके वाम और दक्षिण भाग में कुन्द पुष्प के समान धवल वर्ण वाले दस अश्व जुते हुए हैं। इसी रथ से निशाकर चन्द्रमा सूर्य के समान (अपनी) कक्षा में स्थित होकर नक्षत्रों के मध्य परिचर्या करता है। हे विप्रेन्द्रो! चन्द्रमा में क्रमशः हास और वृद्धि सदा ध्रुव के आधार पर होती रहती है।

स सोमः शुक्लपक्षे तु भास्करे परतः स्थिते।

आपूर्यते परस्थाने सततञ्चैव ताः प्रभाः॥ ३४॥

शुक्लपक्ष में सूर्य पर भाग में स्थित रहने पर उसकी प्रभाराशि से वह सोम (चन्द्रमा) पर-भाग के अन्त में निरन्तर आपूरित होता रहता है।

क्षीणं पीतं सुरैः सोममाप्याययति नित्यदा।

एषा सूर्यस्य वीर्येण सोमस्याप्यायिता तनुः।

पौर्णमास्यां स दृश्येत संपूर्णो दिवसक्रमात्॥ ३६॥

हे विप्रे! देवताओं द्वारा पान किये जाने के कारण क्षीण हुए चन्द्रमा को सूर्य सुषुम्ला नामक एक ही किरण से नित्य आप्यायित करते हैं। सूर्य के तेज से आप्यायित चन्द्रमा का यह शरीर (पुष्ट होकर) दिन के क्रमानुसार पूर्णिमा को सम्पूर्ण रूप से दिखायी देता है।

संपूर्णमर्द्धमासेन तं सोमममृतत्वकम्।

पिबन्ति देवता विप्रा यतस्तेऽमृतभोजनाः॥ ३७॥

हे विप्रे! आधे महीने तक देवता लोग उस अमृतस्वरूप सम्पूर्ण सोम का पान करते हैं, क्योंकि वे अमृत का भोजन करने वाले होते हैं।

ततः पञ्चदशे भागे किञ्चिच्छिष्टे कलात्मके।

पिबन्ति हिलवं कालं शिष्टा तस्य कला तु या।

सुषामृतमवीं पुण्यां ताभिन्दोरमृतत्विकाम्॥ ३९॥

तदनन्तर पंद्रहवें भाग के क्षीण हो जाने पर कुछ कलात्मक भाग शेष बच जाने पर अपराह्न में पितृगण उस भाग का सेवन करते हैं। चन्द्रमा की अवशिष्ट अमृतस्वरूपिणी, सुधामयी तथा पवित्र कला का पितृगण दो लव (काल-विशेष निमेष) तक पान करते हैं।

निःसृतं तदभावास्यां गभस्तिभ्यः स्वघामृतम्।

न सोमस्य विनाशः स्यात्सुधा चैव सुपीयते।
एवं सूर्यनिमित्तोऽस्य क्षयो वृद्धिश्च सत्तमाः॥४१॥

अमावस्या के दिन (चन्द्रमा की) किरणों से निकलने वाले स्वधारूपी अमृत का पान करने से पितृगण पूरे महीने तक तृप्त होकर निर्वृत हो जाते हैं। देवताओं के द्वारा अमृत का पान किये जाने पर भी चन्द्रमा का विनाश नहीं होता है। हे श्रेष्ठजनो! इस प्रकार सूर्य के कारण चन्द्रमा के क्षय एवं वृद्धि का क्रम चलता है।

सोमपुत्रस्य चाष्टाभिर्वाजिभिर्वायुवेगिभिः।
वारिजैः स्यन्दनो युक्तस्तेनासौ याति सर्वतः॥४२॥

सोमपुत्र (बुध) के रथ में वायु के समान वेगवान् और जल से उत्पन्न आठ घोड़े जुते रहते हैं। वह बुध उसीसे सर्वत्र गमन करता है।

शुक्रस्य भूमिजैरश्वैः स्यन्दनो दशभिर्वृतः।
अष्टभिश्चापि भौमस्य रथो हैमः सुशोभनः॥४३॥

स्वर्मानिर्भास्कारेण तवाष्टाभिर्हयैर्वृतः।

एते महाप्रहाणां वै समाख्याता स्वाश्च वै॥४५॥

शुक्र का रथ भूमि से उत्पन्न दस घोड़ों से और मंगल का स्वर्णमय अत्यन्त सुन्दर रथ आठ घोड़ों से युक्त रहता है। बृहस्पति का भी आठ घोड़ों से युक्त रथ स्वर्णनिर्मित है। शनि का लोहे से निर्मित रथ रूप्यमय है और आठ घोड़ों से संयुक्त रहता है। सूर्य के शत्रु राहु का रथ भी आठ अश्वों से युक्त है। इस प्रकार महाग्रहों के रथों का वर्णन किया गया है।

सर्वे ध्रुवे महात्माना निबद्धा वायुरश्मिभिः।
ब्रह्मर्षिताराधिष्यन्ति ध्रुवे बद्धान्यशेषतः।
ध्रमन्ति ध्रामयन्त्येनं सर्वाण्यनिलरश्मिभिः॥४६॥

ये सभी महाग्रह वायु की रश्मियों के द्वारा ध्रुव में आबद्ध हैं। सभी ग्रह, नक्षत्र और तारागण भी ध्रुव में पूर्णतः निबद्ध होकर वायु की रश्मियों द्वारा भ्रमण करते हैं और भ्रमण कराते रहते हैं।

भूतान्तरात्मा भगवान्नारायण इति श्रुतिः।

एकांशेन जगत्सर्वं व्याप्य नारायणः स्थितः॥३८॥

भगवान् नारायण समस्त भूतों को आत्मा में रहते हैं। वे नारायण अपने एक अंश से सम्पूर्ण जगत् को व्याप्त करके स्थित हैं।

चतुर्धा संस्थितो व्यापी सगुणो निर्गुणोऽपि च।

एका भगवतो मूर्तिर्ज्ञानरूपा शिवामला॥३९॥

ये निर्गुण भी सगुणरूप में चार रूपों में संस्थित होकर व्यापक हैं। भगवान् की एक मूर्ति ज्ञानरूप, कल्याणरूप एवं निर्मल है।

वासुदेवाभिधाना सा गुणातीता मुनिष्कला।

द्वितीया कालसंज्ञान्या तामसी शिवसंज्ञिता॥४०॥

निहन्त्री सकलस्वान्ते वैष्णवी परमा तनुः।

सत्त्वोद्भक्ता तृतीयान्या प्रद्युम्नेति च संज्ञिता॥४१॥

वासुदेव नाम की वह मूर्ति गुणातीत और अत्यन्त शुद्ध है। उनकी दूसरी मूर्ति कालसंज्ञक तथा अन्य तामसी मूर्ति शिवसंज्ञक है। वह अन्त में सबका संहार करती है। वैष्णवी मूर्ति परम श्रेष्ठ है। सत्त्वगुणमयी अन्य जो तीसरी मूर्ति है वह प्रद्युम्नसंज्ञक है।

जगत्संस्थापयेद्विश्वं सा विष्णोः प्रकृतिर्ध्रुवा।

ध्रुव्या वासुदेवस्य मूर्तिर्विष्णोः संज्ञिता॥४२॥

राजसी सानिरुद्धस्य पुरुषसृष्टिकारिता।

यः स्वपितृखिलं हत्वा प्रद्युम्नेन सह प्रभुः॥४३॥

वह विष्णु को निहल प्रकृति है और वही समस्त विश्व को संस्थापन करती है। वासुदेव की चौथी मूर्ति 'ब्रह्मा' नाम से कही जाती है। वह अनिरुद्ध की पुरुषसृष्टिकर्तृ राजसी मूर्ति है, जो प्रभु सबका संहार करके प्रद्युम्न के साथ सोते हैं।

नारायणाख्यो ब्रह्मासौ प्रजासर्गं करोति सः।

वासौ नारायणतनुः प्रद्युम्नाख्या शुभा स्मृता॥४४॥

तथा सम्पोहयेद्विश्वं सदेवासुरमानुषम्।

ततः सैव जगन्मूर्तिः प्रकृतिः परिकीर्तिता॥४५॥

वे नारायणसंज्ञक ब्रह्मा प्रजा की सृष्टि करते हैं। जो वह नारायण की शुभ मूर्ति प्रद्युम्न नाम से प्रसिद्ध है, वह देव, दानव, मनुष्य सहित विश्व को संमोहित करती है। इसलिए वही जगन्मूर्ति प्रकृति कही गई है।

वासुदेवो ह्यनन्तात्मा केवलो निर्गुणो हरिः।

प्रधानं पुरुषं कालः सत्त्वत्रयमनुत्तमम्॥४६॥

वासुदेवात्मकं नित्यमेतद्विज्ञाय मुच्यते।

वासुदेव हरि तो केवल निर्गुण और अनन्तात्मा हैं। इसी प्रकार प्रधान (प्रकृति) पुरुष और काल— ये तीनों ही सर्वोत्तम तत्त्व हैं। ये भी वासुदेवस्वरूप ही हैं अतः नित्य हैं। इन सब को जो विशेषरूप से जान लेता है, वह मुक्त हो जाता है।

एकञ्चेदं चतुष्पादं चतुर्धा पुनरच्युतः॥४७॥

विभेद वासुदेवोऽसौ प्रद्युम्नो भगवान् हरिः।

कृष्णद्वैपायनो व्यासो विष्णुर्नारायणः स्वयम्॥४८॥

अवातरत्स सम्पूर्णं स्वेच्छया भगवान् हरिः।

अनाद्यन्तं परं ब्रह्म न देवा ऋषयो विदुः॥४९॥

एकोऽयं वेद भगवान् व्यासो नारायणः प्रभुः।

प्रद्युम्नस्वरूप भगवान् वासुदेव हरि जो अच्युत (अस्थलित) हैं, स्वयं एक होते हुए भी चतुष्पादात्मक अपने स्वरूप को चार रूपों (वासुदेव, संकर्षण, प्रद्युम्न और अनिरुद्ध) में विभक्त किया। विष्णु नारायण स्वयं हरि ही स्वेच्छा से कृष्णद्वैपायन व्यासरूप में अवतरित हुए। अनाद्यन्त परब्रह्म को ऋषि या देवता कोई भी नहीं जानते हैं। एकमात्र नारायण, प्रभु भगवान् व्यास ही जानते हैं।

इत्येतद्विष्णुमाहात्म्यं कथितं मुनिसत्तमाः।
एतत्सत्यं पुनः सत्यमेवं ज्ञात्वा न मुह्यति॥५०॥

मुनिश्रेष्ठो! इस प्रकार मैंने विष्णु का माहात्म्य बता दिया। यह सत्य है, पुनः सत्य है, ऐसा जान लेने पर व्यक्ति मोह नहीं होता।

तृणविन्दु तेइसवें द्वापर युग में हुए। तत्पश्चात् (चौबीसवें) वाल्मीकि व्यास कहे गये। हे द्विजो! पचीसवें द्वापर के आने पर शक्ति की उत्पत्ति हुई। इसके बाद पराशर छब्बीसवें द्वापर में तथा सत्ताईसवें द्वापर में जातूकर्ण नामक व्यास हुए। अट्ठाइसवें पराशरपुत्र कृष्णद्वैपायन व्यास हुए। वे ही समस्त वेदों तथा पुराणों के प्रदर्शक हुए।

आराध्य देवमीशानं दृष्ट्वा स्तुत्वा त्रिलोचनम्॥१०॥
तत्रसादादसौ व्यासं वेदानामकरोत्प्रभुः॥११॥

पराशर-पुत्र व्यास महायोगी हैं। वे कृष्णद्वैपायन नाम से प्रसिद्ध स्वयं हरि हैं। उन्होंने त्रिलोचन ईशानदेव शङ्कर की आराधना करके उनके प्रत्यक्ष दर्शन किये और स्तुति करके उन्हीं की कृपा से प्रभु ने वेदों का विभाजन किया।

ऋग्वेदपाठकं पैलं जग्राह स महामुनिः॥१३॥

अनन्तर उन्होंने वेद-पारंगत चार शिष्यों को वे वेदविभाग ग्रहण कराये अर्थात् उन्हें पढाया। वे चार— जैमिनि, सुमन्तु, वैशम्पायन और चतुर्थ पैल को (एक-एक वेद पढाया)। महामुनि ने पञ्चम शिष्य मुञ्ज सूत को (पुराण पढाकर) तैयार किया। उन महामुनि पैल नामक शिष्य को ऋग्वेद पढने वाले के रूप में स्वीकार किया।

तत्रैवाथर्ववेदस्य सुमन्तुमुषिसत्तमम्।
इतिहासपुराणानि प्रवक्तुं मामयोजयत्॥१५॥

वैशम्पायन को यजुर्वेद का प्रवक्ता तथा जैमिनि को सामवेद का पाठक बनाया। उसी प्रकार अथर्ववेद का प्रवक्ता ऋषिश्रेष्ठ सुमन्तु को बनाया और इतिहास पुराणों का प्रवचन करने के लिए मुझे नियुक्त किया।

एक आसीद्यजुर्वेदस्तं चतुर्द्धा प्रकल्पयत्।
चतुर्होत्रमभूत्तस्मिन्नेन यज्ञमथाकरोत्॥ १६॥

यजुर्वेद एक था। उसे चार भागों में विभक्त किया। उसमें चतुर्होत्र नामक यज्ञ का विधान हुआ, वह यज्ञ भी वेदव्यास द्वारा किया गया।

आध्वर्यवं यजूभिः स्यादग्निहोत्रं द्विजोत्तमाः।
औद्व्रात्रं सामभिश्छन्दे ब्रह्मत्वञ्चाप्यध्वर्यभिः॥ १७॥

हे द्विजश्रेष्ठो! यजुर्मन्त्रों से आध्वर्यव अग्निहोत्र सम्पन्न हुआ। साममन्त्रों से उदाता का कर्म और तथा अथर्वमन्त्रों से ब्रह्म के कर्म को कल्पित किया।

ततः सत्रे च उद्द्युत्य ऋग्वेदं कृतवान् प्रभुः।
यजूषि तु यजुर्वेदं सामवेदं तु सामभिः॥ १८॥

तदनन्तर प्रभु व्यास ने यज्ञ में ऋचाओं को उद्घृत करके ऋग्वेद की रचना की। यजुर्मन्त्रों को उद्घृत करके यजुर्वेद और साममन्त्रों द्वारा सामवेद का प्रणयन किया।

प्राचीन काल में ऋग्वेद को इकौस भागों में बाँटा और यजुर्वेद को सौ शाखाओं में विभक्त किया। पुनः कुशरूपी घर वाले व्यास ने सामवेद को सहस्र शाखाओं में विभक्त किया और अथर्ववेद को भी (नौ शाखाओं में) विभक्त किया। व्यास ने अठारह प्रकार के पुराणों की रचना की। इस प्रकार पूर्वकाल में एक ही पुरातन वेद था, जिसे चार पादों में विभक्त किया गया। ओंकार ब्रह्म-परमात्मा से उत्पन्न हुआ है, अतएव सर्वदोषों का शुद्धिकारक है।

वेदविद्यामिमं वेत्ति वेदं वेदपरो मुनिः॥ २४॥

सनातन भगवान् वासुदेव तो वेदों के द्वारा ही ज्ञेय हैं। उन्हीं परम पुरुष का गान वेदों द्वारा किया जाता है। जो इस वेद विद्या को जानता है, वही वेदवित् है और वही परम तत्त्व को जानता है। वे भगवान् वासुदेव परात्पर, ब्रह्म, ज्योतिरूप और आनन्दस्वरूप हैं और वेदवाक्यों द्वारा कथित परम पदरूप हैं। वेदपरायण मुनि इन्हें वेद द्वारा ज्ञेय और वेदस्वरूप जानते हैं।

अवेदं परमं वेत्ति वेदनिःश्वासकृत्परः।
स वेदवेद्यो भगवान्वेदमूर्तिमहेश्वरः॥ २५॥

वेद में निष्ठावान् पुरुष परमेश्वररूप होकर परम श्रेष्ठ अवेद्य तत्त्व को जान लेता है। वे वेदमूर्ति भगवान् महेश्वर वेदों से ही जानने योग्य हैं।

स एव वेद्यो वेदश्च तपेवाश्रित्य मुच्यते।
इत्येतदक्षरं वेदमोक्षरं वेदमव्ययम्॥

वही वेद है, जो जानने योग्य है। उसी का आश्रय लेकर प्राणी मुक्त होता है। इसी प्रकार अक्षर अविनाशी ओंकार तत्त्व भी जानने योग्य और अव्यय वेदस्वरूप है। पाराशर पुत्र महामुनि व्यास इसे वेदरहित (परमात्मरूप में) विशेष रूप से जानते हैं।

त्वं हि नारायणः साक्षात् कृष्णद्वैपायनात्प्रभो।

अवाप्ताखिलविज्ञानस्तत्त्वां पृच्छामहे पुनः॥४॥

हे प्रभो! आप साक्षात् नारायण हैं। आप कृष्णद्वैपायन से अखिल विज्ञान को प्राप्त कर चुके हैं, अतः आपसे हम पुनः पृछना चाहते हैं।

श्रुत्वा मुनीनां तद्वाक्यं कृष्णद्वैपायनात्प्रभुः।

सूतः पौराणिकः श्रुत्वा भाषितुं ह्युपचक्रमे॥५॥

मुनियों के ये वचन सुनकर पौराणिक प्रभु सूतजी ने श्रीकृष्णद्वैपायन से सुने हुए वृत्तान्त को कहना प्रारम्भ कर दिया।

तथास्मिन्नन्तरे व्यासः कृष्णद्वैपायनः स्वयम्।

आजगाम मुनिश्रेष्ठा यत्र सत्रं समासते॥६॥

तं दृष्ट्वा वेदविद्वांसं कालमेघसमुद्यतिम्।

व्यासं कमलपत्राक्षं प्रणेमुर्द्विजपुङ्गवाः॥७॥

हे मुनिश्रेष्ठो! इस मध्य श्रीकृष्णद्वैपायन व्यास स्वयं वहाँ आ पहुँचे जहाँ यज्ञ किया जा रहा था। उन वेदों के विद्वान् तथा कालमेघ के समान कान्ति वाले कमलनयन व्यास जी को देखकर द्विजश्रेष्ठों ने उन्हें प्रणाम किया।

पपात दण्डवद्भूमौ दृष्ट्वासौ लोमहर्षणः।

प्रणम्य शिरसा भूमौ प्राञ्जलिर्विशगोऽभवत्॥८॥

उनको देखकर वे लोमहर्षण भूमि पर दण्डवत् गिर गये और शिर झुकाकर प्रणाम करके हाथ जोड़कर भूमि पर स्थित हो गये।

पृष्ट्वास्तेऽनामयं विप्राः शौनकाद्या महामुनिम्।

समासृत्यासनं तस्मै तद्योग्यं समकल्पयन्॥९॥

शौनक आदि ब्राह्मणों ने महामुनि से कुशलक्षेम पूछा और उनके समीप आकर उनके योग्य आसन की व्यवस्था की।

अथैतानब्रवीद्वाक्यं पराशरसुतः प्रभुः।

कच्चिन्न हनिस्तपसः स्वाध्यायस्य श्रुतस्य च॥१०॥

अनन्तर पराशर पुत्र प्रभु व्यास ने उन सबसे कहा— आप लोगों के तप, स्वाध्याय और शास्त्र चर्चा की कुछ हानि तो नहीं हो रही है?

तच्छ सूतः स्वगुरुं प्रणम्याह महामुनिम्।

ज्ञानं तद्ब्रह्मविषयं मुनीनां वक्तुमर्हसि॥११॥

इसके बाद सूत ने महामुनि अपने गुरु को प्रणाम करके कहा— मुनियों के लिए आप वह ब्रह्मविषयक ज्ञान बताने की कृपा करें।

इमे हि मुनयः ज्ञानास्तापसा धर्मतत्परः।

शुश्रूषा जायते चैषां वक्तुमर्हसि तत्त्वतः॥१२॥

ज्ञानं विमुक्तिर्दिव्यं यन्मे साक्षात्त्वयोदितम्।

मुनीनां व्याहृतं पूर्वं विष्णुना कूर्मरूपिणा॥१३॥

ये मुनिगण शान्त तपस्वी तथा धर्मपरायण हैं। इन्हें श्रवण करने की इच्छा है। अतएव आप तत्त्वतः कहने योग्य हैं। वह मुक्तिप्रदायक दिव्य ज्ञान जिसे आपने साक्षात् मुझे बताया था और जिसे पूर्वकाल में कूर्मरूपधारी विष्णु ने मुनियों के लिए कहा था।

श्रुत्वा सूतस्य वचनं मुनिः सत्यवतीसुतः।
प्रणम्य शिरसा रुरं वचः प्राह सुखावहम्॥१४॥

सत्यवती पुत्र मुनि व्यास ने सूत के वचन सुनकर रुद्रदेव को प्रणाम करके सुखकारक वचन कहे।

व्यास उवाच

क्षये देवो महादेवः पृष्ठो योगीश्वरैः पुरा।
सनत्कुमारप्रमुखैः स स्वयं सपभाषत॥१५॥

व्यास जी ने कहा— मैं वही कहूँगा जो पुराकाल में सनत्कुमार प्रभृति योगीश्वरों द्वारा पूछे जाने पर महादेव ने स्वयं कहा था।

सनत्कुमारः सनकस्तथैव च सनन्दनः।
आङ्गिरा रुद्रसहितो भृगुः परमधर्मवित्॥१६॥
कणादः कपिलो गर्गो वामदेवो महामुनिः।
शुक्रो वसिष्ठो भगवान् सर्वं संयतमानसाः॥१७॥
परस्परं विचार्यन्ति संयमाविष्टचेतसः।
तप्तवन्तस्तपो घोरं पुण्ये बदरिकाश्रमे॥१८॥

सनत्कुमार, सनक, सनन्दन, अंगिरा, रुद्र सहित परम धार्मिक भृगु कणाद, कपिल, गर्ग, महामुनि वामदेव, शुक्र, भगवान् वसिष्ठ आदि संयत चित्त वाले सभी मुनियों ने परस्पर विचार करके पुण्य बदरिकाश्रम में घोर तप किया था।

अपश्यंस्ते महायोगमृषिधर्मसुतं मुनिम्।
नारायणमनाद्यन्तं नरेण सहितं तदा॥१९॥

तब उन्होंने महायोगी, ऋषिधर्म के पुत्र, मुनि, अनादि और अन्त से रहित नारायण को नर के साथ देखा।

संस्तूय विविधैः स्तोत्रैः सर्ववेदसमुद्भवैः।
प्रणोमूर्धन्नि संयुक्ता योगिनो योगवित्तमम्॥२०॥

भक्तिसंयुक्त उन योगियों ने सभी वेदों से उत्पन्न विविध स्तोत्र वाक्यों द्वारा स्तुति करके परम योगवेत्ता नारायण को प्रणाम किया।

विज्ञाय वाञ्छितं तेषां भगवानपि सर्ववित्।
प्राह गम्भीरया वाचा किमर्थं तप्यते तपः॥२१॥

उनका इच्छित जानकर सर्वज्ञ भगवान् ने भी गंभीर वाणी में पूछा— आप लोग तप क्यों कर रहे हैं।

अद्भुवन् हृष्टमनसो विघ्नात्पानं सनातनम्।
सक्षात्नारायणं देवमागतं सिद्धिसूचकम्॥२२॥

वयं संयममापन्नाः सर्वे वै ब्रह्मवादिनः।

भयनमेकं शरणं प्रपन्नाः पुरुषोत्तमम्॥२३॥

प्रसन्न मन वाले मुनियों ने वहाँ पधारें सिद्धिसूचक विश्वात्मा सनातन साक्षात् नारायण देव से कहा— हम सभी ब्रह्मवादी ऋषि संयमी होकर एकमात्र आप पुरुषोत्तम की शरण में आये हैं।

त्वं वेत्सि परमं गुह्यं सर्वन्तु भगवानृषिः।
नारायणः स्वयं साक्षात्पुराणोऽव्यक्तपुरुषः॥२४॥
न ह्यन्यो विद्यते वेत्ता त्वापृते परमेश्वरम्।
स त्वमस्माकमचलं संशयं छेतुमर्हसि॥२५॥

आप सम्पूर्ण परम गुह्य तत्त्व को जानते हैं। आप स्वयं भगवान् ऋषि नारायण साक्षात् पुरातन अव्यक्त पुरुष हैं। आप परमेश्वर के अतिरिक्त अन्य कोई तत्त्ववेत्ता नहीं है। इसलिए आप ही हमारे अचल संशय को दूर करने में समर्थ हैं।

किं कारणमिदं कृत्स्नं को नु संसरते सदा।
कश्चिदात्मा च का मुक्तिः संसारः किन्निमित्तकः॥२६॥
कः संसार इतीशानः को वा सर्वं प्रपश्यति।
किं तत्परतरं ब्रह्म सर्वं नो वक्तुमर्हसि॥२७॥

इस सम्पूर्ण जगत् का कारण कौन है? कौन इसमें सदा संसरण करता है? आत्मा कौन है? मुक्ति क्या है? संसार का निमित्त क्या है? संसार का अधीश्वर कौन है? कौन सबको देखता है? उससे परतर ब्रह्म क्या है? हमें यह सब आप बताने की कृपा करें।

एवमुक्त्वा तु मुनयः प्रापश्यन् पुरुषोत्तमम्।
विहाय तापसं वेधं संस्थितं स्वेन तेजसा॥२८॥
विघ्नाजपानं विमलं प्रभामण्डलमण्डितम्।
श्रीवत्सवक्षसं देवं तप्तजाम्बूनदप्रभम्॥२९॥

ऐसा कहकर मुनिगण पुरुषश्रेष्ठ नारायण को देखने लगे जो तापस वेध को छोड़कर अपने तेज से संस्थित थे, जो अपने प्रभामण्डल से मण्डित होकर विमल प्रतीत हो रहे थे। उनके वक्षःस्थल पर श्रीवत्स का चिह्न था और जिनकी आभा तपे हुए सोने के समान थी।

शङ्खचक्रगदापाणिं शार्ङ्गहस्तं श्रिया वृत्तम्।
न दृष्टस्तत्क्षणादेव नरस्तस्यैव तेजसा॥३०॥

उनके हाथों में शंख, चक्र, गदा और धनुष धारण किया हुआ था। वे लक्ष्मी से युक्त थे और उस समय उनके तेज से नर नहीं दिखाई पड़े।

तदन्तरे महादेवः शशाङ्कितशेखरः।

प्रसादाभिमुखो रुद्रः प्रदुरासीन्महेश्वरः॥ ३१॥

इसी मध्य चंद्र से अंकित ललाट वाले महेश्वर रुद्र प्रसन्न मुख होकर प्रादुर्भूत हुए।

निरीक्ष्य ते जगन्नाथं त्रिनेत्रं चन्द्रभूषणम्।

तुष्टुवुर्हृष्टमनसो भक्त्या तं परमेश्वरम्॥ ३२॥

जगन्नाथ, त्रिनेत्रधारी, चन्द्रभूषण, उन परमेश्वर को देखकर प्रसन्न मन वाले मुनियों ने भक्तिपूर्वक उनकी स्तुति की।

जयेश्वर महादेव जय भूतपते शिव।

जयाशेषमुनीज्ञान तपसाऽभिप्रपूजित॥ ३३॥

ईश्वर महादेव आपकी जय हो। हे भूतपति शिव! आपकी जय हो। अशेष मुनि ईशान की जय हो। तप से अभिपूजित आपकी जय हो।

सहस्रमूर्ते विश्वात्मन् जगद्वन्प्रवर्तक।

जयानन्त जगत्प्रन्मन्नाणसंहारकारक॥ ३४॥

हे सहस्रमूर्ते! हे विश्वात्मन्! संसाररूपी यंत्र के प्रवर्तक आपकी जय हो। जगत् की उत्पत्ति, रक्षा और संहार करने वाले हे अनन्त! आपकी जय हो।

सहस्रचरणेशान ज्ञम्भो योगीन्द्रवन्दित।

जयाम्बिकापते देव नमस्ते परमेश्वर॥ ३५॥

हे सहस्रचरण, हे ईशान, हे शंभु, हे योगीन्द्रगणवन्दित! आपकी जय हो। अम्बिकापति देव की जय हो। हे परमेश्वर! आपको नमस्कार है।

संस्तुतो भगवानीश्रुयाम्बको भक्तवत्सलः।

समात्सिङ्घ्य हृषीकेशं ग्राह गम्भीरया गिरा॥ ३६॥

किमर्थं पुण्डरीकाक्ष मुनीन्द्रा ब्रह्मवादिनः।

इमं समागता देशं किन्तु कार्यं यथाच्युत॥ ३७॥

इस प्रकार भक्तवत्सल भगवान् ईश पूजित होकर हृषीकेश को आत्सिङ्घन करके गंभीर वाणी में बोले— हे पुण्डरीकाक्ष! ये ब्रह्मवादी मुनीन्द्रगण इस स्थान में क्यों आये हैं? हे अच्युत! मुझ से क्या कार्य है?

आकर्ण्य तस्य तद्वाक्यं देवदेवो जनार्दनः।

ग्राह देवो महादेवं प्रसादाभिमुखं स्थितम्॥ ३८॥

उनका यह वाक्य सुनकर देवदेव जनार्दन प्रसन्नाभिमुख होकर स्थित महादेव से बोले—

इमे हि मुनयो देव तापसाः क्षीणकल्पयाः।

अध्यागतानां शरणं सम्यग्दर्शनकाङ्क्षिणाम्॥ ३९॥

हे देव! ये ऋषिगण तपस्वी और क्षीण पाप वाले हैं। आप सम्यक् दर्शन की अभिलाषा वाले अतिथियों की शरण (रक्षक) हैं।

यदि प्रसन्नो भगवान्मुनीनां भावितात्पनाम्।

सन्नित्वा मम तज्ज्ञानं दिव्यं वक्तुमिहार्हसि॥ ४०॥

त्वं हि वेत्सि स्वमात्मानं न ह्यन्यो विद्यते शिवा।

वद त्वमात्मनात्मानं मुनीन्द्रेभ्यः प्रदर्शय॥ ४१॥

यदि आप भगवान् भावितात्मा इन मुनियों पर प्रसन्न हैं, तो मेरे समक्ष ही इन्हें दिव्य ज्ञान बताने की कृपा करें। हे शिव! अपने विषय में आप ही जानते हैं, अन्य कोई भी विद्यमान नहीं है। अतएव आप स्वयं ही कहें और मुनियों को आत्मविषयक (ज्ञान का) प्रदर्शन करें।

एवमुक्त्वा हृषीकेशः प्रोवाच मुनिपुङ्गवान्।

प्रदर्शयन्योगसिद्धिं निरीक्ष्य वृषभध्वजम्॥ ४२॥

इतना कहकर जनार्दन ने वृषभध्वज शिव की ओर देखते हुए और योगसिद्धि का प्रदर्शन करते हुए उन मुनिश्रेष्ठों से कहा।

सन्दर्शान्महेशस्य शंकरस्याथ शूलिनः।

कृतार्थं स्वघमात्मानं ज्ञातुमर्हस्य तत्त्वतः॥ ४३॥

आप मुनिगण शूलपाणि महेश शंकर के दर्शन से स्वयं पूर्णतः कृतकृत्य मानने योग्य हो।

द्रष्टुमर्हस्य देवेशं प्रत्यक्षं पुरतः स्थितम्।

ममैव सन्नियाने स यथावद्भक्तुमीश्वरः॥ ४४॥

अब आप सब सामने स्थित देवेश को प्रत्यक्ष देखने में समर्थ हैं। वे ईश्वर मेरे सम्मुख ही यथावत् कहने के लिए उपस्थित हैं।

निशाम्य विष्णोर्वचनं प्रणम्य वृषभध्वजम्।

सनत्कुमारप्रमुखाः पृच्छन्ति स्म महेश्वरम्॥ ४५॥

भगवान् विष्णु के वचन सुनकर सनत्कुमार आदि ऋषियों ने वृषभध्वज महेश्वर को प्रणाम करके पूछा।

अतस्मिन्नन्तरे दिव्यभासनं विमलं शिवम्।

किमप्यचिन्त्यं गगनादीश्वरार्थं समुद्वभौ॥ ४६॥

इसी समय में एक दिव्य, विमल, पवित्र आसन जो कुछ अचिन्त्य था, आकाश मार्ग से ईश्वर के लिए समुपस्थित हुआ।

तत्रासमाद् योगात्मा विष्णुना सह विश्वकृत्।
तेजसा पुरषविश्वं भाति देवो महेश्वरः॥४७॥

उस पर योगात्मा विश्वकर्ता (शिव) विष्णु के साथ विराजमान हुए। उस समय महेश्वर देव अपने तेज से संपूर्ण विश्व को व्याप्त करते हुए से प्रतीत हो रहे थे।

ततो देवाधिदेवेशं शंकरं ब्रह्मवादिनः।
विभ्राजमानं विमले तस्मिन्दशुरासने॥४८॥

तदनन्तर ब्रह्मवादी मुनियों ने उस विमल आसन पर सुशोभित देवेश्वर देवाधिपति शंकर को देखा।

तपासनस्थं भूतानामीशं ददृशिरे क्लिप्त।
यदन्तरा सर्वमेतद्यतोऽभिप्रपिदं जगत्॥४९॥

उस आसन पर विराजमान प्राणियों के नियन्ता शिव को देखा, जिनके मध्य यह सब कुछ था, क्योंकि यह जगत् उनसे अभिन्न है।

वासुदेवमीशानमीशं ददृशिरे परम्।
प्रोवाच पृष्टो भगवान्मुनीनां परमेश्वरः॥५०॥

वासुदेव के साथ (विराजमान) परम ईश ईशान को वहाँ देखा। तब मुनियों के द्वारा पूछे जाने पर भगवान् परमेश्वर बोले—

निरीक्ष्य पुण्डरीकाक्षं स्वात्मयोगमनुत्तमम्।
तच्छृणुष्वं यथान्यायमुच्यमानं मयानघाः॥५१॥
प्रज्ञान्तमनसः सर्वे विशुद्धं ज्ञानमैश्वरम्।

हे निष्पाप मुनियो! आप सब पुण्डरीकाक्ष का दर्शन करके प्रशान्त मन से मेरे द्वारा कहे जाने वाले उत्तम आत्मयोग रूपी विशुद्ध ईश्वरीय ज्ञान को यथावत् श्रवण करें।

इति श्रीकूर्मपुराणे उवराट् ईश्वरगीतासुषनिपत्यु ब्रह्मविद्यायां
योगशास्त्रे ऋषिध्याससंवादे प्रथमोऽध्यायः॥१॥

द्वितीयोऽध्यायः (ईश्वर-गीता)

ईश्वर उवाच

अवाच्यमेतद्भिज्ज्ञानं मम गुह्यं सनातनम्।
यन्न देवा विजानन्ति यतनोऽपि द्विजातयः॥१॥

ईश्वर ने कहा— यह मेरा गोपनीय और सनातन विज्ञान वस्तुतः कहने योग्य नहीं है। इसे द्विजातिगण या देवगण प्रयत्न करने पर भी नहीं जान पाते हैं।

इदं ज्ञानं समाश्रित्य ब्राह्मीभूता द्विजोत्तमाः।
न संसारं प्रपद्यन्ते पूर्वोऽपि ब्रह्मवादिनः॥२॥

हे द्वजगण! इस ज्ञान का आश्रय लेकर पहले के ब्रह्मवादी भी ब्राह्मी स्थिति को प्राप्त कर पुनः संसार को प्राप्त नहीं करते हैं।

गुह्याद्गुह्यतमं साक्षाद् गोपनीयं प्रयत्नतः।
क्ष्ये भक्तिमतामह युष्माकं ब्रह्मवादिनाम्॥३॥

यह ज्ञान अत्यन्त गूढ से भी गूढतम है। इसकी प्रयत्नपूर्वक रक्षा की जानी चाहिए। मैं आज आप भक्तियुक्त ब्रह्मवादियों के समक्ष कहूँगा।

आत्मायं केवलः स्वच्छः शुद्धः सूक्ष्मः सनातनः।
अस्ति सर्वान्तरः साक्षाद्यिन्मात्रस्तमसः परः॥४॥

सोऽन्तर्यामी स पुरुषः स प्राणः स महेश्वरः।
स कालोऽत्र तदव्यक्तं स च वेद इति श्रुतिः॥५॥

यह आत्मा केवल, स्वच्छ, शुद्ध, सूक्ष्म और सनातन है। यह सर्वान्तर में स्थित, साक्षात् मात्र चित्स्वरूप और तम से परे है। वही अन्तर्यामी, वही पुरुष, वही प्राण, वही महेश्वर, वही काल, वही अव्यक्त और वही वेद है— ऐसा श्रुतिवचन है।

अस्माद्द्विजायते विश्वमत्रैव प्रविलीयते।
स मायी मायया बद्धः करोति विविधास्तनूः॥६॥

इसी से यह जगत् उत्पन्न होता है और उसी में (अन्त में) लीन हो जाता है। वह मायावी अपनी माया से बद्ध होकर अनेक शरीरों का निर्माण करता है।

न द्वाप्ययं संसरति न संसारमयः प्रभुः।
नायं पृथ्वी न सलिलं न तेजः पवनो नभः॥७॥

न प्राणो न मनोऽव्यक्तं न शब्दः स्पर्श एव वा
न रूपरसगन्धश्च नाहं कर्ता न वागपि॥८॥

यह ईश्वर न तो संसरण करता है और न यह संसारमय ही है। यह न तो पृथ्वी, न जल, न तेज, न वायु, न आकाश है। यह न प्राण, न मन, न अव्यक्त, न शब्द और स्पर्श ही है। यह न रूप, रस और गन्ध है। मैं कर्ता और वाणी भी नहीं हूँ।

न पाणिपादौ नो पादुर्न चोपस्थं द्विजोत्तमाः।
न च कर्ता न भोक्ता वा न च प्रकृतिपूरुषौ॥९॥

न भावा नैव च प्राणा न चैव परमार्थतः।
यथा प्रकाशतमसोः सन्वन्धो नोपपद्यते॥१०॥

तद्दैव्यं न सम्बन्धः प्रपञ्चपरमात्मनोः।

छायातपौ यथा लोके परस्परविलक्षणौ॥ ११॥

तद्वत्प्रपञ्चपुरुषो विभिन्नो परमार्थतः।

तथात्मा मलिनः सृष्टो विकारी स्यात्स्वरूपतः॥ १२॥

हे द्विजोत्तमो! यह हाथ, पाद, पायु, उपस्थ कुछ भी नहीं है। न वह कर्ता, न भोक्ता और नहीं प्रकृति और पुरुष ही है। यह परमार्थतः न माया है, न पंचप्राण है। जैसे प्रकाश और अन्धकार का सम्बन्ध उपपन्न नहीं होता है, उसी प्रकार परमार्थरूप से प्रपञ्च और पुरुष भिन्न-भिन्न हैं। उसी प्रकार यह आत्मा भी मलिन होकर स्वरूपतः सृष्ट और विकारी हो जाता है।

न हि तस्य भवेन्मुक्तिर्जन्मान्तराज्ञैरपि

पश्यन्ति मुनयो मुक्ताः स्वात्मानं परमार्थतः॥ १३॥

उसकी मुक्ति सैकड़ों जन्मान्तरों में भी नहीं होती। मुनिगण ही परमार्थरूप में मुक्त होकर आत्मा का दर्शन करते हैं।

विकारहीनं निर्द्वन्द्वमानन्दात्मानमव्ययम्।

अहं कर्ता सुखी दुःखी कृशःस्थूलैति या मतिः॥ १४॥

सा चाहङ्कारकर्तृत्वादात्मन्यारोपिता जनैः।

वदन्ति वेदविद्वांसः साक्षिणं प्रकृतेः परम्॥ १५॥

भोक्तापरमेश्वरं बुद्धं सर्वत्र समवस्थितम्।

तस्मादज्ञानमूलो हि संसारः सर्वदिहिनाम्॥ १६॥

यह आत्मा विकारशून्य, निर्द्वन्द्व, आनन्दमय, अविनाशी है। मैं कर्ता हूँ, मैं सुखी-दुःखी, कृश-स्थूल हूँ— इस प्रकार की जो बुद्धि होती है, वह मनुष्यों द्वारा आत्मा में आरोपित और अहंकार के कारण होती है। वेदज्ञ विद्वान् साक्षी आत्मा को प्रकृते पर बताते हैं। अतः समस्त देहधारियों के लिए यह संसार ही अज्ञान का मूल कारण है।

अज्ञानादन्यथाज्ञानात्तत्त्वं प्रकृतिसङ्गतम्।

नित्योज्योति स्वयं ज्योतिः सर्वगः पुरुषः परः॥ १७॥

अहंकाराधिवेकेन कर्ताहमिति मन्यते।

पश्यन्ति ऋषयोऽव्यक्तं नित्यं सदसदात्मकम्॥ १८॥

अज्ञान से अथवा अन्यथा ज्ञान से यह नित्य जागरूक, स्वयंज्योति, सर्वगामो, परम पुरुषरूप तत्त्व जब प्रकृति से संगत होता है, तब अहंकार से उत्पन्न अदिवेक के कारण वह अपने को कर्ता आदि मानने लगता है। ऋषिगण उस सदसद्रूप नित्य अव्यक्त को देखते हैं।

प्रधानं पुरुषं बुद्ध्वा कारणं ब्रह्मवादिनः।

तेनायं सङ्गतः स्वात्मा कूटस्थोऽपि निरञ्जनः॥ १९॥

स्वात्मानमेश्वरं ब्रह्म नावबुद्ध्वेव तत्त्वतः।

अनात्मन्यात्मविज्ञानं तस्माद्दुःखं तथैतद्वत्॥ २०॥

ब्रह्मवादी प्रधान-पुरुष को ही कारणरूप मानते हैं, तभी वह कूटस्थ, निरञ्जन आत्मा भी उससे संगत होता है और वह स्वात्मीरूप, अविनाशी ब्रह्म को तत्त्वतः जान नहीं पाते हैं। वे अनात्म में आत्मा का चिन्तन करते हैं जिससे दुःख और अन्य दोषों उत्पन्न होते हैं।

रागद्वेषादयो दोषाः सर्वे भ्रान्तिनिबन्धनाः॥

कर्माण्यस्य महान्दोषः पुण्यापुण्यमिति स्थितिः॥ २१॥

राग-द्वेषादि सभी दोष भ्रान्ति से उत्पन्न होने वाले हैं। इसके कर्म महान् दोष हैं, जिनकी पुण्य और पापरूप में स्थिति है।

तद्गुणादेव सर्वेषां सर्वदेहसमुद्भवः।

नित्यं सर्वत्र गुह्यात्मा कूटस्थो दोषवर्जितः॥ २२॥

एकः सन्निष्ठो जगत्प्राणायामात् न स्वभावतः।

तस्मादद्वैतमेवाहुर्मुनयः परमार्थतः॥ २३॥

उसी के वश में होने के कारण सब में इन सब शरीरों का प्रादुर्भाव होता है। नित्य, सर्वव्यापक, कूटस्थ और दोषरहित गुह्यात्मा अकेला अपनी माया शक्ति के द्वारा संस्थित रहता है, स्वभावतः नहीं। इसीलिए, ऋषिगण परमार्थरूप में इसे अद्वैत ही कहते हैं।

भेदोऽव्यक्तस्वभावेन सा च मायात्मसंश्रया।

यथा च धूमसम्पर्कात्प्राकाशो मलिनो भवेत्॥ २४॥

अन्तःकरणजैर्भावैरात्मा तद्ब्रह्म लिप्यते।

अव्यक्त के स्वभाव से यह भेद होता है और वह माया आत्मा से संसक्त है। जिस प्रकार धूम के संपर्क से आकाश मलिन नहीं होता है, उसी प्रकार अन्तःकरण से उत्पन्न भावों से यह आत्मा लिप्त नहीं होता।

यथा स्वप्नभया भाति केवलः स्फटिकोपलैः॥ २५॥

उपाधिहीनो विमलस्तथैवात्मा प्रकाशतो।

ज्ञानस्वरूपमेवाहुर्जगदेतद्विद्यक्षणाः॥ २६॥

जैसे स्फटिक का पत्थर केवल अपनी आभा से चमकता है, उसी तरह उपाधिरहित निर्मल आत्मा स्वयं प्रकाशमान होता है। ज्ञानी पुरुष इस जगत् को ज्ञानस्वरूप ही मानते हैं।

अर्धस्वरूपमेवान्ये पश्यन्त्यन्ये कुदृष्टयः।

कूटस्थो निर्गुणो व्यापी चैतन्वात्मा स्वभावतः॥२७॥

दृश्यते ह्यर्धरूपेण पुरुषैर्ज्ञानदृष्टिभिः।

अन्य कुदृष्टि वाले इसे अर्धस्वरूप ही देखते हैं।

स्वभावतः कूटस्थ, निर्गुण, सर्वव्यापक और चैतन्य आत्मा ज्ञानदृष्टि वाले पुरुषों द्वारा अर्धरूप में देखा जाता है।

यथा स लक्ष्यते रक्तः केवलं स्फटिको जनैः॥२८॥

रत्निकाद्युपधानेन तद्दृश्यते मपूरुषः।

तस्मादात्माक्षरः शुद्धो नित्यः सर्वत्रगोऽव्ययः॥२९॥

जिस प्रकार स्फटिक पत्थर रत्निका आदि को उपाधि (लालिमा) के कारण लोगों द्वारा लाल देखा जाता है, उसी प्रकार परम पुरुष परमात्मा भी स्वोपाधिकत्वेन अर्धरूप प्रतीत होता है। इसलिए, आत्मा अक्षर, शुद्ध, नित्य, सर्वव्यापक और अविनाशी है।

उपासितव्यो मनव्यः श्रोतव्यञ्च मुमुक्षुभिः।

यदा मनसि चैतन्यं भाति सर्वत्र सर्वदा॥३०॥

योगिनः श्रद्धावानस्य तदा सम्पद्यते स्वयम्।

मुमुक्षु जनों को उस आत्मा का ध्यान, मनन और श्रवण करना चाहिए। जब मन में सदा सब ओर से चैतन्य का भास होता है, तब श्रद्धायुक्त योगी का स्वयं ज्ञानसम्पन्न हो जाता है।

यदा सर्वाणि भूतानि स्वात्मन्येवाधिपश्यति॥३१॥

सर्वभूतेषु चात्मानं ब्रह्म सम्पद्यते तदा।

यदा सर्वाणि भूतानि समाधिस्थो न पश्यति॥३२॥

एकीभूतः परेणासौ तदा भवति केवलम्।

जब वह (साधक) समस्त भूतों को अपनी आत्मा में ही देखता है और सब भूतों में स्वयं को देखता है, तब वह ब्रह्मत्व को प्राप्त हो जाता है। जब योगी समाधिस्य होकर समस्त भूतों को नहीं देखता है और परमात्मा से एकीभूत हो जाता है जब वह केवल (अनन्य) हो जाता है।

यदा सर्वे प्रमुच्यन्ते कामा येऽस्य हृदि स्थिताः॥३३॥

तदासावयतीभूतः क्षेमं गच्छति पण्डितः।

जब उसके हृदय में स्थित सभी कामनाएँ छूट जाती हैं तब वह अमृतत्व को प्राप्त ज्ञानो कल्याण को ओर जाता है।

यदा भूतपृथग्भावमेकस्वप्नपश्यति॥३४॥

तत एव च विस्तारं ब्रह्म सम्पद्यते सदा।

जब मनुष्य सम्पूर्ण भूतों के पृथक्त्व को एक में ही स्थित देखता है तब उसे व्यापक ब्रह्म की प्राप्ति होती है।

यदा पश्यति चात्मानं केवलं परमार्थतः॥३५॥

मायामात्रं तदा सर्वं जगद्भवति निर्वृतः॥३६॥

और जब आत्मा को केवल परमार्थरूप में देखता है, तब सम्पूर्ण जगत् मायामात्र दिखाई देता है और वह मुक्त होता है।

यदा जन्मजरादुःखव्याधीनामेकमेवजम्।

केवलं ब्रह्मविज्ञानं जायतेऽसौ तदा शिवः॥३७॥

जब जन्म, जरा, दुःख और रोगों का एकमात्र औषधरूप ब्रह्मज्ञान उत्पन्न होता है तब वह शिव हो जाता है।

यथा नदीनदा लोके सागरेणैकतां ययुः।

दृष्ट्वात्माक्षरेणासौ निष्कलेनैकतां व्रजेत्॥३८॥

संसार में जैसे नदी और नद सागर में जाकर एकत्व को प्राप्त होते हैं, उसी प्रकार यह आत्मा भी शुद्ध अक्षर ब्रह्म से मिलकर एकता को प्राप्त हो जाता है।

तस्माद्भिज्ञानमेवास्ति न प्रपञ्चो न संस्थितिः।

अज्ञानेनावृतं लोके विज्ञानं तेन मुह्यति॥३९॥

इस कारण विज्ञान ही है, प्रपञ्च या संस्थिति नहीं है। लोक में विज्ञान अज्ञान से आवृत है, इसलिए सब मोहित होते हैं।

विज्ञानं निर्मलं सूक्ष्मं निर्विकल्पं तदव्ययम्।

अज्ञानभित्तरत्सर्वं विज्ञानमिति तन्मतम्॥४०॥

विज्ञान (ब्रह्म) निर्मल, सूक्ष्म, निर्विकल्प और अविनाशी है और उससे भिन्न सब अज्ञान है। इसीलिए उसे विज्ञान कहा गया है।

एतद्दः कथितं साङ्ख्यं भाषितं ज्ञानमुत्तमम्।

सर्ववेदान्तसारं हि योगस्तत्रैकचित्तता॥४१॥

मैंने आप लोगों को यह उत्तम सांख्यज्ञान बता दिया। यही समस्त वेदान्त का सार है और उसमें एकचित्त होना योग है।

योगात्संज्ञायते ज्ञानं ज्ञानाद्योगः प्रवर्तते।

योगज्ञानाभिमुक्तस्य नावाप्यं विद्यते क्वचित्॥४२॥

योग से ज्ञान उत्पन्न होता है और ज्ञान से योग प्रवृत्त होता है। योग और ज्ञान से युक्त पुरुष के लिए कुछ भी अप्राप्य नहीं रहता।

बदेव योगिनो यान्ति सांख्यैस्तदतिगम्यते।

एकं सांख्यञ्च योगञ्चः यः पश्यति स तत्त्ववित्॥४३॥

योगी जन जिसे प्राप्त करते हैं सांख्यवेत्ता भी उसका अनुगमन और योग को जो एकरूप देखता है, वही तत्त्ववेत्ता है।

अन्ये हि योगिनो विप्रा ह्यैश्वर्यासक्तचेतसः।

मज्जन्ति तत्र तत्रैव ये चान्ये कुण्ठबुद्धयः॥४४॥

हे विप्रो! दूसरे योगी जो ऐश्वर्य में आसक्त चित्त हुए और दूसरे कुंठित बुद्धि वाले भी उसी में मग्न रहते हैं।

यत्तत्सर्वमतं दिव्यमैश्वर्यममलं महत्।

ज्ञानयोगाभियुक्तस्तु देहान्ते तदवाप्नुयात्॥४५॥

और जो सर्वसम्पन्न दिव्य निर्मल महान् ऐश्वर्य है, उसे ज्ञानयोग से सम्पन्न शरीरान्त होने पर प्राप्त करता है।

एष आत्पाहमव्यक्तो मायावी परमेश्वरः।

कीर्तितः सर्ववेदेषु सर्वात्मा सर्वतोमुखः॥४६॥

सर्वरूपः सर्वरसः सर्वगन्धोऽजरोऽमरः।

सर्वतः पाणिपादोऽहमन्तर्यामी सनातनः॥४७॥

यह अव्यक्त आत्मा मैं हूँ। सभी वेदों में वही मायावी, परमेश्वर, सर्वात्मा, सर्वतोमुख, सर्वरूप, सर्वरस, सर्वगन्ध, अजर, अमर, सर्वत्र विस्तृत हाथ-पैर वाला कहा गया है, मैं ही अन्तर्यामी और सनातन हूँ।

अपाणिपादो जवगो ग्रहीता हृदि संस्थितः।

अच्छरुरपि पश्यामि तथाऽकर्णः शृणोम्यहम्॥४८॥

हाथ-पैर न होने पर भी मैं तीव्र गति से चलता हूँ और हृदय में संस्थित होकर सबको ग्रहण करता हूँ। नेत्ररहित भी मैं देखता हूँ और कानरहित होने पर भी सुनता हूँ।

वेदाहं सर्वमेवेदं न मां जानाति कश्चन।

प्राहूर्महान्तं पुरुषं मामेकं तत्त्वदर्शिनः॥४९॥

मैं इस सबको जानता हूँ पर कोई मुझे नहीं जानता है। तत्त्वदर्शी मुझे ही एक और महान् कहते हैं।

पश्यन्ति ऋषयो हेतुमात्मनः सूक्ष्मदर्शिनः।

निर्गुणामलरूपस्य यदैश्वर्यमनुत्तमम्॥५०॥

निर्गुण और शुद्धात्मा के हेतुभूत जो सर्वोत्तम ऐश्वर्य है, उसे सूक्ष्मद्रष्टा ऋषिगण देखते हैं।

यत्र देवा विजानन्ति मोहिता मम मायया।

वक्ष्ये समाहिता यूयं शृणुष्वं ब्रह्मवादिनः॥५१॥

उसे मेरी माया से मोहित हुए देवगण भी नहीं जानते हैं। उसे मैं कहूँगा, आप ब्रह्मवादी समाहित चित्त होकर सुनो।

नाहं प्रज्ञस्तः सर्वस्य मायातीतः स्वभावतः।

प्रेरयामि तवापीदं कारणं सूरयो विदुः॥५२॥

मैं सबके लिए प्रशंसायोग्य नहीं हूँ और स्वभावतः माया से परे हूँ। फिर भी प्रेरित करता हूँ। इसके कारण को विद्वान् ही जानते हैं।

यतो गुह्यतमं देहं सर्वगं तत्त्वदर्शिनः।

प्रविष्टा मम सायुज्यं लभन्ते योगिनोऽव्ययम्॥५३॥

इसी कारण तत्त्वदर्शी योगीजन मेरे सर्वगामी, गुह्यतम शरीर में प्रविष्ट होकर मेरे अविनाशो सायुज्य (मोक्ष) को प्राप्त करते हैं।

ये हि मायापतिक्रान्ता मम या विश्वरूपिणी।

लभन्ते परमं शुद्धं निर्वाणं ते मया सह॥५४॥

जो मेरी विश्वरूपा माया को अतिक्रिमत कर लेते हैं, वे मेरे साथ परम शुद्ध निर्वाण को प्राप्त करते हैं।

न तेषां पुनरावृत्तिः कल्पकोटिशतैरपि।

प्रसादान्मम योगीन्द्रा एतद्देदानुशासनम्॥५५॥

सैकड़ों, करोड़ों कल्प में भी उनकी बार-बार आवृत्ति (पुनरावृत्ति) नहीं होती। हे योगीन्द्रगण! यही मेरी कृपा से ही ऐसा होता है और यही वेद का अनुशासन है।

तत्पुत्रशिष्ययोगिभ्यो दातव्यं ब्रह्मवादिभिः।

मदुक्तमेतद्विज्ञानं सांख्यं योगसमाश्रयम्॥५६॥

इसलिए ब्रह्मवादी लोग मेरे द्वारा कहे गए इस सांख्ययोग पूरित विज्ञान को अपने पुत्रों, शिष्यों तथा योगियों को प्रदान करना चाहिए।

ईश्वर उवाच

अव्यक्तादभवत्कालः प्रधानं पुरुषः परः।

तेभ्यः सर्वमिदं जातं तस्माद्ब्रह्ममयं जगत्॥ १॥

ईश्वर ने कहा— अव्यक्त से काल, प्रधान और परम पुरुष हुए। उनसे यह सारा विश्व उत्पन्न हुआ, इसी कारण यह जगत् ब्रह्ममय है।

सर्वतः पाणिपादान्तं सर्वतोऽक्षिशरोमुखम्।

सर्वतः श्रुतिमल्लोके सर्वमावृत्य तिष्ठति॥ २॥

सर्वत्र हाथ-पैर वाला, सर्वत्र आँखे, शिर और मुख वाला और सर्वत्र कान वाला यह (अव्यक्त) लोक में सबको आवृत करके स्थित है।

सर्वेन्द्रियगुणाभासं सर्वेन्द्रियविवर्जितम्।

सर्वाधारं सदानन्दमव्यक्तं द्वैतवर्जितम्॥ ३॥

वह समस्त इन्द्रियों के गुणों का आभास कराता है, तथापि सभी इन्द्रियों से रहित है। वह सबका आधारभूत सदा आनन्द स्वरूप, अव्यक्त और द्वैतवर्जित है।

सर्वोपमानरहितं प्रमाणातीतगोचरम्।

निर्विकल्पं निराभासं सर्वावासं परामृतम्॥ ४॥

अभिन्नं भिन्नसंस्थानं शश्वतं ध्रुवमव्ययम्।

निर्गुणं परमं ज्योतिस्तज्ज्ञानं सूरयो विदुः॥ ५॥

यह सभी उपमानों से रहित, प्रमाणों से अतीत, अगोचर, निर्विकल्प, निराभास, सबका निवास स्थान, परम अमृत है, वह अभिन्न है और भिन्न संस्थान वाला भी है। वह शाश्वत, ध्रुव, अविनाशी, निर्गुण और परम ज्योतिःस्वरूप है, उस ब्रह्म के यथार्थ ज्ञान को विद्वान् ही जानते हैं।

स आत्मा सर्वभूतानां स बाह्याभ्यन्तरः परः।

सोऽहं सर्वत्रगः शान्तो ज्ञानात्मा परमेश्वरः॥ ६॥

मया ततमिदं विश्वं जगत्स्थावरजङ्गमम्।

मत्स्थानि सर्वभूतानि यस्तं वेदविदो विदुः॥ ७॥

वह समस्त प्राणियों का आत्मा तथा बाह्य और आभ्यन्तर में स्थित और (सबसे) पर है। वही मैं सर्वत्रगामी, शान्त, ज्ञानात्मा और परमेश्वर हूँ। मेरे द्वारा ही इस स्थावर-जंगमरूप विश्व का विस्तार है। समस्त प्राणी मुझ में स्थित हैं, इस बात को वेदवेत्ता ही जानते हैं।

प्रधानं पुरुषश्चैव तद्वस्तु समुदाहृतम्।

तयोरेनादिरुद्दिष्टः कालः संयोगजः परः॥ ८॥

प्रधान और पुरुष को इसकी वस्तु कहा गया है और जो परम काल अनादिरूप में उद्दिष्ट है, वह उन दोनों के संयोग से उत्पन्न है।

त्रयमेतदनाद्यन्तमव्यक्ते समवस्थितम्।

तदात्मकं तदव्यक्तस्यात्तदुपं मामकं विदुः॥ ९॥

इसलिए ये तीनों तत्त्व अव्यक्त में अनादि और अनन्तरूप में अवस्थित है। इसी स्वरूपवाला और उससे भिन्न जो रूप है, वह मेरा है ऐसा (विद्वान्) जानते हैं।

महदाद्यं विशेषान्तं सम्भ्रसूतेऽखिलं जगत्।

सा सा प्रकृतिरुद्दिष्टा पोहिनी सर्वदेहिनाम्॥ १०॥

महदादि से लेकर विशेषपर्यन्त अखिल जगत् को जो उत्पन्न करती है, वह प्रकृति कही गई है, जो सभी देहधारियों को मोहित करने वाली है।

पुरुषः प्रकृतिस्थो वैभुक्ते यः प्राकृतान् गुणान्।

अहङ्कारविमुक्तत्वाद्योच्यते पञ्चविंशतः॥ ११॥

प्रकृति में ही स्थित रहता हुआ पुरुष प्राकृत गुणों का भोग करता है। परन्तु अहंकार से विमुक्त होने से उसे पञ्चीसवां तत्त्व कहते हैं।

आद्यो विकारः प्रकृतेर्महानिति च कथ्यते।

विज्ञानशक्तिविज्ञानात् द्वहङ्कारस्तदुत्थितः॥ १२॥

प्रकृति का प्रथम विकार महत् कहा जाता है। विज्ञाना की शक्ति के कारण अहंकार की उत्पत्ति हुई है।

एक एव महानात्मा सोऽहङ्कारोऽभिधीयते।

स जीवः सोऽन्तरात्मेति गीयते तत्त्वचिन्तकैः॥ १३॥

जो एक महत् आत्मा है, वही अहंकार कहा जाता है। तत्त्ववेत्ता उसे जीव और अन्तरात्मा भी कहा करते हैं।

तेन वेदयते सर्वं सुखं दुःखञ्च जन्मसु।

स विज्ञानात्मकस्तस्य मनः स्यादुपकारकम्॥ १४॥

उसके द्वारा जन्मों में जो कुछ भी सुख और दुःख भोगा जाता है, उसका वह बोध कराता है। वह विज्ञानस्वरूप और उसका मन उपकारक होता है।

तेनापि तन्मयस्तस्मात् संसारः पुण्यस्य तु।

च चाविवेकः प्रकृतौ संगत्कालेन सोऽभवत्॥ १५॥

1. देखें- ईश्वरकृष्णरचित सांख्यकारिका ३

उसी के कारण उसके द्वारा भी पुरुष का संसार तन्मय होता है। वह अविविकी प्रकृति और काल के संयोग से उत्पन्न होता है।

कालः सृजति भूतानि कालः संहरते प्रजाः।

सर्वे कालस्य वशमा न कालः कस्यचिद्भजे॥ १६॥

वही काल सब प्राणियों का सृजन करता है और वही प्रजा का संहार भी करता है। अतएव सभी काल के वश में है किन्तु काल किसी के वश में नहीं है।

सोऽन्तरा सर्वमेवेदं नियच्छति सनातनः।

प्रोच्यते भगवान्प्राणः सर्वज्ञः पुरुषोत्तमः॥ १७॥

सर्वेन्द्रियेष्वः परमं मन आहुर्मनीषिणः।

मनसश्चाप्यहङ्कारमहङ्कारान्महान्परः॥ १८॥

वही सनातन काल यह सब कुछ प्रदान करता है। इसीलिए उसे भगवान्, प्राण, सर्वज्ञ और पुरुषोत्तम कहा गया है। मनीषीगण सभी इन्द्रियों से श्रेष्ठ मन को मानते हैं। उस मन से भी श्रेष्ठ अहंकार और अहंकार से श्रेष्ठ महत् होता है।

महतः परमव्यक्तमव्यक्तात्पुरुषः परः।

पुरुषाद्भगवान् प्राणस्तस्य सर्वमिदं जगत्॥ १९॥

महत् से परे अव्यक्त और अव्यक्त से परे पुरुष है। उस पुरुष से भी भगवान् प्राणमय काल श्रेष्ठ है। उसी का यह सम्पूर्ण जगत् है।

प्राणात्परतरं व्योम व्योमातीतोऽग्निरीश्वरः।

सोऽहं ब्रह्माव्ययः ज्ञानो मायातीतमिदं जगत्॥ २०॥

प्राण की अपेक्षा आकाश परतर है। आकाश से भी अतीत ईश्वररूप अग्नि है। वही मैं परम शान्त, अव्यय, ब्रह्म हूँ एवं यह जगत् मायातीत है।

नास्ति मत्तः परं भूतं मास्र विज्ञाय मुच्यते।

नित्यं नास्तीति जगति भूतं स्वावरजङ्गमम्॥ २१॥

मुझसे बड़कर कोई प्राणी नहीं है। मुझे यथार्थतः जानकर जीवमुक्त हो जाता है। जगत् में स्थावर जंगमात्मक प्राणीसमूह भी नित्य नहीं है।

ऋते मामेवमव्यक्तं व्योमरूपं महेश्वरम्।

सोऽहं सृजामि सकलं संहारामि सदा जगत्॥ २२॥

एकमात्र मुझ अव्यक्त व्योमरूप महेश्वर को छोड़कर कुछ भी नित्य नहीं है। अतएव मैं सम्पूर्ण जगत् का सृजन करता हूँ तथा सदा उसका संहार करता रहता हूँ।

मायी मायामयो देवः कालेन सह सङ्गतः।

सत्सन्निधावेष कालः करोति सकलं जगत्॥ २३॥

मायावी और मायामय देव काल के साथ संगत होता है। वही काल भेरे सन्निध्य से सम्पूर्ण जगत् की रचना करता है। वही अन्तरात्मा नियोजन भी करता है। वही वेद का अनुशासन (शिक्षा) है।

ईश्वर उवाच

वक्ष्ये समाहिता यूयं शृणुष्वं ब्रह्मवादिनः।

माहात्म्यं देवदेवस्य येन सर्वं प्रवर्तते॥ १॥

ईश्वर ने कहा— हे ब्रह्मवादियो! आप सब समाहित चित होकर उन देवाधिदेव का माहात्म्य सुनो जिससे यह सब कुछ प्रवृत्त होता है।

नाहं तपोभिर्विखिर्न दानेन न चेज्यया।

शक्यो हि पुरुषैर्जातुभूते भक्तिमनुत्तमाम्॥ २॥

अनेक प्रकार के तप, दान अथवा यज्ञों द्वारा मुझे जानना शक्य नहीं है। उत्तमोत्तम भक्ति के बिना पुरुष मुझे नहीं जान सकते हैं।

अहं हि सर्वभूतानामन्तस्तिष्ठामि सर्वतः।

समस्त वेद एकमात्र मुझ परमेश्वर की सदा स्तुति करते हैं और ब्राह्मण लोग विविध वैदिक यज्ञों द्वारा मेरा यजन करते हैं।

सर्वे लोका न पश्यन्ति ब्रह्मा लोकपितामहः।
ध्यायन्ति योगिनो देवं भूताधिपतिमीश्वरम्॥ ७॥

समस्त लोक और लोक पितामह ब्रह्मा भी मुझे नहीं देख पाते। योगीजन सम्पूर्ण भूतों के अधिपति देवस्वरूप मुझ ईश्वर का ध्यान करते हैं।

अहं हि सर्वहविषां भोक्ता चैव फलप्रदः।
सर्देवतनुर्भूत्वा सर्वात्मा सर्वसंस्तुतः॥ ८॥

मैं ही सम्पूर्ण हवि का भोक्ता और फल देने वाला हूँ। मैं ही सभी देवों का शरीर धारण कर सर्वात्मा और सर्वत्र व्याप्त हूँ।

मां पश्यन्तीह विद्वांसो धार्मिको वेदवादिनः।
तेषां सन्निहितो नित्यं ये मां नित्यमुपासते॥ ९॥

मुझको वेदवादी धार्मिक विद्वान् ही देख पाते हैं। जो मेरी नित्य उपासना करते हैं मैं सदा उनके समीप रहता हूँ।

ब्राह्मणाः क्षत्रिया वैश्या धार्मिका मामुपासते।
तेषां ददामि तत्स्थानमानन्दं परमम्पदम्॥ १०॥

ब्राह्मण, क्षत्रिय, वैश्य आदि जो भी धर्मयुक्त होकर मेरी उपासना करते हैं उन्हें मैं आनन्दमय परमपद प्रदान करता हूँ।

अन्येऽपि ये स्वधर्मस्था शूद्राद्या नीचजातयः।

दूसरे भी नीच जाति के शूद्र आदि लोग अपने धर्म में स्थित रहकर भक्तिमान् होकर काल के द्वारा सात्त्विक्य प्राप्त कर मुक्त हो जाते हैं।

मदत्ता न विनश्यन्ति मदत्ता वीतकल्मषाः।
आदावेव प्रतिज्ञातं न मे भक्तः प्रणश्यति॥ १२॥

मेरे भक्त विनाश को प्राप्त नहीं होते, मेरे भक्त पापमुक्त हो जाते हैं। प्रारम्भ में ही मेरे द्वारा यह प्रतिज्ञात है कि मेरे भक्त का नाश नहीं होगा।

यो वै निन्दति तं मूढो देवदेवं स निन्दति।
यो हि पूजयते भक्त्या स पूजयति मां सदा॥ १३॥

जो मुझ मेरे उस भक्त की निन्दा करता है वह देवाधिदेव की ही निन्दा करता है। जो उसका भक्तिपूर्वक आदर करता है वह सदा मुझे ही पूजता है।

पत्रं पुष्यं फलं तोयं मदाराधनकारणात्।
यो मे ददाति नित्यं स च भक्तः प्रियो मया॥ १४॥

जो मेरी आराधना के उद्देश्य से नियमपूर्वक पत्र, पुष्प, फल और जल समर्पित करता है वह भक्त मेरा प्रिय है।

अहं हि जगत्तापदी ब्रह्माणं परमेष्ठिनम्।
विदधौ दत्तवान्देवानशेषानात्मनिःसुतान्॥ १५॥

इस जगत् के प्रारम्भ में परमेशी ब्रह्मा को मैंने ही बनाया और आत्मनिःसृत समस्त वेदों को उन्हें प्रदान किया।

धार्मिकाणां च गोताहं निहन्ता वेदविद्विषाम्॥ १६॥

मैं ही सभी योगियों का अविनाशी गुरु, धार्मिकों का रक्षक और वेदों से द्वेष करने वाले व्यक्तियों को मारने वाला हूँ।

अहं हि सर्वसंसारान्मोचको योगिनामिह।
संसारहेतुरेवाहं सर्वसंसारवर्जितः॥ १७॥

मैं ही योगियों को संसार से मुक्त कराने वाला हूँ। मैं ही संसार का कारण हूँ और सम्पूर्ण संसार से भिन्न हूँ।

अहमेव हि संहर्ता संघष्टा परिपालकः।
माया वै मामिका शक्तिर्माया लोकविमोहिनी॥ १८॥

मैं ही संहारकर्ता, सृष्टिकर्ता और परिपालक हूँ। यह माया मेरी ही शक्ति है। यह जगत् को मोहित करती है।

ममैव च परा शक्तिर्या सा विद्येति गीयते।
नाशयामि च तां मायां योगिनां हृदि संस्थितः॥ १९॥

मेरी जो पराशक्ति है उसे विद्या नाम से पुकारते हैं। मैं योगियों के हृदय में स्थित होकर उस माया को नष्ट करता हूँ।

अहं हि सर्वशक्तानां प्रवर्तकनिवर्तकः।
आधारभूतः सर्वासं निधानममृतस्य च॥ २०॥

मैं ही समस्त शक्तियों का प्रवर्तक और निवर्तक हूँ। मैं ही सबका आधारभूत और अमृत का निधान हूँ।

वह मेरी ही सबके भीतर रहने वाली एक शक्ति, इस विचित्र जगत् का निर्माण करती है। (हे परम योग के आश्रित ब्राह्मणों! मैं प्रेरणा देने वाला नहीं हूँ)

अन्या च शक्तिर्विपुला संस्थापयति मे जगत्।

भूत्वा नारायणोऽनन्तो जगन्नाथो जगन्मयः॥ २२॥

वह ब्रह्मा का रूप धारण करके मुझमें ही अधिष्ठित है। मेरी दूसरी विपुला शक्ति अनन्त, नारायण, जगन्नाथ, जगन्मय नारायण का रूप धारण करके जगत् को संस्थापित करती है।

तृतीया महती शक्तिर्निहति सकलं जगत्।

तामसी मे समाख्याता कालाख्या स्वरूपिणी॥ २३॥

मेरी तृतीय महान् शक्ति सम्पूर्ण जगत् का विनाश करती है जो कालरूपा, रुद्ररूपिणी, महती, तामसी कही गई है।

मेरी आराधना में संयुक्त जो हरये भक्त हैं वे भी मुझे ही प्राप्त करते हैं और पुनः संसार में लौटते नहीं हैं।

मया ततमिदं कृत्स्नं प्रधानपुरुषात्मकम्।

मय्येव संस्थितं चित्तं मया सम्प्रेयते जगत्॥ २७॥

प्रकृति और पुरुषरूप इस सम्पूर्ण जगत् का मैंने ही विस्तार किया है। मुझमें ही यह चित्त संस्थित है और मेरे ही द्वारा यह जगत् संप्रेरित है।

नाहं प्रेरयिता विश्वाः परमं योगमास्थितः।

प्रेरयामि जगत्कृत्स्नमेतद्यो वेद सोऽमृतः॥ २८॥

हे विप्रो! मैं प्रेरक नहीं हूँ। मैं परमयोग का आश्रय लेकर इस सम्पूर्ण जगत् को प्रेरित करता हूँ। इस बात को जो जानता है वह मुक्त हो जाता है।

पश्याम्यशेषमेवेदं वर्तमानं स्वभावतः।

करोति कालो भगवान्महायोगेश्वरः स्वयम्॥ २९॥

मैं स्वभावतः विद्यामान इस सारे संसार को देखता हूँ। महायोगेश्वर भगवान् काल स्वयं इसकी रचना करते हैं।

योऽहं सम्प्रोच्यते योगी मायी शास्त्रेषु सूरिभिः।

योगीश्वरोऽसौ भगवान्महायोगेश्वरः स्वयम्॥ ३०॥

विद्वानों द्वारा शास्त्रों में मुझे योगी और मायावी कहा गया है। वही योगीश्वर और महान् योगेश्वर स्वयं भगवान् है

महत्त्वं सर्वसत्त्वानां वरत्वात् परमेष्ठिनः।

प्रोच्यते भगवान् ब्रह्मा महाब्रह्ममयोऽमलः॥ ३१॥

परमेशी की श्रेष्ठता के कारण सभी प्राणियों का महत्त्व है। वे भगवान् ब्रह्मा, महान्, ब्रह्ममय और निर्मल कहे जाते हैं।

यो मामेवं विजानाति महायोगेश्वरेश्वरम्।

सोऽविकल्पेन योगेन युज्यते नात्र संशयः॥ ३२॥

इस प्रकार जो मुझे महायोगेश्वर को भलीभाँति जानता है, वह निर्विकल्प योग से युक्त हो जाता है। इसमें सन्देह नहीं।

सोऽहं प्रेरयिता देवः परमानन्दमाश्रितः।

नृत्वापि योगी सततं यस्तद्वेद स योगवित्॥ ३३॥

वही मैं देव प्रेरक होकर परमानन्द का आश्रय ग्रहण कर, योगी बनकर नृत्य करता हूँ। जो इस बात को जानता है वही योगवेत्ता है।

इति गुह्यतमं ज्ञानं सर्ववेदेषु निश्चितम्।

प्रसन्नचेतसे देयं धार्मिकायाहितामये॥ ३४॥

इस प्रकार यह सर्वथा गोपनीय ज्ञान सभी वेदों में निश्चित किया हुआ है। यह प्रसन्न चित्त, धार्मिक और आहिताग्नि के लिए देना चाहिए।

व्यास जी बोले— इतना कहकर योगियों के परमेश्वर भगवान् अपने ईश्वरीय भाव को प्रदर्शित करते हुए नृत्य करने लगे।
